"Professor Shotwell is heart and soul for the principle of the outlawry of war. But he most decidedly disapproves of permitting to this country any practical share in the power which would enforce peace. Thus, in this able and otherwise well-balanced discussion he gives vent to wildly inaccurate denunciations of the administration's naval program." J: Carter

+ — N Y Times p1 Ja 20 '29 1680w

"A distinguished addition to volumes on this subject." Herschel Brickell

+ No Am 227:adv F '29 60w

"His book is authoritative and important."

+ Outlook 151:231 F 6 '29 60w

"It is the best statement available of the unofficial intrigue and popular agitation which accompanied Secretary Kellogg's modest efforts to turn the Gallic Ballon d'essai into a 'good-will flight.'"

+ Outlook 151:352 F 27 '29 200w

Pratt p8 summer '29

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 79:22 Mr '29 90w

St Louis 27:159 My '29

"Dr. Shotwell has given us in one volume an excellent presentation of a most significant scene in the drama of humanity and a very able exposition of one authoritative interpretation of the meaning of that scene. Both are characterized by fairness and moderation." H: K. Norton

+ Sat R of Lit 5:619 Ja 26 '29 1350w

Spec 143:498 O 12 '29 700w

"Dr. Shotwell writes with peculiar authority, since he himself took a leading part in the movement in the United States which led to the development of M. Briand's message into the multilateral treaty renouncing war. His account of this movement, together with that of the diplomatic negotiations preceding the signing of the treaty, occupies Part II. and is of great interest, if only for the light it throws on the methods by which the American public is gradually being educated to some appreciation of the problems of the outside world. The more generally important sections, however, are Part I., in which Dr. Shotwell states the problem and examines it in its historical perspective, and Part III., in which he elucidates the meaning of the Pact and discusses its implications."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p251 Mr 28 '29 1800w

Wis Lib Bul 25:97 Mr '29

"Only upon rare occasions is the author of a study in contemporary history so clearly qualified for his task as in the case of Professor Shotwell. As historical scholar he is an international figure. Since the Peace Conference of Paris he has been intimately associated with statesmen and leaders of public opinion in Europe and America. Through his editorship of The Social and Economic History of the World War he has acquired a grasp of the background of contemporary international relations which in a certain sense is perhaps unequalled." C: Seymour

+ Yale Law J 38:1166 Je '29 2000w

SHOWALTER, HAZEL F. Box book. (Work and play ser.) 185p il $1.75 Macmillan

790 Handicraft. Boxes. Toys 29-10598

How to make all sorts of things from all sorts of boxes, large or small, of pasteboard or of wood. The things to be made are useful, or ornamental, or they are toys to play with. Many of them are shown in the drawings that illustrate the book.

Booklist 25:400 Jl '29

"The text is clear and simple, and the diagrams are excellent both in arousing interest and in being easy to follow. Though it is intended for the younger children, the older boys and girls will enjoy making some of the things."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 Je 30 '29 330w

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Outlook 152:393 Jl 3 '29 40w

"How many books labor to teach children to 'make something,' and overreach themselves by too great complication either of objective or of directions. Here, we are glad to say, is one both trustworthy and attractive, which labors not at all and yet achieves results that should be very appealing." M. C. Dodd

+ Sat R of Lit 6:493 N 30 '29 280w

SHUMWAY, HARRY IRVING. Wonderful voyages of Cap'n Pen. 275p il $2 Little 29-18551

Tall tales which Captain Penhallow Freedom told to delight a group of boys who were building a skiff in his workshop.

"When a new humorist appears, even a humorist who takes his work seriously, as Mr. Shumway does, readers are certain to be pleased, and when he can entertain both boys and men, as Mr. Shumway does, readers are to be congratulated. In this new volume of tales, Mr. Shumway, known for years as a contributor to many American magazines and as an author of mechanical books for boys, makes his bow to the nation at large as an entertainer of undoubted merit."
+ Boston Transcript p3 O 5 '29 270w

"It is bound to amuse, although it is best read a bit at a time, as the humor grows wearisome after a while." J: T. Gould
+ — Portland Evening News p10 O 15 '29 260w

"It is full of exaggeration, whimsy, and mad humor. Adults will get as much out of it as boys, for there are some sly nudges at current foibles. Cap'n Pen is the heartiest and healthiest old liar we have ever met." R. L. Roe
Sat R of Lit 6:327 O 26 '29 120w
Springf'd Republican p10 D 12 '29 170w

SHURTER, EDWIN DU BOIS, and MARSH, CHARLES ALMER. Practical speech-making; the extempore method. 248p $2; school ed $1.60 Houghton
808.5 Public speaking 29-10209

This textbook develops a method of training for extempore speaking. Nearly half the book is devoted to exercises and illustrative speeches.

Booklist 25:353 Je '29

"The method approved by this text-book is the extempore speech, delivered from a minimized outline of salient points of argument. As a text-book the style is lightened by anecdote, ample illustrative material, an encouraging humor."
+ Boston Transcript p4 My 4 '29 130w
Wis Lib Bul 25:320 O '29

SHUTE, NEVIL, pseud. See Norway, N. S.

SIEBE, JOSEPHINE. Kasperle's adventures; tr. by Florence Geiser. 199p il $3 Macmillan
29-19194

The real Kasperle, or wooden doll, was hidden in a chest in the attic of a wood-carver's house. After sleeping one hundred years, Kasperle woke up and proceeded to have many mischievous adventures.

Booklist 26:126 D '29

Reviewed by H. S. Wright
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 D 8 '29 80w

"A series of madcap pranks that will satisfy the heart of the most fun loving child in the world."
+ Cath World 130:379 D '29 120w

"Here is a German Pinocchio, long popular at home and now presented for the first time to American children through the excellent translation of Florence Geiser. More slap-stick and hilarious than his great rival, Kasperle is bound to make an individual place for himself. The book is altogether attractive for a child of any age."
+ Sat R of Lit 6:544 D 7 '29 100w

SILBERER, GEZA (SIL-VARA, pseud.). Caprice; a comedy in three acts; adapted by Philip Moeller. 173p $2 Doubleday, Doran
832 29-6900

A Viennese farce-comedy in three acts. Albert von Echardt's past reappears in the form of a mistress who wants him to take over the education and guidance of his sixteen year old son. At this time Echardt is contemplating marriage with his present mistress, the urbanely sophisticated widow, Ilsa von Ilsen. The romantic boy suddenly imagines himself in love with the attractive Ilsa; his mother sees the danger, and goes away with her son.

Booklist 26:24 O '29

"It seems sober stuff for comedy, and certainly Sil-Vara, in his determination to view it with a smile, has been compelled to use the methods of farce. The play, delightful as it may be in performance, is not even important; yet, for Anglo-Saxons it exhibits an attitude toward sexual problems that adds humor to plasticity. It is a kinder and a better world that does not see a tragedy in every lapse." I: Goldberg
+ N Y World p11m My 19 '29 270w

SIL-VARA, pseud. See Silberer, G.

SIMMS, PARIS MARION. Bible from the beginning. 318p $2.50 Macmillan
220 Bible—History 29-18004

A history of the origin and preservation of the Bible, by a minister of the Presbyterian church and well-known Chautauqua lecturer.

"The author has written clearly and interestingly. He has put a matter not always of interest to many in a very clear light and his study stimulates further popular reading concerning the Book of Books."
+ Boston Transcript p2 O 9 '29 300w

"The book has been written for laymen and is creditably done, explaining clearly technical terms and making free use of tables and diagrams for illustrations. . . It is a book each minister might do well to have within his own library and bring to the knowledge of his people." R. E. E. Harkness
Crozer Q 6:498 O '29 500w

"He says that he offers nothing new as to content, but he has brought together for general reading as well as for special students an immense amount of material covering all the phases of his subject and he has arranged and presented this material interestingly, made it understandable and readable for the many, without sacrifice of accuracy and dependability."
+ N Y Times p30 N 3 '29 180w

SIMON, ERNEST DARWIN. How to abolish the slums. 146p il $1.80 (4s 6d) Longmans
331.833 Housing—Great Britain. Labor and laboring classes—Dwellings [29-4881]

"The author first surveys the present housing situation in England, explaining the extent of overcrowding, the work of reconditioning unsatisfactory houses that has been accomplished in recent years, and the post-war development in providing more and better homes for the workingmen. He concludes that in spite of the progress which has been made nothing has been done for the slums since the war, that overcrowding is practically as bad as it was then, that the condition of the houses is actually worse, and that the situation of the very poor remains extremely unsatisfactory. For helping the poorest families, Mr. Simon regards some form of public subsidy as the only practicable scheme."—Am Pol Sci R

"Irrespective of whether one is inclined to agree with Mr. Simon's proposed means of abolishing the slum, it must be admitted that the book is well written, clear and concise, and offers much of value to the student of housing in American cities." E. E. Muntz
+ Am Econ R 19:728 D '29 750w

SIMON, E. D.—Continued

"An interesting and informing book."
+ Am Pol Sci R 23:793 Ag '29 150w

"Mr. Simon's book appears at the psychological moment. Just when certain complacent folk are assuming that the 1,200,000 houses built since the war have solved the housing problem, leaving only the clearance of small patches of slum areas; just when a feeling of hopelessness is confounding those who, appreciating the task yet before them, have been unable of themselves to find a solution, Mr. Simon not only convincingly analyzes the present situation, but puts forward eminently practical proposals for the satisfactory housing of the whole population within ten years." E. M. Hubback
+ Nation and Ath 44:788 Mr 9 '29 800w

"A small book which is pregnant with useful suggestion."
+ New Statesman 32:596 F 16 '29 420w
St Louis 27:262 S '29
Sat R 147:380 Mr 23 '29 1620w

"A book that is packed and pressed down with facts, information, ideas."
+ Spec 142:241 F 16 '29 1250w

"Without doubt, the most dispassionate study of this subject which has yet been published."
+ Spec 142:1015 Je 29 '29 50w

"The best objective presentation of the possibilities of housing reform that we have seen." Nels Anderson
+ Survey 62:534 Ag 15 '29 130w

"Mr. Simon is well known as among the most distinguished of contemporary civic patriots, and the work he has done for Manchester would of itself, entitle him to attentive hearing. But, were he a hitherto unknown man, the clarity and precision with which he states the essential facts, and the unsentimental practicality which informs his conclusions and proposals would give his book distinction."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p252 Mr 28 '29 2250w

SIMPSON, LOLA JEAN. Treadmill. 382p $2 Macmillan

29-9291

Leslie Burleson is a young high-school teacher, struggling to retain her ideals of service against the indifference of the school board and the lawlessness of the students. All the problems of the small-town teacher enter into the story and are aggravated in Leslie's case by her love for David Havener and his interest in the strange and fascinating girl next door.

"Unfortunately, Miss Simpson diverts one's attention from the main issue by dwelling at length on a rather puerile love story. One never really feels the bitterness of Leslie's predicament because it is so obvious that romance, in the shape of a brilliant young college professor, is waiting round the corner to rescue her from the treadmill."
— + Bookm 69:xxii Je '29 120w

"A valid exposé of certain evils of society by one who evidently knows the conditions about which she writes. But as a novel the book leaves something to be desired. Its manner is without distinction, and its characters are types rather than living creatures." Garreta Busey
— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Je 9 '29 400w
Boston Transcript p2 Je 19 '29 180w

"Poor characterization is, in the main, what makes 'Treadmill' a disappointing novel. With the single exception of the heroine, Miss Simpson seems not to have realized the inner personalities of her characters. However, the material of the novel—the lives of public-school teachers—is very good, and much of it is well presented." O. J.
— + New Repub 69:215 Jl 10 '29 280w

Reviewed by F: F. Van de Water
N Y Evening Post p9m Je 1 '29 100w

"Its theme gives the book a certain degree of interest, though the treatment is entirely conventional and not particularly skillful."
— N Y Times p9 My 19 '29 520w

"The characters are distinctly real, and the point, for the book is almost purely thematic, is thoroughly but unobtrusively driven home. It is critical without being caustic, and its dramatic power is due largely to its simplicity." Milton Byron
+ Outlook 152:36 My 1 '29 80w

"There is material for a good polemic novel in the state of our high-school system, but 'Treadmill' is not that novel."
— Sat R of Lit 5:1080 Je 1 '29 180w
Wis Lib Bul 25:162 My '29

SIMPSON, WILLIAM HASKELL. Along old trails; poems of New Mexico and Arizona. 89p $2 Houghton

811 29-4973

Poems of Indian pueblos and trails in the southwestern desert.

Booklist 25:315 My '29

"Few, if any, of Mr. Simpson's verses will find their way into present-day anthologies; but the book as a whole will be found the source of great refreshment. And in the history of poetry in the Southwest it must be reckoned as among the earliest and the surest to strike and sustain the native note." Mary Austin
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Ap 28 '29 680w
Boston Transcript p3 Mr 23 '29 150w

"The songs which are taken from the Indian are not so successful as interpretations by other well-known poets, such as Alice Corbin Henderson, Lew Sarett, and Mary Austin, but the songs which are Mr. Simpson's interpretation of what he himself has seen in the Spanish-Indian country are more interesting." E. L. Walton
+ — Nation 129:150 Ag 7 '29 200w

"He has trained himself to express big thoughts in little meters."
+ N Y Times p18 Je 2 '29 230w

Reviewed by Laura Benet
N Y World p11m Mr 3 '29 100w
Wis Lib Bul 25:99 Mr '29

SINCLAIR, UPTON BEALL. Boston. 2v 755p $5 Boni

Sacco, Nicola—Fiction. Vanzetti, Bartolomeo —Fiction 29-26043

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Booklist 25:214 F '29

"Ordinarily this author is not so concerned to write a good novel as he is to write good socialistic propaganda; but this time he has done both." T. S. Matthews
+ Bookm 68:688 F '29 460w

"Those who gave of life, money, brains and reputation to save real justice from the iron hand of things-as-they-are in Boston will call this book a great and enduring piece of work; the pilloried traditionalists and hundred-percenters will call it rot. The rest of the world may read a tale that mixes fact and fiction in a thrilling manner, and many will wonder whether there is not here truth stranger than fiction and fiction more meaningful than prosy truth." A. W. Taylor
+ Christian Century 46:359 Mr 14 '29 830w

"Boston is impassioned to the point of being infuriated, convinced to the point of being prejudiced, and spoiled by all of Sinclair's lacks of taste and judgment. Still, considering it as fiction, one must say that it progresses superbly from the moment the known facts of the Sacco-Vanzetti case begin to evolve and lags disastrously whenever Sinclair deals with other characters and interests."
Dial 86:264 Mr '29 210w

"As a novel 'Boston' cannot for a moment be compared to 'Oil,' but the arrangement and presentation of the material, especially in the latter half, is masterly. Mr. Sinclair has here a singularly convincing text for his indictment of American civilization."

+ Nation and Ath 44:664 F 9 '29 230w

"Opinions will differ as to the wisdom of mixing fictitious characters with the actual persons in an epic affair every detail of which is a matter of familiar record. But the central fact cannot be called in question: that the author has embodied the almost incredible truth in a narrative that will be read throughout the world for a long time to come."
New Statesman 33:248 Je 1 '29 130w

"His bias in favor of Sacco and Vanzetti is evident, but Sinclair does not hesitate to include in his story certain facts damaging to their reputation, in the eyes of some people. The book is partial but it is never false. It is not perfect. But we can say that 'Boston' is one of the masterpieces of our time. Merely by telling in clear simple prose the complex history of an intensely dramatic period he has accomplished a miracle." Bernard Smith
+ — N Y World p10m N 25 '28 800w

"As a novel it is by no means great. The patches of history make it ungainly and the interweaving of fact and invention is hard to justify. None the less, there is something of grandeur in the book. A whole aspect of society is portrayed with the utmost vigour, simplicity, and dramatic brilliance."
+ — Spec 142:93 Ja 19 '29 200w

"Through over 700 closely printed pages he handles his material with the utmost ability, and creates as the end draws nearer a gathering and painful intensity; yet 'Boston' is the work not so much of a novelist as of a master-journalist. To deny it drama would be absurd, but it is the drama of life, not art."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p60 Ja 24 '29 600w

"The story is too long; the work would not have suffered, certainly not the 'cause' if the author has confined the story to one volume. It is the ablest brief of that case which we know. We are glad Sinclair has written this book. It is the only one of its kind. It is a thorough piece of work and shows evidence of much painstaking study." C. W. Legge
+ — World Tomorrow 12:183 Ap '29 220w

SINCLAIR-COWAN, MRS BERTHA (MUZZY). See Bower, B. M., pseud.

SINGER, CAROLINE, and BALDRIDGE, CYRUS LE ROY. White Africans and black. 119p il $10 Norton

916 Africa—Description and travel

"Caroline Singer and Cyrus Le Roy Baldridge have made a beautiful book of a 14-months' trip down the Gold Coast, up the Congo, and through to the Red Sea. There are over 250 reproductions in aquatone of Mr. Baldridge's drawings and paintings."—Outlook

---

"The author, Caroline Singer, and the artist, Cyrus Leroy Baldridge, have not, for example, used the continent of Africa as a backdrop against which to exploit their own personalities. They have not relied upon falsehood or exaggeration to give color and interest to their book. In fact, the book is just what its title implies. 'White Africans and Black' is easily the most beautiful travel book of the year." Blair Niles
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 S 29 '29 1100w

"Between them, Caroline Singer and C. LeRoy Baldridge have distilled out of fourteen months in Africa one of the finest travel books in a long while. . . This is not the Africa of big-game hunting and elaborate and expensive expeditions, nor is the book a story of the Singer-Baldridges and where they went and how they got from place to place. These brilliant and sympathetic flashes of a land that has been much explored but hardly as yet discovered are a monument to a remarkable journey by two very unusual travelers." R. S.
+ N Y Evening Post p10m O 12 '29 250w

"A monument to travel and close observation such as seldom gets into print in this day of the adventure-ghost writer duet. There is so much comment that hews to the line of what may safely be taken as truth in Caroline Singer's prose that one comes away from the book with a whirling head. Fact tumbles upon fact." J: Chamberlain
+ N Y Times p4 S 29 '29 1750w

"This is easily the outstanding travel book of the season because text and drawings have so much in common. . . Rarely has collaboration reached such unity in result. Pen and pencil make 'White Africans and Black' a book to remember." Harry Hansen
N Y World p13 D 3 '29 480w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks
Outlook 153:548 D 4 '29 60w

SINGER, CHARLES JOSEPH. From magic to science; essays on the scientific twilight. 253p il $7.50 Liveright

509 Science—History. Medicine—History 28-26927

"The title of this work suggests a study of the progress in primitive society from faith in anthropomorphic special causes to observation of objective universal causes—and one expects to find in it the long desiderated treatment of magic as an initial form of science rather than as a form of religion. But the book deals with no such broad subjects. Instead it is an episodic discussion of the decline of science during the late Roman Empire and the condition of science in the Middle Ages down to the twelfth century. It is made up of seven separate essays written at various times since 1917."—Sat R of Lit

---

"The seven essays which make up this attractive volume have all appeared in some fashion previously, but Dr. Singer's readers will be grateful to have them in this revised and connected form. There are fourteen coloured plates and more than one hundred figures, all brought into close connexion with the corresponding portions of the text." C: H. Haskins
+ Eng Hist R 44:463 Jl '29 530w

"The author considers the medieval attitude to extend from 400 A. D. to 1543 A. D., this long period characterized mainly, according to him, by the effort to retain or to return to, the spirit of antiquity. On such a view the thousand years of medievalism are a mere interregnum without any essential culture of their own. Only by an almost exclusive concern with the science of the period, to the neglect of its literature, art, and religion, can such an astonishing view be maintained. A better example of scientific arrogance can hardly be found. On the other hand, if one takes the volume for what it is, and neglects its crude generalizations, one will find in it a series of highly useful specialized studies of various expressions of medieval science."
— + Sat R of Lit 6:223 O 5 '29 350w

"The lay reader should be warned that this work of Singer's is not an introduction to the history of science, but pre-supposes in the reader a considerable background knowledge of the history of medicine, herb lore and magic." C. S. Leonard
Springf'd Republican p7e S 22 '29 800w

SINGER, CHARLES JOSEPH. Short history of medicine. 368p il $3 (7s 6d) Oxford

610.9 Medicine—History 28-20640

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Booklist 25:151 Ja '29

"Dr. Singer has admirably succeeded in his attempt to trace the history of medicine 'as a Rational Discipline involving many and perhaps all the sciences.' "
+ Nature 122:838 D 1 '28 650w

"It is not to be compared with the more extensive single volume of Dr. Fielding Garrison, which is the best one-volume source book available. Singer's book is, however, the best small one-volume history of medicine thus far available for the general reader." Morris Fishbein

SINGER, C: J.—Continued
+ N Y World p11m Ja 20 '29 220w
Pittsburgh Mo Bul 34:13 F '29
Pratt p17 autumn '29
St Louis 27:49 F '29

SINGLETON, ESTHER. Old world masters in New world collections. 441p il $10 Macmillan
750 Paintings 29-2799

This large and finely made volume reproduces in the illustrations and describes in the text Old world masters now held in private American collections.

Booklist 25:274 Ap '29

"Miss Singleton heartily indorses the maniacal trafficking in masterpieces, and guided by only one principle of selection, 'that of beauty,' gleefully records the fabulous prices paid by our collectors for fashionable European treasures, and attributes such expenditures to the genuine æsthetic interest of our wealthy merchants. The evils of extravagant private collecting apparently have not occurred to her: the disorganization of the market for contemporary paintings; the tendency of the dealers to attach a legendary valuation to all pictures and of the public to judge the value of a picture in terms of its price and its scarcity; and the cruel reaction of all this upon the living artist."
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 F 24 '29 200w
Christian Century 46:266 F 21 '29 130w
Nation 129:332 S 25 '29 100w

"The ground is not exhaustively covered, nor are all of the finest pictures owned here considered. But the scheme is well carried out within its prescribed limits. Consideration of specific works of art and painters is, in each section, preceded by a short general account of the period. The reproductions are unusually good." E: A. Jewell
+ N Y Times p22 O 6 '29 120w

SINGMASTER, ELSIE (MRS HAROLD LEWARS). Virginia's bandit. 125p il $1.50 Houghton
29-10441

Virginia was sixteen and far more sure of herself than her mother imagined. When her mother and father were both called away from home and the cousin who usually stayed with her could not come Virginia was entranced with the idea of freedom. And then the village post office was robbed and the bandit got away. Virginia's mother was a most surprised individual when she returned and found out about Virginia and her bandit.

"This story is developed with the skill and understanding of character which makes Miss Singmaster's more serious fiction interesting. Miss Singmaster is extremely skillful with her minor characters. She gets these simple-minded, suspicious Pennsylvania Germans with an understanding which is half humor and half pity. Irritating as they are to Virginia, we sense the utter truth of them. They aid Virginia's story as only characters utterly true to life could."
+ Boston Transcript p6 Je 1 '29 170w
Cleveland Open Shelf p133 N '29

"A charming book for girls. The heroine's adventures are original, startling and sometimes very funny." F. L. Robbins
+ Outlook 152:390 Jl 3 '29 70w
St Louis 7:316 N '29
Wis Lib Bul 25:279 Jl '29

SINGMASTER, ELSIE (MRS HAROLD LEWARS). You make your own luck. 255p il $2 Longmans
[29-18256]

Nellie Edna Strickhouser of Valley Pike, Virginia, wanted a college education. So she went to teach a small mountain school and saved from her tiny salary. She boarded with Cousin Lightfoot Briscoe and Cousin Dora, and soon became acquainted with their nearest mountain neighbor, a very attractive young man named Carter Woodfill. An element of mystery and adventure, as well as incipient romance, is added to the story when young Woodfill and Nellie Edna stumble into a cave which has been appropriated by mountain bootleggers, and which also is the grave of three men who had disappeared during the Civil War.

Booklist 26:75 N '29
St Louis 27:345 D '29

"Romance and adventure certainly run a pretty race in this book, with lost caverns being discovered as well as lost chemists. An optimistic tale of older juvenile type."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e N 24 '29 300w

SITWELL, EDITH. Gold Coast customs. 63p $2 Houghton [5s Duckworth]
821 [29-10500]

"The poem from which the book receives its title depends for its effect on an artfully sustained contrast between the customs of a tribe of African cannibals and the life of present-day England. On the one hand, Miss Sitwell suggests and partly depicts the rites practiced in Ashantee a hundred years ago on the death of an important person; on the other, she gives glimpses both of a fashionable London party and of typical London poverty. . . More satisfying is the less pretentious 'Metamorphosis,' with its succession of lovely images and its delicately melancholy music."—N Y World

"Edith Sitwell, in the title poem of Gold Coast Customs, has nearly achieved greatness. And the measure of this greatness is the extent to which the power and the splendor and the beauty of the poem overcomes the wilful, eccentric, mystifying difficulties of the verse."
+ Bookm 70:xvi N '29 80w

"The title-poem is impassioned and brilliantly chequered with bold expressions, but Miss Sitwell wastes her curious imaginations on the sterile follies of the minority. She is, indeed, too delicately trained in actuality to present savages in Ashantee or London with the concise shocks of a satiric judgment. We still prefer her music and painting undisturbed by the despair of civilization; and the songs, and 'Metamorphosis,' are rich with the wonted graces of her incantation."
+ — Nation and Ath 44:756 Mr 2 '29 250w

"By elaborating her imagery to the point of an extraordinary pictorial virtuosity, Miss Sitwell reveals anew her amazing technical resources. In the language of the English Augustans, she builds up a scheme of mock-heroic decoration which, aided by the passion lent to the theme by her tragic despair, bursts its limits and achieves classical beauty. A section of the Panope episode in this poem—an extensive Homeric diversion—shows concisely the larger beauty and sincerity which Miss Sitwell's book displays, adding necessary factors to the art of a woman whose work may, from now on, escape the rigid confinement she has imposed on it and so become a much more substantial and durable art than it has been in the past." M. D. Zabel
+ New Repub 60:302 O 30 '29 470w

"Gold Coast Customs is a very marked advance on Troy Park and on The Sleeping Beauty. Later, we may come to think that her present mode does not suit her peculiar and charming talent so well as the less ambitious and more essentially feminine modes that preceded it; that contemporary satire cannot accommodate it permanently. Meanwhile, the change from contemplative to combative is exciting and novel. Miss Sitwell's indictment of the imagined cannibal-feasts and Gold Coast bacchanalia of the new and idle rich is spirited, sustained and admirably vigorous. Quotation would fail to do justice to the insistent rhythms and reiterated drum-roll of the measure which is its main beauty, and wherein the strength of the verse consists." P. Q.
+ New Statesman 32:669 Mr 2 '29 560w

"She is so clever that she succeeds in being dull. Her 'Gold Coast Customs' is evidently a rip-roaring joke on the British reading public because she mixes Vachel Lindsay with seventeenth century lyric forms, coating them with satire rendered fashionable by T. S. Eliot. Wearying of this pastime, she rewrites Dryden with some small degree of discernment, condensing the entire philosophy of the book into three lines." Horace Gregory

N Y Evening Post p10m O 12 '29 400w

"Pitiless and filled with pity are these poems by Edith Sitwell. They are not merely designs in words. Yet it may be doubted if they wholly achieve their purpose; it is a question if the poet does not drive her method too relentlessly. Meantime the poems are there to be read. And those who do not read them are unaware of an author who has no rival in individuality."

+ N Y Times p35 O 27 '29 520w

"It is as technician that Miss Sitwell first impresses one, and it is, indeed, her technique that gives her eminence among contemporary poets. Nevertheless, the two long poems in her new volume are substantial and memorable accomplishments of the imagination." Granville Hicks

+ N Y World p11m O 6 '29 260w

"Edith Sitwell's principal attempt is to interpret the Gold Coast Negro's intense undervaluation of humanity, and she does this effectively with sharp images and rhythms which strike deep into the mood of the primitive. The other poems are entirely inconsequential."

+ — Outlook 153:187 O 2 '29 60w

"Eccentricity may have brought Miss Sitwell into prominence in the first place, but to-day it is in spite, and not because, of her eccentricity that she is read. . . Here, as in her other books, much of Miss Sitwell's power is marred by her obscurity. No one wishes her to restrain the richness of her vocabulary. Still, her work, like that of other poets, is most powerful where it is most simple." Christopher Hollis

+ — Sat R 147:182 F 9 '29 480w

Reviewed by Austin Clarke

Spec 142:sup377 Mr 9 '29 100w

Times [London] Lit Sup p137 F 21 '29 700w

SITWELL, SACHEVERELL. Gothick North; a study of medieval life, art and thought. 454p il $5 Houghton [2v ea 8s 6d Duckworth]

940.1 Middle ages. Art, Gothic

"This 'history of the fair-haired races in art' is a large book composed in an unusual manner. It is not a typical study of art at all but, rather, a poetically conceived and beautifully written re-creation of medieval times with all the soiled realities left out. It is a dream based on inspired remains, a reconstruction from ancient tapestries and miniatures and Gothick buildings. . . It is a book that is fictionalized in parts but fictionalized with a purpose. Mr. Sitwell, for instance, introduces two characters from his own early life (a drawing teacher and her brother) and employs them for purposes of bringing out more clearly his theme. They are old-fashioned and their attitudes afford foils for the argument of the writer."—N Y Times

Published in England in two volumes; volume one entitled: The visit of the gypsies, volume two: These sad ruins.

---

"Written in prose that is almost perfect. It sings, it glides, it glows. Yet, unlike his verse, it is never marred by mannerisms nor the suggestion of a precious style. Sacheverell Sitwell here, as in his earlier book, Southern Baroque Art, proves himself a consummate artist who handles words with more than magic power. He has not only achieved a style but has definite things to say." Paul Allen

+ Bookm 70:461 D '29 450w

Reviewed by K. A. Porter

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 N 3 '29 1700w

"Mr. Sitwell is never more the poet than when he undertakes to write prose, 'because he cannot write poetry all of the time.' 'The Gothick North' abounds in passages far more exquisite in their tonal qualities and in their lyric beauty than do nine-tenths of the volumes of verse that stray to the shops where books are sold." G. R. B. R.

+ Boston Transcript p3 N 9 '29 1000w

" 'These Sad Ruins' is not so much a progression from the previous volume, 'The Visit of the Gypsies,' as a filling-in of shades. The vision is extended, but not any spatial direction, so to speak; rather do Mr. Sitwell's sentences, now gossiping, now chanting, charm the mind until it finds itself looking through apertures in the present which it had ignored before, though they were already there, in his earlier work." R. L. Mégroz

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 D 14 '29 750w

" 'The Visit of the Gypsies' is poetry, not criticism, and though it contains interesting comments upon Gothic art, the chief interest is the style and imagination of the author. Mr. Sitwell may be compared to a man who peers at an Old Master, and sees his own features reflected in its glass. . . His book is a dashing experiment in the most elaborate sort of English imaginative prose." Raymond Mortimer

+ Nation and Ath 45:276 My 25 '29 1250w

Nation and Ath 46:438 D 21 '29 650w

"As one would expect from the authorship, the book shows much annoying perversity and much sound knowledge. There are many passages of real beauty, many passages of 'precious' and over-studied writing, many most charming descriptions, and many vexatious digressions. The work is without form, but by no means void."

— + New Statesman 33:130 My 4 '29 300w

"'Mr. Sitwell is not a great poet, but he is right in supposing that the character of his prose style owes much to his poetic technique. It is a pity that he cultivates obscurity. The right to be obscure has to be won—it is not inherited from fair-haired ancestors—and Mr. Sitwell has yet to win a right to more than a certain amount of our attention. Nevertheless he has some little thrill for us on almost every page, and in every chapter some provoking thought or opinion which puts us in the mood to argue."

— + New Statesman 34:60 O 19 '29 500w

"This book is clogged with scraps of pseudo-scholarship; in part it is a travel book of out-of-the-way tourist impression; there is the beginning of an experiment with a novel; there are dialogues between a brother and sister and Mr. Sitwell, in which Mr. Sitwell is the dominant theme. . . The Gothick North turns out to be a festival of self-ostentation. But throughout his self-adoring prolixity, Mr. Sitwell is eager to avoid, at any cost, the usual, the average, and the growth of sameness and uniformity he rates our greatest present danger." Raymond Weaver

— N Y Evening Post p11m N 2 '29 900w

"After all, Sacheverell Sitwell is essentially a modern and if he likes to bury himself one year in Southern Baroque art and another year in the Gothick North it is only because he is a poet and can transplant his modern spirit on the magic carpet of his imagination to those far-away civilizations. It is only a modern who could have written this book." Herbert Gorman

+ N Y Times p12 O 20 '29 2100w

"Although it should not be used as a primer of Medieval life, art and thought, readers with some previous knowledge of the subject will find The Gothick North an enriching and enchanting book. . . It recreates an epoch. It contains trenchant art criticism and spontaneous social criticism." F. L. Robbins

+ Outlook 153:348 O 30 '29 500w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 80:16 D '29 220w

Reviewed by Humbert Wolfe

Sat R 148:421 O 12 '29 950w

"I do not know what 'The Gothick North' would be were it trimmed of its false intimacies, its tedious imaginary figures drawn out of the author's boyhood, and the expensive

SITWELL, SACHEVERELL—Continued

Wardour Street English in which all Mr. Sitwell's figures are clothed; very possibly, by the mere fact of being a shorter book, it might have become a better one. It is enough to say that one could give a very respectable picture of the Middle Ages by supplying an account of all the things that Mr. Sitwell has left out, and by quietly reversing all the positive judgments he is inclined to make." L: Mumford

— Sat R of Lit 6:475 N 30 '29 620w

"Mr. Sitwell's search for beauty embraces not a period or a country, but a planet. Unhampered by sordid necessity, he travels, he sees and he dockets. Pedagogues may cavil at his scholarship; purists complain of his fondness for the picturesque. But his achievement, for which a generation overburdened with specialists may be grateful, is that, by his presentation of broad phases of culture in all their ramifications and recreations, he is assisting that enlargement of comparative aesthetics which a world of a single civilization demands. Such work must be either encyclopaedic or poetic. Being an artist, Mr. Sitwell chooses the latter form."

+ Spec 142:906 Je 8 '29 500w

Springf'd Republican p12 N 14 '29 730w

"Everything in the book is made a prop for fantastic writing, and Mr. Sitwell treats all suitable works of art as much."

Times [London] Lit Sup p379 My 9 '29 900w

"His dexterity in metaphor is extraordinary, his phrases finely polished, and his cadences in tune with their meaning. Nourished, it would seem, on the aspect of things and on their associations, Mr. Sitwell's visual imagination is acute, and everywhere creates the sharpest pictures."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p785 O 10 '29 750w

SKELTON, MRS GLADYS (JOHN PRESLAND, pseud.). Mosaic. 289p $2 Appleton [7s 6d P. Allan]

29-16665

A Parisian doctor taking his small son to school meets a regal old woman selling chestnuts. He tries to question her, with little result. Then strangely enough he hears from three men—a friend, an acquaintance and a patient, three of the chapters from the life of the woman, Nadine.

---

"The story cannot touch you. It is enveloped in a shell of delicate romanticism. But it can carry you from a bazaar in Egypt to an English estate, from a Russian river port to a castle in Vienna. It can quench your thirst for a glamorous world."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 S 15 '29 300w

"It is a provocative picture of an exceptional woman, skillfully handled." W. E. H.

+ Boston Transcript p2 S 4 '29 240w

"Something of its heroine's distinction, something of her individuality, is shared by the novel itself, a book which stands more than a little apart from the great mass of ordinary, mediocre fiction."

+ N Y Times p6 S 22 '29 550w

"The method of presentation is, of course, a literary trick, a trick of merit, but in this case made ineffective by the situation. The story smacks too much of the exotic, and supplies too much material which the movie magnates would love. The author writes an adequate prose, but the final impression is that of a good idea which did not turn out to be a very good book."

— + Sat R of Lit 6:372 N 9 '29 280w

"It is refreshing of Mr. Presland to impute his heroine's disasters to no amorous conflict, but to the simplicity of her ideas on economics and on truthfulness. There is a flowing melody in the narrative that pleasantly accompanies the reminiscent moods of the speakers. It is a picturesque and chivalrous, but not a sentimental, book." R. A. Taylor

+ Spec 142:sup706 My 4 '29 170w

SKINNER, CONSTANCE LINDSAY. Andy breaks trail. 199p il $1.75 Macmillan

28-21187

Andy MacPhail and his companions who appeared in "Silent Scot" (Book Review Digest, 1926) join the Lewis and Clark expedition to Oregon, and are as courageous as their older companions. For older boys and girls.

---

Booklist 25:172 Ja '29

Bookm 68:xxx F '29 40w

" 'Andy Breaks Trail' could be called excellent before one comes to its finer graces. The greatest of these, hoisting the book high above contemporary juveniles, is the skill in characterization which peoples the pages with comrades who actually breathe, eat, joke, and dare. . . Next most remarkable is the atmosphere of humor in which these boys rough it, genuine humor, not wisecracks. The style is vigorous, intense, picturesque, and at the same time one sees the poet loitering in the background." T. M. Longstreth

+ Sat R of Lit 5:307 O 27 '28 650w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 3 '29 150w

SKINNER, CONSTANCE LINDSAY. Red willows. 412p $2 Coward-McCann

29-23130

Hal Cressy, a young English priest, comes to Canada to join his younger brother. His experiences in this frontier country and community form the material of the novel. Bert, Hal's brother, loves Mrs Paley, a woman of charm and personality; but Cherry, daughter of MacDuff, is in love with Bert. Bert has a violent quarrel with Mallow, the villain of the community. When Mallow's body is found, Bert is accused of murder, but is released because certain people in the group know who the real murderer is.

---

"It would be well to remember in reading 'Red Willows' that Miss Skinner is a poet of unusual distinction and that the quality of her prose has given her story the attributes of conviction and steadily growing power. She is a highly talented artist who has devoted her work to an accurate interpretation of the Northwest that is slowly rising out of the mist generated by Robert W. Service and the once popular Northwest Mounted Police detective story." Horace Gregory

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 N 10 '29 1700w

"What Miss Skinner has done and done supremely well is to picture for us a whole pioneer community in British Columbia, sparing nothing in her portrayal of the good and the bad of it, its weakness and its strength, and most clearly of all those varied strains—including the Indian—which gave it its individual character." D. L. M.

+ Boston Transcript p7 N 20 '29 700w

"Constance Lindsay Skinner writes of a Canadian Northwest which has little in common with the usual frontier of fiction. Her Northwest is the real thing populated with the heterogeneous characters who follow the quest for gold into a new territory, and with Indians, friendly enough when sober and fairly treated, who talk a recognizably faithful variety of 'Chinook jargon.' The realism of Miss Skinner's background does not in the least affect the intense romanticism of her tale. All the problems melodramatically brought to a head by Mallow's murder are neatly and happily resolved in the end."

+ N Y Times p26 N 17 '29 830w

SKINNER, DICKSON. Barbarian. 340p $2 (7s 6d) Appleton

29-6446

As a college man, Stephen Winthrop was liked and admired, but with his entry into business his fine qualities were overlaid with a new selfishness and hardness. The story shows the gradual altering of Stephen's character until his love of his mother and of Muriel is tainted and somehow spoiled by his love of making money.

"The theme of 'Barbarian' is not new, nor is it particularly well handled in this first novel, but the story of Stephen is interesting."
— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p35 Ap 14 '29 280w

Boston Transcript p3 My 1 '29 400w

N Y Times p30 Mr 17 '29 130w

"The treatment is too superficial to carry the theme, and what started as quite effective characterization ends by being too much the mere development of a theory."
— + Sat R of Lit 5:983 My 4 '29 230w

"The book is clever and disagreeable, particularly in its sex interests, which offer nothing except forms of concupiscence and cupidity."
— Times [London] Lit Sup p365 My 2 '29 180w

SKIPPER, MERVYN. Jungle meeting-pool. 157p il $1.50 Stokes

29-19794

Tales told by the animals at their nightly meetings at the jungle pool, while they live in expectation of the disappearance of their jungle. The white man is clearing the land for growing rubber trees. But the white man's little boy is saved from death near the pool and the animals learn that their home is to be spared.

"It has that delightful plausibility about it which is the essential quality for a successful animal-story book." Rose Fyleman
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 N 10 '29 50w

Reviewed by M. G. Bonner
N Y Times p26 D 15 '29 80w

Reviewed by K. W. Seitz
Sat R of Lit 6:401 N 16 '29 80w

"There have been books of jungle legends before, but this one strikes a new note in that the animals are banded to find a way to drive the white man from the country because he is cutting off the forests so as to have more land in which to plant rubber trees."
Springf'd Republican p7e D 1 '29 150w

SLOCOMBE, GEORGE. Paris in profile. 290p il $4 Houghton

914.436 Paris—Description. Paris—Social life and customs 29-24183

Old Paris and modern Paris, the Paris of historic, narrow streets and paved boulevards, of ancient inns and gilded cafés, of old wines and new, is the source of Mr Slocombe's sketches. The city bridges and gates, the cabarets and restaurants, the painters and writers, culminate in a final chapter that contains sketches in profile of fairs and circuses, crimes and mysteries, holidays and weddings, and the many distinctive things that create the atmosphere of Paris.

"Here is no mere survey of an hour of the garish Paris of the boulevards and the night life of Montmartre. The present is in evidence, but it is backed by a rich knowledge of the city's historic past. . . . Paris in Profile is a book likely to outlive the ephemeral hour." A. B. Maurice
+ Bookm 70:xxvi O '29 520w

"This is the best book about quite modern Paris that I have read. There may be better but I do not know them. Mr. Slocombe has knowledge, enthusiasm, a pen that can descend from the dithyrambic to the agreeable pawky and re-ascend in a paragraph or a sentence. That is the pen with which it is necessary to write of Paris." F. M. Ford
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 D 8 '29 1700w

"Mr. Slocombe's breadth of knowledge, his cheerful animated discursive style, give the book a good deal of charm." Pierre Loving
+ N Y Evening Post p11m O 12 '29 250w

"Mr. Slocombe has gathered up the threads of beauty and interest, of pulsing vitality and brooding thought and undying delight that centre in the very name of Paris and has woven them into a beautiful and interesting book. . . Mr. Slocombe's book has background. It is beautifully written by a man whose knowledge of Paris—of France—like his love for it, is deep and permeating. It is captivating and true." Katherine Woods
+ N Y Times p9 O 27 '29 1100w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 80:28 N '29 40w

"Mr. Slocombe's book is a pleasant gleaning of impressions and recollections, the kind of thing that is always delightful when it comes from a personality accustomed to observation and rich in experiences. Mr. Slocombe has lived in Paris for years and has loved it as only an Englishman or an American can." C. E. Andrews
+ Sat R of Lit 6:613 Ja 4 '30 1100w

"The reader has a pleasant feeling that the book had to be written. On the sensitive plate of the author's mind have been etched countless pictures of the city. He has absorbed, too, sound and smell, and rags and tags of story and anecdote. The result is a series of pictures which succeed not only in building up the vivid life of Paris today, but in illuminating its historic past."
+ Springf'd Republican p6 N 11 '29 370w

SLOSS, HATTIE LINA (HECHT) (MRS MARCUS CAUFFMAN SLOSS), comp. Certain poets of importance; Victorian verse chosen for comparison; with a foreword by Charles G. Norris. 425p $5 Dutton

821.08 English poetry—Collections 29-25770

An anthology of the best of Victorian verse, grouped under the following headings: Children; Poetic portraits; Tributes; Music; Nature; Human relations; Social relations; Spiritual relations.

"The value of an anthology with such divisions seems negligible. The Victorians are likely to be ponderous enough without emphasis on the occasional nature of certain poems."
— Nation 129:448 O 16 '29 100w

"Mrs. Sloss has worked diligently to arrange the poems of fifteen Victorian writers under topical headings. To the student of ideas this arrangement may have some value, but it has the unfortunate effect of underlining the Victorian weakness for high-sounding platitudes. In an introductory note Mrs. Sloss strangely states that only one of the fifteen poets survived Browning; as a matter of fact, eight of them died after 1889, the year of Browning's death." Granville Hicks
— N Y World p11m O 20 '29 120w

"As it is a book arranged for purposes of comparison of the different poets's treatment of the same general themes it necessarily suffers from a codification that we, personally, find wearing, though we admit its usefulness to a study club." W: R. Bénet
— Sat R of Lit 6:210 O 5 '29 280w

SLOSSER, GAIUS JACKSON. Christian unity; its history and challenge in all communions, in all lands; with introds. by William Temple and Alfred E. Garvie. 425p il $5 Dutton [21s K. Paul]

280 Christian union 29-18122

This critical survey of the movement for a united Christendom begins with the council at Jerusalem, A. D. 49, and closes with the Jerusalem conference of the International missionary council in 1928. Contrary to the common assumption that the ideal of church unity is a recent manifestation Dr Slosser shows that thruout the Christian era in all communions and in all lands the aspiration for church unity has existed.

"Dr. Slosser has done a scholarly piece of work, covering a vast field, and has left all lovers of unity permanently in his debt. No serious student of the problem who realizes the importance of orienting current movements with reference to the total historic process and who understands how difficult it has been to assemble the relevant materials for such a survey and orientation can fail to be grateful for the industry and scholarship which have made so great a mass of this material conveniently accessible in this one volume." W. E. Garrison

SLOSSER, G. J.—Continued
+ Christian Century 46:587 My 1 '29 660w

"This volume of 425 pages is a document of record as well as of comment and interpretation and represents the most exhaustive and comprehensive treatise on the subject of unity, contained in a single volume, that this reviewer has seen. . . The Lausanne conference official documents are contained in the book and these with other important records make the volume an invaluable one for reference and historical data." T: F. Opie
+ Churchman 139:16 Je 22 '29 320w

"Dr. Slosser's thesis is a monument of industry. It has the inevitable faults of its kind. To these expected faults are added others which are quite inappropriate to its kind. There are far too many second-hand citations, sometimes borrowed from polemical writers who cannot safely be trusted. . . His book seems to be designed not so much for reading as for reference, and we imagine that few explorers will fail to profit by his preliminary charting."
— + Times [London] Lit Sup p568 Jl 18 '29 880w

SMALL, AUSTIN J. Needle's kiss. 312p $2 Doubleday, Doran
29-8831

Grosman, half-Chinese, is the head of a dope gang that has long baffled the police. Lured by the adventure suggested when the river patrol find the body of a murdered man in the river, Hilary Kittredge goes aboard Grosman's ship, and is taken captive. Meanwhile the police have discovered the hiding place for the cocaine; Hilary outwits the Chinese and succeeds in getting a message thru to headquarters. A raid on the ship occurs, Grosman is captured, and Hilary safely restored to her lover.

Bookm 70:xxxiv O '29 50w

"A bargain for the rougher trade."
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Ag 18 '29 130w

Boston Transcript p7 N 2 '29 250w

"There does not seem to be much out of the ordinary in this fiction melodrama, which is just another one of these wild yarns concerned with the fiendish machinations of dope smugglers on whom the London police are waging war."
— N Y World p11m O 13 '29 150w

"This tale opens very nicely with a stabbed and poisoned corpse dragged from the Thames, but thereafter the excitement is kept pretty low by inexpert use of familiar trappings."
— + Sat R of Lit 6:116 S 7 '29 130w

SMALL, AUSTIN J. Web of murder. 283p $2 Doubleday, Doran
29-4991

Investigating the house from which the screams came, Forrest encounters a young girl who slips away from him in the dark. In the wrecked library on the first floor he finds the horribly mangled body of a dead man. The girl and the crime are somehow connected, and Forrest presently finds himself connected with both, in a web of murder spun by the master criminal known as the Spider.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Jl 14 '29 110w

"Horror, mystery, murder, with plenty of thrills and a love story thrown in for good measure—what more can you ask?"
+ N Y Times p16 Je 2 '29 100w

"Mr. Small is either careless or unskilful, for when we begin to check up on the solution, we find that the narrative is full of inconsistencies and false starts. Of course, these bother us chiefly after we have closed the book, because while we read, Mr. Small is usually able to hold our attention."
+ — Sat R of Lit 5:935 Ap 20 '29 130w

SMALLEY, DAVE E. Stumbling. 308p $2 Barse & co.
29-7724

"The book presents a condemned and sentenced criminal, a 'born killer,' so changed by surgery that even the judge who sentenced him does not recognize him when, in his new mind and character of an eminent physician, he treats and cures the jurist of a long-standing illness."—Boston Transcript

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Je 30 '29 80w

"A novelized argument against capital punishment, this book should arouse some discussion about society's method of dealing with its major criminals. 'Crime calls for cure, not cruelty,' is the thesis of the work."
+ Boston Transcript p4 Je 1 '29 220w

"The author has used a fresh idea which alone carries his novel, for the luxuries of the more serious stories—such as characters, style and the quality of the convincing—are not dragged in here. The story is too slow all through the middle of the book, but it starts easily and its denouement is good enough to be withheld here."
+ — N Y Times p25 Ag 25 '29 180w
Springf'd Republican p7e S 15 '29 150w

SMART, WILLIAM MARSHALL. Sun, the stars and the universe. 291p il $5 (12s 6d) Longmans
523 Astronomy 28-25288

"This amply illustrated work by a professor in Cambridge University, England, is 'designed to present, in descriptive language and with an historical background, an account of modern astronomical discoveries and of present-day views concerning the characteristics, constitution and organization of the heavenly bodies. The use of technical language has been avoided as far as possible.' "—Preface

Booklist 25:198 F '29

"It is important that from time to time a non-technical survey should be available for the general reader, since the most modern investigations involve not only addition to but correction of earlier information. Dr. Smart's book is therefore to be welcomed, even though hampered by its very comprehensiveness. . . Every subject [is trimmed down] to its bare essentials, in order that the maximum number may be packed in."
+ Nation and Ath 44:450 D 22 '28 500w

"The treatment throughout is as non-technical as possible, and entirely non-mathematical: it does not, however, on that account suffer in accuracy or precision." H. D.
+ Nature 123:828 Je 1 '29 700w
N Y New Tech Bks 13:43 O '28
N Y New Tech Bks 14:4 Ja '29

"Professor Smart's volume gives a thoroughly adequate treatment of the subject of astronomy with regard to the reader with considerable curiosity for scientific advancement."
+ N Y Times p5 Ap 14 '29 280w
Pratt p13 summer '29
St Louis 27:91 Mr '29

"The book is pleasantly readable throughout, and there is scarcely a mathematical symbol to frighten the sensitive layman. The line drawings are well planned and beautifully executed."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p980 D 13 '28 1050w

SMEDLEY, AGNES. Daughter of earth. 344p $2.50 Coward-McCann
29-6445

The bitter realistic story of one woman's life. Marie Rogers's childhood was spent on a barren

Wisconsin farm with a dissipated, half-Indian father, a weary drudge for a mother and an ever increasing brood of younger brothers and sisters. Her Aunt Helen, a prostitute, is a good friend to the girl and gets her away from this brutal home environment. But its impress on mind and heart remains to affect all her after life. College, a brief experience of marriage, divorce, interest in the cause of Indian Swaraj, love and betrayal—all these experiences mount, at the close of the book, to a climax of misery.

Booklist 25:361 Je '29

"It is impossible to regard this story as a novel. It is too bitterly, too passionately authentic. People cannot write with such intensity of things they have not intimately experienced. The people of this story are real men and women trapped in the mill of poverty. 'Daughter of Earth' is a fiercely honest book, a book of honest hate, without literary varnish and utterly without sentimentality." L: Gannett

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 Mr 10 '29 1050w

"As fiction it is unsatisfying; as an account of the girl's struggle against a relentlessly hostile environment, it has extraordinary force." P. L.

+ — Boston Transcript p4 Ap 27 '29 420w

"The author writes about life more intensely than most of us manage to live it. The story seems to have been propelled into being by an urgency too desperate to be denied. It is told as if sheer emotion had made the words and poured them on the paper; there is no evidence anywhere of deliberate, conscious artifice, no apparent pattern, no 'style.' . . There are some who may object to this book for its tone of bitter, partisan violence. Let no one judge it without reading it through." Freda Kirchwey

+ Nation 128:347 Mr 20 '29 930w

"Miss Smedley writes for the most part a severely literal style, suited to the compressed narrative of events of crowded years; but one cannot fail to catch the subdued strain of brooding hatred which animates it. Only at the close does Miss Smedley's restraint break down, and the narrative rise to the shrillness of hysteria. But even here, while questioning the literal truth, one is ready to concede the emotional sincerity." R. M. Lovett

+ — New Repub 58:203 Ap 3 '29 1100w

N Y Times p9 Mr 24 '29 360w

"The construction of the book is loose and rambling, but the great force of the heroine's personality holds it together. She represents one of life's unfortunates. She belongs to none of the established strata of society, and yet she has too much intelligence and fineness to sink into the lower depths."

+ N Y World p11m Mr 31 '29 220w

"The book is well written, but such resolute and articulate misery seems studied."

Outlook 151:556 Ap 3 '29 70w

"It is a highly interesting and often shocking revelation of what a working-class American girl can meet and endure. It is also a piece of social propaganda which by its frequent savagery of tone tends to defeat its own purpose. . . A book which is impressive and absorbing in its earlier chapters runs into conventional and sandy wastes. It is for the individual reader to decide whether the latter part of the book condemns the earlier part, or the earlier part redeems the closing chapters." Allan Nevins

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:772 Mr 16 '29 700w

"This is a story of poverty and revolt, called a novel but having the authenticity of a personal narrative. Do not ignore it. This, too, is our America." F. L. Kellogg

+ Survey 62:208 My 1 '29 430w

SMITH, ALFRED EMANUEL. Up to now; an autobiography. 434p il $5 Viking press

B or 92 New York (state)—Politics and government 29-21291

Al Smith's autobiography is not only an honest record of the career of one of America's foremost political figures, but at the same time a picture of old New York life, and a human document that reflects the warm personality of the writer. Among the most interesting chapters are those that tell of Al Smith's boyhood in the lower end of New York. The story of the Albany years and Tammany politics, and the home life of the Smith family on Oliver Street, occupy an important place in the book. The autobiography concludes with the presidential campaign of 1928. Illustrated with photographs.

Booklist 26:116 D '29

"'Up to Now' is an honest book—a frank, sincere expression of the liveliest figure in American politics. Like Al or dislike him, one must agree with him that the last Presidential campaign was 'one of Smith or anti-Smith.' And this is Al's own book. Some have doubted that he wrote it himself; no one who reads it will continue to doubt. The man is actually excited about the question of a four-year term for Governor, the short ballot, the water-power problem, the executive budget, good roads and grade crossings, factory laws and child-welfare legislation. These are obviously something more than politics to him—or, rather, politics is something more than a game to him. It is his business." L: Gannett

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 O 6 '29 1700w

Boston Transcript p2 O 19 '29 620w

"This is one biography of an eminent public man against which the charge of 'ghost writing' will never be brought. The writing is obviously that of Governor Smith himself—simple, unaffected and interesting only for the substance of the story, not at all for the manner of its telling." W. J. A.

+ Christian Science Monitor p14 N 16 '29 750w

"Former Governor Smith is probably one of the few grade-A politicians in this land who could write a full-sized autobiography without creating in the intelligent reader a mood of acute repression. His effort has many excellent points. It is free from hokum and rhetorical fustian. It is not didactic. It is done with sincerity and without self-consciousness. If the author is occasionally a bit awkward in composition and fumbles some of his anecdotes, such technical defects can be forgiven for the larger virtues." Harold Kellock

+ Nation 129:629 N 27 '29 1000w

"There emerges from the pages of this autobiography a very truthful picture of New York's favorite son. It is, I think, a more truthful picture than the Governor himself offered during the days of the national campaign . . . the manner of writing, and the contents of 'Up to Now' reveal the true Smith; not an echo of the man when he was Sheriff of New York. Its style is restrained and dignified, with only an occasional anecdote where the story makes the point under discussion more clear. . . 'Up to Now' is of unique value as a textbook for those who study politics and government. It will be made required reading by every professor of government who knows his job, for here is set forth the true story of how legislation is effected in this country. Smith is a master when it comes to discussing complicated State matters in a simple, concise way." H: F. Pringle

+ N Y Times p1 O 6 '29 2100w

"I have never read a story in which the hero seemed so thoroughly without pomposity of any kind and was so free from bombast in his talks. He seems to consider government as the application of common sense to the affairs of the people as a whole, which may be administered unselfishly, without blind loyalty to party prejudices." Harry Hansen

+ N Y World p16 S 7 '29 850w

Reviewed by Johan Smertenko

Outlook 153:549 D 4 '29 100w

"In addition to giving us an exceedingly interesting picture of a vivid personality 'up to now,' this book affords us some worthwhile glimpses of the machinery of government, how it functions and the problems that complicate it, which are valuable to any citizen." K. C. Pierce

+ Portland Evening News p5 D 4 '29 550w

SMITH, A. E.—Continued
Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 80:22 N '29 150w
St Louis 27:342 D '29

"His book is quite lacking in literary grace. His style is bald, but it shows none of the fine grace of genuine simplicity. When he has a good story to tell he seldom makes the best of it. Not infrequently he is obvious, and sometimes he is downright dull. Nevertheless, it is a volume worth reading. A brave spirit is in it, and a very charming one. Al is humble without any false humility. He is shrewd without any display of smartness. His honesty runs from end to end of it, never on conscious display but always plainly there. It is a story that leaves much unsaid, but it is still a story that reveals an extraordinarily able and admirable man. If there were more Al Smiths among us, the United States would better deserve the respect that its laws demand for it." H. L. Mencken
+ — Sat R of Lit 6:229 O 12 '29 1800w

"The volume throughout bears the stamp of Mr. Smith's own composition. The narration lacks finish, but it is breezy and authentic."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e O 6 '29 560w

"It's alive and he is, and because of that there are big gaps in the book. Smith, his family, his public life, his problems of the people are there. But not the full secret of his spell. He lets you back-stage in the governor's office, but the political parade is pretty much in full dress. It's too soon to tell those things." P. U. Kellogg
Survey 63:159 N 1 '29 1100w

SMITH, ARTHUR DOUGLAS HOWDEN (ALLEN GRANT, pseud.). Grey maiden; the story of a sword through the ages. 306p $2.50 Longmans

[29-18317]

The legendary sword, Grey Maiden, like the famous Excalibur of King Arthur, is a sword of prowess and magic. This book traces its exploits from the time when, in the hands of the slave Glaucus, it saved Athens, thru age after age of warfare and heroism, on to Elizabethan England, when Myles Conyers and Humphrey Dawkins write to the queen of its marvelous properties.

---

"This is a clever way to tell history in all its thrill, its glamour, and its gore. It is also a well arranged and charmingly bound piece of workmanship."
+ Boston Transcript p3 S 7 '29 230w
Cleveland Open Shelf p144 N '29

"The book is not easy reading for those unfamiliar with history, and one suspects that the episodic historical detail would not bear the critical inspection of historians. Nevertheless, despite the legitimate criticisms of treatment, the romance of great names and the great crises in world history lend an impressiveness to the pages that makes it impossible to dismiss the book as trivial or dull."
+ — N Y Times p7 S 8 '29 570w

"Mr. Smith completely fails to convince us that the sword is of the slightest interest or importance."
— Sat R of Lit 6:324 O 26 '29 160w
Springf'd Republican p7e D 15 '29 150w

SMITH, ARTHUR DOUGLAS HOWDEN (ALLEN GRANT, pseud.). John Jacob Astor, landlord of New York. 296p il $3.50 Lippincott

B or 92 Astor, John Jacob 29-10192

"The life of a German immigrant who landed in New York with $25 in cash, seven flutes and a spare suit of clothes—and sixty-four years later died, leaving behind him a fortune of some twenty million dollars. The character of the founder of the Astor fortune, whose acquisitiveness grew with his wealth, is of less interest than the picture given of the development of the fur trade, and the beginnings of big business in the United States, which were closely bound together, and which are here treated carefully and in considerable detail."—Outlook

---

Booklist 25:358 Je '29

"Astor played a larger role in molding the young United States than many Presidents. His role has never been given its full evaluation; Mr. Smith, who set out to tell an amazing story, would be the last to claim that he had done so. Some day histories will be written which will pay more attention to Astor and Commodore Vanderbilt than to the Adamses and Madisons. Meanwhile, we may read 'John Jacob Astor' and vaguely understand how the republic of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Morgan came to be." L: Gannett
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 Ap 7 '29 980w

"It seems to me one of the very best studies of one of our American rich men which has ever been written, frank, lively, just, human, and above all constantly enlivening." S. L. Cook
+ Boston Transcript p4 Mr 30 '29 1600w
Cleveland Open Shelf p124 S '29

"Unfortunately, Mr. Smith has the Svengali touch of the puppet master. He is the perfect journalist whose reader shall not yawn nor be given breath to make his own judgments. Nevertheless it is fair to add that the great drama of the fur trade and the colonizing of Oregon is skillfully laid bare in following Astor's career." H: Chapin
+ — New Repub 59:80 Je 5 '29 60w

"It is difficult to pump color or thrill into a biography of a man whose chief characteristic was a stubborn Teutonic industry, and yet it seems to us that Mr. Smith has done an extraordinarily good job. He writes easily and well and his hero moves against the strange, half-forgotten scenes of the nation's early growth. These are far more brilliant and dramatic than John Jacob Astor, himself." F: F. Van de Water
+ N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 27 '29 70w
Reviewed by W. R. Brooks
Outlook 151:636 Ap 17 '29 100w
Pratt p33 autumn '29

"Some may cavil at his over-addiction to the verbless sentence, but we may forgive him this minor sin in consideration of his skill as a narrator." W: B. Shaw
+ R of Rs 79:16 My '29 300w
St Louis 27:206 Je '29

"Mr. Smith's book, a companion volume to his biography of Commodore Vanderbilt, is a valuable summary, but it is popular rather than scholarly in character. The author has taken his task seriously and spent much patient industry upon it. He presents in highly interesting form a great body of facts, which he appraises and marshals with excellent judgment. He has a firm grasp of Astor's character, and has immersed himself in the printed materials on his work and time. The result is a book which for the ordinary reader and even casual student is quite adequate. It is sometimes rather irritatingly colloquial in style, with passages which read as if Mr. Smith were patting us on the shoulder." Allan Nevins
+ — Sat R of Lit 6:87 Ag 31 '29 1500w

SMITH, C. HAROLD. Bridge of life. 272p il $2.50 Appleton

B or 92 29-8714

"Rahwedia" was the true story of the author's romance in the South Seas. "The Bridge of Life" recounts other adventures of his eventful life in various parts of the world.

---

" 'I have learned,' says the writer of this shrewd and diverting autobiography, 'not to take life too seriously.' From the testimony of these pages it is a lesson which Mr. Smith did not find it difficult to master. Many adventures befell him in many parts of the world, but he met them all with a smile and with the confidence of one whose wits served him well in every emergency. He has spent no time in envying other people's successes."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Je 2 '29 130w

"The story is immensely appealing, in its mingling of tragedy and comedy, humor and pathos, and its influence is inspiring." F. B.
+ Boston Transcript p2 My 22 '29 760w

"Mr. Smith is not a literary man, but he tells a straightforward story well, and he has had some uncommon experiences."
+ — New Statesman 33:250 Je 1 '29 230w

"Except for its more sententious passages, 'The Bridge of Life' is a quite interesting autobiography." Edwin Seaver
+ — N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 13 '29 320w

"Mr. Smith tells a story well and his book fairly overflows with anecdotes of things he saw and did and people whom he met in a great variety of ways. He relates all of his varied experiences with a zest that indicates how much he must have enjoyed them and how much he has again savored them in the retelling."
+ N Y Times p15 Jl 7 '29 500w
St Louis 27:290 O '29
Times [London] Lit Sup p437 My 30 '29 110w

SMITH, EDWARD HENRY. You can escape; with a preface by Edward Hale Bierstadt. 364p $2.50 Macmillan

364 Escapes. Prisons—United States. Crime and criminals—United States 29-19014

Nineteen true stories of famous escapes from American prisons. There is the story of the prisoner who escaped in a shoe packing-case, of nine men who crawled thru a sewer, a murderer aided from outside by his sweetheart, a modern flight from Sing Sing, etc.

---

Bookm 70:xiv O '29 50w

"Mr. Smith's nineteen true stories of escapes from prison should provide many readers with what they find lacking for the most part in detective fiction, the rare quality of high excitement; moreover, they are rich in sidelights upon the criminal scene flashed in understanding comments by a sympathetic—but never maudlin—observer. . . Mr. Smith's book is to be read for its authentic emotional quality, its absorbing information."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p38 D 1 '29 650w
N Y Times p18 D 22 '29 200w
Springf'd Republican p12 S 18 '29 600w

SMITH, EDWIN WILLIAM. Aggrey of Africa; a study in black and white. 292p il $3 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d S.C.M.]

B or 92 Aggrey, James Emman Kwegyir

Biography of a son of Africa, Dr James Aggrey, who was born on the Gold Coast of West Africa, and came to be one of the most important figures in the movement for a better cooperation between the black and white races.

---

"Aggrey lives again in Mr. Smith's vivid book, and even those who never knew this great son of Africa will, after reading it, be able to appreciate the tribute of Principal Fraser of Achimota: 'I have had many good things in life, but one of the best is being allowed to know Aggrey intimately and well.'" H. W. P.
+ Christian Science Monitor p8 S 21 '29 350w

"Mr. Smith's method is hagiographical rather than critical, but he does convey the impression of a lovable and striking personality, whose pride in his own people was unmixed with the delusions of grandeur of Marcus Garvey, or the not unnatural bitterness of W. E. B. Du Bois."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p456 Je 6 '29 200w

SMITH, SIR GEORGE ADAM. Book of the twelve prophets; commonly called the minor. (Works on the prophets) new and rev ed 2v 470;529p ea $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [ea 10s 6d Hodder & S.]

224 Bible.Old Testament—Prophetical books 29-9895

This two-volume work by the Principal of the University of Aberdeen gives a historical sketch of the prophet in Israel and then devotes a chapter to each of the twelve so-called minor prophets, in chronological order. "The Twelve together cover the extent of that range, and illustrate the development of prophecy at almost every state from the eighth century to the fourth." (Preface)

---

"The chief significance of this work at the present time is that it gives a conspectus of the views of former commentators presented from the point of view of a ripe but rather conservative scholarship."
+ Christian Century 46:838 Je 26 '29 110w

"Here is a thrill for every careful reader, equal at least to that felt by those who read the first edition." I. G. Matthews
+ Crozer Q 6:357 Jl '29 1350w

"In spite of omissions, the work of revision has been anything but perfunctory. A large range of literature has been employed and it has left its mark. The translations have been carefully revised in the light of the newer metrical theories. While the recent discussion has left its mark on the book, the revised edition is in general faithful to the standpoint and results of the original work."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p36 Ja 17 '29 1750w

SMITH, GRAFTON ELLIOT. Human history. 472p il $5 Norton

930 Man, Prehistoric. Civilization, Ancient. History, Ancient 29-29383

An anthropological and psychological study of man and his development. The main thesis of the book lies in Dr Smith's belief that human civilization rose in the Nile Valley six thousand years ago with the discovery of agriculture, and was from there diffused over the rest of the world, culminating, originally, in the "glory that was Greece."

---

"Though he is not the first scholar to choose this angle of approach, he has followed it in detail and with a logic, wealth and coherence of development that very evidently show years of original research have gone into the writing of his book." F: H. Martens
+ N Y Evening Post p12m D 21 '29 500w
Reviewed by F. F. Van de Water
N Y Evening Post p13m D 21 '29 300w

"Considering the lavishness with which Dr. Smith dresses up such evidence as supports his theory of the primal motherhood of Egypt and the impatience with which he dismisses all evidence to the contrary, the title of this volume is misleading. A more just title would be 'G. Elliot Smith's Theory of the Origin of Civilization.'" Gregory Mason
— N Y Times p11 D 22 '29 1500w

"This book is important in spite of the fact that it is harshly written, defends apparently indefensible propositions, and lacks scientific conscience. It is a passionate book. It may seem odd to call a work on anthropology a passionate book. But passionate it is, and for that reason it is interesting; and the problems it deals with become, even for the general reader, immensely important and immediate issues. Not that Dr. Smith's passion is in any sense a noble one. It is, as a matter of fact, an unattractive one. It is the nervous, hostile, agitated atmosphere of battle that gives the book a sense of life, that compels an active interest in its issue." Isidor Schneider
+ — N Y World p10m Ja 5 '30 1000w
R of Rs 81:10 Ja '30 280w

SMITH, HENRY JUSTIN. Poor devil. 281p $2.50 Covici
29-16082

"Mr. Smith, managing editor of the Chicago Daily News, gives a long song and dance in dispraise of the modern city. The city in which the novel is set is given no name, but no great amount of intelligence is needed to realize that Mr. Smith is writing about his own Chicago. . . The plot tells of a country lad who gets work in the city with the Faith Publishing Company. After a little success, the lad loses his job and hunts work for many hopeless weeks. Finally after a melodramatic and quite unconvincing fracas with some stick-up men, the 'poor devil' goes back to the country (or so we are led to believe) and, by a wholly sentimental implication, finds at last his true happiness."—Sat R of Lit

---

"The author reports his story honestly, and with a minute attention which sharpens its realism, and intensifies its hopelessness."
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p24 O 27 '29 120w

Boston Transcript p2 O 30 '29 200w

N Y Times p12 Ag 4 '29 350w

"The novel as a whole is garrulous, conventional, and superficial. . . We should have been much more charitable towards this novel if it were less pretentious, less occupied in laying down the law."
— Sat R of Lit 6:326 O 26 '29 350w

SMITH, HERBERT MAYNARD. Inspector Frost's jigsaw. 292p $2 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Benn]
29-17856

The vicar's widow, Mrs de Morville, is shot while having tea in her garden. Inspector Frost takes charge of the investigation, and finds among possible suspects a gardener who has buried a pistol, a butler who has stolen some silver plate, and a baronet whose clock is fifteen minutes too slow. It is not surprising, however, to find that the murderer is not among the suspected parties.

---

Bookm 70:xxxii O '29 50w

"Preternaturally bright fans may guess the criminal in the opening rounds, but they can't be sure. The working out is well worth the trouble." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p26 S 15 '29 130w

Boston Transcript p3 O 26 '29 220w

"A very well made detective story."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p262 Mr 28 '29 80w

SMITH, JOSEPH RUSSELL. Tree crops; a permanent agriculture. 333p il $4 Harcourt
634.5 Trees. Nuts 29-3528

A treatise on the reclaiming of previously fertile lands made barren by the destruction of forests. The author, who is professor of economic geography at Columbia, suggests the planting of nut trees on the devastated areas. Both native nuts and those of other countries are described in detail.

---

"Written with the intensity of a crusader and with the stirring pen of a capable and experienced journalist. However, it claims too much and dismisses too lightly the economic and scientific difficulties of the problem. . . It is a stimulating book for a discriminating reader." Raphael Zon
+ — Am Econ R 19:272 Je '29 1050w

Booklist 25:272 Ap '29

"Professor Smith has for many years been the apostle of tree agriculture both by word and by deed. In the present work he brings together the results of his own experiences and travels—in the Mediterranean and the Far East in particular—a large correspondence, and much study. . . Here is an inspiration for the individual farmer who can begin gradually to transform his practice; for Professor Smith is no revolutionist but the advocate of a sober and considered policy."
+ Geog R 19:528 Jl '29 300w

N Y Times p5 F 10 '29 700w

Wis Lib Bul 25:98 Mr '29

SMITH, LOGAN PEARSALL, ed. Treasury of English aphorisms. 261p $2 Houghton [7s 6d Constable]
828 Aphorisms and apothegms [29-8756]

"Mr. Smith has very skillfully and very delightfully surveyed the field from Bacon to Hazlitt in his introduction. The aphorisms themselves are listed according to subject and range from aphorisms on the aphorism to those on the passions, prudence and politics."—Bookm

---

Bookm 69:xxiv Mr '29 120w

"A collection remarkably readable throughout."
+ Nation 128:593 My 15 '29 60w

Reviewed by Katharine West
Nation and Ath 44:173 N 3 '28 1950w

" 'It is generally supposed that we possess but a meagre store of aphorisms in English,' Mr. Pearsall-Smith writes in his preface to A Treasure of English Aphorisms, and he proceeds to refute the suggestion in the most final manner possible by presenting us with several hundred excellent ones, the majority of which—this is the astonishing thing—will be new even to well-read people."
+ New Statesman 31:795 O 6 '28 2100w

New Statesman 32:15 O 13 '28 480w

Sat R 146:508 O 20 '28 820w

"Mr. Pearsall Smith's book, breaking new ground, exhibiting a wealth that few others were aware that we possessed, and showing how much and how valuable it is, leaves the reader not depressed nor embittered, but feeling wiser and gentler through that 'humanity' which Vauvenargues declared to be necessary to justice."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p1007 D 20 '28 1100w

SMITH, MRS MABELL SHIPPIE (CLARKE). Story of Napoleon; with foreword by Ida M. Tarbell. 370p il $2.50 Crowell
B or 92 Napoleon I, emperor of the French 28-21046

A biography of Napoleon, evidently written for young readers. Illustrated with sixteen color plates and four maps.

---

Boston Transcript p2 O 31 '28 400w

"It is simple fare—lovely anecdotes, more interesting than true; homely philosophy and moralizing; colored pictures. There is no real reason for any of these books, unless it be to make the academic historian more self-respecting." L: R. Gottschalk
— Nation 128:592 My 15 '29 60w

"The story is apparently written for the younger generation, and is heavy with anecdotes, authentic and otherwise, of the early life of the great military leader, in which the young boy is frequently confused with a more mature body, and in which also, many most interesting facts concerning the boy are lost sight of or deliberately omitted. Though Mrs Smith has written a readable book, on a great subject, she has handled it in a far from great manner." S. C.
— Springf'd Republican p10 N 6 '28 510w

SMITH, MUNROE. Development of European law; [a series of lectures delivered at Columbia university; ed. by Carl L. W. Meyer]. 316p $3.75 Columbia univ. press
349 Law—History. Roman law. Law, Germanic 29-5085

The development of law in western continental Europe from the fall of the Roman Empire until the present day, with emphasis upon the agencies and methods thru which private law came into being.

"The publication of this course of lectures by the late Professor Monroe Smith contributes to filling a long-standing need. For students of government, it presents the best brief summary in English of the transformation of political institutions in the illuminating period of change between the fall of the Roman Empire and the rise of the modern nation-state. For students of law, it emphasizes on practically every page the reciprocity and interdependence between law and the governmental mechanism through which law is administered. While remarkably concise, it is not an elementary compendium of dates and names, but a philosophically conceived essay which raises most of the fundamental problems on the border-line between law and politics, and illustrates them by data from a period rich in illustrative material." J: Dickinson

+ Am Pol Sci R 23:1029 N '29 480w

Boston Transcript p5 Je 22 '29 500w

"Munroe Smith's little book offers to an American or English student of law a most trustworthy and truly scholarly guide." Joseph Redlich

+ Harvard Law R 43:152 N '29 1200w

SMITH, REED, comp. South Carolina ballads; with a study of the traditional ballad today. 174p $3 Harvard univ. press

811.08 Ballads. American ballads and songs. Ballads, American. Folklore—South Carolina 28-21394

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

"The writer does not dig deep nor strike hard, but his volume will be a student's necessity as an appendix to Child, and for some others it may serve as a convenient introduction to a great subject." Abbe Niles

+ — Bookm 68:709 F '29 220w

"The one fault to find with the author is that he looks rather too favourably upon the theory of communal origins. Mr. Smith states the objections to the theory so fairly, however, and defends it so weakly that an anti-communalist can only wish his work a wide circulation. He has, indeed, produced a capital book."

+ — Nation 128:210 F 13 '29 200w

"His style is alive and charming enough to make a reader who had not loved ballads before now clasp them to his heart. The book is not only a valuable contribution to the subject, but is delightful reading as well." Dorothy Scarborough

+ New Repub 57:144 D 19 '28 400w

"It provides definite instances of communal composition among the negroes, the absorption of a composed poem into folk balladry in modern times, the making of modern ballads, and the degeneration of old ones. . . It is a serious defect of this otherwise very valuable work that the writer does not take sufficient account of the music of the ballads."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p797 N 1 '28 400w

SMITH, ROBERT SENECA. Use of the Old Testament in current curricula. 337p $2.25 Century

377 Religious education. Bible.Old Testament—Study and teaching 29-4960

"The author is Horace Bushnell, Professor of Christian Nurture in the Yale Divinity School. He has thoroughly examined the use of Old Testament materials in the 'International Graded Series,' the 'Constructive Studies in Religion,' the 'Completely Graded Series,' the 'Beacon Course in Religious Education,' the 'Christian Nurture Series,' and the 'Abingdon Week-Day Religious Education Texts.' The aims of all these courses are listed and classified. The most common type of aim, the author finds, combines knowledge, appreciation, character development, and social conduct. The amount of Old Testament material in each course is computed, and a 'steadily diminishing use of the Old Testament' is discovered."—J Religion

---

"His twofold task of compiling such a quantity of religious literature according to a well-wrought-out pedagogical pattern, and of evaluating the tendencies in this material for purposes of Christian culture, make the book one of unusual merit both for Biblical scholars and for religious educators." S. G. Cole

+ Crozer Q 6:386 Jl '29 950w

"Professor Smith is to be congratulated not only on having written a useful book, but also on having done it without indulging in the barbarous technical jargon which make much recent writing on religious education almost unreadable." Millar Burrows

+ J Religion 9:484 Jl '29 800w

SMITH, SIDNEY. Early history of Assyria: to 1000 B.C. (Hist. of Babylonia and Assyria) 445p il $12 Dutton [37s 6d Chatto & W.]

935.2 Assyria—History [28-11237]

"In the first half Mr. Smith is concerned with collecting such hints and scraps of information as are available concerning the inhabitants, language, and rulers in the third millennium B.C. of that part of the valley of the Tigris which was afterwards the seat of the Assyrian Empire. In the second half he deals with the history of the same geographical area during the second millennium B.C., a period of which our knowledge is at present far scantier than of either earlier or later epochs."—Nation and Ath

---

"Smith has voiced loud objection to those who have written popular histories of Assyria without full references to sources and without full discussion of problems. His own references are placed at the close of the work. This may save the eyesight of the general reader but it is a continued trouble for the scholar. As might have been expected, his references are anything but full. In general, the discussions are sane, the results such as are accepted today. It is particularly worthy of praise that our author often admits that there is sufficient material to reach a certain conclusion, that we must await the new information which is so rapidly pouring in upon us." A. T. Olmstead

Am Hist R 35:317 Ja '30 750w

Boston Transcript p2 Ag 10 '29 580w

"It is a consequence of the unavoidable paucity of data that most of the book is occupied by somewhat jejune and highly doubtful inferences as to the influence of surrounding and contemporary powers and civilizations and by catalogues of monarchs and intricate questions of chronology. In two matters, however, Mr. Sidney Smith succeeds in escaping into the realm of real historical writing—in his very able and important discussion of the origins of the Assyrian people and in his final confutation of the old-fashioned view of the barbarian and destructive character of the Assyrian power." J. M. K.

+ — Nation and Ath 43:182 My 12 '28 700w

"The Assyrians have found something of a champion in Sidney Smith of the Department of Egyptian and Assyrian Antiquities in the British Museum. He has endeavored to be strictly fair, to give every side and show clearly the great diversity of opinions. His book undoubtedly gains in accuracy thereby, if it loses something in interest through a retarding of the flow of the narrative. The volume is far from easy reading, partly because of the complications and uncertainties of its subject and partly because of this very laudable endeavor to present diverse theories." L. M. Field

+ N Y Times p4 Jl 28 '29 1700w

"It is to be feared that Mr. Smith's book will not make a popular appeal in spite of its many good points. Footnotes are relegated to the rear, but the text itself is so filled with detailed discussions of disputed points that the general reader is constantly in danger of losing his way. Illustrations are numerous, good, and generally new." A. T. Olmstead

Sat R of Lit 6:516 D 7 '29 850w

"Mr. Smith wins our confidence at the outset by admitting that there is much uncertainty about what happened in the fourth and third

SMITH, SIDNEY—Continued
millenia before Christ. But, while distinguishing facts from fancies, he makes good use of the new evidence from Ur and elsewhere and presents a reasonably coherent account of the development of Assyria into a great empire. He writes well and has some excellent illustrations and maps."

+ Spec 141:112 Jl 21 '28 120w

Times [London] Lit Sup p282 Ap 19 '29 2150w

SMITH, SYDNEY. Letters of Peter Plymley to his brother Abraham who lives in the country; together with selected writings, sermons and speeches; introd. by G. C. Heseltine. 316p $2.50 Dutton [6s Dent]

824 [29-25505]

"The centenary of Catholic Emancipation is an obvious occasion for attempting to revive an interest in Sydney Smith's masterpiece, since undoubtedly the Peter Plymley letters, which ran like wildfire through the country in 1807-8, did more than any other deliberate propaganda to dispose public opinion towards that reform. . . The Plymley letters occupy eighty-five pages of the present reprint; the other 200 contain seven of Sydney Smith's articles in the Edinburgh Review, two sermons, two speeches, the Third letter to Archdeacon Singleton, the letters to the Press on 'locking-in' on railways and on Pennsylvania's repudiation of debts, and ten pages of tit-bits from the private letters."—Times [London] Lit Sup

---

"Anyone turning over the pages of this little book will perceive that his oblivion is undeserved. Many duller books have more readers. The author's reputation for flippancy, which lost him a bishopric, has injured his posthumous reputation as a writer. His occasional articles are in fact marked not so much by flippancy and wit as by a massive good sense." Francis Birrell

+ Nation and Ath 45:341 Je 8 '29 780w

"Mr. Heseltine has reissued that most miraculous compound of wit, wisdom and practical sagacity which was Sydney Smith's contribution to the great controversy, [Catholic Emancipation]. That book sold by tens of thousands in 1807; in this pleasant form it deserves to sell its hundreds of thousands. For a more delightful book was never written, and it has lost little by the settlement of the quarrel which gave it birth. The circumstances that produced it have ceased to be, but the liberal spirit which informs it, the wit that sparkles in every page, and the sound common sense which Sydney Smith never failed to show, cannot lose their savour."

+ New Statesman 33:120 My 4 '29 800w

"For a sober looking book, dealing with an array of solemn subjects such as poor laws, the reform bill and so forth, the Letters of Peter Plymley is remarkably lively reading. We can think, off hand, of no more stimulating vacation reading for a preacher, a journalist or a congressman than these papers by Sydney Smith."

+ Outlook 152:549 Jl 31 '29 110w

"The Letters still make excellent reading. Their style is lively and direct; they are full of generous indignation which never becomes fanatic; they are beautifully argued and cut through much popular stupidity with extreme skill. There are lighter selections in this volume; and it is particularly among the miscellanea that we come across his most typical examples of clear and gentle humour. Through all the volume, however, we have the pleasure of reading forcible and noble prose."

+ Spec 142:747 My 11 '29 750w

"Though one may wince occasionally at a patch of 'Limehouse,' the sensation is scarcely felt before it is shattered by a torrent of irresistible wit and fun—fun that is really witty, and surprises you first by the leap to some wholly incongruous image and then by the discovery of its perfect aptitude to the argument. . . .The editing is not so good as the selection. The few notes are quite properly brief and usually accurate. . . Mr. Heseltine's introduction is short and lively and gives a very fair account of its subject."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p378 My 9 '29 1400w

SMITH, THOMAS VERNOR, and WRIGHT, WILLIAM KELLEY, eds. Essays in philosophy, by seventeen doctors of philosophy of the Univ. of Chicago. 337p $3.50 Open ct.

191 Philosophy—Addresses, essays, lectures 29-18345

As products of the Department of philosophy at the University of Chicago each of these seventeen essays represents a problem of importance in contemporary philosophical discussion, and reveals prevailing tendencies among younger American philosophers.

---

"The book will amply repay thoughtful reading."

+ Bookm 70:x N '29 130w

Boston Transcript p4 O 5 '29 500w

"Some sly ironist must have given it the subtitle, 'By Seventeen Doctors of Philosophy,' for that describes the work with deadly accuracy. Such unity as these disjecta membra have is due to the fact that the authors have belonged to the philosophy department of Chicago and have come under the influence of Professors Tufts, Mead, Moore and Ames; but although there are able men in this group, their united contributions are not particularly impressive: one might bind together any six numbers of the Journal of Philosophy and achieve a work quite as coherent and pertinent." L: Mumford

— New Repub 61:117 D 18 '29 750w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 80:16 N '29 230w

SMITH, THORNE. Stray lamb. 303p $2 Cosmopolitan bk.

29-19245

Mr T. Lawrence Lamb was a solid, respectable citizen, with the kind of wife who went in for amateur dramatics and preferred to be called Sappho, and a daughter, Hebe, with an appropriate sense of humor. Then Lamb met a most mysterious little russet man—to whom he confided, strangely enough, that he should like to see life from a new point of view. After that things happened. Hebe, entering her father's room one morning, saw a good-looking horse slumbering in his bed. Mr Lamb had a grand time being a horse for several days. Then suddenly he woke up to find himself, pajama-clad, hitched to a farmer's wagon. Mr Lamb had several other intermittent adventures as a sea-gull, a gold-fish, a dog, a cat, a kangaroo and a lion, winding up as a kind of prehistoric monster during a divorce court-trial, after which the little russet man concluded he had profited sufficiently by his experiences.

---

Reviewed by F. H. Britten

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p24 N 24 '29 800w

Boston Transcript p2 O 23 '29 230w

"Mr. Lamb is rather mad in his antics, but out of his odd perspectives come acute observations on the functions of life. There is much robust laughter that frolics about these adventures. And 'The Stray Lamb,' with all its hilarity and fantasy, is a wise and tender tale beneath the glitter of its bizarre style. It has a hearty longing for the good things of the world and spirit."

+ N Y Times p7 N 3 '29 500w

"Three years ago Mr. Smith wrote a novel called 'Topper', and anyone who read it at that time will not hesitate to beg, borrow or steal a copy of 'The Stray Lamb', nor will he be disappointed in so doing. Here one will find the most delightful nonsense tinged with just enough satire to make one take life with a smile." K. C. Boyer

+ Portland Evening News p5 D 4 '29 350w

SMITH, WALLACE. Tiger's mate. 362p $2.50 Putnam

28-22139

Somewhere in Central America a Spanish girl, home from school in the States, and a blue eyed American captain meet and fall in love. The course of the affair is considerably affected by a revolution and by Lastro the Wolf, who has evil designs on both the lovers. But if Lastro is a wolf the Captain is a tiger and his lady has the fierceness and courage of a tiger's mate.

---

"Wallace Smith's technical equipment is well above the average in the adventure field. His vivid style lends charm to this highly pigmented fable of Senorita Maria de la Luz, a Mexican beauty who develops military genius when her country is in distress." Will Cuppy

\+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 N 4 '28 120w

"The major portion of the book is carefully and effectively written. In the Spanish background, there are no half-tones; all is raw, vivid color; a little too bright, perhaps, but handled with a mastery of description that is admirable. Mr. Smith's style is worthy of more important stories than 'Tiger's Mate.'"

\+ — N Y Times p18 D 9 '28 380w

"An exciting yarn, in spite of a high-flown style which, in the purplest passages, is truly awful."

— + Outlook 150:1175 N 14 '28 130w

SMITH, WILLARD K. Bowery murder. 325p $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-12533

A sensational murder in the Bowery in which high finance, politics and the stage mingle with reporters and the police. Told, supposedly, from newspaper entries concerning the murder, the connecting links supplied by the "compiler."

---

"One of the best Crime Club publications to date."

\+ Bookm 69:xxvi Jl '29 80w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Je 30 '29 120w

Boston Transcript p2 Jl 10 '29 230w

"Mr. Smith's method of telling a detective story is not to be recommended."

— N Y Times p19 Je 16 '29 200w

"An excellent mystery that mystifies you, and holds your interest, to the very end." Elmer Davis

\+ Sat R of Lit 5:1127 Je 22 '29 530w

SMITHELLS, COLIN J. Impurities in metals; their influence on structure and properties. 157p il $5 Wiley [18s Chapman & H.]

669 Metals [28-21576]

"One of the unsolved problems of metallurgy is that of the influence of metallic, non-metallic, and gaseous 'minor constituents' of metals and alloys. The present work is a contribution to the investigation of this problem, mainly by metallographic methods."—Pittsburgh Mo Bul

---

"This timely book merits careful attention by those concerned with the manufacture and use of metals. It presents in brief and lucid form authoritative information and data concerning the influence of 'impurities' or, as the author prefers to call them, 'minor constituents' on the structure, the mechanical properties, the electrical properties and the chemical properties of metallic materials." Ancel St John

\+ Chem & Met Eng 36:166 Mr '29 280w

"The book is interesting, informative, and suggestive, but by no means comprehensive." Jerome Alexander

\+ — Ind & Eng Chem 21:291 Mr '29 480w

N Y New Tech Bks 13:48 O '28

Pittsburgh Mo Bul 34:15 F '29

SMYTHE, JOHN HENRY, ed. Amazing Benjamin Franklin. 296p il $3 Stokes

B or 92 Franklin, Benjamin 29-21507

A symposium of tributes to Benjamin Franklin by some prominent public men of today: Andrew Mellon, Sir Esme Howard, Hamlin Garland, Curtis D. Wilbur, and others. Issued under the auspices of the Philadelphia chapter of the Sons of the American revolution.

---

Booklist 26:117 D '29

"It is an overwhelming book, the kind of book, in its collective tribute, that its amazing subject needed to have written about him, so that all and sundry might learn in its comparatively small compass something about each of the varied greatnesses achieved by one man. For when the full story of a remarkable life can be learned only by the patient reading of many volumes, knowledge of it, in this hurried time, is apt to go by default. Such collections of praise as this are marred, it is true, by lack of critical discussion and by the fact that they present only the admirable sides of the subject."

\+ — N Y Times p11 O 13 '29 450w

"An ingenious, informing and wholly readable book." W: P. Beazell

\+ N Y World p10m Ja 5 '30 300w

SNAITH, JOHN COLLIS. Cousin Beryl. 325p $2.50 Appleton

29-17552

Beryl Spencer-Lancelot-Chetwynd is the eldest daughter of a poor but high-pedigreed English vicar. Lady Cornelia Grandison, social tyrant of the county, has employed her as secretary partly because of her cheapness and partly because her plainness renders her safe as far as Lady Cornelia's sons are concerned. Revolting against her employer's abuse Beryl goes to London, obtains a position with a publisher, and writes a successful novel. Grown handsome, distinguished and desirable, Beryl captivates Lady Cornelia's son and heir, by whom she had not passed quite unnoticed, even in her Cinderella rôle.

---

Booklist 26:34 O '29

Bookm 70:xx S '29 50w

"It is hard to tell whether Mr. Snaith intended to write a rollicking farce or the tender biography of a poor girl's rise to fortune. In either case his own bland, patronizing voice so dominates his story that the reader cannot give the characters a sympathetic hearing."

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Ag 18 '29 400w

"You can take this novel as a biting satire on the cheap fiction adored by the nursery maids of Great Britain. You can also pretend that it is an ingenuous description of a virtuous clergyman's penniless daughter, and her rise to fame and fortune. What the novel is in actuality is that it is something less admirable than either." D. F. G.

— Boston Transcript p2 Ag 7 '29 550w

Pratt p38 autumn '29

Times [London] Lit Sup p824 O 17 '29 230w

Wis Lib Bul 25:323 O '29

SNEDDEN, DAVID SAMUEL. Educational sociology for beginners. 636p $3.50 Macmillan

370.1 Education. Sociology. United States—Civilization 28-28688

"Designed for beginners in the study of education, the volume is offered with the aim of furnishing appreciative insight into the findings of modern sociology, especially into what are called 'the sociologies of American life,' including family life, economic life, political life, cultural life and the like."—Boston Transcript

---

"Aimed at the great mass of elementary, beginning students in normal schools and colleges, this book is a triumph of vigor and clearness.

SNEDDEN, D: S:—Continued
It has sections of unusually stimulating and thought-provoking questions, Socratic dialogues, and well-written, illustrative material which would be useful in any elementary course in social science, as well as with prospective teachers. Through most of the book the terminology is simple. The author's vigorous positions on such problems as the married teacher, the status of wage-earning wives in American culture, the best age of entering primary school, means of conserving health, problems of population and eugenics are of extreme interest." J. T. Cavan

+ Am J Soc 35:513 N '29 230w
Booklist 25:270 Ap '29
Boston Transcript p2 Ja 5 '29 230w
J Home Econ 21:130 F '29 70w
Pratt p14 autumn '29

SNEDDON, ROBERT WILLIAM. Monsieur X; a novel of mystery. author's ed 303p $2 Dial press
28-23462

"The theme of the story is the search for the lost manuscripts of Molière, and upon this theme the author has built a tale of murder, mystery, romance and adventure. The characters who contribute to the solution of the mystery are two French detectives; two reporters, one of whom is English and the other American; and an American widow who has learned the art of detection by reading detective stories."—N Y Times

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p36 D 2 '28 120w

"An amusing as well as an exciting story. . . The three hundred odd pages teem with mystery and romance, there is not a dull moment and the quick action carries us along to the end without a glance at the clock." G. B.

+ Boston Transcript p7 N 14 '28 360w

"Mr. Sneddon's story runs smoothly, and he does not seek to pile thrill upon thrill in such wild profusion as to make the reader's head swim. His plot is complicated, but not confused—there is no difficulty in following the thread of his story."

+ N Y Times p15 D 30 '28 260w
N Y World p10m D 9 '28 120w

"Rather naive and unconvincing, but otherwise pleasant enough, piece of trade goods."

— + Sat R of Lit 5:559 D 29 '28 130w

SNOW, ROYALL HENDERSON. Thomas Lovell Beddoes, eccentric & poet. 227p $3 Covici
B or 92 Beddoes, Thomas Lovell 28-29520

"Beddoes is but little read now save by the curious, and, though his first play, written at nineteen, 'The Brides' Tragedy,' was hailed as the most promising first volume since Keats, he never matured his strange promise. After college and his first play Beddoes wearied of literature and London. He went to Germany, studied medicine, engaged in revolutionary politics. Perhaps his medical studies, perhaps his philosophical reading, perhaps his unsuccessful political activities, certainly his temperament and training carried him deeper and deeper into pessimism. There was naught but despair. He committed suicide."—N Y Evening Post

"Why Beddoes failed, 'why he wrote great poetry and remained a secondary poet, is a tragedy whose causes lay deep in his nature'—which causes Professor Snow has very ably indicated."

+ Bookm 69:vi Mr '29 120w

Reviewed by S: C. Chew
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p19 Ja 6 '29 320w

"The reason for the surprising lack of a wide knowledge of Beddoes's unique contributions to English letters is analyzed in Mr. Snow's scholarly study, focusing the light of a stimulating criticism upon the content, style and literary value of the poetry of this erratic genius." F. B.

+ Boston Transcript p1 D 22 '28 730w

"This sober and careful study will undoubtedly stand as a definitive account of Beddoes's life and work, replacing Sir Edmund Gosse's fine but sketchy memoir. Professor Snow very wisely attempts no radical revaluation of Beddoes's place in English verse; he is content to accord him a high position among the minor poets and to set him in the van of those whose inspiration has been derived from the contemplation of death."

+ Nation 128:88 Ja 16 '29 180w

"Professor Snow has done an excellent piece of work in his critical biography. It accomplishes the most difficult task of dealing exhaustively with a minor figure for whom the author has admiration, yet it does not falsely make the reader see all the world in terms of its obscure subject." Lionel Trilling

+ N Y Evening Post p8m Ja 5 '29 480w

"His book is informative but bloodless; the curious figure of the violently morbid Beddoes deserves a warmer resurrection; yet there are virtues in Professor Snow's volume, virtues of scholarship, exactitude and the critical faculty. . . Professor Snow is entirely aware of the deficiencies of Beddoes's poetry and the general reader may rely upon his critical comments. He praises where praise is due. It is the bloodlessness of the biographical section that suggests that there is still room for a brilliant and definitive study of the life of Thomas Lovell Beddoes, eccentric poet." Herbert Gorman

+ — N Y Times p4 Jl 14 '29 1950w

Reviewed by Arthur Colton
Sat R of Lit 5:620 Ja 26 '29 900w

SNOWDEN, JAMES HENRY. Outfitting the teacher of religion. 274p $2 Macmillan
377 Religious education 29-19711

A textbook on the principles and practice of religious education for the use of Sunday school teachers and teacher training classes.

Booklist 26:104 D '29

"Dr. Snowden has sought to put in plain everyday language the leading principles of modern educational theory that have endured the test of time. With this he has sensed the essential realities of the Christian message which must be conserved without compromise." W. P. Lemon

+ Christian Century 46:1506 D 4 '29 500w

SNYDER, HOWARD. Earth-born. 264p $2 Century
29-6350

An earthy tale of Negro life on a cotton plantation and of the primitive clash of religion and passion as the parson and Big Jim fight for the love of yellow-skinned Lindy.

"The superstitions, the crude pleasures and the elemental tragedies of plantation life supply the raw material of the story. They have been artfully woven into a narrative that seems to possess the tang of actuality."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Je 23 '29 100w
Boston Transcript p8 My 18 '29 230w
Cleveland Open Shelf p95 Je '29

" 'Earth Born' invites severity. It is a story of plantation life. As such, it is not up to Roark Bradford's 'This Side of Jordan,' which, in turn, was not up to Julia Peterkin's 'Black April.' If it had been written some years ago it might have been accepted as something fresh, as an attempt to plow new ground for fiction. But as matters stand at present, it falls upon the ears with the dreaded sound of repetition."

— N Y Times p14 Ap 14 '29 400w

"As a picture of rustic Negro life and character, the book has a vigorous authenticity, but otherwise is not notable."

— + N Y World p11m Mr 31 '29 90w
Outlook 151:554 Ap 3 '29 20w

"Mr. Snyder's book seems to be written wholly from the outside. Its details are no doubt accurate, it carries a full freight of the lore of black folk, but one misses the genuine sympathy and understanding that have been so strongly marked characteristics of a great deal of fiction about the negro produced in the past few years."

— + Sat R of Lit 6:58 Ag 17 '29 500w

SOHLMAN, RAGNAR, and SCHUCK, HENRIK. Nobel; dynamite and peace; tr. by Brian and Beatrix Lunn. 353p il $5 Cosmopolitan bk.

B or 92 Nobel, Alfred Bernhard. Nobel family. Nitroglycerin. Explosives. Nobel prizes 29-10674

"A curious dualism of personality is something that one might well expect to find running through a biography of the man who achieved permanent fame through concentration on two seemingly divergent interests: the invention of dynamite and the establishment of world peace. And such dualism dominates this volume."—N Y Times

Booklist 26:30 O '29

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p13 Je 16 '29 170w

Reviewed by Edmund Noble

Boston Transcript p5 Ap 27 '29 1900w

"The translators have performed a valuable service in rendering the Nobel history into English. In the historical and non-technical portions of the book the translation leaves nothing to be desired as regards accuracy or smoothness, but the same cannot be said of the technical portions. It is too bad that the book is marred by such glaring inaccuracies as tinplate for platinum foil, hour glass for watch glass, waters for hydrogen atoms, etc." E. M. Symmes

+ — Chem & Met Eng 36:365 Je '29 460w

Cleveland Open Shelf p123 S '29

"The book will prove extremely interesting to all readers, but particularly to those who have had contact with the industry of which Nobel was the founder. The authors are to be congratulated in bringing together material which could not be obtained in any other way and which could only be obtained in piecemeal from the literature of the past." C: L. Reese

+ Ind & Eng Chem 21:611 Je '29 400w

"Here is the immortal discoverer and manufacturer of dynamite, ballistite, and other vast explosives which have made war at last the most ghastly horror of the world, and at the same time a passionate lover of peace who glorified the cause by lifelong service and reward. . . The book has neither literary merit nor historical importance. Its chief value is to be found in its account of the world-famous will, and in its record in the appendices of Nobel's patents and of the Nobel Prize winners." J: H. Holmes

— + Nation 129:309 S 18 '29 250w

"Henrik Schück is the literary historian and Ragnar Sohlman is the specialist in engineering and law, and there seems to be no real fusion of their interests. And they, in turn, suffer slightly at the hands of their translators. Yet the net effect is a dynamic portrait of one of the dominating spirits of the world." A. L. Olson

+ — N Y Times p4 Je 2 '29 1050w

"The subject of this book is so interesting a one that even the dullest of biographical writing cannot spoil it. But one regrets that the task of writing the curious story of Alfred Nobel, who made dynamite and loved peace, should not have fallen to a writer more gifted, if not more accurate. . . The authors are conscientious but dull. Enigmatic to any one, to them Alfred Nobel seems to have been unfathomable, for no picture of him emerges from their pages." F. L. Robbins

+ — Outlook 152:26 My 1 '29 1250w

Pratt p35 autumn '29

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 79:14 Je '29 100w

St Louis 27:343 D '29

"Sympathetic insight and sincere research are key-notes of this biography which leaves the reader eager to learn yet more of the personality and aspirations, as well as the scientific knowledge, of this man who 'was never hardened by money or success or embittered by loneliness.'" A. R. Marble

+ Sat R of Lit 5:971 My 4 '29 700w

SOKOLOFF, BORIS. Crime of Dr Garine; with an introd. by Theodore Dreiser. 144p il $2.50 Covici

"A special interest is given to Dr. Sokoloff's little volume of short stories by the fact that he is introduced as a Russian émigré scientist of eminence now working as a guest of the Rockefeller Institute 'as endocrinologist and specialist in the research of cancer.' The various figures which appear [in the stories] so briefly, and in such an almost telegraphic style, are looked at as if they were laboratory specimens. What the author does, in effect, is to 'isolate,' as the saying goes, certain compelling instincts or emotions, plant them for the moment in bodily shape, and exhibit their action."—Sat R of Lit

"It is perhaps but fitting that never a gleam of anything resembling joy of life is permitted to penetrate the starkness. Mr. Dreiser is right in maintaining that the stories produce in the reader a strong emotional reaction."

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p30 Ap 14 '29 150w

— Boston Transcript p5 Ja 26 '29 280w

"These stories may be of great interest to those of philosophic or psychologic bent. To those whose bent is literary they are scarcely that, though it seems unfair to judge Dr. Sokoloff by such a slight performance. There is a disturbing absence of arresting phrase in the writing." Norah Meade

— New Repub 58:207 Ap 3 '29 450w

"Most of Dr. Sokoloff's stories are laid against the background of Russia during the first years of bolshevism; they picture this epoch accurately, in grim, joyless colors, without heightening. They may be best described as adventure stories with a psychological key. It is exactly in the adventure or narrative end where lies Dr. Sokoloff's strength; he develops his plots skillfully, though coldly, in a quick, energetic way. As to the psychology, it is often the weakest point of the stories."

+ — N Y Times p6 D 9 '28 570w

"Tales in the older Russian tradition, done with a good deal of power. The volume is attractively made." Herschel Brickell

+ No Am 227:adv F '29 60w

"The tales all have the merit of brevity and a certain unconventional strength, a touch unmistakably Russian. But they are too few, too much a collection of, so to say, dots and dashes, to serve as the measure of their author's possibilities in comparison with fuller and more finished work." Arthur Ruhl

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:458 D 8 '28 860w

SOROKIN, PITIRIM ALEKSANDROVICH, and ZIMMERMAN, CARLE CLARK. Principles of rural-urban sociology. (Am. social science ser.) 652p $4.50; student's ed $3.60 Holt

301 Sociology. Sociology, Rural. Country life. Vital statistics 29-19443

The book is in some degree a summary of a three-volume work to be entitled "Source book in rural sociology," to be published in 1930 or 1931. It is a study of rural-urban relationships and comparisons in such fields as standards of living, vital statistics, intelligence, family life, beliefs, art, politics, crime, intemperance, and co-operation. Contains statistics and author and subject indexes.

"Taken as a whole, this is about the best work that has appeared in the field. It is largely statistical, but the authors have adopted a method of bringing out their conclusions here and there in italicized sentences and paragraphs. I found myself wishing they had said something about the influence of roads on urban-rural relations; and little or nothing is said of the influence of such dynamics as the radio, chain stores, mail-order houses, etc. . . I feel that the authors did not strengthen their case by failing to recognize the so-called 'Chicago group' of sociologists. None of them is mentioned, but some have made valuable contributions in this field." Nels Anderson

SOROKIN, P. A., and ZIMMERMAN, C. C. —Continued

\+ — New Repub 60:328 N 6 '29 500w

"Students of sociology will find the book a stimulating and suggestive treatment of an important theme."

\+ N Y Times p13 S 1 '29 360w

SOULE, GEORGE HENRY. Useful art of economics. 250p $2 Macmillan

330 Economics. United States—Economic conditions 29-13836

Writing from the standpoint that economics is not a dismal science but a genial art, Mr Soule talks to the average citizen on economic conditions in the United States under such chapter headings as: A look at the national plant; Keeping the plant running steadily; Can the plant produce what we really want? What about the farmer? A word about international trade; Halfway to Utopia?

Bookm 70:vi S '29 230w

Reviewed by R. A. Brady

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 Je 30 '29 1300w

"A contributor not so much to economic theory as to the value of the theory in everyday living, Mr. Soule has done us a real service in putting into direct and interesting form facts which concern us all and about which we do too little consecutive and well balanced thinking." R. R. M.

\+ Boston Transcript p3 Jl 27 '29 400w

Reviewed by Day Monroe

J Home Econ 21:857 N '29 180w

"Though he does not attempt to give a systematic account of economic behavior, the book is not lackng in pattern. It is primarily a survey of the American economic plant, its functions, weaknesses, and the controls that might be applied; yet so closely related are economic analysis and economic history that one might call it a general introduction to economics. It brings together in readable compass many brilliant contributions to the study of modern economic life." J. A. Flexner

\+ Nation 129:636 N 27 '29 400w

"The book makes no pretensions to originality so far as throwing light in new places or offering new solutions to problems is concerned. Yet it is written in a style that is clear and interesting and that is free from technical language and abstractions. Best of all, it is concerned with facts rather than fictions." Horace Taylor

\+ N Y Evening Post p6m Jl 6 '29 750w

Reviewed by F. F. Kelly

\+ N Y Times p4 Jl 28 '29 1050w

Reviewed by E: T. Devine

Outlook 152:189 My 29 '29 240w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 80:24 Ag '29 50w

St Louis 27:330 D '29

"One judges that the author is here only sketching a larger book which he may propose later to present. Mr. Soule owes this to the many admirers of his scholarship, vision, and balance." Ordway Tead

Sat R of Lit 6:338 N 2 '29 250w

"Stimulating and entertaining. It is a book of remedies for present ills, not reasons why present ills cannot be corrected."

\+ Springf'd Republican p6 N 25 '29 300w

"This stimulating book embodies a winning demonstration of the methods of work which it advocates—cool, experimental search for the most effective tools of control. The author is known as a liberal more than as an economist, and it would not be surprising had he become emotional as he mentioned causes which liberals hold dear. Not so. His free thinking has carried him far beyond emotionalism, it has enabled him with admirable circumspection to analyze for his readers the realism of our present economic state." Cedric Long

\+ Survey 63:105 O '29 260w

Times [London] Lit Sup p795 O 10 '29 130w

World Tomorrow 13:42 Ja '30 70w

SOUPAULT, PHILIPPE. Last nights of Paris; tr. from the French by William Carlos Williams. (Transaltantic lib.) 230p $2.50 Macaulay 29-18330

Parisian night-life—that mysterious underworld life with its cheap cafés, narrow cobbled streets, and dark hotels that are the meeting places of strange characters—is the background of this novel. There we meet Georgette of the night, whose route is a shadowy course from one hotel to another; her brother Octave and his strange mania; a sailor who is a murderer; and the mysterious Volpe, who holds control over the secret lives of these people.

"Last Nights of Paris is the story of the mystery of a great city. M. Soupault has written charmingly on his themes of chance and strangeness: he strives, as Kenneth Burke says of writers in general, in order that the reader may relax. His story glides through the mind like a dream, facile, astonishing, strange, and like a dream it vanishes, leaving behind a pleasant after-taste of having adventured in Paris."

\+ Bookm 70:xxxi O '29 180w

"One of the most enthralling and uncanny mystery stories ever written. In 'Last Nights of Paris' a world palpitates—an autonomous and singular world, as impossible to summarize as the 'story' of our own cosmos. Only that Soupault's is more beautiful than ours because it is so dehumanized, so triumphantly absurd." A. Flores

\+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p42 S 29 '29 500w

"The plot is as dim and evanescent as the sunrise he describes so often. But the charm of the style overcomes the structural defects and the atmosphere is as well done as it is repellant."

\+ — Boston Transcript p2 O 9 '29 400w

"It is to be hoped that American readers will not let themselves be prejudiced against the book by the foreword. M. Soupault has no American followers unless it be Robert Coates, the author of 'The Eater of Darkness,' but he belongs to a school of writing which includes both Paul Morand and Jean Giraudoux, Virginia Woolf and Julia Peterkin. The translation is faithful and understandingly done."

\+ Nation 129:638 N 27 '29 200w

"Philippe Soupault, poet and storm center of the Dada movement, has given us a novel of extraordinary power and fascination. Although he may not be directly concerned with the fortunes of the Surréalistes, now active in Paris, this novel is an excellent example of the potentialities of the group. . . William Carlos Williams has effected an admirabe translation of Soupault's prose, displaying to its full advantage the alternation of calm realism and brilliant poetic intensity at work throughout the progress of the narrative." H. G.

\+ New Repub 60:382 N 20 '29 250w

"The present volume is an incomplete success. In 'The Last Nights of Paris' M. Soupault is, of course, supple and slithery, yet for all his interesting acrobatics, his adroit sleight-of-hand, one feels that the act doesn't quite come off. This tale of underworld Paris is a free fantasia in, let us say, the post Joycean manner. The book is fairly amusing; our respect for M. Soupault as a poet does not inspire us, however, with warmer praise than that." Pierre Loving

— \+ N Y Evening Post p11m O 12 '29 450w

"A mystery, but it is not the usual type of mystery; it is literature and it propounds a profounder theme than any mystery for the sake of the mystery. Indeed, a sort of Spenglerian pessimistic philosophy impregnates the theme."

+ N Y Times p7 O 27 '29 500w

Reviewed by C. H. Grattan
N Y World p11m N 17 '29 150w

SOUPAULT, PHILIPPE. William Blake; tr. by J. Lewis May. (Masters of modern art) 61p, 40pl $2 Dodd [5s Lane]

759.2 Blake, William 28-26706

"In M. Soupault's book, Blake is given a seat on the dais with Gauguin, Cezanne, and other Masters of Modern Art. Here, of course, the author is concerned with the artist rather than with the poet." (Nation and Ath) With forty plates illustrating Blake's work as artist.

Booklist 25:63 N '28

"The present monograph is not the first French tribute to his art, but it is, by all odds, the best. It is indeed, in its general good sense and its freedom from esoteric speculations, superior to the more extensive English criticisms."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Mr 3 '29 100w

Reviewed by D. M. Stuart
Nation and Ath 43:825 S 29 '28 180w

Pratt p22 summer '29

Reviewed by Evelyn Underhill
Spec 141:sup533 O 20 '28 200w

"The account of Blake's life contains so many inaccuracies that it is charitable to suppose M. Soupault found some difficulty in reading his English authorities. His appreciation of Blake's art is sympathetic, but if it was worth while to present the book to English readers, who have Laurence Binyon's two large works, that of the late Darrell Figgis and Ernest Short's study, a better translation should have been made. . . The illustrations are badly produced and might have been better selected."

— Times [London] Lit Sup p668 S 20 '28 100w

SOUTHCOTE, GEORGE, pseud. See Aston, G: G.

SOVIET UNION INFORMATION BUREAU, WASHINGTON, D.C. Soviet union; facts, descriptions, statistics. 288p $1.50 The bureau

914.7 Russia—Politics and government. Russia—Economic conditions. Union of soviet socialist republics 29-7858

Official information on the government of the Union of soviet socialist republics, its relation with foreign governments, its industrial, agricultural and educational status. There are maps, a chronicle of events covering the years 1917-1928, and a guide to books and pamphlets about Russia written in English.

Booklist 26:14 O '29

Bookm 69:xii Ag '29 80w

Reviewed by R. L. Buell
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 N 3 '29 320w

"If the facts in this compact little volume are correct, and we can only assume that they are, it becomes at once an indispensable handbook of Russia for all who wish to write about the most interesting experiment in the world, or to do business with it, or to travel within the confines of the Soviets. The figures are based on official statistics and are up-to-date."

+ Nation 128:539 My 1 '29 100w

Nation 129:698 D 4 '29 80w

"The papers included are among the most informative, simple and important literature available on post-revolutionary Russian history. The most valuable of them for the present purpose are those having to do with the peace of Brest-Litovsk and the Allied-American occupation of Soviet territory during 1917-1919, and the Litvinov proposal for complete disarmament in 1927." M. P. Levy

+ New Repub 61:121 D 18 '29 220w

SPAETH, SIGMUND GOTTFRIED. They still sing of love. 234p $2 Liveright

780.4 Music—Addresses, essays, lectures. Songs. Jazz

Essays on the nature and history of modern popular songs, "barber shop balladry," etc., followed by a few short features on subjects pertaining to musical careers, and concluding with a more serious section of musical criticism on such topics as: Jassmania: a musical analysis; How good is primitive music? Our new folk music; Symphonies for business men.

Booklist 26:109 D '29

"Even in his most earnest moments, the good humor and unquenchable zest of the writer bubble over into his message. He is equally adroit in discussing barbershop balladry or folk music, jazz or music critics, local talent or symphonies for the business man."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 D 15 '29 150w

"Anyone with even the slightest interest in music will find Mr. Spaeth's book fascinating reading, and people whose interest is professional will find there food for thought."

+ Boston Transcript p4 S 28 '29 280w

Cleveland Open Shelf p153 D '29

"Possibly the present volume is not designed for the musically elect. But whatever the intrinsic literary worth of this rather spasmodic grouping of various skits, papers and essays, Dr. Spaeth's book is a typical and timely phenomenon of the chaotic music world in which we live." Hollister Noble

+ N Y Times p10 N 3 '29 600w

"Mr Spaeth has produced an amusing hodgepodge of musical history and instruction. If he now and then chastens manners with a guffaw rather than a smile, that is quite in the spirit of the age. Ultimately he distils common sense."

+ — Springf'd Republican p6 S 7 '29 800w

SPEIGHT, HAROLD EDWIN BALME. Life and writings of John Bunyan; with an introd. by Francis Greenwood Peabody. 224p $2 Harper

B or 92 Bunyan, John 28-28546

This life of Bunyan by the professor of philosophy and professor-elect of biography, Dartmouth college, is an analysis of his character and the forces which moulded it, and of his writings, not only Pilgrim's Progress, but of his other works as well. Illustrated from contemporary prints.

Booklist 25:212 F '29

"This biography is simple, unpretending and dignified; and the fact that it was chosen by 'The Religious Book Club' for their monthly offering should not be taken to indicate that it is, like so much of Bunyan literature, overpietistic in tone."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 F 24 '29 230w

Boston Transcript p2 D 15 '28 620w

"There is no better introduction to the writings and the personality of the great puritan who, with no training in the art of writing, produced a classic which even those who do not care for its message read with joy for its style, and those who are insensitive to the merits of style read with equal joy for the moral vigor of its contents and its tonic effect upon religious faith." W. E. G.

+ Christian Century 46:22 Ja 3 '29 120w

"Professor Speight has done credit to Dartmouth College and its Puritan traditions in writing this admirable book on the life and writings of John Bunyan."

+ Churchman p28 Ap 27 '29 100w

"A well-written biography of the inspired tinker, marked by illuminating quotation chiefly of Bunyan's own writings. The chief works are outlined, with useful interpretation."

+ J Religion 9:330 Ap '29 100w

"Mr. Speight is sympathetic and consults his documents at every step." K. A. Porter

+ N Y Evening Post p9m D 29 '28 270w

SPEIGHT, H. E. B.—Continued

"This book can stand solidly on the value of the new material it presents and of its original interpretation of Bunyan's writings and his relation to and influence on great religious movements which have left their mark on the development of civilization."

+ N Y Times p17 D 30 '28 320w

Wis Lib Bul 24:345 D '28

SPELLER, JANE, and SPELLER, ROBERT. Adam's first wife. 243p $2.50 Macaulay

29-15481

Lilith's own story of her life, told in the manner of John Erskine's "Helen of Troy." Prior to her marriage with Admu I (the original name of Adam) Lilith had vamped her way into the heart of the high priest in Appad, and succeeded by stealth in partaking of the sacred fungi, which assured prolonged life to all who ate of it. But since it also rendered the hard-boiled Lilith incapable of presenting her husband heirs, Admu wandered from his kingdom, found Eve, and with his progeny founded a new race of men on earth.

---

"By taking a certain amount of astrology, and a certain amount of satire, and a certain amount of sex, the authors have brewed a fantastic tale which is several degrees less entertaining than its ingredients would lead one to suppose. There may be several explanations of this regrettable fact, but the most likely one is that the novel lacks subtlety. The plot is unfolded with very little finesse, and the attempt to mirror the modern point of view in the manner of John Erskine fails to come off."

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 O 27 '29 150w

N Y Times p34 O 27 '29 270w

"All this is told in sophisticated, worldly, rather solemn fashion, Lilith infusing into it a vague semblance of modernity."

Sat R of Lit 6:218 O 5 '29 200w

"The story might be far more entertaining and enjoyable if it had a background richer in erudition or in the author's fancy. Adam is seldom diverting, and the humor of the work is forced."

— Springf'd Republican p7e O 20 '29 100w

SPENCE, LEWIS. Mysteries of Britain; or, The secret rites and traditions of ancient Britain restored. 256p il $3.50 McKay

299.16 Mysteries, Religious. Druids and druidism. Bards and bardism. Mythology, Celtic

[29-25593]

"In this volume is revealed the former existence within the British Islands of a very ancient native mystical tradition, the fragments and memories of which still exist in considerable abundance, and prove that Britain was regarded by nations of antiquity as a sacred island, the home and nucleus of a faith and an occult tradition regarded with peculiar sanctity on the Continent."—Publisher's note

---

"The light that shines from the Barddas and the Welsh legends for all Mr. Spence's enthusiasm, is hid under a bushel for all who are not to the manner born. And even those who have leanings toward mysticism, even if they are patriotic Englishmen, will probably continue to prefer the Rig Veda and the Egyptian Book of the Dead." Ruth Benedict

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p24 O 13 '29 500w

Boston Transcript p3 My 25 '29 700w

"He makes out a very interesting case for the centrality of Ancient Britain as a school of initiation; but his patriotism is over-pronounced and he hardly observes that even in interpreting the religious traditions of Britain itself he has to call in Egypt and Babylon to explain them."

— + Spec 142:136 Ja 26 '29 100w

SPENDER, JOHN ALFRED. Through English eyes (Eng title America of today). 324p $2.50 Stokes [12s 6d Benn]

917.3 United States—Social conditions. United States—Description and travel. United States—Politics and government. United States—Foreign relations 28-29974

The English and the American titles taken together—the America of today through English eyes—exactly describe the book. Following his second and recent visit to the United States Mr Spender, long editor of the Westminster Gazette, writes this book of contrasts, describing American life, interests and activities against the background of his own experience of their English counterparts.

---

Booklist 25:245 Mr '29

"The eminent Liberal British editor mixes shrewd observation with good British myopia. He liked Americans, and his book must help Englishmen to understand America. It should also help Americans to understand the Englishman."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Ja 27 '29 180w

"He sees America in a fair and honestly critical aspect. His judgments are keen, clear-cut and always friendly. Dispassionate critic, he yet writes in a vein that has for its first ambition the better understanding of each nation for the other. . . Mr. Spender is not just a newspaperman covering an assignment, but rather a good reporter doing his work exceptionally well."

+ Boston Transcript p4 D 19 '28 230w

Cleveland Open Shelf p70 My '29

"Mr. Spender is a perfect type of the English Liberal, the English journalist, the English gentleman. His book on America is friendly, balanced, dispassionate, and wisely observant. He is eager to applaud but not afraid to blame." Freda Kirchwey

+ Nation 128:19 Ja 2 '29 800w

"It is when he abandons the rôle of diarist for that of leader-writer that Mr. Spender becomes his old familiar self at his most helpful. If more people would visit the United States with Mr. Spender, there would be far less nonsense talked about them." Philip Guedalla

+ Nation and Ath 44:465 D 29 '28 1100w

N Y Times p16 F 3 '29 580w

Pittsburgh Mo Bul 34:15 F '29

St Louis 27:167 My '29

"Mr. Spender has written the best book about the United States which we have read for a very long time. We expected something more than the fleeting impressions of a great journalist, and Mr. Spender has not disappointed us."

Spec 141:739 N 17 '28 980w

Wis Lib Bul 25:101 Mr '29

SPENGLER, OSWALD. Decline of the West; perspectives of world-history; auth. tr. with notes by Charles Francis Atkinson. 2v v 2 539p $7.50 set $13.50 Knopf

901 Civilization—History. History—Philosophy (26-9486)

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

"Spengler has an original and fruitful mind, with a profound insight which penetrates to unfathomed depths of meaning in social phenomena and pours out a flood of new suggestions concerning their relations. He proceeds always with a powerful sweep of thought and an all-inclusive grasp of facts which mark the giant intellect, a coördinating and synthetic mind of the highest order. . . Mr. Atkinson has done the work of translation with noteworthy talent, knowledge, and patience, and deserves the praise and gratitude of American and English scholars." E. E. Sperry

+ Am Hist R 34:556 Ap '29 1350w

"There can be little doubt that Spengler's work will stand as one of the most daring and stimulating excursions into the field of social critique and the philosophy of history. It is particularly fortunate for the English reader that a book of such importance should have been so competently translated." W. L. L.

+ Am Pol Sci R 23:236 F '29 260w

"It is full of brilliant aperçus and quotable phrases, and although fairly 'heavy' is well adapted to the type of intelligence the various 'Outlines' and 'Stories' have nurtured. This does not mean that the serious student need not read the book—quite the contrary. He must read it, for upon him will devolve the duty of pricking the idealogical bubbles it will certainly produce. And in addition there are many worth-while passages—insights which have value altogether apart from the arbitrary system into which they are jammed." H. P. Becker

+ — Ann Am Acad 142:458 Mr '29 530w

Booklist 25:157 Ja '29

"This is more interesting than the first volume, for it is more historical and less wildly speculative, but it does not add anything material to Spengler's main thesis by which he must stand or fall. It shows him to be a man of immense historical erudition and brilliant historical imagination, both of which qualities or gifts he ultimately misuses in the most perverse and irritating manner." Leonard Woolf

+ — Nation and Ath 44:722 F 23 '29 1150w

"Whether or no the reader can accept everything that he finds here will make little difference to the fascination that the book will exercise upon him. Whatever else he may or may not be, Spengler is never dull: his generalisations, his handling of facts—many of them as unfamiliar as they are interesting—his aperçus, make his pages almost as entrancing, at least for the moment, as Gibbon's."

+ Nature 124:174 Ag 3 '29 170w

"There has been no one, with the exception of Geddes, who has anything like Spengler's comprehensive culture and fertile insights; no one who has seen so profoundly that history deals with landscapes and cities and forms of thought, as well as people and institutions and 'events.' The world will be altered by the presence of this book. This will be at once a refutation of Spengler's major error and a vindication of his equally great truths. Spengler has started a new strain of histories." L: Mumford

+ New Repub 58:sup140 Mr 20 '29 1600w

"A reader who distrusts his own ideas and seeks to jolt his conceptions of history with the object of thus engendering fresher coruscations in his spirit could do no better than take a plunge in this most stimulating of books." Alphonse Tonietti

+ N Y World p10m F 3 '29 760w

St Louis 27:62 F '29

"Spengler's mode of expression is an inheritance from Nietzsche, and has the convincing qualities of dogmatic enunciation and persistent reiteration. His ideas are an unexpected commingling of world-old analogies and up-to-date conclusions in art, logic, and science, precariously formulated and enveloped in an atmosphere of the portentous. Nevertheless his work does represent an effort which is original, and for that reason demands attention." F: J. Teggart

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:597 Ja 19 '29 3000w

"One has the sensation of ascending a lofty tower from which all the kingdoms of history are seen, and, becoming visible, become also intelligible. The process is an exhilarating one, and the impressionable reader is apt to lose his head. For Spengler's work, impressive as it undoubtedly is, suffers from two defects. The first is inaccuracy. . . The second defect is obscurity. . . I cannot avoid the suspicion that factual inaccuracies, tricks of reasoning and an obscurity which at times seems almost deliberate, have played no small part in building up the impressive structure of Spengler's world history. It may well be that without them it would fall to the ground." C. E. M. Joad

— + Spec 142:54 Ja 12 '29 800w

Reviewed by W. B. Abbott

Yale R n s 18:805 summer '29 530w

SPERRY, WILLARD LEAROYD. Signs of these times; the Ayer lectures of the Colgate-Rochester divinity school for 1929. 179p $2 Doubleday, Doran

230 Theology. Christianity 29-21277

Six theological lectures by the dean of the Theological school at Harvard university, delivered at the Colgate-Rochester divinity school under the Ayer foundation. These lectures form a discussion of religion in present-day America.

"The analysis is discriminating. The world is suffering from half-truths. 'Either—or' theories are flatly rejected. 'Both—and' solutions are proposed for each problem in turn. . . The style is charming and at times fascinating. . . As a homiletical source book, 'Signs of These Times' will find its way into the library of the minister who has not lost all intellectual curiosity." C. H: Moehlman

+ Christian Century 46:1279 O 16 '29 700w

"These lectures present the religious attitudes which we see in our era, and evaluate our present day religious tendencies. They are to be commended both for their content and their style. They are genuinely helpful, especially the last two which deal with Humanism and Mysticism." E. B. Chaffee

+ Outlook 153:271 O 16 '29 150w

SPEWACK, SAMUEL (A. A. ABBOTT, pseud.). Murder in the Gilded cage. 251p $2 Simon & Schuster

29-20440

"The publishers call this a 'keyed mystery.' Inserted between two pages of the book is a bookmark shaped like a key, and we are told that within ten pages of that place will be found the clue which will lead to the solution of the mystery. The murder with which the story deals is a peculiarly ingenious one, and it gives the Russian detective, Boris Sergeivitch Perutkin, an opportunity to prove that he is really as clever as he claims to be. Although the detective is a Russian, most of the other characters are Americans, and the scene of the story is laid in Havana."—N Y Times

"A plausible yarn, packed with excitement and rich in colorful description."

+ Bookm 70:xxxiv N '29 70w

"With expensive settings on land and sea, a subsidiary murder, a midnight funeral and an ingenious denouement." Will Cuppy

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 O 13 '29 130w

"The idea may appeal to those who like to play detective and try to beat the author's pet sleuth to the solution. In this case the 'clue' found near the place marked by the key might be described as a hint. It directs suspicion toward the right quarter, but it does not give information which will enable one to make out a case against the person suspected."

N Y Times p40 N 17 '29 200w

SPEWACK, SAMUEL (A. A. ABBOTT, pseud.). Skyscraper murder. 279p $2 Macaulay

28-14550

Sewell, a man of many affairs with women, is the cause of the Edison divorce, and when the old roué is found dead in his apartment the ex-husband and wife are questioned and a search for three women friends of Sewell is begun. The case turns on the theft of a Romanoff jewel stolen by Sewell himself in Russia and now missing from his safe. An amateur investigator finds a clue, follows it to Paris, and gets his man.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Jl 1 '28 60w

"The situation around which the story is built is highly improbable, not to say impossible, but Mr. Spewack has so managed that this does not become evident until the final chapter."

N Y Times p16 Jl 15 '28 230w

SPEYER, WILHELM. Galahads and pussy-cats; tr. by Margaret Juers. 224p il $2.50 J. Cape & H. Smith

29-23364

A German school story. "The plot is inspired by an ideal of universal appeal—that of kindness to animals. The Galahads are members of the Sophomore class, who, hearing from the keeper of the Zoo in a neighboring town that the Pussy-cats are being cruelly treated, form a plan to rescue them and do so. One's interest in their mode of procedure never lags as these knight errants carry out their strategy." (Sat R of Lit)

---

"The translation, though it gives English-speaking readers a good story and reflects the distinguished and easy literary style, is not entirely satisfactory because the robust humor of the original is really untranslatable. In fact, the feeling of the whole book is so essentially German, despite its universal appeal, and the reactions and the psychology so typical that translation must have been more than ordinarily difficult. It is on the whole doubtless as good a piece of work as could have been done with what is almost invariably a thankless and difficult task." S. L. Goldsmith

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p6 D 29 '29 1450w

"The delicious humor of the book is the result not only of native wit but of an unusually fine perspective, and the literary style is a thing to be grateful for."

+ Nation 129:598 N 20 '29 150w

"It is in every way a fine piece of work, and those who can overcome the effect of utter improbability, which the strange and incomprehensible customs of present-day school life in Germany, as here set forth, are bound to produce, will doubtless read it with much pleasure." A. H. Bill

+ N Y Evening Post p14m N 16 '29 150w

"Although the subject and title indicate a book for little children, it is most decidedly for older readers. It should be emphasized in any review of the book, for the cruelties depicted are such as would upset little children. Older readers, it is to hoped (as was the case with the young people of the book), will find their humanitarianism and chivalry aroused." M. G. Bonner

+ N Y Times p26 D 15 '29 120w

"The school spirit and the character of the boys are finely realized, but I wish he had left out the description of how the cats would have been beaten to death in sacks if the crusade had not been successful: it would make some children somewhat sick and could have been taken for granted without injuring the admirable story." M. L. Becker

+ — Outlook 153:590 D 11 '29 100w

"This story of life in a German boarding-school has been called 'the best juvenile published in Germany within the last generation.' The author, a young school teacher, writes from experience and understands his subject and its psychology extraordinarily well. The illustrations are insipid and anemic, but the book is well printed in excellent taste." A. L. Haight

+ Sat R of Lit 6:536 D 7 '29 280w

SPINOZA, BENEDICTUS DE. Correspondence of Spinoza; tr. and ed. with introd. and annot. by A. Wolf. 502p il $5 Dial press [15s Allen & U.]

B or 92 [28-20659]

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Boston Transcript p5 N 3 '28 840w

"This edition of Spinoza's Correspondence has such a full and lucid Introduction and such adequate and valuable Annotations that it amounts to a new exposition of Spinoza's life and times." Padraic Colum

+ Dial 86:142 F '29 1550w

"A better picture of the philosopher's mind off duty, as it were, than has been available in English before is here presented. The volume is very attractively done." T. V. S.

+ Int J Ethics 39:511 Jl '29 60w

"The complete translation places at the disposition of readers to whom the Latin had been closed materials of considerable philosophic importance. . . The regrettable introduction of partisanship and modernization does not detract from the value of the work as a whole. English readers who would understand the philosophy of Spinoza must be very much indebted to Professor Wolf." R: McKeon

+ — J Philos 26:80 Ja 31 '29 1050w

Reviewed by Eliseo Vivas

Nation 128:234 F 20 '29 40w

"For the production of the book, and for Prof. Wolf's work as translator and editor, we have nothing but praise. We know of none else who combines technical philosophical skill with knowledge of the history and spirit of science in a sufficient degree to undertake successfully a task like this, which is beyond the scope of the specialised philosophy of the present day. We are furnished with an admirable introduction, comprising a sketch of the scientific background of the correspondence and biographical details of the chief personages concerned, some tolerably obscure; with comprehensive and illuminating notes, such as only a profound student of Spinoza and of the period could write, and an excellent index." E. N. da C. A.

+ Nature 124:787 N 23 '29 950w

"The letters which the solitary philosopher of the Hague exchanged with his various correspondents are of interest from several angles. Not only do they offer the student what the translator calls a more homely and less formidable approach to Spinoza's doctrine, but they constitute the nearest thing to an intellectual biography of the great philosopher." B: Ginzburg

+ New Repub 57:147 D 19 '28 700w

St Louis 27:123 Ap '29

SPITTELER, CARL. Selected poems; tr. by Ethel Colburn Mayne and James F. Muirhead. 251p $2.50 Macmillan

831 28-28874

A selection from the poems of the Swiss poet who received the Nobel prize for literature in 1919. The poems have been translated by Ethel Colburn Mayne and James F. Muirhead.

---

Booklist 25:204 F '29

"Most of [the poems] were written from thirty to fifty years ago. They range from the humorous lyric to fragments of epics. The spirit of German poetry at its most sentimental, didactic and discursive informs the volume. It is a spirit alien to this age, and the translations are not warranted to attract the reader to verse that can best be described as well-meaning but dowdy."

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Ja 6 '29 80w

Boston Transcript p2 D 5 '28 350w

Christian Century 46:920 Jl 17 '29 70w

"In his lyrical work Spitteler was a minor Heine; in his epics, one of which won the Nobel Prize, he blew faintly on the dying embers of classical romances; in the original German he is barely worth reading as a pleasant curiosity. But in English there is the mournful fact that though Mr. Muirhead has rendered him ably and truly, Miss Mayne, who has done most of the translating, mangles him beyond recognition."

— Nation 128:166 F 6 '29 80w

"He writes with a lightness and adult innocence that is best appreciated in bulk."

+ Nation and Ath 45:20 Ap 6 '29 270w

"On the whole one is slightly disappointed, not with the translators, but with Spitteler himself. Several of his poems are sententious anecdotes, which often fall painfully flat. . . Spitteler is what Niebuhr perversely called Virgil, a lyric poet who has mistaken his vocation."

+ — New Statesman 32:738 Mr 16 '29 400w

"Rereading Spitteler's work in the original one is impressed chiefly with his windiness, his vatic gestures, his magniloquences. Aside from a few ballads, his verse is largely and loosely mystical in the worst German tradition. The translations are what one might have expected. . . This volume omits any considerable section of 'Prometheus und Epimetheus,' or 'Prometheus der Dulder' ('Prometheus the Long-Suffering'), which, with the epical 'Olympian Spring,' constitute Spitteler's claim to prominence." L: Untermeyer
— Sat R of Lit 5:808 Mr 23 '29 350w

"The two translators, having approached their work with sincerity and sympathy, have carried it through valiantly. Novel features are the identification of each translation by the initials attached to every poem and the double translation of several, whereby the reader may compare the individual acumen of each."
+ Springf'd Republican p6 Jl 29 '29 400w

"In none of the four lyrics can we detect the mellow phrase of one who is lavish of beauty out of assured possession. Unfortunately, the considerable fragments which his translators offer us as samples of his epic work are inconclusive too. . . The bulk of the present selection is composed of translations of short ballads or romances inspired in the main by the conception of poetry as 'a criticism of life,' and, as generally happens when that conception is consciously utilized, apt to come upon their moral a little glibly and to reveal by the way something of sentimental presumption or cynical withdrawal."
— + Times [London] Lit Sup p450 Je 6 '29 730w

SPLAWN, WALTER MARSHALL WILLIAM. Government ownership and operation of railroads. 478p $5 Macmillan

385 Railroads and state 28-28991

A study of the railway systems of the world with an unfavorable verdict on government ownership and operation. With maps and statistical tables.

---

Reviewed by W: J. Cunningham
Am Hist R 34:660 Ap '29 380w

Reviewed by C. E. McNeill
Am Pol Sci R 23:1049 N '29 450w

Reviewed by G. L. Wilson
Ann Am Acad 146:278 N '29 500w

Booklist 25:234 Mr '29

"The book is chiefly valuable for its description of the status of government ownership and operation in the countries abroad. In most cases, unfortunately, no sufficient analysis of the economic situation is given to warrant one in drawing any final conclusions regarding the relative advantage of public versus private ownership in the countries described." Harry Laidler
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Mr 17 '29 300w

Boston Transcript p3 Ja 2 '29 350w

"A work that can be read with profit by all students of railroad problems." H. W. Peck
+ J Pol Econ 37:630 O '29 550w

"Professor Splawn has put together a more or less encyclopedic lot of facts about railroads all over the world which show, in his opinion, how bad and expensive government operation is. He fears that demagogues may one of these fine days mislead an annoyed and impatient American people into government ownership and operation. In the present state of public opinion, this solicitude is really touching." H: R. Mussey
— Nation 128:85 Ja 16 '29 70w

Pratt p12 summer '29

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 79:22 Mr '29 120w

"Prof Splawn's book hardly rises above the level of propaganda."
— Springf'd Republican p6 Mr 4 '29 250w

Times [London] Lit Sup p462 Je 13 '29 1300w

Wis Lib Bul 25:26 Ja '29

"A scholarly and fair-minded history of government ownership in all parts of the world."
+ World Tomorrow 12:475 N '29 40w

SPRAGUE, JESSE RAINSFORD. Middleman. 267p $2 Morrow

658.86 Business. Jobbers 29-10137

"The history of the middleman, the wholesale jobber, is told by the fictitious character John Draper, who commences his business career at a salary of $5 a week in a retail hardware store in Statesburg and rises to the presidency of the Empire Wholesale Company, hardware middleman for the district between the Eastern coast and Chicago. The inception of wholesale business is described and the competition of co-operative buying and direct selling from manufacturer to retailer."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

Booklist 26:34 O '29

"In a leisurely narrative style, Mr. Sprague once more examines American business practice in 'The Middleman,' making of his exposition both a primer in business philosophy and a compendium of practical economics. . . Mr. Sprague has succeeded, however, in making his narrative close knit and continuous and in reflecting the revolutionary changes in our economic life in terms always intelligible to the layman in business."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Je 2 '29 300w

Wis Lib Bul 25:192 Je '29

SPRING RICE, SIR CECIL ARTHUR. Letters and friendships; a record; ed. by Stephen Gwynn. 2v 504;462p $10 Houghton [30s Constable]

B or 92

Sir Cecil Spring Rice, whose life was spent in the British diplomatic service, began and ended his diplomatic career in Washington. During the years intervening between 1887 and 1912 he served in Berlin and St Petersburg, Tokio, Teheran, Cairo and Stockholm. President Wilson was just taking office when Spring Rice became British ambassador in 1912 and the greater part of the second volume is taken up with the wartime letters from Washington. His sympathies during this critical time are indicated by the fact that his warmest friends were Roosevelt and Henry Cabot Lodge, with their families.

---

Reviewed by H: C. Lodge
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 N 24 '29 2500w

"In vivacity and controversial appeal Spring-Rice was fully Page's equal. This book may be no help to Spring-Rice's reputation, but it is none the less intensely interesting on that account. For Spring-Rice's affiliation with the Republican party there may have been some reason while that party was in power. But with the election of Woodrow Wilson it became a deadly disqualification. Spring-Rice was the personal envoy of King George to the President of the United States and if it would be disloyal for King George to intrigue with the party in opposition to his government, much more improper was it for the Ambassador to intrigue with the opposition to the President. . . The mischief was incalculable." P. W. Wilson
Current Hist 31:419 D '29 1870w

Nation and Ath 46:288 N 23 '29 900w

"Roosevelt and John Hay, Henry Adams, the historian, and Senator Lodge, with their womenkind, made the centre of his life in America. He knew them in their city homes and their country retreats; he played with their children; he exercised on their behalf his celebrated talent for turning out doggerel verse by the yard; he wrote to them affectionately, if irregularly, at all times. His letters testify to a delightful relationship, and from beginning to end Spring

SPRING RICE, C. A.—Continued
Rice shows himself to have been wholly uncritical of the political character of his Republican friends. He does not appear to have had any notion of the bitter reactionism of Senator Lodge, and he accepted without any reserves the popular legend of Roosevelt." S. K. R.

New Statesman 34:57 O 19 '29 1300w

"It is no exaggeration to describe 'The Letters and Friendships of Sir Cecil Spring Rice,' as one of the most important books of the year. Important books, however, are sometimes deadly dull; and one must instantly add that in spite of their historical value as a source book for the inner diplomatic history of the last thirty years or more, the Spring Rice letters are as agreeable reading as any recent book of the sort, the sole exceptions being perhaps the Page letters or the Intimate Papers of Colonel House." J: Bakeless

+ N Y Evening Post p10m D 7 '29 1000w

Reviewed by W: MacDonald
N Y Times p10 N 17 '29 2000w

Reviewed by C. H. Grattan
N Y World p10m Ja 5 '30 950w

"It was inevitable that the letters of Sir Cecil Spring Rice, British Ambassador to the United States during the World War, would be published. Their historical importance, the light to be thrown by them on world affairs, demanded it. The present volumes would have been eagerly read had they been merely dull, official documents. Their literary, that is to say their entertainment value, would have been secondary." H: F. Pringle

+ Outlook 153:508 N 27 '29 1400w

Reviewed by J: Carter
Outlook 154:72 Ja 8 '30 140w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 80:19 D '29 230w

"Mingling light tales of the diplomatic world with weighty comments on the course of world politics, Spring Rice went through his career. His name will not live in diplomacy, but his letters are likely to survive for long." J. W. T. Mason

+ Sat R of Lit 6:469 N 30 '29 2900w

"The editing by Mr. Stephen Gwynn is brilliant. Every letter seems to have been put in its right place; there is no check in an orderly sequence of events; and Mr. Gwynn has played the part of expositor admirably. He never says too little or too much; he has combined clearness with extreme lucidity. Finally, when he offers his own comment it strikes us as invariably just, because his judgment can always be verified from the letters themselves. Spring Rice stands out as a remarkably accomplished and attractive man, and this result is attained without any suppressions or exaggerations."

+ Spec 143:497 O 12 '29 1100w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 10 '29 1000w

"Spring Rice's letters cover as wide a field as the catholicity of his tastes and interests. He had the soul of a poet, warm family affections and a keen appreciation of nature, besides the knowledge of history and the acute powers of observation which made him so far-sighted a diplomatist."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p753 O 3 '29 3800w

SPURR, HARRY A. Life and writings of Alexandre Dumas. new ed 321p il $3 Dutton [7s 6d Dent]

B or 92 Dumas, Alexandre

A friendly and uncritical biography by a Dumas admirer, originally written in honor of the Dumas centenary of 1902, and re-edited by Mrs Spurr.

"Here is the case for and against him, very fairly presented considering the partiality of those presenting it. If you enjoy D'Artagnan, you'll probably enjoy his creator as seen through the eyes of the Spurrs."

+ Bookm 69:iv Ag '29 180w

"The book is written with sobriety and judgment. It chronicles the facts, which are interesting in themselves, with such accuracy as is attainable."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p959 N 21 '29 750w

SQUIRE, JOHN COLLINGS, comp. Apes and parrots; an anthology of parodies. 309p $2.50 Washburn & Thomas [6s Jenkins]

827 Parodies [29-10402]

"An entertaining anthology of parodies in verse and prose, containing old favorites by Coleridge, Charles Godfrey Leland, Calverley, Lewis Carroll, W. S. Gilbert, Swinburne, H. C. Bunner and Quiller-Couch, and many less well known pieces by writers of fame or modest reputation."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

Reviewed by B. R. Redman
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 N 3 '29 120w

"We can rely on Mr. Squire to bring forward something little known but of genuine merit in any anthologistic theme, and in his pocket-book of parodies there are many which would keep even an enthusiast searching for a long time. . . . A quick reckoning of the victims indicates that Wordsworth, Tennyson, Browning, and Mr. Masefield are among the most parodiable poets. But the prose-writers also come on the stage, in Mr. Squire's book, and wit and harmony go round." E. B.

+ Nation and Ath 44:469 D 29 '28 120w

N Y Evening Post p12m N 23 '29 250w

"Mr. Squire's anthology is without doubt the best and completest of its kind that has yet appeared."

+ Sat R 147:19 Ja 5 '29 450w

"Parodies are apt to be distressingly dull when topical interest has vanished; this is a fault which Mr. Squire's selection entirely escapes. Many of the most famous parodies are here; but the scope of the volume is enlarged to include a few prose parodies and several parodies of writers of our own generation."

+ Spec 142:136 Ja 26 '29 100w

Springf'd Republican p10 O 31 '29 500w

STACPOOLE, HENRY DE VERE STACPOOLE. Eileen of the trees. 344p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Cassell]

29-16787

A merry story of hot headed youth to the rescue of a badly treated maid. Young Pat Spence, Lord Trevessa's nephew, kidnaps an undernourished nursery governess and takes her to a farmer friend on the country estate Pat will one day inherit. The news comes to Lord Trevessa's ears and the fat is in the fire. It sputters frantically too, till the haughty Lord Trevessa discovers that a nursery governess may have a lineage too.

Bookm 70:xxxii N '29 70w

"There is a ticktock rhythm to Mr. Stacpoole's book. It keeps an even measure. It is somewhat like a friendly clock. You are aware of the sound, but it scarcely penetrates your consciousness. 'Eileen of the Trees' is undeniably pleasant and airy. But such stories have the consistency of the dandelion puff. A gust of wind carries them off."

— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Jl 21 '29 250w

"Mr. Stacpoole has failed miserably to give his heroine any of the usual glamour, even the silver glamour of pity. She is not the girl for Pat. And to make a psychological study of Pat's growing infatuation places the story on a moralizing, platitudinous plane, which destroys all the right air of froth, sophisticated fairy-tale charm with which this story ought to be endowed."

— Boston Transcript p2 Ag 31 '29 270w

"As the sentiment is freely mixed with fun and bolstered by some really clever characterisation, the more cynically inclined will be able to enjoy it."

+ New Statesman 33:250 Je 1 '29 100w

Reviewed by Edwin Seaver
N Y Evening Post p7m Jl 6 '29 130w

" 'Eileen of the Trees' is a highly imaginative romance which is, at the same time, almost completely lacking in imagination. It is imaginative because no part of it is at all credible in the light of what one knows of reality. It is lacking in imagination because it is never in the smallest degree original or surprising. In conception and development, 'Eileen of the Trees' is thoroughly indistinguishable from a hundred others of its kind. But it is not badly written."

— + N Y Times p6 Jl 7 '29 470w

"A story like this hovers precariously on the verge of bathos. But Mr. Stacpoole's skill never fails him; and here, for readers whose nerves want gently lulling, is a quite pretty fairy-tale with a modern setting."
Spec 142:1025 Je 29 '29 100w

"Its simplicity, its conventionality, and, above all, the manner in which it satisfies the requirements of romance whatever the tax on probability are just those qualities which sustain the novelette. But this is true of the plot only. In other respects the story is of the competent and delightful kind that one expects from the author: the narrative manner is easy and skilful, and there is no doubt whatever about his power of creating living people."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p516 Je 27 '29 150w

STACPOOLE, HENRY DE VERE STACPOOLE. Return of spring (Eng title Roxanne). 300p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Cassell]
28-10397

Marston inherits a fortune that but for a lucky chance would have gone to an unknown girl. On a generous impulse he hunts up the girl, falls in love with her and marries her. She knows nothing of the fortune she has missed and when she learns of it their happy marriage is very nearly wrecked.

---

"There are several novel twists to this story of a sudden fortune and a marriage that keep it from being stereotyped, and the scene, shifting from England to Switzerland and back again several times, gives the author an opportunity for some good descriptive passages. The characters seem much of the time to be more dramatic than the occasion warrants."

+ — Bookm 68:xiii Ja '29 60w

"For some reason, the book leaves one cold. There are no startling defects in either construction or style, but the theme is hackneyed —a poor decrepit thing that is not even clothed in a remnant of reality."

— Boston Transcript p4 N 17 '28 250w

"Upon a foundation of peculiar circumstances Mr. Stacpoole builds a story of suspense, keeping the reader guessing what will be the ultimate fate of a marriage only made possible by luck and confidence withheld. The colloquial and intimate style of the book is appropriate to its general treatment, but the text as a whole leaves the reader with the impression that it needed, but never received adequate revision."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p360 My 10 '28 120w

STANARD, MARY MANN PAGE (NEWTON) (MRS WILLIAM GLOVER STANARD). Story of Virginia's first century. 331p il $5 (21s) Lippincott

975.5 Virginia—History 28-27795

The author, a descendant of the Elizabethan settlers of Virginia, has reconstructed with careful attention to documentary evidence the history of the first century in Virginia.

---

"This volume gives an interesting narrative of events in Virginia during the seventeenth century. The accuracy of the story can not be questioned save where the old 'relations' themselves are inaccurate, for it is based almost entirely upon them. In fact, paragraph after paragraph is little more than a succession of quotations pieced together. Unfortunately, since the 'relations' are often highly controversial in character, this does not mean that the picture is always true." T. J. Wertenbaker

+ — Am Hist R 35:415 Ja '30 320w

"The book is not a study of the colony but a rapidly moving narrative of its history according to the older method of stressing the political and military aspects of it. As such, Mrs. Stanard's latest volume can be unhesitatingly recommended as interesting and thoroughly sound."

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p21 Ja 20 '29 230w

Boston Transcript p6 N 8 '28 600w

Hist Outlook 21:39 Ja '30 50w

Reviewed by Herschel Brickell
No Am 226:adv D '28 50w

Spec 142:433 Mr 16 '29 680w

STANFORD, ALFRED BOLLER. Invitation to danger. 298p $2.50 Morrow
29-19528

" 'Invitation to Danger' contains plenty of interesting material. New York in the '40s, the established aristocracy of a more leisurely age, the hum of saws and the smell of pine in flourishing East River shipyards, a man of iron will who determines to build his own great craft, a man who sails for the Horn and California gold with the delicate young lass of his choice—this is the traditional stuff of high adventure."—N Y Times

---

"Mr. Stanford has chosen his period well, he has told an excellent and stirring story, with a good romance thrown in, and he has managed to get something of the sea into his book that one must go back to Moby Dick to match. Even superficially Invitation to Danger is a fine novel, and one that will bear re-reading. Here is a young author who has made two worthy and successful sallies into the glorious past of his own country, bringing back authentic material which he knows how to handle." Herschel Brickell

+ Bookm 70:201 O '29 450w

"The author has too evidently had 'Moby Dick' in mind without Melville's genius to help him write a masterpiece. He lacks knowledge of the sea and the technique of sailing vessels." Robert Roe

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 D 8 '29 580w

Boston Transcript p2 O 11 '29 550w

"The tale is a curious blend of good and bad writing, with flashes of fine color, with bits of biting vigor, and long reaches of confused currents and becalmed prose. It is good material carelessly shaped, and deserves a finer form than that bestowed upon it by Mr. Stanford."

— + N Y Times p33 N 24 '29 200w

STANFORD, ERNEST ELWOOD. The mascot goes across. 353p il $2 Century
29-7734

The adventures of four boys on a trip from Boston to San Francisco in an old red Ford bought at auction for five dollars. The Ford makes the trip successfully, and the boys gain some valuable first-hand information about the country they cross.

---

"Any live boy will enjoy this story—and many a man, too, who still remains a boy at heart."

+ Boston Transcript p4 My 25 '29 170w

"The book is so delightfully human as to leave a good taste in the mouth, and as a guide for this transcontinental route is sufficiently detailed to get one across."

+ Sat R of Lit 6:99 Ag 31 '29 80w

STANLEY, LADY AUGUSTA FREDERICA ELIZABETH (BRUCE). Later letters, 1864-1876; incl. unpublished letters to and from Queen Victoria, and correspondence with Dean Stanley, her sister Lady Frances Baillie, and others; ed. by the Dean of Windsor and Hector Bolitho. 288p il $3 (12s 6d) J. Cape & H. Smith

B or 92 Great Britain—Court and courtiers 29-30574

"The wife of the famous Dean Stanley was almost as famous in her day as her distinguished husband. She was chief lady-in-waiting to Queen Victoria for many years and one of her most intimate friends. Married to the absent-minded dean when both were in middle life, she formed with him a matrimonial partnership which was as beautiful as it was socially conspicuous. Many of the letters are to and from the queen. They give an intimate view of high society in Victorian days, with glimpses of the courts of Germany, Russia and the Vatican."—Christian Century

Reviewed by A. L. Sachar

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p24 O 27 '29 380w

Christian Century 46:1251 O 9 '29 100w

"She is revealed in these pages as a woman of great social charm, broad interests, and generous human sympathies that were not bounded by the limits of social class." R. L. Schuyler

+ Nation 129:554 N 13 '29 260w

"A full life, a good life, a life which makes many other lives seem a little thin by comparison." V. Sackville-West

+ Nation and Ath 45:241 My 18 '29 500w

"Apart from the peculiar charm of the atmosphere bathing these pages, the matter of Lady Augusta's letters is full of interest for the amateur of minor memoir-writing. They have been edited with pious discretion, but there stands out the picture of an alert, unselfish, attractive personality, an honest observer of persons and events, and, within the strictly circumscribed limits of her upbringing and social background, a fairly shrewd judge of her times."

+ New Statesman 33:244 Je 1 '29 1200w

Sat R 147:616 My 4 '29 750w

"On many pages the Dean appears, as a sort of lovable shadow, humorous, gentle, very unecclesiastical, a looker-on, somehow superior to all these great worldlings, playing with them quietly and respectfully, like a child carefully reading a beautifully bound and illustrated best book. His wife looked up to him, and he to her. The picture of their relations is a charming one."

+ Spec 142:746 My 11 '29 1000w

Spec 142:1015 Je 29 '29 60w

"Historically the main interest of the book lies in Lady Augusta's attitude towards the Queen. A touch of anxiety underlies the tone of respectful affection."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p377 My 9 '29 1250w

STANLEY-BROWN, MRS KATHARINE. Young architects. 259p il $3 Harper

720.973 Architecture—United States. Architecture, Domestic 29-24471

Glimpses of typical houses lived in by Americans from 1660 to the present. Taking as a starting point some episode in the life of an imaginary boy or girl of the period, the author sets forth the principles of fourteen different styles of architecture ranging from a Dutch town house in New Amsterdam in 1660, or an Elizabethan house in Guilford, Connecticut, in 1680 to the latest modernist New York apartment.

Cleveland Open Shelf p159 D '29

"Its plan is an interesting one. It is to give us a glimpse of the typical houses Americans have lived in, from pioneer days to this year of grace 1929, and to give it from the viewpoint of the children who lived in them. It is not a history of American architecture. It is an attempt to call attention to the changes in the American home as expressed in its shell, the house." Elizabeth Woodbridge

+ Sat R of Lit 6:424 N 16 '29 100w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 1 '29 220w

STAPLEDON, WILLIAM OLAF. Modern theory of ethics; a study of the relations of ethics and psychology. 277p $2.75 Dutton [8s 6d Methuen]

171 Ethics. Psychology [29-18762]

"There are two respects at least in which this book represents a modern theory of ethics. It is concerned with the ethical concepts which are being so widely questioned in our day. Sacrifice, duty, obligation, self-fulfilment, happiness, all are brought before the bar for examination. And it is modern in that there is a definite attempt to use the results of recent biological and psychological research. Whether it is modern in the sense of being in line with present practice and trends is a more difficult question to answer."—J Philos

"It gives one almost a shock of surprise to come across a book on ethics which is not a mere collection of platitudes covered by vague traditional phrases from idealism or utilitarianism; but Dr. Stapledon has succeeded in giving us a book of the greatest value upon a very old problem. . . The book is in the best tradition and it is vividly written, with a modern outlook and a real appreciation for actual moral experience." C. D. Burns

+ Int J Ethics 40:134 O '29 320w

"Such a theory as presented in this book seems far removed from the every-day concerns of life. It does not furnish norms which will be of actual help in specific situations; it seems impotent to translate life into terms of a vivid, joyous experience. Indeed, for him, joy is irrelevant to morals, as irrelevant in the final analysis as consciousness. The goal was set, so he would seem to say, without considering our desires; it is for us to run the race. It may not take us in the direction we wish to go, and we probably will not enjoy it. No matter; run! For the Universe tells us to." Laurence Sears

— J Philos 26:470 Ag 15 '29 1600w

"The contribution is significant and scholarly. Strangely enough, it does not even mention Professor Giveler's 'Ethics of Hercules,' which is an important American attempt to interpret ethical values in biological terms, as well as a review of the shift in meaning of the concepts through the changing centuries."

+ — Sat R of Lit 6:120 S 7 '29 350w

"No careful readers of his work—idealists least of all—will fail to view his book as an important contribution to ethical theory or to appreciate its high plane of tone, temper and outlook."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p176 Mr 7 '29 1300w

STARBUCK, MARY ELIZA. My house and I; a chronicle of Nantucket. 293p $3.50 Houghton

B or 92 Nantucket, Massachusetts 29-17671

A precise, fastidious account of a Nantucket woman's life. Her reminiscences of her childhood are closely interwoven with early Nantucket history. The Civil war and other Nantucket days occupy a part in the narrative, and the author concludes with a description of her house with its historic associations.

Booklist 26:117 D '29

Bookm 70:xviii N '29 200w

"There is no artifice in the narrative, but incidents long past are recalled with a vividness and simplicity which endow them with charm."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p19 O 20 '29 130w

"Chattily reminiscent, the author jots down as they occur to her incidents and people that have entered her life, and pictures thereby the life of the islanders." F. M. W.

+ Boston Transcript p3 O 9 '29 280w

"It is a chronicle of trivial things, for the most part, the unconsidered trifles of every day, but the author has captured with them that something, whatever it is, that gives such things life and color and consequence to those whose daily life they make. And so her book becomes a vital and colorful story of the life and the changes on Nantucket through half a century and more. No small part of its charm is due to the author's visualizing style, her story-telling knack, and her sense of humor."
+ N Y Times p20 O 27 '29 500w

"Her book does not pretend to be historical, does not give any dates, is hardly in touch with national affairs of the period. But it conveys a perfect picture of Nantucket as seen through the eager eyes of a bright-minded woman, such a woman as was Dorothy Osborne." C: J. Finger
+ N Y World p11m O 27 '29 330w

"Miss Starbuck writes with easeful dignity as daughter of a sea captain and representative of Nantucket's 'aristocracy,' with spices of humor and anecdotes." A. R. Marble
+ Sat R of Lit 6:367 N 9 '29 300w
Springf'd Republican p8 N 18 '29 370w
Wis Lib Bul 25:322 O '29

STARK, JEAN, pseud. See Nugent, M. M.-M.

STARRETT, VINCENT. Murder on "B" deck. 279p $2 Doubleday, Doran
29-6793

Countess Fogartini, a beautiful American widow, was murdered not long after the steamship left New York. On board were Walter Ghost, a former intelligence officer, and his author friend Mollock. Their trip was both exciting and successful; they located the murderer.

"An interesting, literate, exciting tale." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Mr 17 '29 80w

"Even a keen mystery addict will find difficulty in finding a premature solution to 'Who killed the Countess and why?' "
+ Boston Transcript p2 Ag 7 '29 200w

"An entertaining yarn."
+ N Y Times p20 Ap 7 '29 180w

STARRETT, VINCENT. Penny wise and book foolish. 200p il $3 Covici
010 Book collecting. Bibliomania 29-10617

Essays, for the delight of the book collector and lover, on first editions, rare books and oddities, and the joys of book collecting.

Booklist 26:53 N '29
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Jl 21 '29 160w

Reviewed by Edwin Seaver
N Y Evening Post p9m Je 1 '29 320w

"Vincent Starrett has written a book on the oddities of book collecting which collectors will enjoy and the laity will peruse with profit. Starrett combines good advice with fascinating narrative." Harry Hansen
+ N Y World p10m My 19 '29 1200w

"Mr. Starrett gives fledgling collectors much excellent advice, seasoned with anecdotes of lucky finds and the like. The indirect effect of his book will be undoubtedly to raise the prices current of literary curios." N. H. Dole
+ Portland Evening News p13 Ag 27 '29 1800w
St Louis 27:303 N '29

"Mr. Starrett's book is essentially popular—it makes no pretense to study any problem exhaustively; it plays gently and entertainingly over the surface of bibliography, and by its very amiability and good-temper succeeds rather well in disarming criticism. . . His book can conscientiously be recommended to all readers who, knowing only the outward appearances of collecting, wish to find out for themselves from some one intensely interested in the subject a small part of the knowledge and experience necessary to the formation of a good collector." G. M. T.
+ Sat R of Lit 5:1182 Jl 13 '29 500w

STARRETT, WILLIAM AIKEN. Skyscrapers, and the men who build them. 347p il $3.50 Scribner
721 Skyscrapers. Architecture—United States. Mercantile buildings 29-3961

Colonel Starrett comes of a family of builders and architects, and firms bearing the family name are prominent in Chicago and New York. From a personal and intimate point of view he describes the plans and problems that enter into the building of a skyscraper, with reference to and photographs of actual building operations.

Booklist 25:239 Mr '29
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Ja 27 '29 200w

"Colonel Starrett has taken the whole course of building for his field. Much of the highly technical matters he has judiciously allowed to disappear. By a careful editing, however, he has maintained a high average of interest and worth." W. E. H.
+ Boston Transcript p4 D 15 '28 170w

"An astonishingly well-written book. Even the most dubious phase of modern building, the preliminary chessplay of the financiers, is made if not quite understandable to the layman, then certainly interesting."
+ Dial 86:439 My '29 100w
New Statesman 32:642 F 23 '29 160w
N Y New Tech Bks 14:4 Ja '29

Reviewed by R. L. Duffus
N Y Times p5 D 30 '28 1200w

Reviewed by W: O. Scroggs
N Y World p11m D 23 '28 300w
Pratt p22 summer '29

Reviewed by Aymar Embury II
Sat R of Lit 6:91 Ag 31 '29 270w
Times [London] Lit Sup p1059 D 12 '29 220w
Wis Lib Bul 25:71 F '29

STEEL, MRS FLORA ANNIE (WEBSTER). Garden of fidelity; being the autobiography of [the author]. 293p $3.75 (12s 6d) Macmillan
B or 92

"Of mixed Lowland and Highland stock, Flora Annie Steel was born at Harrow in 1847. She died in the past summer, at the age of eighty-two, in full possession of her faculties and swiftly, as she would have wished. Her autobiography was almost completed; and with the addition of a page or two written by her daughter and only child it is published just as she left it, a remarkable document in spirit and in fact."—Times [London] Lit Sup

Reviewed by Frances Bartlett
Boston Transcript p3 D 14 '29 2000w

"What is best in her book is an abundance of shrewd humour and keen observation and the admirably vivid memory of moments of experience, and, above all, the fact that there is revealed in this record of a full and active life a gifted, if incomplete, human being."
+ Nation and Ath 46:406 D 14 '29 500w

"A very readable book. It was written in old age and is disjointed as such varied recollections of English and Indian social life, and literary work, would be likely to be. The India she depicts is the India of the past, but she had great knowledge of Indian history and great sympathy with the native mind."
Spec 143:670 N 9 '29 120w
Spec 143:775 N 23 '29 600w
Times [London] Lit Sup p956 N 21 '29 1000w

STEELE, WILBUR DANIEL. Tower of sand, & other stories. 326p $2.50 Harper

29-21555

Eight short stories of diverse subject matter, but all done with the traditional perfection of technique and obliquity of style that characterize Mr Steele's work. The title story is the narrative of an Atlantic fisherman and his discovery of an uncharted shoal. Contents: Tower of sand; A life; Mary Drake and Will Todd; For they know not what they do; For where is your fortune now? The mad; Footfalls; Never anything that fades. . .

Booklist 26:121 D '29

"The title story and some of the others are melodramatic and highly colored, ending with a sudden unconvincing twist. But it is competent writing and excellent reading. And it will always insure Mr. Steele an enthusiastic public."

+ — Bookm 70:448 D '29 270w

" 'Tower of Sand' was rightly chosen to head the index. It is a sea story, but even to those bored and embarrassed lubbers who can never learn the difference between gibing and squaring away it will be blindly exciting. Whatever your preference, if you enjoy a deft turn, a concise style and a not too subtle endeavor, you will find here much to your liking." M. C. Dawson

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Ja 5 '30 500w

"Wilbur Steele is the conventional, popular American short story at its best. Mr. Steele is indeed so good that reading him one constantly wishes he were better. His ability, his facility, his virtuosity are astonishing. Mr Steele was simply born to write. And yet there is no single story in his new book that stands out as an enduring contribution to American literature. Mr. Steele's facility is his undoing: he chews more than he bites off. If he could only forget his facility, if he could forget his flair for situation and get behind situation to the raw permanent elements of these shifting, only temporarily satisfying, arrangements, he might win much more than popular approval and the solemn hallelujahs of the schoolmasters." Edwin Seaver

— + N Y Evening Post p11m N 9 '29 200w

"In the present book his score is higher than ever, for six of the eight stories presented here are unquestionably among the finest he has done."

+ N Y Times p9 D 8 '29 650w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 5 '30 220w

STEEN, MARGUERITE. Dark duel. 309p $2.50 Stokes

29-19883

Alice Amcott keeps at sixty the tempestuous charm that made her a stage favorite. Young Val has written a play for her and insists that she must take the leading rôle. Lisa, Alice's granddaughter, is a designer for the theater and in love with Val. Between Lisa and Alice the dark duel has always existed, despite their great love for each other. It rages now over Val and the play, and for them Lisa is ready to sacrifice everything.

Bookm 70:xv Ja '30 80w

" 'Dark Duel' tells a traditional story in an undistinctive way." V. P. Ross

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 Jl 14 '29 450w

"One of those well-done, complicated, capable and interminable novels the English know very well how to do." Edwin Seaver

N Y Evening Post p7m Je 22 '29 130w

"A novel of excessive vitality, colorful, vigorous and with a considerable skill in characterization, save for the preposterous figure of a sin-scathed hero. Miss Steen's style is opulent, almost overrich. There is something tropical in the verdure of words with which she clothes each situation. With such a flamboyance, it is only natural that her people should talk too much and yet for the most part they are entertaining and magnetic folk hampered in their action by an inept plot." F: F. Van de Water

+ — N Y Evening Post p6m Jl 13 '29 150w

"It can well be imagined that in such a collection [of characters] is material for the high humor of 'The Royal Family' or the high tragedy of 'The Constant Nymph.' Unfortunately, the author has been able to achieve neither, although at times she approaches both."

+ — N Y Times p14 Je 23 '29 380w

"A facile handling of many peculiar, contrasted individualities and motives, unusual vigor and distinctness of characterization, a lifelike reproduction of London's upper Bohemia, combine to render this novel one of the notably interesting accomplished in the summer's output."

+ N Y World p7m Jl 7 '29 200w

"The interest of the book, which is considerable, lies in its sound characterizations and vivid scenes, in its beautifully integrated detail, and in Marguerite Steen's own attitude toward her characters, ironic enough to be vigorous, tender enough to be human."

+ Outlook 152:350 Je 26 '29 200w

"The book is extremely uneven. If it were as good throughout as it is at its best it would be a remarkable novel, but in the moment of crisis the author is too prone to resort to the sensational or the stereotyped."

— + Sat R of Lit 5:1197 Jl 20 '29 350w

"Miss Steen writes with intelligence and vivacity; her characters are credible and rounded human beings, but somehow her book just misses achieving the excellence many of its pages promise. It is, perhaps, a little overmannered."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p414 My 31 '28 220w

STEIN, GERTRUDE. Useful knowledge. 207p $5 Brewer [10s 6d Lane]

818 28-21730

"Curious gleams of simple humour contorted into a strange shape seem at moments to appear in Miss Stein's book, as, for example, in her 'advertisement' at the beginning, where she tells us 'Romance is everything and the very best material should make the cheapest things is making into living the romance of human beings. This is the American something which makes romance everything. And romance is Useful Knowledge.' What else Useful Knowledge is we cannot even begin to conjecture."—Times [London] Lit Sup

Reviewed by K. A. Porter

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p6 S 23 '28 600w

"A review composed after Miss Stein's own fashion would fill at least three numbers of The Nation, and even so it would be sheer chance if any relevant remark emerged. This is not mental freedom; it is merely a break-up of all organized purpose and discrimination. If Miss Stein's useful knowledge points out anything, it is that the loafing mind, equipped with language, can reach a triumph of chaotic imbecility. And for this information 207 pages are too much." Sylva Norman

— Nation and Ath 45:52 Ap 13 '29 560w

Reviewed by Edmund Wilson

New Repub 58:21 F 20 '29 1850w

"Hitherto, we have been accustomed to see charlatanism adopt modes which, though perhaps uncomfortably esoteric, were none the less designed to capture our interest, to excite, titillate and shock. Miss Stein knows better. She refuses every concession; she bores us mercilessly and immoderately; and for that reason and no other reaps considerable applause. . . Miss Stein is dull. She has no word-sense, no skill in employing words and images. We look in vain for the indication of some genuine underlying method; and, instead, we are privileged to watch Miss Stein plugging away like an indefatigable little paddle-steamer caught in an ocean of molasses. Staunchly the paddles revolve, wreathed in the treacly stuff; gamely the funnels puff out indignant cloudlets of acrid woolly smoke. 'Whither, O Splendid ship . . . ?' Whither is she steering, that intrepid New Englander at the helm?"

— New Statesman 33:22 Ap 13 '29 520w

Times [London] Lit Sup p342 Ap 25 '29 120w

STEINBECK, JOHN. Cup of gold; a life of Henry Morgan, buccaneer. 269p $2.50 McBride

Morgan, Sir Henry—Fiction 29-17823

"Being a life of Henry Morgan, buccaneer, with occasional reference to history, and a promising stab at a novel of adventure. The tale tells of Henry's boyhood in the Welsh glens, his sailing for the Indies at the age of fifteen, his slavery in Barbados and later triumphs on the Spanish Main, including the sack of Panama, the Cup of Gold, for love of the mysterious Ysobel, alias the Red Saint, and his respectable death years later as lieutenant governor of Jamaica."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

"Mr. Steinbeck lapses into pedestrian narrative at times, but even so, enough brave names and places are bandied about to hold the interest of most fans; and Mr. Steinbeck's graceful manner lifts the yarn above the adventure groceries of this degenerate age."
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Ag 18 '29 150w

Boston Transcript p2 S 7 '29 320w

"This novelized 'Life of Henry Morgan, Buccaneer,' written 'with occasional reference to history,' somehow does not 'come off.' It seems to fall between two stools of style in considering the historical subject, the modern naturalistic and the period manner, and they do not harmonize. Yet there is much swing and movement to the narrative at times." F. H. M.
— + N Y Evening Post p7m S 28 '29 180w

STEINER, JESSE FREDERICK. American community in action; case studies of American communities. (Am social science ser.) 392p $3; students' ed $2.40 Holt

309.1 Social surveys. Community life. Cities and towns—United States. Country life—United States 28-23008

The book contains twenty case studies of different types of American communities made by students of Professor Steiner at Tulane University. While the communities studied represent different—but not all—sections of America, and different problems of community development, the emphasis has been in each case upon the interplay of social forces rather than upon social conditions and problems.

---

Bookm 69:xvi Ap '29 150w

Boston Transcript p2 O 10 '28 650w

Reviewed by Winifred Raushenbush
Nation 128:290 Mr 6 '29 550w

"It should be far more useful as a teaching tool than most of the conventional texts dealing with the local community and its problems."
+ New Repub 28:56 F 20 '29 120w

"The chief distinction of this volume derives from its quality as a teaching tool. It is a text-book consisting of first-hand materials collected by students in Professor Steiner's classes. . . The advantage of analyzing the processes of smaller communities is obvious: the forces of control are more direct and simple. And, the facility gained in such observations should, of course, be useful in diagnosing our larger urban communities where the forces are more obscure and baffling."
+ Sat R of Lit 5:490 D 8 '28 200w

Reviewed by S. M. Harrison
Survey 61:513 Ja 15 '29 320w

STENDHAL, DE, pseud. See Beyle, M. H.

STENVALL, ALEKSIS (ALEXIS KIVI, pseud.). Seven brothers; tr. from the Finnish by Alex Matson. 409p $2.50 Coward-McCann

29-2731

"Alexis Kivi's 'Seven Brothers' was published in 1870 and has been a Finnish classic these sixty years. It is an epic of seven brothers, play boys of the spirit; rollicking, gorging, fighting bears and wolves and bulls, fighting frost and fire in so joyous and primitive a fashion that even to read of it one has to have vigor. It is a book of the people by one of the people."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

Booklist 25:287 Ap '29

"The story is told in a mock-heroic vein, after the manner of old Norse sagas that every Scandinavian infant knows by heart. It is humorous in somewhat the same way as Chaucer's Nun's Priest's Tale must have been to the readers of courtly romance—only a great deal more local and personal."
Bookm 69:311 My '29 250w

"The book is beloved by the Finns, not only for its rollicking, broad humor, and its joy of living, but for the exquisite poetry of some of its passages." Rose Strunsky
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 F 10 '29 1150w

"Its heavy rough and tumble style is fascinating because of the very antithesis of the life it describes to our own existence. It is a tale of great fights of men and beasts, a tale of strength and vitality. Unfortunately the author chooses to tell a major part of it in dialogue form. This deviation from the novel form is disconcerting and unnecessary. It does not add force or clarity in the least." A. C.
— + Boston Transcript p8 Mr 30 '29 300w

"No wonder 'Seven Brothers' is a Finnish classic; it has all the qualities to make it that. But Kivi caught more than the local racial note; beneath—and not too far beneath—the local color of lore and legend and merely native custom pulses the absurdity, the comedy, the tragedy, of the race itself, which the reader may find for himself, and so double the bubbling humor of the story." Edna Kenton
+ Nation 128:196 F 13 '29 880w

Nation and Ath 46:180 N 2 '29 130w

"Though it is a modern book, this is the stuff epics are made of. . . Like many of the Scandinavian classics, this one appears to be singularly well translated." B. G.
+ New Repub 58:106 Mr 13 '29 260w

Reviewed by Robert Littell
N Y Evening Post p8m F 9 '29 530w

"It possesses an elemental and epic quality like the quality of the old Scandinavian sagas. The seven brothers of Jukola farm are the pioneers of a race, the symbols of its earliest, simplest and most lasting life. And at least one of their adventures is as unforgettable as any of the great moments of the Scandinavian sagas, Homer, Crusoe or the Wagnerian romances." L: Kronenberger
+ N Y Times p7 F 10 '29 620w

Pratt p42 summer '29

"In form the book is as unusual as it is in content: lyric passages of tremendous vehemence between pages of dialogue printed as if they were part of a play; folk tales told by the brothers to each other. And all these discordant elements are held in firm unity by a style that reminds one of 'Moby Dick,' that has the swing and vigor of a Shakespearian play, and epithets and oaths that belong to Homer." P. D. Carleton
+ Sat R of Lit 5:639 F 2 '29 700w

Wis Lib Bul 25:161 My '29

STEPHENS, MRS ANN SOPHIA (WINTERBOTHAM). Malaeska, the Indian wife of the white hunter. reissue 254p $2.50 Day

29-29969

A reprint of the initial volume of Beadle's Dime novel series, published in 1860. Malaeska is the beautiful Indian girl-wife of William Danforth, who is killed in an Indian uprising.

STEPHENS, A. S.—Continued
He tells her to take their young son to the home of his parents in Manhattan. Malaeska obeys his dying wish; but the grandfather of the boy separates him from his Indian mother, rescues him from her attempted abduction, and educates him abroad. Malaeska lives alone near the home of Sarah Jones, a young girl who knows and loves her. Sarah is sent away to school in Manhattan; there she meets William Danforth, and they become engaged. But when Malaeska at last beholds the young man and tells him he is her son, he is so overcome with the thought of his disgrace that he commits suicide by leaping into the river.

---

Boston Transcript p3 N 6 '29 200w
Nation 130:51 Ja 8 '30 80w

"The first dime novel is not only as decorous as anything Cooper ever wrote, but the style follows that of the Leatherstocking Tales. In writing the first dime novel the author had no idea of lowering her dignity, and she did not; 'Malaeska' is written in a high and sober style." C: W. Thompson
+ N Y Times p2 N 3 '29 400w

STEPHENS, JAMES. Julia Elizabeth. ltd ed autog 24p $10 Random house [42s Crosby Gaige]
822 29-4808

"Mr. Stephens's one-act play is rather thin comedy. The three characters are an irascible Irishman, his wife and a young man who comes as suitor for the hand of their daughter, the invisible heroine of the piece. After playing upon the changes of temperament due to the discovery that the bashful suitor has a good position at a pound a week, the characters are brought to a common mind by the revelation that Julia has eloped and is already married."—Boston Transcript

---

"It will give substantial nourishment neither to any reader nor to the reputation of its author. Fortunately the latter does not need it."
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Ap 21 '29 150w

"Mr. Stephens has made the most of this scanty material and provided a play which reads rather better than it would act, although the time-worn devices of repeating stock phrases are not necessary to develop the character of Mrs. O'Reilly."
— + Boston Transcript p3 Ap 6 '29 130w

"A pleasant trifle. But the publication of this edition reveals some extraordinary facts about the American book-market. There are sixteen pages of text, and about a hundred and thirty words on a page; there are two small engravings, of pleasant and fashionable modernity; eight hundred and fifty copies of the book have been printed, each of them signed by the author. The type is large, without any distinction or beauty, the page is insufficiently margined, and the setting clumsy—and the price of the book is two guineas!"
New Statesman 33:282 Je 8 '29 230w

"A very Irish and very amusing little play One need not be a collector of James Stephens to delight in owning so very pretty a piece of good book-making as this."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p437 My 30 '29 80w

STERN, MRS ELIZABETH GERTRUDE (LEVIN) (LEAH MORTON, pseud.). When love comes to woman. 313p $2.50 Sears
B or 92 29-11110

The pseudonymous author of "I am a woman and a Jew" continues her personal narrative in the present volume. While the story centers chiefly about Clara Eaton and her married lover, Mrs Morton's home life and the problems of her sons now in their first manhood, form a background to a case study of love and the modern woman.

---

Boston Transcript p3 Je 8 '29 180w

"Although the volume is a serious and thoughtful addition to the literature on the subject, it yet offers nothing very new or stimulating." Lillian Rogers
N Y Evening Post p7m Je 15 '29 700w

"The book is competently written, humorless, touching, and desperately sincere. But it is heavy reading."
+ — Outlook 152:70 My 8 '29 70w

"This book comes both as a late and an unnecessary contribution to the subject. It is a résumé of the various arrangements tried out here and there to take the place of the conventional marriage—an account of the relations of about ten types of women with their chosen mates. . . . The author is tolerant, gracious, eager to help and to understand. But we have heard the stories too often."
— + Sat R of Lit 6:116 S 7 '29 400w

STERN, GLADYS BRONWYN (MRS GEOFFREY LISLE HOLDSWORTH). Modesta. 269p $2.50 Knopf 29-26898

"The story of Modesta, an Italian peasant girl, whose rich young American husband tries to make a lady of her, only to be despised for his pains. Fortunately Laurie Ferrier finds his mistake before it is too late and packs off the lovely little parvenu to a farm in her native land. For his wife's sake, Laurie becomes a peasant and he treats Modesta as proper peasants' wives are used to being treated."—Outlook

---

Booklist 26:72 N '29

"This novel, like her amusing 'The Dark Gentleman,' is good byplay. But at least some of her admirers will hope for her return to the wider and deeper reaches of the early chronicles of the Rakonitz tribe, the range and variety of straightforward emotion of which she showed herself capable in 'The Matriarch' and 'A Deputy Was King.'" Mary Ross
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 S 1 '29 650w

"In order to write this story Miss Stern has tossed aside several probabilities. Yet she is so gay and diverting that her readers pause only occasionally to wonder if such strange people as she describes could ever exist." D. F. Gilman
+ — Boston Transcript p4 Ag 31 '29 1600w
Cleveland Open Shelf p158 D '29

"Charm and humor are not lacking in 'Modesta,' but the book as a whole is implausible, artificial, and wholly trivial. At her best, Miss Stern has a wider range than Colette, more emotional depth than Miss Elker. It is a pity that she should be so spendthrift of her gifts." E. H. Walton
— + New Repub 60:158 S 25 '29 200w
N Y Times p6 S 1 '29 750w
N Y World p11m O 20 '29 400w

"Modesta is a modern Taming of the Shrew, written with the author's usual sophistication, humor and essential truth. The denouement of the story is delightfully unconventional." Mary Shirley
+ Outlook 153:28 S 4 '29 280w

STERN, GLADYS BRONWYN (MRS GEOFFREY LISLE HOLDSWORTH). Slower Judas. 319p $2.50 Knopf 29-2131

There is a surprising twist to the denouement of several of these short stories which also have a strong psychological element. Contents: Lady Falconbridge; A man and his mother; Sanctuary; Gemini; Empty tables; The 1865; English earth; "Quiet Corner"; The road; Roulette; Echo from Ithaca; Toes unmasked; The slower Judas.

---

"The stories are told with professional competence, but without any striking felicities of style or illumination of character; they will provide an interesting evening's reading, but will not add noticeably to Miss Stern's reputation which rests more solidly on her novels." L. S. Morris

+ — Bookm 69:93 Mr '29 280w

"It is understandable that having shown her gift at portraiture in the heroic manner, G. B. Stern should find it amusing to toss off such a gay and casual croquis. 'The Slower Judas' gives occasion for a kind of dexterity and neatness which was only incidental in the grander outlines of her earlier work. But for the reader, and, I hope for the author, these are divertissements, not a main show." Mary Ross

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 Ja 20 '29 350w

"A book such as 'The Slower Judas' completely justifies the existence of the short story. The thirteen tales here assembled are of a remarkably high order. One might easily thumb many contemporary American magazines before coming upon, either individually or in groups, any stories with so much body, so much character portrayal and so wide a variety of subject matter." W. E. H.

+ Boston Transcript p2 F 13 '29 1300w

"Gone is the mad but delightful virility of 'The Matriarch,' the exaggerated but still essentially plausible characterizations of 'The China Shop,' the charm and quaint humor of 'The Dark Gentleman.' . . The stories in this volume, with the single exception of 'Toes Unmasked,' a repetition of 'The Dark Gentleman,' reek with sentimentality, bathos and trite, stereotyped characterization." Tess Slesinger

— N Y Evening Post p9m F 2 '29 550w

"Miss Stern can scarcely expect us to go away innocently sated with such thinly watered products of that more potent stock to which she accustomed us in 'The Matriarch' and 'A Deputy Was King.' But the main ingredients of those novels are all present and more or less happily blended through the agency in Miss Stern's style of the temperamental qualities of sentiment and charm."

— + N Y Times p8 F 3 '29 500w

"Without using any heavy and quite unwarranted figure of speech involving thirty pieces of silver, it is still possible to regret that demands of publishers and, presumably, public should make it necessary for G. B. Stern to waste her fine talent for the creation and development of character, and her sense of human values on such slight stories."

— Outlook 151:150 Ja 23 '29 130w

"Most of the stories in Miss Stern's book are rather beautifully worked fragments. The wisp of a mood, the twist of a character, or the mere trick of chance set in motion the subtle processes that in the end turn out something so slight, so finished, that one is torn between irritation and admiration. These stories seem like shining webs spun across the commonplace, almost too fragile to hold even the fancy." Gladys Graham

+ Sat R of Lit 5:853 Ap 6 '29 150w

"Each is something new and different in theme, in locale, in persons, in atmosphere, in details, realistically intimate yet unhackneyed. And yet they often penetrate into nooks and crannies of the unusual or psychologically denormalized. They are dishes artistically prepared for the intellectually epicurean."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 31 '29 100w

STEUART, JOHN ALEXANDER. Immortal lover. 336p $2.50 Lippincott

Burns, Robert—Fiction 29-23487

A novelized life of Robert Burns and his various loves; Highland Mary, Jeannie, Clarinda and Chloris.

---

Boston Transcript p10 N 9 '29 200w

"To attempt the portrait of such a man as Robert Burns is to attempt something beyond the powers of all save a very few. To those few Mr. Steuart does not belong. All of interest and all of drama the book possesses it owes to the extraordinary facts with which it has to deal. Mr. Steuart contributes little. His style is stiff and somewhat stilted, and he makes no great addition to our knowledge or understanding of his subject." L. M. Field

— N Y Times p10 D 1 '29 1050w

"All who love their sentimentality, and love it rich and dripping and thickspread, should eat this book up. Mr. Steuart has written a spirited tale, and it is perhaps ungrateful to cavil at the sugar being a bit too thick and the style marred by cliches. To balance that fault, the Lowland Scots speech is rendered faultlessly, and the touches of Gaelic almost so. The Immortal Lover will have no place among serious books about Burns, but those who like a good, sentimental, heart-throbby, honestly highfalutin romance will make no mistake in reading it."

+ — N Y World p11m O 13 '29 320w

STEVENSON, PHILIP. Edge of the nest. 336p $2.50 Coward-McCann

29-9287

These studies of three children of a French-American family form a sympathetic interpretation of the young mind at different stages of its development. The first portrait is of Muggsy at eight; the second shows Tony, his younger brother, now in the midst of the bravado and hero-worship of the gang-age; the third, with the time of the war as background, is of Milly, a silly, sentimental schoolgirl suffering the heroics of first love.

---

"Each of the three narratives is done with high technical skill. Mr. Stevenson understands these children so well and shows us their many faces so persuasively that of his ability to draw adults there can be no question. In his sense of the American family and culture and in his placing of these elements in a shapely dramatic pattern, he is revealed as a distinguished arrival among our important novelists." Paul Horgan

+ Bookm 70:206 O '29 330w

"The book viewed, as a whole, lacks synthesis and continuity. And in the end we are still in doubt as to just what it is that Mr. Stevenson has been about, in spite of his competent handling of juvenile psychology." Lynn Carrick

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 My 19 '29 350w

"If the story has a lack it comes from the fact that it is not sufficiently co-ordinated. It is three separate stories held together by a central theme, but the three stories fly off in three directions and leave us with a certain sense of incompleteness, which is more poignant because of the interest aroused in the three characters." D. L. M.

+ — Boston Transcript p8 My 18 '29 600w

"The fact that the children are members of the same family is too tenuous a thread to hold the narrative together. The book is written with unquestionable sincerity and with a comprehension of the humor and pathos which make up a child's day. When Mr. Stevenson becomes better acquainted with the medium of the novel, he will probably make a more significant contribution to current literature." T. F., Jr.

— + New Repub 59:161 Je 26 '29 160w

"Despite Mr. Stevenson's sympathetic understanding of youth, 'The Edge of the Nest' is earnest minded and humorless, wanting that affectionate indulgence and warmth which make the Tarkington book-children so lovable. And their parents, unlike the Tarkington adults, are mere paper dolls, more bloodless, I'll venture, by a long sight than the average middle-aged parent seems to his offspring. Here is a competent book. But it lacks the glow necessary, in the last analysis, to make literature headier than life." Florence Haxton

— + N Y Evening Post p11m Ap 27 '29 630w

"It is obvious that Mr. Stevenson's episodic method is awkward. The reader hates to leave Muggsy and Tony, and would like to follow them through from childhood to youth, to maturity. But the author displays a fine insight into the minds of most of his characters and has distinction of style."

STEVENSON, PHILIP—Continued
+ — N Y Times p9 My 19 '29 580w

"Mr. Stevenson has written with great understanding. The reader sees through the child's eyes, thinks through the child's mind and in the vernacular of childhood."
+ N Y World p11m My 5 '29 200w

"It is disconnected and without unity, although it contains much truth and some humor." W. R. Brooks
Outlook 152:311 Je 19 '29 60w

"This is a first novel of unusual insight and firmness of touch. Mr. Stevenson writes with understanding and sympathy—not humorous patronage which the term usually connotes, but real fellow-feeling."
+ Sat R of Lit 5:1165 Jl 6 '29 320w

STEWART, ALFRED WALTER (J. J. CONNINGTON, pseud.). Case with nine solutions. 280p $2 Little 29-923

The death of Mrs Silverdale and young Hassendean may have been accident, murder, or suicide or a combination of any two of the three. Sir Clinton Driffield, chief constable, solves the affair.

---

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 F 10 '29 100w

Boston Transcript p3 F 9 '29 200w

"Mr. Connington has several good detective stories to his credit—'The Case With Nine Solutions' is not the least of them."
+ N Y Times p25 Ja 3 '29 160w
+ N Y World p11m F 17 '29 110w

"The combination of plenty of action with a careful presentation of the puzzle is rather unusual. We recommend it to those who like a good story." W. R. Brooks
+ Outlook 151:74 Ja 9 '29 110w

Reviewed by H. C. Harwood
Sat R 147:137 F 2 '29 150w

"This is a very conventional, not altogether exciting, but quite readable detective story."
+ Sat R of Lit 5:670 F 9 '29 130w

"The dénouement is completely unexpected, and fully upholds the author's reputation as a master of this kind of story."
+ Spec 141:463 O 6 '28 60w

"There is more action in this story than in some of the author's preceding ones, and it is a difficult book to lay down until it is finished."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e F 10 '29 200w

"This is a very well constructed story, and piece after piece is added to the puzzle till the reader shuts the book with a mind satisfied and replete, after a tussle with a criminal worthy of Mr. Connington."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p836 N 8 '28 130w

STEWART, ALFRED WALTER (J. J. CONNINGTON, pseud.). Grim vengeance (Eng title Nemesis at Raynham Parva). 305p $2 Little [7s 6d Gollancz]
29-14105

Sir Richard Driffield dislikes the smooth foreigner whom his favorite niece has married, and with reason: this man, Francia, it develops, is mixed up in a white slave plot which ensnares the niece and several other young English girls. Sir Richard, investigating two murders connected with the case, is not wholly ignorant of the facts of Francia's sudden death.

---

"An exceptionally well planned mystery story."
+ Bookm 69:xxvi Ag '29 60w

"If the guilty wretch is slightly transparent in spots the author more than atones with another and more thrilling mystery near the end and a solution which is as ingenious as it is tall." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Jl 14 '29 100w

"All the usual accompaniments of mystery stories we find in this rather clever example of its type."
Boston Transcript p2 Jl 31 '29 300w

"Mr. Connington is clever and competent, but rather too ingenious. It was at least original to have made White Slave traffickers the villains of the piece, but is Francia's presence at Fern Lodge really believable? The other main point is that the third murder is too fantastic, beautifully done but utterly incredible. But, no doubt, these very incongruities and improbabilities help to make the story good entertainment."
+ — Nation and Ath 45:86 Ap 20 '29 150w

"In spite of the ingenuity of the crimes there are points about this story which make it less satisfactory than the earlier ones."
— + N Y Times p13 Jl 28 '29 140w

"This particular narrative is not for the hasty seeker for excitement. It is food for the graver specialist who likes to work out a problem of intricate detail, with the concentration of a chess-player." R. A. Taylor
+ Spec 142:834 My 25 '29 130w

"The third murder is as clever a crime as ever Mr. Connington planned, and so artfully told that the reader is extremely unlikely to guess the criminal. As with all Mr. Connington's stories, this is a sound piece of writing which has an interest apart altogether from the detective work in it."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p341 Ap 25 '29 250w

Wis Lib Bul 25:324 O '29

STEWART, ANNA BIRD. Three white cats of Avignon. 167p il $1.25 Doubleday, Doran
29-18032

René lived in Avignon in southern France, and his three white kittens were his constant companions. One day René overheard someone say that travel is the greatest of all educations. Now there was no cat school in Avignon and René was delighted to hear about travel. He did his best to help the kittens get an education, and succeded very well.

---

"This is not one of those books to which little girls will cling as to their oldest doll and pass in time to daughters of their own. The trouble lies in the strained fantasy of these three little kittens who are conducted on an educational tour through Avignon. The kittens pay intelligent attention to sprightly account of papal palaces and of Petrarch and his Laura, but all they ever comment is 'Meou' which, ten times to a page, gets tedious."
— Boston Transcript p2 N 6 '29 150w

"I found it full of leads for sight-seeing." M. L. Becker
+ Outlook 152:392 Jl 3 '29 80w

"While, from the literary point of view, it is perhaps too much of a glorified guide-book, it yet offers information and entertainment in fairly just proportions. The print and illustrations are good." K. W. Seitz
+ — Sat R of Lit 6:401 N 16 '29 100w

STEWART, DONALD OGDEN. Father William. 202p il $2 Harper
29-9487

A lively comedy of a father and son competing for the hand of the same girl. A widower of forty-five, Austin Seabury knew better how to enjoy life than his college-bred son and daughter, who viewed with alarm a father that clung so persistently to life and youth. But when Pussie Whitehouse tired of playing with them, father and son turned to each other.

---

Booklist 25:397 Jl '29

"The significant thing is that these people are warm and real, not the grotesque and outrageous comic masks of Stewart's previous books. There are flashes of his familiar nonsense in the patter; occasionally it slips into the descriptions; but it never startles the story out of its amiable progress, it never breaks the illusion. First and foremost Stewart is telling a story, and he tells it extremely well." Corey Ford

+ Bookm 69:427 Je '29 420w

"There are not as many laughs in 'Father William' as in some of Mr. Stewart's magazine outpourings, but the familiar touch is there all the way through and perhaps, wears all the better for not having the hits bunched too closely." G. T. Hellman

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 My 5 '29 650w

"Mr. Stewart has done pretty well for himself in 'Father William' because it is a triumph in spontaneity." D. F. G.

+ Boston Transcript p2 My 4 '29 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p112 Jl '29

" 'Father William' is actually not only funny but realistic and penetrating. . . Mr. Stewart's humor in 'Father William' is not the insanity of his former books; it consists in the wit, the nonsense of his dialogue. There are conversations in this book more convulsing than the gorgeous silliness of A. P. Herbert's Punch articles. Only Herbert can equal it." Marjorie Johnson

+ N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 27 '29 500w

"No one of middle age or over can read it, we think, without quailing and resolving, probably to no purpose whatever, to be a better old gentleman, willing to concede his age and making no attempt to recover youth, vicariously." F: F. Van de Water

N Y Evening Post p9m Je 1 '29 160w

N Y Times p8 Ap 21 '29 580w

"These pages are as accurately lifted out of our social pattern as any that Lewis, Dreiser or Sherwood Anderson ever wrote. And therefore the pity and the tragedy of life are in these pages too, and underneath his unfailing banter runs Donald Ogden Stewart's understanding compassion. . . 'Gorgeous!' " Shaemas O'Sheel

+ N Y World p11m My 19 '29 360w

"Mr. Stewart tells a straight story this time, which, more consistently entertaining than his previous books, lacks the fantastic madness making them sometimes so gorgeous and sometimes so flat." W. R. Brooks

+ Outlook 152:113 My 15 '29 130w

Times [London] Lit Sup p981 N 21 '29 170w

Wis Lib Bul 25:162 My '29

STEWART, GEORGE CRAIG. Spanish summer. 3d (lib) ed 118p il $2.50 Morehouse

914.6 Spain—Description and travel

A little book of joyous impressions of a summer in Spain, with reproductions of twelve etchings by Jean June Myall.

---

"What this traveler chiefly seeks to communicate to the reader is a share in the joy which an unhurried and appreciative sojourn has shed upon his own spirit, and in this he happily succeeds. There have been many books about Spain which impart more information, cover more ground and settle more problems, but within the confines of his object Mr. Stewart is an admirable companion."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 Ja 20 '29 130w

"There is not much conventional tourist stuff in it, but there is much keen observation and clever comment and entertaining discourse upon the things seen and heard. Twelve good etchings by way of illustration. A very charming little book. It might have been longer and no harm done." W. E. G.

+ Christian Century 46:393 Mr 21 '29 120w

"The material, although this is admittedly a book of jottings, is too fragmentary. In the space of 118 pages we are haphazardly rallied from the descriptive to the historical, from the romantic to the religious, and from the practical to the speculative. There are some good descriptive passages and parts of the book are excellently written. In other parts the author indulges in a certain extravagance of style which will not appeal to all readers."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p739 O 11 '28 560w

STEWART, OLIVER. Aeolus; or, The future of the flying machine. (To-day and to-morrow ser.) 91p $1 Dutton [2s 6d K. Paul]

629.13 Aeronautics. Flying machines 28-23442

Mr Stewart foresees the development within the next decade of keen competition between the moving- and the fixed-wing airplane, and, for purposes of long distance flying, the development of the hydro-aeroplane. One of the later chapters gives a vivid description of an air-raid of the future.

---

Booklist 25:151 Ja '29

"Any book in the 'Today and Tomorrow' series is sure to command attention. Aeolus proves no exception. Easily and clearly written, it can be understood even by those who have slight knowledge of aerial matters." C. K. H.

+ Boston Transcript p5 D 15 '28 350w

"The 'To-day and To-morrow' series has a reputation of brilliance and provocativeness. Mr. Oliver Stewart's account of the future of the flying machine amply maintains this reputation. The writing is clever, the argumentation is fearless, and the prophecy is unhampered by any hesitation to speculate on the barest foundations." S. B.

+ — Nature 120:544 O 15 '27 280w

N Y New Tech Bks 12:36 Jl '27

"Oliver Stewart's book lacks imagination and furnishes little digestible food for thought. He is much better at discussing the more tangible problems of military flying. His book on 'The Strategy and Tactics of Air Fighting,' in which he treated aerial fighting as a science, is in most ways an admirable contribution to military aeronautics. His 'Aeolus' fails utterly to measure up to the high standard set by other writers in this thought-stimulating series." T: J. Martyn

— + N Y Times p22 Mr 24 '29 880w

"Aeolus has had some good work put into it—although that labour is largely wasted, I fear, by intemperance of statement. Mr. Stewart seems always trying to be clever: he gives me a feeling of strain and unbalance." F. Y. B.

— Spec 138:729 Ap 23 '27 350w

"His book is more humorous than scientific, and his amusing prophecies of the police regulations on future airways well deserve attention."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p286 Ap 28 '27 110w

STEWART, OLIVER. Aerobatics; a simple explanation of aerial evolutions. 78p il $1.50 Pitman

629.13 Aeronautics 29-3606

A clear and simple explanation of various stunts in stunt flying, pictured in photographs and diagrams, with an appendix of diagrams showing the movements of the controls.

---

N Y New Tech Bks 13:43 O '28

STIEGLITZ, JULIUS OSCAR, and others, eds. Chemistry in medicine; a cooperative treatise intended to give examples of progress made in medicine with the aid of chemistry. 757p il $2 Chemical foundation

615 Chemistry, Medical and pharmaceutical. Physiological chemistry 28-23023

Forty-three scientists, each writing of his special field, have cooperated in producing this book on the contributions of chemistry to medical science. It is written especially for parents to secure their co-operation in saving child life; but for any reader it offers an interestingly presented and enlightening survey of chemical progress in the medical field.

---

STIEGLITZ, J. O., and others, eds.—Continued
Reviewed by A. E. Stearn
+ — Am J Pub Health 19:459 Ap '29 500w
Booklist 25:311 My '29

"Less fascinating books on the same subject by professional writers have recently had enormous sales. But with this scholarly title and a staid cover a reviewer needs to be emphatic. It is encyclopedic, authoritative, easy to read, written by forty-three scientists of outstanding reputation and well planned by a board of editors who could produce nothing but the best." Gerald Wendt
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 F 10 '29 350w

"The editors of this book have developed a very logical organization of the vast amount of material from which they have drawn, and have chosen an outstanding worker in each line of endeavor to contribute a well-integrated, comprehensive survey of the achievements that have been accomplished in his field. Not only has the material been ably presented but it is also very readable, for it has been one of the purposes of the editors that the volume shall be available to the layman as well as to the physician." L. V. Burton
+ Chem & Met Eng 35:757 D '28 300w

"This is a most instructive and interesting book for both the physician and the layman. Each subject is discussed in non-technical language by a specialist in that field." R. R. Sayers
+ Ind & Eng Chem 21:195 F '29 430w
J Home Econ 21:131 F '29 50w

"This valuable book is unusual in plan, inclusive in scope and broad in its interest."
+ N Y Times p4 D 16 '28 620w
Pratt p14 winter '28

STILES, IRENE. Saplings. 311p $2.50 Henkle
29-29978

"Blaize and Pauline are the two 'saplings' whom we meet at eighteen, when their mutual loneliness at a London art school draws them together, and we leave them seven years later. We grow very fond of Blaize and Pauline. The boy has the usual disillusioning affairs, the girl remains steadfast; and each time, tired and unhappy, he returns to her to be comforted."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 S 8 '29 200w
Boston Transcript p7 S 14 '29 200w

" 'Saplings' is a novel of the development of [adolescent] love—and incidentally of the ripening of talent—told tenderly and sensitively. . . The latter half of the novel suffers from want of sufficient detachment. Miss Stiles is so close in range to her picture that it is slightly blurred. It might be well, too, if she could view adolescence with more humor."
+ — N Y Times p32 O 27 '29 420w

"The story of Pauline March and Blaize Harvey leaves a much cleaner taste upon the lips than the majority of stories told of modern youth. . . Young people will like this story because it expresses for them so much they feel, but cannot tell the world, and older people will like it for it gives that insight into the thoughts of youth of today which older people so much need to know." G. A. Wing
+ Portland Evening News p13 S 17 '29 220w

"The virtues of this novel are quietness and sincerity. Beyond these qualities there is little to interest or stir the reader. We never are in suspense; we never feel ourselves moved by the difficulties in the path of the lovers."
— + Sat R of Lit 6:460 N 23 '29 200w
Springf'd Republican p7e N 17 '29 280w

STILES, KENT B. Stamps; an outline of philately. 374p il $3 Harper
383.22 Postage stamps 29-24069

A book for stamp collectors written by the editor of the stamp department of the Youth's companion. It tells how to start a collection, how to classify stamps, and how to determine their value; it gives a list of philatelic agencies, describes Uncle Sam's postal paper, types of stamps, commemorative stamps, etc., and the world's rarest and most valuable stamps.

"This is indeed an everybody's book about stamps. While it has apparently been prepared with the needs of the youthful or beginning collector in mind and its text is often specifically addressed to children, so wide is the field covered and so large is the amount of information included that those who are no longer novices in stamp collecting will find it very useful for reference. The author has long been editor of the stamp departments of The Youth's Companion and The American Boy."
+ N Y Times p31 N 10 '29 200w

"The author gives deserved attention to the increasing airmail service, its stamps and first flight covers. The philatelic agencies established by nations where stamps may be bought by collectors, the universal postal union and other interesting things connected with stamps, are well treated, and at the end of the book is a glossary of philatelic terms. The book is a valuable one for a collector young or old, and it is written in a popular vein which makes it interesting as well without detracting from its usefulness as a reference work."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 1 '29 450w

STILES, PAULINE. Cloud by day. 284p $2 Doubleday, Doran
29-5965

Stephan was a gifted youth of American birth and continental upbringing. When he married Jeanne, who had been engaged to George Manton before Stephen came into her life, he had prospects of a substantial fortune. But two years later, penniless, the young couple arrived in New York. Stephen's pride prevented his asking George for help. Unequipped for the struggle by birth or training the two young people begin their battle for existence in an indifferent, unfriendly New York, till chance brings George into their lives again.

Reviewed by Garreta Busey
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Mr 24 '29 580w
N Y Times p32 Mr 24 '29 150w
Times [London] Lit Sup p825 O 17 '29 200w

STIMSON, FREDERIC JESUP. Western way; the accomplishment and future of modern democracy. 391p $3.50 Scribner
321.8 Democracy. United States—Politics and government 29-12602

"A reasoned case for American democracy (adducing much legal evidence) as a search, first, for liberty and then for a richer material life, and now, as the author makes bold to prophesy, for better things."—Yale R n s

Reviewed by E. M. Sait
Am Pol Sci R 23:1030 N '29 300w
Bookm 69:xiv Ag '29 230w

"Facts, inferences and some prejudice jostle each other in the pages of the present volume without always leaving a clear impression of how the matter stands. Mr. Stimson's legal equipment, on the other hand, especially in the field of American statute law, is exceptional, and his observations, based upon a study of the statute books, are at least grounded in thorough knowledge and his inferences are entitled to respect. As for prejudices, every writer is free to carry along as big a bundle as he chooses, and Mr. Stimson's load is neither heavier nor more important than most." W: MacDonald
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 S 1 '29 400w
Boston Transcript p3 My 18 '29 800w

"We have here not uncritical and fulsome praise of democracy, but a fundamental and genuine faith in its processes after careful study and far-reaching criticism. Indeed the author has the diverting advantage for such a task, of looking back upon a series of articles published more than 30 years ago, and now checking up on his own evaluations and assessments of tendencies." T. V. Smith

+ Christian Century 46:989 Ag 7 '29 850w

"Mr. Stimson has written a thoughtful book, imbued with good-tempered protest against tendencies in modern America which he believes have endangered the democratic principle." Lyman Bryson

+ New Repub 60:157 S 25 '29 250w

"When a book is plainly intended to be the crowning product of a long life of study and public service, it seems ungenerous to say that it is most valuable in its by-products. Yet Mr. Stimson's 'constructive' chapters, dealing with the future, are little more than tracts; many of his controversial efforts are expended in flogging pretty dead horses; and his criticism of contemporary democracy is largely vitiated by his own predilections for the freer order (except for women and workers) of an earlier day; so that it is his historical and statutory approach to the subject which is most instructive, and that chiefly for democracy's debt to the past. This instruction, however, is both authoritative and salutary, and justifies the whole volume." Clarence Britten

+ — N Y Evening Post p9m Je 1 '29 880w

"Mr. Stimson is so far disposed always to balance the evil over against the good, and at the same time insists so stoutly upon remaining an optimist, that the net impression left by his book is somewhat confused." W: MacDonald

N Y Times p1 My 12 '29 2150w

St Louis 27:305 N '29

Sat R 147:866 Je 29 '29 620w

"If there is here much of complaint against the passing of an old order, there is also honest acceptance and a rare treasure of the distilled wisdom of a long and openminded life in this book. One is frequently delighted by the restrained humor that glints under shrewd comments upon America's critics since the sympathetic de Tocqueville." W. Y. Elliott

+ Sat R of Lit 6:209 O 5 '29 1800w

Springf'd Republican p12 Je 6 '29 900w

"Mr. Stimson has written a valuable book, because of the very remarkable knowledge which he brings to bear on his subject. The question began to interest him forty years ago. Even then his work as a lawyer had given him a wide acquaintance with the output of those laboratories of legislative experiment, the forty-eight State Legislatures of the American Union. Ever since then he has continued to study legislation, European as well as American, from his special critical standpoint, with the result that he can support his argument by a conclusive wealth of illustrative detail."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p567 Jl 18 '29 1300w

STOCK, HARRY THOMAS. Church work with young people. 236p $2 Pilgrim press

257 Church work. Religious education

29-13701

"It is meant, primarily, for leaders of all sorts, suggesting an organization for Sunday as well as week-day. The book deals with the objectives of young people's work, the building of a curriculum where it touches a church school class, the training and methods employed by leaders, programs of worship, service activities, financing the budget, inter-church activities, the relations between the clergy and the young people and also how the older generation may work with them."—Churchman

---

Reviewed by B. F. Wise

Christian Century 46:1120 S 11 '29 350w

"Mr. Stock's book is practical, purposeful and progressive. Just to read this book freshens up whatever one has as an attitude towards the work among the young people, and stimulates to a renewed determination to try some of the things suggested." R. P. K.

+ Churchman p16 O 5 '29 220w

"The author has wrought so excellently throughout that a practically inclined reviewer is inspired to wish that just such a volume were available for each major group within the responsibility of the church." W: R. McNutt

+ Crozer Q 6:510 O '29 300w

STODDARD, THEODORE LOTHROP. Luck, your silent partner. 336p $2.50 Liveright

174 Chance. Success

29-18758

Material, historical and otherwise, already available on the subject of luck, is supplemented in this book by answers received in reply to a questionnaire sent to a number of eminent persons. Luck—or chance—in sport, historical events, careers, politics, business, and everyday life are among the topics treated.

---

Booklist 26:100 D '29

"The intent and energetic effort behind this volume are worthy of a loftier but not of a more entertaining theme."

+ Bookm 70:xviii N '29 170w

"Lothrop Stoddard has news sense. He knows better than any one else how to seize upon the wanted dogma of the hour and set it forth easily and persuasively. He takes only such as are gathering to a crest, and if afterwards the wave breaks and comes to nothing it matters very little, for he is already off to something else. The themes of 'The Rising Tide of Color' and 'The Revolt Against Civilization' are already set down as outmoded popular excitements. Today it is Luck. . . The book is light-hearted small talk." Clarence Terwilliger

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 O 20 '29 900w

Boston Transcript p4 O 19 '29 350w

N Y Times p14 O 6 '29 430w

"Mr. Stoddard's book is hardly important, but it is intelligent and readable."

+ — Springf'd Republican p12 S 20 '29 850w

STOKES, FRANCIS WILLIAM (FRANCIS EVERTON, pseud.). Hammer of doom. 311p $2 Bobbs [7s 6d Collins]

[29-3492]

It was said of Detective-Inspector Allport of Scotland Yard that he was "as ugly as sin, as clever as the devil, and as good as a cartload of bishops." Old Shardlow, works director of an English engineering firm, who had invented a strange metallurgical process, was murdered. The assistant works manager was accused. Then the girl he loved disappeared. Detective-Inspector Allport needed to be clever as the devil—and he was.

---

Bookm 69:xxvi My '29 40w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Mr 24 '29 80w

Boston Transcript p7 Je 22 '29 320w

N Y Times p24 My 19 '29 130w

"Written in respectable style, the ingenious plot is handled with marked skill, and maintains interest unabated to the end."

+ N Y World p7m Je 23 '29 120w

"This is a carefully conceived and well executed mystery story. Mr. Everton has a gift not only for inventiveness, but for atmosphere."

+ Spec 141:746 N 17 '28 70w

Springf'd Republican p7e S 29 '29 170w

Times [London] Lit Sup p968 D 6 '28 120w

STOKES, SEWELL. Pilloried! 296p il $2.50 Appleton [7s 6d Richards press]

920

29-6163

The title is a pretentious label for the contents of the book which consist of engaging interviews with famous people and some pointed and amusing anecdotes concerning them. Among Mr Stokes's real enthusiasms are Dame Ellen Terry, Lady Astor, Jackie Coogan, Rex Ingram and Rebecca West. Others interviewed

STOKES, SEWELL—Continued
include Frank Harris, T. P. O'Connor, Fannie Ward, and E. P. Oppenheim.

"Some of the anecdotes he relates are amusing, but his manner antagonizes by virtue of extreme superciliousness coupled with a lack of real humor. Mr. Stokes is a clever interviewer in the Frank Harris tradition, but as yet his conceit is not sufficiently assured to be more than mildly objectionable."
— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 Ap 21 '29 130w

"Some of Mr. Stokes's interviews are very clever; some illuminating in their portrayal of the character involved. On the whole, however, the author does not come within a city block of equalling the cleverness of his friend, often referred to with humorous disparagement, Beverley Nichols. For however much he may say, he does not see the object of his volume with any great clarity."
— + Boston Transcript p2 Je 19 '29 180w
Cleveland Open Shelf p125 S '29

"There are twenty-one persons pilloried considerately or otherwise in Mr. Stokes's book. We believe that they live more realistically in these brief sketches than they could in two volume autobiographies of their own fashioning, but then autobiography never was listed under the head of realism." F: F. Van de Water
+ N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 6 '29 120w

STOLOFF, CHARLES I. Your teeth. 224p il $2.50 Dutton

617.6 Teeth. Dentistry 29-2561

A New York dentist who writes and lectures on dental subjects, uses the question and answer method to good effect in this non-technical discussion of the teeth. He describes their structure and care, and explains in simple terms what the dentist does for them and how he does it.

"Practically all of the popular dental literature written to date is concerned with the child and the prevention of dental troubles. Dental health workers who have felt that the present generation was hopeless, dentally speaking, will be startled by the frankness with which Dr. Stoloff presents the opposite viewpoint on this question." E. G. MacGarthy
+ — Am J Pub Health 19:579 My '29 720w
Booklist 25:272 Ap '29
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Mr 10 '29 100w
Cleveland Open Shelf p100 Jl '29
J Home Econ 21:370 My '29 50w

"Not the sort of book that one would read consecutively, but certainly a handy reference volume. There are good sections on prevention of tooth trouble. And the excellent table of contents takes the place of an index." W. H. W.
+ N Y Evening Post p9m F 9 '29 100w
Pratt p15 summer '29

STONE, GRACE ZARING. Heaven and earth of Doña Elena. 252p il $2.50 Bobbs

29-9718

From the moment that Captain Dyke first startled Doña Elena by his unannounced presence in her convent, the saintly young Mother Superior has been unable to wrest from her memory this debonair adversary, so sure of himself and of his eventual conquest of her. Fate puts her at his mercy when the ship which carries her from Peru on a mission to Santa Cruz is captured by Dyke, yet in this encounter she is victor, and in the next, when Dyke sacks the convent town, Elena slips from him to her ally, death.

Booklist 25:397 Jl '29

"This book is not so much a novel as a single, tensely-conceived episode—an episode into which a woman's whole life has been compressed and, by compression, rendered significant and luminous. It is a beautifully restrained, yet dramatic study."
+ Bookm 69:xxiii Ag '29 180w

"Surely Miss Grace Zaring Stone's story of the tragic allurement of the lovely Spanish nun Elena, mother superior of a convent hospital in seventeenth century San Juan, could never have been written if a certain fragile bridge had not first been flung across the chasm of San Luis Rey. 'The Heaven and Earth of Doña Elena' is a delicate tour de force, infinitely thinner than Mr. Wilder's story. It is as though Miss Stone had borrowed a fragment of his romantic world and toned it with her pearly translucencies of style and manner to make a little jeweled cosmos of her own." Florence Haxton
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 Ap 21 '29 750w
Cleveland Open Shelf p112 Jl '29

"Grace Zaring Stone goes Thornton Wildering through Spain before the Armada, riding on a smooth, satisfactory style, a certain tender, though obvious, irony, and a pleasing sense of color." Edwin Seaver
+ N Y Evening Post p11m My 4 '29 150w

"A serene and lovely book. Miss Stone writes with a tenderness from which sentimentality has been exorcized and a gift for drama more terrible for its quiet. Her book can stand comparison with Mr. Wilder's work. It will not suffer thereby." F: F. Van de Water
+ N Y Evening Post p10m My 11 '29 100w

Reviewed by F: F. Van de Water
N Y Evening Post p5s Je 8 '29 100w

Reviewed by C. G. Poore
N Y Times p9 Ap 21 '29 750w

"Idealistic as it is, the book is too intensely conceived, its characters too vividly portrayed, to give any impression of thinness. Its style recalls that of 'The Bridge of San Luis Rey' in its aristocratic fineness and luminous clarity; it is from Mr. Wilder, probably, that Miss Stone has learned the art of saying just enough and no more; but the source of her style is less important than the fact that she has made it indubitably her own and as pleasant to read as it is to gaze at some white city across Mediterranean bays." E. S. Bates
+ Sat R of Lit 5:996 My 11 '29 650w

STORM, HANS OTTO. Full measure. 390p $2.50 Macmillan

29-16430

Written by a novelist who is also a radio engineer, this novel is the romance of radio from its infancy to the present day. It involves the careers and romances also of many scientists and business men who dedicated their life work to its service. Hendrick Vardan, Professor Riesendorff, and young Manley represent this human element in the story.

"Radio is the hero of this sober, realistic tale. . . Mr. Storm's narrative method is jumpy in spots, but he succeeds in giving an effective picture of a great industry without neglecting such studies of character as serve to heighten interest for those who may not be radio-minded."
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 S 22 '29 230w

"Radio, in fiction, is a more or less unexplored field, and the author was clever to think of it. Alas, he lacks ability to communicate his enthusiasms."
— + Boston Transcript p2 S 11 '29 170w

"Unfortunately Mr. Storm has cluttered what might have been an excellent novel with an abundance of purely extraneous material. In his delineation of human ruin caused by the tremendous expansion and consequent deflation of the radio industry, he has introduced such a complication of plot and sub-plot as almost completely to obliterate his main theme. Besides, the novel is too long and, like the radio company it describes, altogether too unwieldly; it lacks the hard, succinct compactness which tragedy demands."
— Nation 129:700 D 4 '29 120w

"Such a story as this could have been a powerful novel. But 'Full Measure' is not quite up to the mark. Mr. Storm writes with such a sense of the implications of his task that he rather flounders and splashes. His narrative is heavy and confused, and only in brief stretches does he really move us."
— + Sat R of Lit 6:322 O 26 '29 260w
Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 5 '30 270w

STOUT, OAKLEY. Harvest; a drama in three acts; with an introd. by Harold A. Ehrensperger. 77p $1.50 Longmans
812 29-15921

The winning play of the 1928 Drama league—Longmans, Green playwriting contest. The scene is laid in a Minnesota farmhouse in the eighties. The theme is the insane cruelty of a farmer who treated his wife and daughter more harshly than he did his animals.

---

"The scene is the Middle Border in the 1880s, and as you read through the three acts of unmitigated bickering and tyranny and woe you think of Hamlin Garland's family, on the same frontier, working just as hard, but in the evening or on holidays getting out the fiddle and singing happy songs. Were the Garlands or were the unspeakable moronic peasants of this play the type who established our empire of corn and wheat? My bet is on the Garlands." W. P. Eaton
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Je 30 '29 130w

"The excellent atmosphere of the play is about its only claim to distinction, as neither plot nor characters are original in conception or in treatment. The glimpse of early pioneer days in Minnesota is at once vivid and artistic, and the details so ordered that the whole picture has all of the grim realism of the modern Dutch painters."
— + Boston Transcript p4 Jl 13 '29 280w
St Louis 27:311 N '29

"As a new young writer of the drama of the soil Mr. Stout in Harvest is sincere, but he is imitative, with 'John Ferguson' his evident model in story and characterization." Jane Dransfield
+ — Sat R of Lit 6:75 Ag 24 '29 400w

STOUT, REX. How like a god. 313p $2.50 Vanguard press
29-20113

"From his earliest youth Bill Sidney has been dominated by his varied relations with women until, at the age of forty-one, enmeshed with a drab, his sanity menaced by the perverse and secret intensity of her hold upon him, he is ready to pay any price for escape: is planning, in fact, with the first decisive gesture of his whole career, to drag down his house of life in ruins about him. It is at this crux in his affairs that we meet him first, climbing two flights of stairs to a little sub rosa apartment on the third floor, with doom in the shape of a loaded revolver gripped in his right hand. And all that we know in the end of Bill Sidney—and it is plenty—we have learned by the time he reaches the top of those stairs."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

Bookm 70:xxviii D '29 100w

" 'How Like a God'—an extraordinarily brilliant and fascinating piece of work—is, astonishingly, a first novel. And though its author appears to have served no apprenticeship, he is not only a fluent master of his art but a molder of new forms, as well. . . It is written with unobtrusive competence and utter persuasiveness. Mr. Stout is a sympathetic explorer of the dark regions of sex psychoses; his version of what he finds there is glowingly articulate." D: C. Tilden
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 S 8 '29 1050w

"Reworked so as to fall into the straightforward pattern of a direct third-person narrative, 'How Like a God' would lose some of its sensational aspect but it would gain in genuineness. Even with all its trickery weighed in, however, it is an unusual book." C. P. Fadiman
+ — Nation 129:329 S 25 '29 500w

"Sidney's last decisive gesture is somewhat like Spandrell's in Aldous Huxley's 'Point Counterpoint.' Spandrell's collapse was the product of a social and intellectual perversity, Sidney's of innate irresoluteness and a sexual fixation. As brilliant conceptions of modern human psychoses, these two are on a parity. And Mr. Stout's exploration has a shade the better of it because of its greater range and thoroughness." F. H.
+ New Repub 60:357 N 13 '29 230w

"In spite of the lack of sequence in the narrative the author succeeds in building a complete, clearly-defined and well-balanced picture of a life. The plan is an ambitious one even for a practiced novelist; and the book's undeniable success is doubly surprising coming from a hitherto unknown writer. In 'How Like a God' Rex Stout has proved himself an author worthy of attention."
+ N Y Times p8 S 15 '29 450w

"Possibly you will call this an 'unpleasant' book, but it didn't seem so to us. We found it intensely interesting, in spite of the difficulty the author must have found in having Bill tell his story to himself. The friend, the wife, the mistress are all completely seen, three dimensional figures. And the passages dealing with his brief love affair with Lucy are charming."
+ Outlook 153:70 S 11 '29 130w

"However able the psychological treatment, to make such a record of long passivity grip the attention is a task of no little difficulty. Mr. Stout has chosen to meet this difficulty by a technical device which is exceedingly interesting. . . It is stated on good authority that this is Mr. Stout's first novel; otherwise one could never have believed it." E. S. Bates
+ Sat R of Lit 6:311 O 26 '29 600w

STOYANOVSKY, J. Mandate for Palestine; a contribution to the theory and practice of international mandates. (Contributions to int. law and diplomacy) 399p $7.50 (25s) Longmans
956.9 European war, 1914-1918—Territorial questions. Palestine—Politics and government 28-31113

"Dr. Stoyanovsky places the Palestine Mandate under the microscope and subjects it, point by point, to a close and commendably objective examination. The background is supplied by an introductory chapter, in which the history of the Palestine Mandate is briefly sketched, while a useful Appendix contains the text of the Mandate, as finally approved, and of the Orders in Council embodying the Palestine Constitution. .'. The main body of the book consists of a minute and painstaking examination of the text of the Mandate in the form in which it was eventually approved by the League Council after the vicissitudes described in the Introduction."—Nation and Ath

---

"In spite of [some] weaknesses, and of a few minor inaccuracies in points of detail, 'The Mandate for Palestine' is, nevertheless, a work of solid merit. If it contains comparatively little that is not already known to specialists, it breaks fresh ground in so far as it is the first attempt at a systematic, comprehensive, and objective analysis of the Palestine Mandate in its legal implications. Its value is increased by the inclusion of much useful information as to the manner in which the various provisions of the Mandate have actually been applied in practice through the legislative and administrative activities of the Mandatory Government." Leonard Stein
+ — Nation and Ath 44:498 Ja 5 '29 750w
New Statesman 32:474 Ja 19 '29 580w

"Dr. Stoyanovsky's book is the most dispassionate and thorough piece of analysis which has yet appeared in book form on the sub-

STOYANOVSKY, J.—Continued
ject of the Palestine mandate." E. P. MacCallum
+ Pol Sci Q 44:472 S '29 500w
Spec 141:547 O 20 '28 180w
Times [London] Lit Sup p936 N 29 '28 1100w

STRACHEY, GILES LYTTON. Elizabeth and Essex; a tragic history. 296p il $3.75 Harcourt [15s Chatto & W.]

B or 92 Elizabeth, queen of England. Essex, Robert Devereux, 2d earl of 28-26937

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Am Hist R 35:158 O '29 550w
Booklist 25:163 Ja '29
"One of the most important and moving and distinguished books of our time." Esther Murphy
+ Bookm 68:596 Ja '29 1000w
Cleveland Open Shelf p10 Ja '29
Reviewed by C: K. Trueblood
Dial 86:335 Ap '29 1450w
Pratt p32 spring '29
Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 79:30 Mr '29 370w
"A rarely vivid and searching treatment of a great period in British history." W: B. Shaw
+ R of Rs 79:10 Je '29 150w
St Louis 27:61 F '29
Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 20 '29 1550w
"In the delicate process of penetrating the maze of inter-relationships, Strachey accomplishes a score of portraits; forms emerge in a sentence; caprices caught at the original moment sparkle within the fine meshes of a paragraph." Halle Schaffner
+ Survey 62:205 My 1 '29 380w
Wis Lib Bul 24:345 D '28
"The story of Essex is one that has been told only recently by Professor Cheyney with great accuracy, skill, and sympathy; but Strachey has made three times as good a yarn of it, partly indeed by skill in handling narrative, but more by a kind of divine seeing into things that not only catches and enthrals the reader but gives him the essential truth of a decade in the court and times of Elizabeth. Of course, it is less accurate in detail." Wallace Notestein
+ Yale R n s 18:588 spring '29 930w

STRAHAN, MRS KAY (CLEAVER). Footprints. 316p $2 Doubleday, Doran 29-26170

Snow had fallen the night Richard Quilter was killed on the Quilter ranch in Oregon, but not a single footprint led to or from the house. Which of the close-knit Quilter clan in the house at the time killed the man to whom they were all deeply devoted?

Bookm 69:xxx Ap '29 40w
" 'Footprints' is a major event in its genre." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 F 10 '29 250w
"It is noteworthy to have such a story thoroughly well written with a great many human touches. The plot, characters and method of handling are all fresh, original, and more or less delightful. . . Mrs. Strahan is a keen woman whose books are the product of intelligence, power of deduction and love of human nature."
+ Boston Transcript p4 My 11 '29 300w
"This story has been awarded the Scotland Yard Prize offered by Doubleday, Doran & Co. for the best detective story submitted within the past year. It is not difficult to understand why it was selected, for apart from its general excellence it has some rather unusual features."
+ N Y Times p22 F 17 '29 250w
"To us, the explanation wasn't entirely convincing. Mrs. Strahan can write better stories than this—and has." W. R. Brooks
— Outlook 151:274 F 13 '29 80w
Pratt p42 summer '29
"The only defect of 'Footprints' is that the solution turns on a point of psychology difficult to believe in. Otherwise Mrs. Strahan is to be congratulated on a really excellent tale, absorbing, original and in every way a worthy successor to 'The Desert Moon Mystery.' "
+ — Sat R 147:328 Mr 9 '29 60w
Times [London] Lit Sup p262 Mr 28 '29 160w

STRANGE, JOHN STEPHEN. Clue of the second murder. 297p $2 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Collins] 29-25604

The problem of who, how, and why in the murder of George Stoner is proving a difficult one for Ormsberry. To complicate matters, the local police are accusing persons whom Ormsberry, assisted by his young admirer, Bill, believe innocent. At last Simon Kent, guardian of Stoner's delicate sister, Millicent, is brought to trial. Millicent is called as a witness, but collapses and dies before completing her testimony. An autopsy reveals the truth—and helps explain, also, the murder of George Stoner.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 D 15 '29 140w
"Five seconds of traditional film folly should not be allowed to spoil for him what afterwards turns out to be a clever story with a careful plot in which Mr. Ormsberry and his Admiral, while again showing immense resource and sagacity, prove to be human after all."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p929 N 14 '29 250w

STRATMANN, FRANZISKUS. Church and war; a Catholic study. 219p $2.25 Kenedy [5s Sheed & Ward]

261 War and religion 29-14460

"The book, by a Dominican priest, is decidedly worth reading by everybody interested in peace. It is a book against war; but it is not packed with platitudes. It reasons the thing out. It sets forth the conditions under which the stricter Catholic theologians regard war as justified; and then proceeds to tell us how seldom these conditions are met and how often war is sheer brutal crime."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

"A thoughtful work and one likely to do good to non-Catholic readers who are broad enough to see a universal problem through a Catholic atmosphere and mode of thought." W: A. Sullivan
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p19 Jl 21 '29 200w
"Even though not a stylist, the writer is well informed, definite, impartial, practical and unafraid. His pages deserve to be well pondered by men and nations . . . It seems fairly difficult either to disregard the author's thesis or to refute his arguments."
+ Cath World 129:370 Je '29 3050w

STRATTON, CLARENCE. Harbor pirates. 265p il $2 Macmillan 29-7299

David and Tom, who live near the waterfront of a large city, help the police in tracing a band of harbor pirates. For boys of twelve or older.

Cleveland Open Shelf p134 N '29
"It is rough and tumble, a jolly, lively yarn of waterfront boys in a great city, great swimmers, handy with their fists, clever with boats." F. L. Robbins
Outlook 152:391 Jl 3 '29 60w
"Mr. Stratton, head of the English department of the Cleveland Board of Education, reports the humor of living as well as he catches the sounds and smells of the harbor. Boys, discerning boys, will demand to hear more of David."
+ Sat R of Lit 5:1100 Je 8 '29 170w

"A book that live boys will enjoy, as it tells about boys' adventures and some of them rather exciting."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e My 26 '29 100w

STRATTON, CLARENCE. Theatron; an illustrated record. 303p il $7.50 Holt

792 Theater—Little theater movement. Theater—United States 28-31214

A description, with many illustrations, of the little theater movement in the United States. Such topics as auditoriums, the stage, realism, lighting, designing, multiple sets and the plays used are considered in detail. The book is lavishly illustrated with photographs of little theaters and their productions in the United States during the last few years.

Booklist 25:239 Mr '29

"Clarence Stratton's volume offers a broad view of the accomplishments of the current little-theatre movement, not only with respect to general standards of art but to the details of lighting, scenic design, costuming and theatre structure. The breadth of view serves to emphasize a certain idealism, with which the author's impatience at the tendencies of the commercial theatre is balanced. The volume is rich in illustrations of sets and scenes from the more notable productions in little theatres in the several cities where the movement is flourishing."

+ Bookm 69:xii Jl '29 160w

"Clarence Stratton's book is both informing and entertaining. It is without the big bias towards expressionism, constructionism and the other isms favoured by previous scribes of the movement. Nevertheless, the author believes in experiment as the life of the theater, even when the experiment proves wrong. The volume is beautifully illustrated. Some two hundred pictures illuminate the pages forming a remarkable record of the work now being done in America, from Texas to Toronto, and Maine to New Orleans." M. M.

+ Curtain Je '29 160w

"The book has, in the main, been thoroughly done. It is a contribution of value. . . But no book can supply to the aspirant for theatrical honors, even amateur honors, imagination, understanding, finesse, the power to convey a mood with subtlety, ease of motion, and clear and correct enunciation. And these are the matters on which the non-professional theatres have to concentrate or they will be a passing phase." Percy Hutchison

+ N Y Times p11 My 26 '29 1500w

St Louis 27:132 Ap '29

— Sat R of Lit 5:693 F 16 '29 230w

STRATTON-PORTER, JEANNETTE. See Meehan, J.

STRAUS, RALPH. Charles Dickens; a biography from new sources. 340p il $4 Cosmopolitan bk. [16s Gollancz]

B or 92 Dickens, Charles 28-22252

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Booklist 25:163 Ja '29

"Mr. Straus's publishers have done their part well, giving to the public a handsome, well-printed volume with attractive end-papers and a number of interesting illustrations. As to the author, his work is worthy of its handsome setting. In a most readable manner he tells his readers just what should be told about Dickens, neither a 'valet's' nor a panegyrist's account but enough to picture Dickens as he was." B. C. A. W.

+ Cath World 129:243 My '29 1000w

Cleveland Open Shelf p12 Ja '29

"Mr. Straus writes simply and with an intimacy of manner springing from his abundant familiarity with his subject. Always he keeps Dickens, the human being, before us, and we have him in all his moods. We are grateful to Mr. Straus for giving so many pages to the earlier years. These are made graphic and real, and the boy and youth struggling through them desperately is intensely human." C. G. Bowers

+ N Y World p11m N 4 '28 560w

Pratt p32 winter '29

St Louis 27:62 F '29

"Dickens had a charm, a breeziness which was irresistible. This charm was no superficial quality; it was rooted in the very heart of the man and made him beloved, and Mr. Straus manages to convey this true but elusive impression. In some ways his book is irritating: it is written in a chatty colloquial style, intolerable in so substantial a volume." E. F. Benson

+ — Spec 141:333 S 15 '28 580w

STRAWN, ARTHUR. Sails & swords; being the golden adventures of Balboa & his intrepid company, freebooters all, discoverers of the Pacific. 341p $3.50 Brentano's

973.1 Balboa, Vasco Nuñez de. America—Discovery and exploration 28-23977

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Booklist 25:205 F '29

Bookm 69:xix Mr '29 140w

"It was a marvelous tale that was waiting to be told and Mr. Strawn has told it very well indeed, with a young man's responsive thrill to the glamour of it, but with the historian's accuracy, restraint and dignity."

+ N Y Times p18 Ap 21 '29 400w

"Industry and accuracy are not everything in presenting the picture of a man of action in a distant sphere. 'Sails and Swords' is rather a blueprint of Balboa's career than a living portrait of an empire builder." W: McFee

N Y World p10m D 2 '28 540w

St Louis 27:30 Ja '29

STREBEL, RALPH FREDERICK, and MOREHART, GROVER CLEVELAND. Nature and meaning of teaching. 273p $2.50 McGraw

371.3 Teaching 29-3519

A simple interpretation of modern teaching practices based upon Thorndike's "Laws of learning," written by two members of the faculty of Teachers college, Syracuse university.

Cleveland Open Shelf p118 S '29

J Home Econ 21:451 Je '29 70w

STREET, CECIL JOHN CHARLES (JOHN RHODE, pseud.). Case of Constance Kent. (Famous trials ser.) 278p $2 Scribner [10s 6d G. Bles]

343.1 Kent, Constance Emilie. Trials [29-21431]

Constance Kent was a young English girl of respectable family who in 1860 was arrested and tried for the cold-blooded murder of her small brother.

"Deals readably enough with one of the routine horrors of the last century, the murder by sixteen-year-old Constance Kent of her baby half-brother at Road Hill House in Somerset in 1860."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p19 Mr 3 '29 130w

Reviewed by E. F. Edgett

Boston Transcript p10 My 25 '29 100w

Reviewed by Leonard Woolf

Nation and Ath 44:326 D 1 '28 90w

New Statesman 32:166 N 10 '28 120w

"The research is good, and the whole work has been most conscientiously done, but while it is interesting it is not inspired. I have long held that any study of this particular and ever-fascinating case will be definitely deficient if it does not include a psychological analysis of Miss Kent's childhood." E: H. Bierstadt

+ — Outlook 151:388 Mr 6 '29 130w

Springf'd Republican p12 F 6 '29 180w

STREET, CECIL JOHN CHARLES (JOHN RHODE, pseud.). House on Tollard ridge. 308p $2 Dodd

29-4214

An elderly man living alone in the House on Tollard ridge is brutally murdered. His only relative is an errant son who is found and tried for the murder. But young Mrs Tapgood is not satisfied and goes to her own death trying to prove Arthur innocent. Dr Priestley takes the case and to the surprise of the local police finds the murderer.

Reviewed by E. F. Edgett

\+ Boston Transcript p6 Je 15 '29 120w

"While it is not so good as some of the other Dr. Priestley stories, 'The House on Tollard Ridge' has some unusual and interesting features."

\+ — N Y Times p22 Mr 3 '29 220w

"The flaw in Mr. Rhode's story is that from the first suspicion is limited to a very small circle, and the practised reader will probably fasten on the decisive clue before reaching the fiftieth page. It speaks much for the intellectual quality of Mr. Rhode's construction that the how and why of the crime are quite as interesting to follow out as the question who did it."

\+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p42 Ja 17 '29 380w

STREET, CECIL JOHN CHARLES (JOHN RHODE, pseud.). Murder at Bratton grange (Eng title Davidson case). 272p $2 Dodd

29-16599

Sir Hector was a dissolute, grasping person; his cousin Guy a thoro idealist, who wished to put their chemical machinery business on the firm basis which it formerly had. Sir Hector, altho the larger shareholder and manager, was no favorite; the employees all loved and respected Guy. Two of the employees held a discussion as to whether the world would not be better if Sir Hector were dead, and the very next day he was found murdered. Who murdered him? Was it one of his disgusted employees or his cousin Guy? The solution is decidedly novel.

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Ag 18 '29 180w

"All of Mr. Rhode's Dr. Priestley stories have been good. This one is by far the best of the lot."

\+ N Y Times p16 Ag 18 '29 200w

"Here's a book designed to earn the scorn of all true lovers of detective stories. The author cheats most abominably. The title itself, as a matter of fact, is a little on the shady side, but the real dirty work appears in Chapter IV wherein the author in his own person, says one of his characters did certain things which he later is shown not to have done. It's very lamentable, and, what's worse, not really necessary."

— Sat R of Lit 6:164 S 21 '29 150w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 22 '29 100w

"Mr. Rhode has contrived a most cleverly worked out crime."

\+ Times [London] Lit Sup p594 Jl 25 '29 120w

STREET, JULIAN LEONARD. Where Paris dines. 321p il $2.50 Doubleday, Doran

914.436 Paris—Hotels, restaurants, etc. Wine and wine making—France 29-13238

Mr Street divides these recommended restaurants of Paris into four groups ranging from six "beyond compare" to fifty-one lesser restaurants of the middle class. Another section of the book describes specialized restaurants —those specializing in dancing, sea food, local color, etc.—and in the final section gives thoughtful advice as to wines and vintages.

Booklist 26:27 O '29

Reviewed by Lisle Bell

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Jl 21 '29 220w

"If you allow yourselves to be guided by Mr. Street you will look upon the gay life of Paris with enjoyment, good taste and detachment. You will also learn a great deal that is very interesting about rare wines and vintages of renown." D. F. Gilman

\+ Boston Transcript p3 Je 29 '29 1600w

"Mr. Street's manners as a cicerone are gracious and his information lavish; he has a humane appreciation of good living, whether unpretentious or elaborate, and a leisured discrimination." Florence Haxton

\+ N Y Evening Post p6m Jl 13 '29 400w

"The substance of this book is a little more than informatory. Mr. Street has caught and translated into English something of the Gallic spirit. One discerns in glancing through its pages that food as well as poetry or painting may reflect the fineness of a civilization." R. L. Duffus

\+ N Y Times p11 Jl 21 '29 950w

St Louis 27:308 N '29

"We are not very sure whether tourists of today have sufficient enthusiasm to eat their way through a guide-book of this kind as many would have done a hundred years ago. It would take the best part of a year to do it without serious risk of indigestion. But anyone who wants to know where to feed during a short stay in Paris will find Mr. Street's book helpful."

\+ Sat R 148:252 Ag 31 '29 200w

"For all those who wish to know where to dine in Paris both wisely and well this book by Julian Street should prove an invaluable vade mecum."

\+ Sat R of Lit 5:1181 Jl 13 '29 150w

"Mr. Street has faithfully pursued the adventure of seeking out new restaurants and exploring the resources of the old; and he tells us of his quest with intelligent appreciation. All sorts of lore are available in Mr. Street's book (including a guide to night clubs)."

\+ Spec 143:253 Ag 24 '29 600w

Times [London] Lit Sup p705 S 12 '29 250w

STREETER, BURNETT HILLMAN. Primitive church, studied with special reference to the origins of the Christian ministry; lectures delivered on the Hewett foundation. 323p $2.50 (8s 6d) Macmillan

270.1 Church history—Primitive and early church 29-18234

A general introduction to the literature of early Christianity seen from the point of view of church organization. That diversity existed in the primitive and apostolic order of the church is the conclusion of the author. Experimentation and change, as shown by historical evidence, conclusively demonstrate that in the primitive church no one system of church order prevailed.

Boston Transcript p5 D 14 '29 550w

"This book ought to have been reviewed by Bishop Manning. Certainly it is one of the most damaging assaults ever launched against the dogma of episcopacy. . . What prophet will venture to say how near we are to an ecclesiastical millennium? Even though we are no prophet, we do believe that Canon Streeter's volume will help to bring us a little nearer to that goal than we were before." S. J. Case

\+ Christian Century 47:47 Ja 8 '30 600w

"A very living, a very timely, and a very brilliant book. . . No less important than the question of fact is that of method. In subjecting an Apostolic Father of the rank of Ignatius of Antioch to an elaborate process of psychoanalysis, the writer has broken new ground, and done so with singular success. . . There is a scientific use of the imagination; and guesswork may be happy as well as the reverse. In this treatise it is, with few exceptions, at once felicitous and suggestive."

\+ Nation and Ath 45:712 Ag 31 '29 780w

Reviewed by E. B. Chaffee

Outlook 153:631 D 18 '29 160w

"This small but solid book may well turn out to be one of the most important of the pièces justificatives which are laid next year upon the table at Lambeth. . . Canon Streeter possesses that magic power of thinking his way afresh through all the material he handles, which makes his readers partners in his own sense of discovery. Few theologians give so vivid an impression of still being learners, completely and delightedly docile to facts." Evelyn Underhill

+ Spec 143:130 Jl 27 '29 800w

Times [London] Lit Sup p600 Ag 1 '29 2250w

STREETER, DANIEL WILLARD. Arctic rodeo. 356p il $2.50 Putnam

919.8 Arctic regions. Greenland—Description and travel. Eskimos. Hunting—Arctic regions 29-20035

A humorous description of a polar expedition. The author presents many new and interesting facts about the Eskimos and their life. The book gives one the impression of private adventure rather than scientific purpose.

---

"His book is both genuine and infectious mirth and thoroughly competent journalism; it should command an audience." M. L. S.

+ Boston Transcript p2 N 6 '29 300w

Cleveland Open Shelf p150 D '29

"Even if the story seems to sag in spots, it may be gratefully accepted as something out of the ordinary in Arctic literature—a jocular and entertaining account of Northland travel by one who in all probability will not want to go north of Hudson Bay again."

+ — N Y Times p4 D 15 '29 400w

Springf'd Republican p10 D 24 '29 200w

STRIBLING, THOMAS SIGISMUND. Clues of the Caribbees; being certain criminal investigations of Henry Poggioli. 319p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran

29-24376

Professor Poggioli, American psychologist, spends a year among the islands of the Caribbean studying the customs of the natives. Mr Stribling's book, divided into five separate stories, recounts Poggioli's adventures when he becomes involved in cases of murder, robbery, and mystery. As a psychological detective, the professor conducts his criminal investigations—with some startling results. He dabbles in voodooism, considers the robbery of the Bank Nationale in Martinique, and looks into some weird murders in Barbados and Trinidad.

---

For biographical sketch of the author see N Y World p10m Ap 28 '29

---

Bookm 70:xxvi Ja '30 70w

"Mr. Stribling sticks persistently to his plainer style even in the midst of the wildest and wooliest happenings—an effective ruse, if such it be. His sleuth appears to be a real master mind, and his collection of mysteries is worth the price. Especially the exotic settings." Will Cuppy

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 N 24 '29 150w

"The stories are vastly entertaining, and the element of mystery is by no means lacking, but the mysteries are solved in spite of Professor Poggioli rather than by him."

+ N Y Times p40 N 17 '29 130w

"West Indian atmosphere well presented and if the author cared less for spoofing he might have produced some good yarns." W. R. Brooks

— + Outlook 153:520 N 27 '29 40w

STRIBLING, THOMAS SIGISMUND. Strange moon. 357p $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-11670

A Venezuelan adventure in love and high finance. The hero is a young American engineer who has been sent to Venezuela to buy an oil lease. Its owner is the unscrupulous Señor Ramon Valera who is in the pay of a rival Dutch company working in a neighboring concession. And there is a beautiful dancing girl, loved by the American, who turns out to be an aristocrat and heir to the oil land he is leasing.

---

Booklist 25:397 Jl '29

"The author of Teeftallow gives us here that rarity, a thriller with humor in it. The plot is as naïve and improbable as a movie fairy tale. We unhesitatingly pronounce it a good book."

+ Bookm 69:xx Je '29 130w

"All the materials of first-rate realistic adventure are here, but dumped in so carelessly, thrown together so shoddily that its absurdities leave you bored and faintly ill at ease, your credibilities affronted. Which is rather a pity. For Mr. Stribling has observed so much and writes with such vivacity, swinging his flashing words so wide and high, that it would have taken only a little care on his part to have made this one of those marvelous tall tales one reads with wide-eyed wonder." Florence Haxton

— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p24 My 19 '29 450w

"There are certain well written pages in it and the whole story is generously splashed with the local color of Venezuela. Still it is a trivial effort to come from a writer of rare talent."

— + Boston Transcript p2 Je 22 '29 350w

Reviewed by Raymond Mortimer

Nation and Ath 45:655 Ag 17 '29 200w

"This is a comic-opera account of how the Americans drill the South Americans, and vice versa, for oil. Here we have pace and just enough verisimilitude injected into the comic passages to make them really funny. Mr. Stribling is engaged in writing piffle. He knows it. But he knows how to do it. 'Strange Moon' is first-class resort reading. We are amused." C. A. C.

+ — New Repub 59:188 Jl 3 '29 120w

New Statesman 33:603 Ag 24 '29 500w

"One's first impulse is to accept this fluffy little confection from the pen which was responsible also for 'Teeftallow' and offer up mild thanks for a reasonably entertaining and thoroughly absurd yarn that Mr. Stribling probably manufactured with one hand tied behind his back. If Mr. Stribling had cared to exercise a little more of that acrid insight which fills the pages of 'Teeftallow' and 'Bright Metal' he might have constructed an uproarious satire on the ways of the young American business man abroad. It's fair game—but Mr. Stribling hunts it only intermittently." C. P. Fadiman

+ — N Y Evening Post p11m My 4 '29 700w

" 'Strange Moon' fails of being of very great consequence. For the best, the tale is swift moving and not too preposterous. It holds the attention of the reader and grants him the satisfaction of knowing himself to be more perceptive than the hero."

— + N Y Times p7 My 5 '29 650w

"Plausible romantic adventure, well done." W. R. Brooks

+ Outlook 152:113 My 15 '29 80w

"Regarded as a whole, 'Strange Moon' gives the impression of having been written as a tour de force, an entertainment, the brilliant literary escapade of an ingenious mind. Mr. Stribling condescends to his theme, he is not mastered by it; so that in spite of the impressiveness of its separate qualities it lacks unity and compelling force. Its charm depends upon artifice and upon the quality of the author's mind; but it is an enjoyable book." L. P. Hartley

+ — Sat R 148:194 Ag 17 '29 550w

Spec 143:421 S 28 '29 160w

"One cannot deny that the situations are often exciting; but the defect is that the characters are too conventional to hide the mechanism of the action."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p622 Ag 8 '29 500w

STRINDBERG, AUGUST. Easter, and other plays. (Anglo-Swedish literary foundation pub.) 352p $2.50 (7s 6d) J. Cape & H. Smith
839.72 29-29252

"Translations of four plays by Strindberg make up the first volume published by the Anglo-Swedish Literary Foundation, which was instituted by Mr. Bernard Shaw with the prize money which he received in 1926 under the Nobel Award for the year. . . The plays are 'Easter,' translated by Mr. E. Classen; 'The Dance of Death,' translated by Mr. C. D. Locock; 'The Dream Play,' also translated by Mr. Locock; and the 'Ghost Sonata,' translated by Mr. Erik Palmerstierna and Mr. James Bernard Fagan."—Sat R

Bookm 70:463 D '29 380w

Reviewed by Francis Birrell
Nation and Ath 44:107 O 20 '28 750w

Reviewed by Edwin Seaver
N Y Evening Post p7m Ag 10 '29 550w

"Within the covers of this single book students of Strindberg can watch his caged mind beating in agony against the bars of domesticity and then escaping into that world of fantasy which is so often the compensation for the tortures suffered by the feverish introvert. The translations read well."
Sat R 147:440 Mr 30 '29 480w

"The plays are all four of great interest—as dramas and as documents. Everything that Strindberg wrote centred round his own phantasmagoric battle with life."
Spec 142:sup469 Mr 23 '29 1400w

STRINGER, ARTHUR JOHN ARBUTHNOTT Cristina and I. 301p $2 Bobbs
29-18938

"'Cristina and I' is entirely composed of a dialogue between a novelist who fancies his knowledge of psychology and his sister-in-law who fancies herself. The novelist expounds his version of what women have been and what they are coming to if they don't watch out. Cristina glides glibly in and out of the discussion, holding the old verdict that woman is capricious. The slender thread of story is Cristina's inability to decide to marry the young man she loves."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 N 24 '29 450w

"The material itself is neither new nor startling. It would, at this late date, have been surprising if any psychological or emotional recesses of the 'modern' young woman had indeed escaped exploration and record. But Mr. Stringer set for himself no such abstruse task. The result is just what one might expect: an unhectic, respectable, conversational recapitulation, with occasional personal quips and sallies."
Boston Transcript p2 O 9 '29 270w
N Y Times p38 O 6 '29 400w
Springf'd Republican p6e D 15 '29 300w

STRINGER, ARTHUR JOHN ARBUTHNOTT. Woman at dusk, and other poems. 156p $2.50 Bobbs
811 29-1541

Poems either in blank verse or rhyme, most of which have appeared in leading periodicals. The poem "Hephæstus" is the only one which has appeared in book form previously.

"The lack of freshness, more than anything else, keeps the reader from being stirred by this author's work. It is a thing you regret particularly because here and there a poetic power is visible, and beauty emerges." C: Divine
— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 My 26 '29 50w
Boston Transcript p7 N 28 '28 200w
Christian Century 46:82 Ja 17 '29 100w

"Blank verse and rhymed stanzas—Arthur Stringer turns them out exact, measured, highly polished, perfectly finished, like good 'period' furniture or excellent reproductions of old silverware; identical in style and proportions with the genuine old pieces, but in some subtle way lifeless and empty of delight." Shaemas O'Sheel
— N Y World p11m Ja 13 '29 120w

STRINGER, ARTHUR JOHN ARBUTHNOTT. Woman who couldn't die. 315p $2 Bobbs
29-8392

This is the strange tale of a beautiful viking goddess delivered from her icy casket after sleeping for centuries. A doctor organizes an expedition to the Arctic to find and rescue this woman, the heroine of a Norse legend. One of the expedition tells the weird story of finding a lost Indian tribe, and its goddess, the sleeping woman, and of her resurrection.

Boston Transcript p2 My 29 '29 300w

"What happens is a bit too much for ready swallowing by even the most credulous and imaginative reader."
— Sat R of Lit 5:935 Ap 20 '29 150w

STROBEL, MARION (MRS J. H. MITCHELL). Lost city. 58p $1.50 Houghton 811 28-23952

Short poems, many of them concerned with subjective emotionalism. The poems under the general title Nursery are delightful bits about children.

"For the most part, these cold and brittle lyrics represent the varied facts of a single experience. The mood, as is not altogether rare in verse of this kind, is often wilful and perverse. There is no effort to integrate separate experiences into some whole that will have a meaning to the mind or the imagination." W: Troy
— + Bookm 68:692 F '29 130w

"She throws off a musical, airy nothing, but more often the sense of artificiality or the lack of vital feeling is the dominant impression left with you by her poems."
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Ja 20 '29 130w
Boston Transcript p4 D 26 '28 250w
Cleveland Open Shelf p54 Ap '29

STRONG, ANNA LOUISE (ANISE, pseud.). China's millions. 413p il $4 Coward-McCann
951 China—History—Republic, 1912- 28-25070
For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Booklist 25:205 F '29

Reviewed by C: A. Beard
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 D 2 '28 1300w
Christian Century 46:748 Je 5 '29 40w
Cleveland Open Shelf p13 Ja '29

Reviewed by L: S. Gannett
Nation 128:234 F 20 '29 300w

"There is no other book on China like this, and all the rest put together make but an incomplete picture without it." H. F. Ward
+ New Repub 58:52 F 27 '29 500w

Reviewed by N: Roosevelt
N Y Times p1 Ag 11 '29 500w
Pratt p32 autumn '29

"Few writers have presented the whole perplexing, seemingly contradictory, situation in China so clearly and so vividly as has Dr Strong." E. P. K.
+ Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 24 '29 1600w
World Tomorrow 12:187 Ap '29 30w

STRONG, ANNA LOUISE (ANISE, pseud.). Red star in Samarkand. 329p il $3.50 Coward-McCann 915.8 Samarkand. Asia, Central. Bolshevism
29-22809

Samarkand, among other countries in central Asia, has come under Bolshevik control, and the country, as Miss Strong describes it, is undergoing the change from Eastern to Western customs. Chief among the new movements is the emancipation of woman, and the author describes the changes that "unveiling" is gradually bringing about. She also tells of other economic, political and social reformations that the replacing of Allah by Karl Marx has brought about.

---

"Miss Strong's observations are not of the embalmed romance of that region but of the new life that is breaking through the age-long cocoon. . . She has observed all the aspects of this world with vivacity, humor and a strong appreciation of human values. She is a reporter, with all an American's relish of the individual instance and the specific occurrence. Yet she sees the spectacle as a whole." Rebecca Drucker

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p21 D 15 '29 850w

"Miss Strong's book has an interest and fascination which the innumerable accounts of the Russia written from Moscow or the Volga often lack. In her pages the hard outlines of a mechanical and material civilization are softened by the atmosphere of the ancient summer of the world. And the importance of her testimony, granting that it is colored by her historical imagination and personal sympathy, is beyond question." R. M. Lovett

+ New Repub 60:378 N 20 '29 1600w

Reviewed by Edwin Seaver

N Y Evening Post p10m O 19 '29 200w

STRONG, EUGENIE (SELLERS) (MRS S. ARTHUR STRONG). Art in ancient Rome. (Ars una; species mille) 2v 199;220p il $5 Scribner [ea 10s Heinemann]

709.37 Art, Roman 29-6319

A history and description of the whole field of art in ancient Rome, written for both the student and the general reader. There are numerous illustrations.

---

Booklist 25:275 Ap '29

"Mrs. Strong's human sympathies make the book delightful."

+ Nation and Ath 45:540 Jl 20 '29 800w

"This book is not only invaluable as a guide book, but whoever spends an idle afternoon over it, turning its pages, will see what was before a chaos of impressions arranging themselves into a pattern. Treating the book in that way has given me the kind of pleasure which those films give which compress the story of the life and death of a plant into a few minutes."

+ New Statesman 33:215 My 25 '29 1700w

Pratt p21 summer '29

"Here is a compact but sound and full guide to the whole history of Roman art, with abundant apparatus for more detailed study of any aspect which appeals to the individual reader. Its compilation must have been a severe task, but it will deserve the respect and gratitude of all subsequent scholars in the field."

+ Sat R of Lit 6:41 Ag 10 '29 280w

"The author's scrupulous care in preparing her material has not prevented her from casting it in the form of a commentary capable of interesting the student, connoisseur or thoughtful tourist. Indeed, she has provided a practical introduction to a vast subject."

+ Springf'd Republican p10 F 28 '29 450w

"Mrs. Strong is at home in every highway and byway of the subject; no discovery escapes the meshes of her far-flung net. Her illustrations—necessarily on a small scale—though they cannot give an adequate representation of the quality of the originals, at any rate serve as an index to nearly all the more important monuments, and fall not far short of 600 in number. The bibliographies which close each chapter are useful and up to date."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p174 Mr 7 '29 580w

STRONG, LEONARD ALFRED GEORGE. Dewer rides. 351p pa 75c Boni [7s 6d Gollancz]

[29-15870]

"This problem in human conduct is worked out in the case of a Dartmoor farmer boy, Dick Brendon. Dick was straight, strong, passionate, humorous. After throwing away his chance for a gentleman's education, he was apprenticed to a local farmer. He fell in love with Ruth Palmer, a local girl, and she with him. They were to be married. It was not to be. A long engagement filled Dick with a mad and resentful energy. His wooing became impatient and rough. Ruth recoiled from the turmoil of senses which he aroused, and finally told him that she could not marry him. This decision is the tragic crisis of the book, tragic because it is innocently evil, rather than sentimentally depressing."—N Y Times

---

Reviewed by L. L. Irvine

Nation and Ath 45:436 Je 29 '29 200w

" 'Dewer Rides' is an admirable piece of work. Its morality is firmly sustained and austere. Its characters, its descriptions, its locale and its motivation are distinguished by delicacy and unusual depth. It is the first of the Paper Books to deserve a more permanent format."

+ N Y Times p6 D 29 '29 700w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks

Outlook 153:671 D 25 '29 150w

"Mr. Strong has packed into his first novel more than most novelists get into two or three; purple passages, like the rhapsody on village life; exquisite little scenes full of humour and human nature, like the incident in which Dick buys the engagement ring; the profound study of various types of boyhood embodied in the opening chapters. A remarkable insight into the lives of the peasantry of Dartmoor—one could go on enumerating instances in which Mr. Strong's bold, original and individual treatment has made old material seem like new. His imagination gives the impression of being endlessly fertile with untapped resources; it only remains for him to arrange them better." L. P. Hartley

+ — Sat R 148:24 Jl 6 '29 360w

"Remarkably interesting as promise, but very imperfect as fulfilment. It is not that Mr. Strong has no sense of character. He has a very true and lively sense of it; he already excels, indeed, in still portraiture. But he cannot make his characters develop. They do not move naturally, but jump violently from one phase to another. If Mr Strong can overcome this difficulty he should do notably good work. His vision is both large and minute; he conveys atmosphere; and his descriptive gifts are far above the average." Gilbert Thomas

+ — Spec 142:982 Je 22 '29 380w

"This is a powerful theme and, on the whole Mr. Strong has handled it powerfully. At times he rises to epical heights of description. . . Much of the detail is irrelevant to the theme of the book, and Mr. Strong is very apt to overwrite some of his passages. But these more obvious weaknesses will no doubt be cured by experience, and we can at least congratulate Mr. Strong on having written a remarkable first novel."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p512 Je 27 '29 450w

STRONG, SYDNEY DIX, ed. We believe in immortality; affirmations by one hundred men and women. 193p $1.50 Coward-McCann

237 Immortality 29-6874

A symposium in which nearly one hundred noted American men and women of widely differing faiths and creeds, express their convictions on the subject of immortality.

---

Booklist 26:54 N '29

Reviewed by J. H. Holmes

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Je 23 '29 120w

STRONG, S. D., ed.—Continued

Boston Transcript p5 Mr 9 '29 400w

Churchman 139:27 Ap 6 '29 160w

Reviewed by Edwin Seaver

N Y Evening Post p10m F 23 '29 450w

STRYKER, LLOYD PAUL. Andrew Johnson; a study in courage. 881p il $6 Macmillan

B or 92 Johnson, Andrew 29-11904

Following Judge Winston's biography of Andrew Johnson (Book Review Digest, 1928), comes a larger and more partisan volume written, like the earlier biography, with the purpose of rehabilitating the impeached president and giving him his proper place in history.

"It is a pity that as well intentioned a book as this should not have been written in a less excitable vein. We are all prepared to listen sympathetically to a rehearing of the case for Andrew Johnson. But the court in which it must be argued is a critical court, not a popular forum, and the advocate who takes a partizan tone puts himself at a disadvantage." N. W. Stephenson

— Am Hist R 35:139 O '29 1000w

Am Pol Sci R 23:1054 N '29 220w

Booklist 26:30 O '29

"The effort to vindicate Johnson is complicated, from the popular point of view at least, by the fact that the circumstances which brought about his impeachment and trial were not clear-cut issues, but debatable points of constitutional law—very important, but extremely massive and obscure. Mr. Stryker writes with an enthusiasm, however, which surmounts the difficulty of his subject. The result is a clear and scholarly work, animated by a very moving ardor." Margaret Wallace

+ Bookm 69:666 Ag '29 450w

"Mr. Stryker gives us in greater detail than is to be found anywhere else the story of Johnson's struggle with Congress. The work is thorough and scholarly, based upon a careful study of the sources, and it presents a picture of the political horizon of the '60s that is not to be equaled in any other work of a similar scope; and yet, though the biography is masterly, it falls short of being a masterpiece. It is indeed, a splendid piece of special pleading and completely lacks that aloofness, that nonpartisanship, that dispassionateness which is the quality of the greatest histories." H: S. Commager

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 Je 16 '29 1550w

"Mr. Stryker's book, giving so much attention to the impeachment, is an attempt to rehabilitate the rehabilitated. The author is not satisfied with Judge Winston's careful and sober biography of last year; he must perforce write a biography which is altogether enthusiastic, which meets vindictiveness with vindictiveness, which takes no notice of the temper of the times and the unavoidable antagonisms which followed a great fratricidal war and the abolishment of an institution which civilization could not defend." S. L. Cook

— Boston Transcript p6 Je 1 '29 2050w

"Mr. Stryker's work rests upon a solid foundation of research and sweeps away many legends. He makes no saint of Johnson, but an honest and courageous man."

Christian Century 46:1512 D 4 '29 170w

"Quite recently Judge Winston gave us a well-rounded biographical study covering the entire period of Johnson's life in some detail, and now Lloyd Paul Stryker offers another biography which differs in that it is confined very largely to the eight years beginning with the Civil War and ending with his retirement from the Presidency. The Winston biography has an advantage in that it paints in the background of a remarkable career, is more closely knit, more concentrated, and moves more smoothly and consecutively. It is more judicial in its estimates of men as well. Even so, the Stryker book is intensely interesting and valuable. Even where it may treat a phase disproportionately—it gives 164 pages to the impeachment trial alone—it serves a purpose." C. G. Bowers

+ Nation 129:19 Jl 3 '29 800w

"It is not in the true historical temper. Mr. Stryker acts as an attorney for the defence whose chief object is to sway the jury by harsh attacks on the prosecution. He goes to extraordinary lengths in his process of exonerating Johnson by abusing Ben Wade, Stevens, and their followers. Mr. Stryker, like Johnson, would have been more effective if he had omitted the epithets and let the acts and speeches of these men speak for themselves." Allan Nevins

— + New Repub 59:345 Ag 14 '29 1000w

"Mr. Stryker gives us more than an upstanding, vividly interesting life of Johnson. For with it we have one of the most careful and detailed accounts of his hero's valiant but fruitless efforts to prevent a radical Republican Congress from carrying out that carpet-bagging regime of theft and spoliation in the conquered South which blossomed in its most corrupt luxuriance during Grant's pitiable administration. The plan of the work and the manner in which it is written are alike admirable." F: H. Martens

+ N Y Evening Post p4s Je 8 '29 550w

"This story of black disgrace and heroic courage has never been told either so well or so fully and thoroughly as in Mr. Stryker's book. It is not merely a biography of Johnson; it is rather a complete portrayal of the man in his relation to the times. . . It is an extraordinary book that Mr. Stryker has written. It tells the whole story thoroughly for the first time, for it is much more than a biography. His research is prodigious, the ground covered is vast, and the results he achieves are ample." C: W. Thompson

+ N Y Times p3 Je 2 '29 1900w

"Mr. Stryker requires more than 800 pages to present his work, but when one considers the magnitude of his accomplishment within them the number seems relatively small. There can be no doubt that the volume is a contribution to American history of outstanding importance among those published in the past decade." E. C. Beckwith

+ N Y World p7m Je 16 '29 350w

Reviewed by L. F. Abbott

Outlook 152:266 Je 12 '29 300w

Pratt p34 autumn '29

R of Rs 80:12 Jl '29 260w

"The book is a bit amateurish in form and often needlessly sarcastic in manner, but it nevertheless deserves a hearty welcome because of the solid and truthful substance which it contains." W: MacDonald

+ — Sat R of Lit 6:35 Ag 10 '29 1000w

Spec 143:337 S 14 '29 250w

"As a contribution to historical writing this work cannot be rated high; yet it has usefulness as a popular account designed to set forth the statesmanlike aims of the President. It is a long, spirited book, journalistic in character and partisan in judgment, yet reasonably well documented, and the purpose of reinstating Johnson in public esteem is accomplished within the limits imposed by the author's rhetorical style and emotional temperament."

+ — Springf'd Republican p7e Je 16 '29 820w

"Mr. Stryker has done his work thoroughly. He has explored every available source of information, and he has brought together all the facts essential to an understanding of what Johnson was and did. The result is an entirely convincing proof not only that Johnson was undeserving of the evil reputation that has clung to him so long, but also that his character and services to his country entitle him to be regarded as one of the most praiseworthy figures on the roll of American Presidents. Unfortunately, this book is written in a fashion that tends to repel rather than enlist one's sympathies. It is disfigured by a melodramatic, not to say screeching, literary style, and by quite unnecessary virulence of tone whenever its author is describing or discussing Johnson's opponents."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p830 O 24 '29 900w

Reviewed by J. G. Randall

Yale R n s 19:416 winter '30 850w

STRZYGOWSKI, JOSEF. Early church art in northern Europe; with special reference to timber construction and decoration. 172p il $8 Harper [21s Batsford]

726 Church architecture—Europe. Church decoration and ornament [29-16551]

"Professor Strzygowski—who is Professor of Art History in the University of Vienna—is the originator of the theory that medieval art cannot be explained with reference to Greece, Rome and Italy alone, but that it derives important characters from Northern Europe and Nearer Asia. Professor Strzygowski has written several books on the subject, most of them dealing with the Asiatic contribution to medieval art, from Iraq, Armenia and elsewhere; but in the present work he limits himself, after a preliminary chapter on the pre-Romanesque art of the Croatians, to the wooden architecture of Eastern and Northern Europe, as it may be found in Russia, Finland, Scandinavia and the British Isles."—Times [London] Lit Sup

---

"What is rare among archæologists, he never overstates his case, but is content to support it solidly with facts. His careful tracing of similarities in detail, his argument for the missing clue of timber structures and the steady development of his theory should appeal even to readers of detective stories. Diagrams and photographs are ample and adequate."

+ New Statesman 33:476 Jl 20 '29 380w

Times [London] Lit Sup p584 Jl 25 '29 1100w

Wis Lib Bul 25:319 O '29

STUART, DONALD CLIVE. Development of dramatic art. 679p $6 Appleton

809.2 Drama—History and criticism 28-29736

A discussion of those dramatists and dramas that have influenced the development of modern dramatic art. Those dramas which, while of value in themselves, have not so influenced modern drama are not considered. The book follows the course of dramatic history from Aeschylus to O'Neill.

---

Booklist 25:242 Mr '29

Bookm 69:xxii Jl '29 180w

Reviewed by W. P. Eaton

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Ja 20 '29 250w

"For anyone who wishes an interesting story of the drama through the ages there are few better books, if any."

+ Boston Transcript p4 Ja 26 '29 300w

"Professor Stuart's generous and thoroughly documented researches cannot fail to interest students of the theatre. Taken in conjunction with such a book as Mantzius's 'History of Theatrical Art,' it provides a valuable picture of the theatre from Æschylus to O'Neill." Rosamond Gilder

+ Outlook 151:149 Ja 23 '29 800w

"It is all done with scholarly application, and it is difficult to know what to pick out for special praise among the solid studies of influences and playwrights and periods in the book."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p180 Mr 7 '29 950w

Wis Lib Bul 25:193 Je '29

STUART, GRAHAM HENRY. Latin America and the United States. (Century political science ser.) 2d ed rev 465p $3.75 Century

327.72 Spanish America—Foreign relations—United States. United States—Foreign relations—Spanish America 28-12815

"The second edition of Professor Graham H. Stuart's Latin America and the United States [first published in 1922] has been revised and expanded more than sixty pages to include material covering the past six years."—Am Pol Sci R

---

Am Pol Sci R 23:228 F '29 320w

"Professor Stuart shows critical judgment in dealing with the many diplomatic difficulties; he approaches the controversial topics with a fairness and accuracy which deserves cordial approval. The book is a most useful, timely and thorough study, adapted to both college students and the public." H. T. Collings

+ Ann Am Acad 143:375 My '29 230w

Booklist 25:88 N '28

"Considerable revision has indeed been done and the work has been brought down to date, but it is still unsatisfactory. In his previous work Professor Stuart neglected to consult many important Latin-American authorities. In this second edition the defect has been remedied only partially. One looks in vain in his footnotes and reference lists for Latin-American sources. Moreover, certain important topics have not received adequate treatment. Perhaps it should, in justice, be added that Professor Stuart has faithfully examined the English language sources in the United States and has presented an impartial account of what these reveal. His conclusions are set forth, also, in an attractive style and his book is equipped with four good maps and a fairly adequate index." J. F. Rippy

— + Pol Sci Q 44:152 Mr '29 350w

R of Rs 78:18 Ag '28 40w

St Louis 26:347 N '28

STURT, MARY, and OAKDEN, ELLEN C. Matter and method in education. 345p $2.50 Dutton [7s 6d K. Paul]

371 Teaching. Education

Written by two English educators and designed as a textbook in education, this book is an exposition of school practice and methods today against their historical background.

---

Boston Transcript p4 Jl 6 '29 220w

"Of interest to American readers both for its picture of English conditions and for the author's incidental comparisons with our own ideas and methods."

+ J Home Econ 21:607 Ag '29 90w

"The book is brightly written, and exposes in detail many stupidities on the part of teachers and of those who organize schools, but it does not press for radical reforms, nor ask very insistently how far the majority of schools today do really educate the majority of children. Little is said about the probable effects of the reorganization now taking place in many areas."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p120 F 14 '29 210w

SUCKOW, RUTH (MRS FERNER NUHN). Cora. 334p $2.50 Knopf

29-20015

" 'Cora' presents the Schwieterts, a German immigrant family, undergoing the painful process of Americanization in a little Iowa town and, later, a factory city. Out of this root the life of Cora, the most provocative and ambitious member of the new generation, flowers into a thorny blooming. At the end of the story she is a modern woman with a place in the community and a prosperous business of her own, a small daughter to choose frocks for, a bad marriage safely behind her and a series of dinner engagements, with not impossible suitors ahead. 'Well,' say the neighbors, 'that girl has got somewhere.' The trek thither is the novel."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

Booklist 26:72 N '29

"The motivation, the events in the heroine's life and their effect, are convincing. But the characterization is thin. Cora herself lacks warmth; one would like to sympathize with her but one cannot. Intellectually the author has made her point: she has outlined an authentic, pitiable life; emotionally she has not convinced us."

SUCKOW, RUTH—Continued
— + Bookm 70:312 N '29 430w

" 'Cora' definitely celebrates Miss Ruth Suckow's coming of age as a novelist. Her style has grown supple and smooth. Never pretentious or literary, it is now always perfectly fit. Her early tenseness has yielded to a new fluency till, more than in most writers, thought and word are beautifully hand in glove." Florence Haxton
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 O 20 '29 1400w

"It is an excellent work of art, yet as a human document, why is it that it leaves so much to be desired? Cora is hard, strong, admirable, but all too devoid of endearing human weakness. Her very love affair is a matter of selfish passion rather than human tenderness. Her character is somehow sterile, and great books are not often written around sterile characters." M. L. S.
— + Boston Transcript p2 O 30 '29 650w

"Quite different from the Sinclair Lewis school of writers, Miss Suckow is in sympathy with the traditions and thought habits of her people. This is not a blind love, nor is her attitude much tinged with sentiment; she writes as a woman would talk to her own people whom she understands and respects, even while she applies the wholesome spur of household humor."
Christian Science Monitor p14 D 7 '29 800w

"In 'Cora' the author has done a more 'whole' piece of work than she has in any of her previous books. Here life is never overwhelming to such an extent that happiness cannot still be rescued from the chaos. If the general tone is still pessimistic, it is a pessimism that recognizes many comforting factors. And through all the story, written in Miss Suckow's inimitably placid, yet vital style, there runs that strain of understanding, that recognition of people as essentially related to one another, which makes her characters at once individual and part of a larger unit."
+ N Y Times p6 O 13 '29 800w

Reviewed by Pierre Loving
N Y World p11m O 27 '29 450w

"The book has the merits of its femininity. It is delicate, gentle and unforced. The love-episode is described with a touch of lyrical beauty, all the more remarkable when its chief characters are so uninspiring. And in contrast to most American novels it presents a world where affection is constant and publicity unsought." L. P. Hartley
+ Sat R 148:731 D 14 '29 470w

SULLIVAN, ALAN (SINCLAIR MURRAY, pseud.). Broken marriage. 319p $2 Dutton [7s 6d Murray]
29-8990

Two thousand pounds are held in trust for Vere Craig until her marriage. To pay off her sister's debts Vere marries a stranger who leaves at once for Africa. When Vere learns something more about him she follows resolutely to the desert, where, in the midst of peril, the broken marriage is mended.

---

"With the usual ingredients Mr. Murray has fashioned a story of mystery and passion."
Bookm 69:xxix Jl '29 40w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Ap 21 '29 80w

"It seems to us that Mr. Murray is gathering materials for his African background must have devoted himself assiduously to the works of E. M. Hull and P. C. Wren. This is a far better story than was 'The Sheik' but it is not as interesting as 'Beau Geste.' "
Boston Transcript p2 Je 19 '29 200w
N Y World p10m My 12 '29 60w

"This is neither a Dreiserian study of the breakdown of matrimonial tradition nor an Elinor Glyn sort of sex-catastrophe. It is just a good story of how an attractive man who was a woman-hater and an attractive woman who was a man-hater met and for convenience married."
Sat R of Lit 5:1005 My 11 '29 50w
Times [London] Lit Sup p522 Jl 12 '28 200w

SULLIVAN, ALAN (SINCLAIR MURRAY, pseud.). Splendid silence. 278p $2.50 Dutton [7s 6d J. Murray]
29-7486

A story of British sturdiness and loyalty enacted in England and British Columbia.

---

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 Ap 7 '29 320w

"Mr. Sullivan writes with a refreshing crispness and vigor. The narrative moves swiftly, interspersed here and there with passages of excellent descriptive quality."
+ N Y Times p30 Mr 17 '29 130w

"The tale is pleasant and readable, but very circumscribed by convention.
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p261 Mr 28 '29 250w

SULLIVAN, EDWARD DEAN. Rattling the cup on Chicago crime. 214p $2 Vanguard press
364 Crime and criminals—Chicago 29-14728

"Here a newspaper man merely tells what he has learned about Chicago's gangsters, criminals, crooked police, and gamblers. When a prisoner rattles his drinking cup against his cell bars as a signal to the guard, his mates are likely to assume that he wishes to 'squeal on his pals.' In one way and another Mr. Sullivan has picked up a good deal of the information that is thus circulated."—R of Rs

---

"The book is as interesting as the source of its title."
+ Bookm 69:xii Ag '29 120w

"Mr. Sullivan knows what he is talking about. As a newspaper man he had facilities for observation of which he made the most. It is true that he has added nothing new to the discussion—what is there to add?—but he has arranged his material into a smooth, well balanced, comprehensive and ironical book. If you want the lowdown on Chicago, here it is." W. R. Burnett
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 Ag 25 '29 700w

"The crookedness of politicians, the bribery of police officials, the 'getting away with murder,' literally and in fact, are all told in such plain language that the most callous reader must quail at the recital. And it is related in such a brisk and breezy style, humorous in some places, but never flippant, and often with righteous indignation, that it is not only easy to read, but almost impossible to lay aside till the end is reached." G. B.
+ Boston Transcript p2 Jl 10 '29 400w

Reviewed by P. H. Douglas
Nation 129:630 N 27 '29 180w

Reviewed by C: W. Thompson
N Y Times p1 Je 9 '29 1600w

"A well written book about racketeering in Chicago, which will serve to coordinate the bits of knowledge about Scarface Al Capone, Dion O'Banion, Bugs Moran, Mayor Bill Thompson and other prominent Chicagoans which you have picked up through newspaper accounts of gang battles, election scandals and bootleg rings in the past few years." W. R. Brooks
Outlook 152:434 Jl 10 '29 250w
R of Rs 80:20 Jl '29 100w
St Louis 27:282 O '29

"The close and circumstantial connection which the book details between crime and officialdom in Chicago is its most valuable element. Apart from that, it is a lively, sometimes flippant, narrative of the crimes and criminals that of recent years have made Chicago a center of horrified attention." R. J. Davis

+ Sat R of Lit 6:178 S 28 '29 140w

"Written with a swift humor that is occasionally reminiscent of Mark Twain, Sullivan's book resolves itself into a terrific indictment of prohibition and all its ramifications."

World Tomorrow 13:42 Ja '30 130w

SULLIVAN, FRANK. Innocent bystanding. 260p $2 Liveright

817 28-23939

"Mr. Sullivan pokes fun at all our bright American ways. You cannot tell him much about overcoming sales resistance, interviewing, meeting famous octogenarians of finance or spending those doleful festivals known as holidays. . . Nor is anything more cosily domestic than Mr. Sullivan's account of Beatrice Lillie, always at her ease, receiving in the waiting room of the Pennsylvania Station which she had taken furnished for the season."—Boston Transcript

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 N 4 '28 580w

"Mr. Sullivan is really witty. He is original, never forced, always graphic, forever a delight." D. F. G.

+ Boston Transcript p10 D 8 '28 400w

"It will readily be seen that Mr. Sullivan is still doing funny business in the same old style."

+ N Y Times p10 N 24 '29 380w

"Taken in daily doses Frank Sullivan may be a tonic for the most chronic dyspeptic. But when his contributions are made the contents of a book, as in 'Innocent Bystanding', the humor becomes somewhat monotonous. Mr. Sullivan is funniest, when he calmly relates, with the humorist's license of exaggeration, prosaic occurrence of the street."

— + Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 20 '29 100w

SULLIVAN, JOHN WILLIAM NAVIN. Bases of modern science. 274p $2 Doubleday, Doran [12s 6d Benn]

530.9 Physics—History 29-10021

Mr Sullivan explains the discoveries made and the theories propounded by those scientists on whose work modern science is based.

"I cannot urge its reading too strongly upon all who have an interest in contemporary science. It is clear, logical, fair to the difficulties that bristle everywhere along the way, and to the best of my knowledge and belief it is correct in its picture of the grotesque constructions of modern physics." H. M. Parshley

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Je 9 '29 1100w

"It would be a mistake to suppose that his book is light reading, but whoever is willing to give a few hours to its careful study will find that he has gained a clear notion of the work which has been done by mathematicians and physicists in the last three centuries. Mr. Sullivan knows what he writes about and (as Cromwell said) 'loves what he knows.' Hence his book is at once clear, exact, and interesting."

+ Nation and Ath 44:329 L 1 '28 720w

"What Mr. Sullivan has done, and done well, is to give us, without bewildering and unnecessary detail, and without the intrusion of ugly mathematical formulae, a history of the growth and development of physical science from the time of Copernicus to the present day. Mr. Sullivan has selected the material for his purpose well, and has marshalled it with skill. . . The non-scientific reader who is interested in scientific thought might be very well advised to attempt this book. He may not find it easy, but it is unlikely that he will be able to acquire any real understanding of the matter on easier terms." J. A. C.

+ Nature 123:273 F 23 '29 730w

New Statesman 32:471 Ja 19 '29 250w

N Y New Tech Bks 14:13 Ja '29

"The careful selection, together with a remarkable faculty for the clear and simple statement of abstract ideas, makes his book one that is understandable by non-mathematical laymen."

+ N Y Times p12 Ap 28 '29 380w

"The only real defect of the volume seems to lie in its over-emphasis upon the purely esthetic and arbitrary element in the enterprise of mathematical physics. Despite this defect which the reviewer feels rather keenly, Mr. Sullivan's book stands as one of the best of the primer histories of science." W: P. Montague

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:1069 Je 1 '29 280w

"A disappointing book to come from a writer as distinguished as Mr. J. W. N. Sullivan. He tells us he has deliberately omitted the use of mathematical symbols; but he has not thereby always made his points plain. A book such as this should be capable of being read by a thoughtful reader with the excitement we give to a detective novel: that has been done by other scientific writers, but by such a test Mr. Sullivan fails."

— Spec 141:702 N 10 '28 80w

"Mr. Sullivan has an easy and attractive way of dealing with difficult problems, as several books from his pen have already shown. . . His book represents a great deal of reading on the author's part, from which the essentials have been selected for presentation to the non-scientific reader."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p952 D 6 '28 720w

SULLIVAN, VIRGINIA. Permanent wave. 352p $2 Macrae Smith co.

29-10433

Love and mystery aboard a steamer bound from San Francisco to New York. Dennis, of the ship's beauty parlor, flirts with a Spanish sheik to forget Mac of the navy. But Mac keeps turning up, unexpectedly, and finally brings unpleasant news about the sheik. The other mysteries of the missing jewels and the "floating face" are also satisfactorily cleared up.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 My 12 '29 60w

"There is as interesting a group of diversified characters among the ship's personnel and passengers as it has been our good fortune for some time to find woven in a mystery story."

+ Boston Transcript p2 Je 26 '29 280w

"The cleverness of this book is so constant that it can only be taken in small doses without engendering satiety. But all mysteries are cleared so easily before they reach New York that this reviewer, after wading through the prolixity of 'Permanent Wave' and recalling how the soul of wit is measured, feels there is too much cheerful ado about sad nothings."

N Y Times p18 N 3 '29 170w

SUMMERS, MONTAGUE. The vampire, his kith and kin. 356p il $5 Dutton [15s K. Paul]

398.4 Vampires 29-10606

A long and detailed study, based on sources in many languages and literatures, describing the loathsome practices of the vampire and his kin.

"The Rev. Montague Summers is one of the most peculiar phenomena in England, a mediæval churchman set down in a modern and extremely skeptical civilization. He believes in witches and werwolves and vampires. . . It is both instructive and surprising to discover such a mind functioning in the matter-of-fact year 1929." Herbert Gorman

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 Mr 10 '29 650w

Boston Transcript p2 Mr 6 '29 600w

Reviewed by Gilbert Thomas

Nation and Ath 46:146 O 26 '29 220w

SUMMERS, MONTAGUE—Continued

"Mr. Summers and his publishers claim that his is the first serious and carefully documented study of the subject. It is certainly a full and extremely interesting one. . . . The volume is a mine of out-of-the-way information full of unspeakable tales." L. M. Field

+ N Y Times p6 Mr 24 '29 930w

" 'The Vampire, His Kith and Kin,' is admirable as a record of what men once believed and believe to-day in some parts, particularly in central Europe." Raphael McCord

+ N Y World p11m Mr 10 '29 450w

"The orthodox theological bias of the author considerably narrows the scope and value of this inquiry into the vampire legend. If you look for a scientific interpretation, you will not find it here. . . The book is nevertheless a storehouse of curious and interesting lore." W. R. Brooks

— + Outlook 151:232 F 6 '29 160w

St Louis 27:332 D '29

"The Rev. Montague Summers has collected much valuable material for his monograph, but he has used it in a dispersed and unsystematic way. He is almost half-way through the book before he deals with the legends of vampirism itself. He writes at length of legends which show only the vaguest connexion with his own subject. It is unfortunate, moreover, that he shows a particularly crude belief in the actuality of the Vampires of legend." Alan Porter

— Spec 141:929 D 15 '28 880w

Times [London] Lit Sup p234 Mr 21 '29 230w

SUNDAR SINGH. With and without Christ; being incidents taken from the lives of Christians and of non-Christians which illustrate the difference in lives lived with Christ and without Christ; with an introd. by the Bishop of Winchester. 152p $1.50 Harper

248 Christian life. Spiritual life 29-8706

The widely known Christian Sadhu of India, Sundar Singh, offers these incidents from the lives of Christians and non-Christians known to him in order to show "the Living Presence of Christ and His saving Power in the lives of men."

---

"This is a significant document of the inner life, an interpretation of the Oriental Christ by an Oriental Sadhu."

+ Boston Transcript p3 Je 1 '29 230w

"A simple, vital interpretation of the gospel lived and loved by this remarkable man."

+ Christian Century 46:427 Mr 28 '29 130w

Reviewed by W. H. Doggett

Churchman 139:29 My 4 '29 160w

"The simplicity and directness of this short book give it a real power, and the author's gift of apt illustration and his frank appeal to experience enable him to offer us in the simplest language thoughts which are the fruit of prolonged meditation."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p343 Ap 25 '29 200w

SURANYI, MIKLOS. Woman of Naples. 293p [2] $2.50 Cosmopolitan bk.

29-22051

The setting of the novel is sixteenth-century Hungary under King Mathias Corvinus and Queen Beatrice—called by her subjects "The woman of Naples." She is a nymphomaniac, a creator of intrique and discontent, who brings ruin upon herself and tragedy to a king who might otherwise have become a powerful and wise ruler.

---

"Writing with power and skill, the author brings his tale to a conclusion that is as dramatic as any chapter in history. . . There is nothing new in the plot of the story. It has been done in fact and in fiction, but there are only a few to match the excellence of 'The Woman of Naples.' "

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 N 17 '29 230w

"The author, one of the outstanding writers of present day Hungary, presents in this book a vivid picture of the turbulent fifteenth century in his native land. This unfamiliar chapter of mediaeval history is convincingly recreated; the extraordinary spectacle of one of the most colorful periods of the Middle Ages departs from the black and white of history to become flesh and blood again."

+ Boston Transcript p6 D 14 '29 250w

"A vivid picture of one of the most colorful and romantic periods of Hungarian history. The present translation, though fairly fluent, prunes somewhat excessively Surányi's rich and exuberant style. One might also question the wisdom of his selection: some of Surányi's other works, especially The Burner, are both more powerful and closer to our times." Francis Snow

+ — Current Hist 31:628 Ja '30 320w

N Y Evening Post p10m O 12 '29 80w

"This novel reminds one a little of certain seventeenth-century epics and tragedies, composed according to some imaginary recipe for a heroic poem. It has everything requisite for a historical novel except life. . . The promised excitement never quite comes off."

— Sat R of Lit 6:540 D 7 '29 300w

SURFACE, FRANK MACY. Grain trade during the World war; being a history of the Food administration grain corporation and the United States grain corporation. 679p il $6 Macmillan

338.1 United States. Food administration. United States grain corporation. Grain trade—United States. Wheat trade—United States. European war, 1914-1918—Food question 28-30420

"In this substantial volume Dr. Surface has traced the history and accomplishments of the Food Administration Grain Corporation and its successor, the United States Grain Corporation. After a brief survey of the world food situation at the time of the entrance of the United States into the war, Dr. Surface discusses in greater detail the steps taken by the Food Administration to stabilize cereal food prices and to render the greatest possible assistance to our associates in the war. This is followed by an account of the handling of each important problem as it arose and of the European relief work after the armistice. The concluding chapters relate to special phases of the activities of the Grain Corporation, giving detailed information on finances and the period of liquidation."—Am Hist R

---

"Students of government as well as economics will find this book a helpful reference." H. B. Price

+ Am Econ R 19:274 Je '29 850w

"The book is not easy reading but to the historian of the economic phases of the World War it is indispensable." E. S. Brown

+ Am Hist R 34:659 Ap '29 320w

Reviewed by E. C. Hughes

Am J Soc 34:561 N '28 230w

"Apart from its special relation to war needs and measures, the volume contributes a valuable study to the science of economics, since under the 'controlled laboratory conditions' many experiments in economics were tested which would not have suggested themselves, nor been possible in peace times."

+ Boston Transcript p4 Mr 16 '29 230w

Boston Transcript p10 My 11 '29 200w

"It should prove a useful source book, but would seem more appropriate for this purpose if the author were less obviously impressed by prominent figures with whom he came into contact as economist."

+ — Nation 128:324 Mr 13 '29 70w

Reviewed by Mildred Hartsough

Springf'd Republican p10 Ja 25 '29 200w

"Mr. Surface has marshalled his twenty-three chapters well; and one of them, the twentieth, is a valuable addition to knowledge, dealing with a matter not envisaged by the British Food Controllers and hitherto very difficult to study even with the aid of the Press. It relates to the food relief work after the Armistice, when apparently whole peoples might have perished."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p506 Je 27 '29 1600w

SUTHERLAND, JOAN (MRS RICHARD KELLY). Golden altar. 402p $2 Harper [7s 6d Cassell]

29-11249

A story of modern French politics. Chanel is the man of the hour. Sacrificing himself and his ambitions, he is trying to organize a minority party to save France from spoliation. Alma Astley, wife of an English editor in France, becomes deeply interested in Chanel's personality and ideals. She offers him her friendship, and presently, in the midst of the raging political battle, the two find themselves in love.

"Here is a book that is full of action, love and conventional philosophy. That the action never seems to get anybody anywhere, and the loves are never fulfilled, makes the philosophy what it is: the glory of martyrdom."

N Y Times p9 Je 2 '29 180w

"Miss Sutherland has made a very readable and at times an exciting story out of her material, and a good deal of extra interest is added by the fact that the events with which she deals are recent enough to be still fresh in the memory."

+ Sat R 147:870 Je 29 '29 360w

"The background of recent French politics is drawn soundly and vividly, as also are the scenes of cosmopolitan society in Paris. This is a vigorous and readable novel."

+ Spec 142:985 Je 22 '29 160w

"Miss Sutherland manages to steer a very steady course through the troubled waters of French post-War politics. She is definitely successful with Simon. Personality is difficult to get on to paper, but she ably conveys his sincerity, his courage, and his passionate conviction that France only needed a clear lead to make her financially solvent and bring back her greatest days."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p404 My 16 '29 180w

SUTHERLAND, SIDNEY. Ten real murder[2] mysteries. 347p il $2 Putnam

343 Murder 29-17859

An account by a Chicago newspaper man of ten murder trials in the history of American criminal records, the mysteries of which have never been solved. These cases are, in order, that of the bridge whist expert, Joseph B. Elwell; the Broadway butterfly, Dot King; the movie director, William D. Taylor; the Obenchain-Kennedy case; the murder of Marion Lambert; the Borden case; the Molineux case; the lost heiress, Dorothy Arnold; the Mary Phagan-Leo Frank case; and the Hall-Mills case.

"Although Mr. Sutherland's narrative manner could do with a thorough combing, in spots, he has succeeded in conveying a deal of grim information in these accounts of unsolved crimes."

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 D 15 '29 100w

"Sidney Sutherland has collected cases in which either no arrest was made or the defendant was acquitted. This does not prevent the compiler from freely expressing his beliefs as to the guilt or innocence, especially the guilt, of the suspected or accused. In nearly every case he, perhaps unconsciously, adopts the role of prosecutor."

Springf'd Republican p8 S 16 '29 450w

SVEDBERG, THEODOR. Colloid chemistry; 2d[3] ed rev. and enl. in collaboration with Arne Tiselius. (Am. chemical soc. Monograph) 302p il $5.50 Chemical catalog co.

541.345 Colloids 28-22094

Thoroughly revised edition of a book on colloid chemistry which first appeared in 1924 (Book Review Digest, 1924). "Has new material on x-ray analysis, the ultramicroscope, Donnan potentials, and the ultracentrifuge. Many of the recent developments are the results of the author's investigations in his laboratory at the University of Upsala, where he is Professor of Physical Chemistry." (N Y New Tech Bks)

"This is one of the few indispensable works of colloid science. Nevertheless, one is bound to point out that the title is somewhat of a misnomer, since there is comparatively little chemistry in the book. The strength of the treatment lies in its one-sidedness, in the full presentation of the study of colloids in relation to kinetic theory, a field in which the author has played so prominent a part." J. W. McBain

+ Am Chem Soc J 51:3175 O '29 230w

"The second edition suffers from the same defects as the first in that it seems to the reviewer that undue space is given to the author's work at Upsala while the work of a number of prominent American investigators in the field of colloid chemistry has been badly slighted. For example, the work of Fischer, Holmes, Weiser, Loeb, Thomas, and Bancroft is only slightly mentioned where at all. . . The book is a scientific monograph, and the industrial phases are little discussed. The excellence of the book in general allows one to forgive the attitude of the author toward his own work, as well as a certain unevenness in the illustrative material." C: L. Mantell

+ — Chem & Met Eng 35:756 D '28 350w

"The original scheme of the book, in so far as relatively greater space is devoted to the author's own investigations, is retained, and in consequence there is a freshness and reality in presentation which a mere compilation so frequently lacks. . . No chemists or physicists interested in colloids should miss reading this book, even if they have already enjoyed the first edition." P. C. L. T.

+ Nature 124:223 Ag 10 '29 250w

N Y New Tech Bks 13:45 O '28

SWIFT, HILDEGARDE HOYT. Little Blacknose; the story of a pioneer. 149p il $2 Harcourt

29-20428

Little Blacknose is the life story of that tiny railroad engine which sits so proudly in the gallery of the Grand Central station, at rest after his hundred years of vicissitudes. The first engine ever built for the New York Central railroad, Little Blacknose, the DeWitt Clinton engine, went through periods of usefulness, alternating with neglect or glory, until he reached his present position. Written for children.

Booklist 26:126 D '29

"Mrs. Swift makes a charming person out of 'Little Blacknose.' Without sacrificing fact she spins a yarn of hope and triumph and of rivalry, with a note also of sentiment. It is a straightforward, simple story, one I think that will be enjoyed by many children. It is however, to Lynd Ward, the illustrator, that the chief honors of 'Little Blacknose' go. He has given his engines actual character. Without being so modern in his technique that children will be driven away, he has succeeded in letting a rare imagination and grace play over his drawing." J: Farrar

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 S 22 '29 480w

"I'm not much good about engines and machinery, but I did like this book. I got very fond of Little Black-Nose before I had finished reading about him." Rose Fyleman

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 N 10 '29 50w

Cleveland Open Shelf p160 D '29

Reviewed by Ruth Seinfel

N Y Evening Post p14m N 16 '29 50w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 15 '29 130w

SWIFT, JULIAN, pseud. See Applin, A.

SWINNERTON, FRANK ARTHUR. Merry heart; a gentle melodrama. 354p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran

29-26344

A first novel which has been known for many years in England, but which has just been published in America. The possessor of the merry heart is a young English clerk, Locritus, whose real name is Charles Lockery. Locritus laughs his way thru all sorts of difficulties; his sister's elopement with the villain, his mother's selfish rule of thumb, his father's double life, his best friend's blunderings, and comes out of the welter engaged and still possessing the merry heart.

Booklist 25:323 My '29

"Melodrama in the grand old style. The characterization of its chief character, the muddled, young, would-be cynic, shows the deft touch of Mr. Swinnerton's later work."

Bookm 69:xxiv Je '29 60w

"The book is lightly handled and exuberantly full of characters. The gaiety of the book depends, not on wit but on the high spirits of Locritus. The debate, which depends for its humor on Mrs. Lockery's inability to practise what she preaches and on a mild caricature of the woman's rights movement, was probably more amusing at an earlier period than it is now. After all, the book does date, rather, and sometimes the hilarity of its hero becomes a little strained." Garreta Busey

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Ap 14 '29 1050w

"He has learned to tell a better story, to draw more convincing characters, but he has lost some of the lightness of touch, some of the ability to poke fun at men and manners, all of which add to the charm of the tale."

+ Boston Transcript p5 Ap 20 '29 320w

"The whole thing is a light-hearted piece of writing, and the almost unsophisticated youthfulness of the author blows freshly across the rather mechanical plot and labored characterization. But there is charm in the work; charm in the descriptions of the English countryside, and a certain mature realization of what the types really are, despite the failure to make the individual characters completely real. All Mr. Swinnerton's friends will want to read this novel; and those who do not know him in his maturity will no doubt enjoy this first work of a 'promising' young novelist." Lillian Rogers

N Y Evening Post p11m Ap 13 '29 450w

"The dialogue is spritely at times, and the story is entirely free of mawkishness. There are occasional dramatic moments. Whether the book foreshadows in any degree the mastery of the novel which he was later to attain is doubtful."

+ — N Y Times p6 Ap 7 '29 580w

"[The book's] contribution is to the young writer. The book affords him excellent study. He should go through it with a pencil, cutting out inopportune dialogue, and the repetition of plot which stretches a two hundred page novel into three hundred and thirty-four pages."

— Sat R of Lit 5:1198 Jl 20 '29 320w

SWINNERTON, FRANK ARTHUR. Sketch of a sinner. 319p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Hutchinson]

29-27450

The story of Lydia and her three men. Lydia has been five years married, and not so unhappily, to Sebastian Rowe, a musty antique dealer in a shabby quarter of London, when quite by chance and simultaneously she is provided with two ardent lovers. Ambrose, a mad irresponsible youth, in his need of Lydia brings out the maternal in her and Gerard, a very Napoleon in his masterfulness, carries her off her feet. Then fate deals Lydia three quick blows. Having watched young Ambrose die of meningitis and seen Gerard killed by an automobile Lydia goes back to Sebastian to find him paralyzed.

Bookm 70:446 D '29 470w

"Stark tragedy will not walk side by side with flimsy whimsy. The author piles three tragic climaxes upon three shadowy, mottled ghosts. The foundations totter. He does not lead these men to inevitable destruction. He merely junks them when they are no longer useful. Lydia is real. Her temptations are real. Her sins are warm, heady impulses, which you understand. But what happens to Lydia is unwarranted. You cannot believe it. As a portrait, then, 'Sketch of a Sinner' succeeds. Yet, as a story of the influence of three men upon a woman they love, the book trails off into never-never land, leaving you puzzled and dubious." P: Terwilliger

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 O 20 '29 700w

"Throughout the book we feel the struggle between the demands of poetic justice and of Mr. Swinnerton's sure artistic sense. The character of Lydia has a wistful beauty, there was never anyone like her in a book and probably only one person in life; she is thoroughly, remorselessly real." E. F.

+ New Repub 61:178 Ja 1 '30 300w

"In this story of the wife of a London shopkeeper we have once more the Frank Swinnerton of 'Nocturne' and 'The Elder Sister.'. . There is throughout that painstaking effort to see life as it is, to develop no thesis, to side not with one character or with another, but to move dispassionately among them all. In consequence, the story moves one as does life itself."

+ N Y Times p7 O 20 '29 750w

"The character of Lydia is delineated in the author's best manner and wants nothing in its semblance of reality. But Lydia seems scarcely an important enough person to justify the expenditure of an entire book, nor is there a great deal intervening between her first sight of the ordained lover and her heartbroken, contrite return to the grievously stricken husband which would pass for other than conventional, pleasantly readable padding." E. C. Beckwith

— + N Y World p11m O 27 '29 170w

"Swinnerton handles his complex and delicate subject with intelligence and tenderness, and writes with the finished grace which one associates with his best work."

+ Outlook 153:269 O 16 '29 250w

"Frank Swinnerton's latest novel is not particularly distinguished either for story or for the delineation of the character of Lydia, the principal actor. It is unfortunate but still true that she is no more on the last page than she was on the first. And the highly fortuitous events of the story detract, if anything, from making her believable."

— Springf'd Republican p7e N 10 '29 200w

"As a variant of Emma Bovary, Lydia is well drawn: but the men are not upon the same level, especially Gerard, whose springs of action are not sufficiently analysed. Mr. Swinnerton's chief virtue is his understanding of a starved soul such as Lydia's and his unemphatic skill in rendering her daily life, the little quarrels and little discontents which gradually accumulate and become formidable."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p788 O 10 '29 650w

SWOFFER, FRANK ARTHUR. Learning to fly; a course of elementary flying instruction; with a foreword by Sir Sefton Brancker. 144p il $2.25 (7s 6d) Pitman

629.13 Aeronautics [29-21070]

A practical book upon aviation mechanics for the prospective pilot. It illustrates by diagram each movement of the controls.

N Y New Tech Bks 14:35 Jl '29

"The author is well qualified to write on his subject, and he appears to have the added gift of being able to impart his knowledge. Of course, flying cannot be learnt from books, but careful study of these pages will do much to ensure that the student makes the most of his flying instruction. It is a book which can be understood by anyone, and might be read with profit by those who can never hope to become pilots but are interested in the whys and wherefores of flying."

Times [London] Lit Sup p407 My 16 '29 100w

SYNON, MARY. Good red bricks. 287p $2 Little

29-924

This love story of Sally Burt and Joe Gates is set in Chicago of the 'nineties. Joe means to be a doctor but his love for prize fights interferes, and he becomes a boxer instead. Sally's young spirit is sobered by her father's political entanglement and disgrace but she marries Joe with high hopes for their own bright future. Joe's character is weak, however; his pride goes before a fall, and carries down with it Sally's happiness but not her love.

Bookm 69:xxv Ap '29 100w

"It is a very good first novel. Its author is a story-teller of ability, and with no obvious searching after motives, no slightest smell of the dissecting room, she creates instantly understandable human beings, and plots their absorbing careers with logic and sympathy."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 Mr 3 '29 230w

"The story is melodrama with all its color, but nevertheless, melodrama pure and simple. Miss Synon gives a very vivid and graphic account of life in Chicago when it was seething with excitement."

Boston Transcript p3 F 2 '29 250w

"Miss Synon has a story to tell and must definitely feel an emotion for the Chicago of the nineties, but she doesn't transfer her emotion. The writing has an artificial flavor. One's credulity is strained, and the little details bother. The story fails too, to recreate Chicago." Muriel Asher

— N Y Evening Post p8m Ja 26 '29 360w

"Miss Synon writes a flaunting, flaring, sentimental and pretentious prose; her story can be read with a minimum of effort; but it will prove hardly profitable to whosoever regards novel writing as a branch of knowledge as well as a branch of esthetics."

— + N Y Times p8 Ja 13 '29 500w

"While there is a considerable degree of 'hokum' in her novel, it is what might be called high-quality 'hokum.' In other words, her book does bring a period deftly and vividly back to life and it is interesting reading." Herschel Brickell

+ No Am 227:adv Mr '29 70w

"The story is a sort of ballad, sad and sweet, sentimental, unamusing, simple and sincere."

Outlook 151:71 Ja 9 '29 130w

"The story is not distinguished but it is told with commendable restraint in the face of temptations to emphasize sentiment."

Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 28 '29 350w

SZCZEPANOWICZ, LUCIA MERECKA. See Borski, L. M., tr.

T

TABOUIS, C. R. Private life of Tutankhamen; preface by Theodore Reinach; [tr. by M. R. Dobie]. 345p il $3.50 McBride [15s Routledge]

B or 92 Tut-ank-Amen, king of Egypt

"It is the civilisation [of Egypt], at the height of its greatest magnificence, that Mlle. Tabouis recovers for us in her story of the court of an unimportant and almost unknown Pharaoh, the discovery of whose undisturbed tomb in November, 1922, has given him posthumous fame denied to the very greatest of his predecessors. . . It is not history, yet it is compiled from a hundred unprejudiced sources; from pictures and models and inscriptions, void of all secondary thought, that tell us how the Egyptian people from Pharaoh downwards lived their lives from day to day."—New Statesman

"Tabouis has given us an excellent account of an era, and has done so in a most appealing manner. Indeed, it is debatable as to whether our insight into the times as such is not as important as into the individual life of a monarch." A. S. R.

+ Boston Transcript p6 O 5 '29 400w

Cleveland Open Shelf p141 N '29

"The attempt by Mlle. Tabouis to reconstruct Tutankhamen's court is superficial, illegitimate, and self-conscious, having no roots in inevitability but only in a once-popular demand. There is no material for a biographer in Tutankhamen's reign, nor is there much jumping-off ground for historical creation. The author, faced with this evident paucity, has done little beyond describing certain facets of Egyptian life with an attempt to visualize the figure of Tutankhamen moving in them. Where hints exist as to his character they are missed. The book obviously represents a good deal of industry misplaced."

— Nation and Ath 46:111 O 19 '29 100w

"In one or two places this translation of Mlle. Tabouis' book on Tutankhamen carries less conviction than it would in the original. On the whole, however, it is a sound and informative piece of work such as should appeal strongly to the general public."

+ Nature 124:872 D 7 '29 250w

"As an introduction to a more serious study of Egypt, the book deserves all the praise Professor Reinach bestows upon it."

+ New Statesman 34:238 N 23 '29 780w

N Y Evening Post p12m D 21 '29 220w

"It is a superb piece of work, this vivid, dramatic account of Egyptian customs and ideas, religion, government and daily life, which the author has woven about the figure of the pathetic young Pharaoh who tried to re-establish that ancient order which had made Egypt the greatest among the nations. Sixteen fine plates illustrate the volume, which M. P. Dobie has translated admirably from the French." L. M. Field

+ N Y Times p11 S 29 '29 1500w

"Mademoiselle Tabouis has not the grip and sweep and narrative-power of a Maurois or a Lytton Strachey, but there is much human interest and good scholarship in this reconstitution of one of the most remarkable periods of Egyptian history."

+ — Spec 143:sup683 N 9 '29 750w

"The surprising thing about the volume before us is the abundance of material presented for our consideration with so little original matter as authority. Mlle. Tabouis has provided a readable book on an important period of Egyptian history. In view of the uncertainty existing in connexion with Tutankhamen's immediate relatives the first three chapters of the book are wonderfully complete. In these, however, as in the others, she has drawn upon authorities who are not altogether relevant, and here and there the picture is a little overcoloured."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p776 O 10 '29 400w

TAFT, HENRY WATERS. Kindred arts; conversation and public speaking. 202p $2.50 Macmillan

808.5 Conversation. Public speaking

29-18348

An essay on the art of good talk, or the cultivation of social intercourse, occupies the first half of the book. The second part is given over to a presentation of the theory and practice of public speaking.

"Mr. Taft's comparison of political speech-making in England and America is tactful and urbane."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 N 17 '29 250w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks

Outlook 153:29 S 4 '29 70w

TAFT, H: W.—*Continued

"As it is notorious that Conversation and Public Speaking are not on speaking terms, the kinship is to be admitted only on the understanding that the bitterest quarrels are family quarrels. It is the less likely that Mr. Taft is unaware of this family incompatibility that he so masterfully ignores it. . . Mr. Taft—as might be expected of an American—judges the activity of speech by a more practical and utilitarian standard than the typical Englishman would consciously adopt."

Times [London] Lit Sup p1074 D 19 '29 600w

TAGORE, SIR RABINDRANATH (RAVINDRANATHA THAKURA). Letters to a friend; ed. with two introductory essays by C. F. Andrews. 195p il $2.50 Macmillan [7s 6d Allen & U.]

B or 92 [29-10514]

These letters, revelatory of the mind and heart of Tagore, were written to C. F. Andrews, friend and associate of Tagore at his school for boys at Santiniketan. Mr Andrews has arranged the letters by chapters with brief notes explaining the circumstances under which they were written, and has also contributed two introductory essays, on the Bengal renaissance and the personality of Tagore.

Reviewed by Gertrude Emerson

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 Je 30 '29

"Covering as they do the periods of the War and of the years during which the idea of fellowship between East and West began to take shape, they are significant and valuable."

+ Outlook 152:110 My 15 '29 100w

"Reading these letters, many of them written under extreme stress and temptations to bitterness that it was almost super-human to overcome, we are brought face to face with Tagore's courage, political wisdom, fair-mindedness and freedom from the illusions a narrow nationalism brings. His fame has suffered in the West, and we all know why. But it is nonsense to say that this man is an ordinary man. His poetry may be often trivial and fanciful, but his qualities of mind and character are magnificent."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p976 D 13 '28 750w

TAINE, JOHN. Greatest adventure. 258p $2.50 Dutton

29-4213

An American scientist and his clever young daughter join forces with a whaling captain and sail to the Antarctic regions—the scientist to search for primeval monsters, the whaling captain for oil. They find queer monsters living and dead, and oil in abundance, but narrowly escape the fate of a former race of human beings.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 F 24 '29 150w

"It is a weird, fantastic story of adventure, utterly improbable."

Boston Transcript p3 F 20 '29 100w

"Mr. Taine has, unquestionably, constructed his book with a great deal of imagination and ingenuity; and, judged by ordinary standards, has done a competent bit of story telling."

+ N Y Times p9 Mr 3 '29 440w

"Wild and nonsensical beyond all limit the yarn surely is, but there is no doubt it catches tight hold of the imagination."

+ N Y World p10m Mr 10 '29 150w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ag 18 '29 50w

TAINTOR, SARAH AUGUSTA, and MONRO, KATE M. Secretary's handbook; a manual of correct usage. 372p $3.50 Macmillan

651.3 Secretaries, Private. Letter-writing

29-16877

A manual on correct English usage for secretaries. "The material is divided into two parts: the first containing rules with illustrations of correct form in English; the second consisting of various types of letters relating to business, social, and official usage, as well as other forms of business writing often required of the secretary. These include, among other types, the making of resolutions, the writing of minutes, the framing of petitions, and the compiling of reports." (Preface)

Booklist 26:59 N '29

"Notwithstanding the rather steady flow of books from publishing houses dealing in one way or another with proper use of the English language, there is awaiting this new one a definite niche where it will receive a warm welcome. For there is hardly a secretary in all this land who would not be glad to have it always at her elbow. And there is many another who would be almost equally thankful for its advice and counsel."

+ N Y Times p3 Ag 25 '29 300w

TALBOT, NEVILLE STUART. Riddle of life; with an introd. by the Bishop of London. 110p $1 (2s 6d) Longmans

216 Good and evil. Suffering [29-1994]

A book for Lenten meditation which "faces, and faces bravely, the age-long difficulty of the existence of pain and suffering in the world." The author is Bishop of Pretoria.

"A reverent, eloquent and somewhat homiletical treatment of the religious and intellectual problems raised by the fact that 'Nature has produced a being nobler than herself.' "

Christian Century 46:266 F 21 '29 80w

Churchman 139:28 Ap 20 '29 190w

"The author's evident courage and sincerity have their own impressiveness, and there are passages which reach to true eloquence."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p67 Ja 24 '29 150w

TALBOTT, CARLTON. Ballyhoo for a mendicant. 102p $2 Liveright

811 29-6490

Poems in the spirit of the title, gathered under the headings: Sheepskin episodes; The woodcut holiday—1498; Dinanderie; Dutch phantoms; Wags and wantons; Fireside galaxy.

"No one can deny Mr. Carlton Talbott's originality." N. H. Dole

Portland Evening News p15 S 24 '29 230w

"Certainly there is sharp originality here, there are amusing plights and plots, there is dapper antiquarianism. Occasionally we seem to get a whiff of T. S. Eliot in his lighter moments; but that is not often. The little volume has a gesture quite its own."

+ Sat R of Lit 6:352 N 2 '29 150w

TANNENBAUM, FRANK. Mexican agrarian revolution. (Brookings institution. Inst. of economics. Publications) 543p $2.50 Macmillan

333.0972 Agriculture—Mexico. Land tenure—Mexico. Agricultural laws and legislation—Mexico. Mexico—Social conditions. Mexico—History—Revolution, 1910- 29-10013

The author went to Mexico at the instance of the Brookings institution to gather the facts for this treatise on the agrarian revolution in Mexico. He travelled thruout the country and describes rural Mexico before and since the revolution summarising much of his material in statistical form.

"The chief merits of the book are to be found in the statistics which Mr. Tannenbaum has assembled on the distribution of land holdings before the revolution and the changes effected by the early years of the revolution. . . The chief defect of the study is the lack of critical analysis of the accomplishments of the revolution." J: V. Van Sickle

+ — Am Econ R 19:667 D '29 360w

Reviewed by Herbert Feis
Am Hist R 35:428 Ja '30 450w
Booklist 26:14 O '29

"An extremely useful book, the obvious defects being carelessness in bibliographical annotation and neglect of the political factors which have made reform dilatory and imperfect. After his visits to every state in the republic, a feat accomplished by few Americans, Dr. Tannenbaum should have vivified his account by concrete illustrations and experiences, instead of yielding to the supposed scientific requirement of apparent aloofness from opinion." H. I. Priestly
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Je 30 '29 1000w
Boston Transcript p4 Jl 20 '29 200w
Christian Century 46:1040 Ag 21 '29 50w

"Access to the files of the national and state governments in Mexico has enabled Tannenbaum to present an abundance of material never before published in the English language. From the maze of ambiguous data he has extracted valuable information as to the size and value of landholdings in Mexico and the actual amount of land owned by foreigners."
+ Geog R 19:698 O '29 280w

"The most exhaustive account in any language of land ownership and control in Mexico during the years following the Mexican Revolution of 1910." A. C. Wilgus
+ Hist Outlook 20:350 N '29 260w

"Given the importance of the subject in the Mexican cosmos, and the potential usefulness of such a study, it is regrettable to find Mr. Tannenbaum's detailed monograph disappointing. . . The study lacks flesh and substance, and affords needlessly dull reading. . . But by far the severest indictment against Mr. Tannenbaum's work is its slipshod character, which seriously impairs its value as a reference book—its chief raison d'être." Ernest Gruening
— Nation 128:652 My 29 '29 720w

"It is a meager tale, wearing a solemn scholarly costume of the charts, maps and lists of statistics which one hoped the author would file away or make into appendices after he discovered the scant value of such documentation to describe a country and a situation which dances whimsically outside the patterns decorously laid for visiting investigators. Mr. Tannenbaum's complex data and Mr. Tannenbaum's clear-cut conclusions seem not quite harmoniously wedded." Anita Brenner
— N Y Evening Post p8m My 18 '29 700w

"Mr. Tannenbaum has an elaborate and exact basis of facts, obtained not only through research, but through visiting every state in Mexico. But his facts are not oppressive; his book is the most interesting of the publications of the Institute of Economics of the Brookings Institution that we have examined."
+ Sat R of Lit 6:223 O 5 '29 280w

"The work suffers from the usual shortcomings of books of this type: it attempts to isolate and discuss in detail a single problem and fails to show its relations to other phases of life; it aims to portray a revolution and leaves out the flesh and blood of the movement; it examines the situation in Mexico without placing it with respect to the movement elsewhere. Thus it becomes a somewhat academic book, statistical, dry and unmoving. . . Yet Mr. Tannenbaum has given the English reader a workable manual, packed with facts, carefully wrought with important conclusions easily discoverable." Constantine Panunzio
— + Survey 63:174 N 1 '29 520w
Wis Lib Bul 25:274 Jl '29

TANNENBAUM, SAMUEL AARON. Shakespere forgeries in the Revels accounts. 109p $15 Columbia univ. press [75s Milford]

822.33 Shakespeare, William—Forgeries. Cunningham, Peter. Collier, John Payne
28-30282

"Dr. Tannenbaum has proved 'up to the hilt' the fraudulent character of the 'Account Books' of the Revels Office for the years 1604-'05 and 1611-'12, first published by Peter Cunningham in 1842. These two manuscript volumes of the 'Revels Accounts' would establish, if they were genuine, the date of the first production or the revival of eight of Shakespeare's plays."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

"Over and above the great importance of this work to the Shakespearean scholar (for it reduces the slender number of ascertained 'facts' about Shakespeare by something like a dozen items) it has a fascination for any one who admires clear-cut reasoning. To say that it has the interest of a detective story is scant praise, for most detective stories are poor stuff; but the interest is of the same kind, though of superior quality." S: C. Chew
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 F 10 '29 1250w

"Competent readers of the monograph will admire Dr. Tannenbaum's bold and skilful effort to swing back the pendulum of critical opinion, but they may feel that he is often too sanguine about the adequacy of his proofs and sometimes uses a controversial dialectic which is hardly fair." Tucker Brooke
Sat R of Lit 5:1000 My 11 '29 700w

"Not all of his points can be regarded as cogent; but on the whole, after close inspection of the originals, the present reviewer is bound to admit that he sees force in both branches of the argument."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p179 Mr 7 '29 920w

TANNER, JOSEPH ROBSON. English constitutional conflicts of the seventeenth century, 1603-1689. 315p $6 Macmillan [16s Cambridge univ. press]

342.42 Great Britain—Constitutional law
28-25327

"Dr. J. R. Tanner acted as deputy for the Regius Professor at Cambridge during 1926-27 and delivered a series of lectures, which he has now been induced to publish. He has thus put in his debt not only candidates for Cambridge Tripos, but students of the British Constitution everywhere."—Hist Outlook

---

"A course of lectures having a different end and structure from a constitutional treatise, the present work is rather a running commentary on the constitutional landmarks of the century, in relation to the national history, than a text-book; and no better introduction can be imagined. It adheres to the narrative form, but is admirably balanced, is illustrated by full and entertaining quotation, and rich in information." Keith Feiling
+ Eng Hist R 44:140 Ja '29 820w

"There has been a notable lack of any single treatment of the most important century in English constitutional development, and this has been reflected in the inadequacy of most of the textbooks for the same period. Dr. Tanner's book suffers from some of the usual defects of a published series of lectures, but this is more than made up for by his systematic treatment of the period and the apt use he has made of contemporary materials."
+ Hist Outlook 20:254 My '29 330w

"The merit of Dr. Tanner's book, in my eyes, consists in its facts and in his attitude towards them. Here are the facts set down with, at the bottom of the page, the little tickets and dockets which enable one to see where they have come from. But Dr. Tanner is not content to be a mere chronicler or recorder; he interprets the facts. I daresay that, like all of us, he has his prejudices, and his interpretation is coloured by them. But one of his prejudices is for truth, and that prejudice is so strong that it colours the whole of his interpretation. I know no book of its size which helps one so well to understand the political evolution of the seventeenth century, the character of the Stuarts, and the part which they played in English history." Leonard Woolf
+ Nation and Ath 43:623 Ag 11 '28 1200w

TANNER, J. R.—Continued

"Here is the great story of the seventeenth century, from Scottish James to Dutch William, set out with all the trimmings of the most modern scholarship, seasoned with humour and experienced judgment. Mr. Tanner is never didactic and never pompous; he eschews rhetoric, and history is never for him a peg on which to hang his own great thoughts; we may draw our own conclusions when we have let him tell us what happened."

+ New Statesman 31:641 S 1 '28 850w

St Louis 27:10 Ja '29

Sat R 146:156 Ag 4 '28 580w

Spec 141:199 Ag 11 '28 200w

Times [London] Lit Sup p948 D 6 '28 700w

TANNER, JUANITA, pseud. Intelligent man's guide to marriage and celibacy. 312p $3.50 Bobbs

176 Marriage. Sex. Woman—History and condition of women 29-18523

"This book purports to have been written by Juanita Tanner, the daughter of Ann Whitefield and John Tanner of Man and Superman, for the purpose of introducing intelligent men to the hitherto exclusively feminine provinces of love, marriage and sexual morality—just as its famous model introduced intelligent women to the masculine realms of economics and finance. It is chiefly concerned with an attempted recasting of the social code to fit changing conditions of life, or to fit conditions already changed but not assimilated into the popular morality."—Bookm

Booklist 26:100 D '29

"The lively, but not especially profound person who disguises herself with a Shavian pseudonym is beguiled by her own undeniable cleverness into taking the long way round to certain rather commonplace conclusions."

Bookm 69:668 Ag '29 300w

Reviewed by L: Gannett

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 Je 30 '29 650w

Boston Transcript p4 Jl 20 '29 750w

Christian Century 46:1154 S 18 '29 500w

"For long-drawn-out platitudes, padding, dreariness and complete failure to reach any higher levels of intelligence than those of college debating societies or liberal clubs, this volume is rivaled only by the compendium from which it draws its title. . . 'The Intelligent Man's Guide' is beautifully calculated to stir up a feeling of intellectual worth in subnormal persons by feeding them truths which even they may have dimly suspected; conversationally, indeed chattily, written, it may perform a kind of service in bolstering up the egos of countless commonplace individuals." G. T. Hellman

— New Repub 60:24 Ag 21 '29 420w

"Her long, varied and always delectable argument comes to the conclusion that a world which largely forgets about sex will be a much better, happier and more intelligent world than it is now, or has ever been. It is an argument rich in knowledge and studded with quotation, urbane in spirit and carried on with an air of willingness to survey every angle of the matter, as indeed it does, and delightful in the flexible and brilliant manner in which the author is constantly taking unexpected and unconventional viewpoints and elaborating them with quizzical, and sometimes cynical, humor."

+ N Y Times p10 Jl 21 '29 620w

"Her book is very readable, as might be expected from the work of a woman at once brilliant, modern, and self-assured. She has considered all the problems and settled a good many of them. Life lies before her like a map and she wants to show you the path of wisdom. But that is one of the odd things that most people have to discover for themselves, and wisdom has a million facets." R: Curle

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:1159 Jl 6 '29 700w

Wis Lib Bul 25:272 Jl '29

TARKINGTON, BOOTH. Penrod Jashber. 321p il $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-18939

After thirteen years of silence, Tarkington's Penrod again makes his appearance, this time in the role of a detective, "George Jashber." Aided by his old pals, Sam, Herman, and Verman, Penrod shadows his "suspect," in the person of Mr Dade, suitor to Penrod's charming sister, and rival to Mr Robert Williams whom Penrod favors. When Dade turns out to be no horse-thief after all, and has no more mysterious lair than the Y.M.C.A., Penrod's career as a detective suddenly ends.

Bookm 70:xx N '29 70w

"A sequel is likely to be a disappointing thing. It is, therefore, a surprise, and a peculiarly happy one, to find that in 'Penrod Jashber' Booth Tarkington has given us another book every bit as good as the original Penrod." R. B. Sanborn

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 O 6 '29 1000w

"Penrod has not grown up; he is still a boy, and that is really what you must want him to be. He acts as Penrod has always acted, and he talks as Penrod has always talked. He is the same Penrod, and not a different Penrod. Therein lies Booth Tarkington's skill, and his insight into boyish human nature. A lesser artist than he would have changed Penrod for the sake of an unnecessary variety, and thereby have plucked out the heart of Penrod. Penrod is consistent throughout the years. He is, like Peter Pan, the boy who never grows up. He is the everlasting boy." E. F. Edgett

+ Boston Transcript p4 O 11 '29 1000w

"If the years since he last wrote of Penrod have given Mr. Tarkington any new understanding of boy psychology he does not reveal it in 'Penrod Jashber.' There is clever observation but there is no attempt at any deep penetration into a boy's soul. Mr. Tarkington's grown-ups are merely lay figures put into the story to heighten the comedy and not to afford the sharp contrast which makes the reader see clearly the inevitable contradictions of child world and adult world." Ruth Sapin

— New Repub 61:25 N 27 '29 330w

"It is not easy to believe that thirteen years have elapsed since the last previous book about Penrod Schofield appeared. The memory of this engaging boy has not dimmed, and that is sufficient evidence that in him Booth Tarkington has created a character who recalls to each man who reads about him something of his own boyhood." I: Anderson

+ N Y Times p2 S 15 '29 780w

"Every one, now, either knows Penrod or has refused to meet him. He stands about midway between Tom Sawyer and Skippy—more sophisticated than the former, but less urbane than the latter. However, the fact that he stands in that splendid company at all is a sufficient compliment to his creator."

+ N Y World p11m O 6 '29 170w

Springf'd Republican p7e O 6 '29 270w

Times [London] Lit Sup p980 N 21 '29 200w

TARKINGTON, BOOTH. The world does move. 294p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran

917.3 United States—Social life and customs 28-28979

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Booklist 25:356 Je '29

"Though this book seems very lighty flung together, it is, in parts, by no means unamusing. The autobiographical chapters are certainly the best; for the rest, the busy reader will lose little by skipping pages 169 to 280 bodily."

New Statesman 32:742 Mr 16 '29 130w

Pittsburgh Mo Bul 34:15 F '29

St Louis 27:99 Mr '29

"He talks a deal of cabarets, 'daring' plays, shingled hair and brief frocks, much as the writers to the daily Press. The earlier part of the book, with its memories of Crane, Frederic, and Howells, is both genial and attractive."

+ — Spec 142:549 Ap 6 '29 200w

"We like best the autobiography. . . On such subjects as motoring, the modern girl, and modern art and the sex-play he is distinctly less interesting."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p191 Mr 7 '29 200w

TARKINGTON, BOOTH. Young Mrs Greeley. 205p $2 Doubleday, Doran 29-12765

Young Mrs Greeley, pretty wife of the newly appointed manager of the N. K. U. factory, and her older busy-body friend Mrs Hedge are drawn to the life in this comedy of underground politics among the wives of the men higher up in a big manufacturing company.

---

Booklist 26:35 O '29

"Except that his ear for dialogue is so unerring and his sense of the ridiculous keen enough to make even his scenes of disaster genuinely amusing. Mr. Tarkington's cruelty to his trivial heroines would begin to be tiresome."

— + Bookm 70:xxiii S '29 130w

"Mr. Tarkington is as sharp an observer of the provincial attitude as Mr. Sinclair Lewis, although he is less vigorous and more kindly in his treatment of it. And occasionally he penetrates more deeply into the springs of human (and especially feminine) conduct than does Mr. Lewis." Garreta Busey

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 Je 9 '29 540w

"The humorist's mood is a mood in which we have often seen Mr. Tarkington, but this time he writes with a caustically satirical pen, and every one in the story lives and moves and talks, and is an essential part of a well woven and well wrought plot." E. F. Edgett

+ Boston Transcript p3 Je 8 '29 1250w

"To the city dweller, perhaps, this book will seem fantastic and much ado about nothing, but to those millions who live in small towns where actual tragedies are often the result of machinations such as Aurelia Hedge's and where factories like the N. K. U. form the hub of existence, 'Young Mrs. Greeley' will be read with avidity and understanding. There is delightful humor and satire in the story." Edith Weigle

+ Chicago Daily Tribune p9 Je 15 '29 600w

"There is a resigned quality to Mr. Tarkington's writing that adds to its effectiveness: he does not say in so many words just what he thinks about his characters, but in the case of 'Young Mrs. Greeley' he must have had a strong sense of the futile and the ridiculous. Certainly he conveys it." G. T. Hellman

+ New Repub 59:239 Jl 17 '29 550w

New Statesman 33:653 S 7 '29 400w

"Despite its overdramatization of conventional types, 'Young Mrs Greeley' is a shrewd piece of writing."

+ — N Y Times p9 Je 9 '29 900w

"First-rate light reading."

+ Outlook 152:275 Je 12 '29 220w

Pratt p38 autumn '29

" 'Young Mrs Greeley' is far the slightest of Mr. Tarkington's feminine portraits. She is really too empty to repay the trouble taken with her." Basil Davenport

Sat R of Lit 6:37 Ag 10 '29 350w

Reviewed by Alan Porter

Spec 143:227 Ag 17 '29 300w

Springf'd Republican p5e Je 2 '29 460w

Times [London] Lit Sup p653 Ag 22 '29 200w

TARLETON, FISWOODE. Bloody ground; a cycle of the southern hills. 312p $2 Dial press 29-3264

Stories of the village and hill folk of a southern mountain community, told thruout in the present tense.

---

Booklist 25:361 Je '29

Reviewed by L. S. Morris

Bookm 69:194 Ap '29 320w

"Mr. Tarleton's quite remarkable stories, bound tightly enough together by setting and characters to have the unity of a novel, turn for the most part about simple rules of conduct. Not by any means the first to exploit the rich stuff of life among the mountaineers, Mr. Tarleton has in a single bound taken his place among the most expert handlers of this native American material. He does not fail in a single one of the dozen stories contained in his first volume, to pack drama of the most intense sort." Herschel Brickell

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 F 10 '29 1050w

"Mr. Tarleton has shown indisputably that he knows his hillmen, and that he is able to write about them."

+ Boston Transcript p2 Ap 17 '29 250w

Cleveland Open Shelf p64 Ap '29

"If Mr. Tarleton has any fault, it is one almost inherent in his material—that of overmelodramatization which at times lends a cinema quality to his narratives." C. P. Fadiman

+ Nation 128:sup482 Ap 17 '29 170w

"In the twelve stories of 'Bloody Ground' there is a bleakness, a gaunt and savage violence that is far removed from the brooding and musty atmosphere of Mr. Anderson's 'Winesburg.' " R. E. L.

New Repub 38:341 My 8 '29 100w

N Y Evening Post p8m F 9 '29 530w

"We have read no other literature concerning the Southern mountaineers that rings so authentic. Mr. Tarleton's set of tales is gaunt, powerful as the hill folk themselves, with a touch of their own ungainliness." F: F. Van de Water

+ N Y Evening Post p11m F 23 '29 150w

"One will encounter few books so unforgetable as 'Bloody Ground.' Fiswoode Tarleton has transcribed a speech that will soon be lost, transfixed in flight a vanishing race, and written a cycle of stories which are both powerful and distinctive."

+ N Y Times p8 F 24 '29 520w

"The best series of stories that have ever been written about the mountain whites. The chief reason why they are highly impressive is because Fiswoode Tarleton knows his subject matter thoroughly and is artist enough to paint the authentic picture."

+ N Y World p11m Ap 14 '29 230w

"In these twelve stories the community of Leeston and Porky Ridge is not only set before us, it is dissected. When we have finished 'Bloody Ground,' we have looked at the hill town from different angles and, furthermore, from different levels. Mr. Tarleton's style is notable for the force with which it can render slowly accumulative effects, it is unrelaxing in its insistence on spectacle, it is always taut, it works continually toward crescendo."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:693 F 16 '29 300w

TASKER, ROBERT JOYCE. Grimhaven. 241p $3 Knopf

365 Crime and criminals. Prisons. California. State prison, San Quentin 28-23009

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Booklist 25:149 Ja '29

Reviewed by M. A. de Ford

Nation 128:166 F 6 '29 300w

"There is some good stuff in this book. It is frank and honest attempt to describe the prison atmosphere, to define the limitations of the convict mind and the mood of sullen rebellion to which it is subject. As a revelation of the workings of sullen, stunted minds it has a certain interest. The whole is a readable, if rather blustering, piece of work."

TASKER, R. J.—Continued
— + New Statesman 33:534 Ag 3 '29 300w

"In some of the chapters he strikes major chords of feeling with skill and sincerity; in the last five pages he comes nearer to achieving his ambition to write with distinction than anywhere else in the book."
Sat R of Lit 5:609 Ja 19 '29 180w

"A remarkable document; one which is not only ably written but imparts a clear idea of the outer and some of the inner aspects of a life which is divorced from society. Further than this it throws light on an interesting group of prisoners—those with intellectual inclinations; of which naturally Tasker was one."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 6 '29 420w
Times [London] Lit Sup p508 Je 27 '29 800w

TATE, ALLEN. Jefferson Davis: his rise and fall; a biographical narrative. (Biographies of unusual Americans) 311p $3.50 Minton

B or 92 Davis, Jefferson 29-20277

The life of Jefferson Davis, as Mr Allen unfolds it against the dramatic background of the Civil war, is the tragedy of a man defeated by one defect of his own character—pride. His failure was due not so much to the difficulty of his position in the eyes of both North and South, nor to the poverty of the Confederacy after the downfall of Atlanta, but to his obstinate refusal to acknowledge defeat, to admit the errors of his decisions on occasions of crisis, and to conciliate his opponents.

Booklist 26:117 D '29

Reviewed by G. B. Munson
Bookm 70:328 N '29 500w

"Mr. Allen Tate's portrait—it can scarcely be called a biography—is a strikingly thoughtful and artistic work. It is a study of Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy, for with the earlier Davis Tate is not concerned. His study then becomes to a large extent a re-interpretation of the Civil War and the rôle Davis played in that tragedy. It is a study that must excite the admiration and the wonder of the more professional historian. There is about it an extraordinary freshness, a veracity, a sureness that none of the other biographers of Davis, with the exception of Willian E. Dodd, have." H: S. Commager
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p26 S 29 '29 1400w

"This is a cold, hard, unsympathetic book. It it written with very great ability. It has been given much research. It holds the reader and informs him of much concerning Confederate problems. But it is not written in a large manner. . . Davis was a greater man than Mr. Tate believes him. When human success becomes the final means of greatness, biography had best become a lost art." S. L. C.
— + Boston Transcript p3 O 19 '29 1100w
Cleveland Open Shelf p141 N '29

"This fine study is open to no adverse criticism at all, not even that of occasional error." C: W. Thompson
+ N Y Times p3 O 6 '29 1900w

Reviewed by Milton Ellis
Portland Evening News p5 O 29 '29 500w
Springf'd Republican p14 N 1 '29 500w

TATE, SALLY JANE. Sally's A B C sewed in a sampler in 1795; interpreted by Dugald Stewart Walker. il $3 Harcourt

"In this quaint alphabet book the artist has interpreted an old sampler made in 1795 by Sally Jane Tate, a little girl of Medford, Massachusetts. Costumes and objects belonging to the period are cleverly reproduced in the drawings."—Cleveland Open Shelf

"It is not a book that children will necessarily be eager to learn the alphabet from; neither is it one which they will be likely to regard as a substitute for a popular picture storybook. It is a book to explore from time to time without fear of coming to the end of its treasure, and it seems to me the best work that Mr. Walker has yet done." A. C. Moore
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 N 17 '29 200w
Boston Transcript p2 D 7 '29 300w
Cleveland Open Shelf p160 D '29
N Y Evening Post p14m N 16 '29 70w

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Outlook 153:589 D 11 '29 40w

"Children will undoubtedly like his book for its old-fashioned lace-paper Valentine quality; the delicate colors and lettering are beautifully reproduced. But taken as a whole I cannot help feeling it lacks spirit and spontaneity. After all one might almost say that the final test of a child's book, whether regarded from the point of view of pictures or text, should be,—Is it sincere, and simple and unselfconscious?" Rachel Field
— Sat R of Lit 6:403 N 16 '29 100w

"It is presumably a juvenile, but one may pity any adult who will not thrill to its quaintness and beauty. So far as may be, it produces the atmosphere of Sally's 18th century sampler."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 1 '29 150w

TAUSSIG, CHARLES WILLIAM. Rum, romance and rebellion. 289p il $4 Minton

326.1 Rum. Slave trade. New England—History 28-11981

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

"In these pages will be found much curious information concerning the rum trade, smuggling, the social and political power of rum, and 'colonial immorality.' The chapters on the slave trade are horrible but fascinating, most of all where quotation is made from old account books, logs, and diaries."
New Statesman 32:610 F 16 '29 320w
Times [London] Lit Sup p162 F 28 '29 800w

TAVERNER, ERIC. Trout fishing from all angles; a complete guide to modern methods; [with] a chapter on trout scales, by G. Herbert Nall; & The legal aspect of fishing, by Alban Bacon. (Lonsdale lib. of sports, games and pastimes) 448p il $7 Lippincott [21s Seeley]

799.1 Trout fishing [29-22018]

The author begins this most complete book on trout fishing with two chapters summarizing notable books in fishing literature. Then follow chapters on the life history of the trout, the art of casting, the entomology of trout-flies, fly-dressing, general practice, fishing in lochs and lakes, etc. A chapter on trout scales is added and another on the legal aspects of fishing. There are 188 illustrations in the text and 65 full-page plates.

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p37 S 29 '29 100w

"An invaluable treatise for all lovers of trout-fishing, Mr. Taverner's book is an encyclopaedia of information and instruction."
+ Boston Transcript p2 Jl 10 '29 300w

"This book inculcates sound methods and good manners, and the joy of the art for its own sake."
+ New Statesman 33:20 Ap 13 '29 300w
Spec 142:543 Ap 6 '29 160w

"The best all-round book on brown trout-fishing which has appeared in this generation."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p287 Ap 11 '29 1100w

TAYLOR, MRS ELLEN (DU POISE). Towers along the grass. 469p $2.50 Harper

28-29242

To Kate Lovett as a child Bianca Wells moved in an aura of mystery and romance. Kate was a farm child and Bianca the one person of culture in the Dakota village, save Kate's father, a scholar turned unsuccessful farmer. Between father and child there is an unusual communion of spirit; but as Kate grows up the influence of Bianca, changing now from romance into menace, creeps between the girl and every object of her affection, father, lover, friend.

"The book as a whole is somehow impressive when often it comes near to being simply silly. It is mysterious, but not obscure. Perhaps an allegory lies behind its towers, but I think that Mrs. Taylor would not have one puzzle out its meaning. It is a mood rather than an idea that she is trying to create through unbridled romance, a mood seeking to harmonize the squalor and the splendor of a life—where little happens." Mary Ross

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 O 28 '28 1050w

Cleveland Open Shelf p15 Ja '29

"Mannered and extremely artificial in style, this novel frequently tortures language to express the reactions of an acute sensibility, and continually tortures reality in the windings of its plot. Its writer has decided talent and she knows how to write; but because she has not yet learned how to bring her writing to bear upon reality, her book is a series of fantastic arabesques traced upon the smooth ice of experience."

— + Nation 127:665 D 12 '28 80w

"Dakota is the background of this brilliant and unusual novel, and while the characterization is excellent and some of the description rarely beautiful, the whole is so clouded with obsolete words that the atmosphere at times is almost lost. There is however a psychological penetration that transcends many omissions. But even that penetration is not always reliable."

— + N Y Times p19 N 4 '28 730w

" 'Towers Along the Grass,' as might be divined from the title is fantasy pure and simple, calculated to set one adreaming of Renaissance Florentine palaces and Petrarch's love sonnets from a most mundane Spearhead, South Dakota setting. . . If her book is several hundred pages too long for comfort surely it may be forgiven one who strikes a nice writing stride and insists upon giving her readers large spoonfuls of food for imaginative thought, whether they like it or not."

+ N Y World p11m F 3 '29 80w

"Building on the technique of introspection, Miss Taylor does not create the sharp, penetrating tower that might have justified her title. Instead she creates masses that are overweighted with words. As a collector searching for the thing of his delight, she has searched for words and brought them from forgotten corners of our language or imported them from other tongues. . . 'Towers Along the Grass' is indeed a heterogeneous novel, hardly belonging to this generation except for the very daring of its heterogenity."

— + Sat R of Lit 5:649 F 2 '29 420w

"Readers with a taste for imaginative and whimsical interpretation will find it a piece of delicate and subtle literary craftsmanship."

+ Spec 142:486 Mr 23 '29 130w

Times [London] Lit Sup p296 Ap 11 '29 280w

TAYLOR, GEORGE ROBERT STIRLING. English political portraits of the nineteenth century. 327p il $3 Little

923.2 Statesmen, British. Great Britain—Politics and government 29-11453

"Seven miniature character portraits form this latest gallery of political figures of England's nineteenth century scene. Wellington, Canning, Melbourne, Peel, Disraeli and Gladstone (of course), and Queen Victoria are the subjects of Mr. Taylor's latest flight into the field of biography."—Boston Transcript

"The book is written in a vivid, clear style and makes interesting reading, although one will not agree with all of the author's conclusions and estimates."

+ Am Pol Sci R 23:787 Ag '29 380w

Booklist 26:30 O '29

"Mr. Taylor has chosen from nineteenth century England six prime ministers—Wellington, Canning, Melbourne, Peel, Disraeli, Gladstone—and the Queen. The result is a story-telling tapestry, not a tangle of threads. But although Mr. Taylor's interest in his subjects is professedly psychological—he repeatedly scorns their parliamentary activities—the book is undercut by a stream of political and economic obsessions." Helen Sullivan

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Ag 4 '29 700w

"His 'Cromwell' was a book far above the mediocre level to which biography has fallen in our days; his 'English Political Portraits' falls short of that first effort." Sidney Homer

— + Boston Transcript p4 Ag 3 '29 1400w

Nation 129:560 N 13 '29 130w

"Less coruscating than tne gifted Mr Strachey, Mr. Taylor is at once more the scholar and more the man of the world. His portraiture excels in human chiaroscuro; his wit is the wit of criticism rather than of caricature. He has explored what Mr. Strachey exploited in 'Eminent Victorians' and 'Queen Victoria'—and much more besides." Clarence Britten

+ N Y Evening Post p6m Je 15 '29 700w

"His seven studies are assuredly very good fun. . . While a book is none the worse for being witty, it is none the better for being foolish, and when Mr. Stirling Taylor writes again, as it is to be hoped that he will, it can scarcely be doubted that he will be a little more respectful not only to an unexpectant public but to his own undoubted capacity." P. W. Wilson

+ — N Y Times p11 My 19 '29 900w

Wis Lib Bul 25:276 Jl '29

TAYLOR, HORACE. Making goods and making money. 296p $2.50 (10s 6d) Macmillan

330.1 Economics. Industry. United States—Industries 28-21886

The author, assistant professor of economics, Columbia university, studies the "economic anomaly" inherent in the conflict between social interests involved in making goods and individual interests in making money. His conclusion is that "as time goes on it is becoming increasingly necessary, in manufacturing industries, to make goods in order to make money."

Bookm 69:xii Ap '29 220w

"The survey is very carefully executed. The book is not a popularization and cannot be skimmed lightly. It should be read reflectively and critically, with an adequate knowledge of industrial economics as a prerequisite."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 F 24 '29 230w

Reviewed by Stuart Chase

Nation 128:320 Mr 13 '29 730w

"Professor Taylor's book provides the answer to an underlying social problem that has encouraged men of smaller background to propagate radical alternatives." P. W. Garrett

+ N Y Evening Post p10m F 23 '29 400w

"If Dr. Taylor had Mr. Shibley's faculty for simple, lucid phrasing, the book might well have been a companion volume to 'The New Way To Net Profits.' Unfortunately, however, its language is too labored and the thought too ponderously abstract for popular consumption. Nevertheless, in Dr. Taylor's book is to be found much documentation and specific data to support Mr. Shibley's more sketchily etched argument." Evans Clark

+ — N Y Times p7 F 24 '29 300w

TAYLOR, HORACE—Continued

R of Rs 78:36 N '28 40w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 79:14 Ap '29 50w

St Louis 27:10 Ja '29

Sat R of Lit 5:675 F 9 '29 250w

Times [London] Lit Sup p992 D 13 '28 230w

TAYLOR, MRS RACHEL ANNAND. Leonardo the Florentine; a study in personality; with a note on the author's work by Gilbert Murray. 580p il $6 Harper [31s 6d Richards press]

B or 92 Leonardo da Vinci. Renaissance. Art, Renaissance 28-28574

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

For biographical sketch of the author see Wilson bulletin 3:520 Mr '29

---

"Mrs. Taylor's biography scintillates and flashes with vivid imagery and bursts of poetic prose. But to be pelted with jewelled phrases and involved in complex and intricate patterns for over five hundred pages does become somewhat exhausting even though there are compensations in discovering phrases and ideas that vibrate with a superb and splendid rightness. However, the book gives not only a vivid picture of Leonardo's background at Florence and Milan but also an indication of his inner or psychic life. It is a brilliant and provocative work." Carl Zigrosser

+ — Bookm 68:358 N '28 400w

Cath World 129:756 S '29 500w

"Her 'Leonardo' exhibits encyclopedic learning, poetic imagination, a somewhat exotic and redundant richness of style, a tendency to sweeping judgments so personal that the reader will need to check them by his own information from other sources. Some of these qualities may be adjudged defects. But if one will take this book as a supplement to the copious literature which has accumulated about this amazing personality, it is invaluable." W. E. G.

+ — Christian Century 46:21 Ja 3 '29 200w

"An undoubted erudition in the Italian Renaissance and a magnificent enthusiasm for it are here set forth in what is almost a pandemonium of poeticism. Still the book is not to be discommended. Outwardly and inwardly it is coherent and discerning, and certainly the reader will not often find, in biography, such carnival kept with the colours of language."

+ — Dial 86:78 Ja '29 100w

Pratt p33 winter '29

"Mrs. Taylor writes as one who prefers poetry to prose, ecstasy to argument. Her style sparkles, quivers, sighs. . . She characterizes cities, friends, and associates of her hero with Swinburnian sensuousness and a scholar's wealth of allusion." W: S. Rusk

Yale R n s 18:606 spring '29 120w

TAYLOUR, HARRIET OSGOOD (MRS BASIL TAYLOUR). Japanese gardens. 204p il $7.50 Dodd [25s Methuen]

710 Gardens

Mrs Taylour in her descriptions and the artist in his charming paintings reproduced in color, have caught the lovely outward form of Japanese gardens, and the lovely spirit of them as well. The book, which covers the various types of gardens and their aesthetic purposes, has been given a handsome format.

---

"Twenty-eight illustrations in color from paintings by Walter Tyndale fittingly adorn this beautiful, interesting and unusual garden book."

+ N Y Times p7 Mr 3 '29 300w

"Mrs. Taylour has written a cheerfully garrulous, personal and uncritical book in praise of Japanese gardens. The illustrations have a graceful charm, aiming at daintiness and repose more than vigour."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p30 Ja 17 '29 300w

TCHERNINE, ODETTE. Wild morning. 288p $2.50 Stratford [7s 6d E. Mathews & M.]

Love among the moderns is the theme of this story of two sisters, orphaned daughters of an eccentric newspaper man. Jennifer and Barbara Eden, who have run wild on their impoverished family estate in Devon come to London, on the forced sale of their home, to take up dancing. These two untamed spirits, cast among a group of second rate artists, gain their experience at some cost to themselves.

---

"The trouble with 'Wild Morning' is that it so closely models itself upon 'The Constant Nymph' in manner and in matter as to invite unfortunate comparison with its more captivating predecessor. . . Nevertheless, Miss Tchernine's narrative has merits of its own. If she does not exactly solve her central problem, at least she presents it with very considerable skill and acumen. She also displays considerable ability in characterization."

— + Boston Transcript p4 N 2 '29 200w

"A novel such as this should have some value as sociology and psychology. It has little as art. Not that Miss Tchernine is either didactic or scientific. But she reflects to the full the post-war feeling of boredom and disillusion, the sense of insecurity and the longing for peace. The most astonishing thing about her people is the extravagance of their behaviour, and extravagance once thought peculiar to the Russians."

Nation and Ath 44:890 Mr 23 '29 180w

"Wild Morning bears all the signs of being a first novel; it is carefully written, but the characters are always fighting hard to avoid being middle-class; they have a habit, too, of jumping up and shouting for emphasis. One feels that in this book Miss Tchernine has lost both worlds, the Victorian and the new, and that her heroine, with only a 'queer streak of virtue' left, is in the limbo between." G. W. S.

— New Statesman 33:15 Ap 13 '29 210w

"Miss Tchernine has written her first novel extremely competently, but provides no particular reason why one should be interested in her characters to the extent of nearly 300 pages. There is nothing improbable in the book, either in psychology or in dialogue; only its pages are empty of both imagination and beauty. Miss Tchernine has intelligence and some feeling for character, but fails to convince us that her characters here have any importance or any relevance to life at large."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p208 Mr 14 '29 210w

TEAD, ORDWAY. Human nature and management; the applications of psychology to executive leadership. 312p $3.50 McGraw

331.015 Employment management. Psychology, Applied 29-15341

"The book is addressed primarily to the factory manager. He is told what psychology means, given an outline of the mechanism of emotions, habits, inborn tendencies to action, the learning process, the defense complex, the meaning of will and purpose. Mr. Tead then proceeds to cite specific examples; he shows how psychological methods have actually been applied in the selection of workers, in training them for their tasks, in the creation of morale, in arousing interest, in group action, in the application of discipline."—Nation

---

Am J Soc 35:518 N '29 150w

"Mr. Tead has written a sane book on the application of psychological principles to industrial management."

+ Bookm 70:xiv O '29 120w

"Wise and illuminating book." Stuart Chase

+ Nation 129:690 D 4 '29 750w

St Louis 27:308 N '29

TECHNIQUE of the love affair; by a gentlewoman. 207p il $2.50 Simon & Schuster [10s 6d G. Howe]

177.6 Courtship. Love 29-6122

"'A Gentlewoman' named Cypria instructs her satellite, Saccharissa, in the pleasures of the oldest sport. She is taught how to dip her arrows in the sweet poison of flattery and to wing them with beauty, how to array herself for the chase, how to approach the game with discretion lest she startle him, and how to lead home the smitten one."—Spec

---

Boston Transcript p5 Ja 26 '29 150w

Reviewed by Mary Hutchinson

Nation and Ath 44:261 N 17 '28 880w

"The amount of acting which the author demands from careful pupils is too much to expect even of a woman. Such sure and varied duplicity, if it be not inborn, can hardly be learnt. The amusing generalisations of 'A Gentlewoman,' if taken seriously and acted upon, would bring as many complications into ordinary drawing-room love as the French writers of farce are in the habit of bringing on the stage. No one is likely to act upon them. But the book is extremely lively."

— + New Statesman 32:60 O 20 '28 160w

"Books on love should be encouraged. Yet I doubt if they could do more than this one—more, that is, than amuse, perhaps a little more intelligently, perhaps with a style not as tiresome and speciously elegant." Marjorie Johnson

N Y Evening Post p9m N 10 '28 580w

"Extravagant, of course, the instructions are. But the book is not only blithe, but quite charming as well. It is free from flippancy and from the 'rough stuff' of the try-to-be-cynical pose. It is written with grace. And in spite of its one-sidedness, it contains many a sentence that is not only artful but wise."

+ — N Y Times p13 N 25 '28 500w

"Her methods and maxims are as old as the whisperings of the serpent, who was a male. So, too, we suspect is Cypria; else why should she allow Mr. Gerhardi the last word in his entertaining epilogue? 'I love women,' he says, 'but I do not like them.' She and Mr. Gerhardi speak the same tongue and may be the same person."

Spec 141:595 O 27 '28 130w

TEEPLE, JOHN EDGAR. Industrial development of Searles Lake brines; with equilibrium data, by [the author] and associates of the Am. potash and chemical corporation. (Am. chemical soc. Monograph ser.) 182p il $3 Chemical catalog co.

661.3 Potash industry and trade. Borax. Searles Lake, California 29-9102

"At Searles Lake, California, the American Potash and Chemical Corporation operates the largest borax plant in the world, and one of the largest potash plants. The consulting chemist of this enterprise outlines its history and technology, and presents hitherto unpublished phase diagrams and data."—N Y New Tech Bks

---

"Dr. Teeple's talks and papers are both invariably interesting to the capitalist, executive, layman, chemist and engineer. The reason, no doubt, is that he has a broad understanding of the problems and viewpoint of all and has the ability to express this understanding. . . The book is certainly a gem and an inspiration." P. D. V. Manning

+ Chem & Met Eng 36:430 Jl '29 550w

"As a story of adventure in modern chemistry and chemical engineering, Part I of this monograph will hold any reader's interest. Although an interesting narrative, it is not only that. The author has given to the reader a tremendous number of exceedingly valuable ideas, gleaned from his vast experience in industry. . . The second part of the monograph is devoted to equilibrium diagrams of various systems of the materials encountered in the brine. For the worker in the field of alkali chemistry these diagrams are almost an absolute necessity. The monograph is well worth reading for its general educational value and its entertaining story of development of a chemical industry." H. O. Forrest

+ Ind & Eng Chem 21:709 Jl '29 280w

N Y New Tech Bks 14:20 Ap '29

TEMPLE, JEAN. Glass over flower. 181p $2 J. Cape & H. Smith

29-15868

"Presents one Marcia Graves, a mere shred of infant femininity and follows her developing ardent temperament through haphazard schooldays into a distasteful marriage with a virtuous and sensual young clergyman. But her husband's jealousy ultimately drives her out, with her young child, to make her own way in the world. She assuages her loneliness with a brief, absorbing affair with a young doctor. A union with Eric, an artist in a radical community, follows this, and another child. Eric she leaves, also, when the tie that binds them frays. The last we see of Marcia is when, after an intimacy with a new lover, Christopher, she decides to vanish from his life in order that so perfect an experience may have the immortality of memory instead of being subjected to the decay of wear."—N Y Evening Post

---

"Honest, intense and self-righteous, this book is the record of an attempt to find beauty. The book will shock conventional readers by its outspokenness; it will raise to ecstacy those in whom the word 'polarity,' used to designate an otherwise indefinable emotional tension, evokes awe."

+ Bookm 70:xxi S '29 80w

"It is by no means a 'sexy' story in the usual sense; technical skill has raised it to the level of a work of art. As art, however, it is only specious because the characterization is thin and the motivation is weak. The figures that emerge from its pages are not creatures of flesh and blood as much as they are convenient pegs on which to hang the attributes belonging to their types. The book fails to come alive." Douglas Tyacke

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Ag 11 '29 350w

"The reader finds it very difficult to believe that Marcia Graves should experience a life of sexual frustration simply because of the happenings in her youth recorded by her biographer. The truth of the matter is Miss Temple attaches in the modern manner a too important value to sex."

— + Boston Transcript p2 Ag 25 '29 300w

"To compensate for its obvious limitations, 'Glass Over Flower' offers innumerable passages of striking grace and beauty. Of Marcia's childhood particularly, Miss Temple writes with a delicate balance of objectivity and introspection. After that the book declines. It is as though the author had gotten so close now to 'Glass Over Flower' that her hot breath has misted on the glass." Florence Haxton

+ — N Y Evening Post p6m Jl 20 '29 500w

"It is a record of frustration, built up and integrated by fine, selective narrative writing and resolved rather confusedly in a deal of philosophizing, strangely alien to the balanced clarity of the preceding exposition. Even in these disproportionate excursions from her central theme, however, Miss Temple writes with a disciplined and assured skill that marks her a novelist of very large promise."

+ — N Y Times p9 Jl 21 '29 660w

"Outlined the book seems full of events; in reading one is more conscious of implications and reactions than of the events themselves. What 'Glass Over Flower' gains through this constant preoccupation with the sources of personality it more than loses in vitality. Every emotion is taken up by the roots for examination before it has had time to entrench itself in any soil of actual life."

+ — Sat R of Lit 6:350 N 2 '29 470w

TEMPLE, JEAN—Continued

"The reader, unfortunately, finds little to interest him either in the experiences or their presentation. There is more self-consciousness than delineation."

— Springf'd Republican p7e Jl 21 '29 70w

TEMPLE-ELLIS, N. A. Inconsistent villains. 284p $2 Dutton [7s 6d Methuen]

29-12767

Captain Arbuthnot and his friend Sir Edmund King visit a quiet spot in Essex. A hair-raising scream pierces the quiet of the first night and a number 3 appears on the window pane marked in blood. This is only the beginning of a particularly mystifying mystery involving three rival gangs working at top speed to perpetrate or prevent crime, with consequent complexities of plot.

---

"While the story lacks subtlety, it has sufficient action to interest the mystery lover."

+ — Bookm 69:xxvi Ag '29 50w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Je 30 '29 170w

Boston Transcript p2 Jl 3 '29 230w

"Readers who have no rooted objection to mysterious gangs and are not deterred by a sheerly incredible plot will find in it a story well written and attractively presented."

+ — New Statesman 32:678 Mr 2 '29 120w

"The author has contrived to keep up the suspense even after one has a very fair idea as to what it is all about."

+ N Y Times p19 Je 16 '29 200w

"The story is a bit complicated, but what with midnight pursuits, and secret caverns, and bombs and the smoke of bullets on walls, there's plenty of action. And it's pretty well written." W. R. Brooks

+ Outlook 152:280 Je 12 '29 120w

Springf'd Republican p7e Je 16 '29 240w

"Mr. Temple-Ellis is an adept at clothing with mystery a plot which in itself is by no means extravagant in conception. Indeed, so satisfactory is the book as a 'thriller' that the reader will be quite ready to applaud Mr. Temple-Ellis's admission to the degree of Master of Mystery by three such Past Masters as Mr. H. C. Bailey, Father Ronald Knox and Mr. A. A. Milne, who awarded to him, among 200 competitors, the first prize in Messrs. Methuen's detective-story competition."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p160 F 28 '29 360w

TEMPSKI, ARMINE VON. Fire. 344p $2 Stokes [7s 6d Murray]

29-6794

A romance of Hawaii in which a girl of wealth and breeding gives up family, friends and wealth to marry the man she loves, a cowboy of mixed blood.

---

"Miss Von Tempski's scenic rhapsodies are cleverly disposed to further her moving tale of passion."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Je 30 '29 100w

"The strongest appeal of this writer's novels is that electric atmosphere of beauty and strangeness which she brings into them."

+ Boston Transcript p5 My 25 '29 240w

"Liholiho is an unusual creation and a definite achievement; Alma is less successful because in her presentment Miss von Tempski lacks just that emotional restraint which she lets Liholiho learn, but there are some admirable descriptive pieces in the book."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p560 Jl 11 '29 280w

TENENBAUM, JOSEPH. Riddle of sex; the medical and social aspects of sex, love and marriage; [with an introd. by Harry Elmer Barnes]. 362p $3.50 Macaulay

612.6 Sex 29-20809

A discussion of modern sex problems from a scientific point of view, written in simple and informal style. The evolution of sex, pregnancy, abortion, birth-control, eugenics, marital dietetics, disease, and homosexuality are among the chapter-headings. Dr Tenenbaum gives a resumé of proposed solutions to many of the sexual "riddles" he speaks of, but prefers to answer definite questions with the words, "It all depends."

---

"Dr. Tenenbaum has written courageously and lucidly on the role of sex in all life. The book deals intelligently with birth control, personal hygiene and sexual diseases; it does not overlook the field, often omitted, of aberrations and perversions in sexual activity and of the factors underlying them. Dr. Tenenbaum's volume is a worthy companion to Sex in Civilization."

+ Bookm 70:xvi D '29 100w

"Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum has written a book of three hundred and fifty pages on various aspects of sex without intruding his own personal complexes, dogmas, fears and the like. 'The Riddle of Sex' has the high distinction of passionless detachment and scientific approach in its survey of our present state of sexual knowledge—and ignorance." Lorine Pruette

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p26 N 24 '29 300w

Times [London] Lit Sup p848 O 24 '29 220w

TENNANT, FREDERICK ROBERT. Philosophical theology; v 1, The soul and its faculties. 422p $6.50 Macmillan [21s Cambridge univ. press]

201 Religion—Philosophy [29-3316]

"An elaborate epistemological study, designed to lay the foundations for an interpretation of religious experience which shall be tenable when tested by experience and critical analysis. The bulk of the space is devoted to problems of psychology and philosophy as such." —J Religion

---

"The author's hard thinking is mercifully relieved by clear writing."

+ Christian Century 46:897 Jl 10 '29 90w

Cleveland Open Shelf p38 My '29

J Religion 9:164 Ja '29 40w

"Its appeal is to the academic mind; and the abundant food which it offers needs digestive apparatus already well trained to tough diet. This being realized, all serious students will feel much gratitude for the devoted labours which have put at their disposal so full and clear an account of those regions of metaphysics and psychology which are concerned in the great assumptions of theism. These assumptions and the interpretation of the world which is required by full religion, are reserved for a second volume." Evelyn Underhill

+ Spec 141:140 Jl 28 '28 480w

Times [London] Lit Sup p546 Jl 26 '28 1050w

TERHUNE, ALBERT PAYSON. Secret of Sea-dream house. 340p $2 Harper

29-4640

Saul Tevvis goes to a lonely house in the Florida Everglades to write his book. Mystery and tragedy hang over Sea-dream house, a legacy from a certain Spanish pirate. But Saul ignores all warnings and with his man and dog for aid, braves the secret of the house of death. And wins the girl.

---

Bookm 69:xxvi Ap '29 40w

"Most amusing and readable."

+ Boston Transcript p3 Mr 23 '29 330w

"Mr. Terhune's latest yarn grips you early and never lets go. Climax steps on the heels of climax and boots the plot along. 'The Secret of Sea Dream House' is vivid, humorous, entertaining stuff." F: F. Van de Water
+ N Y Evening Post p10m Mr 16 '29 150w

"For those who like their grisly horrors piled on with exceptional thickness, the story makes good fireside reading."
Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 17 '29 200w
Wis Lib Bul 25:324 O '29

TERHUNE, ANICE MORRIS (STOCKTON) (MRS ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE). White mouse. 287p $2 Harper
29-17392

Bruce Bayard, from a New England boyhood, is brought to New York at his father's second marriage with a weak, despicable woman—the "white mouse" of the title. He struggles to make good, and does; he also falls in love with Haidee. But his father's growing degeneration is for a long time a barrier to Bruce's happiness and freedom.

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 S 15 '29 200w
Boston Transcript p3 S 28 '29 170w

"There is sweetness and quaintness and a refreshing absence of reek or taint in 'The White Mouse.' . . We should be the last to say that the characters and the action of the novel are not quite as true to life as the folk and events in the grimmer, smudgier fiction to which this hapless reviewer has become inured. Mrs. Terhune knows her New England. She also knows how to put her knowledge into print so that her readers see it as clearly and ideally as she." F: F. Van de Water
+ N Y Evening Post p4m S 14 '29 300w

"An emotional story, bordering on a sentimentalism perhaps, moving swiftly along with its situations piled high—a contrived story, yet cleverly enough done to achieve its effect. There are peaks of suspense and satisfying, peaceful let-downs. More than that, there is sincere character drawing."
+ Sat R of Lit 6:570 D 14 '29 230w
Springf'd Republican p7e D 22 '29 180w

THADDEUS, VICTOR. Voltaire, genius of mockery. 291p il $5 Brentano's
B or 92 Voltaire, François Marie Arouet de 28-23400
For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Reviewed by A. B. Maurice
Bookm 68:592 Ja '29 530w

"The result of this combination of knowledge, respect and justice is the creation of something truly alive. Thaddeus has surely resurrected the man; it is a real personality that alternately struts and scurries through his pages. . . Above all I am pleased with the vitality of Thaddeus' text. He has produced a book which is not only easy to read, but once begun hard to abandon." J. W. Fawcett
+ Christian Century 46:458 Ap 4 '29 520w

"Mr. Thaddeus is one of our most admirable concocters of what may be termed the Sunday Supplement biography. . . The Sunday Supplement biographer aims to interest, not to stimulate; to note certainties, not to pose problems; to avoid (as here) literary criticism because he knows that such criticism would delay his narrative; in short to produce a book which shall be completely readable and completely forgettable."
Nation 128:88 Ja 16 '29 320w

"Mr. Thaddeus's ignorance of politics, history, literature, and his neglect, at any rate, of many of the best sources for the life of Voltaire, quite apart from his ridiculous prose style and his absence of any sense of humour, land him into a series of absurdities, which make his book worthless, and, indeed, unintelligible to anyone whose control over the facts is not firmer than the author's." Francis Birrell
— Nation and Ath 44:794 Mr 9 '29 280w

"It is bald and sketchy, as dull and flat as a synopsis." Tom Davin
— N Y World p11m N 4 '28 370w

Reviewed by Christian Gauss
Sat R of Lit 5:916 Ap 20 '29 500w
Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 31 '29 360w

THALER, ALWIN. Shakspere's silences. 279p $3.50 Harvard univ. press [16s Oxford]
822.33 Shakespeare, William—Criticism and interpretation. Shakespeare, William—Influence 29-6712

"Mr. Thaler's book is in two parts. In one part he puts forward and labours to prove some original ideas concerning Shakespeare's influence upon Sir Thomas Browne, and Browne's value as an illustrator of things in Shakespeare; and from Browne he passes on to Milton, and goes deep into the questions of the Shakespearian element in Milton and the use which the theatre and the drama have made of Milton's poems. But it is the first part of Mr. Thaler's book which will chiefly interest students of Shakespeare, and especially perhaps the first paper in it, which is a long study of Shakespeare's silences."—Times [London] Lit Sup

"Mr. Thaler's volume is fairly representative of the sort of literary research that is going on all over our country in the graduate schools. It is creditably representative, for it is distinctly above the average level of such work; but, nevertheless, in methods and results it is typically academic. There is a painstaking assembling of the 'material;' there is the methodical classification of it; and there are the results not altogether proportionate in importance to the labor that has gone to the arrival at them. Mr. Thaler has labored more fruitfully in the study which lends its title to the volume."
— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 My 12 '29 480w

"Tributes to the eloquence of Shakespeare's expression are innumerable; but it has remained for Professor Thaler to point out with what masterly skill the poet has occasionally resorted to the eloquence of the mute. To the demonstration of this thesis the author devotes a cogently reasoned essay of considerable length." S. A. Coblentz
+ N Y Times p9 Jl 7 '29 900w
St Louis 27:311 N '29
Times [London] Lit Sup p532 Jl 4 '29 1750w

THANE, ELSWYTH, pseud. (ELSWYTH THANE [RICKER] BEEBE) (MRS WILLIAM BEEBE). Cloth of gold. 309p $2 Stokes
29-4417

"The tale tells that Blaise Dorin and Alexandra Ingarsen, sweethearts in 'Riders of the Wind,' (Book Review Digest, 1928) leave England again in search of the topaz-studded golden robe of the goddess Shir Shan, presumably waiting at the bottom of a cliff on the Indian Northwest Frontier, where it fell at the end of Miss Thane's earlier story. The courageous Alexandra recovers the mystic garment, braving king cobras, vultures and murderous heathen in the quest, then losing it to the sinister Yabun and his band."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

"This is a good yarn, packed tight with murder, chilling peril and Oriental mystery."
+ Bookm 69:xxvi Ap '29 100w
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Ap 28 '29 200w

Reviewed by F: F. Van de Water
N Y Evening Post p10m Mr 9 '29 350w

"There is satisfactory diversion, with real tenseness of interest here and there."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 17 '29 130w
Wis Lib Bul 25:162 My '29

THARAUD, JEROME, and THARAUD, JEAN. Chosen people; tr. by Frances Wilson Huard. 240p il $2 Longmans

296 Jews—History. Jews in Europe. Jews—Social life and customs 29-5588

A brief, popular account of the history of the Jews in Europe in which the authors have chosen for treatment picturesque aspects of Jewish life in the ghetto and the synagogue, and colorful personalities in Jewish history.

---

Booklist 25:268 Ap '29

"Even though it is a very brief, broad-stroked history of the Jews in Europe, The Chosen People manages to picture the various influences upon and developments within the ghetto during the last six centuries. . . The Tharauds have written charmingly and well."
+ Bookm 69:xiv Ag '29 170w

"One might be inclined to forgive the Tharauds the errors, the inaccuracies and the exaggerations with which their pages are peppered, if they had succeeded in writing a sufficiently lively narrative. The trouble with their book is that it is neither flesh, fowl nor good red herring. Take, for example, the story of the false Messiah, Sabattai-Zevi. Our authors have so bungled their account of this remarkable figure that the pages devoted to him read as though they had been written by a weary cub reporter, although the stuff touched upon is fit for the genius of Flaubert." Babette Deutsch
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 F 17 '29 1150w

Boston Transcript p5 Mr 9 '29 380w

Reviewed by W. E. Garrison
Christian Century 46:426 Mr 28 '29 220w

Cleveland Open Shelf p121 S '29

Reviewed by W. F. Kohn
— New Repub 59:134 Je 19 '29 250w

"These French brothers have accomplished their task of 'explaining the mystery of Israel to a Gentile world' in a way which cannot fail to bring even those who still cling to narrow traditions of intolerance where the Jewish race is concerned into a better realization of how large a percentage of sheer prejudice and how small a one of genuine grievance go to make up their inhibition." F: H. Martens
+ N Y Evening Post p9m F 2 '29 520w

"It is a picturesque and poetic recital, well written, translated by Mme. Huard into beautiful English, intensely interesting."
+ N Y Times p20 Mr 17 '29 440w

"Its historical worth is questionable . . . much matter has crept in that will make the reader wonder just how sincere the Tharauds really are." G: Joel
— N Y World p11m Mr 24 '29 160w

"Written in broad sweeping lines, rather as a series of brilliant pictures than as a continuous chronicle, 'The Chosen People' is the best type of popular history. The Tharauds appear to understand the salient qualities of the race which they celebrate, and they write with insight and poetic fervor. . . The translation of the book is admirable as is all Mrs. Huard's work."
+ Outlook 151:230 F 6 '29 350w

"A superficial and rather wilful affair. Shows a great affection for the picturesque."
— Times [London] Lit Sup p285 Ap 11 '29 220w

Wis Lib Bul 25:123 Ap '29

THAYER, CLARK LEONARD. Spring flowering bulbs; hardy and desirable materials for use in the home garden. (Farm and garden lib.) 123p il $1.25 Judd

716.2 Bulbs. Gardening 28-13921

"Most of us wish each spring that we had remembered to plant more spring bulbs in the lazy autumn. Mr. Thayer tells when to plant what, and how deep, and when and why to lift bulbs for a summer rest, and how to evade blight and maggots. Backyard gardener and park tender alike will find his advice useful.' —Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

Booklist 25:59 N '28

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 My 13 '28 130w

THAYER, LEE (MRS EMMA REDINGTON [LEE] THAYER). Dead men's shoes. 309p $2 Sears

29-4416

"The killing of Stanley Scofield, with the finding of whose body this story begins, looks more like an execution than a murder, and this fact does not escape the attention of Peter Clancy, the detective. Scofield has been bound hand and foot, gagged and blindfolded, as if he were to be stood up against a wall and shot. But he was not shot, and the manner of his death is not immediately apparent. Clancy has no official standing but the county detectives are glad to have his help, although there are times when they are tempted to take the case out of his hands."—N Y Times

---

"Far more interesting than the ordinary mystery story, this novel is written in good, terse English and is a quickly moving narrative which marches to its surprising conclusion in a manner both logical and cleverly devised."
+ Boston Transcript p8 Mr 9 '29 280w

N Y Times p22 F 17 '29 150w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks
Outlook 151:274 F 13 '29 80w

"Not only shows Clancy at his best, but gives the reader many interesting moments."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 17 '29 150w

"An excellent, straightforward story of a crime and its detection, unadorned by any romantic trappings."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p421 My 23 '29 130w

THIESS, FRANK. Farewell to paradise; tr. from the German by H. T. Lowe-Porter. 183p. $2 Knopf

29-16428

This is the prelude to a tetralogy on modern youth. It is a story of early adolescent love. its setting the German countryside; of Wolf Brassen, fourteen, his growing affection for Suzanne Mirtiz, and his shy expression of it.

---

"There are few deeper books, few defter books, than these social studies of Frank Thiess's. If other books on similar subjects are sometimes uglier, there may be reasons for the differences which are not all to Thiess's discredit. He is fundamentally a gentleman, and the most penetrating frankness is not necessarily brutal. And although all boys and girls go through certain troublesome experiences, the majority of boys and girls are not cynics or sex perverts." R. T. House
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 Ag 11 '29 900w

"This is one of the most interesting German novels to appear this season. . . It is so well phrased that we respond to the atmosphere, but never find an awkward word or a foreign phrase."
+ Boston Transcript p1 S 21 '29 300w

"This slight idyll of adolescent love, set in a dull middle-class summer-resort hotel with a backdrop of German country-side, is told with an unadorned directness which gives it at least a certain sincerity and reality. It is to be regretted that books dealing with adolescent emotional conflicts suggest Wedekind and challenge comparison with that pioneer in the field of juvenile psychology; for there is a new generation of German youth since Wedekind, and the post-war adolescent presents, as we know, a whole new series of problems to the novelist and the dramatist. Unfortunately, no hint of this new situation is to be found in the present book, which is largely Wedekind réchauffé."
+ — Nation 129:699 D 4 '29 170w

THIESS, FRANK. Interlude (Frauenraub); tr. from the German by Caroline Frederick. 247p $2.50 Knopf

29-7297

A successful German architect falls in love with the wife of his good friend. The three, husband, wife, and friend are cultured, responsible persons; it is not in them to take the situation lightly. The lovers, unable to dismiss or deny their passion, run away for a year. Their retreat is then discovered by the husband. With fine sympathy for one another the three work out their mutual problem as civilized beings.

"Frank Thiess has relinquished in his art none of the substantial excellences of traditional Realism, he is a rarely accomplished craftsman, an inquisitor of almost clairvoyant sensitiveness and a creative artist of the first order. In Interlude, we have still further proof of his superb qualities." W: A. Drake

+ Bookm 69:198 Ap '29 180w

"He has a message as earnest as anything that Harold Bell Wright or Elinor Glyn ever delivered and more metaphysical than Bruce Barton ever thought of. It is quite impossible to say whether he is speaking with his tongue in his cheek or not. One suspects that he is." Eugene Lohrke

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 Mr 31 '29 1050w

Boston Transcript p5 My 18 '29 250w

"The story is told with conviction and restraint, and as we read it moves our ready sympathy: we feel that each of these three unhappy mortals has acted throughout with the best will in the world." T. S. Matthews

+ New Repub 58:285 Ap 24 '29 320w

Reviewed by Gertrude Diamant

N Y World p11m Mr 31 '29 400w

"A tenuous tale, somewhat marred by adolescent reflections on the flesh and the spirit. While it is not always convincing, it is done with a fine feeling that is at its best when the story moves through a succession of mutually tacit realizations that never find verbal expression in the lovers who experience them. This rather exquisite workmanship, however, cannot condone the frequently naïve conceptions of character or experience."

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:1030 My 18 '29 200w

"Thiess subjects his characters to penetrating and calculated analysis. It is essentially a laboratory experiment, yet honestly done."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 21 '29 280w

THOM, WILLIAM TAYLOR. Petroleum and coal; the keys to the future. 223p il $2.50 Princeton univ. press [11s 6d Milford]

553.28 Petroleum. Coal 29-10675

"Dr. Thom, Associate Professor of Geology, Princeton University, begins by showing the importance of petroleum and coal as the motive forces of the modern world, and compares and contrasts with our civilization that of the ancients who had no such sources of power. There follow chapters describing how coal and oil are formed, how they occur, are discovered, produced, and used; and a concluding chapter assesses the magnitude and adequacy of the remaining reserves of petroleum and coal"—Times [London] Lit Sup

"The book is timely and up to date. It should be read not only by fuel technologists but more especially by all industrial and financial executives who control the production and consumption of coal and oil." A. C. Fieldner

+ Ind & Eng Chem 21:391 Ap '29 430w

J Geol 37:728 O '29 120w

Reviewed by C: H. Behre, Jr.

Nation 129:256 S 4 '29 480w

N Y New Tech Bks 14:8 Ja '29

N Y Times p15 Jl 28 '29 200w

Pratt p11 autumn '29

Times [London] Lit Sup p439 My 30 '29 60w

World Tomorrow 12:523 D '29 80w

THOMAS, ALAN ERNEST WENTWORTH. Death of Laurence Vining. 313p $2 Lippincott [7s 6d Benn]

29-13892

Laurence Vining, brilliant amateur detective, has often assisted Scotland Yard in solving criminal mysteries. Shortly after one such successful coup Vining himself is stabbed in the back in the lift at the Hyde Park tube station. Every clue fails, and the mystery would never have been solved but for the murderer's posthumous confession.

"Home talent sleuthing and awkward sprinkling of motives rather weaken an interesting enough plot, resolved by means of a diary confession by the none too enigmatic culprit The chief merit of this one is credibility in the main and minor premises." Will Cuppy

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 Je 9 '29 80w

"While the working out of the mystery follows the generally prescribed course of stories of this kind, the ending is novel."

+ Boston Transcript p5 Je 22 '29 300w

"The excitement of the chase is purely scientific, and all who enjoy a detailed investigation (complete with plans), must read this book at once."

+ Nation and Ath 44:724 F 23 '29 100w

N Y Times p19 Je 16 '29 160w

"Mr. Alan Thomas has written a good detective-story. The crime is extraordinarily ingenious and the solution satisfying. . . Apart from the book's merits as a detective-story it is written with observation and humour. The dialogue is amusing and natural, and the characters are well suggested." L. P. Hartley

+ Sat R 147:51 Ja 12 '29 180w

"The publishers justly claim unusual distinction for this detective tale by a new writer. The murder in a tube lift of Laurence Vining, the brilliant amateur criminologist is very cleverly staged; and the murderer's motive and method are highly original in conception, and remain tantalizingly obscure until the end. The story is admirably written and full of incidental humour and charm."

+ Spec 142:173 F 2 '29 60w

"The story is longer than the elucidation of the main problem demands, and the false clues with which it is padded out are based on complications which are too fantastic for what is subsidiary."

— Times [London] Lit Sup p82 Ja 31 '29 100w

THOMAS, MRS ELIZABETH FINLEY. Nevertheless the Duke. 310p $2 Bobbs

29-8006

Claude lives in America till he is fourteen. Then he is sent to France and his education as grandson of the Duchess de Varencourt begins. He falls in love with an American girl of no family. His grandmother interferes. He begins an affair with a sophisticated authoress and has followed her to New York when the duchess, having discovered Molly's worth, begs Claude to come back to her and to his obligations as a Frenchman of rank.

"The tale, though never sharply compelling, moves inevitably through its course in harmony with its symbolic overtones." Howard Barnes

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p24 My 5 '29 380w

"The old people, delightful in their sense of humor and of prejudice, the New York of the various localities which housed Claude and his family, Paris herself, worn by the war, the nervous asylum where his grandmother took refuge, all these are drawn clearly."

+ Boston Transcript p3 My 25 '29 380w

THOMAS, E. F.—Continued

Springf'd Republican p7e O 13 '29 100w

Times [London] Lit Sup p849 O 24 '29 200w

THOMAS, JAMES A. Pioneer tobacco merchant in the Orient. (Publications) 339p il $3.50 Duke univ.

338.1 China—Description and travel. East (Far East)—Description and travel. Tobacco manufacture and trade 29-1424

"The book describes the American penetration of the oriental market. The author has worked in the Far East almost continuously since 1897, principally as an agent of the American Tobacco company. . . He was interested in living conditions in the Orient, in wages and in education, indeed, starting and giving substantial support, through the Dukes, to schools in Shantung particularly. . . In 1920 he organized the Chinese-American Bank of Commerce, and throughout evinces a thoroughly sincere if not profound, appreciation of Chinese problems." —Springf'd Republican

---

"Filled with human kindness, Mr. Thomas made China cigarette-conscious and piled up the benevolent millions that turned Trinity College into Duke University and endowed the Duke University Press. There is a transparent honesty in every line of this book that has a fascination all its own, and some of Thomas's stories are priceless."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Ja 27 '29 200w

"Mr. Thomas has a very interesting story to tell. He tells it in a straightforward manner . . . presenting the genuinely progressive and constructive ideas which he himself introduced into China and the effects brought about by his initial work as a merchant in the Orient." D. L. M.

+ Boston Transcript p2 F 2 '29 380w

"As a chronicler he writes well of the many countries he has visited, from India to Korea and from Russia to the Dutch East Indies; a great deal of his narrative is frankly travel talk. . . This does not pretend to be a scholarly or exhaustive study of Far Eastern conditions, but it should help to impress upon readers 'the great importance of the future peace of the Pacific.'" R. S.

+ Springf'd Republican p6 Ja 28 '29 820w

"Mr. Thomas sees China and its economic and social problems almost purely from the point of view of cigarette-selling. If the Chinese labourer is better paid, he has more money to spend on cigarettes; if the Chinese student is better educated, he is more likely to want them; and if markets are created in America for Chinese goods the country as a whole will have more money, which Mr. Thomas will do his best to induce it to spend on cigarettes."

Times [London] Lit Sup p642 Ag 22 '29 520w

THOMAS, JOSEPH BROWN. Hounds and hunting through the ages; with an introd. by the Earl of Lonsdale. 272p il $27.50 Derrydale press

799.2 Hunting. Hounds. Fox-hunting. Foxhounds 29-1722

"Mr. Thomas's book goes back to the very beginnings of 'the chase' at the dawn of man's era on earth and it takes us down to the very latest theories on scent, on the breeding of dogs, on the hunting of packs and the building of kennels. As Lord Lonsdale, the noted British sportsman, says in an introductory note, this distinguished red-and-gold tome of 270 large pages must 'command the serious attention of the ride-to-hunt enthusiast as well as the interest of every hunt-to-ride advocate.'" —N Y Evening Post

---

"There is a most interesting dissertation on the vagaries of scent and another no less interesting, upon the hunting horn, its history and its uses. The book contains six colored plates, reproductions of hunting scenes, each of which has the clarity and thrill of a bugle call." R. B. Peck

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 Ap 7 '29 530w

"That Mr. Thomas is an ardent and thorough student of hunting lore is revealed in the historical data set forth in his early chapters, which trace the romantic path of hunting through the ages down to Anglo-Norman times, and then its spread in the Western Hemisphere. Few men have had more practical experience."

+ Boston Transcript p3 Ja 12 '29 1900w

"With thoroughness, with taste, and in a most beautiful volume Mr. Thomas has produced in 'Hounds and Hunting Through the Ages' a book that ought to stand up as the lasting authority for American huntsmen. The illustrations with which the book's beautifully printed pages are interspersed are of high scientific or artistic excellence." J. M.

+ N Y Evening Post p10m F 16 '29 580w

Reviewed by H. I. Brock

N Y Times p11 Mr 17 '29 1300w

"All that he has to say about hunting in our own country is addressed to Americans. His chapters on the history, art and literature of venery have a much wider appeal, which is strengthened by some excellent illustrations. On this subject he may be called an amateur, but the word must be applied in its best sense; for he has boundless enthusiasm, good taste, and has evidently been at pains over his facts. Yet it is when he is on the subject of American hunting history, American conditions and American hounds, that his book has made most appeal to us."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p446 Je 6 '29 850w

THOMAS, LOWELL JACKSON. Adventures in Afghanistan for boys. 263p il $2 Century

915.8 Afghanistan—Description and travel 28-28579

What happened to Lowell Thomas and Harry Chase, his intrepid cameraman, when they accepted the invitation of the Ameer Amanullah Khan, monarch of the Afghans, to visit him. Their trip led them thru Baluchistan, Waziristan and the Khyber Pass.

---

Booklist 25:217 F '29

"Lowell Thomas's place as an adventure writer for boys seems to grow surer with each volume. His narrative appears more thrilling than ever, and his trip through the wilds of Baluchistan will be followed with the usual absorbed interest by even more than the usual number of boys."

+ Nation 127:553 N 21 '28 70w

St Louis 27:64 F '29

"It makes splendid reading. Thomas is not a polished writer. He hasn't attempted to do more than narrate with a good deal of color and some humor, exactly what happened to him and to Harry Chase. The book is good reporting." M. V. Charnley

+ Sat R of Lit 5:812 Mr 23 '29 300w

THOMAS, LOWELL JACKSON. Raiders of the deep. 363p il $2.50 Doubleday, Doran

940.451 European war, 1914-1918—Naval operations 28-25937

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Booklist 25:157 Ja '29

Bookm 69:xviii Ap '29 40w

Cleveland Open Shelf p72 My '29

Pratt p32 summer '29

St Louis 27:31 Ja '29

"We doubt if Mr. Thomas has done his German friends a good turn by recalling them to the memory of the British public, which cannot be thought unduly vindictive if it should object to have the least forgivable episode in the war thus offered for its admiration."

Sat R 147:258 F 23 '29 300w

"He has tales to tell of desperate courage and long chances, tales which stir the blood, despite his reliance on strong adjectives and exclamation points." J: Carter
+ Sat R of Lit 5:568 Ja 5 '29 800w

"The moral needs no pointing here; it is obvious on every page of this virile and vivacious chronicle. The crimes and confusion of those years seem distant—even incredible—but it is well that they should be brought close to us. The goodness and the badness, the courage and the futility of mankind stand out in vivid colours."
+ Spec 142:sup379 Mr 9 '29 850w

THOMAS, WILLIAM ISAAC, and THOMAS, DOROTHY SWAINE. Child in America; behavior problems and programs. 601p il $6.50; text ed $5 Knopf

136.7 Child study. Juvenile delinquency. Children—Charities, protection, etc. Mental tests 29-1422

"A study of many varieties of behavior disorders in children and of the experimental methods being developed throughout the United States and Canada in an attempt to correct these disorders. The authors have brought together in one volume the different approaches to the handling of behavior problems by the physiologist, the psychologist, the psychiatrist and the sociologist. They have been generous in their inclusion of case material, especially in illustrating the types of maladjustment in children, the operation of psychiatric clinics, the newer attempts to develop and analyze children's personalities through controlled social situations."—Bookm

---

"This is the first systematic attempt to evaluate from the angle of sociology and social psychology the work of the last two decades in the field of child behavior." Kimball Young
+ Am J Soc 35:308 S '29 1400w
Booklist 25:307 My '29

"Dr. W. I. Thomas and Dr. Dorothy Thomas have turned out a book which is perhaps the most complete of its kind. Everyone who deals with children should know what is being done to promote an understanding of the child's attempt to adjust himself to an adult world. Such knowledge and understanding, whether sought by parent, teacher, social worker or clinician, will be enriched by a reading of The Child in America."
+ Bookm 69:xxii Mr '29 180w

"A survey which is scholarly instead of sentimental, objective instead of opinionated, and based upon years of research and repeated visits to institutions in the United States and Canada. It is a source book and represents thus a much needed synthesis of its material. For so splendid a contribution to its subject we must be grateful to the compilers of this study." J. B. Temple
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 My 12 '29 430w
Boston Transcript p8 Ja 26 '29 300w
Cleveland Open Shelf p75 My '29

"This volume is of the nature of a source book, more than half the pages being direct quotations. The authors have made an heroic attempt to stick to the facts. Their data have been culled mainly from the scientific literature (or at least that published in the scientific journals), but partly from direct observation of the operation of various programs and institutions. Conclusions are carefully stated and the approval or disapproval of this or that institution or method is used somewhat sparingly." M. A. May
New Repub 58:101 Mr 13 '29 1050w

"Authoritative, scholarly and readable." R. G. Reynolds, M. D.
+ N Y Evening Post p8m F 2 '29 460w

Reviewed by F. F. Kelly
N Y Times p6 F 10 '29 280w

"The authors have brought a unique preparation to the problem of methodology and The Child in America is a notable addition to the literature on behavior maladjustment. The authors have organized, and presented without bias, a vast amount of material that has hitherto been inaccessible. Social workers, schoolmen, physicians, psychiatrists, judges will find the book not only useful but indispensable. It will be a standard reference work for years to come." Harvey Zorbaugh
+ Survey 61:815 Mr 15 '29 500w

"The book will remain for years a mine of information, suggestion, and guidance for those competent to use it." H: P. Fairchild
+ Yale R n s 19:204 autumn '29 550w

THOMASON, JOHN WILLIAM. Marines and 2 others. 290p il $3 Scribner

29-23888

A group of short stories celebrating mainly the exploits of marines, illustrated by the author. A few of the stories, such as Before the rains, have no connection with marine activity. It is the story of the hanging of a Negro murderer in Texas. War dog recounts the part that German police dogs played in the War. The range of setting for the marine stories includes China, Texas, and Central America.

---

"Most of the sketches are strong and virile as befits the corps which claims to be 'The First to Fight.' Bold strokes and unvarnished language are used in the description of the fighters, their joy and sorrows, their sins and their heroisms. Captain Thomason is keeping up the good work that he began a few years ago and one does not weary of it, but is glad to see more."
+ Boston Transcript p3 Ja 4 '30 180w

"There are ten tales in all, and they are almost uniformly marked by the vigorous, trenchant style which won so many readers for 'Fix Bayonets.' The author brings an almost military discipline to his avocation of writing. His descriptions are pointed, his dialogue crisp and his work as a whole lean and sharply outlined." Howard Barnes
+ N Y Times p7 D 29 '29 550w
Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 5 '30 200w

THOMPSON, CHARLES JOHN SAMUEL. Mystery and art of the apothecary. 287p il $4 Lippincott [12s 6d Lane]

615.4 Pharmacy [29-19996]

A short history of the apothecary's art from Babylonian and Assyrian times down to the last century, showing in passing the importance of the apothecary among the Hebrews, Hindus, Chinese, Greeks and Romans, and giving several chapters to the art in England. Illustrated by copies of old prints.

---

"Mr. Johnson's book possesses an odd and musty fascination for the reader."
+ Bookm 70:x Ja '30 120w
Boston Transcript p4 S 28 '29 550w

"This is an astonishing book; its compilation must have caused Mr. Thompson enormous toil and research. It is crowded with information relative to the apothecary, from Babylonian and Assyrian times down to the last century. It is not in any sense a dull book. Many parts of it are as entertaining as a novel, or a jest manual, or even an old romance." H. E. Palmer
+ Nation and Ath 45:659 Ag 17 '29 480w

"An illuminating and erudite piece of work which brings together a large number of facts about the apothecary's work from legendary times to these days."
+ New Statesman 33:582 Ag 17 '29 730w
N Y Times p13 O 20 '29 230w

Reviewed by Morris Fishbein
N Y World p10m D 15 '29 130w
Sat R 148:220 Ag 24 '29 480w

"As we read this fascinating book, with its pages on Arabian medicines, the oldest remedies in the world, and historical medicinal prepara-

THOMPSON, C: J: S:—Continued
tions, we realize that for all the world-pride in research and discovery, progress in medicine has been made at the rate of two steps forward and one back, with many side-slips as well. . . Mr. Thompson's book will be appreciated by all who are interested in the fascinating mysteries of apothecaries."
+ Spec 143:196 Ag 10 '29 660w

"Many entertaining things Mr. Thompson has to tell in his pleasant and readable volume. It is the best of the series on this and kindred topics that has flowed from his easy pen. The pictures are excellent and many of them most amusing."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p569 Jl 18 '29 1950w

THOMPSON, CHARLES JOHN SAMUEL. Quacks of old London. 356p il $4 Lippincott [12s 6d Brentano's]

133.7 Quacks and quackery

An exposition of the quacks, mountebanks, and charlatans of London from 1382 to the eighteenth century, illustrated by many bills and old woodcuts.

"Mr. Thompson is not, I believe, an M. D. and is therefore unconscious of the suggestions which come to a practitioner from the perusal of his material—first, that the profession learned much from the quacks, and second, that the practices of the regulars were and are often no more dignified than those of their humble imitators. . . He eschews the philosophy of quackery and sticks to narrative." Logan Clendening
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p11 Je 23 '29 700w

Reviewed by Boris Sokoloff
New Repub 58:311 My 1 '29 420w

"Mr. C. J. S. Thompson, who in several previous volumes has shown himself an industrious explorer of the byways of social history, has found in the annals of quackery a theme at once attractive and repulsive. . . His book is rather a repertory than a history, and it is to be wished that he had criticised his documents as thoroughly as he has presented them, for there must be a special psychology of quackery which would repay exploration."
+ — New Statesman 32:391 D 29 '28 220w

Reviewed by Herschel Brickell
No Am 227:adv Ap '29 40w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks
Outlook 151:430 Mr 13 '29 130w
St Louis 27:197 Je '29
Sat R of Lit 5:819 Mr 23 '29 280w

"The stories of their lives and particularly of their ingenious advertising methods are entertaining reading."
+ Spec 142:26 Ja 5 '29 100w

"The theme of quackery does not lend itself to continuous narrative, but Mr. Thompson has provided an entertaining and well-illustrated causerie on the subject."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p953 D 6 '28 900w

THOMPSON, CHARLES WILLIS. Presidents I've known and two near presidents. 386p $3 Bobbs

923.1 Presidents—United States. Statesmen, American 29-4678

A noted political correspondent draws a series of intimate portraits from memories of direct personal contacts with the presidents and near presidents he has known. These are Mark Hanna, McKinley, Bryan, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, and Coolidge.

Booklist 25:320 My '29

"The things that come under his eye are correctly told so far as he chooses to tell them, but we must dissent from the eloquent 'blurb' which declares this book to be 'true iconoclasm' and 'the breaking of false idols.' Instead, he has given each one a fresh coat of luminous paint." D. C. Seitz
+ — Bookm 69:207 Ap '29 320w

"His phrases and glimpses make good reading; they throw real light on history. They do not always leave one with entire faith in Mr. Thompson's objectivity. . . Mr Thompson has known everybody and seen everything, and writes colorfully about them, and he hates his enemies with an implacable conviction that the men who differ from him are morally guilty." L: Gannett
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 F 24 '29 1200w

"It is not easy to find much to criticise unfavorably in such a book. The author's very disclaimer of seeking to tell not the whole story, but only that which is within his personal knowledge, is of itself a most perfect defense." S. L. C.
+ Boston Transcript p4 Jl 27 '29 600w

"The book is a mine of information and entertainment." E. F. Edgett
+ Boston Transcript p5 S 21 '29 1400w

"The biographer shows a friendly spirit as well as a discriminating mind. He can do justice to men whom he does not approve, and appreciate the good qualities of those whose policies he criticizes. The book contains much inside stuff about the policies and public men of the past generation."
+ Christian Century 46:1123 S 11 '29 100w

"The merit of viewpoint alone will not sustain a work of this kind. It must contain, if it is to be permanently valuable a sufficient deposit of new material to advance knowledge of its theme or themes to an appreciable extent. Mr. Thompson's book does much more than this. In the cases of at least four of his subjects, Wilson, Bryan, Roosevelt and Taft, he has brought out evidence of the first importance which no one writing of them with finality in the future can afford to disregard." P. W. Wilson
+ N Y Times p1 F 24 '29 1300w
Outlook 151:429 Mr 13 '29 30w

"Thompson's book on the post-Hanna era is a brilliant example of good political reporting by one of the best of the old school of Washington correspondents. He sets down nothing but what he himself knows to be true."
+ Outlook 151:506 Mr 27 '29 150w
Pratt p35 summer '29

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 79:16 Ap '29 150w
St Louis 27:168 My '29

THOMPSON, DOROTHY (MRS SINCLAIR LEWIS). New Russia. 330p il $3 Holt

914.7 Russia—Social conditions. Russia—Politics and government. Bolshevism—Russia 28-21722

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Booklist 25:160 Ja '29

"Some of her chapters are as dry as a lawyer's brief in a patent controversy but the book as a whole is written with zest and conviction and contains considerable information." B. C. Vladeck
+ Bookm 68:603 Ja '29 110w

"A clear style and a measure of detachment which seeks to be fair, make this book a valuable addition to the writings on contemporary Russia." W. P. Lemon
+ Christian Century 46:358 Mr 14 '29 520w

"The book from cover to cover provides matter for profound thought. And it is written with a vigour and vividness that make it eminently readable."
+ New Statesman 32:796 Mr 30 '29 700w
St Louis 27:27 Ja '29

"It is critical with insight and sympathy, and well planned except for a single chapter written mostly for the benefit of intending investors which, interesting and useful as it is, makes a strange companion for vivid sketches of the mental background of a country mainly composed of mental background."
+ Sat R 147:215 F 16 '29 180w

"Not being able to speak Russian, much of her information had to be gleaned at second hand, and we feel it is in the descriptions of social life and of people she actually met that Miss Thompson has done her best work. . . The book is full of contradictions, but is none the less interesting."

+ — Spec 142:290 F 23 '29 280w

Times [London] Lit Sup p371 My 9 '29 250w

Wis Lib Bul 24:344 D '28

Reviewed by G. Vernadsky

Yale R n s 18:600 spring '29 300w

THOMPSON, EDWARD HERBERT. Children of the cave. 250p il $2 Marshall Jones

29-12495

"Hiding from the dangers of a Mexican revolution, three American children (who are the author's), born in Yucatan and speaking the Maya language, accompanied by native servants, wander for days, in a Swiss Family Robinson sort of way, through an almost interminable cave in Yucatan."—Sat R of Lit

Boston Transcript p4 Jl 17 '29 330w

St Louis 27:291 O '29

"This story of fact and fiction has rather more background than the ordinary adventure tale and it does give an excellent picture of many of the ancient customs, the habits of the animals, and the character of the ancient population. The didactic side is not too strongly emphasized, thrilling adventures keep up the interest of the youthful reader. The book is quaintly illustrated by the author's daughter, Abby May Thompson." A. M. Tozzer

+ Sat R of Lit 6:162 S 21 '29 420w

Wis Lib Bul 25:326 O '29

THOMPSON, EDWARD JOHN. Night falls on Siva's hill. 303p $2.50 Dial press [7s 6d Heinemann]

[29-9641]

The career of an English officer stationed in the Trisulbari jungles of India, and the love story of his daughter Nicolette, together with a picture of the political and social life in India, form the material of this novel.

"The book never seems to spring completely to life, and one wishes that Mr. Thompson had succeeded in endowing his characters with an élan vital which would justify their actions. There are some magnificent descriptions of Indian scenery, but both dialogue and prose are too plentifully peppered with italics."

— + Bookm 70:xxx O '29 100w

"Mr. Thompson's story moves forward in terms of human drama, even the minor personages—comic, heroic, mean, each in accordance with the line of his being—providing him with sources for the exertion of understanding. His pity is warm and suffusive. . . It is difficult to sum up in a word or even a phrase the precise quality of this book. It is mellow yet often keen as a rapier thrust; at once charming and full of a strange urgency." Leonard Ehrlich

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 N 3 '29 600w

Cleveland Open Shelf p156 D '29

Reviewed by H. C. Harwood

New Statesman 32:supx Mr 16 '29 200w

N Y Times p7 O 13 '29 620w

"It is a beautiful story in its descriptions of Indian scenery and in its character portrayals, and a most vivid one in its condemnation of conditions in Anglo-Indian society and in the relations between ruler and ruled nations in Britain's greatest domain. . . Most of the effect of this novel is gained from the sensitiveness of the author, the beauty of scene and language, the imagination that visualizes a Nicky, the innumerable secret touches that transform a printed page into a glowing, living thing."

+ N Y World p11m O 20 '29 250w

"Mr. Edward Thompson's new novel displays a remarkable power (or so it seems to one ignorant of the country) of evoking the Indian scene. His descriptions of it are alive with eloquence and understanding; he makes the particular suggest the general; with a few words about a shrub he can bring before one's eyes a jungle. The whole of his complex sentiment for India—admiration, pity, despair—informs everything he says, is always on tap, so to speak, and gives the book a rich, radiant texture and the quality of coming from the heart." L. P. Hartley

+ Sat R 147:292 Mr 2 '29 420w

"It is excellently told, with humor, beauty, and power."

+ Sat R of Lit 6:605 D 28 '29 190w

"This sensitive, finely touched novel has its incongruities and discords. The purely imaginative quality is sometimes disturbed by a passionate advocacy. But it is a noble disturbance; and in the translucency of Mr. Thompson's style many antinomies pass into reconciliation." R. A. Taylor

+ — Spec 142:210 F 9 '29 360w

"If Nicolette is somewhat of a failure, the painting of the Indian jungle is splendidly vital, and the portrait of John Lyon is masterly. . . For some the novel may be marred, for some rendered more interesting, by a few didactic pages."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p138 F 21 '29 600w

THOMPSON, JAMES MATTHEW. Leaders of the French revolution. 272p il $3 Appleton [8s 6d Blackwell]

920 France—History—Revolution. France—Biography

The subjects of these sketches are eleven men who played prominent parts in the revolutionary drama: Sieyès, Mirabeau, Lafayette, Brissot, Louvet, Danton, Fabre D'Églantine, Marat, Saint Just, Robespierre, and Dumouriez.

"'Leaders of the French Revolution' is an excellent book. A little less attractive, perhaps, than Madelin's, or Beraud's 'Twelve Portraits of the French Revolution,' but sane, scholarly, readable. His whiff of Stracheyan irony and the blend of jauntiness and donnishness is very pleasing." Albert Guerard

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Ap 21 '29 220w

Boston Transcript p2 My 25 '29 200w

Reviewed by L. R. Gottschalk

Nation 130:21 Ja 1 '30 280w

"Mr. Thompson does not err on the side of brilliance, and for that one is inclined to be grateful. But he is always sensible and well informed." Francis Birrell

+ Nation and Ath 44:794 Mr 9 '29 320w

"The style is clean-cut, the presentation intelligent and well documented." F. H. M.

+ N Y Evening Post p11m Ap 13 '29 60w

"His judgments are sound and his careful and scholarly approach to and consideration of his material reveal a wide if somewhat academic historical background."

+ N Y Times p36 O 20 '29 130w

"Will not add to the scholar's information on the period but should give pleasure and satisfaction to the general reader."

Outlook 151:549 Ap 3 '29 50w

Sat R 148:22 Jl 6 '29 300w

Times [London] Lit Sup p133 F 21 '29 '29 1000w

THOMPSON, JOHN GIFFIN. Urbanization: its effects on government and society. 683p $6 Dutton

352 City and town life. Democracy. United States—Politics and government. Social conditions 27-23838

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Reviewed by M. G. Smith

Am Econ R 18:780 D '28 310w

THOMPSON, J: G.—Continued

"This is one of those ambitious books upon a topic of first-rate importance which for one reason or another doesn't come off." H. D. Lasswell

— Am J Soc 34:744 Ja '29 300w

"This book is as careful in its methods as the subject allows. It represents primarily a moral rather than a scientific enterprise. It serves a useful purpose; for in presenting the city as 'the natural and superior habitat of men living together in political life,' it lays the foundation for much-needed political autonomy for urban areas." T. V. Smith

+ J Pol Econ 37:629 O '29 700w

"The book is rich in citations from standard works in the fields of history, economics, sociology and political science. The text is written in a clear smooth-flowing style calculated to interest and not confuse the reader. Particularistic studies of the city are the order of the day, and we must increasingly rely upon these for sound evaluations of the processes which form and transform human life in the urban environment. Such a synthetic study as the author undertakes here, however, is not without its value at the present stage of scientific investigation." R. W. Frank

+ J Religion 9:149 Ja '29 300w

Reviewed by C. R. Woodruff

Sat R of Lit 5:730 Mr 2 '29 700w

THOMPSON, RICHARD LOWE. History of the devil, the horned god of the West. 172p il $2.75 Harcourt [7s 6d K. Paul]

291.216 Devil [29-12423]

The author goes back to the men of the stone age for the origin of the masked magician with his horns and tail. He traces the development of the witch cult and its practices in historic times, the decline of belief in the devil under the influence of persecution and ridicule, and the superstitions that are still at work in the minds of men today.

Bookm 70:xii S '29 180w

"It is an interesting story that the author traces. Many unusual illustrations reinforce his arguments. Behind it all is much study of history and archaeology."

+ Boston Transcript p4 My 18 '29 260w

"Brief, but comprehensive and readable survey." W. L. C.

+ Churchman 139:17 My 11 '29 150w

"Some readers may think that Mr. Thompson has given the Devil more than his due. At any rate, he has written a scholarly, interesting, and breezy book."

+ Nation and Ath 44:730 F 23 '29 450w

Nature 123:789 My 25 '29 1000w

Reviewed by Ellsworth Faris

New Repub 58:338 My 8 '29 160w

"The book is excellent, and provocative alike of thought and of expectation."

+ New Statesman 32:606 F 16 '29 700w

"His scholarly volume does weave together in readable narrative an immense collection of the results of archaeologic inquiry that stimulate thought as well as entertain the curious reader. The author has not, unfortunately, a notable gift for the popular presentation of scholarly and scientific researches and conclusions. His immense mass of material is presented too much, as it were, on a flat surface, with not enough bold outlining of the central thread."

+ — N Y Times p12 Ap 21 '29 480w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks

Outlook 152:111 My 15 '29 220w

St Louis 27:280 O '29

"Mr. Thompson has not really written a history of the Devil, but he has made a very interesting sketch of the origin and backgrounds of devil-worship. He very ably reviews the conflicting theories of less dispassionate authorities, skilfully linking them up with archæology, biology and anthropology; when he takes his courage in both hands and puts forward arguments of his own he at once becomes both more amusing and of more value, since he possesses an unusual grasp of the many branches of knowledge with which the study of the Devil overlaps."

+ — Sat R 147:250 F 23 '29 120w

Reviewed by S. F. Damon

Sat R of Lit 5:905 Ap 20 '29 380w

Spec 142:244 F 16 '29 720w

Times [London] Lit Sup p886 N 7 '29 850w

THOMPSON, STITH, ed. Tales of the North American Indians. 386p $6 Harvard univ. press

398 Indians of North America—Legends. Folklore, Indian 29-18693

"This new book carries a fourteen-page bibliography which lists only original collections of tales and omits all merely fugitive material. Mr. Thompson, who is Professor of English in Indiana University and a long-time student of his theme in this book, does not here merely add another volume to this vast collection. His purpose is rather to bring some sort of order and system into the chaos and so make it more available for ethnological study. From authentic sources he has selected ninety-six stories that basically were favorites among many tribes. . . Guided by the persistently reappearing patterns he has brought together here representative versions of the better known tales and by means of comparative notes has endeavored to show how widely and where each motif and each tale were distributed."—N Y Times

Boston Transcript p10 N 2 '29 420w

Reviewed by H: Chapin

New Repub 61:23 N 27 '29 200w

Reviewed by Joe Gould

N Y Evening Post p7s Ja 4 '30 600w

"The work has been done in scholarly and efficient style, and classification being by motifs, and the ninety pages of comparative notes giving to the student guidance for further investigations of each motif."

+ N Y Times p14 O 6 '29 420w

"It is with a sigh that, after careful reading, one lays the book aside, convinced that its success—and it is bound, with such sincerity of production, to have a certain amount of success—must lie in awakening interest in the thing that yet remains to be done rather than any direct contribution it makes to the common need. This seems a pity, since the book opens well with a statement of the extent of our aboriginal resources, so much more complete than can now be found in any other country. There is a full, if somewhat technically notated bibliography, with comparative comment and an index of the motifs discussed. . . The one thing that is lacking, and by its lack renders much of the labor of the collection inoperative, is creative literary intelligence." Mary Austin

— Sat R of Lit 6:597 D 28 '29 3600w

Times [London] Lit Sup p1056 D 12 '29 300w

THOMPSON, SYLVIA (MRS THEODORE DUNHAM LULING). Chariot wheels. 307p $2.50 Little

29-20978

Lester Midge, a successful English novelist, requires for his stimulus a succession of ladies bound to his chariot wheels. His wife, Cressida, of a better class socially and of a finer type than he, cannot at first understand his ethics. Gradually she becomes accustomed to his way of living and finds a measure of peace in the quiet adoration of a man of her own class. Their daughter is of a different caliber and her reaction to her father's peculiarities leaves him dazed but not conquered.

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 O 27 '29 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p157 D '29

"It is a very fine story. There are few writers master of a style as cool and competent as Sylvia Thompson's, few who can create characters as plausible and vividly individual. But the third section of the book is more than an interesting and diverting story. An adults' world through the eyes of a child—it has been done many times before, but seldom with such fresh charm and color, with a tender clarity approaching the genius of Katherine Mansfield." Marjorie Johnson

+ N Y Evening Post p12m O 12 '29 700w

" 'Chariot Wheels' is excellent and impressive in conception, but it is impossible to commend the result. One sees very well what Miss Thompson has tried to do, and in this respect the novel is successful. But our ordinary notions of literary form will hardly bear so much juggling, so much trick photography, as she finds necessary to her ends."

— + N Y Times p7 O 13 '29 550w

"In Lester Midge Miss Thompson has done a beautiful piece of work. Selfish and sentimental, gross and delicate, fatuous and sensitive, even while he grieves over Cressida's death he is considering her as grist for a new novel." Marjorie Mears

N Y World p11m N 10 '29 200w

" 'Chariot Wheels' is fresh in writing if worn in theme, and is greatly enriched by the author's fine gift for characterization and by her sympathy for her characters." F. L. Robbins

+ Outlook 153:269 O 16 '29 300w

"Miss Thompson's irony is without mercy and one must admire her delightful technical subtlety and resourcefulness, but I am not sure they have not made her too successful in avoiding direct conflicts." V. S. Pritchett

+ — Spec 143:553 O 19 '29 130w

"A drab theme, into which it would be hard to put beauty. Yet Miss Thompson puts it, or rather finds it there. She has a way of sinking into the core of whatever she is writing about, a person or a place, a motion of the soul, a gleam of physical grace, a piece of old-world furniture, that almost makes the reader exclaim at the richness of reality."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p816 O 17 '29 550w

THOMSON, EDGAR STEINER. Your eyes and their care. (Appleton popular health ser.) 175p il $1.50 Appleton

617.7 Eye—Diseases and defects. Eye—Care and hygiene [29-5806]

The anatomy and physiology of the eye and the diseases to which it is liable during childhood, adult life and old age are treated in this little book by the associate professor of ophthalmology in the Manhattan eye, ear and throat hospital.

---

"Dr. Thomson has admirably covered the subjects of anatomy and physiology without using too many technical terms. He gives the lay reader clear knowledge of what part of the eye is at fault, when the individual is nearsighted, farsighted, or astigmatic." B. F. Royer

+ Am J Pub Health 19:949 Ag '29 320w

Booklist 25:349 Je '29

Boston Transcript p2 Ap 27 '29 100w

Cleveland Open Shelf p100 Jl '29

"Although it is decidedly technical, this little book ought to be very useful indeed. Among the many matters which it has become customary to explain to the layman, the eyes have been somewhat neglected. In approaching the subject Dr. Thomson has a wide field to cover and this is probably the reason for the technicality of the book. . . The book is brief, and, in spite of the necessity for technical consideration, is clear and never really difficult for the layman to understand."

+ N Y Times p28 Mr 24 '29 250w

Pratt p17 autumn '29

Reviewed by B. F. Royer, M.D.

Survey 62:257 My 15 '29 600w

Wis Lib Bul 25:158 My '29

THOMSON, GODFREY HILTON. Modern philosophy of education. 283p $3.50 Longmans [8s 6d Allen & U.]

370.1 Education—Philosophy [30-1279]

Professor Thomson, of the University of Edinburgh, believes that modern education should be more practical and less intellectual and abstract. Contents: The meaning of a philosophy of education; The function of education in the biological record; The factors of education and the function of the school; Reflections on the aim of education; John Dewey; Education and free will; Heredity and education; The social inheritance; Population and education; Competition and co-operation; Education in early adolescence; Education in later adolescence; Industry and education; Adult education; Pride and prejudice.

---

"The exciting title of this book is not borne out by its contents. The book discusses, frequently with an exasperating tentativeness that stimulates scientific restraint, various stock problems of educational science and technique. It summarizes, without any fruitful criticism, current educational policy. It exhibits very plainly the chronic inability (with one or two exceptions) of the professional educationists of the training colleges and training departments to make any contribution, either of originality or vigour, to contemporary thought on education." H. M.

— Nation and Ath 45:686 Ag 24 '29 800w

Sat R 148:252 Ag 31 '29 180w

"Although, strictly speaking, Professor Thomson's Modern Philosophy of Education is considerably more modern than philosophical, it cannot be denied that he has produced an interesting book on education, and one which will appeal not only to the expert but also to the general public. For, as Sir Michael Sadler once pointed out, the alleged dullness of educational writers is only alleged; and this book by the Professor of Education in Edinburgh University may be taken as an additional piece of evidence of a truth which needs publicity."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p760 O 3 '29 700w

THOMSON, IAN STEWART. Good health; with a foreword by Sir Arthur Keith. 122p $1.40 (3s 6d) Longmans

613 Hygiene [29-1009]

A little book of good advice to the public on general matters of health.

---

"Written for but not down to the layman, with clearness, balance, and common sense."

+ J Home Econ 21:283 Ap '29 60w

"Dr. Ian Thomson has given us by far the best exposition of physiological and hygienic fundamentals yet offered to the layman. Anyone who has read and carefully digested the contents of this well-written book should be able to think and talk sensibly and rationally about the various problems of health, disease, eugenics and sanitation, concerning all of which such rubbish appears in the newspapers and is uttered on platforms, every day of the week." H. R.

+ Sat R 147:769 Je 8 '29 630w

"Since Dr. Thomson brings both judgment and clarity of expression to his task, his readers cannot fail at least to be informed, while those who are also persuaded to follow his advice will be benefited. Short as it is the book has real educational and practical value."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p278 Ap 4 '29 60w

THOMSON, JOHN GORDON, and ROBERTSON, ANDREW. Protozoology. 390p il $11 Wood [30s Bailliere]

591.69 Protozoa, Pathogenic

"This manual of protozoölogy differs from the numerous others in this field in that it is written by medical men for medical men, but without discussions of therapy or epidemiology. . . Especially valuable are the discussions of

THOMSON, J: G., and ROBERTSON, A.—Cont. the pathologies of the various protozoan infections, notably that of malaria, in which field the senior author is a world authority."—Am J Pub Health

"The authors have had access, through their connections with the London School of Tropical Medicine, to large collections of autopsy material and have rendered a great service to protozoölogists and medical men alike in their judicious and ample use of this illustrative material and their comprehensive discussions of it. There are many new illustrations." C. A. Kofoid

+ Am J Pub Health 19:841 Jl '29 450w

"The authors state concisely most of the information about parasitic protozoa essential for the medical man, but it is a pity that in a book with this definite scope the discussion of immunity and chemotherapy in trypanosomiasis should be so inadequate. A useful account of the pathology of the diseases caused by various protozoan parasites is given. The section on malaria is treated very fully and gives a good description of the conditions created by this organism."

+ — Nature 124:612 O 19 '29 370w

THORNDIKE, ASHLEY HORACE. English comedy. 635p $4.50 Macmillan

822.09 English drama—History and criticism 29-10393

This history of English comedy for four hundred years, from its beginnings in the early sixteenth century is a history of the English theater as well. Professor Thorndike stops his discussion at the close of the nineteenth century, thus including only the early work of Shaw and none of the modern writers.

Booklist 25:387 Jl '29

"Professor Thorndike has skimped the last chapter of his book, as by the same token he has dwelt too much on those periods sacred to 'research.' If this book were less sensibly and shrewdly written, one would dismiss it as a text book and say no more. But it is quite too good for that, and deserves a much fuller concluding chapter, which should treat the 'minor' writers of today with as much consideration as the minor Elizabethans. As a story of English comedy, the book would then be better balanced." W. P. Eaton

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 My 19 '29 950w

"In this excellent and erudite book, Professor Ashley Thorndike, of Columbia University, gives the student of drama an immense amount of historical information, critically considered and written in a clear and precise prose which is very pleasant to read." St John Ervine

+ New Repub 59:212 Jl 10 '29 1000w

"The great merit of Mr. Thorndike is that he gives us a vast variety of adventures in a small space without any suggestion of haste or bareness." E. S.

+ New Statesman 33:373 Je 29 '29 130w

Reviewed by Edwin Clark

N Y Times p2 Ag 18 '29 950w

"All the great schools of drama are examined and the finest examples of each, analyzed. Disputatious minor problems of criticism are avoided, and the author adds to his fine scholarship, which will make this book valuable to students, the gift for writing readably which will make it interesting to others. The bibliographical notes and the index are excellent."

+ Outlook 152:148 My 22 '29 120w

St Louis 27:287 O '29

"The real strength and value of 'English comedy' lie in purple passages of appreciative criticism which are scattered throughout the volume. Therein Prof Thorndike displays a sparkling grace and beauty of style, and a sensitive understanding of esthetic and dramatic values which cause his reader to wish that his entire study had been written in the same vein, and desire to be historically inclusive and informational had been forgotten." W: S. Clark

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Jl 7 '29 1900w

"The book as a whole is not the sort of thing to kindle excitement. The author has attempted little more than a scheme of classification; he gives the reader hardly a trace of thinking on his own account, and his writing is seldom blessed by a touch of imagination. For the student, however, the book is likely to be a handy source of reference."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p663 Ag 29 '29 600w

THORNDIKE, LYNN. Science and thought in the fifteenth century; studies in the history of medicine and surgery, natural and mathematical science, philosophy and politics. 387p pl $4.75 Columbia univ. press [24s Milford]

509 Science—History. Medicine—History. Philosophy, Medieval 29-16309

A volume made up of studies in the history of medicine and surgery, mathematics, philosophy and politics based upon unpublished manuscript materials of the fifteenth century. With full supplement and appendices.

"Professor Thorndike is a careful writer, not a popular one. His insistence on all possible exactitude gives the student confidence in his statements. It will not win the superficial or omnivorous. Hence the book is not suitable for a general reader who is unprepared to delve deep and carefully. It is essentially a book for the student who desires information beyond the borders of current knowledge." T. W. Todd

+ Am Hist R 35:331 Ja '30 480w

"The book is an admirable example of erudite historical writing, chiefly of a monographic character. It is distinctly a book for the specialist, who will find in it much curious and relevant information ordinarily overlooked in the history of science. Those in search of illuminating generalizations regarding the nature and development of late medieval thought and science will not be so richly rewarded by a perusal of the volume." H. E. Barnes

+ Nation 129:636 N 27 '29 250w

"The greatest value of the book is found in the presentation of two complete treatises on the Platonic ideas by Niccolò da Foligno, which are here published for the first time. Chapter 6 deals with a fifteenth-century autopsy by Bernard Torius. This interesting document is of great value, as being the work of a practising physician confronted with a definite and specific practical problem. Not the least important part of this text is the supplement, in which the physician draws inferences from what goes before and makes a prescription for those living and liable to suffer from a similar disease."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p827 O 17 '29 250w

THORNTON-COOK, ELSIE. Royal Elizabeths; the romance of five princesses, 1464-1840. 163p il $2.50 Dutton [7s 6d J. Murray]

920.7 Great Britain—Princes and princesses 29-11625

Dedicated to the present little Princess Elizabeth, this attractively bound book contains stories and portraits of five romantic predecessors of the same name: Elizabeth of York, daughter of Edward IV; Elizabeth Tudor, daughter of Henry VIII; Elizabeth Stewart, daughter of James VI; Elizabeth Stuart, daughter of Charles I; and Elizabeth, princess of England, daughter of George III.

Boston Transcript p3 Ap 13 '29 320w

Cleveland Open Shelf p62 Ap '29

Outlook 151:317 F 20 '29 320w

"One can hear an unregenerate modern child on reading Miss Thornton Cook's Royal Elizabeths exclaim, at least over some of the early parts of the biographies, 'Did children ever really talk, write or act like that?' Well, history, as transmitted by courtiers, says they did, and Miss Cook, as a faithful historian, cannot depart from what is recorded. We should be grateful to Miss Cook for collecting many pleasant and striking details about five royal children named Elizabeth, beginning with the Elizabeth who brought the White Rose to mate with the Red, and ending with the Elizabeth (the most humanly drawn of them all) who was George III.'s daughter and enriched a poor princeling with her marriage-jointure of £10,000 a year."

+ — Spec 141:749 N 17 '28 200w
Springf'd Republican p12 Je 19 '29 330w

THOSE war women, by one of them. 283p $2.50 Coward-McCann

29-6162

Pages from the diary of an entertainer in France chiefly devoted to a rehearsal of her amours with officers of the A.E.F.

"There was opportunity here for the same mysterious humanity that lives in every page of 'Grischa'; there's opportunity here for warmth, for feeling, for some decently grave understanding of those strangely restless, bitter days after the armistice. And the woman who writes this book misses the whole beautifully generous chance. She muffs it." Laura Mount
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p21 Mr 10 '29 350w
Boston Transcript p2 Mr 30 '29 180w

THURBER, JAMES, and WHITE, ELWYN BROOKS. Is sex necessary? or, Why you feel the way you do. 197p il $2 Harper

817 29-27938

Messrs Thurber and White have chosen to satirize a certain type of pseudo-scientific sex literature that has recently become popular. "Sex is less than fifty years old, yet it has upset the whole Western World," is the premise of the authors. Their first lecture is entitled "The nature of the American male: a study of Pedestalism." Other important sex-problems discussed are "How to tell love from passion," and "What should children tell their parents?"

"If this book isn't a minor classic—and one uses the term 'minor' only because it is gorgeously funny and not quite ponderous enough to be major—well, one doesn't know what book is. Let's compromise and just call it a classic." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 D 8 '29 1100w

"It is not slapstick, but belongs to that leisurely type of fooling which is closely akin to the wit of Punch." Harry Hansen
+ N Y World p14 D 20 '29 530w

"This is one of the most exhausting treatises, or monographs, the conscientious reviewer has ever read at one sitting. It left him weak, partially paralyzed, with a writhen face streaming with tears. For a scientific monograph—monograph is perhaps the word—this life-work of the Messrs. Thurber and White has an enormous emotional punch." L. W. Dodd
+ Sat R of Lit 6:506 D 7 '29 900w

THURMAN, WALLACE. The blacker the berry; a novel of negro life. 262p $2.50 Macaulay

29-3978

Emma Lou's black skin was an embarrassment to her among her lighter hued family and friends in Boise, and again at college. She thought in Harlem it might be different. But her experiences there, at work, at play in the night clubs, and in casual love relationships, end in bitter disillusionment and flight.

"A sordid, rather heavily written novel, although it explores acutely bypaths of Negro psychology."
Bookm 69:xxiv Ap '29 130w

"In providing a picture of this phase of Negro life the novel is worth while. As a literary effort it is without distinction. At no point does it arrest or grip the reader, or sweep him along with its movement." V. F. Calverton
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 My 26 '29 520w

"Emma Lou is a most appealing figure, and Mr. Thurman throughout his story has managed to keep her in settings which emphasize the irony and pathos of her character." W. S. B.
+ Boston Transcript p6 Mr 23 '29 450w

"Mr. Thurman's effort to be lucid and simple at times succeeds admirably, and at times has the air of a post-graduate thesis." Vincent McHugh
+ — N Y Evening Post p11m Mr 9 '29 560w

"All this might have made a poignant story. As it is, Mr. Thurman writes prose in imitation of the white 'genteel' tradition without ever making you certain that he is composing his novel from within the vantage point of Emma Lou's 'genteel' brain. He gives the effect of objectivity where subjectivity is demanded, chiefly because he reports where he should be dramatizing the world as it appeared to Emma Lou."
N Y Times p6 Mr 17 '29 580w

"He has set out to write a lurid and sensational work, but he has been so intent on using all his material that he has forgotten to weave a pattern or write a credible story. It all falls apart into incoherent scenes, and as the prose is untouched by style, we are afraid it will do only for the drug store trade." Shaemas O'Sheel
— N Y World p11m Ap 7 '29 280w
Springf'd Republican p7e S 1 '29 200w

"Mr. Thurman's novel must be regarded as a ground-breaker only, as calling attention to an important theme—Emma Lou, the dark girl's story, must be written sometime with greater art and a truer sense of values." Alain Locke
— Survey 62:325 Je 1 '29 190w

THURSTON, ERNEST TEMPLE. Portrait of a spy. 315p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Putnam]

29-10171

A novel based on the life of Mata Hari, notorious dancer, who loved an English artist and left him, because of her hatred of the French, to become a spy during the war. She was discovered, courtmartialed and executed, and by a strange co-incidence, the English lover was sent to draw an official portrait of her in prison.

Bookm 70:xxii S '29 70w

"Mr. Temple's Mada Garass is Mata Hari, the dancer, courtesan and spy executed by the French in 1917, a character whose motives have been presented rather more convincingly in numerous factual sketches in recent volumes of crime and adventure. Mr. Temple's plot requirements and occasional sentimentalities do little more than disperse the outlines of an interesting figure into a sort of nullity."
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Je 30 '29 130w

"An artistic and moving account of a certain type of woman. Everything about this novel is closely knit and finely expressed. Each step in the development of the story comes with inevitability." D. F. Gilman
+ Boston Transcript p2 Je 8 '29 1300w
Cleveland Open Shelf p143 N '29

"Apparently, Mr. Thurston has got some material from the French authorities, and it is a pity he did not confine himself to a biographical sketch, with an account of the trial. As it is we do not know how much to believe, while as a novel the 'Portrait of a Spy' is completely valueless." Francis Birrell
— Nation and Ath 44:260 N 17 '28 100w

"Mr. Thurston's imagination is always at work, but in 'The Portrait of a Spy' he lacks a theme—the love-scenes being particularly irrelevant. And we are constantly given glimpses of what is all the time an open secret. The picture of the spy herself is drawn with a firm hand, but she is not an interesting type

THURSTON, E. T.—Continued
and her character, being the chief thing in the book, has nothing to set it off until it is brought face to face with death. Then it acquires a meaning, and the story a dramatic finish." L. P. Hartley
— + Sat R 146:736 D 1 '28 180w

"Mr. Thurston has sentimentalized her mercenary life in an effort to retain the reader's sympathy, but the narrative remains disjointed, and relies for its main attraction upon the glamour which spying and danger can cast over sordid vice."
— + Sat R of Lit 6:223 O 5 '29 200w

"All this kind of thing has been done before, though seldom more dramatically, since Mr. Temple Thurston is a master in the art of portraying picturesque emotions. But the book's triumph is in the description of the culminating emotions that impelled a brilliant woman to use the War itself as a means of obtaining a personal revenge."
+ Spec 141:933 D 15 '28 110w

"Although he falls at times into the mistake, admittedly difficult to avoid, of sentimentalizing Liane Sonrel—the name Mata Hari is given—he tells her story for the most part directly and economically. 'Portrait of a Spy' is not so sound or so satisfying a novel as 'Jane Carroll,' but it is easy to imagine so difficult a subject treated not only with less tact but with far less sense of the protagonist as a human, as distinct from a melodramatic, figure."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p968 D 6 '28 250w

THYNNE, MOLLY. The strangler (Eng title Murder on the "Enriqueta"). 293p $2 Minton [7s 6d Nelson]
29-18557

A passenger on the Enriqueta is found strangled. This is a prelude to the events following, which deeply involve Carol Summers, Jasper Mellish, and Lord Dalberry. The strangler, one Strelinski, has succeeded in cleverly disguising himself as an Argentine, de Silva, and as a relative of Carol, Lady Dalberry, and almost succeeds in his plot to secure Carol's fortune before Detective Shands intercedes.

"Molly Thynne proves to be a neat hand at the humors and horrors of strangulation, love and detectivism. 'The Strangler' is amusing mystery froth—quite unimportant, thoroughly readable." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p26 S 15 '29 100w

" 'The Strangler' is well written, logical, and exciting, and its heroine is both charming and unobtrusive. The plot is not unusual, but it is unusually well handled, and it progresses in an orderly way that is a pleasure to follow."
+ Boston Transcript p4 S 21 '29 130w

"Very well written detective story."
+ Outlook 153:29 S 4 '29 40w

Times [London] Lit Sup p341 Ap 25 '29 130w

TICKELL, JERRARD. Yolan; a tale of love and mystery beside the blue Danube (Eng title Yolan of the plains; a romance of Hungary). 308p $2 Putnam [7s 6d Cayme press]
29-3187

Love and mystery in Budapest. Yolan is a Hungarian girl of good family making a small living as a portrait painter. When Michael Bourke comes seeking information concerning Yolan's old enemy Szabo, she gives her help to the case and her heart to Michael.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 F 24 '29 100w

"There is a certain easy individuality in the writing, but the plot is drawn to a pattern and the characters are types."
— + New Statesman 32:supxviii N 3 '28 150w

"He writes at times cleverly; at times in a flashy imitation of cleverness, but always vividly; whatever the faults of this book, dullness is certainly not among them."
+ — N Y Times p9 F 24 '29 200w

"It is not a story that takes count of fact or probability, but the unfortunate thing is that even so it is hardly exciting."
— Times [London] Lit Sup p761 O 18 '28 180w

TIETJENS, EUNICE STRONG (HAMMOND) (MRS CLOYD HEAD). Leaves in windy weather. 88p $2 Knopf 811 29-20557

"This collection by an associate editor of Poetry is hospitable to a variety of subjects, forms and moods. Under the heading 'From the Orient' are three descriptive 'actor-pieces,' full of action, together with several translations. In 'Fire' and 'Neanderthal' the author has infused scientific speculation with beauty and passion. 'From the mountains' is a lovely sonnet sequence."—Cleveland Open Shelf

Booklist 26:112 D '29

"Neither the volume as a whole nor any single lyric gives one that thrilling sense of discovery that authentic poetry arouses, however old fashioned or newfangled it may be. The woman who has thus remarked the motions of mind and heart and the effective landscapes she has known is written down in these lines as an observant and cultivated person. But the fire that would make poems out of these things is somehow missing. . . In the end, one closes the book with the feeling of having walked in a dismal mist toward no certain goal." Babette Deutsch
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 O 6 '29 200w

"There is nothing in the book that is not worth while. Lovers of poetry will not want to miss any of it. They already know what finished and mature work to expect of Mrs. Tietjens, and will not be disappointed."
+ Boston Transcript p2 O 2 '29 260w

Cleveland Open Shelf p155 D '29

"Seems to me a little dull and the wind not very high, but the sonnets 'From the Mountains' are well-turned and emotionally moving." E. L. Walton
+ Nation 129:558 N 13 '29 50w

"Although some of these poems are uneventfully sober and conventional, none is without the distinction of a genuine honest sentiment which never sanctions truculence or trite moralizing. What 'Leaves in Windy Weather' lacks in originality of design and outline, it supplies in emotional variety and in the intelligent clarity with which a lively human sympathy is defined." M. D. Zabel
+ New Repub 60:303 O 30 '29 230w

N Y Times p45 D 1 '29 480w

"The best of Mrs. Tietjens' verse has the quiet charm that comes from experience in the perception and selection of material as well as in the treatment of it; thought is neither lacking nor profound, and while it has no spontaneous lyric impulse the emotion is usually genuine."
+ — Outlook 153:187 O 2 '29 100w

Reviewed by W: R. Benét
Sat R of Lit 6:292 O 19 '29 170w

TIETJENS, EUNICE STRONG (HAMMOND) (MRS CLOYD HEAD), ed. Poetry of the Orient; an anthology of the classic secular poetry of the major eastern nations. 369p $5 Knopf
890 Oriental poetry—Collections 28-27861

A selection from the poetry of Arabia, Persia, India, China and Japan. The poems are arranged in chronological order by country, and range in time from 500 A.D. to the present.

Booklist 25:204 F '29

"The only honest approach to a volume like this is to the translators and not to the original poets. One can imagine Shakespeare mauled beyond belief by a translator into the Sanskrit and Eddie Guest made sublime. Miss Tietjens properly indicates in each section those poets whom their own countrymen hold in highest esteem; but she cannot indicate, through the translators at her disposal for evidence, the reasons therefor. Interestingly enough, the essense of greatness does not come through." W. Bynner

+ — Bookm 69:186 Ap '29 2300w

"This volume is, as far as I know, the first comprehensive anthology in English of the secular poetry of the East. . . The book is at once compendious and beautiful, rich and various. It belongs on the shelf of scholars, poets and poetry lovers alike."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 D 30 '28 130w

"There is a need for books of this sort, competently edited as this is. Much of Oriental poetry is beautiful; all of it intelligible to the Occidental. To be introduced to it by Mrs. Tietjens is to be introduced to it in a most delightful and stimulating way."

+ Boston Transcript p2 D 5 '28 180w

"Mrs. Tietjens, with perhaps a surplus of apparatus, has admirably represented the secular poetries of China, Japan, India, Arabia, and Persia in so far as they are accessible in the translations of Arthur Waley, Florence Ayscough, R. A. Nicholson, Gertrude Bell, Wilfrid Scawen Blunt, and many others. There was need for such an anthology, and the need has been met."

+ Nation 128:211 F 13 '29 70w

"The volume is a veritable godown from which one may take a poem here and there according to one's mood and place it temporarily in the tokonoma of one's vital consciousness, as the Japanese do with a precious bit of porcelain or bronze." Elsie Weil

+ New Repub 59:52 My 29 '29 290w

"A volume that is full of interest to the amateur of literature, and contains not a few versions which are in themselves delightful poems."

+ New Statesman 32:763 Mr 23 '29 1150w

"The anthologist has surrounded her arrangement of the material with ample encouragement for the reader to become his own Vyasa: the fourteen page bibliography suggests a dozen lines of approach to further study; a technical and historical preface to each 'national' section sketches the background adequately enough to stimulate an interest in such study. The anthology that has thus frankly pointed out its own limitations, even when it has included so much of the finest in its field as this book includes, has done more to show its readers the attractions of its subject than many another book has done at greater length for a narrower theme." Hansell Baugh

+ N Y Evening Post p11m D 8 '28 500w

"Mrs. Tietjens seems to have made an excellent, catholic, scholarly choice from the too-limited store of fairly good translations available. It is not possible to read many pages of 'Poetry of the Orient' with the tingling excitement produced by a corresponding collection of original English poetry; but its compiler has done as good a job as one could hope for in introducing the average reader to a neglected store of beautiful utterance." Alexander Laing

+ N Y World p10m D 23 '28 450w

Reviewed by Herschel Brickell
No Am 227:adv F '29 50w

"One of the most useful features of the collection will undoubtedly prove to be the brief historical and biographical notes prefixed, respectively, to the different national periods and the various poets. The bibliography will prove helpful to those who may be inspired to read further in the literatures of Oriental lands."

+ Springf'd Republican p6 D 26 '28 230w

"The editor has not shown a consistent standard of choice, here and there she halts and falls. The very best of what we have made our own from the East rubs shoulders with the mediocre and the really poor. But within the limits set out on the title-page we have a worth-while collection of Oriental poetry which will be much more satisfying to the reader who knows no Eastern tongues than it will be to the Orientalist. Mr. Knopf has produced a beautiful book."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p166 F 28 '29 180w

World Tomorrow 12:186 Ap '29 30w

---

TILLEY, ARTHUR AUGUSTUS. Decline of the age of Louis XIV; or, French literature, 1687-1715. 458p $8 Macmillan [25s Cambridge univ. press]

840.9 French literature—History and criticism [29-16818]

"Mr. Tilley treats the literature of his period (1687-1715) as the expression of changing ideas. Two great public struggles occupied the stage: one, apparently academic and unreal, the other, actual and dramatic—the quarrel between the Ancients and the Moderns, and the dispute between Bossuet and Fénelon."—Times [London] Lit Sup

---

"Mr. Tilley's book is excellent both in its conception and execution and offers a brilliant history of the intellectual currents of an age that was marked by the decline of French prestige and the collapse of the country economically." C. H. Grattan

+ Bookm 70:211 O '29 320w

Reviewed by Albert Guerard
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 Jl 28 '29 180w

"The principal title of this book is rather too big for it. It promises a study of the departure of other glories besides the literary one . . . Mr. Tilley attempts an account of the changes in the political and economic situation of France during his period, but these chapters are the least successful in the book, too full and too vague to provide a clear outline for those readers who need one, they are not critical enough to be interesting to those who are already in possession of the main facts. That said, there is nothing but praise for this scholarly study of the literature of an age of transition."

+ — Nation and Ath 45:170 My 4 '29 720w
St Louis 27:310 N '29

"This book has the quality of scholarship for which one looks; it is, in addition, well written and, as it could hardly fail to be, interesting."

+ Sat R 147:742 Je 1 '29 760w
Spec 142:751 My 11 '29 520w

"Mr. Tilley's most valuable and original chapter is that on Bayle, that very influential and very baffling figure."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p508 Je 27 '29 1600w

---

TILLOTSON, M. R., and TAYLOR, FRANK J. Grand canyon country; foreword by Horace M. Albright. 116p il $2 Stanford univ. press

917.91 Grand canyon 29-22117

Brief description of the Grand canyon country for tourists. Takes up the geology, exploration, Indians and wild life of the region.

---

Booklist 26:114 D '29

"It is a book of experience, a very able book, a contribution to the study of geography, and also a magically beautiful human document. It must be taken as complementary to Dellenbaugh's 'A Canyon Voyage,' and the two should be read together. The title the author has given his work has a guide book tang, but it is no mere book for those whose ambition it is to say they have seen. It is a distinctly well-written and interesting essay." C: J. Finger

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 N 10 '29 450w

TILLOTSON, M. R., and TAYLOR, F. J.—Cont.

"Far too interesting to be classed as a guide-book, this story of the canyon is well-nigh indispensable to those who are visiting the region—the Canyon, the Painted Desert or the Tusayan National Forest."

+ Boston Transcript p4 N 13 '29 400w

TILTMAN, HUBERT HESSELL. J. Ramsay MacDonald; labor's man of destiny. 456p il $5 Stokes [21s Jarrolds]

B or 92 MacDonald, James Ramsay 29-22543

A boyhood of poverty in a Scotch village, lean years of work and loneliness in London, and a first-hand introduction to the socialist movement while secretary to a Liberal candidate, is Ramsay MacDonald's background. Mr Tiltman stresses the growth of MacDonald's ideas in regard to socialism and to the building up of the Labor party. One of the most important chapters of the book deals with his position during the War, when as a pacifist his name was hated in England. The high point of reaction in his favor came with his election as Prime minister in 1924. Excerpts from MacDonald's speeches are given in the text of the biography, and in a full appendix are to be found his key speeches from 1899 to 1929.

---

"Mr. Tiltman's book will help Americans to understand MacDonald's life. It is a careful, documented study of his record including in an appendix key speeches from 1899-1929. It is accurate, authoritative—his publishers say that Mr. MacDonald himself read the proofs. Because it is more up to date it must supplant Mrs. Hamilton's earlier intimate sketches of the Prime Minister. But it is far from being a critical, philosophical biography, placing Mr. MacDonald among his contemporaries and analyzing his relation to the movements of his day." L. Gannett

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 O 13 '29 1250w

Boston Transcript p3 O 26 '29 1000w

"The obvious limitation of the book is one which inheres in every biography of a person still living, namely, the inability of the author to follow some things through and let us see how they came out. Within this limitation Mr. Tiltman has done a very creditable piece of work, and the reader who wants to know what Mr. MacDonald was doing at any particular time, the more patent features of the political struggles in which he has engaged, or the political aims which he and his party have sought to realize, will find a reasonably satisfactory answer somewhere in the 456 pages." W: MacDonald

+ Nation 129:523 N 6 '29 1650w

"Ramsay MacDonald is too big a man for us to be satisfied with this biography. . . What is disappointing is that Mr. Tiltman seldom takes us behind the scenes, and we are left with an impression of superficiality—not of course in Mr. MacDonald, but in the presentation of him and his party. A large part of the book consists of quotations from his speeches and writings, which, while they no doubt tell us something of what manner of man he was and is, do not tell us enough."

— New Statesman 33:784 O 5 '29 780w

"The book is well, almost too well, documented. But the documents are not as completely digested as they might be. The reader feels that he is getting MacDonald's opinions rather than his philosophy. There is too little of the Premier's personal and human side. . . But these observations must not be taken to imply that the volume is not valuable. It will be useful for any one who wishes to understand, not so much MacDonald himself as the things MacDonald is doing and his reasons for doing them. It merely is not a final and definitive account of sixty-three years of a man's life."

— + N Y Times p5 O 13 '29 1100w

"It is a straightforward, unembroidered account of the man's rise to political leadership and contains enough of his pivotal speeches to give a clear idea of his viewpoints." J. R. MacDonald

+ N Y World p18 O 3 '29 800w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 80:22 N '29 350w

"To write an adequate life of the Prime Minister demands a much closer acquaintance with the man himself and with the inner history of contemporary politics than Mr. Tiltman can be supposed to possess. One of the strangest facts in our political history is Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's rapid rise to power after the war. . . We cannot truthfully say that Mr. Tiltman throws any new light upon it. Nor is he more helpful in regard to such a vital matter as the General Strike of 1926, which is described in five or six very jejune pages."

— + Sat R 148:388 O 5 '29 700w

"Mr. Tiltman is the chronicler of Mr. MacDonald's public words and acts. Thus he reverts to the older method of biography, the Victorian method, not entirely ruling out analysis of temperament, description of character, but keeping these subordinate to the historical record. This is just as well, for Mr. Tiltman has clearly no close acquaintance with MacDonald the man."

Spec 143:467 O 5 '29 950w

"Mr. Tiltman has fulfilled his intention of providing a more authentic account than has been available hitherto of the development of Mr. MacDonald's political career. . . For Mr. Tiltman sympathy has been a guide and not a chain. It has not stifled all critical opinion. . . His judgments have discrimination, though they are always the judgments of an admirer and—what is no less important in one who has chosen to let Mr. MacDonald, for the most part, stand self-revealed in quoted word—the author's prepossessions have not given a noticeable bias in the selection of extracts."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p777 O 10 '29 750w

"Nowhere does the author attempt to psychoanalyze his subject; nor does he follow the new school of biographers and emphasize the Labor leader's failings. In the last chapter, it is true, he points out MacDonald's tendency at times to aloofness, his dislike of criticism, his occasional impatience at the opinions of others; but, by and large, MacDonald is Mr. Tiltman's hero throughout the volume. . . If the author had left more to the reader's imagination, the volume would have been greatly improved. Nor does Mr. Tiltman lay sufficient stress on the manner in which MacDonald's efforts were seconded by the changing conditions of the time, and the organizing ability and self-sacrificing efforts of his comrades in the Labor movement. The book is not a great biography. Nevertheless it gives a more adequate account of the remarkable life and teachings of Britain's foremost commoner than does any previous volume." H. W. Laidler

+ — World Tomorrow 13:37 Ja '30 650w

TILTON, GEORGE FRED. Cap'n George Fred himself; with an introd. by M. D. C. Crawford. 295p il $4 Doubleday, Doran

B or 92 Whaling. Seafaring life. Voyages and travels 29-2360

In 1875 at the age of fourteen Cap'n George Fred began his adventurous life on the sea, a good part of which was spent on whaling vessels. Today at seventy he says of an old whaler, "Shovel away the sand from the Morgan's sides, caulk her; and she'll go around the world—and I can sail her!"

---

Booklist 25:281 Ap '29

"Cap'n George Fred has a good story which he tells simply and convincingly in a sailor's vernacular." Arthur Warner

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 Ja 27 '29 250w

"One instinctively feels the touch of a master raconteur. Simple but truthful, colorful, but devoid of exaggeration, the story contains a good measure of information sandwiched between a seemingly unending series of adventures." J. C. G.

+ Boston Transcript p6 D 8 '28 630w

Cleveland Open Shelf p62 Ap '29

"Cap'n George Fred's yarn is a racy and piquant one, and loses nothing by reason of the fact that the grammar is frequently that of the sea rather than that of the little red schoolhouse. There are appealing illustrations by Harry Neyland." Arthur Warner

+ Nation 127:718 D 26 '28 280w

" 'Cap'n George Fred' is a man's book, a boy's book and always the book of a humorist and a philosopher." H: E. Armstrong

+ N Y Times p5 D 16 '28 950w

"In addition to being an ideal book for sedentary he-men with adventurous fireside imaginations, Capt. Tilton's story of his life as a whaler is a document on that defunct industry which is both valuable and immensely interesting."

+ N Y World p10m F 3 '29 100w

Springf'd Republican p6 D 26 '28 550w

TINKER, CHAUNCEY BREWSTER. Good estate of poetry. 243p $2.50 Little

809.1 Poetry—History and criticism. English poetry—History and criticism 29-9527

Essays, some of them reprinted from the Yale review and the Saturday review of literature, others never before published. They "examine certain tendencies in poetry and criticism against the background of what may be termed the tradition of English literature." The author is professor of English literature at Yale university.

---

Booklist 25:387 Jl '29

"The men of straw which Mr. Tinker topples over one by one are too flimsy and too dusty to seem very worthy of his prowess. The controversy is kept from being memorable by being prosecuted on an uninteresting level." Newton Arvin

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 My 12 '29 280w

"Here is a famous gifted, level-headed critic voicing his opinions upon certain things that are going on in the world of thought as related to poetry. Each essay takes up some point well worth consideration at this particular time." A. H. S.

+ Boston Transcript p4 My 4 '29 720w

Reviewed by T. S. Matthews

New Repub 60:276 O 23 '29 470w

"Professor Tinker is urbane, literary, charming, and perhaps a little superficial. He says many good things in the course of his random survey; he is erudite; but his natural taste runs too much to the graceful, too little to the profound. Since poetry is, for him, a kind of religion, he dislikes any questioning of its origins, even environmental. He would have us think that it comes into the world as an act of God, all complete." Conrad Aiken

+ — N Y Evening Post p11m Ap 20 '29 1350w

"A notable feature of 'The Good Estate of Poetry' is what might be termed the very friendly manner in which the subject is approached. Professor Tinker, without abating in the least his respect both for poetry and the poets, is like a man on friendly terms with his neighbors. There is nothing of academic stiffness. At the same time he sees poetry clearly."

+ N Y Times p2 S 8 '29 1100w

"It is a stimulating experience to follow so genuine a student of poetry as Professor Tinker in his excursions. He gives his readers an appetite for the best and he very properly concludes with: 'In literature as in life one may do worse than cast in his lot with the aristocracy.' " C. B. Green

+ Outlook 151:629 Ap 17 '29 160w

Pratt p27 autumn '29

St Louis 27:286 O '29

"A useful and agreeable volume. Useful, because the tilts or inflexions of its teachings are very generally valid; agreeable, because the author's temper is summarized in a favorite oldtime word of lessening currency,—the word affable. . . Mr. Tinker, though a critic, enjoys poetry, and he writes these essays largely to protect his joy. In this aspect his work is almost wholly just and sane." O. W. Firkins

+ Sat R of Lit 5:1159 Jl 6 '29 700w

"Chauncey Brewster Tinker's essays collected in 'The Good Estate of Poetry' make an excellent example of literary discussion which is not merely academic or merely popular, but deals with general ideas soberly and suggestively against a background of information and mature thought. These thoughtful, well-studied essays will help the reader to approach poetry without confusion of mind and to grasp its substance when the contact is made."

+ Springf'd Republican p10 Ap 13 '29 1000w

Wis Lib Bul 25:320 O '29

"The volume owes half its effectiveness to the temper in which its scrutiny is carried on. For charm of style, delightful irony and humor, sane judgment, and a deep sense of spiritual values have seldom been more happily blended than in this book."

+ Yale R n s 18:787 summer '29 900w

TIPPETT, JAMES STERLING. I go a-traveling. (Nursery ser.) 61p il 75c Harper

811 29-11496

A small city boy goes traveling in every kind of conveyance from a taxi to a ferry-boat, and these are poems about his love of traveling.

---

Booklist 26:38 O '29

"Elevated train, subway, taxicab meter, auto siren, ferry boat and silvery blimp—each goes with its own peculiar disturbance through this verse. There is the same simplicity of construction here which made the songs of 'I Live in a City' live on the tongues of city boys and girls and the added element of action in 'I Go a-Traveling' must make the book even more attractive to young readers." Elizabeth Colbert

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 Je 30 '29 450w

Reviewed by Rose Fyleman

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) N 10 '29 30w

Cleveland Open Shelf p133 N '29

"Original little verses dealing with traveling such as the city child knows. The verse describing the elevated train gives the very sound and even the odd personality of the overhead." M. G. Bonner

+ N Y Times p5 Jl 28 '29 40w

Wis Lib Bul 25:278 Jl '29

TODD, DOROTHY, and MORTIMER, RAYMOND. New interior decoration; an introd. to its principles and international survey of its methods. 42p pl $6 Scribner [21s Batsford]

747 House decoration 29-16616

"Miss Dorothy Todd and Mr. Raymond Mortimer, after analysing the present attitude towards interior decoration, trace the history of this art from mediaeval times, through the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, to the days of Victorian aesthetic sterility."—Spec

---

Reviewed by P. T. Frank]

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Ag 4 '29 650w

"Miss Todd and Mr. Mortimer have produced a book in which the letterpress is as interesting as the illustrations. It is full of ideas, reason, intelligence. A good many of the ideas and statements are of what may be called 'doubtful validity,' but actually it is a merit in this kind of book that it should make one ejaculate 'O no,' and want to argue with the authors. Their subject is, indeed, considerably

TODD, D., and MORTIMER, R.—Continued
wider than is indicated by their title." Leonard Woolf

+ Nation and Ath 45:597 Ag 3 '29 1150w
Spec 143:58 Jl 13 '29 350w

"Very little that is admired and praised by them is without interest and much is excellent. They show us a great number of views both of the outside and inside of buildings in the style invented by M. Le Corbusier and his school, and they also illustrate the best of English decoration."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p619 Ag 8 '29 800w

TOLSTAĬA, SOF'IA ANDREEVNA (BERS) countess. Diary of Tolstoy's wife; ed. by S. L. Tolstoy; with notes by S. L. Tolstoy and G. A. Vol Kov; tr. by Alexander Werth. v 1 272p $3.50 Brewer [12s 6d Gollancz]

B or 92 Tolstoi, Leo Nikolaievich, count
29-26489

"This journal of the woman who was the life partner of the great Russian for forty-eight years is of first importance as biographical source material and is, besides, a human document of intense interest. She made the initial entry a fortnight after the memorable day (Sept. 23, 1862), that united her, a girl of 18, to this man of 34. The journal comes to an end in 1905. The text of the diaries is preceded in the present volume by three miscellaneous pieces from the late Countess's pen. The one entitled 'My Notes for Reference' is the meatiest. It consists of brief notations bearing upon what she calls her husband's intellectual life, that is, his literary activity. . . Another piece, a consecutive narrative written in the Countess's old age, deals with her courtship and wedding. . . The present volume offers only a part of the diary proper, namely, that dealing with the first twenty-eight years of their married life. The rest should be forthcoming shortly."—N Y Times

Booklist 25:358 Je '29

Reviewed by Norah Meade
Bookm 69:201 Ap '29 520w

Reviewed by Dorothy Brewster
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 Ap 14 '29 1000w

Reviewed by N. H. Dole
Boston Transcript p3 Mr 9 '29

Reviewed by Dorothy Brewster
Nation 129:19 Jl 3 '29 700w

"The psychological clash between Tolstoy and his wife is famous, and the story of it is the subject of many volumes. In the present diary we look deeper into her mind and into her relations with Tolstoy, for here we have the private record of their daily life and her daily thoughts. . . It is difficult to believe that there are many people who would not feel interest in this psychological drama." Leonard Woolf

+ Nation and Ath 44:294 N 24 '28 720w

"Here are thirty years of marriage compressed within a few hundred pages—and marriage to Tolstoy, at that! It would take more than this book to tell the whole story, a story which even the principals themselves could hardly fathom, so much of it lay hidden from themselves, in their characters and in their unconscious being." Rose Strunsky

New Repub 58:49 F 27 '29 1050w

Reviewed by C. P. Fadiman
N Y Evening Post p11m Mr 16 '29 880w

"On the whole, the diary is not a chronicle but a confessional. It is a strikingly candid account of the diarist's emotional life, and the biographer will find her book, if he reads it discerningly, invaluable material for the understanding of Tolstoy's married life." Avrahm Yarmolinsky

+ N Y Times p1 O 28 '28 3900w

Reviewed by Herschel Brickell
No Am 227:adv My '29 100w

Reviewed by Ernest Boyd
Outlook 151:73 Ja 9 '29 280w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks
Outlook 151:520 Mr 27 '29 60w
Sat R 146:320 D 15 '28 300w

"In the real meaning of the term it is hardly a diary, for it is a document with a purpose. Countess Tolstoy had recourse to her diary only in moments of emotional stress, when she had need of discharging her anger, or to release her depression arising from her dissatisfaction with her husband. In addition she seems to have made use of her diary to express her apologies to her husband, or to record his misdemeanors. The Tolstoys were in the habit of reading each other's diaries. Consequently the notations were not merely the expression of their reactions to one another, or the jotting down of facts about their personal relations. Their diaries also embodied indictments, bills of particulars, pleadings—and articles of peace." Manya Gordon

Sat R of Lit 5:749 Mr 9 '29 1300w

"She gives, bit by bit, a lively and fascinating picture of the Tolstoy family. Her notes on his work are invaluable, especially her description of his accidental encounters with the pilgrims from whose simple faith and glowing words he saw what he called 'the light' of true Christianity. Even through the more intimate portions of her diary it is possible to detect much of the origin of the work of Tolstoy's old age, Resurrection."

+ Spec 141:791 N 24 '28 550w
Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 27 '29 700w

"In its entirety the diary will constitute a valuable source for information on the life of the great Russian writer. However, the book should be read in conjunction with Tolstoy's own 'Confession' and with other available biographical material."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e My 5 '29 900w

"The Countess Tolstoy's is a document written with sensibility and passionate earnestness. The original Russian text was published in Moscow in September of this year; and Mr. Werth, an extremely capable translator, is to be specially complimented on the promptness of his service to the English reader. The book is of very great interest; it does not pretend to be detached, but it tells us in the end more about Tolstoy's family life and of the part it played in his early philosophy and his later ethical teaching than any other that has appeared."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p998 D 20 '28 1900w

TOLSTOI, LEO NIKOLAIEVICH, count, and TOLSTAĬA, ALEKSANDRA ANDREEVNA, countess. Letters (1857-1903); tr. from the Russian by Leo Islavin. 232p $3 Dutton [7s 6d Methuen]

B or 92 [29-18365]

This selection of the most striking letters from Count Tolstoy's correspondence with his cousin and dearly loved friend covers a period of forty-six years. In these letters Tolstoy literally pours out his soul to his sympathetic "granny," a woman of noble character, whose influence, especially on Tolstoy's religious life, endured to the end. He writes largely of himself, of his spiritual conflicts, his beliefs, his novels and a little of his family. Her letters, in their sympathy and candor and deeply religious spirit, are as remarkable as his.

Booklist 26:67 N '29

Reviewed by Norah Meade
Bookm 69:664 Ag '29 550w

"Tolstoy's intense, warmly reciprocated if wholly Platonic, affection for a woman eleven years his senior; the length of the period covered; the complete frankness with which each addressed the other from first to last, all combine to make these letters a revealing history of Tolstoy's mind and heart. They do not, it is true, add anything to our knowledge of him, but they are valuable in that they present, in so simple, engaging and consecutive a form, a picture of what he was and what he became. . . The translation is as helpless as the editing. Surely these entertaining and often illuminating epistles deserve fairer treatment." Babette Deutsch

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p13 Jl 14 '29 1000w

Boston Transcript p2 Je 26 '29 350w

New Statesman 33:272 Je 8 '29 1100w

"Furnishes a very valuable record of the Russian giant's efforts to win to some sort of religious faith that might square with his experience." Edwin Seaver

+ N Y Evening Post p7m Jl 13 '29 150w

"One of the most interesting collections in the literary history of the nineteenth century." A. I. Nazaroff

+ N Y Times p4 Je 16 '29 1650w

Outlook 152:433 Jl 10 '29 150w

"In the long succession of Tolstoy books few can be said to have a greater permanent value." W: B. Shaw

+ R of Rs 80:14 S '29 130w

St Louis 27:290 O '29

"The translator tells us that Tolstoy was wont to say of his correspondence with his cousin that it was his best autobiography and the publication of a selection as a memorial of the Tolstoy Centenary marks a valuable addition to the sources available in English for the study of Tolstoy. No one could find these letters uninteresting, but the English has imperfections which a friendly reader might have easily removed."

+ Sat R 147:546 Ap 20 '29 150w

"They corresponded for nearly fifty years, and their letters are, perhaps, the most important light we possess on Tolstoy's spiritual growth. In this selection it is hard to know which to admire most, Tolstoy with his violent idealism and his sincerity, his huge vitality; or his cousin at the Russian Imperial Court, with her clear, quiet and undiscourageable affection."

+ Spec 142:482 Mr 23 '29 800w

"The letters are at once among the most interesting and the most significant that Tolstoy wrote or received. . . The letters in this volume are not meant to be in the least entertaining; but it must be said that they have considerably more formal literary merit than the present translation might lead the reader to suppose. It is in fact, a singularly unfortunate translation, ungrammatical on almost every page, and even quite wrong here and there in the meaning given to Tolstoy's words. The pity of it is that there is nothing to suggest the sheer force of Tolstoy's prose (or, for that matter, of the Countess Alexandra's clear and flexible language)."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p202 Mr 14 '29 1300w

TOMPKINS, JULIET WILBOR. Left in trust. 318p $2 Bobbs

29-4215

The light and cheerful story of how Don Norrie wins his dark-eyed Judith—tho three women try to prevent it—and comes into the secret inheritance left in trust by his unknown father.

Bookm 69:xxv Ap '29 70w

"A pleasant tale of the pursuit of love and fortune."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Ap 7 '29 230w

"Without in the least creating real characters, Mrs. Tompkins writes a pleasant, thoroughly agreeable sort of magazine serial story."

+ — Boston Transcript p6 Ap 6 '29 100w

TOOHEY, JOHN PETER. Growing pains. 312p $2 Dial press

29-13372

The book catches eighteen-year-old Wilbur taking life very seriously and trying hard to be cynical about it all. His attempts to impress his amused but respectful family and his equally amused but far from respectful friends make up the separate episodes of the story.

"Anyone who has passed his twentieth birthday is sure to find many a laugh in the pages of this book, and to remember his own youthful exuberances."

+ Bookm 70:xxiv S '29 70w

"Light, pleasant reading, with no pretensions to anything more elaborate than the telling of an amusing story, it can bear no analysis beyond the assurance of its being a highly entertaining, if never purposeful, tale."

+ Boston Transcript p4 Jl 13 '29 150w

"Wilbur Jones is the sort of adolescent who is never seen on land or sea, because he spends his whole existence in that synthetic world where 18-year-old boys supply innocuous material for light fiction. The chronicle of his adventures makes no greater demands upon the intellect of a reader than the advertisements in a subway train."

— N Y Times p25 Je 2 '29 200w

"The book is funny. Every one of the boy's adventures gave this not too easily amused reviewer at least one laugh, and the account of his efforts at creative work in the service of the lady of the moment is side-splitting."

+ Outlook 152:469 Jl 17 '29 110w

TOOKER, RICHARD. Day of the brown horde. [2] 309p $2.50 Brewer

29-24587

A tale of primitive man in which O-Wa, after the death of her mate, flees with her weakling son Kaa, the unnamed, to the cliff country. Here she reared the boy, teaching him to hate his father's murderer. Kaa grew and flourished and lived to revenge his father and mother. In time he became the leader of his tribe, ruling it with gentler laws than those of his father's day.

"It is related with vigor and is a panorama that moves awfully before the imagination; Mr. Tooker has treated his theme with care; the story is engrossing and there is no anti-climax. The descriptions and sequences are logical and pique the mind to further contemplation."

+ Boston Transcript p1 D 7 '29 450w

Reviewed by F: F. Van de Water

N Y Evening Post p11m N 2 '29 100w

"Richard Tooker has re-created the prehistoric folk who inhabited the jungles of a region now covered by the Gulf of California; he has followed the adventures, the trials, the sufferings and the triumphs of his primitive characters with an imaginative grasp that renders them incredible and lifelike, and that makes the reader seem for the moment their contemporary as he follows the narrative through many a thrilling page."

+ N Y Times p26 D 1 '29 480w

"Mr. Tooker has interestingly recreated the prehistoric era. His descriptions of life in a jungle inhabited by megatheres and sabre-toothed tigers and rivers swarming with sharks and plesiosaurs, is vivid and entertaining, and his explanation of the evoluton of the god-idea, ingenious. There is, however, a tepid flavor of propaganda in the plot, and he has a tendency in his purple passages to begin sentences in the best movie manner with a verb, which shows how little universal ridicule has done to improve construction."

+ — Sat R of Lit 6:623 Ja 4 '30 230w

TORNIUS, VALERIAN HUGO. Salons; pictures [2] of society through five centuries; English version by Agnes Platt and Lilian Wonderley. 318p il $5 Cosmopolitan bk. [21s T. Butterworth]

920.7 Salons 29-28657

Beginning with Isotta of Rimini in Renaissance Italy, to whom the author gives the honor of being the first woman to make herself the center of a salon, he follows the development of this form of social life thru five centuries and describes the most renowned of the women who reigned over salons in the cities of Italy, in Paris, in Berlin and Vienna.

TORNIUS, V. H.—Continued

"Mr. Tornius has read widely for his information. On the whole he is quite accurate, but there are irritating slips, notably in the chapters dealing with Italy." G. R. B. R.

+ — Boston Transcript p4 N 13 '29 600w

"The author does not merely describe the salons, but shows how in each period and place the salon became an expression of the spirit of the time and gives to each one an elaborate setting of the politics, the literature and the manners of the period. His stage is constantly crowded with the famous men and women of Italy, or France, or Germany, and his descriptions of them are graphic and interesting."

+ N Y Times p31 N 10 '29 200w

TORRANCE, ARTHUR. Tracking down the enemies of man; with an appreciation by "Trader Horn" and an introd. by Morris Fishbein. 300p $3.50 Sears [7s 6d Knopf]

616.96 Tropics—Diseases and hygiene. Insects as carriers of contagion 29-1661

Dr Torrance is a microbe hunter of our own day. Germs of tropical diseases and the insects which carry them are his special quarry. His book describes adventures in the jungles of Asia during years of effort to conquer leprosy, sleeping sickness, cholera.

"Dr. Torrance has written a book lacking literary style but neverthelesss singularly interesting. His adventures in his battle against pestilential diseases found under the Southern Cross form an interesting chapter in the account of man's efforts to rid the world of illness."

+ — N Y World p11m Ap 21 '29 160w

"In the course of the various journeys through tropical Africa and southeastern Asia which he describes in this thrilling work, blood-curdling and hair-raising experiences seem to have thrust themselves upon him. . . His various expeditions seem to have saved many lives, and his book should form valuable propaganda in the cause of tropical sanitation."

+ Sat R 147:804 Je 15 '29 570w

"By no means is the book an unrelieved catalogue of tragedies and agonies. It also contains humour and much temperate optimism—although Dr. Torrance continually emphasizes the very real and terrible possibilities of epidemics, and the necessity for energetic, national prophylactic organizations."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p679 S 5 '29 600w

TORREY, CHARLES CUTLER. Second Isaiah; a new interpretation. 477p $5 Scribner [15s T. & T. Clark]

224.1 Bible. Old Testament. Isaiah 28-19672

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

"This is a work that will challenge the attention and rivet the interest of any really thoughtful student of prophecy. It is a painstaking and scholarly piece of work. . . The treatment of the metrical forms of the [Second Isaiah] is not convincing. The study of metrical form has not gone far enough to have attained a consensus of view among Hebrew experts. Yet Professor Torrey proceeds with an audacity and finality of opinion which disregards all previous work in this field, and submits the text to a surgery that is nothing less than paralyzing." H. L. Willett

+ — Christian Century 45:1365 N 8 '29 1500w

"The evidence for Prof Torrey's views is given with such clarity and detail as will command the admiration of every reader, and a serious reconsideration of the whole problem of Second Isaiah by every scholar." J. M.

+ Springf'd Republican p10 Mr 19 '29 730w

TOTHEROH, DAN. Men call me fool. 290p $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-7208

Trisquet, the famous hunchbacked fool has a son by a gipsy maid. The boy goes to court, and beautiful as his father is ugly, falls in love with his master's daughter. Her father, the count, pledges her to a noble and the son of the fool dons the motley to cover his breaking heart.

"The plot is simple, told in such a leisurely manner that the sting of excitement is unfortunately removed. There are moments that call for suspense, but the suspense is not there. Nevertheless, Mr. Totheroh is a good painter. Whether one wishes to question the accuracy of the picture or not, it is good romancing."

+ — N Y Times p32 Mr 24 '29 220w

"The flow of narrative is easy and undistinguished. The ramifications of the plot are always pleasantly incredible."

N Y World p11m My 12 '29 250w

"The tale is sad, but it has an infectious vivacity and a fleet humor that lift it above sentimentality. For all its flamboyance, the irony implied in the title gives fair warning of a serious sympathetic view of the interesting relationship between the jester and those he was hired to amuse."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:1006 My 11 '29 150w

Times [London] Lit Sup p609 Ag 1 '29 250w

TOULMIN, HARRY AUBREY. Patent law for the inventor and executive; with an introd. by F. A. Scott. 288p il $4 Harper

347.7 Patent laws and legislation. Patents —United States 28-13659

"Continuing volumes of patent litigation attest to the pitfalls that exist for him who invents, manufactures, sells, buys or specifies patented articles. This book is built on the belief that many of these pitfalls are of a man's own making and the fundamental knowledge of patent law, even equal to the ordinary understanding of such commercial legalities as sales agreements, leases, etc., would save millions of dollars in litigation and contribute to the justice with which patent law should be administered."—Eng N

Booklist 25:55 N '28

"The author, a prominent patent attorney, relies most successfully on practical examples of patent cases to make clear the necessities of patent application, use and protection."

+ Eng N 101:743 N 15 '28 180w

Pratt p13 spring '29

TOUT, THOMAS FREDERICK. Chapters in the administrative history of mediaeval England. (Manchester univ. publications) 5v v 3-4 495; 484p ea $12 (ea 30s) Longmans

354.42 Great Britain—Politics and government. Great Britain—Royal household

"In these volumes Prof. Tout continues his task of relaying the foundations of the history of England under the Plantagenets from the administrative point of view. Prof. Tout goes back to the records in an attempt to explain the processes of government as they were, taking so much advantage of his predecessors' work as to obviate the necessity of going over the same ground, and giving us for the first time some idea of the working of our medieval monarchy."—Sat R

Reviewed by J. F. Baldwin

Am Hist R 34:314 Ja '29 630w

"In all probability no one but the author of this book could write an adequate account of its contents or deal critically with the mass of new detail contained in it or with the new general views of English history here set forth. . . The very richness of the book makes it certain that no two readers will get from it the same impression; nor is any reader likely to conquer all its treasures at one reading. . . No one will ever dare to touch any question or topic connected with the period treated in it without looking at its pages." C. G. Crump

+ Eng Hist R 44:129 Ja '29 2900w

"The great achievement of this work in administrative history needs no further comment now, and no one can cavil at an author's discursiveness when he can be discursive after Professor Tout's fashion." A. B. White

+ Pol Sci Q 44:283 Je '29 700w

"His monumental study will take its place among the few classics of administrative history, as an example and an inspiration to future historians."
+ Sat R 146:58 Jl 14 '28 250w

"A creative work on the grand scale is a rarity in English medieval scholarship, so seldom are the years, the patience, the illumination united in a single writer. Professor Tout's—let us greet it as such and not linger upon superlatives—has now passed from the early pioneering stage into a maturity where the touch is certain, the style one of limpid ease at last, and the proportions harmonious. Through his study of administration Professor Tout is rewriting the political history of medieval England."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p822 N 8 '28 2950w

TOWNSEND, REGINALD TOWNSEND. This, that, and the other thing. 148p il $2 Doubleday, Doran

814 29-10541

Short essays, humorous and philosophical, on such weighty matters as: In praise of dawns; What's in a name?; Concerning antiques; Hero worship; Moonlight and magic; Wanderlust; Sightseeing at home; or Skylines. The essays have been previously published in Country Life.

---

"The lover of quietly circumspect little sketches on all and sundry will find a treat in these pieces. F. G. Cooper's amusing illustrations must share the honors."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Je 30 '29 110w

"The charm of Mr. Townsend's small volume of essays is that it is made up of the possibles rather than the impossibles, of the actual existing refreshments of life, which are badly needed by that beleaguered stronghold, our soul." I. W. L.
+ Boston Transcript p2 My 29 '29 730w
Cleveland Open Shelf p156 D '29

Reviewed by Herbert Gorman
N Y Times p15 Ag 11 '29 80w

TOWNSEND, W., and TOWNSEND, L. Biography of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales. 298p il $2.50 Macmillan [10s 6d Marriott]

B or 92 Edward Albert, prince of Wales
29-20599

"The important events in the Prince's career are picked out—his life at Oxford, the War years, social and public work (including his activities on behalf of ex-Service men), and above all his important series of Empire tours and travels elsewhere on behalf of the Empire. The authors make an effort to describe the Prince's character and personality, and devote some space to his tastes, interest in sport, and other hobbies."—Times [London] Lit Sup

---

"This book is badly put together, repetitious and couched in a tone of sickeningly adulatory admiration." H: C. Lodge
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p23 O 27 '29 850w

Reviewed by Edmund Noble
Boston Transcript p3 O 19 '29 2000w

"This is a real nice biography, fairly sweating with good taste and refinement." Harold Kellock
Nation 129:680 D 4 '29 370w

"From first word to last the style is fulsome and commonplace, overloaded with adjectives and suffused with admiration of the book's theme."
— N Y Times p18 O 27 '29 380w

"A volume which contains all the faults of such books—indiscriminate laudation, sloppy insincerity, and a portentous snobbishness. It is, indeed, one of the penalties of royalty that it should have to suffer in silence under these reflections. The book is poor stuff throughout."
— Spec 143:465 O 5 '29 200w
Springf'd Republican p14 O 25 '29 700w

"This is described as the first complete biography of the Prince. It contains a good deal of information of a kind already known to the public, but it is, no doubt, useful to have it collected together in this form."
Times [London] Lit Sup p795 O 10 '29 100w

TOWNSEND, WILLIAM HENRY. Lincoln and his wife's home town. 402p il $5 Bobbs

B or 92 Lincoln, Abraham. Lincoln, Mrs Mary (Todd). Lexington, Kentucky—History. Slavery in the United States 29-21786

"It is Mr. Townsend's thesis that Lincoln owed much in the way of information about slavery and the growth and direction of his own thought about it to the influence and knowledge of his wife and to what he saw and learned concerning it in her home town of Lexington, Ky. . . Taking his subject in a leisurely and wide-spreading way, the author sketches the beginnings of Lexington, in which Mary Todd's forebears had an important part, and with colorful detail portrays her own youth and schooldays there. He devotes much attention to the situation in Lexington with regard to slavery."—N Y Times

---

Reviewed by G. C. Knight
Bookm 70:574 Ja '30 300w

"Mr. Townsend uses his contemporary material well. Having had access to early unpublished family records of the Todds, he has been able to give a most accurate account of the early days in Lexington, and this is by far the outstanding merit of his book." G. R. B. R.
+ Boston Transcript p5 N 16 '29 550w

"An unexpectedly fresh contribution. . . Mr. Townsend is a Democrat, and his kinsmen during the war between the states were on the southern side; but these facts do not seem in any way to have biased his account of the slavery controversy in Kentucky or his analysis of Lincoln's understanding of the border-state problem."
+ Christian Science Monitor p15 Ja 4 '30 600w

"While it would be too much to say that Mr. Townsend proves his contention, he does bring some very interesting data, of which much has never been published before, to the portrayal and interpretation of the background of Lincoln's mature years and its influence upon his developing thought. . . Mr. Townsend's extensive documentation shows how wide and varied have been his studies."
+ N Y Times p29 N 10 '29 400w

TOWNSHEND, FRANK. Earth. 164p $2.50 (6s) Knopf

821 29-15849

"Frank Townshend combines something of Whitman and William Morris, although he always remains himself. A wandering spirit, as was the author of 'Leaves of Grass,' and with larger opportunity to roam, Townshend has traveled largely across the earth. An Irishman by birth, he served the British Empire in India and in the World War. All this is useful in leading up to his poem, 'Earth.' This long, mellifluent reflective piece, which is broken up into four parts, is the fruit of the author's observation and his conclusions on the pageant of life as it has passed before him in review. The summation is that earth shall go on in joy and gladness. Like the Creator, he has found the work good."—N Y Times

---

Reviewed by C: Divine
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p23 N 10 '29 100w

"Written in irregular rhythms, the poem, without the subtleties of a fine metrical pattern, ranges freely over a multitude of facts and experiences. With all the semblances of prophecy, one misses the glow to be found in a Whitman or an Edmund Carpenter, but there is no denying that it possesses a fine and moving documentation of life."

TOWNSHEND, FRANK—Continued
+ — Boston Transcript p6 O 19 '29 450w

"We do not detect any pure poetry in Mr. Townshend's pages, but we welcome his serious thought and observant brevities."
+ — Nation and Ath 45:540 Jl 20 '29 80w

"The poem is humane, beneficial, serene."
+ N Y Times p35 O 27 '29 300w

Times [London] Lit Sup p563 Jl 11 '29 170w

TOYNBEE, ARNOLD JOSEPH. Survey of international affairs, 1926. 565p $8.50 (24s) Oxford

327 International law and relations. World politics

"This 1926 volume 'completes the record of the more important international events in the crowded period from the Versailles Peace Conference to the end of the year 1926. Arrears are made up in the histories of Inter-Allied Debts since the war, of the increasingly important question of migration and of the administration of mandates and dependencies in the Pacific area. For the rest the record is mainly confined to the year 1926 itself.' "—Preface

Reviewed by W: E. Lingelbach
Ann Am Acad 143:384 My '29 450w

Booklist 25:243 Mr '29

"Students of international law, history, or political economy will find this volume of value."
+ Boston Transcript p7 Ja 26 '29 150w

"These studies are written with learning, care, and detachment, and in their obvious value to the historian of the future are quite beyond all precedent. For the diplomatist or publicist of to-day they must be extraordinarily useful." G. B. H.
+ Eng Hist R 44:351 Ap '29 130w

"While not an artistically balanced account of the year in international affairs (owing to the plan of the series to which it belongs), it covers thoroughly its selected themes in a sober, British fashion." C: A. Beard
+ New Repub 58:257 Ap 17 '29 300w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 80:10 S '29 80w

Spec 143:259 Ag 24 '29 150w

TRACY, LOUIS (GORDON HOLMES, pseud.). Lastingham murder. 304p $2 Clode

29-3429

"A London story with a Harvard-Rhodes scholar as the central figure. Specialists have told him that a heart difficulty will evenuate fatally within six months: whereupon thrills break in upon the calm career he is ordered to observe, beginning with his entanglement in a murder case, himself the first man under suspicion."—Springf'd Republican

"Here is some excellent sleuthing by Inspector Furneaux and a nice little love idyll thrown in." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 Ja 27 '29 100w

"An exciting mystery tale, narrated with all the zest with which Mr. Tracy's novels are usually written. . . His mystery tales, cleverly conceived and marching logically to a dramatic conclusion, are not so full of horror that they leave an unpleasant sensation in the back of one's mind." G. B.
+ Boston Transcript p4 F 23 '29 480w

Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 17 '29 150w

TRAIN, ARTHUR CHENEY. Illusion. 321p $2.50 Scribner

29-11650

At a dinner party for the Queen of Dalmatia, Carlee Tharp, vaudeville entertainer, makes a great hit. This sudden social success leads him to desert his partner, Felicity, and their act. He gets engaged to the daughter of a self-made man who is also a social climber, and things go very well for a while. But Carlee comes to learn that for him, happiness without Felicity is an illusion.

Booklist 26:35 O '29

"It is a picturesque yarn, more than competently told."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Je 2 '29 180w

"It is a novel of sustained interest and great charm." G. B.
+ Boston Transcript p3 My 29 '29 730w

"Though rather too long, and much lighter in substance than some of its predecessors, the story is entertaining and agreeably told."
+ — N Y Times p16 My 12 '29 530w

Springf'd Republican p7e Je 16 '29 250w

"A cheerful story, with some good-natured satire at the expense of New York society and some interesting sidelights on music-hall and circus life in America."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p848 O 24 '29 180w

Wis Lib Bul 25:324 O '29

TRANSITION (periodical). Transition stories; selected and ed. by Eugene Jolas and Robert Sage. 354p $2.50 McKee

Short stories—Collections 29-2249

A selection of twenty-three stories from the magazine Transition, by such moderns as Gertrude Stein, Elliot Paul, Kurt Schwitters, and many others.

Booklist 25:323 My '29

"Actionless, plotless, devoid of any continuity except the associative one, it seems that the reason for the existence of these stories should be a beautiful phraseology. On the contrary, one finds one's self confronted with a vast chaotic dictionary, where the ugliest images and the harshest words seem to have been written in outstanding italic. One is struck, too, by the common concern of the authors with their own particular selves or moods." W. D. Blake
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p13 Je 30 '29 700w

"It is little less than degeneracy masking under the guise of modernism. It may, of course, be placed in the same category as much of the modernistic school of painting, and we venture to say will be no more permanent."
— Boston Transcript p5 Mr 2 '29 130w

Dial 86:525 Je '29 80w

"Because it enables the reader to secure a bird's-eye view of the activities of the radical literary group in Paris, this is a highly valuable collection. The volume is about equally divided between stories by Americans and those by Europeans. The writers included do not present their productions as works of literature; they claim for them no inevitable inclusion in the canon of art. They merely require the reader to lend his emotional equipment to the appreciation of a series of experiments, tentative gropings, new combinations, deformations, delvings into the recesses of painful, fugitive moods." C. P. Fadiman
Nation 128:259 F 27 '29 720w

"These stories are not literature; but they form a body of laboratory work that may have its effect in fertilizing literature that is as yet unwritten. The chief interest of the volume will be for those who are anxious to follow the mutations of the craft of writing. Epicures of the spirit who regard literature as something final, something perfected and complete, are warned to shun the snark-hunters who have set forth under the aegis of Eugene Jolas."
+ — N Y Times p9 F 24 '29 500w

" 'Transition stories' will make no appeal to the unconverted, but those who have learned the language, who know how to read James Joyce and Gertrude Stein (both of whom are represented), will find this an interesting anthology of modernism." Basil Davenport
+ Sat R of Lit 5:776 Mr 16 '29 600w

TRAPMAN, ALBERT H. Man's best friend; the story of the dog; with an introd. by Albert Payson Terhune. 380p $5 Macaulay [7s 6d Hutchinson]

636.7 Dogs 28-24452

"This work is divided into four books. In the first the author deals with the origin and history of the dog. In the second he writes about the supernatural attributes of the dog. This is followed, in the third part, by peculiar attributes, while Part Four is on the technology of the dog. There are included a large number of etchings."—Times [London] Lit Sup

"When he reaches the chapters dealing with the technology of the dog the author is on firmer ground and here he displays expert knowledge. This part of the book will be enjoyed by all dog lovers and prized by all dog owners."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 Ja 27 '29 230w

"The author, of course, is a dog lover, but he has allowed no silly sentimentality to color his writings. He discusses his subject in the true historical manner. The result is a book which will interest breeders, fanciers and sportsmen as well as those who have dogs for household friends and companions."

+ Boston Transcript p3 N 10 '28 230w

"An unfortunate strain of sentimentality runs through the book which will make it unattractive to the normal dog-lover. Some of the stories are amusing, not least because the author allows his credulity to run riot."

— Sat R 147:810 Je 15 '29 120w

"Captain A. H. Trapman deprecates the idea that he is publishing a mere collection of dog stories in this very interesting study of 'man's best friend.' The larger part of the book does, however, consist of such stories and very thought-provoking they are; not least those which deal with the strange susceptibility of dogs to supernatural influence."

+ Spec 142:916 Je 8 '29 60w

"The book is well illustrated and has a good index, and should be of great interest not only to the specialist and fancier, but to the ordinary dog owner and lover."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p1013 D 20 '28 100w

"This is a heartening as well as an entertaining book."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p498 Je 20 '29 300w

TRATTNER, ERNEST ROBERT. Unravelling the Book of books; being the story of how the puzzles of the Bible were solved and its documents unravelled. 325p il $2.75 Scribner

220.95 Bible.Whole—History 29-10663

A new and freshly written story of the Bible and how it came to be, which makes use of the results of modern scientific methods of Biblical research.

"Dr. Trattner has told the oft-told tale in so delightful a fashion, with so true an understanding of the popular aspects of the story, and with so sure and easy a grasp of the scholarship involved, that the reading of his volume is a perpetual delight." J: H. Holmes

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p13 Ap 28 '29 580w

"What he has striven to do, and has done very ably and effectively, is to present a concise, comprehensive and accurate account of the beginning, the development and the results of the scientific investigation of both parts of the Bible. . . His spirit is that of the scientist. He writes vigorously and with frequent brief portrayal of the social and historical background as an illuminant of some development of his theme."

+ N Y Times p15 Je 9 '29 320w

"Cheyne hardly succeeded in making a romance out of his 'Founders of Old Testament Criticism.' Nash's 'History of the Higher Criticism' did not become a 'best seller,' Trattner has far less learning than either, but a more kindling interest in the story as such. The style is 'colloquial' even to the favorite 'newspaporial' spelling Pharoah (sic) for the title of Egyptian monarchs; but the story is well worth telling and in spite of minor defects is really well told."

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:1061 My 25 '29 70w

Wis Lib Bul 25:317 O '29

TRAUTWEIN, SUSANNE G. Lady of laws; tr. from the German by Herbert E. Palmer and Leslie W. Charley. 305p $2.50 Coward-McCann [7s 6d Secker]

29-18166

"It is a novel both strong and delicate. Renaissance Italy is the magnificent sombre background against which is set a fragile story run through with a ribbon of symbolism. The Lady of Laws is a learned and beautiful doctor in a school of law, an anachronism, indeed, in her time. Her life is a long trial of strength with the Tyrant of her city. In her own eyes, in the eyes of those who cherish her, she is both brave and wise. In the Tyrant's, she is foolish, meddlesome and desirable. Visited by him in a concealing cloud of darkness and cypress smoke, she bears, as Io did, a son to an unknown god. The son, she at last inevitably loses to the imperious need of his deified father. And her own life, spent in the brave ways of a woman conscious of superiority and of responsibility, is thrown away in a gesture of sacrifice as petulant as it is proud."—Outlook

Booklist 26:72 N '29

"The story is simple and unaffected. It could so easily have become a subtle tract in defence of the freedom of women; and yet it is so humanly conceived that it avoids even the suggestion of propaganda." C. P. Fadiman

+ — Bookm 70:97 S '29 600w

" 'The Lady of Laws' is an heroic holiday; we are among the gods again." Florence Haxton

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 Je 9 '29 720w

"The plot is of minor consequence. Indeed, there is none, save the adventure of living which is Ravegnana's. But the life in the old city, in Italy itself, the conflicting moral codes, the sheer beauty of bells ringing in little old towers, of a river spanned by great bridges, of a wide square humming with folk before a great Gothic Church, of bright Italian morning with 'the wind playing huntsman to the clouds,' can be rarely equalled." I. W. L.

+ Boston Transcript p4 Ag 3 '29 400w

"When Frau Trautwein doesn't strain after the lyric image too self-consciously her prose is a joy to read."

+ — Nation 129:231 Ag 28 '29 100w

"This Lady of Laws is a gracious figure, complex and inconsistent, and thereby individual and moving. Her portrait is so adroitly and exquisitely drawn that a book which might otherwise be a mere costume romance becomes a novel not to be missed because of its unusual unity of tone and its serene charm." E. H. W.

+ New Repub 60:81 S 4 '29 200w

"If I were a man of avarice, I should change my name to Hertzwald and do something in the neo-Teutonic line. It is so easy and it does pay so well. A rape, blood, a feebly blustering hero, a thin wash of religiosity, a few imperfectly comprehended Hegelianisms, every man a cad and every woman a wanton, against an historical background." H. C. Harwood

— New Statesman 32:supx Mr 16 '29 70w

"The whole book has a combination of sweetness and strength, of the human and the superhuman, of the sad little moments of life and the great days of history. It is this blend alone which shows us the woman in the author; her command over her materials, her historical understanding of the times, her picturing of the iron wills of those who made the times what they were, is essentially masculine."

+ N Y Times p6 Je 16 '29 800w

TRAUTWEIN, S. G.—Continued

"'The Lady of Laws' is written in smooth prose, firm, never over-studied, luminous and right. There is great richness and color in its descriptive passages, cool irony in its fine characterizations. A certain bitterness flavors its emotion. In its phrasing, at once intricate and chaste, it suggests the neo-classic poetry of the Italian Renaissance." F. L. Robbins

+ Outlook 152:310 Je 19 '29 400w

"Miss Trautwein has illumined her story with a brooding piety, a lambent mysticism which have nothing to do with conventional religiousness; she has touched it with a pity and an understanding without scorn and without weakness. It is a notable and satisfying creation." Garrett Mattingly

+ Sat R of Lit 5:1125 Je 22 '29 620w

"Among vaster, more pretentious works, Our Lady of Laws comes like a lovely surprise. It is a book original, rhythmic, and gracious; its dream-like quality is of too clear a strain to let it pass into nightmare, as some modern historic novels do." R. A. Taylor

+ Spec 142:247 F 16 '29 300w

"A semi-historical novel of no little tender strength and austere beauty."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Jl 21 '29 280w

"The later pages of her history excite the most painful emotions. In spite of them to read this book is a refreshing and lovely experience."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p292 Ap 11 360w

TRAVERS, MORRIS WILLIAM. Discovery of the rare gases. 128p il pa $6 Longmans [15s E. Arnold]

546.1 Gases, Rare [29-5797]

"Here is an account at first hand from one who was a brilliant and essential junior partner in all but the very first part of Ramsay's work on the rare gases; and it is based upon Ramsay's own MS. papers and laboratory notes, handed over to Dr. Travers by Lady Ramsay and Mrs. Tidy with an invitation to arrange them. Dr. Travers has brought all his own enthusiasm to renew that which created his material."—Nature

---

"Some of what Dr. Travers tells in the present volume is broadly familiar; but there is much that will be new, and greatly welcome, to its readers." Irvine Masson

+ Nature 123:195 F 9 '29 3200w

N Y New Tech Bks 14:9 Ja '29

"Dr. Travers had the good fortune to collaborate with Ramsay, and his record of their alternating triumphs and disappointments—crowned, finally, by complete success—not only makes stimulating reading for students of science, but has also the interest of a first-rate detective story."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p103 F 7 '29 170w

TREAT, PAYSON JACKSON. Far East. (Harper's hist. ser.) 549p $5 (15s) Harper

950 East (Far East). Eastern question (Far East). China—Foreign relations. Japan—Foreign relations 28-15605

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

"By the self-imposed and clearly defined limits of the book only diplomatic and political phases of recent Far Eastern history are treated at all fully. Other, and important, phases of the story are only briefly touched upon. For a full-rounded account of what the last century and a half have seen in the Far East one must supplement the volume by other works. When all of these strictures and comments have been made, however, the fact remains that Professor Treat has here given us one of the two or three brief accounts of the recent political and diplomatic history of the Far East that we have in any language." K. S. Latourette

+ Am Hist R 34:347 Ja '29 430w

"Dr. Treat gives us a landscape in oils, full of detail, lights and shadows. The background chapters are particularly good, prepared as if they were for the American collegian, or general reader. Factually the book as a whole is almost beyond criticism; the fault—if fault there be—lies in the interpretation of certain of the facts." H. F. MacNair

+ — Am Pol Sci R 23:212 F '29 660w

Reviewed by W. L. Godshall

Ann Am Acad 144:156 Jl '29 280w

"This volume purports to be for students and general readers. It is hard to see how it can be of any particular value to the former since it is almost entirely undocumented, and gives a most inadequate account of those ethical-religious ideas on which so much of the older civilization of China was based. The book is slightly more useful to the general reader."

— + Nation and Ath 44:562 Ja 19 '29 400w

"A scholarly, dispassionate and trustworthy account of the relations of China and Japan respectively with the Western Powers during the past century, remarkably free from national or personal bias."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p128 F 21 '29 300w

World Tomorrow 12:92 F '29 20w

TRENT, LUCIA (MRS E. R. CHEYNEY). Children of fire and shadow. 96p $2 Packard

811 29-8533

Poems of love, marriage and motherhood, by one of the editors of Contemporary Verse.

---

"The lyrics are slight, the imagery inclines to the usual. There is no very striking originality here, either in thought or in manner. But such poems as 'While Music Plays' will please those who linger in the romantic dream and who believe that poetry is the cry of the heart."

— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 My 5 '29 180w

"Poems as courageous as they are explicit in thought, is the gift of this book." Jeannette Marks

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ag 4 '29 780w

"Intimate poems, dealing with her love, her marriage and motherhood, poems which are interesting because they deal so frankly with phases of life seldom written of by women—strangely enough! Some of the verses are on themes of social prophecy, and these for the most part do not appeal to us so strongly, since they somehow fail to convey the emotional intensity unmistakable in the more personal poems."

World Tomorrow 12:347 Ag '29 50w

TREYNOR, ALBERT M. Snow-blind. 310p $2 Dodd

29-5414

Another story of the Royal Canadian mounted police in which three members of the Tearl family prove their loyalty to each other and to the organization.

---

"This is one of Mr. Treynor's best." Will Cuppy

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Mr 17 '29 100w

Boston Transcript p2 Ap 27 '29 220w

"It is a fast moving tale, entertaining and better written than the average adventure story. Mr. Treynor has a facile narrative skill that makes the going pleasant for the reader. . . Unfortunately not a few things take place that are rather incredible and the long arm of coincidence is stretched all around the Arctic Circle."

+ — N Y Times p32 Mr 24 '29 180w

TRINE, RALPH WALDO. Power that wins. 183p $1.75 Bobbs

170 Conduct of life. Success. Ford, Henry 29-11727

The sub-title describes the book: "Henry Ford and Ralph Waldo Trine in an intimate talk on life—the inner things—the things of the mind and spirit—and the inner powers and forces that make for achievement."

---

"Any unprejudiced reader must agree that there was no earthly reason for Messrs. Trine and Ford not to discuss these things if they wished to do so. Mr. Trine conducts the affair with an abundance of optimism, providing just enough doldrums to remind the customer occasionally that conversation is a lost art."
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p21 Ag 18 '29 130w

"At Henry Ford's present rate of deification at the hands of biographers and interviewers, we expect almost any day now to find Mr. Ford sitting under a plane tree lost in meditation on the infinite. The Mahatma of Detroit, Mich., may not know very much about history, but he certainly seems to know a great deal about everything else under the sun. What minute particles he lacks, Mr. Trine is amply able to supply us." Edwin Seaver
N Y Evening Post p9m My 25 '29 150w

"It is a unique view one gets in this little book of that Protean creature, Henry Ford. For he is revealed as the philosopher, the mystic, the dreamer. Mr. Ford spoke freely and fully upon a variety of topics—so great a variety that perhaps never before in all that has been written about him has he so thoroughly revealed the many-sidedness of his mind."
+ N Y Times p20 My 26 '29 400w

TRITES, WILLIAM BUDD. Modern girl. 286p $2.50 Stokes
29-8720

A realistic yet romantic story of a very young and very beautiful American girl on war service in France and an aviator who, like all the other men she meets, falls in love with her. Hilda is innocent, reckless, and avid of life. She has courage too and a good deal of strength in her unformed character, so that she comes out of the war experience wiser but unspoiled, and in love with the aviator.

---

"A Modern Girl, in spite of its apparent defects, deserves to be placed in the first rank of war novels."
+ Bookm 69:313 My '29 380w

"Jack Stafford serves a much more important part in the book than his role as Hilda's sweetheart. It is his life as an air cadet, his companions in the air service, and his gallant adventures in combat that lift the story to occasional passages of beauty and pulsating vigor. These passages and the sidelights of life among the leisured non-combatants save the book from dullness, but they cannot entirely conceal an inadequate character development and a slender theme." Enid Baird
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 My 19 '29 230w

"Mr. Trites has performed a service in this novel by redeeming our faith in the character and morals of youth exposed to the temptations of the war." W. S. B.
+ Boston Transcript p1 Ap 27 '29 500w

Reviewed by F: F. Van de Water
N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 27 '29 280w

"Mr. Trites has woven a genuine, though simple, narrative of the war. . . It is a far better book than its trite title would indicate."
+ N Y Times p19 My 26 '29 250w

"This book is a disappointment. After 'The Gypsy' we expected adult stories from Mr. Trites. But this might have been written by Daisy Ashford."
— Outlook 151:588 Ap 10 '29 180w

"That Mr. Trites can write is proven in 'The Gypsy.' It is bold, florid writing, effective in the shorter and simpler story, but not successful here. Like the movies, the art of Mr. Trites has great possibilities, but like most of them, it falls down—in this book at least—by the paucity of its ideas. 'A Modern Girl' does no credit to the author of 'Paterfamilias' and 'The Gypsy.'"
— Sat R of Lit 6:114 S 7 '29 470w

TRITES, WILLIAM BUDD. Paterfamilias. 438p $2.50 Cosmopolitan bk. [7s 6d Gollancz]
29-18159

A middle-aged, altruistic doctor from a small town is Dr William R. Stanton. His wife is extravagant and a poor manager, his elder daughter marries a drunkard, his son robs him to live a life of ease, and the doctor gets very little out of life. Then he is elected governor and success begins to come his way.

---

"Mr. Trites has breathed spirit into the father. He stands before you as a symbol of the restraint, the power, the fidelity in human nature. His qualities are something more than life-sized. You feel that you know him and he makes you proud. Not for the sake of the story, nor for the sake of the somewhat rambling account of its minor characters, but for the sake of Dr. Stanton, 'Paterfamilias' should be read. Behind the reedy flurries of female introspection there towers, for once, the reassuring sanity of masculine staunchness."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 S 15 '29 380w

Boston Transcript p4 O 5 '29 600w

"It is a big picture. The huge, blind, unquiet monster is painted with humor, with kindness, sometimes even with a peculiar poetry. It is interesting that the author of 'The Gypsy,' a palpable, unpleasant fraud, should be capable of such sincerity." C. A. C.
+ New Repub 61:151 D 25 '29 180w

" 'Paterfamilias' is a good, simple and kindly book, a superior example of the pre-war popular novel. . . Problems that have generally fallen into literary disuse are revived here. The squalor of the mill settlements, the corruption of the capitalistic order, and the evils of drink once more assume significant and arguable proportions."
+ N Y Times p7 O 6 '29 450w

"Mr. Trites is concerned with the father of a family in present-day America. Paterfamilias is a wider, and more ambitious study than the two he has already given us. If because of its diffuseness and some uncomfortable sentimentality in the conclusion, it does not hold the attention like Ask the Young, its picture of struggling family life in a small American town is desolating and unforgettable." V. S. P.
+ — Spec 143:59 Jl 13 '29 200w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 3 '29 100w

"The two earlier books of Mr. W. B. Trites, 'The Gipsy' and 'Ask the Young,' earned him some reputation for tragic force and originality: we doubt whether Paterfamilias will add to that reputation. There seems to be some fatality which pulls all but very strong American novelists down to writing, eventually, their own version of 'Babbitt'; and, though American demand for the chronicling of small town life may be insatiable, the world at large is by now sated with the details of family life in one of the innumerable replicas of Main-street."
— Times [London] Lit Sup p556 Jl 11 '29 350w

TROLAND, LEONARD THOMPSON. Fundamentals of human motivation. 521p $5 Van Nostrand

150 Psychology. Behaviorism (psychology). Psychoanalysis. Emotions. Psychology, Physiological 28-16245

The present book is intended to be a systematic treatment of the facts and problems of human motivation. In dealing with the varied subjects included in the discussion, the author has endeavored "to summarize all significant available facts and theories, and yet to combine them into a doctrine which has some new aspects, and gives unity to a discussion which might otherwise be confusing. This doctrine is called the theory of retroflex action."

---

"In the sense that Mr. Troland's work bridges the loose views of psycho-analysts with physiology it is a contribution as well as a simplification." T. K.
+ Boston Transcript p2 D 22 '28 1050w

TROLAND, L. T.—Continued

"Not a popular discussion, but one likely to be of interest to those concerned with the control of action and feeling, including sociologist, economist, and educators."

+ J Home Econ 20:769 O '28 120w

"All but the extremists will welcome a volume which so fairmindedly and with such commendable scientific insight works toward a solution of some of the vexed problems of human motivation." W: C. Trow

+ J Philos 26:53 Ja 17 '29 800w

TROTSKY, LEON, pseud. (LEV DAVIDOVICH BRONSTEIN). Real situation in Russia; tr. by Max Eastman. 364p $2 Harcourt [7s 6d Allen & U.]

947.084 Russia—Politics and government

28-19471

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Cath World 129:632 Ag '29 130w

Living Age 335:151 O '28

"The feelings, ideas, and judgment of the party masses are ignored. They are completely left out of the picture, or dragged in now and then to appear shouting hosannas to the Opposition. The whole controversy is presented as a duel between contending leaders, with Mr. Eastman striving by all means to glorify the Trotzkyists and to blacken the Stalinists, but in his bitter partisanship he overreaches himself. He leaves the party acquiescent in perpetration of a monstrous crime. . . Is it possible that anyone believes that this is the real situation in Russia?" A. R. Williams

— Nation 127:516 N 14 '28 2600w

Pratt p29 winter '29

"Trotsky's book is not for the layman. Only those especially interested in Bolshevik Russia or in socialist or communist doctrines either wish or are able to sift the residue of fact from the mass of special reading in Trotsky's indictments." P. B. MacDonald

Sat R of Lit 5:452 D 8 '28 550w

"It is in essence the platform of the Opposition, no more and no less important than the programme of left-wing Socialism in this country—and equally irresponsible. As the work of a first-rate journalist it makes very much better reading than Stalin's Leninism but in both cases it is doubtful whether anyone unacquainted with the Communist creed will be able to make head or tail of some of the jargon employed. Nevertheless, any book is welcome that can help people outside Russia to appreciate the new issues raised by Communism."

Spec 141:965 D 22 '28 680w

TRUSS, SELDON. Living alibi. 306p $2 Coward-McCann

29-1679

Derek Gascoyne rescues Miss Bronsart from the annoying attentions of Woolf Rosenblum. The girl's father disappears, Rosenblum is killed and Derek is wanted for the murder. Other gruesome mysteries follow swiftly, as Mr. Banner, amateur criminologist, finds himself up against a diabolically clever antagonist.

"'The Living Alibi' comes before us as Mr. Truss's first mystery story and belongs in the category of those that thrill with a somewhat carefree disregard of plausibility."

Boston Transcript p2 Mr 16 '29 330w

N Y Times p20 F 3 '29 180w

"The intensely exciting action is carried on at lightning speed, with padding at a minimum and never a dull moment. The author has the stuff and we hope to hear more from him."

+ N Y World p10m F 10 '29 100w

"Let Mr. Edgar Wallace look to his laurels! If the new writer introduced by 'The Living Alibi' cannot beat him at his own formula, at least their work is indistinguishable. Mr. Truss knows all the tricks."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:784 Mr 16 '29 230w

Springf'd Republican p7e S 29 '29 100w

TRUSS, SELDON. Stolen millionaire. 304p $2 Coward-McCann

29-15480

A young man in search of a job falls into a mystery involving a prominent man, and becoming a reporter in order to follow up the case, turns up the unpleasant truth concerning the missing man and a certain lady, and himself falls in love, not vainly, with the miscreant's wife.

"A well written mystery story that is a worthy successor to the author's preceding book, The Living Alibi."

+ Bookm 69:xxvi Ag '29 40w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Jl 21 '29 50w

"It is certainly a hair-raising tale and one that requires a certain power of detachment if one wishes to sleep after it is finished."

+ Boston Transcript p2 Jl 31 '29 320w

"The author, who scored his initial hit earlier this year with 'The Living Alibi,' here follows up with a performance even more ingenious and spectacular."

+ Sat R of Lit 6:83 Ag 24 '29 120w

Springf'd Republican p7e S 15 '29 160w

TRUXAL, ANDREW GEHR. Outdoor recreation legislation and its effectiveness. (Columbia univ. studies in hist., economics, and public law) 218p $3.50 Columbia univ. press

796 Recreation. City planning. Parks. Playgrounds. Juvenile delinquency

29-13142

"A summary of American legislation for public outdoor recreation, 1915-1927, together with a study of the association between recreation areas and juvenile delinquency in Manhattan, 1920."—Subtitle

"It has been a new field for legislation, with little to guide its experiments, and Mr. Truxal has made an important contribution to knowledge of the subject by thus bringing together, describing, analyzing, discussing and comparing the measures that have been taken by States and municipalities in providing opportunity for outdoor recreation."

+ N Y Times p24 S 29 '29 500w

Survey 63:106 O '29 60w

T'SAO HSUEH-CHIN, and KAO NGOH. Dream of the red chamber (Hung lou meng); tr. and adapted from the Chinese by Chi-chen Wang; with a preface by Arthur Waley. 371p $3 Doubleday, Doran

29-7417

" 'Dream of the Red Chamber' is a Chinese novel of great distinction, and it has delighted Chinese, Koreans, and Japanese for more than one hundred and fifty years. Mr. Chi-Chen Wang, the translator, is a scholar both in Chinese and English, and has done his work very accurately. This is a long novel having no less than a million words, with more than 240 characters. . . The plot is original and intricate; the theme is love. Throughout, Mr. Wang has done well in adapting the main story, in many places summarizing long chapters into a few pages—keeping always before us the two most important characters—Pao Yu and Black." —Sat R of Lit

Booklist 26:35 O '29

"It is not edifying. But it is a rich story book. . . The orthodox Chinese scholars have always despised such vulgar novels, but they are genuine expressions of the Chinese people, all the more so because they do not conceal the physical habits of life in a doctrinaire cloak of moral principles."

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p6 Je 23 '29 380w

" 'Dream of the Red Chamber' is an important book to have translated, and a valuable demonstration of the essential unity of mankind. It is not, however, a book to be read at a sitting or with any expectation of excitement or interest. It is too true to life for that." J: Carter

+ — N Y Times p2 Je 2 '29 900w

Reviewed by Younghill Kang
Sat R of Lit 5:900 Ap 20 '29 850w

TUAN, MAO-LAN. Simonde de Sismondi as an economist. (Studies in history, economics, and public law) 178p $3.50 Columbia univ. press

B or 92 Simonde de Sismondi, Jean Charles Léonard 28-6833

"After reviewing briefly the life of Sismondi and particularly the developments that led to his nonconformist attitude in contrast with the classicists, Tuan analyzes Sismondi's work as critic and his theoretical conceptions. The work concludes with a chapter on the influence of Sismondi on his followers, Villeneuve-Bargemont, Droz, and Buret."—Am Econ R

"The valuation of Sismondi's life and work is accomplished with a fine sense of proportion and sympathetic but critical scholarship." W. E. Roloff

+ Am Econ R 18:723 D '28 250w

"One of the most neglected of the nineteenth century economists here comes to light for new world readers in the first serious study of him thus far offered in English."

+ Boston Transcript p1 Mr 10 '28 550w

TUCKERMAN, ARTHUR. High walls. 280p $2 Doubleday, Doran 29-12914

After yielding for years to her mother's selfish domination, Greta suddenly revolts, and throwing over pride, caution, and a distasteful fiancé, finds romance in Central America with a man of her own choosing.

"While this is a swiftly-moving story possessing good character-development, it is also a tale that has already been told a number of times, and for that reason one is likely to find it less intriguing than it was meant to be." Douglas Tyacke

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Ag 25 '29 450w

"Mr. Tuckerman's style is brisk and very readable, and he manages to make an entertaining plot out of very little in the way of human material."

+ Boston Transcript p2 Jl 3 '29 250w

"A pleasantly written and readable novel." Edwin Seaver

+ N Y Evening Post p6m Je 15 '29 200w

"Mr. Tuckerman has set himself the delicate task of weaving together a wildly improbable tale of adventure with the careful record of a young girl's hesitant acceptance of her maturity, and the synthesis is often summary and a bit absurd. He is at his best when he depicts the subjective responses of Greta to the social code of her society and to her own inherent sense of the conventional."

+ — N Y Times p16 Jl 7 '29 220w

"It is the earlier chapters that are the delight of the book, and that drive the reviewer to a probably unreasonable wish that Mr. Tuckerman would throw plots and happy endings overboard and develop his unusual gift for the more acid forms of the comedy of manners." Elmer Davis

+ Sat R of Lit 5:1158 Jl 6 '29 450w

TU FU. Tu Fu; the autobiography of a Chinese poet, A.D. 712-770; arr. from his poems and tr. by Florence Ayscough. 450p il $5 Houghton [21s J. Cape]

895 29-29750

"The Chinese consider Tu Fu, not so well known in the West as his contemporary Li Tai Po, as their greatest poet. They refer to him simply as The Master. He lived during the Tang dynasty (eighth century A. D.). . . Out of the mass of Tu Fu's poetry Mrs. Ayscough selects and arranges those poems that, aided by interspersed commentary, form an autobiography. It is one of the most unusual experiments in literature and one for which Mrs. Ayscough is brilliantly equipped."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

"Mrs. Ayscough has done a fine piece of work in attempting to interpret a whole period of Chinese history through the life and writings of an important poet. The only difficulty with the result is a certain monotony. The intellectual content of the poems is simple and there is naturally a good deal of repetition. It is the subtle shades in the handling of these ideas that makes the poems of such importance to the Chinese, and this element hardly carries over into English. What one does get is a series of delicately painted landscapes and some very moving figures."

+ — Bookm 70:328 N '29 400w

"All in all, the poetry very well serves Mrs. Ayscough's purpose of arranging an unintended autobiography. One's interest gains as one proceeds into the book, and I am confident that on the completion of her task we will find ourselves with one of the most valuable books on Chinese poetry, and, in a broader sense, on Chinese culture that may be found in our language. It is a worthy addition to her beautiful book, 'A Chinese Mirror.'" Isidor Schneider

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 O 20 '29 1250w

Boston Transcript p5 O 19 '29 450w

"Tu Fu notes the beautiful manifestations of life in nature with a fidelity and sensitiveness unexcelled by our own poets of 'the romantic revival.' The intimate words with which he reveals a personal response to human sufferings and pleasures, not merely in grand generalizations but in vivid details, are worthy of our most 'realistic' poets, from Chaucer to Wordsworth." R. L. Mégroz

+ Christian Science Monitor p14 N 16 '29 650w

Reviewed by Barrington Gates
Nation and Ath 46:sup228 N 9 '29 80w

Reviewed by G. L. Dickinson
Nation and Ath 46:282 N 23 '29 1200w

"We never quite lose our conviction that this was a genuine poet and, if we are to believe critics who have had the privilege of reading his work in the original, a very great poet indeed. The translation is lucid and good; Mrs. Ayscough renders the quality of the poems in a number of quick metallic flashes, as felicitous as they are unexpected."

+ New Statesman 34:397 D 28 '29 700w

"It is remarkable how the poet speaks to us in his work over the walls of translation, so that we see him before us a living, agonized human being suffering from illness, poverty, the thrusts of chance and misfortune, the painful knowledge of his inability to maintain his family." Edwin Seaver

+ N Y Evening Post p10m O 12 '29 200w

"Though one cannot agree with all that Mrs. Ayscough says, especially in what she regards as the function of descriptive expansion in the translation of Chinese poetry, one respects her genuine knowledge of the Chinese language and its literature and is happy to learn what she has been able to gather from its inexhaustible storehouses. She very sensibly keeps to a prose form, a fluid, running line in the main, which, while it can never render accurately the rhythm of the formal Chinese meters, does give an idea of the informal types that in many cases anticipate our own free verse by millenia." G: H. Danton

+ N Y Times p12 D 22 '29 850w

"She treats the poems as documents, and she is probably right in doing so. Our only complaint is that she does not carry this procedure to its conclusion. Her annotation is far too scanty. Point after point in the original is either obliterated altogether or else left wholly unexplained. Moreover, is anything gained by her system of pidgin English? If the definite article is to go, why not the copulative, which is equally absent in Chinese? . . But despite a certain lack of thoroughness this is by far the best study of a single Chinese poet that has hitherto appeared."

TU FU—Continued
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p957 N 21 '29 550w

TURNBULL, ARCHIBALD DOUGLAS. Commodore David Porter, 1780-1843. 326p il $3.50 Century

B or 92 Porter, David 29-21700

The biography of a great American seaman who has been called the Count Luckner of the War of 1812. Porter captured the first British ship of the war, sailed the Essex around Cape Horn, and, roving the Pacific, became the terror of the British. He destroyed ship after ship, until trapped at last by the enemy and defeated in a spectacular naval battle.

"For anyone who knows his American history well this is an absorbing story. It offers a new light from a new angle on many situations such as that of the naval war with France and the succeeding struggle with the Barbary pirates. Our chief criticism is that unless the reader does have this historical background, the casual method of the author will prove puzzling at times."
+ — Boston Transcript p7 N 13 '29 350w

"A stirring, pictorial biography of a picturesque seadog who was a fine example of the iron men of the days of the wooden ships. The tale of Commodore Porter's life has all the allure of a good swift-action adventure novel." F. H. M.
+ N Y Evening Post p13m D 21 '29 150w

"A well-written and absorbingly interesting book—a lively and a worthwhile contribution to American naval biography. The publishers deserve commendation for making of it a handsome volume, well printed and adequately illustrated."
+ N Y Times p49 D 1 '29 420w

"The biography is excellently written and does not fail to do full justice to Porter's tendencies toward insubordination." Allan Nevins
+ N Y World p10m D 22 '29 160w

" 'Commodore David Porter' is a thrilling book. This is a picture not only of a man, but of an epoch when a naval captain was the monarch of a small state and not merely a marionette dancing to radio wires from Washington." R. L. Roe
+ Sat R of Lit 6:403 N 16 '29 300w

TURNBULL, ARCHIBALD DOUGLAS, and VAN DER VEER, NORMAN REEVE. Cochrane, the unconquerable. 319p $2.50 Century

29-4536

Two navy men have written up this story of an indomitable British sea fighter in the form of a rousing sea yarn. Cochrane's raids against the French and Spanish ships of his time (the early nineteenth century) won him the sobriquet "El Diablo."

"Romance purporting to be biography has found a captivating subject in the story of 'Cochrane the Unconquerable.' Archibald D. Turnbull and Norman R. Van Der Veer, the former an ex-naval officer and author, the latter still lieutenant commander on the U. S. S. Neches, know their naval history and, like good seamen, can spin about it a yarn that holds the reader's absorbed interest for its swift, colorful action and valiant deeds."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 Mr 10 '29 230w

"Full of fighting and brave deeds, accurate enough historically to give us a good picture of the life of a sea rover of that time, this chronicle of the achievements of the doughty Cochrane and his brave and beautiful wife makes as fine a tale of British grit and courage as any story of Drake or Nelson." G. B.
+ Boston Transcript p2 Mr 13 '29 480w
Cleveland Open Shelf p73 My '29

"The book is written with zest, tells an interesting story, and will repay attention."
+ — N Y Times p30 Mr 24 '29 360w
Reviewed by Herschel Brickell
No Am 227:adv Ap '29 80w

TURNBULL, GRACE HILL, comp. Tongues of fire; a bible of sacred scriptures of the pagan world. 416p $3.50 Macmillan

290 Sacred books. Oriental literature. Philosophy, Ancient 29-5091

This collection of extracts from the scriptures of the pagan world includes not only passages from the Buddhist, Confucian, Zoroastrian, Mohammedan, and other sacred books of the East, but representative passages also from the writings of the Greek and Roman moral philosophers, Plato, Socrates, Plotinus, Seneca, Epictetus and Marcus Aurelius.

"The fragments are like nuggets of gold. Comparison with Moncure D. Conway's 'Sacred Anthology' shows one fatal defect in the present compilation. Dr. Conway, after gathering his treasures with great labor, spent even greater labor in classifying them under different headings and identifying them with elaborate indices. . . Miss Turnbull's volume is a wilderness without paths or tracks." J: H. Holmes
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 Je 9 '29 330w

"Uncannily like the Bible in general tone, these extracts from sacred books which through the ages have been anchors of faith for many peoples of the earth, surprise us with their beauty and insight. Here is a book full of splendor and passionate beauty, and in addition it has great practical value." A. H. S.
+ Boston Transcript p6 Mr 30 '29 350w

"A useful and inspiring compilation of ancient wisdom, and a remarkable piece of editing for an author who is primarily a sculptor and painter."
+ Christian Century 46:779 Je 12 '29 50w

"Miss Turnbull has given an anthology of religion which any layman may read with delight and profit." R. E. E. Harkness
+ Crozer Q 6:238 Ap '29 260w

"The difficult task of selection, elimination, and adjustment has been well performed. Miss Turnbull, who is herself an artist of distinction in the fields of painting and sculpture, has had expert assistance in this work and has made good use of it." Frank Eakin
+ J Religion 9:615 O '29 700w
N Y Times p3 Mr 17 '29 220w

"All readers interested in the subject of comparative religions will find in this work a unique source-book." W: B. Shaw
+ R of Rs 79:26 Mr '29 120w

"The author has brought her material into a readable compass for which the layman particularly will be grateful. No attempt is made to convey an entire system, and only so much is taken from each source as is necessary to convey its spiritual and literary essence."
+ Sat R of Lit 5:890 Ap 13 '29 400w
Springf'd Republican p8 Ag 20 '29 270w

"A compilation, in excellent discrimination and taste. Those unfamiliar with these noble and often exquisitely poetic literatures will be surprised and broadened."
+ World Tomorrow 12:348 Ag '29 50w

TURNBULL, MARGARET. The handsome man. 361p $2 Reilly & Lee [7s 6d Ward, Lock]

28-20927

"It is the story of the British nobleman of depleted fortune and run-down estate, seeking fresher fields for recouping both in America and of course finding them in the person of the beautiful daughter of his employer."—Boston Transcript

"Seekers after romantic thrills will find this comedy of love and looks a quite superior brand of fun. . . If the author hardly keeps to the delightful pace of her opening chapters the story as a whole is nevertheless a most welcome diversion."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Ja 20 '29 120w

Boston Transcript p2 S 8 '28 100w

Cleveland Open Shelf p138 D '28

"This novel contains the germ, at least, of an interesting and unusual plot. . . One can imagine almost any number of interesting developments, particularly in point of character, which might proceed from such a situation. But Miss Turnbull has chosen—unwisely one cannot help feeling—to ignore those possibilities in favor of straight romancing."

+ — N Y Times p20 D 9 '28 300w

Times [London] Lit Sup p189 Mr 7 '29 120w

Wis Lib Bul 25:76 F '29

TURNER, HERBERT BRYANT. Picturesque old France. 334p il $4 Little 914.4 France—Description and travel

29-9627

The route the author follows is thru towns and districts little known to tourists. Beginning at Havre he goes by way of Normandy and Burgundy to the more mountainous regions in southern France, to the "rock towns" and on to the fishing ports on the Mediterranean. Illustrated.

"Despite the leisurely flavor of the book it is rich in nuggets of practical advice." A. B. Maurice

+ Bookm 69:xviii Jl '29 380w

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Je 16 '29 130w

"With its wealth of information, its fund of anecdote, its joy of photographs by the author, this book is an exquisite delight." I. W. L.

+ Boston Transcript p2 Ap 13 '29 530w

"The book makes no special claim to literary distinction and is overburdened in places with non-essential detail, but it exudes a welcome spirit of deliberate and friendly meandering through a most interesting part of Europe."

+ N Y Times p3 Ag 18 '29 420w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 79:20 Je '29 70w

Springf'd Republican p7e My 26 '29 730w

Wis Lib Bul 25:194 Je '29

TYRRELL, MABEL L. Chestnut court. 255p il $2 Harper

29-17734

Chestnut court, a quaint little corner in Paris, is the home of Serena Southcott and her father. Serena, a golden-haired English girl, quickly makes friends with her French neighbors in the court: Pierre and his sister Jeanne, a girl of Serena's age, old Delplace the wig-maker, and the Duchess, a poor old lady who had one fine jewel—a beautiful diamond. It is around the disappearance of this jewel that the mystery of the story centers.

"An excellent mystery for girls." M. L. Becker

+ Outlook 153:591 D 1 '29 40w

"Readers will enjoy not only the mysteries of the plot and their solution but the fresh and lively style and the pleasant characterizations in old Paris." M. C. Dodd

+ Sat R of Lit 6:404 N 16 '29 140w

"A well-told story for girls of all ages."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 8 '29 70w

TYSON, CARROLL BOORSE. The Poconos. 193p il $3 Innes & sons, 129 N. 12th st., Philadelphia

917.482 Pocono mountain, Pennsylvania. Monroe county, Pennsylvania 29-16343

"This mountain region of northeastern Pennsylvania, so close to both New York City and Philadelphia, has become a playground only within the last quarter century. It lacks something of the traditions of the mountains of Vermont and New Hampshire but nothing of the charm."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

"Mr. Tyson, who, on 'Black Billy' or afoot, has wandered through the back roads of the region, here digs out something of its Indian tradition, and tells the story of some of its beauty spots. He loves his Poconos, and makes his love for them infectious."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 O 20 '29 150w

"One of the best contributions that the book makes is to the nature study of the region in which the trees and the flowers, the birds and animal life are depicted in a remarkable way. The photographs are artistic and compelling and really illustrate the text. The author has combined the offices of prophet of the Poconos, publicity man and nature lover in a unique way."

+ Boston Transcript p2 N 9 '29 270w

U

UELAND, ANDREAS. Recollections of an immigrant. 262p il $3 Minton

B or 92 29-1450

"Coming to this country in the early 1870s as a boy of 18, with only enough money to take him to his destination in Minnesota, Mr. Ueland worked there at anything he could find to do, managed to work in a little schooling now and then, studied law and was admitted to the bar in Minneapolis at the end of six years. He has since become one of the most eminent lawyers of the Northwest. Literature and art have engaged his attention and he speaks casually of his work in helping to nurture the cultural development of his city. He married a girl of American stock and their sons and daughters are taking worthwhile parts in the American life of today. One sees, unconsciously revealed in his story, the lineaments of a man who has become a thorough American, but an American of the ideals and standards of a generation or more ago."—N Y Times

Booklist 25:320 My '29

"Much could have been made of Mr. Ueland's material, material of extraordinary value; the minimum has been accomplished." Karsten Roedder

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 My 12 '29 260w

"There is much theorizing, speculating and declaiming about the immigrant pro and con. Documents of this kind however are of the highest value as they reflect the contributions of the best type of immigrants to the welfare of the Northwest."

+ Boston Transcript p4 F 9 '29 300w

Cleveland Open Shelf p62 Ap '29

"It is a story of arresting interest because it is one of such signal achievement and intellectual consequence. But the chief values of this narrative of a Norwegian immigrant lie in its reflection of the influence of the American environment during his almost six decades in this country and in his own comments on its effects on other Norwegians."

+ N Y Times p5 Ja 27 '29 650w

St Louis 27:271 S '29

Wis Lib Bul 25:127 Ap '29

UHL, WILLIS LEMON, ed. Supervision of secondary subjects. (Appleton ser. in supervision and teaching) 673p il $2.40 Appleton

371.2 School supervision and supervisors. Education, Secondary. Teaching. Education —Curricula 29-3749

Fifteen specialists in respective fields of education have each contributed a chapter to this book. Contents: The scope of departmental supervision, by W. L. Uhl; The supervision of natural science, by C: J. Pieper; The supervision of mathematics, by J: R. Clark; The supervision of Latin, by M. D. Gray; The supervision of modern foreign languages and literature, by R. D. Cole; The supervision of English, by S. A. Leonard; The supervision of social studies, by H. C. Hill; The supervision of commercial education, by E. G. Blackstone; The supervision of home economics, by Bernice Dodge and Ruth Henderson; The supervision of industrial subjects, by A. H. Edgerton; The supervision of art, by Ethelwyn Bradish; The supervision of music, by E. B. Gordon; The supervision of a health program, by Ethel Perrin; The supervision of high school library service, by Hannah Logasa; The cooperative character of departmental supervision, by W. L. Uhl.

UHL, W. L., ed.—Continued

"With the present trend of thought toward integration of the subject matter of the school curriculum, those interested in home economics can with profit read the entire book, especially the chapters on art, health, and the social studies. It will assist them greatly in a general understanding of the part home economics plays in the whole school program of work." M. S. Van Liew
+ J Home Econ 21:448 Je '29 480w

"Supervisors, principals, superintendents, and teachers as well as classes in supervision and special methods will find the book profitable reading. As the editor suggests, the chapters may be read separately without reference to preceding or subsequent chapters and used as a basis for discussion in conferences and staff meetings." C. V. Good
+ School R 37:547 S '29 650w

ULMANN, ALBERT. New Yorkers; from Stuyvesant to Roosevelt. 267p il $4 Chaucer head
920 New York (city)—Biography 28-28398

"Beginning with Minuit and his establishment of the little colony, Mr. Ulmann next takes up Stuyvesant and his troubles with the townspeople, and then goes on to Thomas Dongan, to whom the young city owed its 'Charter of Rights and Privileges,' and also part of the design for its coat of arms. Then follows John Peter Zenger, an eighteenth century newspaper editor and publisher whose courage and persistence obtained the freedom of the press. Others dealt with are Thomas Paine, Alexander Hamilton, Robert Fulton, De Witt Clinton, Washington Irving, S. F. B. Morse, Peter Cooper, Edgar Allan Poe and Theodore Roosevelt. After each sketch there is a brief account of the memorials of the man now to be found within the city."—N Y Times

"A brilliant and gifted galaxy, offering much to the astute biographer. But in each instance Mr. Ulmann misses the gifts of the sitter and the gist of his life."
— Bookm 68:x Ja '29 120w

"A few of his subjects have enjoyed of late years so little of the sunshine of popular interest as hardly to be able to blossom anew in the limited space assigned to them. The others are too well known; it would tax a rare faculty to add significantly, in the limited space assigned, to what has lately been done, for example, for Poe." Roberts Tapley
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 F 17 '29 430w
Nation 128:sup491 Ap 17 '29 40w
N Y Times p16 Ja 6 '29 180w
N Y World p11m Mr 24 '29 160w

UNDSET, SIGRID. In the wilderness; tr. from the Norwegian by Arthur G. Chater. 265p $3 Knopf 29-20430

"The third volume of Mme. Undset's tetralogy, [of which The axe and The snake pit were the first and second]. 'In the Wilderness' is the story of the spiritual crisis through which Olav passed in middle age. It records an awakening, consistent with the mysticism of the thirteenth century, yet individual enough in its application to be more than simply consistent, which befell a thoughtful man with sin upon his soul who had previously refused to come to God."—N Y Times

Booklist 26:121 D '29
Reviewed by Donald Douglas
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 O 6 '29 700w
Reviewed by L. L. Irvine
Nation and Ath 46:143 O 26 '29 40w

"It is her triumph to combine universal values with a supreme identification of the period in which she works; and without losing for one moment her perspective on the real aim of her book. She can also recreate thirteenth century Norway from within and from without, giving us not only a memorable picture of a lonely Winter nightfall at Hestviken, but also the characteristics and minds of the people, the way they lived and the codes by which they lived, the ways they differed from us, and the ways in which they differed not at all. Alone of her kind—for even Feuchtwanger and Neumann are far from guiltless of it—Sigrid Undset eschews every temptation to be picturesque or theatrical; and there is not one point of view from which she fails to endow all she touches with abundant life." L: Kronenberger
+ N Y Times p9 O 13 '29 1100w

"The book is extremely beautiful in a rambling manner. As a novel that would stand alone it falls wide of the mark—it requires its predecessors. But once granted that 'In the Wilderness' is not complete in itself, it becomes a wonderful piece of transition from novel to novel. Although its time is mediaeval, its wealth of homely detail and the richness and reality of its scenes are worthy of modernity." Marie Luhrs
+ N Y World p11m O 20 '29 350w
Reviewed by F. L. Robbins
Outlook 153:187 O 2 '29 650w
Yale R n s 19:viii winter '30 280w

UNDSET, SIGRID. Snake pit; tr. from the Norwegian by Arthur G. Chater. 301p $3 Knopf
29-1082

The second of the tetralogy, in which The Axe (Book Review Digest, 1928) was the first volume. After his outlaw years Olav Audunsson returns to his heritage at Hestviken, and brings his wife Ingunn. They try in vain to bring back the atmosphere of their earlier love. The years pass slowly; with Ingunn's illness, doubt and despair overtake them. Finally Ingunn dies and leaves Olav lonely, with his problems all unsolved.

Booklist 25:248 Mr '29
Reviewed by Isabel Paterson
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 Ja 6 '29 1250w

"This, like her previous volumes, contains many unmistakable evidences of Mrs. Undset's literary gifts." B. M. K.
+ Cath World 129:242 My '29 650w

"Although she reproduces medieval Norway in all the rich pageantry of color and form, although she spares us neither sounds nor smells, her story also is intolerably real. She can transport us eight centuries and several thousand miles more effectively than most writers can take us into the house next door. . . Sigrid Undset succeeds marvelously in projecting character in the round, with every fleeting shade added to make the elusive whole." A. B. Parsons
+ Nation 128:316 Mr 13 '29 580w
Reviewed by Vincent McHugh
N Y Evening Post p8m Ja 5 '29 850w

"Once Madame Undset has got past whatever recapitulation of the events chronicled in 'The Axe' is necessary, the story rises off the ground and becomes realism of the most dramatic sort." L: Kronenberger
+ N Y Times p9 Ja 6 '29 920w

"What Sigrid Undset does give you is the opportunity to participate in her great understanding, to watch and build with her the theme, working from the outside with materials that react upon the two characters—the husband, Olav, and the wife, Ingunn. She gives the double experience of participator and creator until you are more alive than before, revealed and yet mysterious, changed and heightened by this contact with honesty and understanding." Margery Latimer

+ N Y World p11m Mr 3 '29 580w

"For a good many months the critics have been trying to convince the public that this Norwegian writer is one of the most important novelists living, and now with the added glory that comes from the Nobel Prize award, there is a chance that her books will have the public recognition they deserve." Herschel Brickell

+ No Am 227:adv F '29 80w

"It is essentially the saga style brought up to date and modified to meet the interests of the age. It has the primary virtue of telling a story well and absorbingly, and it rings astoundingly true." P. D. Carleton

+ Sat R of Lit 5:878 Ap 13 '29 720w

"In Sigrid Undset's novels erudition is always surpassed by a superb power of creation. Her instinct fastens on artistic truth."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e F 24 '29 650w

"Fru Undset's art is leisurely and spacious; the remarkable illusion of actuality which she creates is based upon a multiplicity of accurately studied details of the domestic life of the period in which her scene is laid; one gets to know her characters and their surroundings by living, as it were, continuously with them. . . A word of praise should be accorded to A. G. Chater for the excellence of his translation."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p434 My 30 '29 450w

UNGER, HELLMUTH. White betrayal; tr. by Derick Wulff. 139p il $2 Brentano's

Greely, Adolphus Washington—Fiction 29-17922

"Mr. Unger has based this little book on the tragic fate of the Greely expedition. With Greely, twenty-four men went into camp at Cape Sabine. Seventeen died of starvation and one was shot for stealing provisions. Greely and six of his crew were near the end when the rescue ship arrived. Other deaths followed after the rescue. Today only two members of the expedition still live, the commander and Brigadier-General Brainard. Brainard was then a sergeant; he kept a diary, which has been published recently under the title, 'Outpost of the Lost.' "—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

"Shorn of its pseudo-romantic nonsense, this little volume tells in brief and vividly a true tale of tragedy and heroism for the type of reader who becomes exhausted if a book runs over 150 wide-margined pages. Other readers, less easily tired—if they are stout of heart and wish to know how this same tragedy looked to a man who barely lived through it, and saw others die—should turn to 'Outpost of the Lost.' " C. L. Skinner

— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p35 S 29 '29 450w

Nation 129:756 D 18 '29 170w

"Hellmuth Unger has woven the story of this actual expedition—the last of man's primitive and unaided efforts to conquer the polar regions—into a grim and terrible drama. His characterizations are incisive, his prose is strong and colorful."

+ N Y Times p6 D 22 '29 700w

"The tragedy of Greely's polar expedition in the '90's is here revived from the records by a man who has felt it with passion, and a haunting picture lodges in the mind. It is a brief but thrilling memorial, with no word wasted. The Arctic background is chiseled out with metallic phrases, and against it stand out touching figures. Putting the slang of 1926 in their mouths is a lapse in the translator's taste; otherwise nothing distracts the attention from the single impression intended."

+ — Sat R of Lit 6:348 N 2 '29 150w

UNRUH, FRITZ VON. Bonaparte; tr. from the German by Edwin Björkman. 163p $2 (7s 6d) Knopf

832 · Napoleon I, emperor of the French —Drama 28-23674

A drama in four acts based on the trial and execution of the Duc d'Enghien and Napoleon's ascent of the throne, in which the Duke, rather than Bonaparte, is the central figure.

---

Cleveland Open Shelf p28 F '29

Reviewed by Barrington Gates

+ — Nation and Ath 44:754 Mr 2 '29 300w

"In the original German and on the stage the play may have a certain violent effectiveness; the English version is no good at all."

— New Statesman 32:605 F 16 '29 300w

"Dramatic the piece undoubtedly is. But it is so crowded with personages, so crammed with episodes, encounters and heightened dialogue, as to be somewhat bewildering. It is extremely noisy; so much so that the reader feels rather stunned. Yet from all the uproar there emerges little—that is to say, little of theatrical moment."

— N Y Times p14 D 30 '28 320w

"Herr Fritz von Unruh has given us a figure who, one imagines, is more like a peevish old gentleman bordering on his second childhood than the youthful figure of the first Consul. It is claimed by the publisher that the figure of Bonaparte is 'vivid and convincing.' It is neither. The central and most arresting figure appears to be, not petulant First Consul, but rather the unfortunate Duc d'Enghien."

— Times [London] Lit Sup p221 Mr 21 '29 400w

UNTERMEYER, LOUIS. Moses. 390p $2.50 Harcourt

Moses—Fiction 28-21887

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Booklist 25:167 Ja '29

Reviewed by Vachel Lindsay

Christian Century 46:361 Mr 14 '29 1350w

"The reader who is seeking an interesting story may be warned that he will find many dull passages. The reader who wants to learn about Moses will probably prefer the Bible." L. W. B.

— Churchman 139:28 Ja 5 '29 50w

"A curiously muffled performance, as though there remained a thick wall between the intent of the novelist and the perception of the reader. The book has eloquence without being moving, and drama which fails to quicken the pulse. There is not a careless line in it from start to finish; one can but regret that the result is not commensurate with the high endeavour."

— + Dial 86:163 F '29 100w

Reviewed by W: Seagle

— Nation 128:85 Ja 16 '29 160w

" 'Moses' will please those who prefer American slang to the language of the Bible." V. Sackville-West

— Nation and Ath 44:620 F 2 '29 100w

"The reader wades on and on through laborious, meaningless, undramatic documentation; he finds the character of Moses forbidding, inhuman, unheroic, and unconvincing." W. F. Kohn

— New Repub 57:305 Ja 30 '29 140w

Pittsburgh Mo Bul 34:12 F '29

"Purely descriptive passages are often charming. Fussy American-English as spoken by Moses, Jethro, Aaron, and the rest, however, makes the pages intolerable." R. A. Taylor

— + Spec 142:170 F 2 '29 120w

UNTERMEYER, LOUIS—Continued

"All Mr. Untermeyer's paraphernalia of rationalistic explanation and up-to-date conversational diction renders an old story far less credible than it appears in the Bible."

— Times [London] Lit Sup p60 Ja 24 '29 570w

UPSON, WILLIAM HAZLETT. Alexander Botts, Earthworm tractors. 289p $2 Farrar & Rinehart

29-20014

The experiences of a natural-born salesman in disposing of Earthworm tractors, as told in a series of daily reports to the Company. Mr Botts, in spite of everything, makes sales, and pursues a love affair in much the same fashion, the details of which he also incorporates in his sales reports.

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 D 15 '29 160w

Boston Transcript p5 O 19 '29 320w

"While there is something of a sameness to these stories, each one has a plot of its own, and the collection never grows tiresome. It is with a feeling of real regret that the reader sees Mr. Botts give up salesmanship for love. But since he is a natural-born salesman (he admits it himself), perhaps he will not remain away from his beloved tractors for long. Much more of Mr. Botts would not be too much."

+ N Y Times p6 N 24 '29 500w

"These twelve amusing short narratives tell of the efforts—usually successful and always spectacular—of Alexander Botts to unload Earthworm Tractors on to an almost unwilling public."

Sat R of Lit 6:372 N 9 '29 350w

URQUHART, WILLIAM SPENCE. Vedânta and modern thought. (Religious quest of India) 256p $4.50 (12s 6d) Oxford

294.1 Vedanta. Philosophy, Modern

[29-9128]

"This book is one of a series on the religious quest of India and the author is a professor of philosophy in the University of Calcutta. Sankara is taken as the typical philosopher of the Vedanta school; but the author tends to think in the simpler terms of missionary thought."—Int J Ethics

"There is a veiled propaganda for Christianity of the simpler evangelical type in the whole treatment of the Vedanta." C. D. B.

Int J Ethics 39:507 Jl '29 150w

"This book is profound yet readable. In spite of misprints, it is worthy of the University Press from which it comes, and Indian readers will note with approval the increasing tendency amongst such writers as Dr. Urquhart to sit at the feet of Indian scholars. Of the books of which he has mostly availed himself, more than half are by Indian writers." Kenneth Saunders

+ Sat R of Lit 6:448 N 23 '29 1200w

Spec 142:174 F 2 '29 180w

"Particularly valuable is Dr. Urquhart's discussion of the connexion of these idealist philosophies, on the moral side with ethics and on the intellectual side with science."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p235 Mr 21 '29 150w

USAMAH IBN MURSHID (MU'AIYID AL-DAULAH) called IBN MUNKID. Autobiography of Ousâma; tr. with an introd. and notes by George Richard Potter. (Broadway medieval lib.) 301p $4 Harcourt [12s 6d Routledge]

B or 92 Syria—History. Crusades [29-11741]

A Syrian emir and friend of the Sultan who lived at the time of the crusades and travelled widely in Egypt, Syria and Palestine wrote in his old age these memories of his adventurous life as an Arab chieftain, and his encounters with the crusaders.

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Ag 18 '29 200w

"When it came to hunting, fishing and fowling, Ousama was the story teller supreme. His adventures in the open are vividly narrated, and pictures rise as clearly before the mind as if it were only yesterday that this prince of tale-tellers started forth with his falcons or his hounds for a day's sport, jolly and carefree, to enjoy life at its height."

+ Boston Transcript p4 Jl 27 '29 320w

"No matter where he was—traveling in Damascus and Cairo, or passing long years at his castle of Schaizar on the Orontes—the sweep of great events entirely escaped him and he was moved only by the picturesque particular. Perhaps it was better so, for as an historian he would quite certainly have proved very dull; but as a racy raconteur and commentator on the little known habits and customs of his time, he is a pure treasure." R. F. Dibble

+ Nation 129:226 Ag 28 '29 900w

New Statesman 33:supxiv My 4 '29 630w

"The story of Ousâma's life is full of interesting details of the customs and ideas of the time, both Mohammedan and Christian, given in the form of stories and anecdotes, with moral reflections interspersed, sometimes with unintentionally comic effect. Dr. Potter's excellent translation is from the French and there are useful short notes."

+ Sat R 147:541 Ap 20 '29 400w

"Professor Potter has given us a good translation, although there are a few blemishes. We congratulate him on a difficult piece of work, and the general editors on the selection of this charming old Arab's story, which illuminates a whole age and continent with its lively comment."

+ Spec 143:281 Ag 31 '29 1200w

"Page after page of disconnected anecdotes and reminiscences without chronological sequence become quite fascinating when one looks upon them as the red-letter days of a dear old gentleman's fading memories of his lusty youth and prime. As memoirs of war and sport Usama's autobiography is eminently readable. The historian also finds in it invaluable illustrations of life and manners."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p326 Ap 25 '29 1300w

USHER, ABBOTT PAYSON. History of mechanical inventions. 401p il $5 McGraw 609 Inventions—History. Machinery—History

29-10735

The author, who is associate professor of economics at Harvard University, follows the development of mechanical invention from the days of the Greeks to the present, with introductory chapters on the place of technology in economic history and on the nature of the process of mechanical invention.

"Unfortunately, Mr. Usher seems to have much in common with those dealers in antiques, all too common among textbook writers, who value knowledge the more highly for its age. . . Moreover there is no excuse at all for the psychological involutions of chapters one and two, which are enough to fend off almost any reader from an otherwise fascinating book." F: C. Dietz

— + Am Hist R 35:399 Ja '30 360w

Booklist 26:18 O '29

"Professor Usher's book condenses much information into small space. It is critical without being dogmatic. It promises to be easier reading for the engineer and industrial technologist than for the economist, except in the first two chapters."

+ Eng N 103:109 Jl 18 '29 230w

"A ten-page bibliography shows how extensive have been Mr. Usher's investigations into source material. Throughout the book there is constant proof of the author's wide learning and varied intellectual interests."

+ N Y Times p20 My 26 '29 450w

V

VACHELL, HORACE ANNESLEY. Leading man. 346p $2.50 Putnam [7s 6d Cassell]

29-3182

From boyhood Val Godden had been dramatizing himself—playing the part he thought was expected of one of the Godden line. His career in school, in love, on the stage, in the war, was one long, continued playing up to the expectation of others—being the hero when he felt the coward. He grew very tired of it and when illness offered the way out he would have taken it, but Nancy called him back to a rôle in which there was no pretense.

---

Booklist 25:288 Ap '29

"The seeming lack of harmony between the novelist and his theme results in a story which lacks the spark of vitality."

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 My 5 '29 180w

"The whole story is very amusing. There is a Val in all of us. Val came out a success. Why should not we? Val is delightful. As for ourselves—Val was happy at last. Why may not we be? Clever Mr. Vachell!" I. W. Lawrence

+ Boston Transcript p5 Mr 9 '29 1300w

Cleveland Open Shelf p79 My '29

"Mr. Vachell displays in these pages his usual skill and brightness, but he should contrive to discipline his italics."

+ — New Statesman 32:230 N 24 '28 150w

"One of the most competently done English novels, smoothly written, quiet despite its hero's adventures in the war, sufficiently interesting and pleasant to read, 'The Leading Man' is an agreeable if quite unexciting book."

+ N Y Times p30 Mr 24 '29 450w

N Y World p11m F 10 '29 200w

"The 'leading man' is a charming personality, although he often seems stupid and cannot interest more than mildly. It is better not to analyze him too carefully and so not risk impatience with an easy-flowing narrative which creates atmosphere with more skill than it does characters."

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:784 Mr 16 '29 230w

"Though Mr. Vachell has done better work, there is much vivacity and charm in this study of Valentine Godden."

+ Spec 141:896 D 8 '28 130w

VAHEY, JOHN GEORGE HASLETTE (VERNON LODER, pseud.). Between twelve and one. 304p $2 Morrow

29-17656

"In which the reader may cudgel his brain over a generous assortment of murder clews recovered from the fish pond, including weeds, tin cans, twigs, a grapnel and a quantity of roach spawn—they have to do with the fatal stabbing of Mr. Cupolis, a shady promoter, at his home at Tendon Mocket during a house party that never came off. If the reader will just be patient about the singular actions of Mr. Cupolis in the opening chapters he is in for some thrills in the way of a man hunt, crooked finance, modern science and true love." —Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

"A well-constructed story with human interest, action, and romance."

+ Bookm 70:xxxiv O '29 70w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 S 8 '29 110w

"An ingenious yarn, cleverly constructed so as to throw the reader off the track and to encourage him to pursue false clews and misleading suspicions." T. S. L.

+ Boston Transcript p2 S 4 '29 450w

"Most of the story drags rather tediously, and Cobham seems to the reader, as to the characters, a blunder, but in the end he proves himself a master."

— + Sat R of Lit 6:274 O 12 '29 170w

VAIL, JAMES GARRETT. Soluble silicates in industry. (Am. chemical soc. monograph) 443p il $9.50 Chemical catalog co.

666.1 Silicates. Soluble glass 28-29710

"Comprehensive, well-illustrated work on the constitution, chemistry, and manufacture of the various compounds, with special chapters on commercial forms and their properties, silicate cements, adhesives, sizes and coatings, deflocculation and detergency, gelatinous films and gels."—N Y New Tech Bks

---

"Mr. Vail has given a thorough, systematic and authoritative discussion of the history, constitution, properties, preparation and industrial utilization of the soluble silicates and their solutions. The thirteen hundred references attest a detailed study of the literature. Facts are stated with a clearness and positiveness derived from first-hand acquaintanceship." Grinnell Jones

+ Am Chem Soc J 51:644 F '29 250w

"The author of this monograph, who is chemical director of the Philadelphia Quartz Company, is evidently thoroughly familiar with his material, and he has produced a well-finished and widely useful book. The book contains much new information which has not been available either in reference books or in periodicals." R. B. Sosman

+ Ind & Eng Chem 21:193 F '29 280w

Reviewed by W. D. Bancroft

J Phys Chem 33:795 My '29 2500w

N Y New Tech Bks 13:50 O '28

Pratt p19 spring '29

VALENTINE, CYRIL HENRY. What do we mean by God? some studies in the objectivity of Christian experience. 248p $2 Macmillan [7s 6d S.P.C.K.]

231 God. Christian life. Religion 29-15726

A definition of the meaning of God must, in Mr Valentine's opinion, be so formulated that it will fit the demands of modern science and philosophy as well as religion. Therefore not religious tradition, but the whole history of human experience must be called upon if a proper definition of the idea of God is to be arrived at.

---

Boston Transcript p4 S 14 '28 380w

"The greatest contribution of the book is that it faces the facts; that it elevates religion to a place where it has intrinsic rights for the study of reality as a whole; in its response to personality as a whole, and that it evaluates religion in terms of responsive reality." W. P. Lemon

+ Christian Century 47:47 Ja 8 '30 950w

Reviewed by S. B. Meeser

Crozer Q 6:520 O '29 40w

Reviewed by H. W. Schneider

Nation 129:552 N 13 '29 650w

Reviewed by E. B. Chaffee

Outlook 153:154 S 25 '29 90w

"A meaty book that presupposes of its readers at least a rudimentary knowledge of the history of both philosophy and psychology and a working knowledge of theology. To such as have this background the book will prove of distinct interest and value. To the casual reader it will prove somewhat difficult." E. W. Robinson

+ Portland Evening News p15 S 24 '29 520w

"It is an able piece of argument, though marred, in point of form, by the monotony of its short sentences, and in point of content, like most 'Modernist' apologetic, by an apparent lack of real confidence in the case."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p632 Ag 15 '29 1150w

VALLAS, LEON. Theories of Claude Debussy, musicien français; tr. from the French by Maire O'Brien. 189p il $2.50 (6s 6d) Oxford

780 Music—Analysis, interpretation, appreciation. Debussy, Achille Claude 29-26883

"M. Vallas has carefully searched all Debussy's contributions to the Press, both articles and interviews, has extracted from them whatever he believes reveals some aspect of the musician's mind, and added a commentary of his own."—Times [London] Lit Sup

---

Booklist 26:61 N '29

"M. Vallas's book is useful because he gives not the articles themselves, but an exposition of the most important views and criticisms contained in them."

+ Nation and Ath 45:244 My 18 '29 100w

"These scraps, with a binding of comment and paraphrase by M. Vallas, are rather unpalatable. Debussy wrote articles which were strangely gay and exciting—some of them still are. Admittedly, they were the crotchets of personal opinion, but many of them could stand to-day. Few critics would find fault with his estimates of Rameau, Strauss, César Franck, Grieg, Berlioz. Three of these, it will be seen, are concerned with Frenchmen. His criticism of foreign music (except that of the Russians, which is not sufficiently stressed in M. Vallas's book) was for the most part hostile."

— + New Statesman 33:56 Ap 20 '29 1000w

Reviewed by Basil Maine

Spec 142:630 Ap 20 '29 280w

Times [London] Lit Sup p366 My 2 '29 80w

VALLE-INCLAN, RAMON DEL. Tyrant (Tirano Banderas); a novel of warm lands; [auth. tr. from the Spanish by Margarita Pavitt]. 295p $2.50 Holt

29-23493

A novel of decadent Spanish diplomacy and intrigue, the setting of which is the colony called Sante Fe de Tierra Fierme. The Tyrant is Don Santos Banderas, and his career is pursued thru a maze of revolutions and bizarre adventures to a befitting downfall.

---

" 'The Tyrant' is an intense, lively, at times macabre, narrative of the glory, cruelties and downfall of one of those petty tyrants who, now and then, blossom like bloody cactuses in Latin-America. Immersed in a contrapuntal atmosphere of sensuality, fatalism and superstition, live buffoons, ranchmen, prostitutes, diplomats and patriots." A. Flores

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p23 O 20 '29 980w

"This is a kaleidoscopic combination of patriotic, profane, noble and lewd emotions refracted through a Latin-American atmosphere, charged with decadent Spanish diplomacy, stagnant civilization and guerilla warfare."

Boston Transcript p5 N 27 '29 '200w

"The book is slyly satiric, Don Ramón's thrusts not sparing even the venerable diplomatic corps. . . In spite of the unevenness of the translation, the book is well worth reading for its revelation of the extreme complexity of Latin-American civilization, with the three racial elements, Indian, creole and negro, in psychological conflict."

+ N Y Times p7 D 22 '29 600w

"Only one other of Inclan's many books has been translated into English. To conclude 'The Tyrant' is to regret that more of this master's work is not available, for the flavor of such a mind is savory and vigorous and dominantly healthy. Although handling the most gross and revolting characters and conditions, Inclan never muddies by reflective comment the brilliant round of colors with which he works." Gustav Davidson

+ N Y World p11m D 8 '29 420w

VAN BUREN, MAUDE, and BEMIS, KATHARINE ISABEL, eds. Easter in modern story. 309p $2 Century

Easter. Short stories—Collections 29-6673

A collection of short stories either bearing directly on Easter day or at least expressing its spirit. Among the writers are Eugene Field, Florence Morse Kingsley, Margaret Prescott Montague, Basil King, Margaret Sangster, Henry Van Dyke, Anton Chekhov, Zona Gale, Harriet Prescott Spofford, and others.

---

Booklist 25:397 Jl '29

"All [of the stories] are interesting, though their value seems to lie in their topical significance rather than in their literary distinction."

Boston Transcript p2 Jl 3 '29 160w

Reviewed by Edwin Seaver

N Y Evening Post p11m Mr 23 '29 100w

Wis Lib Bul 25:325 O '29

VAN BUREN, MAUDE, and BEMIS, KATHARINE ISABEL, eds. Father in modern story. 336p $2.50 Century

Short stories—Collections. Fathers 29-18336

A companion volume to "Mother in modern story" (Book Review Digest, 1928). Contents: Father Mason retires, by B. S. Aldrich; Mr. Nobody, by Llewellyn Hughes; "Don't go to any trouble," by M. C. Banning; The paradise poacher, by W: H. Dean; Cap'n Quiller listens in, by Torrey Ford; Father and son, by Elias Tobenkin; Moth-mullein, by M. L. Cooper; Teddy saves the day, by Conrad Richter; His father's house, by Jay Gelzer; In chains, by E. S. Holding; Father's day, by C: Brackett; Little old Mr. Pirt, by C: Divine; Fathers, by Mary Singer; The father who didn't understand, by Priscilla Hovey; Ask any father, by W: D. Pelley; Pack horse, by Sophie Kerr.

---

Booklist 26:122 D '29

"The average of merit is high, and the book offers pleasant casual reading to a wide audience. The highwatermark of the book is Llewellyn Hughes's 'Mr. Nobody.' "

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 N 24 '29 100w

"For the family circle where reading aloud is not a lost art, nothing will provide a more enjoyable evening."

+ Boston Transcript p2 O 16 '29 120w

Reviewed by O. M. Fuller

N Y World p11m D 15 '29 50w

VANCE, RAY. Investment policies that pay. 291p $4 Forbes

332.6 Investments. Stocks 29-8429

Written by the former president of the Brookmire economics service, the book is the outcome of long experience as an investment counselor. He discusses such matters as settling upon the best investment policy, the advisability of buying common stocks, speculating and buying on a margin, and what attention should be given to investments when made.

---

Boston Transcript p3 S 14 '29 300w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 79:16 My '29 70w

St Louis 27:305 N '29

VANCE, RUPERT BAYLES. Human factors in cotton culture; a study in the social geography of the American South. (Univ. of N.C. social study ser.) 346p $3 Univ. of N.C. press

338.1 Cotton growing and manufacture. South—Economic conditions. South—Social conditions 29-18385

A new volume in the Social study series published by the University of North Carolina. This book is a study of the cotton region, the evolution of the cotton system, a survey of the economics of cultivation and marketing, and an account of the cotton-grower, individual and communal.

---

"This volume represents an interesting attempt to apply the culture-area concept of the social anthropologists as a tool of research in a regional study of contemporary civilization. . . The author chooses the cotton plant for purely methodological reasons as a convenient center about which to orient his study of cultural factors associated with it, but he is fully cognizant of the importance of other factors, such as tradition, invention, fashion, etc." H. E. Jensen

+ Christian Century 46:1280 O 16 '29 600w

"Mr. Vance has done in the book a scholarly and very admirable piece of work. He has written his book out of his own observation and his wide study of the works of others. The ample documentation and the sixteen-page bibliography, including books, periodicals, bulletins, reports, pamphlets, show how extensive have been his investigations."

+ N Y Times p13 O 20 '29 330w

VAN CLEEF, EUGENE. Finland—the republic farthest north; the response of Finnish life to its geographic environment, 220p il $2.50 Ohio state univ. press

914.71 Finland

"This contribution in 'anthropogeography,' somewhat like some of Huntington's, is designed to trace the influence of natural environment upon racial character. There are interesting chapters on the land, climate, racial ancestry, agriculture, forests, industries, etc. Even the literature, music and art of the Finns are discussed; and a final chapter deals with the Finns in America, showing how, when they came here, they chose regions which presented a physical similarity to the home country, particularly the Lake Superior District, the Puget Sound Region, and New England, preferring such regions to others with far better soil and climate."—Am Econ R

"Certainly there is much interesting material in this little book regarding the extraordinary progress of the republic of Finland, and regarding the stalwart qualities of the Finnish people." J: Ise

+ Am Econ R 19:668 D '29 300w

Am Pol Sci R 23:1062 N '29 150w

"This new book about Finland is not the usual tourist rhapsody over a journey its author has enjoyed. It is written in the scientific spirit and by the scientific method. . . And the narrative is interesting and readable. In addition to the illustrations there are numerous charts and maps. The book is a worthwhile contribution to the recently born science of anthropogeography."

+ N Y Times p11 Jl 21 '29 400w

VAN CLEEF, EUGENE. Story of the weather. 274p il $2.50 Century

551.5 Meteorology. Weather 29-19611

A clear and simple account of weather and how to forecast it, written for the layman. Scientific knowledge about atmospheric conditions, clouds, winds and the four seasons, and an explanation of weather forecasting, are given practical importance in concluding chapters on the weather and business and the weather and our homes.

Booklist 26:107 D '29

Nation 129:782 D 25 '29 20w

"Mr. Van Cleef develops his theme simply and engagingly, with a touch of humor now and then. His book is intended solely for popular reading and ought to find much favor among those who know little but desire to learn more about the scientific bases and aspects of the weather."

+ N Y Times p22 S 29 '29 350w

"Perhaps the parts of the book which will hold the interest of casual readers are the chapters on Weather and Business and the Weather and our Homes. Here we are let into the secrets of bad cooking, consequent on weather conditions. The book is well printed, unusually free from misprints, and the illustrations, while for the most part restricted in size, are well brought out. Some of the illustrations do not seem to be properly credited. It would be well, too, in future editions to extend the selected list of publications on the Weather." Alexander McAdie

+ — Sat R of Lit 6:313 O 26 '29 850w

VANDERBILT, CORNELIUS. Reno. 251p $2 Macaulay

29-4639

A like purpose finds both Dick Belden and Felicia Brett at Reno. The wild parties, the adulteries, the blackmailings and the kidnappings reputed to be all a part of the life of the divorce colony at Reno, appear in this novel. Dick and Felicia, after a number of difficulties, obtain their respective divorces, and, having fallen in love with each other, are free to try marriage again.

"In this somewhat lurid tale Mr. Vanderbilt has by no means escaped certain faults generally associated with first novels. Indeed, he has fallen into error elsewhere as well, though his story of marriage, divorce and miscellaneous will serve its purpose as a sort of Baedeker and time-killer combined. Critical readers are likely to be rather annoyed at the curious lack of nuance in the ideas and emotions put forward."

— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p21 Ap 21 '29 200w

"No new trails are blazed by this would-be sensational account of the divorce situation in Reno. The whole thing is rather unpleasant. Perhaps if the author had given an earnest description of the colony as he saw it, with the added value of a well-known name, he might have arrested brief attention, but this attempt at a plot woven into the three months' residence necessary for dissolution of the bonds has a tabloid atmosphere about it."

— Boston Transcript p2 Je 19 '29 150w

"There is a distinct air of socially superior sophistication about it all, and something that may be described as modern frankness."

Springf'd Republican p7e O 13 '29 130w

VANDERBILT, HAROLD STIRLING. Contract bridge; bidding and the club convention. 251p il $2.50 Scribner

795.41 Contract bridge 29-16027

Presents an original analysis of the club convention and illustrates possibilities in both game and slam bidding. Explains the differences between contract and auction bidding, and emphasizes that in contract a knowledge of the score is indispensable.

Boston Transcript p3 Ag 31 '29 400w

Wis Lib Bul 25:320 O '29

VAN DEUSEN, JOHN GEORGE. Economic bases of disunion in South Carolina. (Studies in history, economics, and public law) 360p $6 Columbia univ. press [24s King]

330.9756 South Carolina—Economic conditions. United States—Politics and government. Tariff—United States. United States—History—Civil war—Causes. South Carolina—Politics and government 28-23520

"This volume is a study of disunion sentiment in South Carolina as influenced by economic conditions. The study is based on original documentary material. The treatment of the material is topical rather than chronological."—Am J Soc

"A vast amount of information has been gleaned from contemporary newspapers and leading periodicals which reflect the diversity of ideas in various sections of the state. From federal documents is derived a better understanding of South Carolina's case against the Union; but state documents seem strangely to have been overlooked, although they generally contain valuable raw material for the economic historian. And, while official documents, such as the governor's messages, are frequently quoted from the newspapers, one would prefer citations from the originals. . . The arrangement of the material as a whole and the logical progression from chapter to chapter give added emphasis to the thesis, and the narrative is very readable." L. J. Cappon

VAN DEUSEN, J: G:—Continued
+ — Am Hist R 34:614 Ap '29 830w

"It is a systematic and competent piece of historical research done in the modern manner. It is well documented and provided with an adequate index." E. B. Reuter
+ Am J Soc 34:754 Ja '29 50w

"Dr. Van Deusen has produced a valuable study, better balanced than most books of the kind, and even at times informed with a discreet humour."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p298 Ap 11 '29 300w

VAN DINE, S. S., pseud. Bishop murder case. (Philo Vance ser.) 349p $2 Scribner
29-6345

The facetious murderer in the case calls himself the Bishop. After each of his murders it is his pleasant habit to suggest a false clue in a nursery rhyme till Philo Vance puts a stop to it.

Bookm 69:xxvi Ap '29 50w

"A thriller well worth reading for its solid virtues of lucidity, suspense, legitimate mystery and miscellaneous entertainment." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 F 24 '29 200w

"Intellectually and emotionally exciting as is the unraveling of the Bishop murders, Mr. Van Dine documents the factors in a style whose lucidity, ease and explicitness have a fascination of their own. Once more has he triumphed." W. S. B.
+ Boston Transcript p2 Mr 6 '29 650w

Reviewed by Raymond Mortimer
Nation and Ath 45:114 Ap 27 '29 50w

"In spite of his rather pretentious culture and occasionally pompous psychologizing, Mr. Van Dine has constructed an intricate mental enigma that deserves great praises." Edgar Johnson
+ N Y Evening Post p11m Mr 2 '29 900w

"Van Dine has a background of criminology and an ability to write coherent English. He also has the knack of keeping suspicion away from the guilty person until the final climax. These are reasons why we welcome each new book by Mr. Van Dine, yet emerge therefrom to find our morbid desire unappeased and the megalocephalic and polysyllabic Philo still his flagrantly cultured, self-esteeming self." F: F. Van de Water
+ — N Y Evening Post p10m Mr 16 '29 180w

"An almost perfect detective story." I: Anderson
+ N Y Times p9 F 24 '29 750w

"A performance of such brilliance as bids fair to rank as the best mystery novel of the year. . . Van Dine writes detective fiction of a brand no author has rivaled since Holmes went to his reward."
+ N Y World p11m Mr 31 '29 260w

Reviewed by Herschel Brickell
No Am 227:adv Ap '29 120w

"We have never been as enthusiastic a Van Dineite as some, and the present example induces no change of mood. Philo Vance is to us a long-winded, pedantic bore, and we do not believe that the New York Police are as long suffering as their deference to him would indicate." W. R. Brooks
— Outlook 151:351 F 27 '29 220w

Pratt p38 spring '29

"The story is highly ingenious, and Mr. Van Dine, who writes with his usual gusto and humour, excels in giving the illusion of reality to the most far-fetched situations."
+ Spec 142:793 My 18 '29 60w

Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 3 '29 320w

"Mr. Van Dine makes a fine and well-sustained mystery out of it all; a strange medley of archery, nursery rhymes, games of chess, poison, bloodshed, mathematical arguments, medical terms, astronomy, and cleverly contrived murders, the whole annotated with careful references worthy of a scientific treatise."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p365 My 2 '29 220w

Wis Lib Bul 25:103 Mr '29

VANDIVEER, CLARENCE A. Fur-trade and early western exploration. 316p $6 Clark, A.H.
971.2 Fur trade. Northwest, Canadian—Discovery and exploration. West—Discovery and exploration 29-7510

"Chapters I. to XXIV. are concerned largely with the trading and exploring activities of individuals, ranging from Champlain to Kit Carson. There is some reference in passing, however, to the operations of the Hudson's Bay, Northwest, and American Fur Companies. The last four chapters, which are among the most interesting of all, describe the lives and methods of the traders in general. Mr. Vandiveer's thesis is that the early traders and trappers have not received the credit which is due them as explorers, and that in many cases the reward of fame has gone to those who followed them, whose deeds have been systematically exploited by the historians."—Am Hist R

"Mr. Vandiveer writes interestingly and the book is well worth reading. Its value to the historian of specialized interests is distinctly limited, however. There is no bibliography and only occasionally are the writer's sources mentioned in the text itself, though it is apparent that he has used the conventional secondary accounts, such as those of Parkman and Irving, together with the published original narratives of the traders and explorers themselves. While the author's style is easy, it is uneven, and is in some cases marred by elementary mistakes in grammar. In these respects, the volume is decidedly below the usually high editorial standards represented by its publishers. Though there are several fine illustrations, not a single map appears. The economic basis of the fur trade, which the reviewer believes to be fundamental, no matter what aspect of the subject is being considered, is almost wholly passed over." W. E. Stevens
— + Am Hist R 35:173 O '29 600w

Booklist 26:25 O '29

Boston Transcript p2 S 18 '29 220w

"There is little evidence that the author has grasped the general lines of development of the fur-trade, and the numerous errors, misspellings, and lack of precise information as to dates, places, and sources of information, show that the author has not leaned too heavily even on the best authorities. . . As a popular work it does cover the field in a broad way, but the historian will find it disappointing." H. A. Innis
— Canadian Hist R 10:165 Je '29 400w

Christian Century 46:967 Jl 31 '29 170w

"A sober, reliable and readable account." F. H. M.
+ N Y Evening Post p9m My 18 '29 70w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 79:16 Je '29 160w

VAN DOREN, DOROTHY (GRAFFE) (MRS MARK VAN DOREN), ed. Lost art; letters of seven famous women. 346p $3 Coward-McCann
826 English letters 29-2952

From seven famous women letter-writers, Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, Abigail Adams, Mary Wollstonecraft, Jane Austen, Jane Welsh Carlyle, Margaret Fuller and Charlotte Brontë, Mrs Van Doren has chosen a group of letters, especially representative and self-revealing, prefacing each group with a sketch of the writer.

Booklist 25:278 Ap '29

"By choosing sharply a very small number of letters Mrs. Van Doren has managed to plot each life clearly over a long stretch of time. . . In these letters the women who wrote them manage to capture their own essences; it makes an impressive showing of grand human qualities. They deserve to be remembered, to be praised." K. A. Porter
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 Mr 3 '29 1550w

"So cleverly has Mrs. Van Doren selected and edited these groups of letters, that to our mind they give more characteristic portraits of their writers and the eras in which they lived than some of the many carefully considered volumes that have been written about all of them." F. B.
+ Boston Transcript p3 Mr 9 '29 750w

Reviewed by Edna Kenton
Nation 128:sup484 Ap 17 '29 800w

"Throughout the book the editor shows that she has studied the correspondence carefully and with alert analysis of it and its implications and of the attendant circumstances. She has made of it a set of self-revealing and most interesting portraits."
+ N Y Times p20 F 10 '29 440w
Outlook 151:556 Ap 3 '29 60w
St Louis 27:310 N '29
Sat R of Lit 5:783 Mr 16 '29 450w

VAN DOREN, MARK. Now the sky, & other poems. 113p $2 Boni
811 28-23676

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

"Now the Sky reveals the same qualities of simplicity and restraint to be found in the poet's previous books, a simplicity and restraint that are not negative and imposed from the outside but deliberately fostered as most adequate to the chosen themes."
+ Bookm 68:xii Ja '29 100w

"Mr. Van Doren gives fresh evidence in these poems of a tender and responsive nature. If sometimes his originality appears a little forced there is compensation in the happy glimpses one receives of the countryside as seen in Connecticut. Mr Van Doren's subtlety is also not to be questioned."
+ Dial 86:346 Ap '29 50w

"It is one of the half-dozen really distinguished books of poetry that have appeared in America in the last ten years." Allen Tate
+ Nation 127:691 D 19 '28 960w

"The volume exhibits the directness, the shrewdness of its predecessors, has, if anything, a sharper thrust, and angularity less carefully beveled. And yet the technique is inferior to much of Mr. Van Doren's earlier work. He is so deeply concerned with what he has to say that he is a bit jerky in saying it, and his elliptical terseness is that of one working under the stress of an emotion too fierce to find perfect expression." Babette Deutsch
+ — New Repub 58:51 F 27 '29 620w

" 'We Come Too Late' seems to me an extraordinarily good combination of nature and narrative poetry. It is a long poem, but not too long for its interest. And it more than justifies the book. The other poems do not seem to me to be as distinguished. At their best they are thought provoking with a vivid descriptive touch, and an ability to catch an elusive mood. Sometimes the mood is too elusive, is not caught." Margery Mansfield
+ — N Y World p11m D 30 '28 240w

Reviewed by Archibald MacLeish
Sat R of Lit 5:901 Ap 20 '29 500w

VAN DOREN, MARK, ed. Anthology of world poetry; in English trs. by Chaucer, Swinburne, Dowson, Symons, Rossetti, Waley, Herrick, Pope, Francis Thompson, E. A. Robinson and others. 1318p $5 Boni
808.8 Poetry—Collections 29-26038

"An honest attempt to select the best of the available English translations from some fifteen ancient and modern languages and arrange them in chronological sequence from the Thirty-fifth Century B.C. to the Twentieth Century A.D. Over four hundred poets are represented by more than thirteen hundred poems. The book is well printed on thin paper, and 274 of its pages are devoted to English and American poetry, all of it good—better of course, than the translations."—Nation

Booklist 25:204 F '29

"A new and invaluable achievement in anthology-making."
Bookm 68:xiii Ja '29 40w

"From details of disagreement one comes back gladly to fundamentals—the splendid conception of the book, the wide reading back of it, the scholarship shown in text and arrangement and selection, the excellent apparatus of contents and indices, the sense throughout for living poetry." F. E. Hill
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 D 16 '28 1300w

"It presents, more adequately than any other single volume, the product of the spirit of lyric poetry throughout the ages and throughout the world. Long poems, epics and dramas, are necessarily omitted, and whatever is given is given in its entirety."
+ Christian Century 46:204 F 7 '29 250w
Cleveland Open Shelf p54 Ap '29
+ — Dial 86:345 Ap '29 180w

Reviewed by James Rorty
Nation 128:197 F 13 '29 1250w
Nation and Ath 46:118 O 19 '29 130w

"If all poets attempting an anthology of this order entered upon their task with a learning and love for their art and for the deep centuries that have evolved it such as Mark Van Doren has shown, layman and poet alike would be better educated. Van Doren's greatest triumph lies in his selections from the Chinese, Japanese, Sanskrit, Arabian, Egyptian, Greek and English. Here he has indeed found 'everlastings.' " Laura Benet
+ N Y Evening Post p11m D 8 '28 650w

"This is a book long needed, which reflects great credit upon its editor and its publishers. There can be no doubt that Mr. Van Doren's volume will make for itself a secure place among the few anthologies which really matter." J. D. A.
+ N Y Times p10 D 16 '28 1050w

"A fine addition to the available general anthologies of verse. The selections cover the field about as well as any one has the right to expect." Herschel Brickell
+ No Am 227:adv Mr '29 60w
Outlook 150:373 D 19 '28 120w
Pratt p25 summer '29
St Louis 27:55 F '29

"The volume has weightier claims to attention than its illustration of the art of translation, for it does present a very large body of fine poems, and, in spite of some necessary gaps and disproportions, it does give a fair cross-section of the poetry of the world." A. R. Bellinger
+ Sat R of Lit 5:723 Mr 2 '29 1320w

"You should rush through this anthology for the panorama and then keep it near to finger again certain jewels at many a dusk or many a late hour when desire for beauty keeps you restless. It will make you a cosmopolite of poetry for it is rich with rare poems from literatures most of us do not frequent, Irish, Russian, Arabic, Persian, Chinese, Scandinavian. . . This is an anthology of the lyric note, poets' poetry. Not all the organ-stops of poetry are loosed. But perfection in anthologies is illusion; this is nigh perfect for lyrics." Leon Whipple
+ Survey 62:496 Ag 1 '29 1200w

VAN DRUTEN, JOHN. Young Woodley. 301p $2 Day [7s 6d Putnam]
29-9989

A novel from the play of the same name. Young Woodley is an English schoolboy of poetic, sensitive nature, grappling with the perplexities of sex and life. His friend Ainger gives only an indirect answer to his questions, his enemy Vining only an obscene one. With the housemaster Woodley is utterly out of sympathy, but for his young wife the boy conceives a tender romantic love that brings to a focus all his troubling doubts and wistful dreams. It is the crisis and the end of his adolescence, and of his life at school.

VAN DRUTEN, JOHN—Continued

Booklist 25:397 Jl '29

"The picture is too black to be thoroughly convincing, and the reader is wearied by sentences that suggest a movie director trying to explain a state of mind to an unimaginative actor." Norah Meade

— + Bookm 69:430 Je '29 340w

"The amplification which the story undergoes makes it more convincing; Laura's character is deepened, and her relationship to young Woodley, being of slower growth, is more natural, while the main action and the high dramatic moments remain unchanged." Frank Streight

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 My 19 '29 880w

Boston Transcript p2 Je 12 '29 380w

"Good as it was as a play, it is vastly better as a novel. That it should be even better as a novel is perhaps inherent in the nature of its theme. For its chief merit is the extraordinary delicacy of its treatment of the ever-recurring and yet ever-fresh phenomenon of what is vulgarly and so inadequately described as 'calf-love.'"

+ New Statesman 32:740 Mr 16 '29 270w

"If the story gains somewhat in richness of analysis and thoroughness of understanding, it must be admitted that compensatingly it loses in pathos and intensity." E. J.

N Y Evening Post p7m Je 15 '29 270w

N Y Times p16 Ap 21 '29 520w

"A superb study of anguished adolescence—a barrack-room lyric of the prison house which closes upon the growing English boy. Those who saw and appreciated the play may be disappointed by some of the scenes in their new livery of print, but they will have compensating benefits."

+ Sat R 147:258 F 23 '29 200w

"The novel is well written. Its subject, even in its repulsive crudities, is treated firmly and unflinchingly, yet with delicacy and restraint. 'Young Woodley' is marked especially by kindly and tolerant sympathetic understanding, which make of it a beautiful book on an ugly problem." H. K.

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Jl 7 '29 800w

"Mr. John van Druten's version in novel form of his play is very interesting. The judgment of a reader who had not seen the play might be different from that of one who had, but both would agree that this is a genuine novel. The dialogue which was so effective on the stage is equally effective here, and the descriptive passages which have to take the place of direct representation are well written and well managed."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p138 F 21 '29 500w

"It is not the usual 'novelized' version of a play, but a novel that must be accepted on its own. It is not too much to say that it ranks with Francis Brett Young's 'The Young Physician' as a study of English youth."

+ World Tomorrow 12:284 Je '29 60w

VAN DYKE, HENRY. Man behind the book: essays in understanding. 357p il $2.50 Scribner

814 English literature—History and criticism. American literature—History and criticism 29-21279

A volume of smoothly written literary essays conservative in tone and frankly critical of modern matters. Among the writers whom the author discusses are Chaucer, Meredith, Whitman, Byron, Hardy, Thornton Wilder and Willa Cather.

"Many changes have come upon the world since Dr. van Dyke wrote 'Fisherman's Luck' and 'The Ruling Passion,' but the form in which those friendly volumes made their appearance has remained constant. One is pleased to find it so and to welcome another volume in the familiar dress, with its agreeably spaced type and its faintly amber pages."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 D 22 '29 200w

"Upon all the sundry writers brought within the sphere of his study Dr. van Dyke casts the shining light of his genial wit, his good-humored evaluation and essentially refined taste. And over all he has cast the fascination and good sense of sensitive discrimination."

+ Boston Transcript p3 D 14 '29 220w

Christian Century 46:1314 O 23 '29 60w

"In 'The Man Behind the Book' the sage of Avalon writes wisely, wittily, but not always amiably. Occasionally, when dealing with modern men and matters, he is frankly belligerent. There is the spice of battle in his sharp appraisals, in his acidly polite condemnation. Even when he deals with literary reputations long established, his estimates are likely to stir controversy." A. B. Maurice

N Y Evening Post p7m S 28 '29 600w

"Mr. Van Dyke, although he does not always hew closely to the line of his title, aims to reveal the writer in the writing. He is at his most interesting when his tastes are offended by what he calls the Damitall School. Whereas the appreciative essay on Chaucer is rather unprofitable, not to say stale, the discussion of Masters is spiced with warm hatred." R. G. Berkelman

Portland Evening News p8 O 22 '29 400w

Springf'd Republican p8 N 28 '29 600w

VAN DYKE, JOHN CHARLES. In Java, and the neighboring islands of the Dutch East Indies. 310p $2.50 Scribner

919.22 Dutch East Indies—Description and travel. Java—Description and travel 29-8124

Short sketches of the scenery, native life and character of Java and the neighboring islands of the Dutch East Indies.

Booklist 25:318 My '29

Reviewed by A. B. Maurice

Bookm 69:xxii Ap '29 280w

"A book of more than ordinary insight and feeling. Mr. Van Dyke has written an animated and fascinating travel narrative, for he has sought to impart truth rather than facts."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Mr 31 '29 160w

"The brief studies are like a series of Pennell sketches, reproducing, however small the compass, spirit as well as form."

+ Boston Transcript p7 Mr 16 '29 330w

Cleveland Open Shelf p94 Je '29

"A series of very brief, and frequently very vivid impressionistic sketches of Java and the neighboring islands of the Dutch East Indies. It would be a stimulating book for travelers to those parts. And any lover of the picturesque and strange will enjoy it."

+ Outlook 151:270 F 13 '29 50w

Pratt p31 summer '29

Sat R of Lit 5:716 F 23 '29 50w

Springf'd Republican p10 Ap 11 '29 400w

Times [London] Lit Sup p279 Ap 4 '29 270w

Wis Lib Bul 25:194 Je '29

VAN DYKE, PAUL. Story of France from Julius Caesar to Napoleon III. 539p $3.50 (12s 6d) Scribner

944 France—History 28-24393

"This book is for those readers who may want a sketch of French history which is neither a summary crammed with names and dates, nor a vague record of the writer's reactions to facts his reader is not told, but rather a suggestion, as definite as brevity permits, of what France has suffered, gained and done in 2,000 years."—Preface

Booklist 25:206 F '29

"One of the most interesting features of the book are its extensive discussions of the literary monuments of France. The older period, especially, is handled with great fullness, which extends even to the detailed retelling of the story of the 'Song of Roland' and of 'Aucassin and Nicolette.'" R. T. House
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Ja 27 '29 480w

"As a comprehensive history of France for the layman, this is an especially fine work; it is easily read and just as easily assimilated." H. F. M.
+ Boston Transcript p1 D 15 '28 250w

"Professor Van Dyke has a fluent and clear narrative style. . . But the flowing ease of the narrative is achieved at some cost of critical subtlety. Again, although he has plenty of space, he is apt to be hurried: it is odd, for example, to find not even a mention of the Empress Eugénie when dealing with the career of Napoleon III."
+ — New Statesman 32:478 Ja 19 '29 180w

"Readers of Dr. Van Dyke's splendid Catherine de Medici will naturally not find here the massed detail of that book. But they will find the same scholarship without pedantry, the same careful presentation of fact, the same unprejudiced judgment and the same thorough readability."
+ Outlook 150:1373 D 19 '28 90w

Pratt p30 spring '29

"Mr. van Dyke has attempted to compress into some 500 pages the history of France from Julius Cæsar to the Third Republic. The difficulty of such an undertaking is to work it out to scale. Mr. van Dyke has been reasonably successful. It is a conscientious piece of guide-work."
+ Sat R 146:689 N 24 '28 200w

"The book is pleasantly readable and, allowing for the pro-French point of view, makes a useful popularization on history."
+ Springf'd Republican p10 My 22 '29 420w

Times [London] Lit Sup p610 Ag 1 '29 200w

VAN EVERY, EDWARD. Muldoon, the solid man of sport; his amazing story as related for the first time by him to his friend; with a foreword by Jack Dempsey. 364p il $3 Stokes

B or 92 Muldoon, William 29-19300

The life of William Muldoon embraces the history of sport for the past fifty years. "The father of American boxing," Muldoon began his own career as a wrestler, and became champion of the Graeco-Roman style. This career took him behind the footlights as an actor in Shakespearean and other drama. But as a trainer of famous American boxers he is best known. John L. Sullivan, William Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Dempsey and Tunney owe much to the work of Muldoon. At "Olympia," his famous hygienic institute and gymnasium in Westchester county, many famous people have been trained to physical fitness.

Boston Transcript p2 O 2 '29 520w

Reviewed by J. T. Gerould
Current Hist 31:829 Ja '30 30w

"As a spotlight on the sporting world the book is an interesting document. . . The book moves along at a lively pace. The chapter dealing with Muldoon's career as a policeman in New York in the seventies gives a convincing and fascinating picture of the 'gaslight' days. A wealth of material has been gathered by Mr. Van Every and anecdotes concerning practically all the big sporting figures of the past fifty years are recounted." G: Joel
+ N Y World p11m O 6 '29 370w

"Van Every, a veteran writer on sports, has done a good job in this biography. His material is well selected, and he has presented it with the same clarity and directness that characterize his writings on the sport pages of the Evening World." Jim Tully
+ Sat R of Lit 6:620 Ja 4 '30 720w

VAN HOESEN, HENRY BARTLETT, and WALTER, FRANK KELLER. Bibliography, practical, enumerative, historical; an introductory manual. 519p $7.50 (27s 6d) Scribner

010 Bibliography. Reference books—Bibliography. Library science 28-17678

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

"The book comes more nearly putting between its two covers a bird's-eye-view of the methods and materials of the expert reference librarian than any other in the English language." C. C. Williamson
+ Am Econ R 19:335 Je '29 450w

"The preparation and proof-reading have been so careful that the reviewer has found only one error in quoting a title. The chief adverse criticism, if it be such, is that there is too much in the book. It is really one pamphlet and two distinct books. The pamphlet is the chapter on Practical Bibliography. Enumerative Bibliography is the first book included in the pages. It is a subject by itself and the most distinctive contribution in this work. Historical Bibliography is the other book, and gives the most up-to-date summary of the subject." A: H. Shearer
+ Am Hist R 34:376 Ja '29 400w

"The value of the volume to a student of political science does not lie in its ready-made list of titles, but in the acquaintance it should give with the different types of bibliographies and sources of bibliographical information from which the student who knows how to use them can bring together the literature of any subject in which he may be interested. Much of the matter included in the volume will have but slight interest for the student of the social sciences, or for that matter for the specialist in any other subject." C. C. Williamson
Pol Sci Q 44:124 Mr '29 700w

Pratt p6 winter '29

VANITY FAIR. Short stories from Vanity fair, 1926-1927; with a foreword by Frank Crowninshield. 410p $2.50 Liveright

Short stories—Collections 28-29962

A collection of short stories which appeared in Vanity fair in 1926 and 1927. The following authors are represented: Sherwood Anderson; R. C. Benchley; Thomas Burke; Colette; Michel Corday; Henri Duvernois; Rube Goldberg; M. V. Griffith; Leslie Howard; Eugene Heltai; Faraday Keene; Geoffrey Kerr; André Maurois; Ferenc Molnár; Paul Morand; M. C. Morgan; Arthur Schnitzler; Jim Tully.

"Not one of these 'short short-stories'—except those by Sherwood Anderson—deserves inclusion between book covers."
— Nation 128:140 Ja 30 '29 90w

"This volume is wide in scope and unencumbered with dead-wood."
+ N Y Times p12 D 30 '28 780w

Springf'd Republican p5e Je 2 '29 330w

VAN LOON, HENDRIK WILLEM. Man, the miracle maker (Eng title Multiplex man; or, The story of survival through invention). 252p il $3.50 Liveright [10s 6d J. Cape]

609 Inventions. Civilization—History 28-29439

This amplification of the story of mankind follows the direction of human inventiveness and shows how from earliest times man has sought and found means of mechanically augmenting the limited powers of his body. The story and the suggestive line drawings—some of which are in color—have philosophic implications.

VAN LOON, H. W.—Continued

"Mr. Van Loon partitions his volume according to man's anatomical equipment—skin, hand, foot, mouth, ear and eye and nose. He presents, in the proper place, those inventions which have to do with man's habitation (from skin to sky-scraper); with the simplification of man's manual tasks (from hand to many hands to machines); with man's annihilation of space (from foot to flying-machine). He writes about the development of communication from gestures to broadcasting; he recounts the aids to the eye in its task to see all. It is simply done, but it will interest readers of all ages."

+ Bookm 69:xviii Ap '29 120w

"It is no mere catalogue, but a well knit narrative, full of humor and seriousness. It is a successful combination of information, illustration and sound social philosophizing." H. M. Parshley

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 Ja 27 '29 1000w

Boston Transcript p3 D 12 '28 1000w

"Racy and adroit. The author's style, like his drawings, has an unstudied spontaneity which robs aeons and atoms of their scientific reserve, and reduces planets to playgrounds. And he has the art of telling a big story in 'sentences of not more than fifty words each.'"

+ Dial 86:439 My '29 100w

Eng N 103:109 Jl 18 '29 280w

"The reader of this book—man or boy—will have had the experience of walking up to the stern mass of historical fact and deliberately not regarding it with palsied reverence but rather with the fascination of naive innocence. He will have learned that there is fun to be had in history and that the facts accumulated by the human race aren't necessarily obliged to fit into the pattern provided for them by various old gentlemen." Harris Russell

+ N Y Evening Post p8m Ja 5 '29 450w

N Y New Tech Bks 14:9 Ja '29

"This book is as entertaining as anything Mr. Van Loon has done. . . His achievement is to demonstrate that profound thought can be made intelligible and interesting He has shown that, in addition to being often tragic and shocking, the human race is also amusing, and that it may be fun to be a man if one does not take himself too seriously."

+ N Y Times p5 My 5 '29 800w

Reviewed by Herschel Brickell

No Am 227:adv F '29 20w

"It is a clever method of presentation, and one that will hold the attention of grown-ups as well as children. Moreover, the author's illustrations, of which there are nearly two hundred, are so simple and direct that they point up the text and considerably heighten the interest. They don't simply illustrate; they supplement the exposition." W. R. Brooks

Outlook 150:1418 D 26 '28 120w

Pratt p14 summer '29

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

+ R of Rs 79:30 F '29 70w

Reviewed by F. M. Brown

Sat R of Lit 5:724 Mr 2 '29 780w

"His thesis is not so novel and revolutionary as he considers. None the less he has written a bright and engaging book."

+ — Spec 142:136 Ja 26 '29 100w

Springf'd Republican p7e F 3 '29 120w

Times [London] Lit Sup p967 D 6 '28 100w

+ World Tomorrow 12:186 Ap '29 30w

VAN TYNE, CLAUDE HALSTEAD. War of independence; American phase. (Founding of the Am. republic) 518p $5 Houghton

973.3 United States—History—Revolution

29-23482

The second volume of Professor Van Tyne's history of the foundation of the American republic, the first volume, "Causes of the War of independence," having appeared in 1921. Professor Van Tyne's access to important documents and papers giving the official British angle on the war, housed in the William L. Clement library of the University of Michigan, furnishes him with the source for the present history, which carries the War of independence up to Saratoga and the French treaty.

"The author, with the courage that has marked him out as a sincere historian, tries his best to hold the scales evenly in bringing out from authentic sources evidences of the strength and weakness, the wisdom and folly, the loftiness and the pettiness in the leaders of the war and their followers in Great Britain and America. To an unusual degree he has sought to go deeply into the spirit of the colonists in all its manifestations that related to the war. . . . After a manner growing in favor with historians, he has subordinated details of operations in the field to deeper things." A. S. Will

+ N Y Times p1 N 17 '29 1600w

"In its clarity, terseness, and avoidance of mere rhetoric, the new book is like its predecessor, which Professor Seligman called 'the best piece of historical writing we have had in this country for many a day.' Besides the newly accessible British documents that we have mentioned, the author has made use of the 'Correspondence of King George III,' the papers of the American General Greene, and much other fresh material." W: B. Shaw

+ R of Rs 80:22 D '29 500w

"The book is full of illumination for the reader. But, in execution it is somewhat uneven. There are some brilliant and revealing passages, but in strictly narrative portions there is occasional lack of care in phrasing."

+ — Springf'd Republican p7e D 1 '29 1000w

VAUCAIRE, MICHEL. Bolivar the Liberator; tr. from the French by Margaret Reed. 205p il $3.50 Houghton [7s 6d Constable]

B or 92 Bolívar, Simón

29-13401

A lively recounting of the story of Simon Bolivar, a wealthy young dilettante, son of a noble Spanish family, who became interested in the Venezuelan struggle for independence, and throwing himself with all his energies into the conflict, burned himself out in the costly, long continued but finally victorious effort to free the South American colonies from the dominance of Spain.

Booklist 26:31 O '29

"M. Vaucaire has brought to his task a lively pen and a real gift for narrative, neither of which suffers in the hands of his translator, Margaret Reed. A French interpretation of such a man as Bolivar is peculiarly valuable since it is able to reconcile his effusive Latin temperament with his rugged bravery." Quincy Howe

+ Bookm 70:213 O '29 480w

"Here is a tale of high romance, written with passion. Bolivar was a romantic hero if there ever was one, and he lived in romantic days. Furthermore, and still more important, he has a romantic biographer."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 S 15 '29 150w

"The book is written in a pleasingly abrupt and imaginative manner, and when the reader has finished with the volume he feels as though he had a real speaking acquaintance with the great hero. This is not the best life in English of Bolivar, by any means, but it is doubtless the most interesting. There are a number of errors in fact, and the author or translator seems to have no conception of Spanish spelling." A. C. Wilgus

+ — Hist Outlook 20:303 O '29 450w

"M. Vaucaire has made his life exciting, and the translation seems fairly good. But the book leaves one's curiosity roused rather than satisfied."

+ — Nation and Ath 45:284 My 25 '29 100w

"Brilliantly told, it is the story of a greater Lafayette rather than a lesser Washington, the whirl-wind career of an orgiast of independence whose name has been given to 'a whole tribe of South American towns and villages' and whose statue is obligatory in Latin-American capital squares." F. H. M.

+ N Y Evening Post p6m Je 22 '29 90w

"There was room for a biography of the Liberator, and M. Vaucaire, excellently translated by Margaret Reed, has given us one that is terse, impersonal, Gallic and dramatic—one might even say cinematographic. It is not in the least interpretive. We learn what happened, together with some details which M. Vaucaire supposes to have happened. The excitement is that of pure narrative. There is, nevertheless, an art in the method." R. L. Duffus

+ N Y Times p4 My 26 '29 1050w

"The story of Bolivar and the liberation of Venezuela, Peru, and Ecuador contains the elements of four types of reading matter. It is history, it is the libretto for a comic opera, it is a romance of chivalry, and it is a horror story. Unhappily it has been in this book told by a writer unable to make the most of any of these features, or else the translation has fallen into inept hands."

— + Outlook 152:187 My 29 '29 320w

Pratt p33 autumn '29

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 80:14 S '29 180w

St Louis 27:290 O '29

"It must be admitted that the translator, Miss Margaret Baines Reed, has done her work very well indeed, and in her capable hands the graphic style of M. Vaucaire has lost none of its native vigour."

+ Sat R 147:870 Je 29 '29 220w

"As an acceptable portrait of the Liberator it is negligible. It is not fiction, but it is poor history and worse biography. The perspective is bad, if it can be said to exist at all. One receives the impression that the writer has the vaguest notion of the real character of Bolivar's campaigns. He certainly gives no satisfactory idea of Bolivar's military genius. His knowledge of the political background of the Spanish American revolts is woefully meagre, and his description of conditions which followed them is merely grotesque."

— Sat R of Lit 6:63 Ag 17 '29 400w

Wis Lib Bul 25:276 Jl '29

VEDDER, EDWARD BRIGHT. Medicine; its contribution to civilization. 398p $5 Williams & Wilkins

610 Medicine. Hygiene, Public 29-11696

"The senior member of the Board of Medical Research of the United States Army, also experienced in public health work and in teaching, here helps to liquidate for the benefit of the layman what he calls 'a frozen asset of modern civilization'—namely, the aid to more healthful and efficient living furnished by recent progress in medical knowledge. The first part treats of the causes of disease in general and of diseases grouped as infectious, nutritional, glandular, and degenerative, while the second deals with present accomplishments in disease prevention and the problems of the future."—J Home Econ

---

"Not only is this book couched in good language, but it is readable, the author possessing a subtle humor which frequently crops out, adding spice to the knowledge which is being imparted. One finds in this volume an accurate survey of what medicine has contributed to the world without any of the whoop and hurrah which too often accompanies such information, and without any of the misleading slogans which some of our boards of health have adopted." M. P. Ravenel

+ Am J Pub Health 19:948 Ag '29 380w

"The material is clearly arranged and indexed, and the style is readable, sometimes witty, without effort to 'write down' to the lay reader."

+ J Home Econ 21:684 S '29 120w

VENABLE, CLARKE. All the brave rifles. 369p $2 Reilly & Lee

29-9640

"Texas of the early frontier days provides the setting. . . A hundred diverse elements enter into the making of the book: the civilized East, and the rough-and-ready life of the frontier; duels and claim-jumpers; a farcical man-hunt; the fury of the fighting against Santa Anna, and the tragedy of the Alamo—and, over all, of course, a love story that comes to a not unhappy ending."—N Y Times

---

Booklist 25:397 Jl '29

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Je 2 '29 230w

"The novel, while too rambling and diffuse for complete effectiveness, has many interesting passages and is valuable for the attention it calls to many romantic phases of early life in the Southwest."

+ — N Y Times p6 My 5 '29 330w

N Y World p11m My 12 '29 100w

"Allowing for a little heaviness in style, this is a pretty good historical novel. The characterizations are excellent, the dialogue, realistic, and there is a well-managed love-story. But, as in most historical novels from pens not expert, facts tend to weigh down fiction."

+ — Outlook 152:78 My 8 '29 70w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ag 4 '29 150w

Wis Lib Bul 25:196 Je '29

VERMORCKEN, MRS ELIZABETH (MOORHEAD). Clouded hills. 381p $2.50 Bobbs

29-18940

"Pittsburgh is the city of 'clouded hills.' To that city Daniel Cuddy had come as a young man from Ireland, with life before him. And in that city, hemmed in by the furnaces which made his steel, and with half of life having been hidden from him by the heavy smoke-screen around him, Daniel Cuddy passed away. He was a Titan, one of the giants of the industrial world."—N Y Times

---

Boston Transcript p4 N 13 '29 300w

"[Daniel Cuddy's] story, and the story of his daughter Alison, fails to rise to epic proportions, not because the material is not grand enough to permit such treatment, but only because the author is unable to wield a brush big enough to take in the entire canvas."

— + N Y Times p16 S 29 '29 750w

VERNADSKII, GEORGII VLADIMIROVICH. History of Russia; with a preface by Michael Ivanovich Rostovtzeff. 397p $4 Yale univ. press [18s Oxford]

947 Russia—History 29-14179

Nearly half of this book is devoted to recent events in Russian history—the World war, the Revolution and the formation of the communist government. The author, one of the younger generation of Russian historians, belongs to the Eurasian school of interpreters, which emphasizes the Asiatic sources of Russia's cultural evolution.

---

"The author's bias is written large over the chapters dealing with the Soviet era. It is distinctly anti-Bolshevik. Occasionally this leads him into error. . . The first half of the volume deserves hearty praise. It is an admirable survey, which should give the book a prominent, if not the foremost, place among the manuals of Russian history in English." Avrahm Yarmolinsky

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p26 O 20 '29 500w

Boston Transcript p2 Je 29 '29 600w

"The author writes dispassionately and clearly, addressing himself to the general reader."

+ Outlook 152:350 Je 26 '29 50w

"So far as we know this is the best one-volume work in its field among those written for foreigners. Factual, but not overburdened with details; precise, but with the largest sociological perspective; thoughtful, but quite scientific; original in its particular attention to Asiatic influences in Russian history and culture, but free from romanticism in idealization of these influences, the book presents a remarkable outline of the origin, growth, and change of Russian people, culture, and political organization. Without any hesitation we recommend it both to students and to the general reader."

VERNADSKII, G. V.—Continued
+ Sat R of Lit 6:11 Jl 27 '29 180w

"The peculiar value of Mr. Vernadsky's book lies in the proofs it gives that the Russian Revolution did not represent a breach with Russian tradition, but rather a return into one of its earlier channels. The sources of this tradition were, of course, various; and Mr. Vernadsky has done well in calling special attention to the Oriental affinities of the Russian people, who for centuries were subject to powerful Asiatic empires, Iranian or Mongolian, while Russia still occupies enormous territories in Asia. In his presentment of the various developments Mr. Vernadsky shows admirable restraint. Equally detached is his somewhat detailed description of the Soviet system and its results; and this makes his judgment on the character of this system all the more impressive."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p643 Ag 22 '29 1150w

"One welcomes this valuable addition to the literature on Russian history. The bibliography, arranged by periods and subjects, is unusually well done." S: N. Harper
+ Yale R n s 19:411 winter '30 450w

VERONA, GUIDO DA. Mimi Bluette; tr. from the Italian by Izabel Grazebrook. 317p $2.50 Dutton

29-10483

A little Italian dancer and courtesan in Paris gives her charms lavishly to her lovers but never her heart. Jack, her dancing partner, is Mimi's nearest approach to a friend. And then a man of mystery enters her life, fills it completely and disappears. The story of Mimi's search for him in the Foreign Legion and of her death of a broken heart is a mixture of sentiment, satire and sophistication, with moments of real tenderness.

"This love story of a little Parisian dancer occasionally sounds notes of vibrant beauty. There is an unevenness in the novel that admits passages of dullness and false sentimentality, but the brightness and flame that transcends the repetitious meeting and mating of ordinary love stories is definitely present. Readers may not believe in Mimi Bluette but they will not forget her quickly." Enid Baird
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 My 19 '29 230w

"Mimi gets to be a bore after a hundred pages, and what was at first a pleasantly sophisticated, wittily corrosive tale peters out into silly twaddle." E. M. Benson
— + Nation 129:45 Jl 10 '29 80w

"Even while it enlists one's sympathies the conclusion strains credulity to the breaking point. Between the rapid first half of the book and the pretentious last half, the result is neither here nor there." M. W.
— N Y Evening Post p8m My 25 '29 520w

"Within the limitations of this trite and melodramatic plot, Guido da Verona draws a most convincing picture of very Italian passion and despair, sufficiently interspersed with light irony to make it highly amusing reading. There are many passages that are charming in themselves, and which no doubt owe their effect to the competence of the translator."
+ N Y Times p22 Je 9 '29 320w

N Y World p10m My 5 '29 150w

"A typical figure of fiction. But the hand that has touched her and the characters that revolve about her into life is skilful, and gives the silken smooth finish which makes a trite plot into a delicate, touching and, at times, even poetic book."
+ — Outlook 152:70 My 8 '29 170w

Springf'd Republican p7e Jl 7 '29 200w

VERRILL, ALPHEUS HYATT. Great conquerors of South and Central America. 389p il $3 Appleton

972 Spanish America—History. Cortes, Hernando. Pizarro, Francisco, marquis

29-22120

A portrayal of the cruelty, courage, and avarice of the Spanish adventurers who invaded the ancient civilizations of the Americas. Cortez in Mexico, Pizarro and the Incas, and Valdivia in Peru receive major attention.

"Mr. Verrill has made a rather obscure page in history into a very vivid book—with an authentic background of native life and achievement, a military knowledge of the conquests, a human appreciation of the participants on both sides."
+ Boston Transcript p2 D 11 '29 170w

"The names of many others might have been added to this list, and most certainly the name of Quesada, the conqueror of New Granada. But though the work is not sufficiently inclusive, it is done well and is interesting. A few mistakes in fact have crept in, there is no index, and the title of the book would have been more accurate if the words 'Spanish America' had been substituted for 'South and Central America.'" A. C. Wilgus
— + Hist Outlook 21:35 Ja '30 420w

"Tells the story of Cortez and Pizarro in a breathless, rapid fashion, without the heavy burden of scholarship." J. G.
+ N Y Evening Post p6s Ja 4 '30 50w

VERRILL, ALPHEUS HYATT. Old civilizations of the New world. 393p il $5 Bobbs

970.1 Man, Prehistoric. Indians—Culture. Indians—Antiquities. America—Antiquities. Mayas—Antiquities. Aztecs. Incas

29-9422

A popular account of ancient civilizations in North and South America, covering the arts and sciences, the customs, laws, and way of living of many vanished peoples. Interestingly illustrated from photographs taken by the author and from other sources. Mr Verrill is author of a great many books of science and invention, travel and adventure, for boys.

Booklist 25:388 Jl '29

Bookm 70:viii S '29 150w

"It is neither a book for the specialist, who would have been glad of a due weighting of similarities and differences in the cultures of different regions, nor quite a book for the general reader, who needs, in this unfamiliar country, something of the same power to individualize Chimu and Maya and Inca that he has for Egypt and the Arabs. And an encyclopedia is likely to be dull. Nevertheless, this material is too good to spoil." Ruth Benedict
— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Je 23 '29 530w

"A popular, untechnical and absorbing account of early man in America is here furnished by an expert in race lore." E. N.
+ Boston Transcript p4 My 25 '29 620w

Christian Century 46:992 Ag 7 '29 200w
Reviewed by E. A. Hooton

Christian Science Monitor p10 Ag 28 '29 450w

"Mr. Verrill's notion of 'popularizing' appears to be limited to the literary device of sprinkling many superlative adjectives through a diffuse text. . . One might still consider 'Old Civilizations of the New World' a useful book, and compliment Mr. Verrill on his enterprise, had he not undervalued the capacity of his readers in other ways. The thoughtless organization, the small inaccuracies, the wholesale patchwork of technical authorities make the book seem almost a hack job." Anita Brenner
— Nation 129:146 Ag 7 '29 1100w

"It is to be hoped that his volume will not fall into the hands of persons entirely ignorant of European and Asiatic archeology. Without some standards to go by, a reader might be tempted to accept reiterated exaggerations and naïve ardors as scientific judgments. . . Altogether, Mr. Verrill's book lacks a sense of proportion, a fault from which excellent illustrations, a long bibliography, and the special knowledge of the author do not rescue it." Lyman Bryson

— + New Repub 59:322 Ag 7 '29 350w

"It is a good job of popularization, well done; with a bibliography, many illustrations, some interesting reprints of Peruvian Indian songs and an index." F. H. M.

+ N Y Evening Post p8m Je 1 '29 120w

"This volume is an excellent summary of the high lights in pre-Columbian American civilization, written in a sympathetic and engaging manner without loss of accuracy." Gregory Mason

+ N Y Times p6 Je 23 '29 980w

"Mr. Verrill has made his book as readable as it is valuable, and the pleasure of reading it is enhanced by the fine illustrations. There is a useful bibliography."

+ Outlook 152:350 Je 26 '29 90w

"There are excellent pictures throughout the book to which no references are made in the text. The bibliography is most incomplete and contains, for the most part, few of the fundamental works on the archæology of these regions. A very good index closes a very poor book." A. M. Tozzer

— + Sat R of Lit 5:1094 Je 8 '29 320w

"The strongest point of Mr. Verrill's work is the section dealing with the Maya Civilization. . . Here there is little speculation, and native records are made to yield their secrets."

Times [London] Lit Sup p1010 D 5 '29 570w

VERSCHOYLE, CATHERINE M. Willow and cypress. 311p $2 (7s 6d) Longmans

29-3269

The heroine of the story is a sensitive young girl, Bridget Wentworth, who following a repressed unhappy childhood grows into an affectionate companionship with her mother. Simon, a composer of difficult temper, loves and marries her, and leaves her for another woman. Her mother dies. The unhappy Bridget finds consolation and resignation in religion.

---

"Pleasant and unassuming novel."

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Je 23 '29 220w

" 'Willow and cypress' is written in a sympathetic vein, yet with a consistent humorously ironic touch that adds to its charm as a pleasantly human story of a young life's development." M. M.

+ Boston Transcript p2 Je 15 '29 280w

"Miss Verschoyle's style throughout the book savors pleasantly, is supple and finished and adapted to the author's delicate sense of irony." Edwin Seaver

+ N Y Evening Post p11m My 4 '29 150w

" 'Willow and Cypress' is a pathetic story, told simply, with humanity and sincerity."

+ N Y Times p8 Je 9 '29 380w

"What is best in the story is borrowed from convention. The rest is sheer artificiality."

— Sat R of Lit 5:1057 My 25 '29 150w

Times [London] Lit Sup p334 Ap 25 '29 360w

VESTAL, STANLEY. 'Dobe walls; a story of Kit Carson's Southwest. 314p $2.50 Houghton

29-19021

An historical romance of the old Southwest in the days of Kit Carson. The scene is Colonel William Bent's Old Fort on the Santa Fé trail, headquarters also of White Head Fitzpatrick, Indian agent. Thru the tale of adventure and Indian scrimmage runs the love story of Bob Hatcher and Mary Edwards, daughter of the "parson," and the intrigue of Dolores and her Spanish lover, Chaves.

---

Booklist 26:122 D '29

"Upstanding pioneers, Pawnees, Cheyennes, Arapahoes, sweethearts and soldiers mingle here in a tale that's vastly more exciting than an armful of most open space yarns. Mr. Vestal provides the narrative skill you might expect from the author of 'Kit Carson' and professor of English in the University of Oklahoma—Kit himself makes a genial appearance towards the end." Will Cuppy

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p23 O 13 '29 130w

"Here is history in the raw, unharmed by a little amusing romance."

+ Boston Transcript p4 N 9 '29 280w

Reviewed by H: Chapin

New Repub 61:24 N 27 '29 50w

"The movement of the story, especially in the early parts, is rather slow and might in some places have been quickened with benefit to the reader's interest. But the author is trying by these means to make the setting of his scenes accurate and colorful, and this he always does, although sometimes to the injury of the tempo of his narrative. The story as a whole is thronged with vivid, dramatic scenes at the fort, on the trail, at the Indian camps, in which the interest is kept at high tension."

+ N Y Times p7 O 6 '29 700w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks

Outlook 153:351 O 30 '29 50w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 80:22 O '29 150w

VICTORIA ADELAIDE MARY LOUISA, empress consort of Frederick III, German emperor. Letters of the Empress Frederick; ed. by Sir Frederick Ponsonby. 493p il $8.50 (25s) Macmillan

B or 92 Germany—History—1871- 29-4969

From the time she left England as the bride of Prince Frederick of Prussia, until her death, the Princess, later the Empress Frederick, wrote long, vivacious, almost daily letters to her mother, Queen Victoria. These letters contain an intimate revelation of a personality much misunderstood, as well as many important sidelights on history.

---

Reviewed by W: K. Stewart

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 Ja 27 '29 450w

Boston Transcript p2 F 16 '29 400w

Nation and Ath 44:218 N 10 '28 630w

New Statesman 32:258 D 1 '28 1000w

Reviewed by G: S. Viereck

N Y Evening Post p9m Ja 12 '29 720w

"One criticism of the book, and one alone, suggests itself. The title is inadequate. Here are not only 'the letters,' entrusted to Sir Frederick by the Empress, and hitherto unpublished, nor is Sir Frederick merely the 'editor' of those documents. Around this new material he has written what is, in effect, an excellent and, inevitably, a moving biography." P. W. Wilson

+ N Y Times p1 Ja 13 '29 2600w

Outlook 151:231 F 6 '29 40w

Pratt p38 summer '29

St Louis 27:169 My '29

"Few books published in recent years will interest the older generation more than these intimate and self-revealing letters of the charming and artistic Englishwoman who was destined for a tragic hundred days to become the German Empress."

+ Spec 141:598 O 27 '28 800w

"The letters are the outpourings of a woman's tortured soul to another woman who is her mother and her one and only loving and trusted confidant. They are of such poignancy that one wonders in reading them whether one has a right to overhear even now these cries of misery and passion that were intended only for a mother's ear. . . Take them altogether, these letters are human rather than historical documents; and they subtract nothing from, if they do not add to, the stature of one who, as

VICTORIA ADELAIDE MARY LOUISA, empress—Continued

Sir Frederick Ponsonby himself describes her, was in her adoptive country 'a Cassandra to whom none would listen, an Andromache for whom none had sympathy.' "

Times [London] Lit Sup p793 N 1 '28 1650w

VIERECK, GEORGE SYLVESTER, and BRANDEN, ALBRECHT PAUL MAERKER, eds. As they saw us; Foch, Ludendorff, and other leaders write our war history. 379p il $3.50 Doubleday, Doran

940.435 European war, 1914-1918—United States 29-5719

The first two papers, by Marshal Foch and General Ludendorff, are an appraisal of the American soldier and his achievements in the war. The following papers, by officers of allied and opposing armies, describe American troops in action during the major operations of the Meuse-Argonne, the Aisne-Marne, and St Mihiel.

"It is to the credit of Mr. Viereck that he has sought a new approach to this phase of our history. . . The reader of this book will undoubtedly be impressed by its distinctive nature. It is the homage paid by two nations—one an erstwhile foe—to America's adventurous youth." M. G.

\+ Boston Transcript p4 F 16 '29 450w

"Read with due understanding of human motives, there really is nothing in Mr. Viereck's book for Americans to get excited or puffed up about, especially at this late day. Students of the World War, however, may find in the accounts of operations by participating officers matter of some interest."

— + N Y Times p18 Ap 28 '29 400w

St Louis 27:207 Je '29

VIGNAUD, JEAN. Venus; tr. by Hilda Shively. 301p $2 Bobbs

29-11245

The Princess Beatrice Doriani, richest and most beautiful woman of Europe, is president of the Mediterranean steamship company and mistress of Lord Wendley. The captain of one of the company's ships kills a passenger—justifiably—and is dismissed, a broken man. His plight moves Beatrice, who follows Franqueville to his refuge at Oran to offer restitution.

"Jean Vignaud has made a mark for himself in France with this tale. They call him a second Blasco Ibanez. The translation has the great merit of fitting the spirit of its original so closely that we are little conscious of its being a translation." I. W. L.

\+ Boston Transcript p2 Je 26 '29 480w

"This novel is an extraordinary combination of elements drawn from several types of novels which are usually kept distinct and classifiable. It is at once a dramatic study of individual conflict, a romantic narrative worked out with a good deal of rather cheap and unconvincing action, and an essay in character delineation. Its effect, in comparison to that of the usual novel, is as the effect of a charge of bird shot to that of a rifle bullet. What it sacrifices in power and direction it gains in scope. It seems reasonable to suppose that very few readers will be entirely satisfied with it. On the other hand, few will be entirely disappointed."

\+ — N Y Times p19 My 26 '29 420w

"The chief interest of the story lies in its setting, for the central figure fails to carry conviction; it is drawn too much from the outside."

— + Sat R of Lit 6:63 Ag 17 '29 130w

VILLARI, LUIGI. Italy. (Modern world ser.) 391p $5 Scribner [18s Benn]

945 Italy—History. Italy—Politics and government. Italy—Fascist movement 29-20900

Signor Villari's book covers Italian history from the time of the Napoleonic wars to the present day, but with two-thirds of the space devoted to post-war developments. The author is a frank defender of the Fascist régime. He gives a detailed account of its origin and activities. of the Syndicalist organization, the relations of church and state, and the new foreign policy.

Boston Transcript p2 O 30 '29 900w

"The book is excellent of its kind. Signor Villari, painstaking and loyal, can dispense with translators and write English, doubtless owing to his English mother, which is at times delightful, and always readable." Basil Murray

\+ Nation and Ath 45:600 Ag 3 '29 440w

Reviewed by Walter Littlefield

N Y Times p3 O 27 '29 620w

"Signor Villari is the leading Fascist publicist of the day. The book, although forming part of 'The Modern World' series, is neither more nor less than a piece of Fascist propaganda, and cannot, therefore, be judged by the standards applicable to ordinary history. Whether such a book is altogether suited to a series which professes 'to provide a balanced survey . . . of the tendencies and forces . . . which are moulding the lives of contemporary states' is doubtful, and for Italy the reader must be prepared to substitute Fascism on nearly every page.'

Sat R 148:192 Ag 17 '29 600w

Spec 143:58 Jl 13 '29 240w

"What Signor Villari has written is neither an apology nor a justification, still less a mere record of the material achievements of Fascism, though these are noticed in their proper place. His history is a philosophic exposition of Fascism as the necessary consequence of Italy's realization of herself as a self-conscious national State."

Times [London] Lit Sup p547 Jl 11 '29 1560w

VILLIERS, ALAN J. Falmouth for orders; the story of the last clipper ship race around Cape Horn; with an introd. by Frank C. Bowen. 301p il $3.50 Holt [25s G. Bles]

910.4 Clipper-ships. Herzogin Cecilie (clipper-ship. Beatrice (clipper-ship). Voyages and travels 29-7741

A young Australian reporter with previous experience at sea shipped as one of the crew on the four-masted schooner Herzogin Cecilie sailing from Melbourne around the Cape to England. His story of the voyage—which assumed the nature of a race with the sailing ship Beatrice—was written down from day to day during the three months at sea.

Booklist 25:390 Jl '29

"This volume, which today is probably thought of as good adventure reading, will be of great historical value in a few years, when the last yard has been lowered on the deck of the last sailing ship before she is cut down for a coal barge." W: H. Wells

\+ Bookm 69:670 Ag '29 520w

"It is a genuine relief, after recent experiences in the unreal realm of moving picture nautical life, to come across as fine and faithful a book about the sea as I have read since Morison's 'Maritime History of Massachusetts.' I veritably believe that in 'Falmouth For Orders' A. J. Villiers has written a nautical classic, worthy to be ranked with 'Two Years Before the Mast' and the above mentioned work and a very few others. . . In addition to his remarkable picture of a present-day voyage at sea under sail, the author has collected in this volume all the available data regarding the square-rigged sailing ships still afloat throughout the world. This contribution to nautical history is simply invaluable, at a time when the last of these proud old vessels are probably about to vanish from the seas." Lincoln Colcord

\+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 Ap 21 '29 800w

"As a book for boys it qualifies superlatively in several particulars." G. G. Lunt

\+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 My 26 '29 1050w

"It does not make any effort to be considered sensational, and it is written with a dignity best appreciated by those already conversant with sea lore." L. LeB. W., Jr.

+ Boston Transcript p6 Je 1 '29 500w
Nation 128:568 My 8 '29 80w

"This book must be described as belonging to the highest class of marine literature. It will, in my opinion, take its place near Dana's 'Two Years Before the Mast.' By a lucky chance the author is not only an able seaman but an able writer. The combination is important because it is comparatively rare. . . Mr. Villiers' style is lean and sinewy. There is not, in a literary sense, a single ounce of fat on him. Yet he can give us eloquence, and inspire us with a great love for his subject." W: McFee

+ New Repub 58:287 Ap 24 '29 730w
N Y Times p20 My 12 '29 480w

"It is fine sea-stuff, well illustrated."

+ Outlook 151:556 Ap 3 '29 30w

" 'Falmouth for Orders' is as vivid and valuable a record of seafaring in the twentieth century as 'Two Years Before the Mast' was of the life nearly a hundred years ago. It is even more. With care the author has assembled data concerning the last fleet of square-rigged ships and laid down facts of nationality, of purchase cost, of wages and maintenance, and of voyages, so that the historian of the future need not grope for an accurate picture of the expiring conditions of today. . . It is refreshing to offer them a book which without exaggeration gives all the realism that a landsman craves, written by a seaman with a sympathetic feeling for the sea." A. F. Loomis

+ Sat R of Lit 5:875 Ap 13 '29 880w
Times [London] Lit Sup p325 Ap 25 '29 380w
Wis Lib Bul 25:194 Je '29

VILLIERS-STUART, CONSTANCE MARY (FIELDEN) (MRS PATRICK VILLIERS-STUART). Spanish gardens; their history, types, and features. 150p il $8.50 Scribner [25s Batsford]

710 Gardens—Spain

"In a way gossipy rather than historical, she traces the origins of Spanish gardens through the Moors back to Persia and India, and then makes a survey of some of the loveliest gardens still existing, and dating from Moorish times to the nineteenth century."—N Y Evening Post

---

Reviewed by L: Colman
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 N 17 '29 60w

"Mrs. Villiers-Stuart enjoys an almost unexploited subject, and an excellent camera. The result is a delightful book, full of information and intelligent comparison, compiled by an observer of some experience and enterprise—for off-the beaten-track-exploration is not easy, even to-day, in Spain—which may take its supplementary place beside our copies of Borrow and Richard Ford." V. Sackville-West

+ Nation and Ath 45:512 Jl 13 '29 600w

"Her book, the result of fifteen years' study, is a most excellent guide, not only to the well-known gardens but to many lesser-known oases hidden about the country, and it is profusely illustrated with very good photographs."

+ New Statesman 33:504 Jl 27 '29 600w

"There are historical anecdotes, appreciative description, accounts of the circumstances, of visiting this and that garden, but very little exact information or classification. There is, however, a rambling charm to a good deal of the text, and the drawings and plates are so beautifully chosen that the volume is worth owning for them alone." E. J.

+ — N Y Evening Post p7m Ag 17 '29 200w

"Her book, which is very beautifully illustrated with over eighty full-page plates, some of them in color, and with drawings, is an important and fascinating contribution to a subject of which too little is known by American devotees of gardening art."

+ N Y Times p9 Ja 5 '30 400w
Spec 143:129 Jl 27 '29 180w
Times [London] Lit Sup p551 Jl 11 '29 1150w

VINACKE, HAROLD MONK. History of the Far East in modern times. (Borzoi hist. ser.) 479p $7.50; text ed $5 (25s) Knopf

951 East (Far East)—History. China—History 28-27786

"Mr. Vinacke is concerned only with modern things and for his purposes modernity begins with the Manchus in China and with the invasion of Japan by Commodore Perry more than three hundred years later. Conforming to the ideals of Professor Harry Elmer Barnes, general editor of the series for which his volume is designed Mr. Vinacke widens out his horizon to include not only the arts and philosophy but economic institutions, family life, the press, religion and labor problems. Yet it is evident on every page that the major interest is politics."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

"Throughout the author has maintained an admirable detachment and lack of bias—an attitude by no means easy of achievement on many questions where nationalistic feeling has run high. Because of its comparative brevity and its extensive scope, the volume does not go at length into individual problems and questions. It is distinctly designed as a handbook and text-book." K. S. Latourette

+ Am Hist R 34:649 Ap '29 330w

"Within the limits of time and space, the author has produced an extremely useful volume. The outstanding political events are treated adequately and with impartiality; but, throughout the book, major emphasis is laid upon the cultural, social, and economic developments which have resulted from the interplay of new forces in the affairs of the Orient."

+ Am Pol Sci R 23:240 F '29 80w
Booklist 25:157 Ja '29

"Mr. Vinacke teaches international law and politics at the University of Cincinnati and stands high in the gild of American historical scholars. Balance, fairness and matter-of-factness are the signs of that fraternity; well, in these respects, the volume conforms to its proprieties." C: A. Beard

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 D 2 '28 1300w

"Professor Vinacke has a command of the material and skill in presenting it that give the volume high value for both student and general reader." E. N.

+ Boston Transcript p3 N 10 '28 950w

Reviewed by Lyman Bryson
New Repub 57:145 D 19 '28 350w

"Apart from its conciseness Dr. Vinacke's book is useful because of its clear subdivisions and its running analyses. It is valuable to American students of Far Eastern affairs because it devotes much space to America's relations with the East and, besides referring frequently to that excellent source book on this subject, 'Americans in Eastern Asia,' by Tyler Dennett, it helps bridge the gap between the year 1900 and the present. Furthermore, it gives clear accounts of the transformations that have taken place in China and Japan since the first impact with the Westerners." N: Roosevelt

+ N Y Times p1 Ag 11 '29 500w
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p128 F 21 '29 300w

VIOLLIS, ANDREE, pseud. See Ardenne de Tizac, A. F. C. d'.

VOGAU, BORIS ANDREEVICH (BORIS PILNYAK, pseud.). Naked year; tr. from Colyj God, by Alec Brown. (The young Russians) 305p $2.50 Brewer

29-8007

" 'The Naked Year' is a picture of the [Russian] countryside during the famine of 1921.

VOGAU, B. A.—Continued
The nation was blocked by foreign navies, White armies were plundering and burning whole towns, crops were rotting, factories and mills were yawning for raw materials and labor that could not be supplied. Pilnyak depicts this ghastly year with a deep sense of its tragedy, its tumultuous upheavals and its cruel decay. It is not a pretty book, but it is terribly real."—N Y Evening Post

"The book is remarkable for the honesty with which it portrays communists and landowners, officials and peasants in a period of naked horror; remarkable for the lyric tenderness which alternates with its realism. It is also abrupt, strident and confused." Rose Lee
+ — Bookm 69:311 My '29 230w

"The translator has done an unusually good piece of work in rendering a style that is extremely difficult to transpose into another language."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p9 Ag 4 '29 130w

"The first novel to be translated and offered to English readers in a series designated 'The Young Russians,' comprising a selection of novels by the younger writers of Soviet Russia, 'The Naked Year,' is about as devastating to our sense of fictional tradition as was 'Ulysses.' Russia is the protagonist of 'The Naked Year,' and it is a gaunt, brutish, bestial, merciless hero. The narration, if a formless, shifting, repetitious, ornate flow of language can be called a narration, is as barren of any unity of motive and without those purposes which shape human lives into some moral or social value. But there is tremendous power and poignant beauty in it." W. S. B.
+ Boston Transcript p3 Ap 6 '29 450w
Cleveland Open Shelf p11 Jl '29

"Pilnyak's book shows the vigor and freshness of great writing: he swings from scene to scene in his panorama, imperfectly but nobly; his strokes are muscular and living; he kneads his language and shapes it for his own uses. This flexible language must have given the translator, Mr. Alec Brown, many a bad hour. Anyone who has ever translated from one language into another will realize that he has overcome many difficulties and that his English text, though uneven, is often splendidly successful." L. S. Morris
+ New Repub 58:365 My 15 '29 520w

"Utterly unorthodox in its prose style, discordant and yet structurally tight as a drum in its emotional conflicts, it looks upon life with a kind of desperate honesty, facing horrors, renouncing escape through the drugs of delusion and fantasy. Pilnyak writes with all the contemptuous complexity of the futurists, with their reliance upon associations and rhythms and images, but he writes also with significant purpose." Bernard Smith
+ N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 13 '29 550w

"The disorderliness of the narrative is a deliberate method of conveying the chaos and anarchy of the great Russian cataclysm. Like all artificial tricks, this method is tiresome. 'The Naked Year' is considerably spoiled by it. The reader wades through the maze with extreme difficulty, often loses the thread of the narrative, ceases to understand what the author talks about, feels irritated and bewildered. Yet, in spite of these defects, Pilniak is an unquestionably talented writer." A. I. Nazaroff
+ — N Y Times p2 Je 9 '29 550w
Reviewed by Herschel Brickell
No Am 227:adv My '29 120w

"The book is not work of the first class, but is decidedly worth reading, and reveals very real talent." Arthur Ruhl
+ Sat R of Lit 5:1126 Je 22 '29 650w

VOGDES, WALTER. A great man. 310p $2 Longmans
[29-4754]

In the 1850's David Frazer emigrates from South Jersey to California. His warm friendship for Dr Darley Lewis and swift passionate attachment for glamorous Emily Matthews are a part of this romantic tale of David's rise to success in the new land.

"The writing has simplicity and vigor, and the story, vivid and direct, is told with an understanding of the essential differences in character."
+ Bookm 69:xxv Je '29 90w

"Mr. Vogdes has a fine sense of climax, and patches of his work have the stirring grip of reality to them, but one regrets his inability to make more of a situation. 'A Great Man' is rather like a picture out of focus: the basic outline well defined, but the shades of light missing." Brett Yates
— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p27 Mr 10 '29 350w

"Mr. Vogdes has painted vividly the crowding, desperate life of Forty Nine. It seems hardly possible that he was not there, scrambling along the unsteady board walks, gambling, drinking, speculating in land or food." I. W. L.
+ Boston Transcript p2 Mr 6 '29 380w
Christian Century 46:1017 Ag 14 '29 80w

"This novel has the clear ring of absolute authenticity. It is as bold and forthright as that splendid youth of California in which the story has its setting." Martha Ostenso
+ N Y Evening Post p11m Mr 23 '29 480w

"It is recommended as a pleasent two hours' reading, and is good circulating library investment."
+ N Y World p11m Mr 10 '29 170w

" 'A Great Man' is more of a psychological study than a narrative."
Springf'd Republican p7e Je 16 '29 180w
Times [London] Lit Sup p457 Je 6 '29 200w

VON HOFFMAN, CARL. Jungle gods; ed. by Eugene Löhrke. 286p il $3.50 Holt
916.89 Rhodesia—Social life and customs. Rhodesia—Religion. Witchcraft. Walalas
29-7947

Well told tales of white men and natives, missionaries and jungle gods, come upon by the author in his travels in the heart of equatorial Africa and Rhodesia. Illustrated from camera studies by the author.

Booklist 25:356 Je '29

"Not a page of it is dull, and a great deal of it is tremendously colorful and exciting. Above all, Von Hoffman's savages are human beings, individuals, real people, whom one learns in reading to know intimately, often to respect and love. He gets under their skin and gets under the reader's skin." W: B. Seabrook
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 Mr 17 '29 1150w
Boston Transcript p2 My 4 '29 600w

" 'Jungle Gods' contains one or two of the finest short stories this reviewer has seen in a long time. The last story in the book is a magnificent climax." Ruth Seinfel
+ N Y Evening Post p11m Ap 27 '29 430w

"The sketches are usually dramatic in conception and development and humanly interesting. Mr. von Hoffman has written them skillfully and appealingly."
+ N Y Times p22 Je 2 '29 360w

"Von Hoffman's attitude toward the natives is refreshing. He is the temperate observer, neither the sentimentalist who wishes us to emulate the savage nor the sentimentalist who wishes us to remake him in our own image. Apart from their interest as striking stories, tragic, humorous, strange, the tales he tells are also remarkable in that many of them might be told of American negroes. . . 'Jungle Gods' is a delightful book."
+ Outlook 151:467 Mr 20 '29 230w
St Louis 27:313 N '29

"In spite of its sensational title, this turns out to be a sensible and entertaining collection of stories about the natives of Northern Rhodesia. Although at times Mr. Hoffman romanticizes Africa, finding all sorts of lurid mysteries in its 'heart of darkness,' he inclines generally to observation rather than to rhapsody. The great merit of his book is understanding of the native."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:962 Ap 27 '29 120w

Wis Lib Bul 25:159 My '29

VOSSLER, KARL. Medieval culture; an introduction to Dante and his times; tr. by William Cranston Lawton. 2v 354;454p $8 Harcourt

851 Civilization, Medieval. Dante Alighieri

29-9059

The sub-title "An introduction to Dante and his times" describes the intention of the book, which is, first, to consider the background of culture out of which the Divine comedy took its rise and then to study the poem itself. Volume two, devoted to the critical discussion, may be read apart from the first volume.

---

"The work of Vossler deserves the attention of students of medieval history for its broad generalizations based on comprehensive investigation, and in particular for its brilliant analysis of Dante's works. It assumes considerable knowledge of history and of the facts of Dante's life, and in the main does not depart from accepted views as to matters of fact; its originality consists in the synthetic interpretation. Obviously it was written for German readers; nearly all the books cited in the footnotes are German, and there are frequent references to German poets." K. McKenzie

+ Am Hist R 35:93 O '29 1200w

Booklist 26:24 O '29

"The book is not a book, in any definite sense. Indeed, there is no reason why such rambling talk should not go on forever. But here comes in the utility of his work. Mr. Vossler's learning is vast, inordinate, inclusive. He has read everything, and has gathered the Dante literature into a cyclopedia which—if it were only better arranged—would be admirable, and, as it is, is invaluable for any true scholar, as a dictionary of sources. The ingenuous general reader will search the book in vain for Dante himself—for Dante is the only thing that is left out of it." J: J. Chapman

+ — Bookm 69:220 Ap '29 900w

"How Dante came by all the materials that enriched his mind and personality is the first or proximate object of Vossler's study; what Dante made of these things in his great poem is his final goal. His discourse sweeps, with epic reach and breadth, toward these two ends. Of very few books can one say, with even a faint touch of justice, that to read them is the better part of an education, and yet this work of Vossler's deserves such a description, if any single work deserves it." L: Mumford

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 Ap 7 '29 3550w

"It has been left for Professor Karl Vossler to give us one of the most fascinating accounts thus far available alike of the great Italian as a personality and of that combination of influences which brought his genius to its outflowering." E. N.

+ Boston Transcript p3 Je 8 '29 1150w

"Dr. Vossler's book is one of the works of digested erudition, acquired from reading large numbers of doctoral and inaugural dissertations, intended to keep the general reader abreast with the changing learned conception of things in general; its appearance in English is doubtless indication of the hope that such second-hand erudition might help to bring a larger group to proper appreciative stupefaction before works of art." R: McKeon

— Nation 129:280 S 11 '29 1100w

"Herr Vossler's range of learning is immense, his power of concise statement remarkable. All who are interested in the Middle Ages will find treasures of knowledge and just criticism in these pages. The general reader may do well to take Herr Vossler's advice and read the second part, which is directly concerned with the poem, first. He will then be able to appreciate at its full value the first part, where the poet's background—in religion and philosophy, in political thought and literature—is most thoroughly and ably discussed."

+ Nation and Ath 46:114 O 19 '29 700w

"It is a 'soggy' book. Not, of course, that it is without value. Vossler has read much, and one can learn much from turning his pages. But the reviewer has thought it necessary to emphasize the weak parts of the work because it arrives in this country with a considerable reputation, and because it has seemed wise to put the inexperienced reader on his guard against its many faults. It should not be recommended to anyone who has no previous knowledge of the subject." Theodore Spencer

— + New Repub 59:237 Jl 17 '29 1600w

"Every page shows conscientious diligence and profound scholarship. The reader, however strongly he may differ from Professor Vossler's opinions, may safely trust his statements—a very important point when one considers the enormous mountains of material, mostly unreadable to the ordinary man, which went to the making of Dante." E. E. Kellett

+ — New Statesman 34:sup vii O 12 '29 1700w

"The scholarship is shallow and pretentious, a conglomeration of bloated and borrowed generalization; and the structure of the book is either stupid or perverse." Raymond Weaver

— N Y Evening Post p10m My 11 '29 750w

St Louis 27:310 N '29

"The first of these volumes seems to us verbose and useless, containing no facts that have not been better put forward, and reflections that if true are not new or a restatement of the obvious. The second volume, dealing with the literary background of the Divine Comedy stands on a different plane. It is still distressingly verbose and obvious in its comments, but it does cover ground, and even the most omnivorous reader will find here material probably new to him."

+ — Sat R 148:486 O 26 '29 330w

"No praise would be enough to appreciate fully the exhaustiveness of this monumental work and the excellence of the bibliography supplied at the end by Dr. J. E. Spingarn for English readers. In conclusion it must be added that the translation is adequate and painstaking."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p1050 D 12 '29 1300w

VRING, GEORG VON DER. Private Suhren; the story of a German rifleman; tr. by Fred Hall. 327p $2.50 Harper [7s 6d Methuen]

28-28600

"Written in the present tense, in short episodes that make the book almost like a diary in form, Private Suhren's impressions are those of a civilized man who saw the changing scene around him steadily and whole. From a barracks somewhere in the interior of Germany, through various parts of France occupied by the Germans, to active service on the Russian front, he moves at the command of his officers, believing in the cause for which he fights dispassionately, and observing every aspect of that service."—N Y Times

---

"The book is written entirely in the present tense, which gives the effect of a diary, but a diary of trivialities. Trivialities can be raised through art to the highest degree of interest, but Mr. von der Vring is content instead with a series of disjointed, episodic pictures."

— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Ja 27 '29 280w

Boston Transcript p2 Ja 12 '29 450w

+ Christian Century 46:116 Ja 24 '29 100w

"It is so wholly subjective that it has slight value as a war book, and its subjectivity is so trivial as to give it scant value as a general, or psychologic, novel." J. B. Wharton

— Nation 129:69 Jl 17 '29 130w

VRING, G. VON DER—Continued

"This is an inconsequent piece of work, strung with passages of deep sensitiveness and lyrical beauty."

— + New Statesman 32:578 F 9 '29 150w

"The present book, written with level-headed composure, as though war were an aspect of life worth careful study, and not merely a spectacular show, goes far to present the balanced picture of what went on behind the German lines. . . Private Suhren was an artist by profession, and perhaps that is why there is more literary substance to his narrative than one finds in most novels of the war." C. G. Poore

+ N Y Times p13 D 30 '28 650w

"For the first time, we are permitted to see the war through German eyes, sane, human, and not distorted by prejudice or propaganda. One wishes that the book were more entertaining in character, but unfortunately it comes on the heels of a glut of war books and suffers from the disadvantage of a stale theme which is not redeemed by the freshness of its setting." J: Carter

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:540 D 22 '28 150w

Spec 142:163 F 2 '29 100w

"It has some good qualities and will doubtless find admirers over here; but generally speaking we have to confess to disappointment. The translation appears to be well done, yet it is possible that something of the original essence has been lost. At any rate there is an amazingly cloudy atmosphere as if it were a patient but rather clumsy attempt to follow the methods of the great Russian novelists."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p78 Ja 31 '29 250w

W

W., E. B. See White, E. B.

WADE, HENRY, pseud. See Aubrey-Fletcher, H: L.

WADE, JOSEPH HENRY. Rambles in cathedral cities. 288p il $2.50 Stokes [7s 6d Methuen]

914.2 England—Description and travel. Cathedrals [28-12650]

The book is a supplementary volume to the Cathedral cities of England and Wales (Book Review Digest, 1926). It contains additional material for which there was no room in the former (pocket size) volume of the Little guide series, and sixteen illustrations. The characteristics of the cathedrals are discussed, the antiquarian features of the localities are pointed out, and allusion is made to their many historical and literary associations.

"Mr. Wade's chapters bristle with names and dates, but do not differ greatly from the horde of similar accounts which have gone before."

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 Jl 29 '28 80w

Cleveland Open Shelf p76 Je '28

WAGENKNECHT, EDWARD CHARLES. Guide to Bernard Shaw. 128p $1.50 (6s) Appleton

822 Shaw, George Bernard 29-14827

"The primary purpose of this book is expository rather than critical. My aim has been to gather together, within narrow and convenient compass, all the information which, in my judgment, the student or the general reader needs to have in mind in order to read Shaw's plays intelligently."—Author's preface

Booklist 26:68 N '29

"Without wading too deeply into the Shavian philosophy, Professor Wagenknecht offers an excellent introductory baptism into the wit and works of the Irish playwright and social reformer. Those who are acquainted with Shaw only through newspaper headlines will find the book an admirable corrective for their misconceptions, and those who have followed the dramatist through his productive years will appreciate this brief summary and classification of his creative output."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p13 Ag 25 '29 80w

"This exposition of the Shavian viewpoint should prove useful. It is simply stated, brief, and covers most of the essential ground. It will also, whether or not the author so intended, be time-and-labour-saving; as the hurried student, having acquired the rudiments of Shaw's gospel, will then skip the prefaces."

+ Nation and Ath 45:836 S 28 '29 500w

"It is an excellent example of what criticism should not be, i. e., argument and opinion." Edwin Seaver

— N Y Evening Post p7m Jl 27 '29 320w

"A bit of vigorous, independent and interesting critical exposition and discussion of the ideas underlying George Bernard Shaw's theories of life and art as he has expounded them in his literary output."

+ N Y Times p15 Ag 4 '29 450w

Times [London] Lit Sup p850 O 24 '29 120w

WAGENKNECHT, EDWARD CHARLES. The man Charles Dickens; a Victorian portrait; with an introd. by Gamaliel Bradford. 365p il $4 Houghton

B or 92 Dickens, Charles

An interpretation, or psychography—as the author terms it—of Dickens's character. Bits of personal incident in the man's daily life, his social relationships, his unhappy love affairs, his individual habits and peculiarities, are the material with which the biographer works.

"There is a wealth of documental material, a treasure-house of scholarly fact in this book; it is a pity that it should be marred by rather priggish general observations." H. R. Hays

+ — Bookm 70:455 D '29 200w

"Quite the most fascinating and human part of the entire book is the chapter in which—as if to prove that he is no idol-worshiper but quite as open-minded as any 'new biographer' of them all—Mr. Wagenknecht throws aside his gentler manner and delivers a 'Speech of the Devil's Advocate' that runs to fifty-one pages. There is not a line that one would willingly forego. This perfectly honest and relentless record of faults, frailties and peccadilloes is in its way the most endearing thing in the whole book." J: Bakeless

+ N Y Evening Post p12m D 14 '29 900w

Reviewed by Percy Hutchison

N Y Times p4 N 24 '29 1300w

N Y World p11m Ja 5 '30 220w

"Despite all the flourishes, it is a sane and essentially lucid series of questions and answers about Dickens's character and personality. Did Dickens feel the reality of his characters? Was he spoiled by success? Was he vulgar? Did he toady to his public? Was he avaricious? Did he love his children? Was he capable of friendship?"

+ Springf'd Republican p8 N 9 '29 750w

WAGER, PAUL WOODFORD. County government and administration in North Carolina. (Social study ser.) 447p il $5 Univ. of N.C. press

352 County government 28-28389

Dr Wager of the University of North Carolina describes the development, present organization and practice, and the outstanding needs of North Carolina county government, with suggestions for improvements in the interest of economy and good government. With photographs of county buildings.

"This book will be welcomed by students of local government in the United States. It constitutes a substantial contribution to the rather meager list of books on county government that are based on a sufficient amount of actual field work to enable the author to do more than write in generalizations." I. L. Pollock
+ Am Pol Sci R 23:207 F '29 680w

"A vivid and significant survey of county government as it exists today in a typical state. The circumstantial quality of this volume should make it a far more interesting and instructive text for a college class in local government than the typical textbook." J. McGoldrick
+ Hist Outlook 20:43 Ja '29 250w
Survey 61:699 F 15 '29 30w

WAGNER, CHARLES ABRAHAM. Nearer the bone; with an introd. by John Erskine. (Songs of today ser.) 109p $1 Coward-McCann
811 29-10634

John Erskine, in his introduction finds in Mr Wagner's work "beauty of trees, waters, fruit, beauty of the human body, beauty of companionable souls . . . and the implication always, even in ironic moods, of a strong love of life, of the noble aspects of life."

"In poems like 'Automatic' and 'Cogs of New York,' as well as in many of the simpler and shorter lyrics, Mr. Wagner stirs up a sense of our city age and the new beat of modern life which is exhilarating." F. E. Hill
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Jl 28 '29 120w

"Mr. Wagner is emphatically the poet of the city, one might almost say of New York. . . The poems in the division 'Country' are much less convincing than those of the city." F. M.
Boston Transcript p4 Je 1 '29 800w

"His work is uneven; he is not yet a good critic of his own writing. But he has much to say and is deeply in earnest." E. L. Walton
— + Nation 129:22 Jl 3 '29 80w

"Mr. Wagner's best is hard to find, and the search not very exciting. . . The 'genuine and rare qualities,' the 'poignant sense of having met reality,' the 'increased power,' the 'sincere tone,' the 'clear eye on experience' seem to me to boil down to what Zarathustra called 'some sensation of voluptuousness and some sensation of tedium,' sophomorically understood, and crudely expressed." Rolfe Humphries
— New Repub 59:104 Je 12 '29 230w

"At his best in 'Roads' and 'The Unknown Soldier' he is both simple and direct, qualities that give him promise far beyond his actual performance. There is much here that is painfully immature, clashing with stuff that has honest power." Horace Gregory
— + N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 27 '29 120w

"When Mr. Wagner is good, he is clear-voiced, when he is—what he is half the time, his utterance is not merely juvenile but adenoidal." L: Untermeyer
— + Sat R of Lit 6:450 N 23 '29 320w

WAGNER, ELBY. Partners three. 296p $2 Crowell
28-4771

Two men and a girl prospecting in Alaska find gold on their claim, but only after they have come to grips with danger, hardships, hatred, love and death in the mining camps and trails of the Yukon.

"It's a mighty easy running story, and being I've seen a few 'diggins' myself, I can say that the author knows his 'samples.'" Will James
+ Bookm 67:713 Ag '28 80w

"The story will be enjoyed by anyone who likes a well written tale of keen adventure."
+ Boston Transcript p3 Je 2 '28 180w
Wis Lib Bul 24:256 O '28

WAKEFIELD, HERBERT RUSSELL. Happy ever after. 361p $2 Appleton
29-7961

Young Cyril comes into a fortune and goes to Italy from England to study music. He plays around with a smart set for a while and then decides to mix music with marriage.

"With an impartial hand Mr. Wakefield distributes bright sayings among his characters, hoping thereby to achieve a novel."
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p13 Je 9 '29 130w

"A superficial survey of worthless men and women."
— + Boston Transcript p6 My 11 '29 300w
N Y Times p24 My 12 '29 180w

"Exceedingly garrulous, tiresome, unsubstantial story."
— Sat R of Lit 5:889 Ap 13 '29 130w

"Sometimes his shafts are aimed with deadly enough precision; but at other times the fun is strained, thin, and a little cheap."
— + Spec 141:463 O 6 '28 70w

"Mr. Wakefield, although he never stops trying, has neither the verbal dexterity nor the neatness of conceit to make his book successful. The conversation and opinions of a group of wealthy English people on an island in the Adriatic are kept keyed up to what some people will find an intolerable pitch of facetiousness, and Mr. Wakefield gives himself all too few chances of showing those imaginative powers that made 'They Return at Evening' so satisfying a book."
— Times [London] Lit Sup p761 O 18 '28 200w

WAKEFIELD, HERBERT RUSSELL. Others who returned. 275p $2 Appleton
29-18154

Fifteen short stories each of which turns upon some eerie or mysterious twist in an otherwise normal situation.

"The volume is a successor to 'They Return at Evening,' and a most entertaining jaunt in the less familiar dimensions." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 S 22 '29 170w

"These remarkable short stories by Mr. Wakefield have some of the charm of Hector Munro, and a little suggestion of the work done by the late William Caine, author of 'Mendoza and the Little Lady.' It is not a simple matter to explain their quality. They are fifteen in number, beautifully written, with all the feeling for values in situations characteristic of the gifted teller of tales. The poorest story in the collection happens to be the first. But all the others are positive gems."
+ Boston Transcript p2 S 25 '29 300w

"Most of Dr. Wakefield's stories are convincing successes in a difficult field. They are succinct, terse and unusually effective in the unobtrusive manner in which the burden of awareness and acceptance is quietly placed with the reader. Here and there is a sharp, bitter story of terror and decay; here and there a charming bit of sentiment and fancy. The style of these fifteen uncanny tales is uniformly effective and invigorating."
+ N Y Times p7 Ja 5 '30 320w

WALDMAN, MILTON. The disinherited. 296p $2 (7s 6d) Longmans
[29-6855]

Walter Michaelson, an American Jew of the third generation, had become so assimilated into American ways and culture that he had almost forgotten his Jewish heritage. Aroused by the injustices done to other Jews in his city he found that his Jewish blood called him to some racial expression. This brought him into conflict with his former associates and even his own family. He finally departed for Palestine in the hope of finding spiritual peace.

"Mr. Waldman has written with great sincerity and an understanding of all the implications of the situation which confronts his hero."
+ Bookm 69:xxiii Jl '29 80w

"Although not profound as a study or extraordinary in its workmanship and structure the novel is above the average in seriousness and sincere, sympathetic characterization." J. R. S.

WALDMAN, MILTON—Continued

+ — Boston Transcript p2 F 27 '29 400w

Reviewed by W. E. Garrison
Christian Century 46:425 Mr 28 '29 280w

Reviewed by Raymond Mortimer
Nation and Ath 45:114 Ap 27 '29 180w
New Statesman 33:184 My 18 '29 480w

Reviewed by Gertrude Diamant
N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 13 '29 600w
N Y Times p7 Mr 17 '29 400w

"The author writes sincerely and intelligently, but, like so many other books of this type, the story trails off into what seems to be autobiographical matter that has nothing to do with the main theme of the story. As a novel the book is readable and often moving, but Mr. Waldman's dissertations on irrelevant subjects tend to slow up the pace of his book." G: Joel

+ — N Y World p11m Mr 24 '29 180w

"A well thought out, clearly expressed, worth while and plausible statement of the problem of the high-class American Jew in fiction form." Milton Byron

+ Outlook 151:429 Mr 13 '29 130w

"An extremely able presentation of the problems that confront persons of Jewish nationality in the Middle West of America. Mr. Waldman's novel is first and foremost a tract for the times; a very fair, weighty and impressive piece of pleading, and the characters are necessarily subordinate to the theme they illustrate. . . The book abounds in instances of psychological insight." L. P. Hartley

+ Sat R 147:650 My 11 '29 200w

"Mr. Waldman is too much concerned with his thesis for the good of his narrative. There is only a thin plot and almost no rising interest to hold the reader's attention. The book may possibly be commended as a discussion of a social problem, but it must be depreciated as a novel."

— + Sat R of Lit 5:878 Ap 13 '29 460w
Springf'd Republican p7e Ag 25 '29 320w

"Mr. Milton Waldman has a calm, distinguished manner of writing that serves him well; he has an important theme. One is accordingly reluctant in confessing to a feeling of dissatisfaction and disappointment prompted by two principal defects. These are a certain obviousness of propagandist intention and, even more, the unfortunate character of his chief protagonist."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p400 My 16 '29 480w
Wis Lib Bul 25:128 Ap '29

WALDRON, WEBB. Blue glamor; ports and people of the Mediterranean. 287p il $4 Day

910.4 Mediterranean sea—Description and travel 29-7097

"The travel-memories of two Americans who sought glamor in the odd corners of the Mediterranean, visiting many places off the beaten track. The black-and-white sketches by Mrs. Waldron add to its charm."—Cleveland Open Shelf

---

"The quality of the book is its note of freshness. Fine bits of description, keen observation and wise conclusions are to be found in Blue Glamor."

+ Bookm 69:xx My '29 330w

+ Boston Transcript p5 Mr 16 '29 620w

"It carries no great burden of information and makes no great pretension to literary style, but it conveys the blue glamor of the Mediterranean."

+ Christian Century 46:427 Mr 28 '29 110w

"Written with spirit and humor, the book is as full of color as its title."

+ Cleveland Open Shelf p69 My '29

"It is good human stuff. It will not give you the Mediterranean, this gay book, but it will give you a great desire to find somebody who knows a line owning tramp steamers." W: McFee

+ New Repub 59:268 Jl 24 '29 330w

Reviewed by Halsey Raines
N Y Times p10 Je 16 '29 400w

"It was a colorful journey. Impressions of the port towns and their inhabitants were caught by Mrs. Waldron's brush and pencil to good purpose, as the book's illustrations attest." W: B. Shaw

+ R of Rs 79:10 My '29 220w

"An authentic travel record which—oh, marvellous—touches reality. . . The style is informal—journalistic if you will—but the author is much more than a mere journalist; he is something of a philosopher as well."

+ Sat R of Lit 6:462 N 23 '29 500w
Springf'd Republican p7e Ag 11 '29 320w

WALDSCHMIDT-LEITZ, ERNST. Enzyme actions and properties; tr. and extended by Robert P. Walton. 255p $4 Wiley

612.015 Enzymes 29-2581

"The first 100 pages constitute a general section, covering such topics as 'Development of the Ferment Concept,' 'Enzymes as Colloids,' Enzymes as Electrolytes,' 'Enzyme Kinetics,' 'Enzyme Reaction Systems,' 'Enzyme Specificity,' and 'Detailed Procedures in Preparative Enzyme Chemistry.' The latter portion of the book is devoted to a 'Special Section' in which brief accounts are given of the behavior and properties of all the more important enzymes." —Chem & Met Eng

---

"In the judgment of the present reviewer, the treatment is reasonably well balanced as between topics, but on most topics is not well balanced in the selection of material. The author's predilection for the work and views of his own school has been permitted seriously to bias what is offered as a general view of the subject, and, while according to the title page the translator has extended the original text, this seems to have been done rather unevenly, so that many if not most of the chapters show an extremely partial presentation of the topics which they profess to cover." H. C. Sherman

— + Am Chem Soc J 51:2282 Jl '29 300w

"From the standpoint of the general reader who has a fair knowledge of enzyme chemistry without having specialized in it, the book is well written and clearly presents the salient features of the present status of our knowledge of enzymes." W: C. Moore

+ Chem & Met Eng 36:98 F '29 530w

"While no claims are made for this volume as an exhaustive survey of the field of enzyme chemistry, it presents in a concise and readable manner the more significant developments in this field during the last twenty years. This volume will prove especially valuable to those whose ideas of enzymic actions were obtained a decade or more ago, and a study of its contents should give the chemist an understanding of the modern concepts of enzymes necessary to read intelligently the ever increasing literature of this important field." O. E. May

+ Ind & Eng Chem 21:293 Mr '29 250w

Reviewed by W. D. Bancroft
J Phys Chem 33:1851 N '29 2800w
N Y New Tech Bks 14:8 Ja '29
St Louis 27:264 S '29

WALKER, KENNETH. MACFARLANE, and WALKER, EILEEN MARJORIE (MRS K. M. WALKER). On being a father; with an introd. by Cecil Delisle Burns. 192p il $2 Norton [5s Cape]

173.5 Fathers. Children—Management 29-20950

"The authors of this little book divide their work into two parts. Part I is devoted to the physiology of parenthood, to questions of heredity and fertility, to child-bearing and childbirth, and birth control; Part II. deals with the relations between children and their parents, with the psychology of the child, and with the father as an essential in the family jig-saw even if very difficult to fit in."—New Statesman

---

Booklist 26:101 D '29

Bookm 70:ix Ja '30 130w

"While the title is somewhat misleading, the book remains a notably comprehensive and terse view of its field."

+ Boston Transcript p2 O 2 '29 250w

"There is nothing particularly novel in the opinions expressed, which, never extreme, are generally in conformity with the best modern thought and practice. As for the facts, they are mainly elementary, but as Dr. Kenneth Walker is an eminent member of his profession and as even elementary biology is often 'news' to otherwise well-educated men and women, many married people may find the book both informative and useful. Where one would be most inclined to join issue with the authors is in their tacit assumption that until the children grow up the father, except as begetter and breadwinner, is necessarily more or less a supernumerary in the family. The most casual survey of family life should correct this assumption. One could wish, too, that its authors had not been quite so facetious."

+ — New Statesman 32:391 D 29 '28 200w

"This very original book, which is introduced by Mr. Delisle Burns, fulfils its purpose admirably, and a word of praise is due to Miss V. M. Guy for her clever illustrations."

+ Spec 141:962 D 22 '28 250w

WALKER, SYDNOR HARBISON. Social work and the training of social workers. (Univ. of N.C. Social study ser.) 241p $2 Univ. of N.C. press [9s Oxford]

360 Social service 28-24800

"After preliminary chapters discussing the backgrounds, the characteristics and motives, and the objectives, of social work and the sources of its financial support, the author comes closer to her task in trying to discover what are really its characteristic activities and to interpret its claims. The eighth and ninth chapters set forth the educational needs of social workers, contrasting the prevalent apprenticeship with the specialized education now admitted to be essential, and then briefly but fairly describes the present professional schools and their courses. In the closing chapter Miss Walker discusses the very unsatisfactory existing relation between social work and the social sciences."—Am J Pub Health

---

"The book presents a careful and conservative picture of current social work, its ideals and its goals, and will make very useful reading for persons interested in the subject." G: B. Mangold

+ Am Econ R 19:162 Mr '29 250w

"This book is the more readable because it seems to be written in the language of a student of education and economics with few of those special turns of thought and language which are so familiar in the conference papers, the periodicals and the text-books of social work." E: T. Devine

+ Am J Pub Health 19:127 Ja '29 480w

"Miss Walker offers a thought-provoking discussion of the present status of social work." S. A. Queen

+ Am J Soc 34:727 Ja '29 180w

"Miss Walker's explanation of the scope of social work, and the problems contingent upon it, is a document of considerable value. It clears up many of the layman's misconceptions as to the nature of social work."

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 D 30 '28 280w

Christian Century 46:205 F 7 '29 50w

J Home Econ 20:908 D '28 40w

St Louis 27:11 Ja '29

"Miss Walker has written a book which ought to be a stimulus to all who are interested in social work and the training of social workers." M. C. Burnett

+ Survey 61:246 N 15 '28 300w

WALL, EVANS. No-nation' girl. 316p $2.50 Century

29-21542

"Precieuse had a white father and a Negro mother. She grew up in a cabin by the river amid the rank, lush vegetation of the jungle. At fourteen, Precieuse was a beautiful woman. When she danced on Saturday nights, every one gathered around her and the men watched her with flushed faces. It was at one of these dances that Cliff Dale saw Precieuse. He had come to the swamp for the first time, as a visitor. When he went back to college, he could not forget the half-breed girl. In a few months he left college, bought a houseboat, and piloted himself into the swamp. He lived there alone for a short time. Then Precieuse came to join him. The passion, the struggles, and the ultimate defeat of Cliff Dale and his 'no-nation' mistress make the rest of the story."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

"Mr. Wall may have a sincere interest in the problems of dual heredity and miscegenation. He undoubtedly knows the fetid atmosphere of the bayou country. His book winds slowly, caressingly to its inevitable end and leaves you shrouded in the gray cloud of its unhealthy fevers."

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 N 10 '29 600w

"Leave out all references to color and you still have a beautiful, but tragic, love story of the swamp country."

Boston Transcript p3 D 7 '29 300w

"It is more interesting to us for its possibilities than for its accomplishment. . . What it lacks is the sense of direct contact with the scene and the people who inhabit it, the sense of a new experience shared by the reader. As it is, our curiosity is much more provoked than our hearts and minds." Edwin Seaver

— + N Y Evening Post p12m N 16 '29 220w

"Mr. Wall has neither the power nor the passion to give reality to the plot he unfolds against the background of a Far-Southern swamp. His scene is better than his people. He paints it with a scrupulous and sensitive brush, though he is one of that large and slipshod army who seems convinced that a subject, without any predicate, constitutes style. His characters, unfortunately, are mostly stencils." F: F. Van de Water

— N Y Evening Post p10m D 7 '29 80w

"Readers will await this author's future stories with greater interest if he will choose more normal human beings and a more plausible setting."

Springf'd Republican p7e D 22 '29 220w

WALLACE, EDGAR. Crimson circle. 317p $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-25030

The "Crimson circle" had escaped from French justice and after many years appeared to blackmail London inhabitants both high and low. Inspector Parr insisted that Thalia Drummond was in the pay of the mysterious Crimson circle. Jack Beardmore could not believe it, altho all signs seemed to bear out Inspector Parr. They were both correct, and thereby hangs the tale.

---

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 D 8 '29 140w

"The accepted rules for writing detective stories mean nothing to Edgar Wallace. He violates them at will and makes his readers like it. The secret of his success is that his stories never lag."

+ N Y Times p48 D 1 '29 160w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 22 '29 200w

WALLACE, EDGAR. Dark eyes of London. 329p $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-23137

Blind men—and others not so blind, but no less inimical—form a gang guided by a master mind. Inspector Larry Holt, who is not at all blind, least of all to the charms of Diana Ward, his helpful secretary, succeeds in discovering the lair of the blind men with its Room of Death, the terrible invention of two mad brothers.

For biographical sketch of the author see Boston Transcript p1 N 16 '29

Bookm 70:xxxiv N '29 80w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 O 13 '29 120w

"Every conceivable variety of melodramatic claptrap is dragged in to keep the plot boiling, whether its use contributes to the solution or not, and the total effect of all this is a crude, boisterous mediocrity unrelieved by any pretense of ingenuity by either the sleuth or his quarries."
— N Y World p11m D 29 '29 150w

WALLACE, EDGAR. The double. 309p $2 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Hodder & S.]

28-30338

A pretty nurse captivates Dick Staines of the C.I.D. at first sight. When he sees her with his own eyes involved in crime and later hears her perfect alibi, his faith is shaken if not his loyalty. Dick is working on an old crime, and as his dogged investigation nears the end, he finds that the nurse is not the only one in the case who has a double.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Ja 20 '28 100w

Boston Transcript p2 Ja 23 '29 350w

"It must be said for Mr. Wallace that he has combined ancient devices in a way to provide mystification and thrills in quantities sufficient to please the not too critical reader."
+ N Y Times p15 D 30 '28 160w

"How Mr. Wallace keeps it up we don't know, but he does keep it up—the standard he has set himself. It may not be a very high standard artistically, and you may not approve of it, but it does demand quick action, a logical if impossible plot, and plenty of thrills." W. R. Brooks
— + Outlook 151:114 Ja 16 '29 80w

Pratt p42 summer '29

"A most entertaining story."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p133 F 23 '28 150w

WALLACE, EDGAR. Face in the night. 318p $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-26572

Twisted strands in a motive of revenge involve an innocent girl in a jewel robbery. Imprisoned for a year, the girl comes out to new trials of horror at the hands of Lacy Marshalt. Captain Dick Shannon protects her and solves the mystery but not without assistance from a clever American crook.

Bookm 69:xxvi Ag '29 40w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 Je 9 '29 100w

"Occasionally the Crime Club surpasses itself in the excellence of its monthly choice. Its June detective story is one of the best that it has ever published as well as one of the best of Edgar Wallace's long and excellent series of thrillers."
+ Boston Transcript p4 Ag 3 '29 200w

"Not many of Mr. Wallace's stories contain more thrills and more mystery than this one. Mr Wallace uses some of the stock tricks of mystery fiction, but he handles them so adroitly that he is easily forgiven."
+ N Y Times p16 Je 30 '29 220w

WALLACE, EDGAR. Flying squad. 314p $2 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Hodder & S.]

28-29924

To investigate her brother's death, and to trap Inspector Bradley who, as she believes, killed him, Ann Perryman joins the smuggling gang of which her brother was a member and Mark McGill is the chief. She makes several shocking discoveries and is saved from her own folly by the man she has sworn to hate.

"A typical Edgar Wallace story, keen to the last page."
+ Bookm 69:xxx Ap '29 50w

"Mr. Wallace does his usual neat job." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 F 10 '29 100w

Boston Transcript p3 F 23 '29 300w

"There are some exciting moments in this story, but it is not one of Mr. Wallace's best."
N Y Times p22 F 17 '29 180w

"An average good Wallace product."
+ N Y World p11m F 17 '29 130w

Times [London] Lit Sup p453 Je 14 '28 150w

WALLACE, EDGAR. Mammoth mystery book; three complete Scotland Yard novels. 3v in 1 226,276,333p $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-27528

The volume contains three complete mystery novels: "The gaol breaker," in which Billy Stabbat, detective, saves the girl he loves; "The just men of Cordova," with a mysterious Spanish background and a villainous doctor; and "A king by night,"—Juma N'kema, the beast that terrorized London.

Bookm 70:xxxiv N '29 50w

"An inexpensive orgy for the Wallace-minded." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 O 6 '29 100w

"In these three is entertainment for a winter night, or a long train trip—but the book is not recommended as a bedside companion."
Boston Transcript p4 N 9 '29 320w

"The first and the last of these three novels are excellent of their sort; the second is less interesting unless one happens to be particularly keen on the idea of a secret organization dedicated to justice regardless of law. This story continues the adventures of 'The Three Just Men' who appeared in the novel of that name."
+ — N Y Times p32 O 6 '29 220w

"Each is good of its kind, particularly the third, which is startling and ingeniously contrived. All are written with the notable gusto that is Edgar Wallace's."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e O 6 '29 80w

WALLACE, EDGAR. Murder book of J. G. Reeder. 308p $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-12500

Mr Reeder has what he proudly refers to in his murder book as the "criminal mind." It is of inestimable value to him in the episodes of crime detection here related.

Bookm 69:xxvi Jl '29 40w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 My 5 '29 100w

"It is a safe bet that no one will lay the book down until he has read the last page. It is rather more intellectual than detective stories usually are, and is not unduly gruesome."
+ Boston Transcript p2 Je 26 '29 150w
N Y Times p16 Je 2 '29 100w

WALLACE, EDGAR. Northing tramp. 288p $2 Doubleday, Doran
29-18420

October Jones married a tramp. Then began a flight thru the woods, a desperate attempt to avoid the man with the red beard and his knife-throwing partner. There is a haunted house, a midnight murder, a lady called Elfieda, a sinking barge, with other harrowing adventures on the road to Ogdensburg, and the final, happy discovery that October's "tramp" is really Lord Rochford, assistant military secretary to the Governor General of Canada.

"Mr. Wallace's picture of American life is hardly authentic, but he manages to fill his story with pleasurable excitement."
Bookm 70:xxxiii O '29 80w

"Mr. Wallace's version of the American scene is not a happy one, but there are some mild surprises for those so disposed."
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Ag 18 '29 100w
Boston Transcript p2 S 18 '29 300w
N Y World p11m D 1 '29 140w

WALLACE, EDGAR. People. 234p $2 Doubleday, Doran
B or 92 29-8849

The autobiography of the English mystery story writer, who has been, according to his book, foundling, newsboy, printer's devil, soldier, war correspondent, editor and author of a hundred and fifty books.

Booklist 25:393 Jl '29

"A romantic tale of people and places, ambitions and misadventures."
Bookm 69:xii Je '29 50w
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 My 5 '29 130w

"If Mr. Wallace is now so prolific in turning out his work that he furnishes material for countless jokes in English papers, it will be seen that he has only to draw on an inexhaustible fund of experience and observation. His memoirs are interesting in the extreme." C. K. H.
+ Boston Transcript p2 Ap 6 '29 650w
Nation 129:22 Jl 3 '29 150w

Reviewed by E. C. Beckwith
N Y World p10m Ap 28 '29 350w

"These reminiscences of his life and the people he has met are entertaining and show an endless curiosity and an inexhaustible energy." W. R. Brooks
+ Outlook 151:515 Mr 27 '29 120w

"He has told the tale in a breezy, straightaway fashion and the book represents no ponderous effort to make a complete record. The reader gets the highlights."
Sat R of Lit 5:1005 My 11 '29 170w

WALLACE, EDGAR. Three just men. 351p $2 Doubleday, Doran
29-9875

The Three Just Men band themselves together as unofficial avengers of crime. Some of their exploits have already been described. In the present offering they are hard at work to thwart the efforts of an evil gang to kill Mirabelle Leicester and rob her of an African gold mine left by her father. The gang use a unique method for their killings, and the Three Just Men reciprocate.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p38 Ap 14 '29 100w

"Fewer and better books, Mr. Wallace!"
— Boston Transcript p2 My 22 '29 230w

WALLACE, EDGAR. Twister. 277p $2 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d J. Long] 29-7298

Because his way out of difficulties was to tell the truth, Tony Braid was known as the Twister. No one could believe that a financier would be so honest; no one except Ursula Frensham, and her faith was amply rewarded.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Mr 17 '29 100w

"Like most of Mr. Wallace's stories, this one provides entertainment without overtaxing the mind."
N Y Times p20 Ap 7 '29 150w

"It would be unreasonable to expect that all Wallace stories should be top-notch performances, and this one seems to us one of his obvious second-raters."
— N Y World p11m Ap 7 '29 100w

"Mr. Wallace is at his best in this story."
+ Spec 140:201 F 11 '28 90w

"Mr. Wallace, who provides an amusing and quite unusual, but very capable detective, makes great play with the financial and other conflicts in the story."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p132 F 23 '28 150w

WALLACE, WILLIAM KAY. Scientific world view. 316p $3 Macmillan
215 Religion and science. Science—Philosophy. Ethics. Social conditions 28-23568

"The orthodox religious interpretations of the universe must be discarded. We must find more solid foundations for our beliefs than those that religion has to offer. Morality is emancipating itself from religious control and is seeking a broader basis in the scientific outlook on life." The author thus states his position in the preface, and proceeds to build up the argument that religion as moral arbiter must give way to the scientific world view.

"It is a profound discourse upon the place that science must assume in the new world. Originality pervades each page, and a considerable philosophy makes the whole tolerable. To those who would think we suggest these pages."
+ Boston Transcript p6 D 26 '28 250w

"The trouble with Wallace is that he is a thoroughgoing fundamentalist in his conception of religion. He differs from those who call themselves fundamentalists in that they believe such a religion to be true while he believes it to be false, but their definitions of religion do not differ a hair's breadth. . . But when due allowance is made for his childishly naive philosophy of the religion which he does not believe in, Wallace has a constructive message with reference to the function of science in the making of a better human world." W. E. Garrison
+ — Christian Century 46:49 Ja 10 '29 480w

"The approach to the several problems here treated is historical, and the book is done in the grand manner of a historian dealing with ideals. One need not look here for a specific and critical exposition of the way the scientist takes life. But one can here find a highly appreciative account of the larger values of science as it leaves religion behind and forges ahead to an empirical morality." T. V. S.
+ Int J Ethics 39:378 Ap '29 240w

"A rather rhetorical but suggestive survey."
J Religion 9:333 Ap '29 40w

"A beautifully clear, cogently reasoned view of the new mental levels to which the world is rising as a result of the breakdown of the old traditional religious world concept." F. H. M.
+ N Y Evening Post p8m Ja 5 '29 100w

"That which started as an important and clearly conceived undertaking, ended in a suggestive and somewhat plausible propaganda for a new faith. As such it is interesting, but it is hardly science." F. B. C. Northrop
— + Sat R of Lit 5:686 F 16 '29 520w
Springf'd Republican p6 Je 10 '29 780w
World Tomorrow 12:136 Mr '29 400w

WALLACH, MIKE. "Farmer, have you a daughter fair?" A traveling salesman meets the mamselles from Armentières. 230p $2.50 Vanguard press

940.48 European war, 1914-1918—Personal narratives 29-5516

"Mike Wallach is another war author, and his book is a mixture of tragedy, pathos and humor. He tells of the horrors of war and he also gives us a good picture of the lusty humor of 'hairy cannoneers,' devil-may-care doughboys and the buxom lasses they encountered in their wanderings from hell to breakfast."—N Y World

"He gives us the same old details of the superficial joys and sorrows of soldiers. . . This story has been told before." Morris Markey
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 Mr 3 '29 650w

"The story is a queer contrast in light and shade. It is very amusingly written with a free and easy style, and with an utter lack of restraint that both attracts and offends, paradoxical as it seems. It is a vivid and not altogether frivolous picture of our army in France."
+ — Boston Transcript p5 My 4 '29 150w
Nation 129:310 S 18 '29 150w
N Y World p11m Mr 17 '29 120w

WALLER, BOLTON C. Hibernia; or, The future of Ireland. (To-day and to-morrow ser.) 96p $1 Dutton [2s 6d K. Paul]

941.5 Ireland 28-22786

This volume in the Today and Tomorrow series undertakes to predict the future of Ireland. The author thinks that economic affairs are picking up in Ireland and that in the not too distant future the present division of the land will disappear and "Ireland will be one."

Reviewed by Lisle Bell
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p13 Je 9 '29 250w
Boston Transcript p2 Je 12 '29 70w
Christian Century 46:871 Jl 3 '29 180w
New Statesman 31:298 Je 9 '28 600w
Spec 140:779 My 19 '28 140w

"Mr. Waller is known as a thoughful writer on the League of Nations and kindred topics. This survey of the present position and future prospects of his country is also a thoughtful piece of work. Not that there is anything new in Mr. Waller's analysis of economic, social, and political problems of the past and present, which are here stated temperately and dispassionately. His outlook on the future is, however, helpful and constructive."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p435 Je 7 '28 130w

WALLING, ROBERT ALFRED JOHN. Murder at the keyhole. 312p $2 Morrow

29-4415

"A strange miscarriage of justice separates two lifelong friends and confuses Scotland Yard. The scene changes from Blackwater to the coast of France, via a high-powered motor boat, back to London, thence to the gaming tables at Ostend. Mystery with a touch of romance."—Bookm

Bookm 69:xxx Mr '29 40w

"A pleasant successor to 'That Dinner at Bardolph's.' "
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p24 F 24 '28 80w

"In his latest mystery it is almost fair to say that Mr. Walling has outdone himself, for 'Murder at the Keyhole' contains even more thrill and suspense than 'That Dinner at Bardolph's.' "
+ Boston Transcript p2 F 20 '29 280w

"Fully as puzzling as his earlier one."
+ N Y Times p22 Mr 3 '29 200w

"Contemporary detective stories come no finer than this one. Don't fail to read it."
+ N Y World p11m F 17 '29 110w
Springf'd Republican p7e F 10 '29 180w

"Mr. Walling's story is written in a playfully sentimental style which becomes really trying when he comes to affairs of the heart. But the plot is extremely ingenious."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p706 S 12 '29 230w
Wis Lib Bul 25:128 Ap '29

WALLIS, KEENE. Bands and rebels; seven stories in verse. (Songs of today ser.) 80p $1 Coward-McCann

811 29-10633

Striking, realistic narrative poems of youth in rebellion in city and town. Contents: Coal black Jesus; Up and down and out; Spoiling on his hands; Dark of the moon; Gentle descent to kindly earth; Bughouse square; Yes, something for him.

Reviewed by F. E. Hill
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Jl 28 '29 350w

"One can pick no quarrel with the form of Mr. Wallis's poetry or with the excellence of his writing. The publishers assert that the verse is full of vitality and joyous robustness. Vital and robust it most certainly is, but it is not joyous. After reading all seven of the narratives, we close the book feeling that, if there is a God, he has made a bad mess with humanity." F. M.
+ Boston Transcript p4 Je 1 '29 120w

"His seven stories are dramatic, well motivated, and very human. His characters are young tramps escaping the city, and young clerks caught in city-monotony. One reads tale after tale rapidly. The medium of verse is never in the way; rhyme and rhythm come without hitch." E. L. Walton
+ Nation 129:22 Jl 3 '29 70w

"Poems that are humorous, warm, tender, fluent, moving, easy—why waste words?—they are readable, they are alive." Rolfe Humphries
+ New Repub 59:104 Je 12 '29 300w

"In the seven narrative poems that make up his little book Keene Wallis demonstrates his authentic ability to handle the American language. Pitched in a low key, his stories are made effective chiefly by understatement. He is unspectacular and restrained, yet he accomplishes with sustained power what Joseph Moncure March and J. V. A. Weaver have done as a tour de force." Horace Gregory
+ N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 27 '29 180w

WALPOLE, HUGH. Hans Frost. 356p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Macmillan]

29-19258

Hans Frost, famous English man-of-letters, is celebrating his seventieth birthday when the story opens. He has achieved fame, wealth, and a beautiful wife at the expense of personal freedom. The coming of his niece, Nathalie, and her love affair with Vladimir the young Russian, help Frost gain that freedom he has desired.

Booklist 26:122 D '29

Reviewed by R. B. Sanborn
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p30 S 29 '29 700w
Boston Transcript p4 O 5 '29 310w

"It is the worst of Mr. Walpole's books that this reader has ever read." F. B.
— Chicago Daily Tribune p15 O 12 '29 600w
Cleveland Open Shelf p156 D '29

" 'Hans Frost' represents every one of Mr. Walpole's virtues and errors. With its clever delineations and its mildly provocative situations it is easy, pleasant reading provided one is not annoyed by poor writing and comic-strip Russians." Florence Codman
— + Nation 129:468 O 23 '29 450w

Reviewed by L. L. Irvine
Nation and Ath 45:767 S 14 '29 150w

"This book contains a good measure of the comfortable warmth of which Mr. Walpole is intermittently a master. In spite of a certain element of feebleness in the expression, he does make his book glow and does wake in the reader an affection for his characters." E. S.

+ — New Statesman 34:16 O 12 '29 1000w

"One of the slightest and at the same time one of the loveliest of Walpole's books. Both the flavor and content of 'Hans Frost' are just a little quaint and old-fashioned—and fragrant. There is present a naive wonder that life should, in the words of Vladimir, be 'so odd.'" Florence Haxton

+ N Y Evening Post p6m S 21 '29 450w

"In 'Hans Frost' Hugh Walpole has done a very artistic bit of work, fragile and wisplike though it is. The picture of the old man by the sea, the sea to which actually he has come unwillingly, and in the face of which he finds that freedom of the spirit for which he had longed, is one to be remembered. There are no excitements in the piece, no highly dramatic moments, no tense action. It is a narrative of reticent significances, of shy beauties, of delicate tones. It is a question whether it may not be a bit too long; whether the theme, from the point of view of being material for a novel, should not have been handled with something more of brevity." Percy Hutchison

+ — N Y Times p5 S 15 '29 1450w

N Y World p11m O 6 '29 400w

"No action can be explained or accounted for merely by the analysis of its motives. It emerges like lightning from a cloud; and the novelist's task is rather to suggest the pregnant emotional condition which finds relief in action than to trace the reasons which the mind, before or after the outburst, gives itself. Mr. Hugh Walpole is a past-master in the art of evoking this condition. He understands the symptoms that lead to action. 'Hans Frost,' his latest novel, as a matter of fact would in any case put little strain on credibility." L. P. Hartley

+ Sat R 148:302 S 14 '29 750w

"Mr. Walpole has neatly escaped the obvious in avoiding, in his precarious relationship between a man of seventy and a girl of nineteen, all suggestion of the sentimentality that would make it unbearable. Tender, Mr. Walpole always is,—too tender for the tough minded who do not like his work, but in Hans Frost there is a keen ironical current that sweeps the book clear of that too soft oppressiveness for which we have only the one word, sentimentality." G. G. Bates

+ Sat R of Lit 6:236 O 12 '29 1200w

Reviewed by Alan Porter

Spec 143:344 S 14 '29 320w

" 'Hans Frost' is written in Mr Walpole's best manner. The style is easy and sweet, and the atmosphere has all his fragrant romance which does not degenerate, as it has done before, into sentimentalism. Characters are vividly portrayed. The central situation is handled with delicacy, charm, and skilful restraint. . . His admirers will find little but delight in this new novel." H. K.

+ Springf'd Republican p7e O 13 '29 600w

Times [London] Lit Sup p700 S 12 '29 600w

WALPOLE, HUGH, and PRIESTLEY, JOHN BOYNTON. Farthing Hall. 319p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Macmillan]

29-6351

The story, a titillating blend of humor and romance, is unfolded thru the medium of letters exchanged between a romantic young painter and his older novelist friend. The artist falls in love at first sight of a demurely pretty girl and pursues her from London to Farthing Hall, where he proposes to rescue her from an eccentric and tyrannical family. The novelist's wife, meanwhile, has run away from him, and he sets off in no less agitated, if more dignified pursuit of her. She is discovered not far from Farthing Hall. Both affairs end very happily indeed.

---

Booklist 25:288 Ap '29

"Mr. Walpole and Mr. Priestley have handled a difficult problem with consummate skill; they have unfolded two plots in the space of one, and that with ease and naturalness, slighting neither, drawing both together so that they seem more one than they are; they have ingeniously presented the same basic situation developed under two sets of conditions." R. B. Sanborn

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Mr 24 '29 750w

Cleveland Open Shelf p79 My '29

Reviewed by L. L. Irvine

Nation and Ath 44:844 Mr 16 '29 140w

"Farthing Hall is good and entertaining. One observes that the authors tend to edge away from reality lest they commit themselves to something that might not be approved by the Upper Middle Classes. Amusement without agitation is their aim. Whether they have proved that the epistolary form of fiction is desirable might be doubted." H. C. Harwood

+ — New Statesman 33:supix Mr 16 '29 400w

"Conceivably English readers, who are patiently faithful and who consume a number of leisurely books about nothing in particular by their favorite authors, may buy, read and like 'Farthing Hall.' What the appeal to American readers can be fails to make itself apparent. One can only add the hope that no more authors, whatever their place in the hierarchy of writers, will be beguiled by this fashion of publishing the joint souvenirs of their lighter and more convivial moments." Lillian Rogers

— N Y Evening Post p11m F 23 '29 750w

"You may read this book with pleasure for what it purports to be: an amusing collaboration dashed off by two prominent novelists. Or you may read it and be edified by the revelation of sentimentality that comes unwittingly to the surface when eminence takes a holiday."

N Y Times p32 Mr 24 '29 260w

"The letter writers are the two most uninteresting characters in the book and while they maunder on about very dull trivia—they are realistic letters—the men and women who might have something amusing to say are denied the right of speech. It isn't fair. Furthermore, the lover of mystery tales is grossly deceived. One is inclined to blame Mr. Walpole for the really skilful way in which the excitement is worked up, but it is a false alarm. 'Farthing Hall' isn't a mystery story at all. And that isn't fair either."

— + N Y World p11m F 10 '29 80w

"Entertaining letters—oh, yes. But the tempo is slow, slow." W. R. Brooks

— + Outlook 151:400 Mr 6 '29 130w

Pratt p38 autumn '29

"The book is light and gay and high-spirited. The inspired good sense of Mr Priestley and the sleepless, unpredictable imagination of Mr. Walpole make a pretty partnership." L. P. Hartley

+ Sat R 147:326 Mr 9 '29 350w

"It is an engaging story; but the end is too comfortable for the beginning. The authors neutralize each other considerably; I prefer their separate stings." R. A. Taylor

— + Spec 142:346 Mr 2 '29 200w

Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 3 '29 1100w

"The two authors obviously enjoyed writing it, and they manage to communicate some of their zest to the reader. . . We must express the additional pleasure which we derived from marking the differences between the touch of an inveterate novelist and that of an essayist. Mr. Walpole's exuberance needs controlling, if only by contrast; and that function, here, Mr. Priestley has very successfully performed."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p160 F 28 '29 600w

WALSH, JAMES JOSEPH. Catholic church and healing. (Calvert ser.) 109p $1 (4s) Macmillan

282 Roman Catholic church. Medicine

28-10541

" 'The Catholic Church and Healing' is another of the popular books put out in the 'Calvert Series' ($1 each). If anyone assumes from its title that the book confines itself to a defense of healings at shrines and by means of services or relics, he will be mistaken. It is rather a popular recital of the history of the Roman church as a patron of medicine from the earliest years to the present time. It exalts the work of the physician and surgeon and of the Sisters of Charity and Mercy in hospital and home and on the battlefield."—Springf'd Republican

WALSH, J. J.—Continued

"The book is informative on a subject always interesting; especially since recent years have seen a development of interest in medical history with its accompanying appreciation of the really remarkable achievements of those early days."

+ Boston Transcript p7 Jl 3 '28 220w
Cath World 128:373 D '28 300w
Springf'd Republican p10 Jl 3 '28 80w

WALSH, MAURICE. Small dark man. 314p $2 Stokes
29-21419

Hugh Forbes is the small dark man—charming and Irish. He is on a romantic quest for the red-haired woman of his dreams; but fate takes a hand in his meeting with Frances Mary, sister of Hugh's best friend, by no means red-haired. Allison Ayre, however, has hair flamingly red. Certain complications ensue among this group of young people in a Scottish highland glen before matters are satisfactorily arranged.

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p19 O 27 '29 320w

Reviewed by I. W. Lawrence
Boston Transcript p3 Ja 4 '30 2150w

"Here is a simple story delightfully told, written by an Irish Celt who knows and loves his people. The plot is little more than a series of amusing incidents that lead the two heroines into the willing arms of the two heroes. But with this plot the author blends the grace, the charm and the native humor of the true Celt. . . The style is unaffected and swings along with an easy lilt. The character drawing is refreshing. The author tells his story deftly and smoothly."

+ N Y Times p30 O 27 '29 420w

"A writer gifted with more than average descriptive powers and in possession of a strong poetic sense."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p1083 D 19 '29 220w

WALSH, WILLIAM SEBASTIAN. Inferiority feeling. 381p $2.50 Dutton
131 Psychoanalysis. Psychology, Pathological
28-27782

"Dr. Walsh uses 'inferiority feeling' as synonomous with 'inferiority complex' and gives a clear and graphic explanation of its meaning. Several chapters are devoted to discussions of the causes of such a complex and the conditions which contribute to its growth, both those of wide and general occurrence such as sex, race, social status, and those of individual character. There is much attention to the various causes especially operative in childhood to produce a deeply rooted and persistent feeling of inferiority. . . The many ways in which the inferiority complex affects behavior and the struggles which it causes are considered in several chapters, and then the author turns to presentation and discussion of the methods by which the individual can endeavor to overcome his inferiority feeling and give his character a better balance."—N Y Times

Booklist 25:268 Ap '29
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Ja 27 '29 150w

"Dr. Walsh gives a clear exposition of the inferiority feeling, its sources and the methods for dispelling it, in a manner appealing to the layman who is staggered by the technicalities of psychological treatises."

+ Boston Transcript p4 D 29 '28 270w
Cleveland Open Shelf p74 My '29

"The book can be read with profit by any one of ordinary intelligence. Dr. Walsh has a marked facility for the clear and simple statement of scientific truths without significant loss of accuracy. In this book he has used technical terms with the greatest rarity, and when employed they are always explained in simple language."

N Y Times p17 D 30 '28 430w
Pratt p7 summer '29
St Louis 27:87 Mr '29

"Dr. Walsh has done a good piece of work in making this topic comprehensible for the layman. His survey is broad, his position safe and sane, his advice sound." Joseph Jastrow

+ Sat R of Lit 5:556 D 29 '28 470w
Springf'd Republican p10 F 1 '29 260w

WALT, CHARLES, pseud. Love in Chicago. 254p $2.50 Harcourt
29-5599

Written in diary form the story is the supposed self-revelation of a Chicago racketeer and gunman who, to win the girl he is crazy about, abducts her lover, betrays and murders her father—who has foolishly relied on the racketeer for political support—and plants suspicion on the lover. It is a cold-blooded, artless tale of treachery and worse in which the gunman never once appears to himself as the monster he is.

"This is a singularly inept title for a strange and uncanny book. . . One of the most powerful and enthralling, as well as one of the truest, books about the underworld that it has ever been my good fortune to read." Herbert Asbury

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 Mr 3 '29 930w

"The first half of 'Love in Chicago' is quite admirable. The second half is bad enough to have been written in Hollywood." L: Sherwin

+ — N Y Evening Post p11m Mr 2 '29 300w

"Notwithstanding the claptrap of the plot, 'Love in Chicago' is an effective narrative. The bluntness and vigor, even the crudity of Mr. Walt's style, are splendidly adapted to his material and his gunman is a thoroughly convincing, if unappealing, piece of characterization."

+ — N Y Times p6 Mr 17 '29 450w

"Here is the portrait of a thug, a raw, harsh, vivid picture of a product of our modern civilization who is less civilized than a head-hunter. A story that you will not easily forget." W. R. Brooks

+ Outlook 151:440 Mr 13 '29 170w
Sat R of Lit 5:889 Ap 13 '29 150w
Springf'd Republican p7e My 5 '29 100w

WARBURTON, STANLEY. Avatar in Vishnu land; concerning chiefly Viroschand Ganeshkind, merchant of India. 456p $3 Scribner
28-25630

Two adventurers, one an American and the author of the book, the other an Irish captain, beat up and down the coast of India selling soda water, smuggling opium and trading it for rubies. Their smuggling is discovered and they flee from a pursuing British cruiser to the Red Sea and shipwreck. Tho the yarn is loosely spun, it is full of exciting bits of color.

Booklist 25:281 Ap '29

"There is galloping action and keen suspense. As adventure, it is as much as one could ask for." M. E. M.

+ Boston Transcript p6 D 15 '28 430w

"It is a story of human nature in the many and varied forms that human nature assumes in that welter of mingled populations, and it is based, apparently upon an ample supply of first-hand information about this human subject matter. As to verisimilitude, one would almost swear that the events had happened." W. E. G.

+ Christian Century 45:1494 D 6 '28 180w

"The whole exciting narrative is told in a delightful style. It is jagged with engaging observations. Mr. Warburton has gone about his reminiscent excavations in the comic spirit. Mixed inextricably with the narrative are scores of little touches that make Vishnu Land—India—vivid to the reader."
+ N Y Times p12 D 2 '28 800w

"Warburton makes many shrewd comments on life, and there are moments when you will think that you are reading Conrad. Don't miss this book." G: Joel
+ N Y World p11m F 10 '29 80w

"Mr. Warburton's book would be charming if it were written in better style. It is a veritable gold mine of material, but the manner of exhibition is irritating in its lack of method. . . Of the value of the volume as a book of reference there is no question. Maps, illustrations, descriptions all bear the stamp of careful research. But one is forced to say that there is an air of Arabian mystery over the whole that takes from its value as a tale of exploration."
+ — Sat R of Lit 5:400 N 24 '28 150w
Springf'd Republican p10 Ag 28 '29 280w
Times [London] Lit Sup p167 F 28 '29 170w
Wis Lib Bul 25:73 F '29

WARD, ARTHUR SARSFIELD. See Rohmer, S., pseud.

WARD, HARRY FREDERICK. Our economic morality & the ethic of Jesus. 329p $2.50 Macmillan

261 Social ethics. Sociology, Christian. Christian ethics. Economics 29-6231

"Dr. Ward's purpose is to study the influence upon each other of the ethical principles and practices of the capitalistic economic system and Christian ethics, and to discover what effect economic morality has upon man's nature and how it will influence the future of human society. The investigation leads him into branching paths which he explores far enough to reveal their relation to his main theme, so that many of his pages are devoted to setting forth the influence of our economic morality on our philosophy of life."—N Y Times

---

"The work is distinctly critical but not in a constructive way. . . It reminds one of a single side of a debate." E. A. Stokdyk
Am Econ R 19:654 D '29 450w

"As clear and as challenging a statement of the real problem of modern Christianity as anything which has been written for a decade." Reinhold Niehbur
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 Mr 17 '29 830w

"The book is a scorching attack upon our present economic and social philosophy and morality. The chief failure of Professor Ward is to suggest a constructive way out of the dilemma, a positive program that will work." T. C. R.
Boston Transcript p5 Ap 20 '29 600w

"This is the most philosophical, the most logical, and the most profound criticism of what is called capitalism yet to appear. It displaces Tawney and the Webbs. The main thesis is that business absorbs more and more of the total life of industrial nations, and that both the theory and the practices of business as at present conducted are outside of and independent of the doctrines of Christianity." J: H. Gray
+ Christian Century 46:867 Jl 3 '29 1100w

"The author puts us all into his debt for this vigorous and scholarly study of the ethic of our capitalistic society." W: R. McNutt
+ Crozer Q 6:377 Jl '29 990w

Reviewed by T. V. Smith
J Religion 9:646 O '29 1000w

Reviewed by Paul Blanshard
Nation 129:46 Jl 10 '29 700w

"Mr. Ward pursues his argument and sets forth his conclusions in a spirit so fine and a temper so judicial that many who cannot go the whole distance with him in condemnation of the capitalistic system will find his book well worth reading as a warning against our mad worship of material prosperity."
+ N Y Times p15 Ap 21 '29 420w

Reviewed by E. B. Chaffee
Outlook 152:108 My 15 '29 70w

Reviewed by E: T. Devine
Outlook 152:190 My 29 '29 300w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 79:16 Ap '29 100w

"As a provocative, straightforward analysis of contemporary society this book makes a deep impression. Here is a writer who thinks boldly and who is weary of the mouthings of a Christianity that cries, 'Lord, Lord,' but follows him neither in spirit nor in deed. At least here is a writer who has the vision of an idea and takes it seriously." J. M.
+ Springf'd Republican p10 Jl 30 '29 700w

"The task Mr. Ward set himself was critical. He has done it skilfully and with painstaking thoroughness, and has produced an important book." F. E. Johnson
+ Survey 62:207 My 1 '29 480w
Times [London] Lit Sup p879 O 31 '29 300w

"The treatise takes its place beside the epoch-making volumes of Dr. Rauschenbusch and is philosophically a more valid analysis." Jerome Davis
+ World Tomorrow 12:182 Ap '29 800w

WARD, LYND KENDALL. God's man; a novel in woodcuts. 144pl $3 J. Cape & H. Smith 29-25173

"Here we have a distinct novelty, an original novel told in about one-hundred-and-twenty wood-cuts without the aid of words, and not merely told but told with strength and eloquence. The story itself runs a poetical, sometimes melodramatic course with implications of allegory. The themes are well chosen for graphic suggestion. We follow the fate of a young artist through grimmest disillusionment, through temporary solace of love and work to a death hastened by the Fiend, who ironically is presented as the artist's protector against a mocking or hostile world and as the source of his inspiration."—Sat R of Lit

---

"Whether this method of story-telling by pictures is to get anywhere, or whether Mr. Ward will care to undertake again the tremendous labor of cutting a whole bookfull of blocks, remains to be seen. For the method to become really important there will have to be a much more original and thoughtful story than the slightly adolescent one Mr. Ward has given us. But his book is a genuine literary curiosity, and there are several woodcuts that are splendid." Herschel Brickell
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 N 24 '29 1800w

"Quite the reverse of the power to soothe is what makes this graphic novel fine and interesting; something to be considered significant in the trend of the modern novel. . . I cannot help but feel that 'God's Man' is performing a need, and perhaps a more urgent need than is usually critically recognized. The novel has in its psychological tendencies strayed far from the original intent. It is not pedantic, I am sure, to say that a periodic return to the elemental form is good and of value as a preventive against decadence. Allow that to 'God's Man' and congratulate Mr. Ward for a goodly amount of critical perception." C: Flato
+ Boston Transcript p5 D 14 '29 1100w

"How does a succession of woodcuts tell the story? Does this succession get its intentional effect? If Mr. Ward wanted us to be continually stirred to pity, to fear, the answer must be No. Occasionally, as in Part IV, The Wife, we are properly moved to compassion. But more often we are moved to a rude laughter."
— N Y Times p6 D 8 '29 650w

WARD, L. K.—Continued

"The emotional effect of this book is tremendous. You can read this book in ten minutes, but you will ponder over it for days and days." Harry Hansen

+ N Y World p16 N 13 '29 150w

"Workmanship and interpretation are extraordinarily sustained. Plate after plate is a joy for resonant relations of black and white, for superb structural line, and for emotional appeal. Everything is quite first rate, and the book must be read in woodcuts, and doubtless will be widely read." F. J. Mather

+ Sat R of Lit 6:505 D 7 '29 370w

WARDLE, ROBERT ARNOLD. Principles of applied zoology. 427p il $5.50 (21s) Longmans

591.6 Zoology, Economic. Animal industry. Zoology, Medical 29-4436

"Deals with nature and elimination of pests which are liable to harm animal and vegetable organisms, with chapters on bird encouragement, animal domestication, types and breeds of farm animals, and live-stock breeding. Part III describes some of the important animal industries, as bee-keeping, silk culture, whaling, etc. Author is Professor of Zoology in the University of Manitoba."—N Y New Tech Bks

---

"To condense into four hundred pages medico-veterinary, agricultural, and horticultural aspects of zoology, and a part dealing with animal industries, is a big order. One soon finds, however, that the author is master of the art of abstracting the part that matters from lengthy papers without sacrificing interest . . . A book of such scope and so well-written will be read with equal profit by students of zoology and agriculture alike." L. Eastham

+ Nature 124:327 Ag 31 '29 350w

N Y New Tech Bks 14:15 Ja '29

"It is a remarkable piece of work to have gathered all this into one volume. The book, however, errs in containing too much rather than too little. If Professor Wardle really meant to write on 'The Principles of Applied Zoology' he should have used his facts to illustrate his principles; as it is, they obscure them, and indeed one is hard put to it to discover any statement of principles."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p350 My 2 '29 550w

WARE, HARLAN, and PRINDLE, JAMES. Rag opera. 334p $2 Bobbs

29-5966

The Holtz Players are on their summer tour of the country. Things are not going well in the tent show. It is chiefly the fault of the juvenile, Jimmy Speed, who eloped with the banker's daughter in one of the towns passed thru, and is at present flirting with another village belle. Pa Holtz uses strategy to get rid of Jimmy, and his son looks out for the deserted young wife.

---

" 'Rag Opera' is not a remarkable book, but it has the flavor of pink lemonade." Elizabeth Sanderson

— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Ap 28 '29 350w

"In 'Rag Opera' is told an adroit story with vigor and in a plausible manner. It lives on in the imagination as a forceful and vivid piece of writing, because in it one finds an underlying sense of compassion—and a story it was a pleasure, despite the painful moments, to tell." W: E. Harris

+ Boston Transcript p5 Ap 13 '29 1400w

Cleveland Open Shelf p76 My '29

"Unfortunately, sketchy characterization, a too loosely knit plot and an inadequate and weak ending relegate the novel to the ranks of the undistinguished."

— N Y Times p24 Mr 24 '29 290w

"Much of the story is spirited and pleasing, but the ending is undeniably weak."

+ — Springf'd Republican p5e Je 2 '29 260w

WARE, NORMAN J. Labor movement in the United States, 1860-1895; a study in democracy. 409p $3 (12s 6d) Appleton

331.8 Labor and laboring classes—United States. Trade unions—United States. Knights of labor 29-4787

"Norman J. Ware's account of the period in the history of organized labor [from the beginning of the Civil War to the closing years of the nineteenth century], outlines the rise, power, and decline of the Knights of Labor and the emergence of the American Federation, when the leadership of Gompers gradually supplanted that of Powderly."—R of Rs

---

Reviewed by W. B. Catlin

Am Econ R 19:705 D '29 460w

"A valuable contribution to the history of American labor leaders, and a new light on the factional internal fights and jealousies of the knights." J: R. Commons

+ Am Hist R 34:889 Jl '29 550w

Am Pol Sci R 23:519 My '29 130w

"It is highly probable that this volume will become the standard work upon the rise and fall of the Knights of Labor and the emergence of the American Federation of Labor from the ruins. Professor Ware has had access to private documents and letters of prominent labor leaders of this period and much new information is revealed. The story of this spectacular and ill-fated organization is accurately, graphically, and interestingly told." C: S. Tippetts

+ Ann Am Acad 145:208 S '29 130w

Booklist 26:56 N '29

"The book deals with one of the most important and fascinating epochs in labor history. Mr. Ware shows rare skill in unraveling the tangled skein of events during these years." H. W. Laidler

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p13 Je 9 '29 400w

Boston Transcript p3 Ap 20 '29 200w

Cleveland Open Shelf p86 Je '29

Reviewed by Stuart Chase

Nation 129:281 S 11 '29 320w

"One of the most valuable features of Mr. Ware's study is the added comprehension which it gives of the characters of both Gompers and Powderly. Powderly emerges from the narrative as a figure of lath and plaster and as unreal a poseur in the field of labor as was Louis Napoleon in European politics." P. H. Douglas

+ New Repub 59:320 Ag 7 '29 1000w

"Professor Ware writes with a humorous realism and an eye for the non-schematic elements of history." G: Soule

N Y Evening Post p9m My 25 '29 420w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 79:12 My '29 100w

St Louis 27:194 Je '29

Reviewed by J: Troxell

Survey 62:258 My 15 '29 250w

"Professor Ware's account is marked by vigour and impartiality."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p319 Ap 18 '29 150w

Wis Lib Bul 25:124 Ap '29

WARFIELD, BENJAMIN BRECKINRIDGE. Biblical doctrines. 665p $4 (18s) Oxford

230 Theology. Bible.Whole—Criticism, interpretation, etc. 29-14370

The author, who died in 1921, was a leading Calvinistic theologian, for thirty-four years professor of didactic and polemic theology at Princeton theological seminary. This volume comprises a collection of his articles on theological subjects contributed to Bible dictionaries and encyclopedias and to the Princeton theological review.

---

"From the standpoint of historical theology this compilation is valuable as showing the kind of theology taught at Princeton from 1887 to 1921. One cannot help comparing it with the theology taught at Union Theological Seminary, and it seems hard to believe that they both are of the same denomination. From the standpoint of modern thought the theology in this volume is as much behind the times as the theology of Dr. Warfield's predecessor, Professor Archibald A. Hodge."

+ Boston Transcript p3 Jl 6 '29 320w

"Those who appreciate the work of the learned author and know his contributions to the Princeton Theological Review, will be glad to have these elaborate and learned studies in this volume, with their able vindication of Protestant thought against Modernist theories."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p751 S 26 '29 200w

WARING, MRS ETHEL MAY (BUSHNELL), and WILKER, MARGUERITE. Behavior of young children; with an introd. by Patty Smith Hill. (Ser. on childhood educ.) 12ip $1 Scribner

136.7 Children—Management (29-19010)

"The purpose of the book is to serve as a guide in the study of the behavior of young children. The first approach is through incidents about children which describe the various ways in which they behave. Incidents have been presented in pairs. One child in each pair is learning more desirable behavior than the other. The incidents have for the most part been taken from observations of children. The second approach is through quotations selected from various authors on child behavior. The last approach is through a number of questions. Specific questions guide the mother and the student in making an estimate of the child's general behavior tendencies stating in what respect his behavior is desirable or undesirable."—p 3

"The uniqueness of this small volume is its attention to two and only two problems of child training, and its organization and treatment of these problems. They are 'Eating Behavior' and 'Sleeping Behavior.' The implicit and implied precepts are clear enough to make the book particularly useful to those parents who do not know what eating and sleeping habits are desirable and who know less about the correction of poor habits and practices in those two phases of child nurture."

+ Boston Transcript p8 O 11 '29 170w

"The treatment is simple, concrete and direct. All parents ought to find their handbook most useful."

+ N Y Times p5 S 8 '29 230w

WARNER, SYLVIA TOWNSEND. True heart. 260p $2.50 Viking press

29-5230

"A true heart is the precious possession of an orphan asylum girl who becomes a farmer's drudge and falls in innocent love with an idiot. When he is taken from her, she sets out in exquisite singleness of purpose to recover him. She meets with friendliness from the simple and rebuffs from the proud. She disarms the worldly wise with her purity, and finally takes her matter up with the Queen. But it is not Her Majesty's nod but Sukey's true faith that wins her beloved into her arms to keep at last."—Outlook

Booklist 25:288 Ap '29

"Miss Warner shows us characters who are eternally commonplace, 'who do not live by bread alone but by some cherished and fantastic pleasure.' And she has an almost uncanny power of realizing the dream by the most disarmingly plausible means. The way in which the stuff of life lends itself to satisfy the desires of the mind gives a kind of eerie quality to very ordinary objects and experience." R. M. Lovett

+ Bookm 69:194 Ap '29 200w

"This novel is not whimsical. It is not fantastic. Unless I am mistaken in the intention of the author, it might be called fantasy, in the sense of being a deliberate effort to separate the reader for a moment from his ordinary mood of objectivity and set him down in a world of symbolic truths. . . The whole book, in spite of a few living characters, a few credibly breathing animals, a few strong words, real hay, real mud, real sky and tree and moon lovingly described, is like the changing landscape of a dream where figures move on some ageless errand." K. A. Porter

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 F 17 '29 850w

Reviewed by D. F. Gilman

Boston Transcript p2 Mr 2 '29 1350w

"Sylvia Townsend Warner is achieving a distinction. She is doing something 'different' and something possibly significant from the standpoint of literary history." Norah Meade

+ Nation 128:508 Ap 24 '29 700w

"Miss Warner's phrases are sharp and bright, economical, and spare. 'The True Heart' is a great advance on 'Lolly Willowes,' for those who prefer the realistic to the fantastic, and contains at least one scene of delicious comedy, when the heroine, Sukey Bond, travels to London in a Covent Garden car-load of parsley and marjoram and is accorded an interview with Queen Victoria at Buckingham Palace." V. Sackville-West

+ Nation and Ath 44:788 Mr 9 '29 420w

" 'The True Heart' is a whimsical, an ironic, a touching, a quietly beautiful story enriched by prose of the first order. Only David Garnett can compete with Mrs. Warner in the writing of such a tale." L. Kronenberger

+ N Y Times p7 F 17 '29 920w

"Miss Warner's book is a sustained piece of quiet humor that never departs from its subdued key, and never loses its consistent charm. The True Heart should be one of the indispensables of the spring reading list." Herschel Brickell

+ No Am 227:adv Ap '29 100w

"This is a subject after Miss Warner's own heart. It is more ambitious than her previous books but no less delicate in its blend of humor and pathos."

+ Outlook 151:350 F 27 '29 130w

Pratt p38 autumn '29

"Those who respect, as I do, Miss Warner's fine, exquisite, individual talent will be disappointed by 'The True Heart.' The whole beautifully-written book is refreshed and watered by a sense of pity; alas that so often it should flow into channels where the ordinary mind cannot readily follow it."

— + Sat R 147:327 Mr 9 '29 180w

"It is precisely this nameless and unusual combination of imp and cherub, of humor and a lyric tenderness, that makes the story so delectable." Grace Frank

+ Sat R of Lit 5:748 Mr 9 '29 650w

"It is an odd kind of rustic fairy tale, with insets of realism, as things happen in dreams, most appealing when it dwells on the love of the childlike pair. Miss Warner's serene, light-footed style tenderly strokes the figures of her wistful lovers." R. A. Taylor

+ Spec 142:345 Mr 2 '29 280w

"To express its quality one would have to compare this story to an illumination to some old Italian series-picture of the life of Griselda, or to the figures on a Flemish tapestry. Though the author does not shrink from the ugly and the violent this very charming tale does not belong to the actual world at all, but to the ever-imagined youth of the world when a true and innocent heart could go unscathed through every danger, unspoiled by any contact, to find its love at the last."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p160 F 28 '29 450w

Wis Lib Bul 25:160 My '29

WARREN, CHARLES. Making of the Constitution. 832p $6 Little

342.73 United States—Constitutional history. United States. Constitution 28-27550

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

"Many who cannot examine the records themselves or use the works of eminent historical

WARREN, CHARLES—Continued
writers will find of interest and value the story of the Convention's proceedings as told in this work. The chief criticism of the book arises from the fact that the author's personal views and prejudices are constantly in evidence." C: G. Haines.

+ — Am Pol Sci R 23:1044 N '29 550w

Booklist 25:195 F '29

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 79:24 F '29 200w

"There is little that is exactly new about Mr. Warren's book, but its plan is so well conceived and the execution so admirable as to make it a scholarly contribution of real importance." W: MacDonald

+ Sat R of Lit 5:853 Ap 6 '29 900w

Wis Lib Bul 25:97 Mr '29

WARREN, ROBERT PENN. John Brown; the making of a martyr. 474p il $5 Brewer

B or 92 Brown, John 29-23481

Written by a Southern partisan, this study of John Brown endeavors to destroy the martyr's halo with which some historians and biographers have vested him, and paints him as a fanatic who shed needless blood in no heroic cause, but only to achieve self-glorification.

Reviewed by Leonard Ehrlich

N Y Evening Post p13m N 16 '29 1000w

"For John Brown, Warren has human loathing, but this is overlaid with a scientific interest in and sympathy for the man's undoubted mental and emotional defects. . . Mr. Warren set himself a stiff job. He has tried to kill a song that has been a pledge of life everlasting to millions of marching men." Paul Sifton

N Y World p11m D 1 '29 450w

"Robert Penn Warren shows the diligence for research, the desire to reach a general audience, the care for details of background and chronology which have become familiar in the work of many young writers who find biography a stimulating and profitable field of effort. . . John Brown persists as a towering figure. And Robert Penn Warren's book, for all its interest and value, does not get at the heart of that figure." F. L. Robbins

+ — Outlook 153:427 N 13 '29 320w

WARSHOW, ROBERT IRVING. Story of Wall Street. 362p il $5 Greenberg

332.6 Wall street. Capitalists and financiers. Speculation 29-23801

"Mr. Warshow follows the growth of Wall Street in a general way, bringing out its relations with the government and with industrial and commerical development, down to the time of David Little, whom he terms 'the first manipulative operator.' The panic of 1837 gave Little his great chance, and the author shows how he originated and practiced the tactics that later on were adopted and developed by others, who outdid him in ingenuity and scope. Thereafter Mr. Warshow makes his narrative largely the personal story of the operations of Drew, Vanderbilt, Gould, Cooke, Keene, Field and others, on down to our own times of the interlocking of 'big business' and Wall Street, and such personalities as Morgan, Rockefeller, Carnegie, the automobile men."—N Y Times

"Many of the incidents related of such men as Jacob Little, Cornelius Vanderbilt, James Fisk, Jay Gould and Daniel Drew, are told for the first time in 'The Story of Wall Street.'" F. J. Williams

+ N Y Evening Post p12m N 23 '29 530w

"Mr. Warshow's treatment of his theme is a happy combination of its personal and its general features, and in his estimates of characters and of industrial and commercial forces he shows an admirably judicial and clear-sighted temper. His book is particularly interesting at this spectacular moment because of its graphic accounts of Wall Street's many previous spectacular and hysterical seasons."

+ N Y Times p9 N 10 '29 780w

WARWICK, FRANCES EVELYN (MAYNARD) GREVILLE, countess of. Life's ebb and flow. 365p il $5 Morrow [24s Hutchinson]

B or 92 29-18341

"'Life's Ebb and Flow,' the memoirs of Frances, Countess of Warwick, is both picturesque and significant in its tales of courts and kings, of poverty and social unrest. Since Warwick Castle is one of the great show places of England, many American travellers have wandered through its stately rooms. The intimate revelation of the social conversion of a modern countess will therefore have real interest for thoughtful Americans and will challenge the romance of the past with the problems of modern life."—Portland Evening News

Booklist 26:117 D '29

Christian Century 46:1512 D 4 '29 350w

"An entrancing 'human interest' document."

+ Churchman p16 D 28 '29 100w

"It may be that she could have written a more sensational book; but, after all, the serious reader is more concerned with the self-revelation of a biography than with the interesting incidents that were well-nigh inevitable in the life of a highly placed woman of much more than ordinary attraction. It is the story of a life that stands, in many of its varied aspects, quite alone."

+ New Statesman 34:24 O 12 '29 420w

N Y Evening Post p12m O 19 '29 230w

"This is a book for all good Americans who visit England, for students of political economy, and for social antiquarians who wish to know how really brilliant English society was in the '80s and '90s. . . As a source book for her time her reminiscences should have increasing value, and as a personality she will remain distinct for a long time." Isabel Proudfit

+ N Y Times p4 S 22 '29 2000w

"Fascinating book of personal reminiscences. Besides providing much valuable information for future writers of intimate biographies, Lady Warwick has delightfully sketched her own varied career." J. D. Tasker

+ Outlook 153:111 S 18 '29 230w

"Granted that the method of her reminiscences is rather fragmentary, Lady Warwick's story has both sincerity and color. She has added to personal charm generosity of spirit, which is rarer than charm. In her plea for sanctuaries for the hunted creatures of the wood and her real openness of heart toward all classes of people, she has gone beyond a mere pose and has given freely of herself and her money to carry on social experiments." F. E. Dunn

+ Portland Evening News p13 S 17 '29 360w

Reviewed by C. E. M. Joad

Spec 143:417 S 28 '29 650w

"This book will have an interest for students of English society and for all who enjoy a spirited, personal chronicle in which they are challenged to trace unity of character beneath so much diversity of experience."

+ — Springf'd Republican p7e S 1 '29 870w

Times [London] Lit Sup p706 S 12 '29 200w

WASSERMANN, JAKOB. Maurizius case; tr. by Caroline Newton. 546p $3 Liveright

29-22204

Etzel Andergast, sixteen-year-old son of the prosecuting attorney, succeeds in having reopened the famous Maurizius case. Maurizius had been sentenced to imprisonment, charged with the murder of his wife—but Etzel, obtaining the confessions of each of the principal persons involved, proves that Maurizius had not shot his wife Elli. The story of the guilt that preceded the crime makes up the main body of the story.

"The present novel is of gigantic strength, overwhelming in some places and of unusual force in every paragraph. There is also some beauty in it that somehow or other finds expression in literature with such infrequency that we are minded to become dubious about the abundance of truth. Miss Newton's translation is, in the main, excellent. It is only to be regretted that she did not reparagraph Wassermann." A. W. Porterfield

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 N 3 '29 1300w

"Two qualities make Wassermann's work stand out in significant contrast to most of the books of the present time. He is not preoccupied with any single individual and the ramifications of his personality, but rather with the relationship of each person to all others and the individual's position in the entire scheme of life. And he writes with a forcefulness of emotional expression that cuts into the mind of the reader, leaving a sharp and lasting impression." P. L.

+ — Boston Transcript p10 N 30 '29 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p158 D '29

"His characters do not talk often, and when they do talk they are half fulfilling their character and half expressing Wassermann himself. He weaves his people slowly, and often indirectly; in the end they are terribly lifelike, with the unnatural reality of dream images. There is no sensuous beauty and little attempted humor. When that humor does appear, it is the wounding humor which was also Heine's." J. I. N.

+ New Repub 61:178 Ja 1 '30 250w

"Wassermann has fashioned a story that responds to his purpose with the flexibility of something that is alive." Gertrude Diamant

+ N Y World p10m N 3 '29 900w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks

Outlook 153:351 O 30 '29 100w

"From the first, in this new book, the reader of Wassermann—and who, these days, is not one of his readers?—is on familiar ground. . . The story of Maurizius is, except for its element of mystery, commonplace enough, sordid and pitiful rather than tragic. But the manner in which it is elicited, the analysis of the light of truth as it is refracted in half a dozen different personalities; the subtle interweaving of motive and counter-motive until what has been obscure at last becomes clear,—this is altogether admirable! This provides pages which Wassermann has nowhere surpassed." Garrett Mattingly

+ Sat R of Lit 6:601 D 28 '29 850w

WASSON, BEN. Devil beats his wife. 254p $2 Harcourt

29-7083

The novel creates a picture of plantation life in the South after the Civil war. A somber note creeps into the story when the young wife and mistress of the house, breaking all tradition, succumbs to a Yankee visitor during her husband's absence. Only Aunt Ann, an old Negro retainer, knows of the lapse. To her it is an unmitigated horror, and she hates the child fathered by the Northerner. Her angry resentment thrusts itself between mother and son, and throws a shadow over the happy life of the plantation.

Bookm 69:xxiv Jl '29 170w

"The hand of the novice is perceptible in the irrelevance of much of the material." Garreta Busey

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p41 Ap 14 '29 600w

Boston Transcript p6 My 11 '29 200w

Cleveland Open Shelf p95 Je '29

Nation 128:537 My 1 '29 130w

"There is an intermingling of realism and a poetic conception of change. The note of tenderness which creeps in bespeaks the author's love of the South. Mr. Wasson has fused the characters, action, and setting in true atmosphere." Muriel Asher

+ N Y Evening Post p10m My 4 '29 400w

"The story is an interesting, gracefully written, restrained portrayal of the earlier South's absorption by the new."

+ N Y World p11m Mr 31 '29 120w

"The story itself is somewhat slight, but the atmosphere is perfectly evoked, and the style is admirable. . . It is in every way a finished piece of work." Herschel Brickell

+ No Am 227:adv My '29 330w

"Some of the praise that was lavished on Henry Alain-Fournier's 'The Wanderer,' for its comprehension of child psychology and eerie sense of humor, might be deflected to Wasson's novel." E. M. Benson

+ Outlook 151:506 Mr 27 '29 130w

"The material is thin, the characterization superficial, the flow of the story a mere trickle."

— Sat R of Lit 5:960 Ap 27 '29 150w

WASSON, MRS MILDRED. Churchill street. 287p $2 Coward-McCann

28-27811

Mary Bradshaw lives alone with an eccentric aunt in a dignified, lovely old home in Maine. Her good friend John has always loved her, but a newcomer, Paul Wentworth, is the first to waken Mary's love. When their troubled affair is over Mary realizes that her sturdy New England John fits best in the background against which her life has been lived.

"Here is a pleasing love story of Maine backwaters with all the correct fittings."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 D 30 '28 200w

Boston Transcript p5 Ja 19 '29 230w

"The sentiment of the book never becomes sentimental and the pleasant ending is not forced."

+ N Y Times p9 D 2 '28 480w

"The story is negligible. The most authentic bit of observation is in the character of the general houseworker, who has the flavor of Maine about her."

— + Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 27 '29 90w

Times [London] Lit Sup p497 Je 20 '29 200w

WASSON, MRS MILDRED. Everlasting Harpers. 302p $2 Coward-McCann

29-17263

A steamer romance and a happy sequence in Paris was brought to an abrupt close for Margot and Jerry by news of the death of Jerry's father. But, back once more in the New England town, taking over his father's business, engaged to marry the home-town girl who no longer appeals to him, and hedged in by a bevy of aunts, Jerry, in a desperate moment, announces to the aunts and his fiancée that he already has a wife—and cables Margot to join him. The rest of the story concerns Margot's battle to adjust herself to this New England household, and to win over the aunts.

"It is by no means high comedy, but nevertheless The Everlasting Harpers portrays rather deftly the clash, the interplay and the final reconciliation of varying viewpoints. The Harper aunts, so sharply differentiated and yet so alike in their pride of family and place, are delightful, full-flavored characters. Unfortunately, the whole book is bathed in a mild wash of sentimentality and is destitute of that distinction of style which marked the work of another, and better, Maine writer—Sarah Orne Jewett." E. H. Walton

— + Bookm 70:318 N '29 250w

"There is enough menace to the young people's peace to keep you turning the pages. There is enough sly humor in the characterizing of the aunts to counterbalance the charm of the lovers. In fact, the book is a well proportioned dish, combined of the faintly acid and the melting sweet."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 S 1 '29 320w

"The bleakness and narrowness which have often been presented to readers as the chief characteristics of life 'Down East' have been replaced in this story by a sturdiness, sincerity and deep-rooted serenity of body and mind. . . A refreshing economy and simplicity of language, peculiarly in keeping with the spirit of the story, marks this book. The depiction of the Harper family reveals an unusual gift of characterization, and the tale is told with a sympathy for the life pictured, which makes it particularly enjoyable."

WASSON, MILDRED—Continued
+ N Y Times p37 N 17 '29 400w

"Though some of the characterization, particularly of the aunts, is fresh, there is little that is new, and much that is artificial, about this story. Jerry astonishes the town by his success at the factory, Margot wins the hearts of the seemingly flint-like aunts and, incidentally, the heart of her husband."
— + Springf'd Republican p7e O 13 '29 150w

WAST, HUGO, pseud. See Martínez Zuviría, G. A.

WATERMAN, PHILIP F. Story of superstition. 307p $3.50 Knopf

398.3 Superstition 29-7704

All the superstitions which Mr Waterman considers were in remote times connected with ideas of sex and the procreation of life. Symbols were designed to represent these ideas, but in the course of time the original meaning of those symbols which have come down to us has been greatly modified or changed entirely.

Booklist 25:347 Je '29

Reviewed by Woodbridge Riley
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Ap 14 '29 500w

"The author has produced something really useful, really fascinating, and one may even add really literary."
+ Boston Transcript p2 Ap 17 '29 150w

"Mr. Waterman's book is an uncritical but readable addition to the popular literature on the origin of the beliefs and practices that still persist among us. The treatment would have been sounder had the writer a larger acquaintance with modern scholarship." Ellsworth Faris
+ — New Repub 58:337 My 8 '29 350w

"If the title of his book is a little too pretentious, Mr. Waterman has certainly succeeded, nevertheless, in running not only the bogy man but many other creatures of superstition to earth."
+ N Y Times p12 Mr 24 '29 500w

"Rabbi Waterman's book is journalistic. Another 'story of' would be a quick and not inaccurate characterization. It is written in ideas of one syllable and the author is too intent on explaining such trivia as why we throw rice at weddings, why we knock on wood and why horseshoes are lucky, to make his work of abiding interest and value to the student." Raphael McCord
— + N Y World p11m Mr 24 '29 350w

"It is an extremely interesting short non-technical comprehensive treatise, and thoroughly readable." W. R. Brooks
+ Outlook 151:516 Mr 27 '29 180w
St Louis 27:192 Je '29

"While in such a book one ought not to expect too exhaustive research, one is sometimes annoyed by a vagueness of authority, which forces us to take the author's statements on trust. . . Sometimes the statements are more doubtful." S. F. Damon
— + Sat R of Lit 5:905 Ap 20 '29 250w

"This book is not a history of superstition; it is not even a serious attempt to present the major phases of the subject. What the author has done is to turn over a random collection of popular beliefs and pick out savory morsels." Bruno Lasker
— Survey 62:205 My 1 '29 220w

WATKINS, GORDON S. Labor management. 726p $5 Shaw, A.W.

658 Employment management. Efficiency, Industrial 28-21633

"A comprehensive and up-to-date treatise on all phases of personnel management in industry. Primarily, a textbook and a manual for personnel directors, but of interest to all students of labor problems and factory executives."—Wis Lib Bul

"This is a worthy piece of work, comprehensive in scope, excellent in treatment and readable. While the volume brings little new material to light and lays no claim to originality in this respect, it brings within the covers of one book a rather complete grouping of material necessary to the understanding and supervision of personnel work. As a manual and incentive to thought for the personnel director, it should prove very useful." A. P. Haake
+ Am Econ R 19:305 Je '29 480w
Booklist 25:149 Ja '29

"If there is any general characterization which can be applied to this work, it would seem to be that it is one of sound, practical common sense. This book should be placed in the hands of every executive having occasion to handle large groups of laboring men or women." C: R. Gow
+ Eng N 102:321 F 21 '29 650w

"Doctor Watkins' book is a systematic manual of good practice for these latter-day employers who are bent on the conservation rather than the exploitation of their labor. The book is intended as a text and guide book for managers now on the job and, still more, for the future managers who now are students in our collegiate schools of business. For this second use, at least, the book is well arranged and the material effectively presented." P. F. Brissenden
+ Ind & Eng Chem 21:194 F '29 280w
St Louis 26:352 N '28

"Seven hundred of the most enlightened pages yet published in this field." D. A. Laird
+ Survey 61:246 N 15 '28 250w
Wis Lib Bul 24:302 N '28

WATKINS, LEONARD L. Bankers' balances. 429p $6 McGraw

332.1 Banks and banking—United States. Federal reserve banks 29-3927

"This volume has as a sub-title, 'A study of the Effects of the Federal Reserve System on Banking Relationships,' which epitomizes its purpose fairly well. Just what the effects of the Federal Reserve System have been on interbank deposits is the main problem of the work though, in bringing together and analyzing the materials on this point, much important corollary data are presented."—Ann Am Acad

"The book gives evidence of a firm grasp of banking principles. It should be of value in helping to keep the literature of banking abreast of recent developments. Incidentally, it should be mentioned that this volume received first prize in the triennial contest of the Chicago Trust Company." H. L. Reed
+ Am Econ R 19:492 S '29 620w

"While the work lacks a measure of unity in treatment, it will be found to contain much valuable information on inter-bank relationships heretofore appearing only in scattered articles and undigested form." Wright Hoffman
+ Ann Am Acad 145:209 S '29 320w

WATKINS, SHIRLEY. This poor player. 454p $2.50 Macrae Smith co.

29-8002

This rather long and leisurely story is a character drawing of Alexander Birney, a man of great mental gifts and extraordinary personal charm. Birney is shown in relation to the many people who lavish upon him their admiration and love, and who are privileged to support him while he labors at his psychological masterpiece. Tho his actual accomplishments are nil, Birney and his friends as well, however much they have suffered and sacrificed for him, keep their illusions to the pathetic end.

"This is an extremely interesting portrait of an extremely interesting man. Miss Watkins's Birney is a modern Rudin. Abstractly considered, Rudin and Birney are almost identical. Concretely they are as far apart as the poles.

Miss Watkins has simply composed a new improvisation on a theme that had already been used by a master. In so doing she has written a book of fine imaginative quality that challenges adult attention." A. B. Parsons

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 Mr 24 '29 1200w

"There is power in 'This Poor Player.' Plot and characterization are sustained more consistently than is usual in a novel of frustration. Conduct is always explicable in terms of a fundamental philosophy. The women of 'This Poor Player' are unusual." W. M. T.

+ Boston Transcript p6 Ap 20 '29 500w

" 'This Poor Player' escapes complete boredom because a paranoiac is always a curiosity, because a charlatan, even a metaphysical one, has fascination."

— + Nation 129:98 Jl 24 '29 170w

"The novel sprawls, though its end is neatly dovetailed with its beginning, and it is at times over-rationalized. But it is worth a dozen of the glib, rapid-fire stories that have attempted similar portrayal of a personality compounded of brilliance and weakness, at once victimizing the world and victimized by itself. . . Indeed, Miss Watkins is a writer to watch. She has a style that is always capable and sometimes distinguished, insight into the complexities of character and the motives that govern conduct, a tolerance that tempers discernment, and a reasoned attitude toward life." Amy Loveman

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:797 Mr 23 '29 700w

Springf'd Republican p5e Je 2 '29 250w

"An unusually interesting and sincere book, with material in it that will not be forgotten. The setting is just perceptibly American, but scene and characters could be transferred to English country of the nineteenth century without destroying the sense of verisimilitude."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p920 N 14 '29 750w

WATSON, JOHN BROADUS, and MACDOUGALL, WILLIAM. Battle of behaviorism; an exposition and an exposure. (New science ser.) 96p $1 Norton [2s 6d K. Paul]

158 Behaviorism (psychology) 29-8811

A debate on behaviorism between Dr Watson, sponsor of the behavioristic theory, and Dr MacDougall, leader of the opposition.

Bookm 69:viii Ag '29 130w

Boston Transcript p2 Je 5 '29 320w

Christian Century 46:779 Je 12 '29 60w

Cleveland Open Shelf p136 N '29

St Louis 27:303 N '29

Sat R of Lit 5:841 Mr 30 '29 300w

"This entertaining little book contains a defence of 'behaviorism' by its chief prophet, and a criticism by our best-known psychologist."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p863 N 15 '28 150w

"A brief but admirable account of the position of the two opposing schools of behavioristic and purposive psychology."

+ World Tomorrow 12:236 My '29 50w

World Tomorrow 13:42 Ja '30 70w

WATSON, ROBERT. High hazard. 346p $2 Carrier [7s 6d Low]

"In putting together this tale of love and adventure in the Far North, Robert Watson has spared none of the conventional devices of romantic fiction. 'High Hazard' begins in a waterfront opium den with Eric Gilchrist's gallant rescue of an indiscreet young woman from the toils of a gang of Chinese thugs. It continues through a dangerous journey on a coasting vessel bound for the Arctic, where Eric a second time preserves Coralie Stockton and her pearls from the machinations of an international jewel thief."—N Y Times

"Mr. Watson supplies lots of pretty sentiment and some rough stuff for ballast." Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 My 12 '29 130w

Boston Transcript p4 Je 1 '29 300w

"Eric is undaunted by the array of fantastic dangers. He emerges triumphant in a climax which is highly incredible, but swift and thrilling enough for almost any taste."

N Y Times p22 My 12 '29 180w

Times [London] Lit Sup p245 Mr 29 '28 180w

WATSON, VIRGINIA CRUSE. Ginevra. 321p il $2.50 Dutton

29-15129

The romantic adventures of a seventeenth century Florentine maiden who wandered forth in masculine garb, in an attempt to retrieve the fallen fortunes of her family, and succeeded better than she had dreamed possible.

"This is, without exception, the most ridiculous tale we have read in a long time. It is suggested for girls, but we can only say that it should not be put into the hands of maidens while the dew of innocence is still upon their brows."

— Boston Transcript p2 Ag 7 '29 330w

N Y Evening Post p6m Ag 10 '29 200w

Reviewed by O. M. Fuller

N Y World p11m D 8 '29 40w

"If the enthusiastic author sometimes errs on the side of bad taste through her love of colorful words, much may be forgiven her for her ability to keep an exciting tale rattling to the end."

Sat R of Lit 6:544 D 7 '29 80w

Springf'd Republican p7e O 20 '29 170w

WAUGH, ALEC. Portrait of a celibate (Eng title Nor many waters). 247p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Chapman & H.]

29-5221

To an established London firm which does not usually handle such cases, comes a client seeking divorce. She is young, beautiful, and innocent. The junior partner takes the case. He falls in love with her, and as he realizes what she must go thru to win the divorce according to English law he urges her to go back to her husband. She does so, and the young lawyer becomes from that time an ardent advocate of the reform of divorce laws.

Reviewed by A. B. Maurice

Bookm 69:xxiii My '29 170w

"Mr. Waugh apparently intended to set down the story of a grande passion, which sears its victims and leaves the man, at least, so smitten that the remainder of his life is a mournful consecration to the past. Unfortunately, his characters are featherweights. Mr. Waugh's style, if a trifle mellow, is generally restrained and has a flavor of good breeding that differentiates it from the work of such other British sentimentalists as Warwick Deeping." G. T. Hellman

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 F 24 '29 530w

"The 'Portrait of a Celibate' might well have been written in straight narrative. The transition from one part to another seems vague and uncertain. The person who tells the story is lifeless and unnecessary; if the amount of space devoted to him had been given to a further study of the main character, the celibate, James Merrick, the whole book would have been much improved." A. C.

— Boston Transcript p10 Ap 6 '29 350w

"Mr. Waugh's middle-class English hero is dull; and Mr. Waugh knows he is dull. But he curious legal ramifications of the very careful plot suffice to intrigue the reader, despite the rubber-stamp characterization." C. P. F.

+ — Nation 128:406 Ap 3 '29 80w

"The psychology is adequate and intelligent; the story well told. But the danger in books like [this] lies in the fact that we have to accept the author's valuation of his own characters: if we do not, the tragedy fails to grip us." Francis Birrell

+ — Nation and Ath 43:680 Ag 25 '28 180w

WAUGH, ALEC—Continued

N Y Times p28 Mr 17 '29 450w

"We have here a very earnest book; so earnest that the author has forgotten to make it interesting. It is a tract against the state of the divorce laws in England, rather weakened by the fact that the particular evil illustrated has been corrected these many years. It is a dignified book, and well written. But alas, until the last long chapter, it has no warmth, no glow."

+ — N Y World p11m Mr 17 '29 250w

Reviewed by L. P. Hartley

Sat R 146:249 Ag 23 '28 500w

"Mr. Waugh's is a very competent handling of a familiar situation. The craftsmanship is of the superior sort that dares to give an epilogue in the first chapter, yet retains the reader's interest through all the processes leading to a known end."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:813 Mr 23 '29 350w

"It is a slight story, padded with skilful essay writing, and finally melting away into a vague, rhetorical mysticism. But it contains at least two admirably drawn portraits, and in his own way Mr. Waugh is seldom less than capable. His work, indeed, suggests a very efficient and highly polished machine that needs, for its adequate use, to be fed with better material. Cannot Mr. Waugh find that better material?" Gilbert Thomas

— + Spec 141:224 Ag 18 '28 130w

"The events are dreary, and Mr. Waugh treats them with a sober flatness that does not relieve them. He seems more concerned in staging an argument than in presenting characters—in fine, the novel bears more evidence of having been carefully worked up from a note than of having been a fruit of artistic inspiration."

— Times [London] Lit Sup p592 Ag 16 '28 480w

WAUGH, EVELYN. Decline and fall. 293p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Chapman & H.]

29-8725

Paul Pennyfeather, a theological student at Oxford, is expelled as the result of a prank. His subsequent rococco adventures in a boy's school, in the smart set where he is the victim of a sophisticated seduction, and in prison, end with his return to the theological seminary.

"Mr. Waugh has a juvenile gusto which is spirited at its best—and at its worst descends to errors of taste as transparent and silly as most practical jokes. Perhaps you will want, as I did, to give this smart young author a good shaking from time to time, but at least you will have to admit that the boy is having a good time." Mary Ross

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 Mr 31 '29 650w

"It is a burlesque, extravaganza, amusing at times and at times very dull indeed. One's impression after finishing the reading of it is an absolute satisfaction that the world is far better than Mr. Waugh would have us believe."

+ — Boston Transcript p4 My 4 '29 230w

Nation and Ath 43:796 S 22 '28 70w

" 'Decline and Fall' is that all-too-rare phenomenon, a good nonsense novel. Its author has had the happy inspiration to take nothing seriously, and least of all himself. The result is a book which makes more sense than most." T. S. Matthews

+ New Repub 58:259 Ap 17 '29 170w

"The humor throughout is of that subtle metallic kind which, more than anything else, seems a product of this generation. A delicious cynicism runs through the book." Cyril Connolly

+ New Statesman 32:126 N 3 '28 380w

"Although much of its humor is insular in its appeal, there are large sections that make very amusing universal reading. The exaggerated realism and mock sophistication of the style are excellently adapted to the story."

+ N Y Times p6 Ap 7 '29 250w

" 'Decline and Fall' is a novel full of underlying sincerity of purpose, a little despairing, a little cruel, but adorned with the rare gift of spontaneous humor."

+ N Y World p11m My 5 '29 260w

Times [London] Lit Sup p685 S 27 '28 360w

WAUGH, WILLIAM TEMPLETON. James Wolfe, man and soldier. 333p il $5 Carrier

B or 92 Wolfe, James 29-26167

The Kingsford professor of history at McGill university has written this biography of the hero of the Plains of Abraham. It is a military life of Wolfe and studies minutely his campaigns at Louisburg and Quebec.

Booklist 25:246 Mr '29

"Professor Waugh's book meets a real need, and meets it the better because, while professedly written for a popular audience, it is actually a work of sound and painstaking scholarship." W: MacDonald

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Mr 3 '29 550w

"Out of this story, the first biography of Wolfe in eighteen years, emerges one of the strangest and most compelling figures concerned in the early history of this continent. The story is told brilliantly and entertainingly with due appreciation of the high points as well as the humorous aspects of the life of a great soldier." D. L. M.

+ Boston Transcript p4 N 7 '28 500w

"The author is adequately equipped for such a task. He has real knowledge of the historical background. Throughout the book one sees that he has studied military history. He knows a good deal about the weapons of the time. He knows too the relations between army and navy, and he puts in its right place each of the services. . . His book is of high quality and, owing to its thoroughness of method and its balanced judgment, it should rank as a standard biography." G: M. Wrong

+ Canadian Hist R 9:342 D '28 2050w

"Apart from its historical value, Professor Waugh's narrative is uncommonly good reading, and many passages in Wolfe's own letters—especially his thumb-nail sketches of Scottish society under George II.—are delightful in their vigour and freedom."

+ Nation and Ath 45:836 S 28 '29 550w

New Statesman 33:555 Ag 10 '29 1300w

"There has been so much research about Wolfe by Dr. A. G. Doughty, the Canadian archivist, and others well placed for the purpose, that the field has been opened for a correlation of their data; that is, for a research of the research. In this field is the major contribution of Professor Waugh, but not the only one. He has subjected all of the deposit of information on Wolfe to a minute scrutiny, weeding out here, reinforcing there. The result is a life of Wolfe which is acceptable because it gives a complete and satisfying portrayal." A. S. Will

+ N Y Times p6 Mr 24 '29 1500w

"Professor Waugh does not isolate his subject. He fits him skilfully into the scheme of history. His narrative then has a sense of width, of purpose, of comprehension which are all too often wanting in military biography. Professor Waugh has also a fine sense of form. Throughout he writes in clear-cut, simple, and practical English, and from his pages peeps out a spirit of quiet and kindly humor." W. P. M. Kennedy

+ Sat R of Lit 5:851 Ap 6 '29 800w

"To the whole great story of Wolfe's eager and strenuous life and final victory Professor Waugh does good justice in a narrative that is at once lively, enthusiastic, yet properly discriminating of his hero's faults, as well as of his merits. . . The illustrations, some of them contemporary caricatures by Wolfe's brigadier, Townshend, with a portrait by the same hand, are of very particular interest, and the get-up of the whole book is excellent." M. J.

+ Spec 143:164 Ag 3 '29 900w

Springf'd Republican p10 Ag 15 '29 700w

"Professor Waugh carefully abstains from speculations. He confines himself to the facts and leaves the reader to draw his own conclusions. His whole treatment of the subject is eminently sane and scrupulously fair."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p633 Ag 15 '29 1200w

WEBB, MRS MARY GLADYS (MEREDITH). Armour wherein he trusted; a novel and some stories; with an introd. by Martin Armstrong. 253p $2.50 Dutton [5s J. Cape]
29-8254

This posthumously issued book contains an unfinished novel and a collection of short stories. The novel, laid in England at the time of the first crusade, describes the conflict in the hero's soul between his earthly love and his love of Christ. The short stories are of the countryside which Mary Webb has made her own.

---

"Deliberately artificial in style, this story of a young English Crusader who was torn between a fleshly and a spiritual love has the stiff, patterned charm of a medieval miniature. It is richly and skillfully wrought, flecked with passages of beauty as a missal is flecked with gold. The short stories which fill out the rest of the volume represent more adequately the Mary Webb who wrote Precious Bane and who was a half-mystic lover of the English countryside."
+ Bookm 69:xxiii My '29 100w

"The present volume contains 132 pages of an unfinished novel on which Mary Webb was working at the time of her death, and ten short stories. The first part of the novel ends on page 124, and is, as Martin Armstrong points out in his introduction, a story complete in itself. The writing, not at all characteristic, I imagine, of Mary Webb's other work, and certainly not like that of the short stories in the volume, is, nevertheless, beautifully individual." A. B. Parsons
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 Ap 21 '29 850w

Reviewed by A. B. Parsons
Nation 129:145 Ag 7 '29 80w

"If, as it stands, the fragment is rather an ancient curio than a thing instinct with the vital human appeal of 'Precious Bane,' who can say what it might not have become had it not been for the author's untimely death?" L. M. Field
+ N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 13 '29 230w

"The stories, like the novels, are illumined by real charm of style, by sensitiveness to atmosphere, by a humanity that seems to spring out of the soil and the air and that is, accordingly, full of natural feeling rather than of the faintest sentimentality. The whole book, with its few last leavings, merely lets one sense a fine talent. That is why it is both a disappointment and a delight."
+ — N Y Times p6 Ap 28 '29 620w

"Though 'Armour Wherein He Trusted' has the charm of a mediaeval tapestry it lacks the earthiness and power of 'Precious Bane.' Mary Webb was not on firm ground away from her native soil. Her short stories are successful in so far as they are vignettes of the country." Gertrude Diamant
+ — N Y World p10m Ap 28 '29 230w

"Although the style is artificial it is fresh and vigorous, and the pictures of the countryside, of life in the castle, are vivid and extraordinarily real." W. R. Brooks
+ Outlook 151:629 Ap 17 '29 110w

"It is hardly detrimental to Mary Webb to suggest that her last novel is not of the quality of 'Precious Bane,' for one could not expect and would hardly desire to see the unique beauty and originality of the latter repeated. But one wonders whether in 'Armour Wherein He Trusted' Mrs Webb has not traveled too far back into the past." C. M. K.
Springf'd Republican p7e My 5 '29 1300w

"None of the contents is up to the highest of which Mary Webb was capable, though some of the sketches and stories here included approach it."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p78 Ja 31 '29 330w

WEBB, MRS MARY GLADYS (MEREDITH). Poems and The spring of joy; with an introd. by Walter De La Mare. 249p $2.50 Dutton
821 29-8534

"For the most part they are simple, happy, tender, pathetic, and of the lovely earth, but there remain a few—the most original and the finest, as I think—that have for origin the life and experience that is of dreams."—Walter De La Mare in Introd.

---

"Her delicate awareness of beauty, her oneness with it and her gift for communicating her feelings with music and imagery make her poems a kind of country festival." C: Divine
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Jl 14 '29 230w

Boston Transcript p5 Ap 27 '29 430w

"As in 'Precious Bane,' her best known work, a quiet, reasoned sense of beauty moves through this volume." J. D. Tasker
+ Nation 129:96 Jl 24 '29 60w

Reviewed by A. B. Parsons
Nation 129:145 Ag 7 '29 80w

"Her poetry escapes the worst defects of her prose; it is gentle, delicate, and tender, but unfortunately, since poetry has need of sources as savage and cruel as the nature that Mrs. Webb misapprehended, these quiet attributes are not enough." Louise Bogan
— + New Repub 59:348 Ag 14 '29 180w

"Whether the form of her work were prose or verse, Mary Webb was always a poet. Hers the poet's imagination, the poet's insight, the poet's sensitiveness and gift of lovely words. There is in her writing not a touch of our feverish modernity, she is essentially of the 'world as God has made it.' Mary Webb's charm is the charm of a fresh spirit from an uncomplicated world." L. M. Field
+ N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 13 '29 300w

"The poems and essays are done in a direct style which justifies the strongest claims of Mary Webb's achievement in realistic writing. . . Like all of Mary Webb's work, these essays have a charming individuality; a quiet, reasoned sense of beauty." J. D. Tasker
+ Outlook 152:348 Je 26 '29 380w

Pratt p27 autumn '29

"Gravity in joy is one of the surest signs of poetical genius; and it is the quality I find oftenest, in a degree surpassed only by Mr. Robert Bridges among the poets of our age, in the poetry of Mary Webb." T. E. Welby
+ Sat R 146:851 D 22 '28 320w

Springf'd Republican p7e Je 23 '29 700w

"At times her fancy is uncertain, or modelled by conventions of romance in thought and word. It must be rather for the gleam of intermittent transcendancy than for sustained and determined poetical variety that her verse is to be known."
Times [London] Lit Sup p1022 D 27 '28 700w

WEBSTER, HENRY KITCHELL. Sealed trunk. 319p $2 Bobbs
29-3265

During her childhood Rhoda's father had fled with her from place to place under some mysterious shadow. When he died he left her his papers—chemical formulas—in a sealed trunk. Some one is after the trunk. Rhoda changes her name and comes to New York, but the sinister pursuit continues until a reporter steps into her life at a night club and takes charge of the affair.

---

WEBSTER, H: K.—Continued
"A really mystifying tale."
+ Boston Transcript p10 My 11 '29 150w
N Y Times p22 F 17 '29 180w
Pratt p42 summer '29

"In spite of having all the elements of a good detective story 'The Sealed Trunk' hardly realizes expectations. As a novelist of some merit, the author has the ability to project plausible characters and an imagination considerably above the average writer of detective fiction. But in this story—he has not worked up suspense sufficiently."
+ — Springf'd Republican p7e F 24 '29 120w
Times [London] Lit Sup p849 O 24 '29 250w

WEEKES, AGNES RUSSELL (ANTHONY PRYDE, pseud.). Secret room. 342p $2.50 Dodd [7s 6d Constable]
29-9939

Nevil Seymour has just inherited Ladywood, the family estate, when a saturnine youth arrives from Spain claiming to be a natural son of Nevil's father. Pride and a sense of justice force Nevil to accept the stranger and his claim, but the hatred in his heart gathers strength as Julian lightly wins from Nevil the love of his fiancée and deliberately plays with it. The deadly contest between the rivals is ended by Fan herself, who loves Julian and clings to him, effecting in the end his salvation.

---

Booklist 25:397 Jl '29

"Anthony Pryde shows steadily increasing control of his chosen medium, the popular romance of sentiment. His latest volume [is] somewhat more somber than usual. Indeed, the novelty of 'The Secret Room' inheres largely in the author's avoidance of the conventional ending."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Jl 14 '29 100w
Boston Transcript p1 Je 8 '29 480w

"The new story has many of the beautifully done descriptions of England and the English countryside which delighted readers of 'Rowforest' and 'A Fool in the Forest,' but it is less appealing than its predecessors, partly because the characters are so much less attractive than those of the earlier books. Nevertheless, the story is very interesting, the more so, perhaps because it is of a type rarely met with in modern fiction."
+ — N Y Times p6 Ap 28 '29 700w

"A seriously constructed story in the old style. The idiom of its conversationalists is of a more leisurely day; they almost declaim at times. But the workmanship is sound, and, if the protagonists attitudinize a little, their passion rings sincere. It is a good novel in a Victorian manner." R. A. Taylor
+ — Spec 142:1025 Je 29 '29 70w
Times [London] Lit Sup p479 Je 20 '29 200w

WEEKES, AGNES RUSSELL (ANTHONY PRYDE, pseud.), and WEEKES, ROSE KIRKPATRICK. Lily and the sword. 303p $2 Dodd
29-22686

A stirring romance of love and war and loyalties, lived and fought in an obscure mid-European kingdom of the last century.

---

"This is good entertainment."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p21 N 3 '29 220w

"A regular Robin Hood romance. Written with color and spirit, the book must have had the gallant Robin among its ancestors, and probably, although more remotely, 'The Prisoner of Zenda.' "
+ N Y Times p26 O 6 '29 270w

WEHNER, GEORGE B. A curious life; with an introd. by Talbot Mundy. 402p $2.50 Liveright
B or 92 Spiritualism 29-20666

The autobiography of a professional spiritualistic medium, in which the author relates his psychic experiences from early childhood to the present. He gives explanations of his curious powers, describes the process by which he is enabled to go into a trance, tells of his "guides," or spirits thru whom he is enabled to impart messages to the living at special seances, etc. He also names the dates, places, and individuals connected with the seances, and many well-known personages with whom he has come in contact thru his profession.

---

"To those with jaded biographical appetites, to those who enjoy the unusual, to those who like a book which provokes thought, and lastly, to those who are seriously interested in Spiritualism, this book will make a direct and particular appeal."
+ Boston Transcript p3 D 11 '29 380w
Reviewed by Harold Kellock
Nation 129:594 N 20 '29 280w

"His readers are likely to be ranged in two hotly opposing lines—those who accept the book as truth and welcome it as something to be swallowed whole without question of any one of its weird and marvelous incidents, and those who reject it wholesale with contemptuous words."
N Y Times p20 D 15 '29 450w

WEIGALL, ARTHUR EDWARD PEARSE BROME. Paganism in our Christianity. 277p $2.50 Putnam [7s 6d Hutchinson]
230 Jesus Christ. Christianity 28-23820

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Booklist 25:232 Mr '29
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p21 F 24 '29 320w

"To separate the wheat from the chaff is Mr. Weigall's self appointed task, and he proceeds to winnow as few others could. Eminently fitted to speak with authority, he yet speaks with no air of superiority. Each statement which he makes is backed by reasonable proof." C. K. H.
+ Boston Transcript p4 N 17 '28 480w
Christian Century 45:1331 N 1 '28 120w

"Arthur Weigall is a scholar with lightness of touch, charm of presentation and art so subtle that it conceals itself. His work seems the product of a happy spontaneity." W. N. Guthrie
+ Churchman 139:28 Ja 12 '29 400w

"A thoughtful, timely book is Mr. Weigall's volume . . . an admirable summing up, as well as an eloquent plea for the real essentials of Christianity." L. M. Field
+ N Y Times p10 Mr 17 '29 920w
Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 79:26 Ap '29 80w
Sat R of Lit 5:890 Ap 13 '29 220w

"The book is written in an easy, flowing, and readable style. It is eminently popular. It is certainly not addressed to the scholar. . . Mr Weigall's theory that Jesus's crucifixion was a human sacrifice bearing all the features of an ancient Bar Abbas sacrifice will hardly commend itself to serious students. Nor will his too easy solution of the resurrection win many supporters." J. M.
— + Springf'd Republican p10 Ap 30 '29 450w
World Tomorrow 12:44 Ja '29 40w

WEIGALL, ARTHUR EDWARD PEARSE BROME. Personalities of antiquity (Eng title Flights into antiquity). 235p $3 Doubleday, Doran
920 Biography. History, Ancient 29-11483

These sketches impart with breezy familiarity the scandalous doings of some thirty famous personages of past ages, among them

Julius Ceasar, Cleopatra, the Empress Theodora, Boadicea, and St Anthony.

"The tone of Mr. Weigall's new volume is set by the assertion, 'There is a certain intellectual amusement to be derived from scandal which can no longer hurt the personal feelings of any living man.' Some of the relish that one might find in these antique scandals is taken from them, however, by Mr. Weigall's facile moralizing."
— Bookm 68:viii F '29 120w

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p21 Mr 10 '29 130w

"It is regrettable that the growing interest of the general reader in the great story of the ancient civilisations should be catered to as it is in the present book. Not all the papers are as trivial as those on the epicene vagaries of Heliogabalus, the amours of Cæsar, and the upbringing and rise to fortune of the Empress Theodora, but nearly all are tainted by vulgarity of treatment, while their titles are often flippant and sometimes foolish. Had the object of the book been to belittle the importance of historical and archæological research its tone could hardly have been worse; and, adopted as it is by one claiming authority, it can only be described as deplorable."
— New Statesman 30:774 Mr 24 '28 190w

"He writes with spirit, vivacity and a lightness of touch that makes these 'Personalities of Antiquity' seem, if anything, more vivid than those we so often read about in contemporary magazines." L. M. Field
+ N Y Times p12 Ja 6 '29 1300w

Spec 140:502 Mr 31 '28 250w

Times [London] Lit Sup p173 Mr 8 '28 200w

WEINSTEIN, GREGORY. Ardent eighties. 182p il $2.50 Int. press

974.71 New York (city)—Social conditions. New York (city)—Biography. Social settlements <28-29977>

"Gregory Weinstein was one of the multitude that made up the Jewish emigration out of Russia in the eighties. He has set forth in this volume his experiences in the New World, in which he was a journeyman printer, a reporter on a German-American paper, a compositor in a French printery, on Norman Monroe's Family Story Paper, on the Single Tax Leader, etc. It was his good fortune to be brought into contact with some of the most interesting and worth-while people in New York, to whom he pays deserved tributes in this book."—Nation

"As a human document it is not without interest, though the volume is slight. Mr. Weinstein's own devotion to civic efforts in the cause of good government is not adequately touched upon in this volume because of his modesty."
+ — Nation 128:235 F 20 '29 250w

"His story of his experiences is very interesting, as all such stories must be; but even more interesting is his comment upon the spiritual background of the time and his picture of the men and women who were working for various kinds of social betterment."
+ N Y Times p13 N 25 '29 410w

Reviewed by J. F. Spahr
Survey 62:197 My 1 '29 670w

WELCH, ADAM CLEGHORN. Jeremiah, his time and his work. 263p $2.50 (7s 6d) Oxford

220.92 Jeremiah, the prophet. Bible. Old Testament—Jeremiah [29-10489]

"The most striking new idea in this book is the denial of the commonly accepted view that Jeremiah was aroused to his prophetic career by the threatened approach of the Scythian hordes. An apparently strong case is made out against this interpretation of Jeremiah's experience."—J Religion

"Dr. Welch has brought keen and critical scholarship to this work." T. C. R.
+ Boston Transcript p5 F 23 '29 350w

"Professor Welch has given us a very stimulating presentation of the life and work of the prophet Jeremiah. He always has independence of judgment and the courage of his convictions, and these qualities are conspicuous in this book as in its predecessors. . . Professor Welch's book will arouse discussion but will not carry conviction, unless new facts should present themselves in support of his interpretation." J. M. P. Smith
+ — J Religion 9:297 Ap '29 850w

"This exceptionally fresh and penetrating study will help its readers to realize the magnitude of the man, even if they are baffled by the problems of his career and the book which bears his name."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p268 Ap 4 '29 820w

WELLS, CAROLYN (MRS HADWIN HOUGHTON). Sleeping dogs. 300p $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-12916

Mrs Abercrombie dies of poison. It is impossible to suspect her husband or daughter, yet each had a possible motive for the crime. The dead woman's secretary gets a hint of the solution and is promptly murdered. And that gives Kenneth Carlisle, amateur detective, the right idea.

"A first-rate detective story. . . Very readable."
+ Bookm 69:xxv Ag '29 70w

"There's poison all over the place, a most entertaining inquest, additional murder and some more than competent detectivism by Kenneth Carlisle, an ex-movie star, who catches miscreants by pure deductive genius, with or without clews. A stirring summer mystery with a bit of kidding in the grand, or Wellsian, manner." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 Je 9 '29 130w

"The story bristles with clues, but so cleverly arranged that we have the pleasure of seeing the light before the detective does."
Boston Transcript p2 Je 26 '29 250w

WELLS, CAROLYN (MRS HADWIN HOUGHTON). Tapestry room murder. 320p $2 (7s 6d) Lippincott

29-7403

The lights in the tapestry room were out for three minutes. On the sofa sat Gaylord Homer; at his left, Marita, petite and Spanish in temperament, who loved him; at his right, the stately and beautiful Diana, whom he loved. The lights came on, and Homer was discovered stabbed in the back with a jewelled dagger. Which of the girls did it? Fleming Stone, called to work on the case, discovered some strange clues which pointed to another person entirely, and solved the mystery.

"A very regulation detective story. Miss Wells keeps her secret, but by the unfair method of making her characters (any six of whom might have committed the crime) act quite arbitrarily. She is more ingenious with things than persons; the characters do not live, and have incongruous attributes thrust upon them. The story is exciting and the detective has one endearing quality: he is often baffled, and only guesses the solution a little while before he gives it to the reader." L. P. Hartley
+ — Sat R 148:486 O 26 '29 130w

"It requires Fleming Stone to elucidate a mystery which, when explained, appears to be almost mechanical in the careful timing of the crime and the subsequent alibi which Fleming Stone alone is capable of demolishing."
Times [London] Lit Sup p562 Jl 11 '29 220w

WELLS, CAROLYN (MRS HADWIN HOUGHTON). Triple murder. 309p $2 Lippincott

Max Garnett had married three times, and each time his wife, shortly after marriage, met with "accidental" death. The story opens with the death of Jean, the third wife, killed in the rumble seat of the car her husband is driving. Fleming Stone, detective, concludes that this was not an accident, nor were the deaths of the former Mrs Garnetts accidental. Neither does he believe that Max Garnett is a modern Bluebeard. Stone thereupon compares data on the history of each wife's life and death and discovers the logical murderer.

---

Bookm 70:xxx D '29 100w

"Fleming simply scintillates this time." Will Cuppy

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 O 27 '29 160w

"On the way to the solution of the mystery there are thrills and thrills to be enjoyed in the company of the socially correct in most charming surroundings. The crimes are committed and investigated in the best society. Never once is descent made into the slums and, with Fleming Stone on the case, one is content to go through all sorts of experiences, knowing that the murderer will be safely run to earth."

+ Boston Transcript p4 N 9 '29 250w

WELLS, CARVETH. In coldest Africa; [with a foreword by Samuel A. Barrett]. 255p il $2.50 Doubleday, Doran

916.7 Africa, Central—Description and travel. Hunting—Africa, Ruwenzori mountains

29-24025

As head of the Massee expedition of the Geographical society of Chicago, Mr Wells tells of the experiences of his party in climbing the Mountains of the Moon, located on the Equator. The expedition encountered on its trip no dense jungles, but wooded plains, the home of lions and many other wild animals. His book is, on the whole, an authentic debunking of a mythical Africa.

---

"Much of his present book is in diary form, written in the present tense, presumably on the spot. When he falls back into the past tense, this material it would seem was prepared after he had returned home. On the whole, we prefer the diary form, with its staccato style. The book is full of valuable data, and it contains a voluminous appendix giving the correct pronunciation of names, comparative altitudes, maximum and minimum temperatures at various places, with an itemized list of what the party was equipped with, and a Swahili vocabulary." J. H. W.

+ Boston Transcript p8 D 14 '29 420w

Cleveland Open Shelf p150 D '29

N Y Times p32 N 24 '29 300w

WELLS, CARVETH. Let's do the Mediterranean. 261p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran

910.4 Mediterranean sea—Description and travel. Europe—Description and travel

28-29973

A broadly humorous account of an eight weeks' cruise of the Mediterranean in the mixed company of a Texas Rotarian, a Brooklyn landlady, a veterinary surgeon and a Vassar girl under the tutelage of a cruise lecturer. The conglomeration of facts overlaid with fun is intended to induce in the reader the slightly over-stuffed feeling and mal-assimilation which is the actual result of such a cruise.

---

"What Mr. Wells has sought to write is a blend of humor and sightseeing impressions, retaining—no doubt—the best features of both. Unfortunately, there is a lack of teamwork between his two moods."

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 F 3 '29 100w

"Mr. Wells has that rare facility of seeing the funny side of things, and while he relates incidents with a light touch he really gives his readers some valuable serious information about many places this Mediterranean cruise takes in."

+ Boston Transcript p2 Ja 16 '29 250w

N Y Times p4 Mr 24 '29 380w

Sat R of Lit 5:694 F 16 '29 200w

WELLS, HERBERT GEORGE. Adventures of Tommy. unp il $2.50 Stokes

All about the rich proud man who fell off a cliff and had his life saved by a little boy named Tommy, and of the elephant which the rich proud man gave to Tommy as a reward.

---

"H. G. Wells as illustrator and children's author is a combination of roles amusingly played. There is never a hint of the Wells we all know in this tale of the proud rich man searching humbly for a suitable gift for little Tommy."

Nation 129:600 N 20 '29 50w

"The author, recovering from an illness with the usual accompaniment of boredom, was given a box of paints and produced this quite simple story for the child of his host. It has, suitably, the kind of quality to interest a small reader who is bored with convalescence and more serious reading." M. G. Bonner

N Y Times p36 O 6 '29 80w

"A droll picture book with what looks like the first chapter of a story for a little boy. Wells collectors will, of course, have to have it." M. L. Becker

Outlook 153:590 D 11 '29 120w

"Pictures as well as text have been made with considerable artistic skill." Rachel Field

+ Sat R of Lit 6:403 N 16 '29 50w

WELLS, HERBERT GEORGE. King who was a king; an unconventional novel. 272p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran

29-12492

Mr Wells has made an experiment in the style of the moving picture scenario of the future. His story is written, not as a conventional novel, but as Mr Wells sees it appearing on the screen, with suggested musical accompaniment. The plot concerns an American workman of royal blood who, by a sudden catastrophe, becomes successor to the throne of a small European monarchy. The newly made King Paul loves the Princess of a neighboring principality. His cousin Michael is his enemy and rival. In the curious technique which Mr Wells has invented the story of love and politics with a moral is worked out. It is in effect an indictment of war.

---

"Mr. Wells has been able to entertain us prodigiously with an exceedingly novel and well wrought book. It is as provocative and deep and mentally stirring as any recent book of his." S. L. Cook

+ Boston Transcript p2 My 25 '29 1300w

"Artistically 'The King Who Was a King' seems on paper to be a very poor piece of work—half those thesis-burdened meditations, for instance, would have to be cut—and we feel strongly that its effect would be the very reverse of the desired one. It makes peace seem worse than improbable; it makes it dull and amateur in comparison to war. This is, of course, the very opposite of Mr. Wells's intention. When will propagandists realize that the intelligent man's response to propaganda is opposition: but to great art a transfigured acquiescence?" V. S. P.

— Christian Science Monitor p10 Ap 3 '29 900w

"As a novel, H. G. Wells's new book is tiresome; as an editorial against war, it is commonplace though vigorous; as a movie scenario, it seems to me most effective." Freda Kirchwey

Nation 128:649 My 29 '29 720w

"Apart from the moral and the prolific and exhausting symbolism, it is singularly like the film as we know it, as trite in its psychology, as mechanical in its drama." L. L. Irvine
— Nation and Ath 44:692 F 16 '29 170w

"It is not a good story. It is not a good picture plot. It is not even a plausible thesis." F: F. Van de Water
— N Y Evening Post p7m Je 15 '29 80w

"This conglomeration is nothing literary and it is impossible to call it vastly interesting, although the observations that form preface and conclusion may hold a mild interest for some. . . But perhaps, because the book is actuated by a lofty purpose, it will receive a wider reading than inspection of the pages would seem to guarantee."
— + N Y Times p9 My 26 '29 830w

"This reviewer, who happens also to be a moving picture director, would like nothing better than the chance to arrange with his boss (who is a farseeing and modern-minded gentleman) a vacation without pay—this vacation to be devoted to the filming, still without pay of course, of 'The King Who Was a King.'" Frank Tuttle
+ Sat R of Lit 5:1173 Jl 13 '29 850w

"The tremendous theme has taken charge of Mr. Wells the artist. Mr. Wells the man wanted a neat moral. He wanted to clinch his argument and he clinched it—with a pistol. His hero, faced with armed aggression, whips out a revolver and murders both the typical warmonger and his high ideal. It is in its failure to provide any solution to the problems it propounds that the greatness of the scenario lies."
+ Spec 142:242 F 16 '29 850w
Spec 142:1015 Je 29 '29 70w

"The moral is excellent and ingeniously worked out, so that it might well prove the occasion of an extremely exciting film. For Mr. Wells has by no means lost his gift of telling an extremely good story, and telling it so well that the many interstices in it which must be left for the expression of opinions do not interrupt it."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p136 F 21 '29 720w

WELLS, HERBERT GEORGE. Open conspiracy; blue prints for a world revolution. 200p $2 Doubleday, Doran [5s Gollancz]

901 Civilization. International federation. Social problems 28-23522

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Reviewed by R. M. Lovett
New Repub 56:156 S 26 '28 800w
Pittsburgh Mo Bul 33:642 D '28
Pratt p29 winter '29
St Louis 27:9 Ja '29

"Certainly Mr. Wells, in this book, flies far enough to make the most sophisticated watcher polish his glasses. Taking off from the familiar field of individualism in all lines, he sails away over all the hitherto daring schemes of lesser group action and comes to rest on the undiscovered continent of world group action. From that point, he turns and calls to the rest of us to come on over and join him in The Open Conspiracy. It is very doubtful whether most of us will be able to see the solid ground under him or to hear his voice calling us. And many who hear will not care to move very far in his direction." C: S. Brown
Survey 61:452 Ja 1 '29 270w

WELLS, HERBERT GEORGE. Short stories of H. G. Wells. 1015p $5 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Benn]

[28-4886]

"Stories presenting Wells's views of things past, present and future. Some of his earlier well-known stories are included."—Pratt

Booklist 25:288 Ap '29

"He yarns away with the ease of the first story tellers; but he yarns with the facts and hopes of modern science at his elbow and, passing through his restless brain, those same facts and hopes have been turned to the purposes of memorable fiction." B. R. Redman
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 Mr 24 '29 200w

"One peruses this collection of his shorter tales with a feeling of unqualified admiration. He is so obviously the master in the field of the bizarre and the extraordinary that it seems unnecessary to point out that where Jules Verne is merely ingenious Mr. Wells is imaginative, and so on."
+ Nation 128:653 My 29 '29 160w

"It seems to us that as a writer of short stories H. G. Wells is primarily a writer for boys. Boys are supposed to be notoriously uninterested in the human equation; all they want a writer to tell them is what happened next. Mr. Wells is forever telling us what happened next. He is our very own Jules Verne." Edwin Seaver
+ N Y Evening Post p11m Mr 9 '29 600w
Pratt p45 autumn '28

WELLS, HERBERT GEORGE. Way the world is going; guesses and forecasts of the years ahead. 324p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Benn]

304 Social conditions. Social problems [28-16696]

The book is composed of articles written for the New York Times magazine section during 1927 under the heading which appears as the title of the book. In the articles Mr Wells discusses world trends or events which have caught his attention, and in one, paid for but not printed by the Times, speaks his mind on the case of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Booklist 25:243 Mr '29

Reviewed by G. T. Hellman
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 Ja 20 '29 880w

Reviewed by G: E. G. Catlin
Nation 128:47 Ja 9 '29 880w

"The articles for the most part bear reprinting. If they contain nothing very novel, they give us an authentic sample from the sparkling, stimulating, prolific Wellsian fount." D. H. Robertson
+ — Nation and Ath 42:940 Mr 24 '28 900w

"It is a bold thing to collect and publish in book form articles from newspapers on topics of the day. But these articles stand the test. They have vitality and width of vision. The topics discussed are viewed in relation to a broad background, and thus stand in contrast to the common run of journalism in which the attitude of the day alone is represented." A. M. C.-S.
+ Nature 122:3 Jl 7 '28 850w

"Wells has surveyed the activities of men everywhere, and he discusses them and the direction in which they tend brilliantly and fearlessly in this book."
+ Outlook 151:70 Ja 9 '29 380w
Pratt p31 autumn '28
St Louis 26:273 S '28

"Mr. Wells has been preaching social discipline all his life and the extraordinary fertility of his mind has never allowed him to become monotonous. He is still versatile in suggestion and pleasantly vituperative in repartee, and no student of the political future can afford to miss the movements of his far-darting mind, even though he be delivering his opinions through the loud-speaker of the syndicated Sunday article."
+ Sat R 145:292 Mr 10 '28 600w

Reviewed by E. P. Dargan
Sat R of Lit 5:881 Ap 13 '29 1100w
Spec 140:325 Mr 3 '28 650w

"No journalist could write with more breadth, simplicity and vivacity; and if Mr. Wells as a journalist has faults, they are the kind of faults that the popular newspaper is apt as a rule to foster rather than repress. But the blemishes really appear very trifling in the light of a vision as wide and as inspiring as Mr. Wells's."

WELLS, H. G:—Continued
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p164 Mr 8 '28 1100w

WELLS, RHEA. Coco the goat. 135p il $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-18662

The adventures of Coco, a little goat, who belonged to Garito, the goat boy of a small town in Spain. Coco was very frisky and got into all sorts of excitement, like visiting a gypsy camp, and even dancing at a wedding.

Booklist 26:76 N '29

Cleveland Open Shelf p132 N '29

"Here is a lovable, humorous story for very little children. It is one of the nicest books of the season for little children." M. G. Bonner
N Y Times p26 D 15 '29 80w

"This is a fresh, clearly written story of a baby goat, without any of the hackneyed episodes found in many goat stories." O. M. Fuller
+ N Y World p11m D 22 '29 100w

St Louis 27:316 N '29

"The familiar antics of a baby goat acquire a new interest in 'Coco the Goat' from their setting in far-off Spain. This quiet little story manages to give a good deal of local color, which head and tail pieces to each page as well as full-page color illustrations help to make more vivid." Catherine Woodbridge
+ Sat R of Lit 6:429 N 16 '29 80w

WELLS, WALTER AUGUSTINE. Common head cold and its complications; with an introd. by Hugh S. Cumming. 225p il $2.75 Macmillan

616.205 Cold (disease) 29-16867

Dr Wells, professor of oto-laryngology at Georgetown university, Washington, D. C., sets forth in this small book for the layman the most recent knowledge about the origin and nature of the common cold and its complications—why we catch colds, how we can avoid them, and what we can do to get rid of them.

Booklist 26:107 D '29

Boston Transcript p8 D 14 '29 250w

"Simple and lucid text and plenty of diagrammatic illustrations make clear the whole process of breathing and how each tiny organ of nose and throat functions to keep the process going in a normal, healthful way. This makes it easy for the reader to understand why and how these orifices are open highways for the entrance of disease, what lines of defense nature has erected against these ills, what he must do to aid in keeping them out and what measures he can take to lessen their depredations if they do get in."
+ N Y Times p30 S 22 '29 450w

WENTWORTH, PATRICIA (MRS G. F. DILLON). Fool errant. 320p $2 Lippincott [7s 6d Hodder & S.]

29-26787

An apparently stupid young man applied for the position of secretary to a famous inventor. The night before he got the position he had helped an unknown young girl to run away from home. Then the stupid young man got into all kinds of difficulties and the girl complicated matters a bit before she helped him tremendously.

Booklist 26:35 O '29

Bookm 70:xxvi Ja '30 30w

"Miss Wentworth's current mystery marks an advance over her other rather rambling but not unamusing yarns of love, mild crime and what not."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Ag 18 '29 130w

"Miss Wentworth has made a most amusing, romantic and exciting story out of the successful efforts of Hugo, Loveday, Mr. Smith, and Ananias, the parrot, to foil Minstrel's unpatriotic machinations."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p638 Ag 15 '29 160w

WERFEL, FRANZ V. Class reunion (Der abituriententag); [tr. from the German by Whittaker Chambers]. 204p $2 Simon & Schuster

29-12917

"A Viennese examining magistrate is confronted by a prisoner charged with a particularly unsavory murder. His mind full of a class reunion which he has reluctantly consented to attend, he sees in the murderer a long-lost classmate of the same name. He goes to the reunion and begins to relive his school days in vivid memory. He continues this process throughout the night. Ridden by a malignant, all-remembering spirit which forces him to write, he reconstructs the follies and sorrows of his adolescence which culminated in a crime for which he had thrown the blame upon the lost classmate. But in the morning, things have changed. Obviously, the murderer is not the Adler that the judge knew. To the eyes of day, the confession is a scrap of paper scrawled over in a demonic, incomprehensible shorthand."—Outlook

Booklist 26:73 N '29

"Werfel's study of this situation is very skilful, very penetrating. This book is both bitterer and truer than any serious study of school life that I have read. Of Mr. Chambers's translation it is praise enough to say that one is not aware of it as translation." Edgar Johnson
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 Je 16 '29 680w

"The story itself is one of quiet power and well directed force." M. E. M.
+ Boston Transcript p2 Jl 27 '29 450w

"The whole work is suffused with an atmosphere of hardly definable foreboding and replete with a kind of psychological analysis which is not calm or scientific but extravagant, excited, and portentous. Perhaps there is something a little hysterical about its power, but the power to absorb and hold the attention is indubitably there. Werfel has done nothing else so consistently exciting, and nothing else which communicates more successfully his morbidly romantic sense that the soul is dark and tortuous. The translation by Whittaker Chambers is excellent." J. W. Krutch
+ Nation 129:120 Jl 31 '29 1050w

"The book is a fine example of the German spirit: it has a melody that persuades us, and it is full of overtones." T. S. Matthews
+ New Repub 59:349 Ag 14 '29 120w

"Readers are no more likely to derive pleasure from a perusal of Franz Werfel's analytical story, 'Class Reunion,' than the theatre audiences were able to get pleasure out of witnessing his play. This narrative, document or what one will, is not ingratiating; it does not belong in those categories of fiction which invite the mind to reposeful thought; on the contrary, it is designed to irritate, to frighten, to terrify the soul of the sluggish to self-examination, to abase the haughty and to awaken the complacent even, perhaps, to self-chastisement." Percy Hutchison
N Y Times p7 Je 9 '29 950w

"Brilliant technique, virtuosity dazzling but without warmth marks this novel. The plot is highly original and offers opportunity for a clever use of the throwback device. Any one familiar with the tendency to insistent emotional analysis so characteristic of the central European Jewish novelist, can imagine in advance the tension and strain of 'Class Reunion.' As an excellent example of this type of fiction, it is worth reading. Werfel squeezes the souls of his characters until they are distilled in drops of agony."
+ Outlook 152:267 Je 12 '29 210w

WERNER, MORRIS ROBERT. Bryan. 374p il $3.50 Harcourt

B or 92 Bryan, William Jennings 29-9283

Mr Werner has produced a lively story of Bryan's career, and at the same time has drawn an unsympathetic, and at times openly contemptuous portrait of Bryan the man. He has read extensively concerning Bryan, and quotes freely from writings by and about him.

"Although there is little that is new in the biography, the work is based upon a thorough study of a mass of information which the author has used with skill to produce a book which is very readable and worthy of careful consideration as an interpretation of the life of the Democratic leader."

+ Am Pol Sci R 23:1054 N '29 450w

Booklist 25:393 Jl '29

Reviewed by D. C. Seitz

Bookm 69:317 My '29 900w

"Morris Werner tells the story of Bryan with almost as much zest as he put into his glorious history of 'Barnum.' Mr. Werner is a born story teller. He has culled gems from the Bryan papers in the Library of Congress, from Bryan's published speeches and writings, and from the records of his contemporaries, and he builds them into a colorful moving picture of the Bryan campaigns, of Bryan's ambitions, of his vagaries as Secretary of State and as real estate promoter, of his advocacy of a fundamentalist God and the literal Bible. Mr. Werner is often witty, usually shrewd, and always readable." L: Gannett

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 Ap 14 '29 1250w

Boston Transcript p4 Je 22 '29 950w

"To Mr. Werner's two biographies—P. T. Barnum and Brigham Young—he now has added the life of William Jennings Bryan. 'Barnum, Brigham, and Bryan, the big Bunkum Boys,' he might call his triumvirate of American life histories, for to the most casual reader that is what their biographer thinks of them. Mr. Werner is an amusing writer but not so amusing in scalpeling Bryan as he was in doing in the other two big boys." Fannie Butcher

Chicago Daily Tribune p12 Ap 20 '29 630w

Cleveland Open Shelf p108 Jl '29

"Critical the biography is meant to be; one has the feeling that Mr. Werner is holding Bryan at arm's length and showing his subject's several qualities in the spirit of a teacher with a pointer at the blackboard. A definitive life it is not, nor does it pretend to this. It is just an easily written and easily read narrative of the man who muffed a tremendous opportunity to make himself one of the great servants of the Republic."

Nation 128:603 My 22 '29 900w

"Mr. Werner has drawn a most interesting and honest portrait of one of the most forceful men that ever disturbed American politics and American life." Clarence Darrow

+ New Repub 58:363 My 15 '29 1700w

"Both Barnum and Brigham Young provided Mr. Werner with first-rate subjects for his earlier books. Bryan offers very little by comparison."

New Statesman 333:154 My 11 '29 240w

"Mr. Werner seems to have marked and studied nearly everything that was written about Bryan or said by Bryan. From his recounting of all that was said and done by and about a single man from 1860 to 1925 a character emerges, but it is the character drawn by these saying and doings, not by any expression of the biographer's opinions. In short, it is the Beveridge method, which is not to say that it is as great a book as Beveridge could write." C: W. Thompson

N Y Times p3 Ap 21 '29 1750w

"As a history of Bryan's political career, Werner's book is thorough, interesting, well selected for significant detail, and useful. Especially is it illuminating on the Free Silver controversy. That fight which made such varied and violent partisans has not been more clearly presented. Of Bryan's character, however, Werner has nothing new or penetrating to say. He is just another cartoonist. His attitude toward Bryan is pretty consistently contemptuous, and that is not the attitude of a great biographer."

+ — Outlook 151:625 Ap 17 '29 320w

Pratt p33 autumn '29

"A biography shrewd and factual, if not always sympathetic. In these chapters Bryan appears more than once as a pitiable figure. His friends will not like the relentless exposure of vulnerable spots in his armour." W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 79:18 My '29 180w

St Louis 27:271 S '29

"It is not often that the life of an American politician can be made so entertaining to an English reader as this remarkable study of William Jennings Bryan."

Sat R 147:746 Je 1 '29 130w

"Plainly Mr. Werner has not taken the Commoner very seriously, and it is partly because he has not taken him seriously, that is, because he has not approached his subject in an attempt sympathetically to understand him, that his book is a poorer book than it ought to be. . . Mr. Werner has not failed to bring out many of the Commoner's good points; indeed, on occasion he has rallied to his defense, but his book is so heavily loaded on the side of the indictment that the true picture is distorted." A. H. Meneely

— + Sat R of Lit 5:1047 My 25 '29 900w

Spec 143:26 Jl 6 '29 400w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ag 4 '29 1800w

"This is an unusually interesting biography, and trustworthy as far as it goes; but at the same time it must be pronounced unsatisfying. . . Mr. Werner's book fails to give us any adequate explanation of Bryan's ascendancy."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p426 My 30 '29 620w

Wis Lib Bul 25:194 Je '29

WERTENBAKER, CHARLES. Peter the drunk. 270p $2 Liveright

29-5967

Peter is one of a fast-moving, hard-drinking set of young people. Patricia marries him hoping he will reform and finish his book, but tho he means to finish the book he has his own ideas about reform. As the drinking bouts increase the success of the marriage recedes to the vanishing point. In the Hemingway style of narrative.

" 'Peter the Drunk' belongs to the hang-over school of American fiction—one of the unforeseen results of national prohibition. It is glib and reckless and cruel. Much of the time it sprawls, but now and then it hits off the temper of the times with considerable penetration."

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Ap 7 '29 150w

Boston Transcript p6 Mr 30 '29 400w

Reviewed by T. S. Matthews

New Repub 58:259 Ap 17 '29 160w

"There is more than a faint flavor of Ernest Hemingway to Mr. Wertenbaker's style. The alcoholic content of 'Peter the Drunk' is probably higher than that of 'The Sun Also Rises,' and the realism, we think, almost as deft. . . It is not a particularly pleasant tale, but it has plot, coherent development, unity." F: F. Van de Water

+ N Y Evening Post p10m Mr 23 '29 220w

"Mr. Wertenbaker's clipped, suggestive style, reminiscent of the American school of expatriate authors, might have been effective if the subject matter of his novel had been a little less slender. As it is, Peter's endless drinking can hardly be of interest to any one not definitely morbid on the subject of prohibition."

— N Y Times p30 Mr 17 '29 170w

N Y World p11m Ap 7 '29 400w

WERTENBAKER, CHARLES—Continued

"The story moves fast, and there's almost no time between drinks, and the description of a group of drunks at New Orleans in Mardi Gras week is really pretty good." W. R. Brooks
Outlook 151:480 Mr 20 '29 120w

"In a foreword to 'Peter the Drunk' the author explains that it is a 'horrible example.' It is, indeed, not so much because the hero, Peter Cary, deliberately wastes his time and talents in getting 'tight' as because of the gutter language the author puts into the mouths of his characters. It takes more than a 'horrible example' to make a novel unless the author has an intelligent satiric purpose, or a gift of psychological or social analysis."
— Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 31 '29 180w

WEST, CLARENCE JAY, comp. Bibliography of pulp and paper making, 1900-1928; pub. for the Tech. assn. of the pulp and paper industry. 982p $10 Lockwood Trade Journal co., Inc., 10 E. 39 st., N.Y.

016.676 Paper making and trade—Bibliography. Wood pulp—Bibliography

"Covering practically every phase of the pulp and paper industry, this bibliography has its references classified under 154 main subjects with subdivisions, alphabetically arranged as an index, so that they may be readily located. When it is realized that this book contains approximately 18,000 individual citations it will be seen that it supplies the research worker with an index which will save the tiresome drudgery of searching thousands of pages in order to locate articles on any particular subject. The greater part of the literature previous to this period has been incorporated into the textbooks or has only a historical significance."—Chem & Met Eng

"The method of classification is both scientifically and practically convenient. Probably no other industry has available such a complete systematic index of its literature as this book furnishes to the pulp and paper makers." A. H. Cooper
+ Chem & Met Eng 36:494 Ag '29 250w

"The present bibliography, which covers the years 1900-1928, appears to be peculiarly complete. . . It is difficult to see how any library used by pulp and paper men can afford to be without this bibliography, and in addition it will be a reliable source of information to those working in the several divisions of cellulose chemistry and in lines allied to the paper-making industries."
+ Ind & Eng Chem 21:391 Ap '29 250w
N Y New Tech Bks 14:11 Ja '29

WEST, GEOFFREY. Annie Besant. (Representative women) 174p $2 Viking press [3s 6d G. Howe]

B or 92 Besant, Mrs Annie (Wood)
28-9559

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

"So spare, emphatic, and reasoned a life is in itself a pleasure; but our debt is primarily to the sharp sense it gives of a uniquely able woman—a person full of energy, self-discipline, and confident, exalted soberness."
+ Dial 86:79 Ja '29 100w

"On the whole his method is the most effective that could have been chosen, since it will be almost impossible for an average intelligent person to read through the book (including the summary of theosophical doctrine at the end) without realising how cool and conclusive a job the author has done."
+ New Statesman 33:154 My 11 '29 550w

"In this country Mrs. Besant is a figure fast fading out of public memory—there are few now who can recall that splendid and spirited fight for freedom she waged in the 'eighties—and Mr. West has rendered a real service in redirecting the attention of his readers to one who, whatever her limitations, is one of the most notable women of our time."
+ Sat R 147:874 Je 29 '29 300w

"Mr. West has the makings of an excellent biographer. Nothing could be more vivid than his account of Mrs. Besant's ancestry and early years, her wholehearted piety, her innocence, her enthusiasm, her unfortunate marriage. Unfortunately, however, when Mrs. Besant moves on to a wider stage, the author deserts his premiss that a biographer must be impartial. His essay on theosophy misses the whole gist of the matter and merely expresses his own view."
+ — Spec 142:599 Ap 13 '29 650w

"He has not reached intimacy or finality. But he has contrived to be uniformly interesting and acute; and the trouble he has taken with his documentation—it is a pity it is mainly external—gives his book a high value as a collection of facts."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p305 Ap 18 '29 850w

WEST, REBECCA. Harriet Hume; a London fantasy. 275p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran [7s 6d Hutchinson]

29-24736

A fantasy that has the effect of dramatic realism, Rebecca West's latest novel is a psychological study of the psychic, complementary relationship between Harriet Hume, musician, and Arnold Condorex, politician. Harriet Hume, with her strange gift of insight, is able to see the dishonesty, the false masquerade, in the career of the man she loves; and, as the cycle of that career is brought to a close, he is forced at last to acknowledge the value of her gift.

"Harriet Hume, like Mrs Woolf's Orlando, is the kind of book that no one quite understands but that everyone thinks is awfully good. . . The book is a tour de force, but not a formidable one; like Harriet herself, it may best be described as kittenish." G. T. Hellman
Bookm 70:559 Ja '30 300w

"Exploring the tragic inadequacy of the human spirit, this novel, under the guise of fantasy, is compact beauty. It belongs with Mr. Beerbohm's 'Zuleika Dobson,' with Mrs. Woolf's 'Orlando' and with Mr. Stephens's 'The Crock of Gold,' among the few authentic masterpieces of fantasy that our time has produced." Lloyd Morris
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 N 3 '29 1100w

"Miss West is a writer of the most scrupulous elegance, and this talent does not fail her here. Without the decoration that makes some of her contemporaries hard to read, she cuts her lines with a careful and polished tool; she has an edge, she has form, she has sculptured substance. If this elegance becomes at times a trifle oppressive it is perhaps because of the impetuosity of her idea." Dorothy Van Doren
+ Nation 129:632 N 27 '29 670w

"Miss West's imaginings, like small and gay balloons, tug at the strings which hold them to the earth, and appear to be eager to fly straight into the blue. But as the crisis of the tale approaches, she has to choose between exploding the pretty things and letting them go free—a dilemma which sooner or later faces all fantasy writers. She decides to let them go, whereupon they flounder and flop about the stage, proving themselves not so aerial as we had anticipated. . . But 'Harriet Hume' is full of attractive descriptions and neat pieces of observation; moreover, it has a calculated impudence and a suavity which are so far a cry from 'The Judge' that it is hard to believe that Miss West wrote both books. But, much as one prefers the later novel to the earlier, it does not give the impression so much that Miss West has found herself as that she has found a cultivation and a form of wit that amuse her." L. L. Irvine
+ — Nation and Ath 45:830 S 28 '29 250w

"Into the rather stodgy but respectable ingredients of her previous novels Miss West has sprinkled a lavish handful of the baking-powder of exuberant fancy. The result is a confection so light and crumbling that it is singularly hard to digest. Still, there are some very pretty shot-purple passages. Taken as a whole, though, the book is unquestionably tedious." P. Q.

— + New Statesman 33:782 O 5 '29 250w

"Miss West's prose is forged of startling ways of observation, of sturdy epigrammatic wit. Her sentences are very like tough wire in their quality of indestructibleness. Even in disagreement one must respect her judgment." J: Chamberlain

+ N Y Times p7 N 3 '29 1500w

"Clever though it is, and full of sly gossiping, the story drips a little more sweetness than necessary, and tends to become cloying." Gertrude Diamant

— + N Y World p11m N 24 '29 180w

"Beautifully written, with much wisdom, a charming irony, passages of rich fantasy, and an absolute rightness of phrase. . . Of course we don't understand the book. But need that be a bar to enjoyment?" W. R. Brooks

+ Outlook 153:430 N 13 '29 200w

"The progress of the fantasy is not easy to follow; ever and again we catch sight of it, far below the surface of the book, like treasure at the bottom of the sea. Harriet's mind is so lively, so prone to speculation, so unwilling to take things at their face value or even to accept the evidence provided by her second sight, that her feelings are slow to disclose themselves; indeed, everything the lovers say and do is insulated from immediate apprehension by an exquisite web of suggestion and allusion and implication." L. P. Hartley

Sat R 148:355 S 28 '29 260w

"In spite of the constant neatness of phrase and richness of imagery, the style has a little too much of a spun sugar fragility to carry without surfeit through a whole novel, and there are times when its involute efflorescence suggests the baroque art of a birthday cake. But after all, it is an esthetic Morality Play with puppet performers that we have witnessed, and if the marionettes are graceful and charming and brightly painted, we may go home reasonably content." R. N. Linscott

— + Sat R of Lit 6:311 O 26 '29 1800w

"Miss Rebecca West has been caught by 'the fascination of what's difficult,' and but for her wit and the warm flashes of beauty in her intricate, slow-moving style, one might easily run aground half-way through her book and give up the struggle with its psychological shallows. . . One feels Miss Rebecca West would be a very great writer if she had not so many ingenious 'brain waves.' For that is what Harriet Hume is: a brain wave—brilliant, caustic, tender, feminine." V. S. Pritchett

— + Spec 143:380 S 21 '29 350w

"You must like fairy tales and ghost stories, the eighteenth-century manner of written English and humour that is decorative, poetic and malicious by turns—and sometimes all three at once—if you are to appreciate Miss Rebecca West's new novel. . . What charming and touching pictures Miss West has drawn, with excellent talk and comment to go with them. The last few pages are very beautiful, and into their serene gaiety and tenderness is inserted the final and most subtle surprise of all. The two policemen and the unseen whistling boy are admirable touches added to an original and happy book."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p720 S 19 '29 450w

Yale R n s 19:viii winter '30 320w

WEST, REBECCA. Strange necessity; essays. 380p $3 Doubleday, Doran [10s 6d J. Cape]

824 Art. Literature 28-28884

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Booklist 25:155 Ja '29

"Her eager discovery of the necessity for Miss West of great art—with Mr. Joyce as the Virgil who guides her through the underworld—is made into a very entertaining and useful book. All the same, one begins after a little to feel that Miss West is a shade too careless with us. She is in a hurry—she has so much to do. . . Her pages become a little bit garrulous, a little bit shapeless. In short, we begin to discover that she writes pretty badly." Conrad Aiken

+ — Bookm 69:211 Ap '29 480w

Cleveland Open Shelf p29 F '29

"The [opening] essay has value not so much because it communicates ideas as because it infects us with Miss West's own mood of excited exploration; and in that mood familiar ideas renew their interest. . . The other essays, for the most part reprinted book reviews, are unevenly interesting. Their wit is sometimes marred by touches of journalistic smartness. But one entitled The Classic Artist is a very discerning appreciation of Willa Cather's work, and incidentally of D. H. Lawrence's." Dorothy Brewster

+ — Nation 128:137 Ja 30 '29 840w

"Miss West is a really gifted writer: she has facility, heat, and a neat turn for apparently careless but actually effective phrase. Quite apart from the valuable, the stimulating irritation we receive from being told what's what, by a woman in a man's world, she has a quality worth much fine writing: she is extremely readable." T. S. Matthews

+ New Repub 57:276 Ja 23 '29 650w

Pratt p26 spring '29

St Louis 27:134 Ap '29

WEST, WILLIS MASON. History of the American nation; an interpretation of achievement. 923p il $6 Ronald

973 United States—History 29-16344

"Not much that is new can find place within the pages of a book like this. After even the most rigorous elimination and condensation the routine facts between Christopher Columbus and Herbert Hoover are so numerous as to crowd the pages. An author may elect to relate the facts or to write about them, as West has done, but he can have little freedom if he has set out to cover the whole ground. The knowing reader of this book will repeatedly find passages that show that the author has kept himself abreast of current investigations. There are no footnotes to speak of, almost no references, and no bibliography, but West has read the newer books and profited by them."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

"It is not a great book that will sweep the reader along, but with moderate limitations it is a useful book that will do the layman good. We hope the general public may discover it." F: L. Paxson

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 O 13 '29 1000w

"To the numerous histories of the United States which have been written Professor West adds one which, supplying all the important facts, presents them with a charm of style and an objectivity of treatment that well justify the telling of the old story over again." E. N.

+ Boston Transcript p1 S 21 '29 720w

"Its summary of the period after the War of Secession has two defects. One is that Professor West is too anxious to bring it down to date—he spends a disproportionate amount of space, for instance, on President Hoover's inaugural address, which may or may not turn out in historical perspective to be worth more attention than the inaugurals of his predecessors. . . The other defect is that in this effort to come down to date Professor West is guilty of so many inaccuracies—due perhaps to the lack of enough established authorities—as to inspire doubt about the certainty of some other statements of his." C: W. Thompson

+ — N Y Times p3 S 15 '29 2300w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 80:24 O '29 140w

WESTERMARCK, EDVARD ALEXANDER. Marriage. 115p $1.50 J. Cape & H. Smith

392.5 Marriage—History 29-26881

"In a few short lucid chapters Dr. Westermarck discusses the frequency and duration of marriage; marriage within and without the social group of the groom; marriage by capture and consent, and the form involving some consideration; monogamy, polygamy and group marriage. While he is essentially and primarily interested in setting forth the facts as he has found them in all parts of the world he finds himself forced after his survey to draw certain conclusions as to the institution of marriage in our present-day civilization."—N Y Times

Booklist 26:56 N '29

Reviewed by A. B. Parsons
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 O 6 '29 150w

Christian Century 46:1124 S 11 '29 60w

Reviewed by J. W. Krutch
Nation 129:386 O 9 '29 370w

"A brief study which should serve the thinking layman with an excellent background for intelligent consideration of one of the problems uppermost in the human mind today, and should at the same time serve as an excellent introduction to the author's more epochal treatises. Altogether Dr. Westermarck has contrived to present very simply and in small compass a discussion of marriage from many angles in a manner which should provoke much discussion."
+ N Y Times p10 S 1 '29 700w

Outlook 152:672 Ag 21 '29 120w

"Despite criticisms, the general reader will find in this book a fund of data concerning the basis and background of marriage, which will make him all the better equipped to understand marriage in its present forms, and to 'see through' many of the pretentions and spurious arguments that are proffered to us about marriage today." V. F. Calverton
+ Sat R of Lit 6:244 O 12 '29 1150w

Reviewed by E. R. Groves
Survey 63:229 N 15 '29 380w

WESTERMARCK, EDVARD ALEXANDER. Memories of my life; tr. from the Swedish by Anna Barwell. 312p il $5 Macaulay [16s Allen & U.]

B or 92

The autobiography of the author of "The History of Human Marriage." Dr Westermarck describes his home environment and education in Helsingfors, devoting a great deal of space to his student years at the University of Helsingfors. He writes also of the people he has known in Finland, in England and in Morocco, whither his scientific researches took him. The book also outlines fully the conception and growth of his works.

"The author of these memoirs has capped a gracious and kindly life with a modest account of it; and if, as Lytton Strachey once remarked, it is as difficult to write a good life as to live one Mr. Westermarck can count it no mean achievement to have managed both. For future scholarship the importance of the book will lie in the light it sheds on the making of an anthropologist." Max Lerner
+ N Y Evening Post p13m N 23 '29 850w

"It is such an interesting mind, so alert, so vital, so fascinated by ideas and so free and original in its attitude toward them, even from the days of youth, that the unconscious picture of it at work through three-score years makes as engaging and stimulating a life story as any one interested in intellectual matters is likely to find in the year's output of biography."
+ N Y Times p12 D 29 '29 900w

"We owe the writing of Professor Westermarck's reminiscences, we learn, to the fact that during the general strike, in 1926, his work at the University of London was suspended and he was temporarily unemployed. Two years ago they appeared in Swedish and were warmly welcomed, and in their English dress they are sure to be well received. These records of the life of the great historian of human marriage and of the moral ideas are memorials of the life of a scholar blessed with gifts of humour, candour and observation."
+ Sat R 148:583 N 16 '29 380w

WESTON, GEORGE. Wings of destiny. 312p $2 Dodd

29-9994

Lieutenant Millard Delavan wanted adventure. Discharged from the service as the result of unjust charges, he is sent to Switzerland by a believing friend, Judge Henrichs, to gather information for the American Secret service. Thru Baroness Seidler, who crosses to Europe on his boat, he finds himself entering the German Secret service. Here he picks up valuable bits of news which he hopes to relay to Judge Henrichs and it is here his adventures begin: hazardous flights, a forced duel, the suspicions of different officers, and the sentence to be shot as a spy. All ends well, however, the last adventure the story records being a comparatively safe one—young love.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 My 12 '29 80w

"One can have a very enjoyable evening with a book that does not take itself too seriously. And the reader has the feeling while galloping through space with Millard Delavan that Mr. Weston never intended to do more than write a first class thriller with all the furbishments on the side."
+ Boston Transcript p3 My 25 '29 230w

WESTON, HAROLD. Patchwork madonna. 252p il $2.50 Morrow [6s Duckworth]

29-21208

"Creda Reid, a well-known actress, was suffering from 'nerves.' She went to a doctor, a psychoanalyst, and the book consists solely of an account of her restoration to strength and freedom by a process of self-confession, he forcing her to face her memories of the past, and to live again the emotional crises of her life since the caravanning days of her childhood."—Times [London] Lit Sup

"The method has only cleverness to recommend it, for the result is a confusion of irrelevancies of which only a reader trained in the methods and theories of psychoanalysis can make head or tail. The story itself is interesting enough. It deserves better treatment."
— + Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 O 27 '29 350w

"It has been left to Mr. Harold Weston to write a novel exclusively concerned with a psycho-analytical investigation. The result is as joyless as Freud himself could desire. . . I am afraid that psycho-analytical detective fiction, if it is to be judged by this specimen, promises only all the improbability of the older-fashioned sort, together with a pretentiousness all its own." E. S.
— New Statesman 33:439 Jl 13 '29 520w

"The story is entirely 'off-stage' and second-hand, and the book must be set down as imperfectly successful in holding the interest of the non-Freudians. However, what is interesting in this fictional experiment is the unusual degree of characterization and action which this unpromising vehicle affords."
— + N Y Times p31 N 17 '29 700w

"The psycho-analyst is perhaps a little too swift in his deductions, but in a book of this kind economy is essential. The story, intricate though it is, never becomes incoherent, and is as fascinating as a detective book. The author has worked out an analytical method of his own which is based on the theories of various conflicting schools." B. E. Todd
+ Spec 143:104 Jl 20 '29 280w

"Undoubtedly the book is easy to read, and up to a point very entertaining; the dialogue (and it is almost all dialogue) is dramatic and moves swiftly. But the interest of the author appears to be, finally, less in the characters than in the method."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p593 Jl 25 '29 200w

WESTOVER, WENDELL. Suicide battalions. 278p il $5 (21s) Putnam

940.48 European war, 1914-1918—Personal narratives 29-4484

The experiences of a machine gun battalion in action are visualized for the reader by the author, who was captain of the Fourth machine gun battalion, A.E.F., and by the illustrator, an official French war artist.

"It differs from 'One Man's War' and from most European war books in the zest which characterizes it throughout. The author is under no illusions as to the nature of war, yet he regards it as a necessary job, and did not stay in service long enough to show the moral fatigue which breathes from the pages of most other war volumes." F. E. Hill

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 Je 16 '29 300w

"Told in vivid detail, and often with delightful flashes of humor."

+ Boston Transcript p3 Ap 6 '29 300w

"His book is written in a style that goes with a 'click.' There is not, perhaps, much thought in it; but it does indicate yet another view of the War—the bewildering, shattering experience of our American allies."

New Statesman 33:supviii My 4 '29 100w

"It is an extraordinarily vivid book. . . And it has no small value as a war record, since it tells, informally and intimately, the story of one battalion through all the time of its training in France and, as soon as it was ready for the front, through all of its almost constant service."

+ N Y Times p15 Ap 21 '29 320w

"Westover has written his book in such a manner as to give the reader one vicarious thrill after another."

+ N Y World p11m Mr 17 '29 120w

Pratt p32 autumn '29

"Had he confined himself to his few objective descriptions, evidently set down in rare moments of equanimity, we might have had a valuable record of what one observant participant, at least, saw. The really amazing thing about this book, however, and a sinister one if taken seriously, is the author's flaming and enduring hatred of the Boche, hatred of a brand scarcely ever met with outside of the 1918 fulminations of some arm-chair patriot." R. K. Haas

— + Sat R of Lit 5:797 Mr 23 '29 900w

Reviewed by Coley Taylor

World Tomorrow 12:377 S '29 200w

WETCHEEK, J. L., pseud. See Feuchtwanger, L.

WEXBERG, ERWIN. Individual psychology; tr. by W. Béran Wolfe. 428p $4 Cosmopolitan bk. [6s C. W. Daniel]

150 Personality. Psychology, Pathological. Neuroses 29-18427

A pupil of Dr Alfred Adler, Dr Wexberg has written this practical treatise on individual psychology for laymen. The physical determinants of personality and character, and the theory of organ inferiority and its psychic compensation, underlie the discussions. Neuroses and psychoses, sex and character, and education and personality are among the topics treated.

"Dr. Erwin Wexberg's handbook is the clearest and simplest outline of individual psychology that we possess. It is designed as a practical treatise, and while it pays attention to the treatment of definite neuroses and psychoses it should also prove illuminating to everyone who is concerned in meeting his own situations in the fullest and healthiest way. There is included in the book a questionnaire by which we can arrive as quickly as possible at an understanding of our own personalities or the personalities of our fellows. The argument is illustrated by very clearly narrated cases; and the translator has turned the book into fresh and easily intelligible English." Alan Porter

+ Spec 143:283 Ag 31 '29 800w

"There was a definite need for a short and systematic account of the theory and technique of Individual Psychology, such as Dr. Erwin Wexberg has written. His exposition is simple and vivid. 'Individual Psychological Treatment' will be equally useful to the physician, the student of psychology and the private citizen who is trying to make the best of his share in our common life."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p528 Jl 4 '29 1080w

WEYGANDT, CORNELIUS. Red hills; a record of good days outdoors and in, with things Pennsylvania Dutch. 251p il $4 Press of the Univ. of Pa.

917.48 Germans in Pennsylvania. Pottery

A study of the customs and the pottery of the Pennsylvania Dutch. Farm life in the Red Hills of Pennsylvania, the red barns with their painted symbols, the various religious sects, household furnishings, and food are described. The author, interested in ceramics, is a collector of some note, and the major part of his book is given over to a description of various types of Dutch pottery: its designs, colors, forms, etc.

"It is pleasant to encounter such a robust and wholesome and unsentimentalized love for home locality as is manifest in Mr. Weygandt's book about the Pennsylvania Dutch as region, as people, as source of interesting art and craft works. In a happy and zestful spirit he leads the reader round about through half a dozen or more counties of Southeastern Pennsylvania as he discourses about the rich farm land, the prosperous farmers and their distinctive characteristics and customs, the artistic things to be found in their homes and the peacefully lovely scenery." F. F. Kelly

+ N Y Times p13 D 22 '29 1400w

"This unpretentious account of life customs and beliefs among the Pennsylvania Dutch is to be counted among the most delightful books of the year and also among the most informing studies of any phase of American folkways."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 29 '29 1000w

WHARTON, ANTHONY, pseud. See McAllister, A.

WHARTON, MRS EDITH NEWBOLD (JONES). Hudson River bracketed. 559p $2.50 Appleton

29-24077

Mrs Wharton's curious title refers to a type of American architecture popular in the last century, ingeniously designated by an architect of the period (1842) as "Hudson River bracketed," and much of the action of the story takes place in the setting of an old house which was a perfect example of this style. The novel deals with Vance Weston, a young literary genius who comes to New York from a raw Middle West town and discovers, when left to browse in the library of this old house, the rich background of culture which he had lacked. Held down by poverty and his pathetic child-wife, Laura Lou, and spurred by his intellectual companionship with Halo Tarrant, the soul of the artist struggles to free itself.

Booklist 26:163 Ja '30

"Mrs. Wharton, as usual, writes fluently and with distinction; but her characters, with one exception, are shallow. Vance himself is unconvincing in that he never grows up; responsibility, achievement and social experience do nothing to make him seem less boyish—indeed, childish. He behaves throughout like a schoolboy. His wife, Laura Lou, is the only real person in the book: the account of her short

WHARTON, E. N.—Continued
married life, with a husband whom she knows has outgrown her and death staring her in the face, has genuine pathos."
— + Bookm 70:559 Ja '30 450w

"Never has Mrs. Wharton shown the range of interest and understanding that enlivens the galaxy of characters and situations in 'Hudson River Bracketed.' . . This story has not the single-dimensioned passionate depth of 'Ethan Frome' or the economical effectiveness of the vignettes of old New York, wherein each detail lay as neatly in its appointed place as the crystal leaves of a glittering chandelier; yet, in its scope and sympathy (as well as its actual bulk), it is the most generous book that Edith Wharton has yet written." Mary Ross
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 N 17 '29 1500w

" 'Hudson River Bracketed' is not one of her great books. It does not grip one like 'The Children' or 'The Age of Innocence.' A single perusal makes one believe that it has not interested her so much as some of her other books." S. L. Cook
— + Boston Transcript p5 N 30 '29 2000w

"Although one can't help admiring it for the manner in which Mrs. Wharton built it with infinite skill, it does leave one cold. It lacks intensity. It lacks reality. It is no more like Edith Wharton at her best than the poor lines of Keats are like the 'Ode on a Grecian Urn.' " F. B.
— Chicago Daily Tribune p11 N 16 '29 620w

"This is the dominant and enduring characteristic of the work of Edith Wharton—its sanity. In a bustling time of innovations and experiment, both in life and in fiction, she holds to human verities, moving with calm, unimpassioned tread. 'Hudson River Bracketed' will not stand foremost among this novelist's works; but it will not stand last." Percy Hutchison
+ N Y Times p4 N 17 '29 1150w

Reviewed by Harry Hansen
N Y World p13 N 19 '29 920w

"In plot structure her book is perfect. Through the development of each character and each event, through the interplay of characters and events, the ends of poetic justice are served."
+ Outlook 153:465 N 20 '29 650w

"Into her first complete study of a writer and a writer's background and problems, Mrs. Wharton has gathered up enough of what Mr. Percy Lubbock called 'the adventure of her rare and distinguished critical intelligence,' to give it, intellectually at least, the flavor of autobiography—delectable for genuine lovers of her work, despite the fact that its very fulness robs it of something of the clear-cut definiteness of design that has distinguished the rest. It is an absorbing story. And the book has, besides, a fair share of significant background portraits, done in the best manner of the 'Comic Spirit.' " Catherine Gilbertson
+ Sat R of Lit 6:509 D 7 '29 720w

Reviewed by Lilian Whiting
Springf'd Republican p7e D 22 '29 750w

WHEELER, RAYMOND HOLDER. Science of psychology; an introductory study. 556p il $3.75 Crowell

150 Psychology 29-16872

An introductory text book on psychology in which the author has aimed to place psychology in closer relation to other sciences than has hitherto been done. His conclusions are based upon the Gestalt theory, as well as on independent developments in physics, physiology, sociology, etc.

---

"Professor Wheeler here furnishes an impressive summing up, for use as a text book in the first college years, of the latest yield of investigations in the field of psychology. Based on laboratory work, the volume brings in the results of much experimental investigation, including material regarding the measurement of social attitudes, animal and child behavior, the influence of social environment on the intelligence quotient and the learning process."
+ Boston Transcript p2 S 7 '29 350w

"Professor Wheeler has produced a text that will impress the fellow-scientists of other domains with the coming of age of the newest of the sciences. Psychology has come to its own, and in that arrival becomes a discipline for specialists, however responsibly the practical service of psychological principles is recognized." Joseph Jastrow
+ Nation 129:686 D 4 '29 300w

WHEELER-NICHOLSON, MALCOLM. Corral [2] of death. 238p $2 Houghton

29-19254

Second Lieutenant Davies was green but promising, as Sergeant Mike Bannion discovered. On the Mexican frontier Davies had ample opportunity to prove his mettle as an officer in the American cavalry detachment—for Villa and kindred Mexican leaders were mean hombres. Sergeant Bannion, who has roused the particular ire of Gordino the bandit, is at last captured by the enemy and led to the Corral of Death to be tortured. Davies arrives just in the nick of time to save his Irish friend.

---

"Major Wheeler-Nicholson has written a stirring yarn about the humors and heroism of an American cavalry detachment on the Mexican border. His material is rather more lively than his narrative manner." Will Cuppy
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 D 8 '29 150w

"It is delightful in style, in character, in plot."
+ Boston Transcript p3 N 16 '29 200w

WHIFFEN, BLANCHE (GALTON) (MRS THOMAS WHIFFEN). Keeping off the shelf. 203p il $3.75 Dutton

B or 92 Actors and actresses—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 28-24630

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Booklist 25:163 Ja '29

"This is a delightful book, entirely lacking in that self-conscious quaintness which so often spoils autobiographical writing."
+ Bookm 68:vi Ja '29 140w

Cleveland Open Shelf p42 Mr '29

"The enlivening reminiscences of her stage experiences, of her association with famous bygone stars are a rich legion, and to cite even an incomplete list of the plays in which she has appeared in these last sixty years would be to summarize a large part of American dramatic history during that period. Her book is written with naive, warm-hearted charm, and should not be missed by any devotee of the theatre, professional or otherwise."
+ N Y World p10m N 25 '29 120w

St Louis 27:30 Ja '29

"One does not need to have seen Mrs. Whiffen on the stage to understand the high place she holds in the affections of the American theatre-going public. For here again in the pages of her book are the same simplicity, humor and charm that characterize her acting."
+ Theatre Arts Mo 13:232 Mr '29 350w

WHITAKER-WILSON, C. Franz Schubert, man and composer; the story of a man who never wasted time; the centenary biography. 274p il $3.50 (10s) Scribner

B or 92 Schubert, Franz Peter

"In 'Franz Schubert, Man and Composer,' we have an adequate and sympathetic, but far from scholarly biography, to which is added an analysis of certain of Schubert's lieder from the standpoint of their suitability as songs in English."—Boston Transcript

---

"A kind of 'centenary biography' teeming with mistakes and fantastic extravagances and afflicted with an incurable case of Pollyanitis." P: Bowdoin

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 Ap 7 '29 70w

"An adequate and sympathetic, but far from scholarly biography. The author has so little facility in the use of language as to justify a reading of his work only for the information it contains."

— + Boston Transcript p4 D 29 '28 230w

"It has the merits of being easy and (the sentimentality apart) pleasant to read, and it does give a picture of the composer's life which is as comprehensive in outline as it is unreliable in detail."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p82 Ja 31 '29 130w

WHITE, ELIZA ORNE. Sally in her fur coat; with illustrations from scissorcuts by Lisl Hummel. 158p il $1.75 Houghton

29-23735

Two orphan kittens, Sally in her fur coat, and her brother Oxford Gray, Junior, found a good home with the Misses Winifred and Elvira, where they lived happily, even after they were grown up and there were more kittens.

---

For biographical sketch of the author see Boston Transcript p1 Mr 9 '29

---

"In her own line, Miss Hummel has much of Miss White's gift of simplicity and vigor. . . The book is a happy combination of author and artist contributing their best to the growing field of cat-literature for children." Rachel Field

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 N 17 '29 830w

Cleveland Open Shelf p160 D '29

"Told, as befitting a feline heroine, with smooth and easy grace." M. G. Bonner

+ N Y Times p26 D 15 '29 100w

"The charm and distinction of 'Sally in Her Fur Coat' lies in the simple telling of a pleasant tale about friendly animals; in delightful verses with unexpected endings; in Lisl Hummel's black-and-whites, which serve as decoration for the pages rather than interpretation of the story; and in an attractive and colorful format." A. H. Vance

+ Sat R of Lit 6:402 N 16 '29 100w

WHITE, ELWYN BROOKS. The lady is cold. 95p $2 Harper

811 29-14475

A collection of poems, many of them about New York City, written by E. B. W., a contributor to The New Yorker, and F. P. A.'s column in the New York World.

---

"No flesh-and-blood lady could be cold toward these ingratiating, gay and witty rhymes of a young-man-about-New York. They are as keen and polished as a skyscraper in the morning sun. But in his serious verse, notably 'For things that are a part of me,' 'The Spirit of St. Christopher,' and 'This is a prayer before I sleep', is a vein that points to an important future—if the mine is not worked too soon."

+ Bookm 70:xvi O '29 120w

"A poet escaping the tiresome moralizing of Guest and the cloying sweetness of Ella Wheeler Wilcox, is E. B. W., one of the most justly famous of the columnist versifiers. He has his art, for it is an art to write good light verse. It demands skill in verse forms of all kinds. He must be facile, subtle, amusing and at the same time, obvious. Sometimes the writer of light verse turns to serious verse. E. B. White includes in this, his first collected poems, some very deft psychological sonnets." E. L. Walton

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p6 My 26 '29 700w

"The chief virtue in Mr. White's work is his ability to laugh at himself, and to poke fun at a world which in general he thoroughly likes. But in his more serious moments he gets no further than a shallow, sometimes rather bitter, cynicism."

+ — Boston Transcript p4 Jl 6 '29 150w

"Mr. White in addition to being a skilful versifier with a rare sensitiveness for words, shows in this book flashes of poetic distinction. He possesses much of the bite and sting of Dorothy Parker with none of her sardonic bitterness, and his lighter verses have all of the fantastic whimsicality and none of the mawkishness of A. A. Milne."

+ Nation 129:177 Ag 14 '29 60w

"Epigrams, parodies, adroitly worded verses with flippant endings—this is the sort of thing one expects from a member of the staff of the New Yorker and a contributor to F. P. A.'s Conning Tower. What surprises one is to find that Mr. White, in addition to writing very dexterous light verse, can write poems rich in emotion and beauty." Granville Hicks

+ N Y World p7m Je 23 '29 350w

WHITE, JOHN ROBERTS. Bullets and bolos; fifteen years in the Philippine islands. 348p il $3.50 Century

919.14 Philippine Islands. Police—Philippine Islands 28-24044

The author's personal narrative of fifteen years with the Philippine constabulary contains a record of the military and constructive operations undertaken by the constabulary and also a picture of life in the Philippines in the provincial regions. With photographic illustrations.

---

Reviewed by H. N. Schwarzkopf

Ann Am Acad 146:282 N '29 80w

Booklist 25:280 Ap '29

"Because something hot and real went into it, his story, like his own life in the little pueblo of Himamaylan, tells more about the Philippines, and by implication, about their problems, than acres of the usual pompous controversy, figures, and paltry facts." Arthur Ruhl

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 D 30 '28 1350w

Cleveland Open Shelf p43 Mr '29

"This is an unusual book of adventures in the southern islands of the Philippines in the period of their forcible pacification by the United States from 1899 to 1914. More than that, it is of genuine historical value, for it is a frank, straightforward story of a man who was not only one of the most daring and aggressive of our Philippine Constabulary officers, but one who also refused to yield to race prejudice or to consider himself immeasurably superior to the peoples he was sent to control." O. G. Villard

+ Nation 129:226 Ag 28 '29 800w

"An intensely interesting and directly told story. The book abounds in pen pictures of Filipino life, the villages and the people. Colonel White loved the men who worked and fought under his command, and writes of them with understanding and real sympathy. He writes graphically, too, of the country itself, and the book will increase our geographical knowledge no less than our knowledge of the life of the islands and of the work that the Americans have done there. It is a book thoroughly readable and informative."

+ N Y Times p22 O 28 '28 380w

" 'Bullets and Bolos' is White's first book. It is the first and will remain probably the best picture of the struggle of the blundering American democracy to constrain the Pagan and Moslem tribes of the Philippines to taxes, human and property rights, monogamy, and hard work." F: O'Brien

+ N Y World p10e Ja 6 '29 660w

St Louis 27:98 Mr '29

Wis Lib Bul 25:73 F '29

WHITE, NEWMAN IVEY. American Negro folk-songs. 501p $5 Harvard univ. press [23s Oxford]

784.7 Negro songs 28-21279

"Newman I. White, professor of English in Duke University, publishes an extensive collection of Negro folksongs that he got in Alabama and North Carolina, with the help of his students at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Duke University. Here are more than eight hundred songs, drawn from the various Southern states, of a wide range of type. The collection of songs is a fascinating one, arranged according to types, and including work songs, songs about animals, about women, about ancient events, blues, 'ballets' and so forth. There are fifteen specimen tunes given in the appendix, enough to make one long for many more."—New Repub

---

Reviewed by M. P. Redfield
Am J Soc 35:332 S '29 200w

"Newman I. White's American Negro Folk Songs seems to be not the richest collection in its field but easily the most thorough and scientific. Professor White has taken advantage of the work of his more fortunate predecessors as a means for achieving a new high standard of documentation. Practically every line of his specimens which has appeared in some song in another collection has been traced and included in cross-references. Further—and here is notable original research—he has included in his references the old minstrel books and songsters." Abbe Niles
Bookm 68:709 F '29 520w

"If you would understand the Negro, then read these songs. And if you would get a quantity of startlingly accurate observations on the white race, do the same thing." J: W. Vandercook
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 My 26 '29 600w

"Probably the most copious and fully annotated collection of its sort to date. . . This is a book for specialists, since only they could appreciate the fragmentary nature of many of the exhibits; for them it will prove invaluable."
+ Nation 127:579 N 28 '28 80w

"This is a vivid and provocative book, one to be treasured and constantly consulted." Dorothy Scarborough
+ New Repub 57:144 D 19 '28 330w
Pratt p23 summer '29
St Louis 26:384 D '28

"Professor White's interesting and important book is not an anthology merely, or even primarily, though it includes innumerable texts. It is a thorough and independent treatment of Negro folk-song, its origins, history, types, and its relation to the poetry of the whites. It is well and sympahetically written and may be accepted at once as authoritative." Louise Pound
+ Sat R of Lit 5:220 O 13 '28 400w
Times [London] Lit Sup p797 N 1 '28 400w

"A scholarly collection of over 800 folk-songs, traced when possible to the most likely sources."
+ World Tomorrow 12:44 Ja '29 20w

WHITE, STEWART EDWARD. Why be a mud turtle? 326p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran

170 Conduct of life 28-24037

The mud turtle, as is well known, avoids unpleasant contact with reality by retiring into his shell. A man should conquer difficulties. Hence these inspirational essays on Are you happy? Why be a tenderfoot? On holding your own; the Ingredient of happiness; Why be bossed? Why live in a cellar? On keeping young; How good is my religion? and other such.

---

Booklist 25:192 F '29

"Mr. White serves a mental meal that you can set your teeth in. There is something in the author's solid approach to facts which suggests that he has practiced the gospel that he preaches and profited by it. He writes of such fundamentals as happiness, faith, inspiration and stability, and although there is nothing arrestingly novel in his treatment of them he makes his points with a winning logic."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 D 16 '28 180w
N Y World p11m O 7 '28 120w

"Mr. White considers such questions as Are You Happy, Why Be Bossed, How Good is Religion, and others as vital, and does it with intelligence and commonsense." Herschel Brickell
+ No Am 226:adv N '28 300w
St Louis 27:43 F '29

WHITE, WALTER FRANCIS. Rope & faggot; a biography of Judge Lynch. 272p $3 Knopf

343.2 Lynch law 29-10015

A documented story of lynching in the South which gains in impressiveness by the restraint with which it is written. Mr. White brings into the open two aspects of lynching which are recognized but seldom admitted or discussed—sex and religion.

---

Booklist 25:380 Jl '29

"In the presentation of his facts, Mr. White has maintained an admirable detachment; his keen interest in the welfare of his race has in no instance obscured his impartial treatment of data." Irving Astrachan
Bookm 69:447 Je '29 380w

"This book is written with care and discusses every phase of lynching and burning from its inception, around the year 1830, to the present time. The facts are not taken from biased reports, but from statistics and newspaper accounts published in the vicinity of the operations. Some of the book is gruesome in the extreme, and it is impossible to understand how any people, savage or civilized, could be guilty of the atrocities depicted." Clarence Darrow
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 Ap 21 '29 1450w

"There is in it much considered presentation of the highest order; there are many facts which we all should know; and there is a point of view that is healthy, sane, and desirable." M. J. Herskovits
+ — Nation 128:588 My 15 '29 760w

"A calm consideration would reveal many neglected aspects, but Mr. White cannot be reasonably expected to be calm, and his passionate book will do much good." Ellsworth Faris
New Repub 58:338 My 8 '29 200w

"With complete understanding of traditional illusions surrounding his subject, Mr White presents a realistic picture and backs up his assertion with reliable statistics." Horace Gregory
N Y Evening Post p10m My 11 '29 500w

Reviewed by F. F. Kelly
N Y Times p4 My 12 '29 1100w

" 'Rope and Faggot' is sound in its analysis and scientific in its conclusions. It is a book that is at once an indictment and a treatise. In every way it is a challenge to our civilization." V. F. Calverton
+ N Y World p11m Ap 28 '29 820w

"The author of 'Rope and Faggot' has written a dignified, splendid and passionate document. Mr. White, himself a negro, has weighed his accumulated facts carefully and has managed to keep his pen free from unnecessary vitriol, which is saying much when one considers the viciousness of the subject matter. His book gains much strength from this scientific treatment." Ben Wasson
+ Outlook 151:667 Ap 24 '29 350w
St Louis 27:331 D '29

Reviewed by H. W. Odum
Sat R of Lit 6:2 Jl 27 '29 550w

Springf'd Republican p10 My 10 '29 520w

"His controversial bent leads Mr. White to make too much of beating down the straw men of exploded or eccentric doctrines of Negrophobes about Nordic race stuff, brain weights, and the white man's sex jealousy of the virile Negro. This book is so useful, couragous, full of factual material and wise in its search for roots, that we do not want its impact lessened by descents to futile controversy or the exacerbation of minor prejudices." Leon Whipple

+ — Survey 63:43 O 1 '29 1000w

"The most distinctive and most valuable feature of Mr. White's book is its discussion of the causes of lynching."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p806 O 17 '29 470w

"An invaluable contribution to the end of sound thinking on the race problem in the United States. No man in America knows as much about the subject as Mr. White. Himself a Negro of such fair complexion that no one would ever suspect he was colored, he has gone into scores of Southern communities in the wake of lynchings, has got acquainted with participants in the ghastly affairs and has heard from their lips the stories of how they did the bloody deeds. Mr. White has, with one or two exceptions, given us a complete picture of the situation." R. A. Gibson

+ — World Tomorrow 12:347 Ag '29 450w

WHITE, WILLIAM ALANSON. Lectures in psychiatry (the major psychosis). (Nervous and mental disease monograph ser.) 167p il $3 Nervous & mental disease pub.

616.8 Insanity. Psychology, Pathological 28-20979

"Dr. White's new book deals only with the major psychoses. . . It stresses throughout the importance of the roles played by sociologic and other extramural factors, both in the creation of mental illness and in its relief; it assigns to personality factors (with regard to the difficulties of facing reality), the values believed to be so highly important by modern psychiatry; but most of all it humanizes the whole problem by removing the patient from the category of a 'case' to that of a groping, baffled, striving human being."—Survey

---

"It is almost a popular series of lectures due to its simplicity, but it is a complex simplicity, telling us more about the human mind than ordinary text books in psychology."

Bookm 68:xxiii N '28 120w

"Lectures in Psychiatry preserves to the full that rare lucidity of presentation and the stylistic preeminence that so distinguished the Outlines. But it does more. It succeeds in capturing between its covers many of the subtler nuances of psychiatric interpretation to a degree that the Outlines never quite attained." G: K. Pratt, M.D.

+ Survey 61:383 D 15 '28 450w

WHITE, WILLIAM ALLEN. Masks in a pageant. 507p il $5 Macmillan

923.2 Presidents—United States. Statesmen, American. United States—Politics and government 28-22309

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

"In the main, the biographies are well balanced, interesting, and excellently written. Only in writing about Roosevelt and Wilson does White appear to let his emotions run away with him. He admits that he knew Roosevelt best of all the presidents." H. F. Gosnell

+ Am Pol Sci R 23:209 F '29 220w

"To some extent the book is, in effect, a picture of the times from the viewpoint of an ardent Rooseveltian. While this is no recommendation for the permanency of the judgments expressed, it is at least a clue to the predilections of the writer, which leaves the reader in no doubt of his background." A. S. W.

Cath World 129:503 Jl '29 500w

"Mr. White's book has importance because it gives a sense of the change in political leadership which has come in the last thirty years; because it is built on the solid foundation of intimate personal recollection; and because it is written by William Allen White."

+ Christian Century 45:1398 N 15 '28 200w

Cleveland Open Shelf 26:389 D '28

"That the portraits of the men he discusses are strikingly drawn goes without saying. He has lost none of his power to delineate and the picturesque phrase continues to come at his call. An eye-witness to much of what he records, the note of authenticity is often there. But not always can one be sure that he has all the facts in hand." O. G. Villard

+ — Nation 128:107 Ja 23 '29 640w

"The book contains some of the best writing on political subjects ever done by this keen observer." Harry Hansen

+ N Y World p10m N 4 '28 680w

Pittsburgh Mo Bul 33:640 D '28

"As a graphic presentation of the manners and customs of the American politician . . . there is more to be learnt from it than from any biography of a single individual, for all the leading varieties of the type are passed under review. . . The book ends, unfortunately, in an anti-climax, for the final section, dealing with Governor Smith and Mayor Thompson, is far below Mr White's general level. The partisanship which gave vitality to his sketch of Roosevelt has made his interpretation of 'Al' Smith not only inadequate but dull."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p482 Je 20 '29 1200w

Wis Lib Bul 24:304 N '28

WHITECHURCH, VICTOR LORENZO. Robbery at Rudwick house. 342p $2 Duffield 29-3967

A stately English churchman is rather horrified at the appearance of two slangy, obstreperous and unsuspected relatives from America. A friend loses some valuable property. The relatives and the lost property seem to have drifted together; the police think they have a clear case. The case proves to be not so clear, and the relatives not so dark as painted.

---

"Canon Whitechurch has extracted a deal of quiet fun from some strange doings at Frattenbury without the use of a single corpse." Will Cuppy

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 F 10 '29 80w

"A most delightful mystery tale."

+ Boston Transcript p10 Mr 30 '29 200w

"The mystery element is utterly lacking in this story, for the reader knows precisely what is going on; but it is a very entertaining yarn none the less."

+ N Y Times p22 Ap 21 '29 200w

"It is made clear to the reader from the start who the real crooks are, and there is slight trace of interest in their ultimate capture by the police."

— N Y World p5e F 24 '29 110w

WHITEHEAD, ALFRED NORTH. Aims of education, and other essays. 247p $2.50 Macmillan

370.4 Education—Addresses, essays, lectures 29-10164

"At the end of this rather oddly miscellaneous volume are three brief essays on such abstruse subjects as Space, Time and Relativity, but the bulk of it is composed of addresses delivered at various times before English and American groups interested in education."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

Booklist 26:14 O '29

"The more strictly philosophical pieces are too brief to claim much importance and the others are hardly as original as one might hope from a person of Professor Whitehead's distinction. He discusses the relation of freedom and discipline as ideals of education and he discusses also the perennial subject, 'The Place of the Classics,' but he seems, like all who undertake to deliver formal addresses upon such themes, to fall into the inevitable platitudes of Commencement Day. Doubtless the fault is not so much his as his subject's. Education, rather than Economics, is the true Dismal Science." J. W. Krutch

WHITEHEAD, A. N.—Continued

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p2 My 12 '29 230w

"The most important [essays], for those who can understand them, are those which treat of the foundation of scientific method in mathematical logic, of which the author and Mr. Bertrand Russell are the most brilliant exponents."

Christian Century 46:1016 Ag 14 '29 80w

Cleveland Open Shelf p116 S '29

"His little volume is one of the very few good modern books upon a subject which seems to have a peculiar attraction for heavy and commonplace writers. Every teacher should read it." H. A. L. Fisher

+ Nation and Ath 45:401 Je 22 '29 1400w

"His book is itself an illustration of what good teaching should be. It is vivid; it challenges and stimulates. If read with an open mind, it is fair to say that it will make something happen between the ears of even jaded professors." Christian Gauss

+ New Repub 59:157 Je 26 '29 1400w

New Statesman 33:410 Jl 6 '29 1100w

Reviewed by H: J. Forman

N Y Times p5 Ag 4 '29 1000w

"His book is written with beautiful simplicity and clarity, and is, to us, the most valuable and stimulating book on education which we have read. A rich man, honestly interested in the education of American youth, could not spend money to better advantage than in buying copies of 'The Aims of Education' for, say, two thousand leading American teachers. Through it they and, through them, their pupils, should grow in wisdom and stature."

+ Outlook 152:27 My 1 '29 550w

"Whatever Professor Whitehead writes on philosophy, mathematics, or education is bound to be stimulating and interesting. This book of essays contains a doctrine we should expect from a man of his culture and scholarship. He starts out by saying that 'Culture is activity of thought and receptiveness to beauty and humane feeling,' and the book is full of many examples of his own definition. The title essay contains much homely wisdom." K. C. M. Sills

+ Portland Evening News p9 My 14 '29 480w

"There is a peculiar interest in making contact with a mind so powerful as Professor Whitehead's on grounds more familiar to our thinking than those familiar and usual to him. When he turns to mathematical equations to express ideas, most of us fall by the wayside; but seven of these essays are on education, and the clarity and force of his mind is mirrored in the clarity and force of his language."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:1028 My 18 '29 580w

"Professor Whitehead because of his coherence of insight illuminates a much larger field than pedagogy itself."

+ Spec 143:23 Jl 6 '29 850w

Times [London] Lit Sup p530 Jl 4 '29 1200w

WHITEHEAD, ALFRED NORTH. Process and reality; an essay in cosmology; Gifford lectures delivered in the Univ. of Edinburgh during the sess. 1927-28. 547p $4.50 Macmillan

113 Cosmology. Science—Philosophy 29-23503

These lectures are based on a recurrence to the philosophic thought which began with Descartes and Hume. The study is divided into five parts, which, following the definitive first chapter, are in the nature of a continuation of Mr Whitehead's metaphysical study outlined in his "Science and the modern world."

Boston Transcript p7 N 13 '29 500w

"The effort is magnificent both in scope and in execution. Many scientists have recently been driven to philosophizing, but their amateur efforts in epistemology and metaphysics have been in striking contrast with their eminence as scientific investigators. Mr. Whitehead has undertaken the difficult and constructive task of determining the place of science and scientific laws in the structure of reality. His work, whether it be regarded as completely successful or not, will certainly stand out as a masterful piece of philosophizing." B: Ginzburg

+ Nation 130:18 Ja 1 '30 900w

"'Process and Reality' is perhaps the most difficult treatise in philosophy since Kant's 'Critique of Pure Reason'; and while it will take a considerable time to master Mr. Whitehead's thought sufficiently to be able to appreciate its originality, and its final value, it is safe to say that these Gifford Lectures will stand out even in the distinguished company to which they belong. At present, the book is plainly beyond the general reader; but I venture to predict that it will finally reach him, or his immediate descendants, and that the world itself will become concretely the richer through Mr. Whitehead's speculative explorations." L: Mumford

+ New Repub 61:117 D 18 '29 550w

"A very remarkable book. . . Whitehead's originality consists in having written defensible philosophy which does justice to the viewpoint of contemporary science." Axton Clark

+ N Y Times p11 Ja 5 '30 1400w

"Of the series of philosophical studies which have been the work of Whitehead during late years, the present one is the magnum opus in point of generality, coherence, and system. . . The book will be most important for students of philosophy, and particularly to students of Whitehead's philosophy." J: Riordan

+ Outlook 153:229 O 9 '29 900w

WHITEHEAD, WILBUR CHERRIER. Championship bridge hands; [what the experts did with them!] a complete explanation of both bidding and play at auction and contract. 120p $1.50 Stokes

795.41 Contract bridge. Auction bridge

29-13221

A complete explanation of twenty-five championship deals from tournaments in which Mr Whitehead, world bridge authority, was a contestant.

Booklist 25:401 Jl '29

Boston Transcript p2 Jl 27 '29 100w

WHITEMAN, EDNA. Jane and Jerry. 210p il $1.50 Nelson

29-9093

About a happy summer in Maine when the twins Jane and Jerry, from the orphan's home, stayed with Mr and Mrs Gray and their daughter Judith. When the summer was over it was found that the twins did not have to return to the home; they were to stay with the Grays for always.

Booklist 25:401 Jl '29

"Miss Whiteman already has a reputation as a story teller, and is well known for her previous volume, 'Playmates in Print.' 'Jane and Jerry' is well, though simply, written, and teaches unselfishness and thoughtfulness in an interesting manner. There is no doubt the author knows children, what they like, and how to tell it to them."

+ Boston Transcript p4 Jl 24 '29 150w

Cleveland Open Shelf p132 N '29

"The story of 'Jane and Jerry' is as carefully conceived and presented as though Miss Whiteman were telling it to a row of carping eight-year-old critics in person."

+ Sat R of Lit 6:546 D 7 '29 180w

WHITING, EDWARD ELWELL. Changing New England. 275p il $2.50 Century

917.4 New England—Social conditions. New England—Social life and customs 29-22115

"Sketches a variety of social changes in New England during the past three hundred years and offers suggestions regarding the significance of the region in national life at the present time."—Nation

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p28 N 17 '29 180w

"Brief, clearly etched pictures, pictures that retain their vividness long after the reader has passed them by." W. E. H.

+ Boston Transcript p4 N 2 '29 400w

"Take it for all in all, this is an entertaining, worthwhile and reassuring book. Mr. Whiting is determined to be impartial; he sets down some examples of the mean New Englander that he might otherwise have omitted. There is much of beauty in his description of New England landscape."

+ Christian Science Monitor p14 N 16 '29 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p149 D '29

Nation 129:500 O 30 '29 30w

"Mr. Whiting's little study, although it is sometimes a bit wordy and repetitive, is an interesting survey worth the attention of both ordinary reader and special student. His purpose is serious but most of the time his touch is light and his manner is seasoned with humor and whimsy."

+ — N Y Times p26 N 3 '29 500w

"Mr Whiting makes no exhaustive survey of social and economic change, and some of the themes he suggests would be useful for further study, if not actually requiring it. But he supplies entertaining side lights on New England and New Englanders."

+ — Springf'd Republican p12 N 18 '29 550w

WHITING, GERTRUDE. Tools and toys of stitchery. 357p il $10 Columbia univ. press

646.2 Needlework—Implements and appliances 29-2901

A large book, copiously illustrated, which describes the contents of my lady's work-basket and sewing room, tracing to other lands and other times the origin and use of each implement, large and small.

Booklist 25:272 Ap '29

"Miss Whiting has accomplished a stupendous task. The reader marvels at her powers of research and her knowledge of all corners of the world. . . A book of this kind should do much towards tempting men and women once more to use their hands and feet and brains for the creation of beauty. . . Altogether a most unusual and charming book, one to be read leisurely and enjoyed."

+ Boston Transcript p2 Ap 17 '29 230w

J Home Econ 21:371 My '29 30w

Pratt p21 autumn '29

"Miss Whiting, beginning in lively vein with an interesting chapter on the bees-wax that is used in needlework, continues in more matter-of-fact fashion to describe the other implements used in stitchery. Tucked away into more specialized information is considerable spicy comment."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:786 Mr 16 '29 100w

Times [London] Lit Sup p382 My 9 '29 800w

WHITLEY, WILLIAM T. Art in England, 1800-1820. 344p il $9 Macmillan [25s Cambridge univ. press]

709.42 Art—England. Royal academy of arts, London

A year by year account of the growth of art in England from 1800 thru 1820, which is really an "inner history of the Royal Academy." The author has had access to many records preserved at Burlington House, and has included much information as to elections of academicians which has never before been published.

Boston Transcript p2 F 13 '29 550w

New Statesman 32:734 Mr 16 '29 350w

"He has handled his material extremely well."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p255 Mr 28 '29 780w

WHITLOCK, BRAND. La Fayette. 2v 475;452p $10 Appleton

B or 92 Lafayette, Marie Joseph Paul Roch Yves Gilbert de Motier, marquis de 29-19629

A biography, in the traditional manner, of La Fayette, the statesman and maker of history.

"The quality of sympathy which Mr. Whitlock revealed as a writer and a public servant long before he attained his international reputation still manifests itself in his La Fayette—a spirited, well sustained story of one of the most enviable of lives." M. A. DeW. Howe

+ Am Hist R 35:347 Ja '30 1450w

Booklist 26:117 D '29

"Critics will say that Brand Whitlock's book is a panegyric: and the author lays himself open to the accusation by showing insufficient sympathy for the adversaries of La Fayette. The flawlessness of the hero is the chief flaw of the book. The author and the publishers owe to this noble book the duty of removing a few blemishes. Nearly a score of proper names are improperly spelled. But such trifles detract nothing from our admiration: we have rarely found a biography so entrancing as a narrative, so reliable in its scholarship and so generous in its inspiration." Albert Guerard

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 O 20 '29 1450w

"It would be difficult to find another writer so entirely fitted in accomplishment and sympathy with his subject as Mr. Whitlock. He has done a most interesting and valuable piece of writing, fully appreciating the spirit of adventure which tinctured the altruism of the youthful Frenchman, sympathizing with the ardor and the mental liveliness, respecting facts and writing in a quiet style which as we read we recognize as literature. Here is a fine piece of English with which to bring to us the portrait of a real hero. The beauty of the whole thing is remarkable." S. L. Cook

+ Boston Transcript p3 S 28 '29 2300w

Reviewed by W: E. Dodd

Chicago Daily Tribune p15 N 30 '29 1050w

Cleveland Open Shelf p148 D '29

"The author shows an unusual grasp of the complicated period in which La Fayette lived, and a profound understanding of La Fayette himself. Throughout the two volumes he writes with assured confidence and real brilliance, without anywhere straining after effect." R. V. Harlow

+ Nation 129:752 D 18 '29 900w

"Within a year and a half, two biographies of La Fayette have been published, both excellent. In 1928 Mr. Sedgwick gave us a sympathetic and well balanced study of the eighteenth-century in general, and this year Mr. Whitlock, at greater length but with equal charm, has written an exhaustive and well-nigh definitive biography." W. P. Hall

+ New Repub 60:217 O 9 '29 900w

"Two closely authenticated, beautifully written volumes." R. M. Field

+ N Y Evening Post p10m N 2 '29 470w

"Here, at last, is a biography of La Fayette. It is not the first, doubtless it will not be the last, but it is the only one thus far that tells in detail and on a large scale the whole story of La Fayette's extraordinary career, re-creating the man as he appeared to those who knew him, without the accompaniments of interpretative emphasis or flashy rhetoric and with no apparent concern on the writer's part to make him out small or great, bad or good, ordinary or exceptional." W: MacDonald

+ N Y Times p3 O 13 '29 2200w

WHITLOCK, BRAND—Continued
Reviewed by W. R. Brooks
Outlook 153:270 O 16 '29 160w

"The personality of the hero shines in all its glory, and the personality of the writer impresses deeply the reader. The atmosphere of the whole book is healthy, full of life, full of color. It nearly convinced me. But it did not quite. . . Mr. Brand Whitlock has not been able to discover any new document, or any new fact, although there are still a good many of them to be discovered about La Fayette's picturesque and long career. From that point of view this new biography of La Fayette is disappointing; it is not new. Moreover it is full of mistakes. . . As a matter of fact none of the mistakes is very serious, or touches the central subject, but they are numerous, and as soon as Mr. Whitlock branches out on one of the episodes, stories, anecdotes indirectly connected with La Fayette's career, they become innumerable." Bernard Fay
+ — Sat R of Lit 6:285 O 19 '29 1500w
Spec 143:819 N 30 '29 1050w

"Mr. Whitlock continues his straightforward narrative, not eloquent, but concise, good-humored, shrewd, magnanimous to his hero, able to smile at his foibles, to estimate his vanities; not always impartial, never vexatiously partial . . . until the latter half of the section dealing with the Revolution; and then for a while there is a palpable lapse in matter and style, tone and temper. . . However, the narrative recovers, and Mr. Whitlock's geniality, his liberalism and his talent as a writer take command anew."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p942 N 21 '29 1600w

WHITMAN, WALT. Walt Whitman's workshop; a collection of unpublished manuscripts; ed. with an introd. and notes by Clifton Joseph Furness. 265p il $7.50 Harvard univ. press [35s Oxford]

814 28-28607

"The volume contains Whitman's notes for lectures, one completed lecture, the long-lost Introduction to Leaves of Grass, an Introduction to the London edition of that collection, some letters, newspaper articles, and photographs. And yet, for one who wants to understand Whitman's life and Whitman's work, this book is a salient one. The most valuable part of it deals with Whitman as a lecturer: we have his completed lecture on the Eighteenth Presidency, his notes for an Anti-slavery address, and for addresses on Religion and Democracy; and we have what is much more striking than these—his notes on Lecturing and on Oratory." —Dial

---

"What is really valuable, indeed essential to the advancement of criticism, is that a good many of Mr. Furness's comments and apposite quotations show Whitman actually at work." J: Kemmerer
+ Bookm 69:328 My '29 360w
Dial 86:267 Mr '29 230w

"It is important to possess the material he reprints in so handsome a volume: but Mr. Furness can only suggest its relevance to 'Leaves of Grass.' "
Nation 128:593 My 15 '29 150w

"Unpretentious in his claims, Mr. Furness has contributed a valuable background—perhaps the sanest for an honest revaluation of Whitman and his work that has yet been published. He is sincerely concerned with Whitman's particular value to American literature. Yet he has produced (with the assistance of the Harvard University Press) a beautifully bound, carefully annotated text without the slightest suggestion of idolatry—an admirable example of fair play to his subject." Horace Gregory
+ N Y Evening Post p8m D 1 '28 750w

"Mr. Furness may congratulate himself that in 'Walt Whitman's Workshop' he has brought together enough unpublished material of such length and intrinsic importance as to warrant the publication of his book. . . The scholarship of Mr. Furness is impeccable and the large series of notes he has added to his book is almost as interesting as these new discoveries of scraps of prose."
N Y Times p8 D 9 '28 1100w

"The unpublished manuscripts which Mr. Furness here brings to light, with admirable and informative introductions and notes, tell us much."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p136 F 21 '29 920w

WHITNEY, ROY EDWIN. Morality in the making. 167p $1.50 Macmillan

170 Ethics 29-2494

This little book is an attempt to define what is meant by right and wrong, and to explain how our moral convictions are built up.

---

Boston Transcript p3 Mr 30 '29 280w

"Mr. Whitney gives a very intelligent and intelligible presentation of the principles of morality. The philosophy underlying his treatment is largely that of Professor Dewey. The book is clear, concrete, readable, and cogent." W. E. Garrison
+ Christian Century 46:297 F 28 '29 130w

WHITTON, FREDERICK ERNEST. Wolfe and North America. 322p il $4 Little [21s Benn]

B or 92 Wolfe, James. United States—History—French and Indian war, 1755-1763. Canada—History—To 1763 (New France). Quebec campaign, 1759 29-21296

A biography of James Wolfe, the English general who was killed at the battle of Quebec in 1759, after leading his troops to victory. There is an introductory chapter on France and England in North America until the time of Wolfe's birth.

---

"Colonel Whitton's readable book is not only a biography but a history of one of the most interesting periods in world history. . . History and biography thus combined provide interesting reading. Colonel Whitton has not psychoanalyzed Wolfe, but has related the events of his life in the simple fashion that befits England's hero." T: S. Lester
+ Boston Transcript p2 D 14 '29 1600w

"Colonel Whitton has none of that narrowness of outlook which has so often spoiled the writings of military men. In his account of the conflict for North America (which occupies the greater part of his book), he emphasises—perhaps overmuch—the influence of sea-power on the issue; and geographical, economic, and religious factors are all treated with proper regard. It is natural, nevertheless, that he shoud be most at his ease when dealing with military affairs, and readers will turn with special interest to the chapter which concerns the campaign of 1759." W. T. Waugh
+ Canadian Hist R 10:345 D '29 680w

"To claim, as its wrapper does, that this is the 'most authoritative and best documented' life of Wolfe is hardly fair to a breezily-written sketch which does not attempt to do more than to 'pot' for the youthful and bloodthirsty reader such books as Parkman's volumes of Canadian history and the better-known materials for Wolfe's life. The scale of the work can be judged from the fact that Wolfe embarks for the Heights of Abraham at the top of page 365 and is dead by the bottom of page 371—and Colonel Whitton's pages are not large nor is his print small."
— New Statesman 34:168 N 9 '29 200w

"This volume does not add to our knowledge of Wolfe, either the man or the soldier. For light on Wolfe's character or the gradual development of his genius for war it is less satisfying than Professor Waugh's recently published work."
— Times [London] Lit Sup p914 N 14 '29 580w

WHYTE, FREDERIC. William Heinemann; a memoir. 327p il $5 Doubleday, Doran [15s J. Cape]

B or 92 Heinemann, William [29-4645]

This memoir of a successful London publisher is not a formal biography. The book is largely made up of the memories and impressions of friends and the company of authors whose books he published. From first to last he published for some 550 authors including Joseph Conrad, Henry James, William De Morgan, Israel Zangwill, Hall Caine, W. J. Locke, Stephen Crane, Robert Hichens and Sarah Grand. A specially interesting chapter is devoted to Heinemann's friendship with Whistler.

---

"It has been Mr. Frederic Whyte's labor to present this man of contradictions and deeds pleasingly and impartially. . . As one who took intense pride in a finely-produced book, Heinemann would not, we think have been wholly pleased with this volume. There are regrettable lapses in proof-reading, errors in names, and omissions from the index." J. W. Smith

+ — Boston Transcript p3 My 4 '29 1900w

"The author of the memoir of William Heinemann had no autobiographic material to go upon and has modestly kept himself in the background. Mr. Whyte, indeed, has had the happy idea of letting Heinemann's friends write the greater part of the book for him. The experiment thoroughly justifies itself, for the contributors discuss their friend the publisher with unusual candour and animation."

+ New Statesman 32:supxvi D 1 '28 320w

"The book is more than a biographical record; it is the history of a publishing era; it throws light upon numerous authors and publishers of the period and upon their methods, as well as upon the methods of literary agents; it abounds in anecdotes, not only of Heinemann, but of the numerous distinguished personages with whom his activities brought him into contact."

+ N Y Times p3 Je 30 '29 450w

"Joseph Conrad, Whistler, R. L. Stevenson, Oscar Wilde and Mr. George Moore—these are only a few of the names which appear frequently in these entertaining pages. And Mr. Whyte finds room for an adequate and sympathetic account of Heinemann's own character and career."

+ Sat R 146:696 N 24 '28 180w

"The intimate sketches of his many-sided personality, of which the book is composed, while in a sense contradictory, leave the reader with a very clear outline of an attractive rather than an admirable character."

+ Spec 142:24 Ja 5 '29 350w

"William Heinemann deserves his memoir and is fortunate in the form that it has taken. Mr. Whyte's book is vivid, discursive and exuberant, like the personality which it commemorates. Ignoring the formal laws of biography, it reflects the man as he was in life. It is, indeed, a trifle long; for in his anxiety to miss no facet of a many-sided character Mr. Whyte has been rather too generous in his extracts from the impressions of Heinemann's friends."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p774 O 25 '28 600w

WICKHAM, HARVEY. The impuritans; a glimpse of that new world whose Pilgrim fathers are Otto Weininger, Havelock Ellis, James Branch Cabell, Marcel Proust, James Joyce, H. L. Mencken, D. H. Lawrence, Sherwood Anderson, et id genus omne. 296p il $3.50 Dial press

809 Literature, Modern—History and criticism. Literature and morals. Sex in literature 29-5739

The Puritans were afraid of sex and therefore denounced it: the Impuritans are afraid of the fear of it and therefore exploit it. Believing that the present pre-occupation with perversion and inversion is a destructive force in modern letters, the author directs his fire against the Impuritans, among whom he numbers Ellis, Cabell, Proust, Joyce, Lawrence, Anderson, and Mencken.

---

"Writing in ridicule of what he conceives to be the philosophies of incoherence and confusion Mr. Wickham's own analysis leaves an unfortunate impression of these same defects, without the gusto or genius of the writing in his chosen antagonists." C: R. Walker

— Bookm 69:333 My '29 560w

Reviewed by Geoffrey Hellman

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 Ap 28 '29 500w

"Harvey Wickham's studies of what he calls The Impuritans are neither brilliant nor particularly constructive, but his book well represents one school of present day thought. It is perhaps the reactionary school." K. S.

— + Boston Transcript p2 Ap 24 '29 450w

Cath World 129:502 Jl '29 600w

"Wickham writes an almost painfully clever book in criticism of such writers as Ellis, Proust, James Joyce, D. H. Lawrence, and Sherwood Anderson. There are wide differences between these men; perhaps too wide to justify their inclusion under any one category. Is there not more contrast than kinship between the lyrical whimper of James Branch Cabell and the sublime sentimentalist of 'The Dance of Life'? But Wickham goes after them all and says a good word for the ten commandments and the sanctions of customary morality."

Christian Century 46:1123 S 11 '29 200w

Cleveland Open Shelf p73 My '29

"Mr. Wickham's book is badly written, silly, and pretentious. Three-quarters of it, I admit, I do not understand, that is to say, I do not see the point which Mr. Wickham is so volubly trying to make. When I do see his point, it is nearly always either silly or incorrect, and often both."

— Nation and Ath 46:286 N 23 '29 280w

"The Impuritans is a lively, woodenheaded, butting piece of invective. It contains some social criticism and a good many pert remarks. Some title like Misinterpretations would have suited the book better, and fallen in with the mood of the author."

— New Statesman 34:66 O 19 '29 250w

Reviewed by J: Chamberlain

N Y Times p2 F 24 '29 1400w

"He launches his attack on modern writers with horrendous results. But, unfortunately, he is not fair; he resorts to ridicule; he distorts quotations to mean what he wants them to mean; and, most fatally, he never once engages in fundamental analysis. His essays are all about bits and pieces and his book is like a collection of shavings." C. H. Grattan

— N Y World p11m Mr 31 '29 1700w

"There is a bee in Harvey Wickham's bonnet. It is an excellent bee, but it should be permitted to fly. Confined by Mr. Wickham, it buzzes too much. A writer, with a style more lucid and more terse, and with a better sense of selection, could free it. 'The Impuritans,' like Wickham's 'Misbehaviorists,' is a book that needs to be written; but, also like that one, Harvey Wickham is not quite the man to do it."

— + Outlook 151:387 Mr 6 '29 750w

St Louis 27:203 Je '29

"Mr. Wickham is many-sided—a literary critic of unusual sensitiveness and insight, a student who has read widely and formed numerous firm opinions, an inveterate epigrammatist, and a terribly poor showman. There is excellent stuff in this book, but it begins on page 137. It must be a hardy reader, whether friend or enemy, who plows through the long dissection of Weininger and Havelock Ellis to reach the admirable commentaries on Cabell and Proust. These long chapters are worth your three dollars and a half, and worth it chiefly as exercises in literary appreciation." Elmer Davis

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:823 Mr 30 '29 1000w

WICKHAM, HARVEY—Continued

"A highly intelligent production that fails of coherent effect. . . Mr Wickham has penetration, pungency and the gift of thought."

+ — Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 14 '29 480w

"This is a smart and, to my mind, a silly book, a sort of a slumming tour in recent literature. Whether one admires or deplores the works of these authors, it is hard to find enlightenment or even entertainment in the smug innuendoes of Mr. Wickham." Mary Ross

— Survey 62:370 Je 15 '29 80w

"Mr. Wickham's methods are those which might be suitable to an open-air meeting in Hyde Park: with intervals of hearty dogmatism his process is to subject selected portions of an author's text to a running commentary of heavy pleasantry which is intended to provoke a hearty guffaw of approval from the right-minded. . . From his injudicious book it can be seen how entirely innocuous is the weapon of a well-meaning but uncritical man against the work, even when perverse, of minds much finer than his own."

— Times [London] Lit Sup p925 N 14 '29 750w

WICKMAN, E. KOSTER. Children's behavior and teachers' attitudes. 247p $2 Commonwealth fund

136.7 Child study. Children—Management. Teachers 29-22

"An inquiry into the nature of teachers' reactions to the behavior and personality difficulties of children, based largely on an investigation made under the auspices of the Commonwealth Fund in a public school in Cleveland, Ohio, with some reference to similar work in Minneapolis and elsewhere. 'Shows how these attitudes of teachers are in contrast with those of mental hygienists and offers a program for teacher training on the recognition and treatment of children with social and emotional difficulties.' "—J Home Econ

"This report of a well planned and adequately completed piece of research, is worth the careful attention of anyone who is, even in the vaguest sort of way, in contact with public schools." H. G. Rowell

+ Am J Pub Health 19:578 My '29 520w

"The report is significant in its practical bearing on a vital public-school problem and may well attract the attention of teachers and administrators in public schools and teacher-training institutions. The presentation is clear, well organized, and objectified by effective charts and reproductions of the various rating scales." M. A. Dawson

+ El School J 29:790 Je '29 460w

J Home Econ 21:211 Mr '29 70w

"Teachers in two great city educational systems, as well as graduate students in two university schools of education, contributed to the study. It is a significant book, dealing scientifically with problems of the 26,000,000 boys and girls in our schools. Mr. Wickman is an investigator. The conclusions at which he arrives are drawn from evidence, not from personal belief." Dr R. G. Reynolds

+ N Y Evening Post p8m F 2 '29 720w

"Mr. Wickman's project began as a study of the behavior-problems of children. But his scientific outlook, like a barometer, registered a disturbing element, namely, the teachers' attitudes. And straightway his investigation was turned to the effect of teachers' attitudes on children's behavior. . . This comprehensive study of public-school attitudes is distinguished by a sense of proportion and relative values." Rosetta Hurwitz

+ Survey 61:816 Mr 15 '29 450w

World Tomorrow 12:236 My '29 20w

WIDDEMER, MARGARET. Rhinestones. 252p $2 Harcourt

29-9220

The story of a girl who loved the bright and shining things of life, who went to New York to get them, and discovering the gilt behind the glitter broke her engagement to a charming and wealthy idler, and went back to her four-square steadfast David and a life without tinsel.

Booklist 25:397 Jl '29

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Je 2 '29 150w

Cleveland Open Shelf p112 Jl '29

— N Y Evening Post p11m My 4 '29 150w

N Y Times p16 Ap 21 '29 460w

Pratt p38 autumn '29

"The tale is too sentimental and obvious, but perhaps as true as many tales which lean in other directions."

Springf'd Republican p7e Je 9 '29 200w

Times [London] Lit Sup p849 O 24 '29 160w

Wis Lib Bul 25:162 My '29

WIEGLER, PAUL. William the First, his life and times; tr. & ed. by Constance Vesey. 456p $5 Houghton [21s Allen & U.]

B or 92 William I, German emperor. Germany—History—1789-1900 [29-17290]

A biography of the first German Emperor who "was born in the last years of the eighteenth and died toward the close of the nineteenth century. During his life he saw the rise and fall of Napoleon, much of the industrial revolution, witnessed the work of Marx and Engels, the passage of the Reform bills of England, saw the unification of Germany and Italy and the transformation of his own Prussia into a power of paramount importance." (N Y Times)

Booklist 26:68 N '29

"Through the book we get acquainted—without any unseemly intimacy—with a plain, honest, rather dull Prussian officer and official. He was a perfect symbol of Junkerism: a fossil in the late nineteenth century, not a very impressive or attractive fossil at that, but not hateful either. Paul Wiegler conveys very successfully that impression of mild sympathy and half amused respect for his unheroic hero. The style of the book is a welcome change from academic smoothness and the tremendous architecture of old-fashioned German syntax. It is decidedly impressionistic: disjointed, mostly in the present tense. It is not an easy technique, and Wiegler is not a perfect master of it." Albert Guerard

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 Ag 4 '29 750w

"The constant staccato of the book is somewhat of a drawback. That and the use of the present tense, without the splendor of Carlyle, give the book some of its drawbacks. It is hard to clarify the progress of the narrative. . . But for all that it contains a great story told with the purpose of true interpretation. It is the story of a royalist who set a standard that was for strong men alone." S. L. Cook

+ — Boston Transcript p5 Je 29 '29 1350w

"Herr Wiegler's style and method are irritating. He affects the present tense, dropping it only on occasion as if by inadvertence, gets rid of verbs altogether in innumerable instances, and revels in phrases and ejaculations." W: MacDonald

— Nation 129:779 D 25 '29 300w

New Statesman 33:348 Je 22 '29 700w

Reviewed by F: H. Martens

N Y Evening Post p6m Ag 3 '29 650w

"Mr. Wiegler's book is a most exhaustive study on the subject. Its good qualities would have been better accentuated if the author had followed a more uniform policy. As it is, the book is too popular for the scholar and perhaps a trifle too technical for the lay reader. The translator, who presents a revised edition of the German original, could have profitably excised a larger number of details." Emil Lengyel

+ — N Y Times p11 Jl 7 '29 1650w

"Wiegler adheres to his subject matter with stubborn tenacity. There are no asides worth mentioning. His subject is William the First and he exhibits him from all sides and in all his moods. We get less, therefore, of Bismarck, Moltke, the various diplomatic questions and wars than we do in a similar study, say that of Edward VII by Sir Sidney Lee. Moreover, Wiegler is terse, perhaps too much so for Americans who do not have the history of Germany at their fingertips." Harry Hansen
N Y World p7m Je 23 '29 980w

"His very capable translator, Miss Constance Vesey, has been handicapped because the narrative is all in the present tense—which is common enough in German books but unendurable in English. Still the book has some instructive passages."
Spec 143:138 Jl 27 '29 100w

Reviewed by E. M. Jewett
Springf'd Republican p12 S 19 '29 380w

"Herr Wiegler's book will be less useful to students than it might have been; for though it is packed with information, and notably with very interesting quotations, there are no references whatever to authorities. The translation, in spite of occasional curious errors, is good."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p391 My 16 '29 150w

WIEHE, MRS EVELYN MAY (CLOWES) (ELINOR MORDAUNT, pseud.). Too much Java. 288p $2.50 Brewer
28-27586

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

For biographical sketch of the author see Wilson bulletin 3:470 F '29

Bookm 68:xxii Ja '29 120w
Boston Transcript p2 D 12 '28 700w

"It is pleasant to find in contemporary fiction as one does in life itself, some truly admirable persons. Mrs. Mordaunt's story is weakest at its outset, where awkward style and roundabout narrative hold the reader back; once under way the story moves forcefully to a satisfactory close."
+ Sat R of Lit 5:576 Ja 5 '29 300w
Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 10 '29 150w

"It is inevitable that the reader should be irresistibly reminded of Conrad, both in the author's mode of narration and in some of the situations themselves; but this does not mean that the story lacks individuality of its own, for it has both fine character drawing and dramatic inevitability."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p633 S 6 '28 200w

WIEMAN, HENRY NELSON. Methods of private religious living. 219p $1.75 Macmillan
248 Spiritual life 29-2621

Dr Wieman, who is a professor in the Divinity school of the University of Chicago, describes in each of these ten chapters a method by which religion may be made to produce definite observable results in the improvement of human living. Contents: Private worship; Religious release of energy; Reconstructing society; Method of dealing with common things; Meeting a crisis; Public worship; Fellowship; Finding joy in life; Methods of mysticism; Method in religion.

"This little book is by far the best thing for quiet self-searching common sense that we have seen in many a long day. . . Below the surface of this book there is a deep religious meaning, a unifying purpose which makes it a complete expression of one man's total faith." T: L. Masson
+ Boston Transcript p5 F 16 '29 700w

Reviewed by E. B. Chaffee
Outlook 151:432 Mr 13 '29 120w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 79:26 Mr '29 90w
World Tomorrow 12:347 Ag '29 60w

WIESE, KURT. Chinese ink stick. 199p il $2 Doubleday, Doran
29-19791

Tales of China and Chinese life narrated by a worn bit of Chinese ink stick which had been owned by artists, public letter writers and a small boy.

Booklist 26:76 N '29

"It is fortunate that the Chinese inkstick was able to unburden his mind in such an attractive, agreeable book. All of the stories are told with very bold, practical strokes. We wish sometimes that they were more imaginative, but that inkstick is so very black and vital that he will rub off more matter-of-factness than fantasy. There is no doubt that he is a very masculine little fellow. Boys and girls who read his story will like this simplicity, and they will find in the illustrations the exotic flavor and color of China." Elizabeth Culbert
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 O 20 '29 600w

Cleveland Open Shelf p132 N '29

Reviewed by Ruth Seinfel
N Y Evening Post p14m N 16 '29 20w

"Kurt Wiese is exact and amazingly accurate, both in his pictures and prose, besides being tremendously interesting. He has spent many years in China, and with a few sure strokes of his pencil or pen gives startlingly life-like pictures of those interesting little yellow men. . . The ink stick tells its own story in a way that will be remembered by every boy and girl who reads it." O. M. Fuller
+ N Y World p11m D 22 '29 200w

" 'The Chinese Ink Stick' will be enjoyed by any child who has reached the age when he takes an interest in what is happening in other parts of the world. It is full of details which will delight his mental curiosity. Mr. Wiese manages to give a great deal of information about China without seeming to do so. He presents it in the form of anecdotes and stories told by a stick of ink. Incidentally, the Ink Stick, in explaining itself, tells much of the history of ink in the first country to make it—China." A. T. Hobart
+ Sat R of Lit 6:394 N 16 '29 520w

WIESE, KURT. Karoo, the kangaroo. unp il $1.50 Coward-McCann
29-20041

Karoo was a little kangaroo who lived in the "land when it rains but once a year." This story concerns his journey thru the forests looking for his mother, and the animals he met on the way.

"In 'Karoo, the Kangaroo' Kurt Wiese, illustrator of 'Bambi,' has been shrewd enough to do what he is so well able to do—make a picture book concerning an animal. The story, significantly again, is of his own writing and, though it is not difficult to deduce that he is not as much at home with words as with crayon strokes, the text is by no means unsatisfactory." Lynd Ward
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p9 N 17 '29 280w

"This first appearance of the Kangaroo between book-covers, all to himself, is made doubly telling by the fact that his artist is also his illustrator and that there is perfect harmony between the two. The appealing story is told with an obvious knowledge of the special tastes and requirements of young children." S. L. Goldsmith
+ Nation 129:602 N 20 '29 120w

Reviewed by Edwin Seaver
N Y Evening Post p14m N 16 '29 30w

"I defy any one, old or young, not to be a little the better for the pull this story will make on his emotions. It seems to have the essence of babyhood, the quality that made Kanga and Baby Roo the most touching of Christopher Robin's animals." M. L. Becker
+ Outlook 153:590 D 11 '29 100w

WIESE, KURT—Continued

"'Karoo the Kangaroo' follows the Kipling precedent. While much less ambitious than the 'Jungle Book,' it is perfect of its kind. Its utter simplicity carries conviction of greatness. 'Karoo' ought to be a nursery word. Best of all, it is a complete whole. Kurt Wiese's own illustrations are no less beautiful than his text. Even to the jacket the book is a distinguished modern achievement." Catherine Woodbridge

+ Sat R of Lit 6:429 N 16 '29 80w

WIETH-KNUDSEN, KNUD ASBJORN. Understanding women; a popular study of the question from ancient times to the present day; tr. from the Danish by Arthur G. Chater, with a foreword by Ernest Boyd. 324p $3 Coward McCann

396 Woman—History and condition of women

"The title in the German edition is . . . the History of Womanhood in European Civilization. It is an effort to trace the history of man's attitude to . . . woman throughout the ages and to analyze the biological, psychological and intellectual differences which make that attitude on our part, as compared with that of the Oriental, ridiculous."—N Y Evening Post

---

"No one need consult the book for careful documentation or for controlled experiment in the field of sex. The material that is handled here is old and shopworn and the authorities quoted are an incongruous collection. The discussion of the changing concept of women in our own cultural background, a discussion that is promised in the subtitle, is completely inadequate. It was ideally written years ago by Mrs. Putnam in the book she calls 'The Lady,' and has not been superseded." Ruth Benedict

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 My 12 '29 980w

Boston Transcript p7 Ap 27 '29 680w

"However triumphant as an act of revenge, it is not a great work nor a scientific study." Katharine Anthony

— Nation 128:563 My 8 '29 760w

"The original question still stands, despite the care and industry of Dr. Wieth-Knudsen's research. Nevertheless his book renders a real service. He has faithfully compiled an invaluable array of facts biological, economic, historic and political, which expose the absurdity of our attitude [toward women]." L: Sherwin

+ N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 20 '29 1100w

"It is to me beyond credence that a modest, emotionally equilibrated, informed man can make statements of [such] untenability as are to be found in this book." Joseph Collins

— N Y Times p12 Je 9 '29 1700w

"Dr. Wieth-Knudsen's book is detailed and intelligent. Although far more balanced and detached than Ludovici, whose hysterical 'Woman, a Vindication,' was torn from cover to cover by so many indignant ladies a few years since, Dr. Wieth-Knudsen still travels much the same road as Ludovici in his book." F. L. Robbins

+ Outlook 151:667 Ap 24 '29 430w

St Louis 27:259 S '29

"I regard this book as important because it is a serious and objective (in its intent, scientific) study of the relations of men and women. I dissent from its central conclusions strongly, while approving of its approach and some of its incidental positions." Joseph Jastrow

— + Sat R of Lit 5:994 My 11 '29 1200w

"One lays aside this tiresomely repetitious book at first with irritation at the smug condescension of the writer, and then chiefly with wonder that a century of woman's effort and struggle to evaluate standards in greater harmony with a machine age should still call forth an ancient echo of man's bewildered resentment. Dr. Wieth-Knudsen has written just another fanatical denunciation of women." Rebecca Hourwich

— Survey 62:455 Jl 15 '29 350w

WIGMORE, JOHN HENRY. Panorama of the world's legal systems. 3v 1206p il $25 West

340 Law—History and criticism. Law, Comparative 28-31092

An outline of the legal systems of the world containing chapters on the following sixteen principal legal systems, past and present: Egyptian, Mesopotamian, Hebrew, Chinese, Hindu, Greek, Roman, Japanese, Mohammedan, Keltic, Slavic, Germanic, Maritime, Ecclesiastical, Romanesque, and Anglican.

---

Booklist 26:56 N '29

Boston Transcript p4 D 22 '28 950w

"Together the author and his publisher have made a charming book, wise, in that it answers no questions; stimulating, in that it raises innumerable questions; valuable, in that it shows that the theme of justice among all men and in different ages, though it is pursued by different names, has but one aim, 'the constant and perpetual will to allot to every man his due.'" M. T. Quigg

+ N Y Times p4 Ja 27 '29 1400w

"The volumes contain a great deal of knowledge which those who study the world's legal systems will find of interest."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p298 Ap 11 '29 320w

WILD, LAURA HULDA. Romance of the English Bible; a history of the translation of the Bible into English from Wyclif to the present day. 295p il $2.50 Doubleday, Doran

220.5 Bible. Whole—History. Bible. Whole—Versions, English. Wycliffe, John. Tyndale, William 29-7094

Miss Wild adds interest and romance to her history of the Bible in English by including an account of the lives and personalities of the translators, devoting much space to William Tyndale. Among the several appendices there is a list of queer and interesting Bibles, a list of American Bibles, some comparative translations from different versions, and a classified bibliography.

---

"Much interesting, though perhaps not very important, material is passed over in the total omission of some dozens of private translations which were published between 1611 and 1900. The author admits both the legitimacy and the value of the translations into modern English, without discriminating very carefully between their respective qualities, but evidently feels that they are all poor substitutes for the stately beauty of the King James version."

+ — Christian Century 46:870 Jl 3 '29 200w

Cleveland Open Shelf p151 D '29

"Prof Wild's book is written not for the scholar acquainted with the field but for the general reader. It is sure to find a cordial reception. Here is the desired information, and something more. Although space is limited Miss Wild stresses salient aspects of each period touched upon." D. F.

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 28 '29 1600w

WILDE, PERCIVAL. Rogues in clover. 267p $2 Appleton

29-1674

Bill Parmelee gives up gambling and goes home to the country. He intends never to gamble again, but when he hears of friends being trimmed by card sharpers he goes back to the game, and in a series of similar episodes beats the crooks at their own game in the interests of society.

---

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 Mr 17 '29 100w

"This is a lightsome and delightful collection of tales which will refresh the souls of the most jaded." I. W. L.

+ Boston Transcript p2 Mr 2 '29 400w

"This story of a reformed card sharp's campaign against followers of his old calling is highly entertaining and refreshing."
+ Sat R of Lit 5:785 Mr 16 '29 150w
Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 31 '29 180w

WILDER, JAMES AUSTIN. Jack-knife cookery. 186p il $2 Dutton

641.575 Cookery. Camping 29-13302

"A book for every boy or girl camper who wants to cook out-of-doors and is not afraid of experiments. The author has been a director of the Sea Scouts and has done outdoor cooking in Tahiti, China, Borneo and other remote corners of the world. From his book you will learn to cook with only a jack-knife and to make delicious stew in a lard pail or tomato can."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Bookm 70:445 D '29 20w

"Mr. Wilder has done an unusual thing in writing a book that is at once practical and entertaining. The author's advice is backed up by experience, and the book is sound and genuine under its witty, anecdotal style. It is illustrated by many diagrams and amusing sketches."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 Je 30 '29 380w

"Full of entertainment as a boy's favorite story book, yet as full of information as a technical discussion, 'Jack-Knife Cookery' will be a welcome addition to every boy's collection of volumes on the out-of-doors."
+ Boston Transcript p4 Ag 3 '29 170w

"Amusingly written and delightfully illustrated."
+ J Home Econ 21:936 D '29 70w

"Boy campers would be aided by this book, and the recipes are given in a style never encountered in the average cook book. We cannot quite agree with the author regarding his seasoning directions; and the book should be read with an idea of its usefulness (it also includes first-aid remedies) and not for pleasure. It is too brittle and too flippant for leisurely attention." M. G. Bonner
+ — N Y Times p5 Jl 28 '29 100w
St Louis 27:345 D '29

WILE, IRA SOLOMON, and WINN, MARY DAY. Marriage in the modern manner. 285p $2 Century

173.1 Marriage 29-5238

A simple, straightforward statement of modern marriage and the difficulties besetting its survival. Some of the chapters are on: Why marry? The evolution of the wife; The first year; Sex communion; Enter a child; Dollars and sense; The food of romance; Holding a husband; Holding a wife; Inlaws; The other woman; Facing divorce; Keeping together. Dr Wile is a practising psychiatrist.

Booklist 25:307 My '29
Bookm 69:xxi Ag '29 100w

"Dr. Wile's broad education, his practice in general medicine and later as a specialist in psychiatry, his hospital work, especially with mothers and children, combined with his broad human interest in the problems of modern society make him unusually fitted to deal with the topics treated in this book." K. B. Davis
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Je 9 '29 760w

"The book does not preach or scold, but with a fascinating style of writing approaches one of America's crucial questions in a satisfying way." T. C. R.
+ Boston Transcript p5 Ap 6 '29 400w
Cleveland Open Shelf p83 Je '29

"This is a simple, practical, and altogether common-sense small book. Dr. Wile is a practising psychiatrist and Miss Winn a student of recognized authority in the field. They have made a fine contribution to the subject." Herschel Brickell
+ No Am 227:adv Ap '29 130w

Reviewed by W. B. Shaw
R of Rs 79:14 My '29 300w
St Louis 27:191 Je '29

Reviewed by Elmer Davis
Sat R of Lit 5:874 Ap 13 '29 580w
Wis Lib Bul 25:123 Ap '29

Reviewed by Harry Bone
World Tomorrow 12:376 S '29 150w

WILENSKI, REGINALD HOWARD. Introduction to Dutch art. 304p $6.50 Stokes [25s Faber & G.]

759.9 Painting, Dutch [29-12166]

Written by an artist and authoritative art critic, this book is a survey of Dutch art between the years 1580 and 1700—the whole background, including the work of the little-known Dutch Romanists and painters of the picturesque who were the forerunners of the two great masters, Rembrandt and Vermeer.

Reviewed by Walter Bayes
Sat R 147:42 Ja 12 '29 1100w

"Two things ought to be observed at once about Mr. Wilenski's acute, stimulating and original book. One is that it is an introduction only to Dutch art; the other, that it is an extension of the author's the Modern Movement in Art and applies its principles to the Dutch School of Painting. . . His classifications are in the main admirable, save for the exceptions, and his generalizations have sound sense as a rule, even when we suspect them of being merely assertions in support of a point to be made."
+ — Spec 142:131 Ja 26 '29 600w

"Whether it can be accepted or not, Mr. Wilenski's examination of the historical backgrounds of Rembrandt and Vermeer is remarkably clear and logical; and he has taken extraordinary pains and shows great acuteness in tracing relationships between one artist and another. . . By way of preparation for Rembrandt and Vermeer Mr. Wilenski gives an account of the Dutch 'Romanists,' such as Cornelis of Haarlem, Moreelse and Honthorst, and the painters deriving from the German Elsheimer—the immediate forerunners of Rembrandt. His remarks upon their styles and relationships are discriminating, and his illustrations of their works are one of the greatest attractions of the book."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p157 F 28 '29 1300w

WILEY, HARVEY WASHINGTON. History of a crime against the food law; the amazing story of the national food and drugs law intended to protect the health of the people, perverted to protect adulteration of foods and drugs. 413p il $2 The author, 506 Mills bldg., Washington, D.C.

614.3 Food adulteration and inspection. Food law and legislation. Drugs—Laws and legislation. Drugs—Adulteration and analysis 29-13547

The story of more than twenty years of effort to enforce the pure food law. It describes in part the work of a group of men called the "poison squad" to determine the effects of preservatives in foods, and how an investigation was conducted to determine the adulterants used in whiskey. The main part of the book tells how the food and drugs law was denatured and how the Bureau of chemistry was prevented from carrying out the provisions of the law.

"Doctor Wiley's friends will read it with reverence; the public with surprise and amazement; and those who later find it on the shelves of libraries or desks of chemists, with the conviction that it is a keen and intimate portrayal of the most interesting phase of the development of food control. Neither the chemist nor the layman, and least of all the housewife, can afford to miss 'The History of a Crime,' written by this intrepid champion and guardian of the purity and honesty of the nation's food supply." H. E. Barnard
+ Ind & Eng Chem 21:1149 N '29 450w
N Y Times p18 O 13 '29 360w

WILHELM, RICHARD. Short history of Chinese civilization; tr. by Joan Joshua, with an introd. by Lionel Giles. 284p pl $4 Viking press [12s 6d Harrap]

951 China—History. China—Civilization

Following an introduction in which the author outlines the sources upon which he has drawn for his material, there is a chapter on the earliest period of Chinese history. Succeeding chapters deal with intellectual currents in the time of the old empire, the Chinese middle ages, and the dynasties of Han, Sui, and T'ang. The last section deals, briefly, with modern history.

---

"Principally because no other man is likely soon to undergo the same experiences and undertake the same serious studies, his book will probably long retain a unique and useful function in the library of books about China. It is not well written. It is too reverent toward the culture it describes to come close to it. But an enormous amount of erudition has been patiently acquired for its preparation. I know of no presentation of the history, the arts, the literature and the philosophic movements of China more concise or more understanding." Isidor Schneider

+ New Repub 61:116 D 18 '29 380w

New Statesman 34:374 D 21 '29 300w

"A book of this sort has long been a necessity for the man who has not the inclination to study Chinese history through the medium of the more academic publications. In the present work all necessary dates and chronological details are relegated to a table near the end of the book, and from the first page the author has kept in the forefront of his intentions the interest of the reader; and the result is a readable and highly informative account of Chinese cultural attainments."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p936 N 21 '29 650w

WILHELM, RICHARD. Soul of China; the text tr. by John Holroyd Reece; the poems by Arthur Waley. 382p $3.75 Harcourt [15s J. Cape]

915.1 China—History. China—Description and travel 28-24966

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

"Keen insight, warm sympathy, and charm of style raise this attempt to interpret China, the baffling, above most of its contemporary studies."

+ Am Hist R 34:651 Ap '29 140w

Booklist 25:208 F '29

Reviewed by A. B. Maurice

Bookm 69:xxi Ap '29 320w

"Consideration of international questions occupies but a fraction of this volume, and the author is equally illuminating in his study of Chinese cities, philosophy, and social customs. It is all told in a prose style of flexibility and colour—qualities which have not been lost in the excellent translation by J. Holroyd Reece."

+ Dial 86:168 F '29 140w

" 'The Soul of China' is a mellow book. Wilhelm's understanding of China seems unfailing. Yet he misses things which Miss Strong [in China's Millions] saw." L: S. Gannett

+ — Nation 128:234 F 20 '29 600w

Reviewed by Muriel Fuller

N Y World p11m N 25 '28 200w

Pratt p30 summer '29

St Louis 27:167 My '29

"His point of view in regard to modern affairs is that held by the great majority of thinking people until the end of 1926; it is, however, a point of view later falsified by facts. Be that as it may, the value of Dr. Wilhelm's book lies in the extraordinarily vivid picture it gives of conditions during the years he spent in China." Florence Ayscough

+ Sat R of Lit 5:852 Ap 6 '29 950w

Springf'd Republican p10 F 21 '29 760w

Wis Lib Bul 25:29 Ja '29

WILKINS, SIR GEORGE HUBERT. Undiscovered Australia. 353p il $4.50 Putnam [21s Benn]

919.4 Australia—Description and travel. Zoology—Australia. Australia—Social life and customs 29-5894

An interesting account of an expedition to the Australian back-country to collect specimens of the rarer native fauna for the British museum, 1923-1925.

---

Booklist 25:282 Ap '29

"Knowledge and experience are obvious throughout this present volume, though it is written in no egoistical manner. It is copiously illustrated and is full of fascinating tales of animal and native life." Esther Hyman

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 Mr 24 '29 650w

Geog R 19:516 Jl '29 500w

"It is proof of the author's versatile interests and active mind that, although the purpose of the book is primarily to tell the story of the work he and his helpers did, it makes good and interesting reading for any one who likes accounts of out-of-the-way places and comments upon them in their relation to the rest of the world." F. F. Kelly

+ N Y Times p10 F 24 '29 980w

St Louis 27:204 Je '29

"The book in which he describes his two and a half years of wanderings in the back blocks of Queensland and the Northern Territory is very readable—not less so for the unvarnished style in which it is written. . . His detailed descriptions of native manners and customs afford the most interesting part of his book."

+ Sat R 146:616 N 10 '28 250w

"The story is interesting from every point of view."

+ Spec 141:797 N 24 '28 150w

"If there is any quarrel with the narrative it is that the variety of matter it offers does not always shake down into a pattern."

+ — Springf'd Republican p10 My 8 '29 300w

WILKINSON, CLENNELL. Dampier, explorer and buccaneer (Eng title William Dampier). (Golden hind ser.) 257p $4 Harper [12s 6d Lane]

B or 92 Dampier, William 29-22443

Mr Wilkinson's is the first full-length biography and estimate of this English explorer, freebooter and master navigator who circumnavigated the globe, exploring the coasts of northern Australia and New Guinea, and whose travel journals are among the best in the long list of English travel-writers.

---

Boston Transcript p7 N 27 '29 750w

"It is a good story—fighting in the Third Dutch War; logwood cutting in Honduras; buccaneering, exploring, and privateering, all over the South Seas—and Mr. Clennell Wilkinson has told it well, with understanding, and a generous enthusiasm for a man who has received scant justice, but without undue partiality. He writes well, too, except when he suddenly remembers that it is a naval biographer's duty to be breezy, and a modern biographer's duty to be smart."

+ — Nation and Ath 45:658 Ag 17 '29 450w

"Mr. Wilkinson has constructed such a lively account of that varied and adventurous career that he should be congratulated not only on his achievement, but also on his luck that, by an odd chance, no one has hitherto produced a complete portrait of a very tempting—not to say much tempted—character in the history of the English explorers."

+ New Statesman 33:440 Jl 13 '29 1000w

"He has written a scholarly, well documented volume, and he treats his subject in judicial and critical but appreciative spirit."

+ N Y Times p34 N 17 '29 180w

"Mr. Wilkinson tells the story, so far as is possible, in the words of the original authorities—a method not to be attempted by an author without great constructive skill—and the result is a book which takes a very high place among narratives of sea-adventure. It will be of high interest to students of the subject as well as to students of the unexpected in character and it ought to be much relished by all boys with a taste for the sea. Mr. Wilkinson's own sparingly given comments are so good that at times one is inclined to wish that he had not been quite so self-effacing, but, as an artist in biography, he is justified by the result." E: Shanks

+ Sat R 147:835 Je 22 '29 750w

"The full story of Dampier's life, as set forth by Mr. Wilkinson in a scholarly and entertaining volume, will be new to most readers; indeed, some of the details here given have not been printed till now."

+ Spec 143:25 Jl 6 '29 1100w

"Mr. Wilkinson has studied with care and thought, and his book is a spirited history of a big character."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p675 S 5 '29 1000w

WILKINSON, LOUIS UMFREVILLE (LOUIS MARLOW, pseud.). Mr Amberthwaite. 243p $2.50 Knopf [7s 6d Gollancz]

29-5598

"Mr. Amberthwaite, a cynical English bachelor of 39, makes life on board an Atlantic liner bearable by adopting Dick Endsleigh, a young and innocent appearing fellow country-man, and protecting him from the wiles of the ladies. The rescue work continues when they reach London, but Mr. Amberthwaite himself falls victim to the charms of Jane. The tables are swiftly turned and Endsleigh becomes a rescuer, saving his former protector from Jane who is, at the last moment, revealed to be his own ex-wife. The men characters are successfully portrayed wholly through their mental processes, which one feels are psychologically true." —Cleveland Staff Notes

---

Boston Transcript p4 Ap 13 '29 420w

"The author, an American, I think, of 'Mr. Amberthwaite,' has obviously read Norman Douglas and Ronald Firbank; and his novel is intended for what in the United States are called 'sophisticates.' It begins very amusingly, but becomes rather monotonous." Raymond Mortimer

+ — Nation and Ath 43:796 S 22 '28 40w

"Mr. Marlow, like too many moderns, has the trick of concealing his sentimentality by a thick coating of wit and gayety. The result is that the book, without examination, appears to be a cynical bright young novel about a man who is fashionably lacking in emotion. But reduced to its frame work, one sees it for a bit of shame-faced pathos, ill-concealed." Tess Slesinger

— + N Y Evening Post p10m F 16 '29 400w

"Mr. Marlow has a knack, conscious or unconscious, of making one see into the minds of his characters without seeing them externally. . . But the illusiveness of physical traits is not bothersome, since the mental characteristics of the people are altogether tangible. The story is told with a lightness of touch that is at all times charming, though at the very end there are moments when one is a bit impatient with the philosophizing of this victim of his own machinations."

+ N Y Times p8 F 10 '29 420w

" 'Mr Amberthwaite' loses its sparkle and goes flat before the end. The hero is meant for continual voyaging: he becomes unreal directly he touches land. To be paradoxical in thought is often entertaining; to be paradoxical in action is often to be bewildering and boring." L. P. Hartley

— + Sat R 146:365 S 22 '28 300w

"The semi-subtle plot is filled out with some amusing conversation and comment which bring into a satiric limelight sundry phases of English and American temperament and which add an air of sophistication to the novel. Yet [the author] persists in revealing, intentionally we suppose, that even the sophisticated are subject to the frailties and follies of less worldly, less outwardly poised human beings."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:838 Mr 30 '29 210w

"Mr. Marlow's novel is extremely amusing, and a very good specimen of light social comedy of the modern kind, enlivened by the introduction of such ideas as make good conversation. Mr. Marlow has an eye for the kind of idea out of which a light edifice of amusing talk may be constructed. But his difficulty has clearly been to make a whole novel, even so short a novel as this, solely out of talk."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p761 O 18 '28 150w

WILLIAMS, BEN AMES. Death on Scurvy street. 310p $2 Dutton

29-10484

Charlie Harquail, newspaper reporter covering the Bull Fowle murder on Scurvey street, is so excited by the case that he forgets to telephone the Journal office. But he gets a far greater jolt when he learns that the murdered gangster is also Bellmer, owner of the Journal. The question is whether the victim was killed by enemies of Bellmer or Bull Fowle. The investigation circles round the chief men on the staff of the Journal.

---

"Mr. Williams has turned out an exceptionally clever and well constructed plot."

+ Bookm 69:xxvi Je '29 30w

"It turns out that Ben Ames Williams should have been writing mysteries all this time. He should develop into an ace among thrillers if only because of his skill in the mechanics of writing fiction—he has the bent for baffling as well." Will Cuppy

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 My 5 '29 180w

"The best work in the story comes in the trial scene, with the reader still doubtful as to the guilty person and mystified over the plan of the prosecution. The examination of the witnesses and the defendant is skilfully done, and the climax is one in reality as well as intention."

+ Boston Transcript p2 My 22 '29 150w

"An unusually good mystery yarn. Furthermore, Mr. Williams has succeeded in writing a newspaper story which avoids most of the stereotyped features of that class of fiction."

+ N Y Times p24 My 19 '29 230w

"Mr. Williams manages to spin a yarn that is exciting and firmly constructed. It's well toward the top in the flood of detective stories under which we are struggling." W. R. Brooks

+ Outlook 152:120 My 15 '29 80w

Springf'd Republican p7e Je 16 '29 220w

WILLIAMS, BENJAMIN HARRISON. Economic foreign policy of the United States. 426p il $4 McGraw

330.973 United States—Economic policy. United States—Foreign relations 29-3141

"Mr. Williams has limited himself to the task of simply setting forth the outstanding facts in regard to our economic policy. He shows how we have changed from being a debtor to a creditor nation. He describes the various types of loans made by Americans abroad. He shows how the State Department has attempted to beat down political obstructions to the expansion of American exports, and he discusses at length the relation of the State Department to the oil industry and the question of the government control of foreign loans."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

---

"The value of the work lies, not so much in originality of thought as in the marshalling of facts and making them conveniently accessible. The method is much the same throughout—a combination of the historical and the analytical." P. S. Peirce

+ Am Econ R 19:288 Je '29 630w

"Skilfully sifting and evaluating an extensive body of materials which are often difficult to use on account of partisan criticism or official

WILLIAMS, B: H.—Continued

special pleading, the author has constructed with marked success an interesting and objective account of the diplomacy of investment and of the diplomacy of commerce as practiced by the United States. Though no work of its size and scope could be exhaustive, it is easily the best that has yet appeared on the subject." J. P. B.

+ Am Pol Sci R 23:789 Ag '29 130w

"His treatment of the American interpretation of the most-favored-nation clause in commercial treaties is especially valuable and interesting. His view of the basic reasons underlying the recent shift to the unconditional interpretation is well taken." J: G. Hervey

+ Ann Am Acad 143:380 My '29 400w

Booklist 25:309 My '29

"Mr. Williams has not given us much interpretation in this volume—he has not attempted to find out where we are going. This may be a strength rather than a weakness. But there is need for a discussion of the political and economic effect upon foreign countries of American investments, of the relation of our tariff to our foreign trade and to international politics generally, and of our commercial policy as a whole. Mr. Williams gives us a factual basis for this study; as a reference book his volume meets a real need." R. L. Buell

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Mr 31 '29 700w

Cleveland Open Shelf p99 Jl '29

"This volume enters a virgin field and has at present no competitor as a text. No doubt others will appear, and there is ample opportunity for a different though no less acceptable treatise. It is indeed fortunate that the venture of Professor Williams has set such a high standard. It is to be regretted that the economic side of the immigration problem was not touched, for it parallels the tariff in being a domestic affair with great potentialities for our foreign relations. The use of this as a reference work would be facilitated by a more complete index." M. W. Hamilton

+ — Hist Outlook 20:351 N '29 430w

"With system, precision, and clarity Mr. Williams has set forth the record of the official behavior of the American people in those economic activities which connect them with the rest of the world. Even in the matter of our dealings with the small Latin-American states, in which presidential impulse and initiative played so important a part, there appears out of Mr. Williams' examination a classification of doctrine, of aim, and of action. A difficult task has been skilfully performed." Herbert Feis

+ — J Pol Econ 37:493 Ag '29 1200w

"Much of the ground has been covered before, but this book has the unusual virtue of seeing our policies and interests as a unified whole rather than in isolated bits. His discussion of raw materials and 'due process' doctrine in relation to the Mexican land and oil laws is especially to be commended. With all the technical proficiency that he brings to this study, however, there is only the vaguest hint as to how our economic diplomacy can be made to serve the function of improving our national economic life and at the same time avoid the dangers of war." L: W. Jones

+ — New Repub 58:258 Ap 17 '29 580w

"Professor Williams has, in general, no thesis to expound and no conception of policy to demolish, but his occasional comments are thoughtful and to the point."

+ N Y Times p2 Ap 14 '29 650w

Pratt p11 autumn '29

St Louis 27:282 O '29

World Tomorrow 12:347 Ag '29 50w

"A book that is characterized by painstaking research, by exhaustive consideration of each topic, and by a clear, direct style of writing. Each subject is presented separately, first as a historical record, and then as a study of policies, with a minimum of repetition where this is unavoidable. Past events have been placed in their proper setting as guides for future action, and the favorable or unfavorable effect of different policies clearly indicated." E. C. Ropes

+ Yale Law J 39:146 N '29 1050w

WILLIAMS, CHARLES WALTER STANSBY. Myth of Shakespeare. 146p $1.75 (5s) Oxford

822 Shakespeare in fiction, drama, poetry, etc. [29-17198]

A play in Elizabethan blank verse about Shakespeare, into which are worked many scenes from Shakespeare's own plays.

"Both Shakespeare and Marlowe emerge in this hodge-podge as much more vital and credible figures than is usually the case, and doubtless schools can find in the work some very useful material." W. P. Eaton

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Je 30 '29 100w

"Such an attempt to give plays within a play—for the Shakespearian bits are all supposedly acted on a second, inner stage, is an adventure quite out of the ordinary. It is doubtful if it could ever be entirely satisfactory. The distance between Mr. Williams and Shakespeare is too great; the former knows too much that has been said of the latter to be himself an Elizabethan. He introduces too many later points of view, too many opinions of Shakespeare's genius, to make his whole production harmonious."

— Boston Transcript p2 Jl 13 '29 220w

Reviewed by Edwin Seaver

N Y Evening Post p9m Je 1 '29 80w

WILLIAMS, EDWARD THOMAS. Short history of China. (Harper's hist. ser.) 670p $5 Harper

951 China—History 28-28580

This "short history" of China is not a chronicle of the events of 4000 years. It is rather a history of the development of the Chinese people; a history divided into periods "each of which is marked by some overshadowing event or distinguishing feature that has profoundly affected the lives of the people, modified their social institutions, influenced their superstitions, or created some new fashion in art or literature." By the author of "China yesterday and to-day" (Book Review Digest, 1924).

"It is probably our best study of any length in English of the history of China and has obviously been compiled with much care, but its weaknesses make it a work of only average merit." K. S. Latourette

— + Am Hist R 34:846 Jl '29 800w

"Professor Williams' qualifications for writing on China are above question; but this most recent work is disappointing."

— Am Pol Sci R 23:240 F '29 100w

Booklist 25:206 F '29

"Competence for handling the documents, gravity, and a respectful treatment of things political are expected from such a scholar, and these expectations will not be disappointed." C: A. Beard

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 D 2 '28 1300w

"Masterly survey of one of the most ancient and fascinating civilizations ever evolved on this planet." E. N.

+ Boston Transcript p4 D 5 '28 950w

Christian Century 46:205 F 7 '29 50w

Reviewed by W. K. Woolery

Christian Century 46:1154 S 18 '29 1200w

"His book constitutes a monument of sound erudition—erudition interpreted in the light of personal experience of more than thirty years of immediate contact with the people and affairs of China. Our old friend 'the general reader' might search long and far without finding in the English language another history of China both so authoritatively informative and so engrossing in interest." G. W. Harris

+ N Y Evening Post p8m D 29 '28 800w

Pittsburgh Mo Bul 34:11 F '29

Pratt p31 spring '29

"It bears evidence of the author's intimate knowledge of the Chinese classics, especially in the earlier chapters, which deal with the dynasties of which our knowledge is entirely derived from native sources. These chapters, however, represent only one-third of the book; the other two thirds deal with the history of modern China—that is to say, of the period beginning with the Manchu dynasty. In these the author's unconcealed prejudice in favour of the Americanized section of Young China, and its political aspirations, prevent him from writing with the requisite impartial detachment."
— + Times [London] Lit Sup p477 Je 13 '29 300w

Wis Lib Bul 25:29 Ja '29

WILLIAMS, MRS EMILY CODDINGTON. Quest for love. 320p $2 Macaulay

The story of a woman's quest for love, which extended from the days of her childhood until at fifty-two, after one unhappy marriage and an abruptly broken-off affair, she found happiness and love.

---

"The characters are all two-dimensional, manipulated by the author against a background of New York from the Civil War to Roosevelt's administration. If Mrs. Williams had given us five years of her heroine instead of fifty—but no, even five minutes of Claudia's self-centeredness would be too long."
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 O 27 '29 320w

"The background of old New York during the Civil and Spanish wars, during the closing years of the nineteenth and opening of the twentieth century, is exceedingly well done. Claudia herself is rather hurried from one situation to another and as each arouses in her different traits, the composite picture seems rather impressionistic."
+ — Boston Transcript p3 N 2 '29 280w

WILLIAMS, FRANCIS EDGAR. Orokaiva magic; with a foreword by R. R. Marett. 232p il $4.25 (12s 6d) Oxford

572.995 Binandeli (Papuan people). Taro cult. Gardening. Magic, Papuan [28-29562]

"A reprint of three reports by an official in the northern section of British New Guinea. Two deal with the Orokaiva people there; the third is a general essay on magic. The first is concerned with what might be called abnormal ethnology, describing a new cult which has grown up of very late years connected with taro, the staple food. The second report is a most valuable detailed account of native garden-craft, with suggestions how their knowledge may be trained to a higher development and not contemptuously ignored. In the third paper, too, the desire is shown to reconcile native thought and administrative needs."—Times [London] Lit Sup

---

"Of its kind, certainly nothing more readable has been achieved since Darwin, Huxley and James demonstrated the possibility of creating scientific literature of as persuasive imaginative appeal as that of the world's best fiction."
+ Boston Transcript p5 Ag 25 '28 280w

Nature 122:763 N 17 '28 1000w

"The whole carries a little naively the air of the perfect official, the responsible investigator examining savage phenomena with the cold, unscrupulous detachment of a superior race and in a style balanced, argumentative, somewhat inhuman, but certainly impressive."
— + New Statesman 31:94 Ap 28 '28 560w

"Genuinely engrossing book."
+ N Y Times p16 D 23 '28 1400w

Times [London] Lit Sup p189 Mr 15 '28 220w

WILLIAMS, MRS GERTRUDE LEAVENWORTH (MARVIN). Understanding India. 329p il $3.50 Coward-McCann

915.4 India—Social conditions. India—Social life and customs. Women in India 28-24112

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

"Mrs. Williams depicts the Indian social scene with critical but sympathetic insight. She has consistently refrained from either sentimentality or raucousness in dealing with problems which usually induce one or the other reaction in the average tourist. On the other hand, there is indication of inadequate grasp of certain topics—e. g., the Hindu-Moslem question; and of over-simplification of others—e. g., the attribution of India's ills primarily to her 'medievalism.'" Syud Hossain
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p19 Ap 7 '29 300w

Cleveland Open Shelf p109 Jl '29

"Few books that seek to enlighten as well as to entertain and that discuss matters so highly controversial have the charm of 'Understanding India.'" Stanley High
+ Nation 128:164 F 6 '29 640w

"Mrs. Williams relates what she saw in a series of charming sketches, which are almost photographic in their accuracy and vividness. Many of the chapters, especially those on the Indian religions, are marvels of sympathetic insight. The style is very attractive, interspersed with anecdotes, personal adventures, and humorous incidents." C: A. Batchelder
+ Sat R of Lit 5:626 Ja 26 '29 350w

WILLIAMS, JESSE LYNCH. They still fall in love. 374p $2.50 Scribner

29-6352

The bright, amusing story of an impersonal scientist and an impulsive heiress. The heiress wins a bet when she induces the scientist to propose tho he has no real desire to marry her—then. He learns of the trick and leaves in a huff, on a scientific expedition. When next they meet the unpleasant situation has not been forgotten but in spite of it they do fall in love.

---

For biographical sketches of the author see Boston Transcript p1 Jl 13 '29; N Y World p10m Ap 14 '29

---

Booklist 25:323 My '29

"The book is amusing and its comedy flows not from prearranged situations but from the impact of three well-realized characters upon each other."
+ Bookm 70:xx S '29 60w

"It is a story which many will find amusing and rich in sound common sense. I personally am grateful for release from a stale conception of modern youth." M. C. Dawson
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p6 Mr 10 '29 700w

Boston Transcript p2 Ap 6 '29 180w

Christian Century 46:490 Ap 11 '29 50w

Cleveland Open Shelf p77 My '29

"The book is too replete with high-powered dialogue and self-conscious paradox. The plot merely serves as a vehicle for an analysis of a social condition that might have been treated more effectively in a short essay." G. T. Hellman
— New Repub 58:289 Ap 24 '29 150w

"The author of 'Why Marry' is as entertaining and as capable as ever though often, in the writing of the present novel, he seems to have been thinking in terms of the stage. In terms of the stage, moreover, very pat in its stock types, its slick dialogues, its faultlessly ironic situations. Somehow, one has met these people many times before; they click so true to form." Edwin Seaver
+ — N Y Evening Post p11m Mr 9 '29 180w

"Mr. Williams, with an extremely thin plot, has written a perfectly obvious and perfectly delightful story."
+ Outlook 151:556 Ap 3 '29 40w

WILLIAMS, J. L.—Continued

"Here is a hilarious story of the ways of Nature with two modern young people. If the end can be foreseen from the beginning—it is indeed betrayed by the title—you will not foresee so readily Mr. Williams's devious ways to that end; for he crams into this amorous history a tremendous amount of behavioristic reporting." Elmer Davis

+ Sat R of Lit 5:747 Mr 9 '29 580w

"The narrative is entertaining and pertinent, but one wishes that Mr Williams had omitted the bit about plastic surgery."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e My 19 '29 180w

Wis Lib Bul 25:103 Mr '29

WILLIAMS, JESSE LYNCH, and others. Art of playwriting; lectures delivered at the University of Pennsylvania on the Mask and Wig foundation. 134p $2 Press of the Univ. of Pa.

808.2 Drama—Technique 28-29251

A course of lectures delivered at the University of Pennsylvania by leading dramatists. Contents: Writing and playwriting, by Jesse Lynch Williams; Substance and art in the drama, by Langdon Mitchell; The carving of the ivory, by Lord Dunsany; A play is presented, by Gilbert Emery; The construction of a play, by Rachel Crothers.

"As a whole, this collection of talks by well known successful dramatists is very well done. The lectures are really instructive as well as entertaining." G. E. M.

+ Boston Transcript p5 D 22 '28 430w

Dial 86:437 My '29 100w

WILLIAMS, KIRBY. C. V. C. murders. 323p il $2 Doubleday, Doran

29-9101

The Citizens Vigilance Committee is formed to combat crime. And at once there is a murder to investigate—the dead man bearing on his forehead the committee's initials, C. V. C. Similar murders follow, with indications that the murderer is one of the Vigilance group.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Ap 7 '29 100w

"The story moves swiftly and the atmosphere is convincing. Authors of detective stories are an unenterprising lot. They cling tenaciously to the old reliable formulæ provided them by Poe and Gaboriau even when all around them the daring imagination of the racketeers is writing a new chapter in the history of crime."

+ — Sat R of Lit 5:1030 My 18 '29 200w

Times [London] Lit Sup p405 My 16 '29 180w

WILLIAMS, MICHAEL. Catholicism and the modern mind. 348p $3.50 Dial press [10s 6d Longmans]

282 Roman Catholic church 28-23817

A Catholic layman of great influence, the editor of the Commonweal, has prepared a reasoned interpretation of Catholicism and a statement of its challenge to the modern mind. Mr Williams's discussion is warm with humanity and glowing with faith in the Catholic church, its mission and its future.

Booklist 25:192 F '29

"Where the book seeks to be most persuasive it seems to me least effective: the numbers of Roman Catholics at present in the United States of America, their history in the Republic, the contributions of individuals, the rebuttal of the anonymous priest who wrote in The Atlantic—at these points Mr. Williams does not seem to be so felicitous. But the robustious good humor, the effective simplicity of his own sincere devotion, love, and loyalty. . . all this is excellent." F. S. B. Gavin

+ — Bookm 69:109 Mr '29 700w

Boston Transcript p5 Ja 26 '29 450w

Cath World 129:117 Ap '29 440w

"It is a book which, without being profound, is profoundly dull. Almost any book is dull which is a miscellany of journalistic ephemera. Mr. Williams writes well when he is at his best and writing on such themes as the Trappist monastery in Kentucky and the mystical appeal of Catholic worship. But he writes tiresomely when he writes as a controversialist." W. E. G.

— + Christian Century 45:1331 N 1 '28 480w

"This book of much reiteration and overemphasis is from the pen of a ready writer who sits, like Hope on top of the world, and makes music on one string. With enthusiasm and urbanity he makes a motif of his emotional exaltation as a propaganda for his church. Which may be delightful to fellow religionists but remains unconvincing as argument." L. L. R.

Churchman 139:28 Ja 12 '29 160w

"Michael Williams stations himself behind the bulwark of Catholic theology, and trains his high-powered guns on the weak spots in the enemy's defense. He is a good journalist; he is witty; he is intelligent. His method is to hit hard, and then to ask us if we wouldn't like to be where we could do the hitting. The book is full of entertaining and praiseworthy comments on politics, science, books, Mr. Mencken, and Mr. Bryan. And Williams has learned from Chesterton and Belloc the trick of making it appear that he owes his wit and wisdom solely to the fact that he is a Catholic." Granville Hicks

+ Nation 128:48 Ja 9 '29 280w

Reviewed by E. B. Barrett

New Repub 56:358 N 14 '28 520w

"Michael Williams has a rare gift of prose—a gift of dignified and rhythmic cadence which remains stately and beautiful even when it becomes brisk and almost colloquial. He has, too, a rare spirit; and the call that he sounds is the call to that 'good life' which is of necessity a life of the spirit, in whatever form or division of spiritual grouping it may be found—although for his own part there is only one church where he can find it." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p10 Ja 20 '29 930w

Pittsburgh Mo Bul 33:617 D '28

St Louis 27:44 F '29

"Mr. Williams is a witty, an intensely Catholic journalist. One thanks God for his fire, his cleverness, his courage. We could stand a good deal more of this sort of religious journalism without any loud complaint."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:612 Ja 19 '29 520w

"Mr. Williams is a Roman Catholic editor in America and a conversational propagandist. His pleasant articles, though they do not seem to touch the modern mind are revealing of American Catholicism. Though Mr. Williams tells us all about 'Bible Belt bigotries, the Elmer Gantryisms, the prohibitionists, the Lost Angelites, &c.,' he is sincere and often affecting. European controversialists, Catholic and Protestant, can learn both good manners and effectiveness from Mr. Williams, whose treatment of Bryan and the Fundamentalist is in perfect taste."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p31 Ja 10 '29 200w

WILLIAMS-ELLIS, MRS AMABEL. The exquisite tragedy; an intimate life of John Ruskin (Eng title Tragedy of John Ruskin). 371p $3.50 Doubleday, Doran [12s 6d J. Cape]

B or 92 Ruskin, John 29-26345

In her intimate and understanding portrayal of the life of John Ruskin Mrs Williams-Ellis discovers the cause of his tragic frustration in the restricting circle of parental influence from which Ruskin never broke free.

Booklist 25:320 My '29

"It is admirably written, with dignity, feeling and humor. The author extenuates nothing, but neither does she condescend or condemn. . . It is a model for the better kind of popular biography." R. M. Gay

+ Bookm 69:319 My '29 680w

"Mrs. Williams-Ellis's task was a difficult one; of selection rather than discovery, for Ruskin left a mass of biographical material. She has synthesized this into a moving and vivid portrait, and from her book Ruskin emerges a living and tragic figure." J: Drummond

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Je 9 '29 1550w

"Obviously, Mrs. Williams-Ellis, despite her sympathy with her subject, has not given us the definitive biography of John Ruskin. But she has presented us with an interesting book into which she has gathered many important facts that were waiting to be disclosed, and she has lent them an added significance by arranging them in a coherent fashion and by giving them their proper setting. For all this we are grateful." J. J. R.

+ — Cath World 130:371 D '29 550w

"Here at last is a story that is not only readable but fascinating; a true story in which the scattered aspects of Ruskin's personality assemble into a living being. Here, with fine candor, is revealed the human secret of his fame and the inhuman mystery of his isolation. . . Mrs. Williams-Ellis is not, in the ordinary sense, a literary artist; her style is readable but undistinguished. But her genius lies in keeping the reader's mind focused on the subject." H: Ladd

+ Nation 129:44 Jl 10 '29 1000w

"If Mrs. Williams-Ellis's style were equal to her understanding this might remain as the standard life of Ruskin. But she is inclined to relapse for stretches into a fatal pedestrian ease; she does not rise always with the theme; and the title of the book is, indeed, too ambitious for the story as she sets it out. . . The book, however, is sincere and moving; it is a sustained effort of sympathetic insight; and it is easily the best as well as frankest portrait of Ruskin that has yet been attempted." Edwin Muir

+ — Nation and Ath 44:366 D 8 '28 300w

"Mrs. Williams-Ellis has written an understanding and thoroughly readable account of Ruskin's life, always honest and frank, and never sentimental. The materials for biography are enormous. . . This material has been digested by earlier biographers, Collingwood, Cook, and Frederic Harrison, but Mrs. Williams-Ellis writes a stronger narrative and a clearer interpretation than any of her predecessors." R. M. Lovett

+ New Repub 58:sup143 Mr 20 '29

"Mrs. Williams-Ellis develops her theme simply and clearly. It is not the final version of Ruskin's life; still, it is a work which future biographers cannot afford to neglect."

+ New Statesman 32:363 D 22 '28 420w

"Mrs. Williams-Ellis does not present clearly the connection between the art and the social theories. . . Among unsure generalizations she misses the fact that the conflict in Ruskin's thought between an autocratic morality and an economic communism has its roots in 'the idealism' and 'naturalism' of his esthetics. The story of his personal life, however, is sure, forceful, and composed with profound insight into the psychological twists which shaped his unhappy career." H: Ladd

+ — N Y Evening Post p11m Ap 6 '29 880w

"Mrs. Williams-Ellis writes in the most clarified manner, and her simple and forthright presentation of the career of John Ruskin—not at all in the fictionalized biography style—is both touching and informative. We are touched with the pathos of character involved." Herbert Gorman

+ N Y Times p5 Ap 14 '29 1600w

Reviewed by Ernest Boyd
Outlook 151:549 Ap 3 '29 900w

Reviewed by Christopher Hollis
Sat R 146:653 N 17 '28 1200w

"Mrs. Williams-Ellis has written a very readable life of Ruskin: in parts there are passages of real brilliance and her work reflects a wide study of Ruskinian literature. It is a book that once taken up it is hard to lay down and it can be cordially recommended to all whom Sir E. T. Cook's two volume life left with a feeling of incompleteness and a desire for further elucidation on Ruskin's human relations, and especially the story of his tragic love for Rose La Touche."

+ — Spec 141:661 N 3 '28 950w

"The doubt raised in the reader's mind by the author's treatment is two-fold: First, of her accuracy in the handling of material, and second, of her justness in its interpretation. These are grave defects in a work aiming to set before the general reader 'the history, and the psychological problems' of a real individual. . . One is convinced at last that the author throughout the book has been merely tolerant of Ruskin. It has been easier for her to see his weakness than his strength. And for that reason there is continual suggestion of condescension in her treatment. The figure she presents to us is in the end neither tragic nor exquisite." C. D'E.

— Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 7 '29 2000w

"In taking some of the wrappings off Ruskin, and writing a cautionary tale for parents by the way, Mrs. Williams-Ellis has not outraged him. She has enhanced the nobility of his success, explained his failure, and made sense of his life. This is a true function of biography."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p1023 D 27 '28 1200w

WILLIAMS-ELLIS, MRS AMABEL. How you began; a child's introduction to biology; with prefaces by J. B. S. Haldane. 96p il $1.50 Coward-McCann [2s 6d G. Howe]

570 Biology—Juvenile literature 29-6141

A simple, clearly-worded introduction to biology for children under ten. There is an introduction for parents by the English scientist J. B. S. Haldane.

Booklist 25:363 Je '29

"An extremely readable biology designed for children under ten years old. As the first of its kind and a sincere attempt to bring biology within the range of the interest of young children, as it is easily within their experience, the book is its own excuse for being. The decorative illustrations by L. Thoron MacVeagh are in harmony with the text." A. C. Moore

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 Ap 7 '29 350w

"While it lacks some of the information that a biologist might give, it makes an excellent starting point for the acquisition of further knowledge."

+ Boston Transcript p4 Ap 20 '29 80w

"The best book for little children on the beginnings of life that I have yet seen. It is based on the fact that the human embryo passes in its prenatal existence through the successive stages of the evolutionary process; by a simple, straightforward account of this a small child is put on good terms with the rest of creation simultaneously with getting the news of his own beginning." M. L. Becker

+ Outlook 152:393 Jl 3 '29 120w

"The book contains valuable information treated in a highly original manner." Beatrice Gesell

+ Sat R of Lit 5:930 Ap 20 '29 350w
Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 3 '29 120w

WILLIAMSON, HAMILTON. Monkey tale. unp il 75c Doubleday, Doran

29-18022

Jocko, a baby monkey, tells a short story of his life in the jungle and his narrow escape from a fierce crocodile. Illustrations in color and in black and white by Berta and Elmer Hader.

Booklist 26:38 O '29

Reviewed by Helen Ferris
Bookm 70:306 N '29 150w

Reviewed by Rose Fyleman
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 N 10 '29 50w

WILLIAMSON, HAMILTON—Continued

Cleveland Open Shelf p133 N '29

"It is told cleverly in question and answer so that after a time or two the book should go nicely as a sort of story duet." Ernestine Evans

\+ N Y Times p37 O 27 '29 100w

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Outlook 152:391 Jl 3 '29 30w

WILLIAMSON, HENRY. Beautiful years. 282p $2.50 Dutton

29-26899

The story of Willie Maddison's childhood on his father's English country estate and at school. Episodes of the lad's boyhood, and the shy, often difficult relationship between father and son, move together against a nature-background described with rare beauty.

---

Booklist 26:73 N '29

Reviewed by T. S. Matthews

Bookm 70:207 O '29 350w

" 'The Beautiful Years' is the story of the childhood of Willie Maddison. . . It is not an easy feat to make an adult novel out of the first ten years of a hero's life. But this Mr. Williamson has done. On its own merits, the book is likely to take its place in the enduring literature of boyhood; it is a delightful account of the early years of a child in the English country, with all the games that are played, all the farming operations watched and all the long rambles taken in the company of other lads." Herschel Brickell

\+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 S 8 '29 1050w

"Those who have known and loved young Maddison will eagerly read these passages in his earlier life, and anyone who cares for beauty of description or who loves clear and pellucid English and poetic expression will find a very real satisfaction in the pages of this story of childhood and paternity." G. B.

\+ Boston Transcript p5 S 28 '29 450w

Cleveland Open Shelf p156 D '29

New Repub 60:306 O 30 '29 280w

" 'The Beautiful Years' is disappointing. Mr. Williamson's penetration, notable in 'The Pathway,' seems here to have diminished in great degree, as though his keenness became a lesser thing in inverse proportion to the distance of the years under observation. Thought is commonplace, motive obscured, major character static and unrealized. It is true that beauty of utterance remains, and a rare, intuitive identification with certain aspects of nature; but these are mere husks of form and feeling by reason of their severance from the essence which alone can give them significance. Such is the mesalliance—poverty-stricken substance cloaked pitifully in a lambent, evocative prose." Leonard Ehrlich

— + N Y Evening Post p5m S 14 '29 680w

"On the author's own confession 'The Beautiful Years' was written some seven years before 'The Pathway.' If we keep the dates resolutely in mind, it is no reflection at all upon Mr. Williamson as an artist to say that 'The Beautiful Years' is not quite as mature as 'The Pathway.' But, ruling questions of comparison out of mind, and judging 'The Beautiful Years' from within the confines of its own covers, it may be said that we have in hand a beautiful book, and a book, moreover, that has some minor passages remarkable for their humor—which is a quality that doesn't often come into the works of contemporary writers of fiction."

\+ N Y Times p6 S 8 '29 980w

"Most of those who made friends with Captain William Maddison, M. C., in The Pathway will be glad to meet him as a youngster. Hardly so impressive a novel as The Pathway, this story of childhood easily deserves a hearing on its own account."

\+ — Outlook 153:68 S 11 '29 220w

Reviewed by L. P. Hartley

Sat R 148:587 N 16 '29 600w

"In setting himself to write a book about a young boy, and a boy who is not to develop until later, Mr. Williamson has given himself no opportunity for a number of the qualities that make up his unique appeal to many readers. There cannot be in such a book the exigent questions, and the haunting mysticism of 'The Pathway,' the pure, revealing naturalism of 'Tarka the Otter,' nor the truly cruel power of some of his short stories, notably 'The Yellow Boots.' This is not to say that in 'The Beautiful Years' Mr. Williamson has not done good work, but only that since 1920 he has done some much better." Basil Davenport

\+ — Sat R of Lit 6:287 O 19 '29 650w

"It is full of the observation of nature; some of it clear and imaginative, some of it deliberate and heavy, after the fashion of nature-writers. . . It is a bit of a relief, however, when young Willie is packed off to the grammar school and, for the time being, is away from the spink-spink of the blackbird, the soughing of the lapwings, and the wistful eyes of rabbits." Alan Porter

\+ — Spec 143:604 O 26 '29 200w

"To apply the epithet 'Wordsworthian' to Mr Williamson's work is not to condemn it as derivative. It rather suggests a kinship between two romantic poets. 'The Beautiful Years' is spiritually akin to the early books of Wordsworth's 'Prelude,' and similar in setting, incident and description." C. M. K.

\+ Springf'd Republican p7e N 10 '29 650w

Times [London] Lit Sup p868 O 31 '29 400w

WILLIAMSON, HENRY. Pathway. 397p $2.50 Dutton [7s 6d J. Cape]

29-5958

The love story of a gentle Devonshire girl and a man of passionately sensitive nature with the impractical idealism of a Shelley. Mary's family, the old manor-house in which they live, and the North Devon coast they love, are drawn in detail as background for the erratic, brilliant personality of Maddison, foredoomed to tragedy.

---

Booklist 25:323 My '29

"Unquestionably The Pathway might be condensed, edited, telescoped. But no one would have this done who can live a book, live any creative work that transcends the rules and makes its own delight." Zona Gale

\+ Bookm 70:96 S '29 1100w

"This is a beautiful and distinguished book. . . . The writing is always close and authentic, whether it describes the downy breast of a bird or reproduces the sweet Devon accent of old Muley the postman. At its best and it is often at its best in these prodigal pages, it is rarely beautiful." A. B. Parsons

\+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 Mr 3 '29 900w

"Rarely in these prosaic days does one find a novel with such beauty of thought and expression, and with such keen and loving appreciation of nature, such deep spiritual significance." G. B.

\+ Boston Transcript p2 Mr 21 '29

Cleveland Open Shelf p111 Jl '29

"Mr. Williamson finds it so hard to divorce himself from his hero, Willie Maddison, that his book falls inevitably into sentimentality and a rather painfully obvious self-pity. Further, the temper of his mind is almost exclusively lyric; and the result is that his hero, ostensibly a poet and philosopher, gradually becomes so de-intellectualized as to appear positively sappy."

— Nation 129:151 Ag 7 '29 350w

" 'The Pathway' is not a book for the sophisticated. It contains many careful observations of nature, but the main theme is treated with the wrong sort of naivety." Raymond Mortimer

— + Nation and Ath 44:181 N 3 '28 80w

"Unhappy conditions in England are reflected in this bad novel, which has been praised by Messrs. Galsworthy, Bennett, de la Mare and others. Into a tale which covers one year of middle-class family life on the coast of Devon, Mr. Williamson has tossed about everything he could lay his hands on. . . Much space is filled with voluminous and minute descriptions of birds, fishes, insects, animals, flowers, stars and so forth. Then there are cross-currents of sentimental pantheism and meddlesome pragmatism." C. A. C.

— New Repub 59:161 Je 26 '29 360w

"The Pathway is an interesting hotchpotch of natural history, religion, love, primitive æstheticism and Devonshire folk lore, but as a piece of writing it has run hopelessly to seed." Cyril Connolly

— + New Statesman 32:257 D 1 '28 280w

"A vivid, coherent and beautiful book." A. M. Stein

+ N Y Evening Post p10m Mr 23 '29 500w

"The splendors of Williamson's prose, always brilliant in his novels of the strictly nature genre, here enriched by the power of a poignant human theme rise to heights of magnificence he has never hitherto achieved. An exquisite work of art, this is surely a book that should long endure." E. C. Beckwith

+ N Y World p10m Mr 24 '28 220w

"There is a great deal about nature in The Pathway, many passages that are to be read carefully and savored for their fine observation and their equally fine style, but there is also a slowly-unfolded story of human relations in the book that is both holding and thought-begetting. A wandering poet and his love affair make up the core of the story, and most of it is concerned with one of those delightfully odd English families that come to life so charmingly in novels." Herschel Brickell

+ No Am 227:adv Mr '29 200w

"The characters in 'The Pathway' are admirably developed and appealing. . . Williamson's originality of imagination, his feeling for landscape, atmosphere, wild creatures and all the mystery of nature is exquisite and he interprets and transmits it in beautiful prose. We commend 'The Pathway' to those of our readers who know a fine book from a commonplace one."

+ Outlook 151:427 Mr 13 '29 600w

" 'The Pathway' is quite unlike most contemporary fiction with its hard bright even surface, its monotony of mood, its carefully considered scheme. It is like a landscape by moonlight, full of mysterious distances and objects of varying visibility. . . The book seems to be the product of an imagination amateurish and uncertain of itself, not always on good terms with the intellect, but omnipresent, steeping everything in its peculiar hue. Only in the dénouement does it fail Mr. Williamson. This is an unfortunate scene." L. P. Hartley

+ — Sat R 146:658 N 17 '28 1080w

"Mr. Williamson, whose 'Tarka the Otter' was universally praised as a masterpiece among books about wild life, has followed it with another book which, though it has not the same unity of artistic effect, is far profounder and more moving. . . For its beauty and its piercing ideas, this is by all means a book to read." Basil Davenport

+ Sat R of Lit 5:825 Mr 30 '29 680w

"At first neither William Maddison, the war-stricken idealist, nor the young people at the Manor house seem as interesting as Tarka the Otter. . . But the quiet narrative becomes engrossing, the Manor-house girls put on charm, the agitated human sympathy of William Maddison becomes so poignant that the conclusion moves us to pity and indignation." R. A. Taylor

+ — Spec 141:666 N 3 '28 150w

" 'The Pathway,' demands that one should treat it rather as the faulty work of a master than as an ephemeral thing. . . Perhaps the dominant quality of the book is its accurate observation and description. . . The style is very beautiful. The book's prose is pliant and supple, capable of rising to the heights of sustained intense feeling, or representing faithfully the most banal of conversations." H. K.

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 21 '29 1100w

"Mr. Williamson has shed certain extravagances and mannerisms which appeared in 'Tarka the Otter;' the characterization is uniformly good, even the minor personages being clean-cut; the wild life and scenery of the North Devon coast are described with great charm. The book is indeed in many respects so excellent that one falls to wondering why at moments it fails to grip one's attention. One cause, perhaps, is lack of movement. The characters do little but go for walks and indulge in philosophical or sentimental conversations."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p802 N 1 '28 420w

"This unsentimental, unwitty book, without a single smart, ripping line from first to last chapter of its minute, sure, clear rendering of English wild life and human relations with it—this book, dragged down at times by rather grave faults, and never quite striking a full chord of passion, though often achieving an impassioned moment—this book certainly has the power to swell in memory beyond any proportions it assumes while actually being read." S. N. Cleghorn

+ World Tomorrow 12:346 Ag '29 500w

WILLIAMSON, HENRY. Wet Flanders plain. 122p $2 Dutton [25s Beaumont press]

940.3 European war, 1914-1918—Battlefields

This book, on the subject of the Great war, is written much in the form of a nine-days' diary recounting the emotional effects of the writer's visit to the country around Ypres ten years after the war. The war scenes of the past are woven with impressions of the present, and the whole becomes a poetical plea for peace.

---

"One of the best written of all the books on the war. It is slight in size and unpretentious, but worth putting aside to read again when the next storm threatens." Herschel Brickell

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 D 1 '29 680w

"Among the books of today marking the recrudescence of a general interest in stories of the Great War—also the growth of an abhorrence of all wars, and the determination to avoid them by every honorable means—Mr. Williamson's is uniquely notable. It is epic in prose; elegiac for the most part, yet in certain of its nuances possessing a delicately lovely pastoral quality." Frances Bartlett

+ Boston Transcript p3 N 30 '29 1200w

Reviewed by Robert Graves

Nation and Ath 45:629 Ag 10 '29 420w

"A sensitive work, grounded in disillusion, it is true, but firm in spite of its pathos."

+ Nation and Ath 46:sup226 N 9 '29 70w

"The book is a little too scrappy; and the note of violent bitterness is allowed more than once to rise too shrilly to be truly moving. But the experience was well worth recording. All in all, this is raw material rather than a satisfactory book."

+ — New Statesman 33:584 Ag 17 '29 150w

New Statesman 34:sup xvi D 7 '29 170w

"Here is prose that has a great and simple dignity, that moves with the effortless grace of blowing wind or flowing water. . . The soldiers of yesterday will find in Mr. Williamson's book much that they themselves have tried to say. It is also the best of all possible messages to the soldier of tomorrow." F: F. Van de Water

+ N Y Evening Post p8m N 30 '29 200w

"Williamson's prose is a thing of wonder, uniquely lovely in this day. Perhaps his ceaseless concern with its effects constitutes the blemish in the present work. War needs to be got down in its madness, its bestiality and filth, and prose that strives to achieve an immaculate esthetic delineation may well be the least fitted for such a task." Leonard Ehrlich

+ — N Y Evening Post p12m D 14 '29 780w

WILLIAMSON, HENRY—Continued

"The book has a spiritual body as well as a material body; and it is the spiritual body which makes it important, and, one ventures to predict, probably lasting, and this in spite of its modest and self-effacing mien. . . 'The Wet Flanders Plain' is a small book. Yet from it seems to emanate something rather rare, and not easy to classify."

+ N Y Times p5 D 8 '29 1000w

"His descriptions are written with his customary charm of prose, shadowed by a wistful melancholy and occasional sombre irony. Eloquence of thought and power of observation are in the pages, but except for admirers of the author's novels the volume has no great claim to the reading public's attention." Granville Hicks

+ — N Y World p11m D 22 '29 150w

"Unheralded by fanfare of advertisement, The Wet Flanders Plain emerges from the mass of War books as the most beautiful and the most terrible. Henry Williamson, the English prose writer and nature mystic, has revisited the scenes of his War years, and in a diary weaves the past and present into a series of scenes, pure and strange and deeply stirring." F. L. Robbins

+ Outlook 153:510 N 27 '29 120w

"The book is a series of vignettes, done with that delicate skill of which Mr. Williamson is master. It is deep and tender and moving, and will probably rank with the few really great books of the war. The style is as beautiful as ever, and its rare power of conveying the charm of the English countryside is as successful with the rum and the gaudy resurrection of the wet Flanders plain." Harold King

+ Sat R of Lit 6:583 D 21 '29 650w

"Mr. Williamson assumes a difficult task in revisiting the trenches after an interval of ten years and trying to summon out of them the spirits of the past. The first principle of a conjurer is to induce a mood. Mr. Williamson seems to us to talk too much about what he is going to show, so that he is sometimes disjointed and even irritating. . . We are either told too much or not half enough; the conjurer is given to stammering and rambling. . . May his future utterances be calmer and more coherent!"

Spec 142:975 Je 22 '29 270w

"This is only a book of scraps, of disjointed observations and reflections, but there is throughout this an accent of intermittent deep seriousness, making for eloquence. . . The very defects of this present slight work are an earnest of strength for the greater task in hand."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p550 Jl 11 '29 700w

WILLIAMSON, THAMES ROSS. Hunky. 312p $2.50 Coward-McCann

29-14908

A psychological study of an inarticulate giant whose only means of self-expression is in the strength it takes to shift bags of flour all day long. The girls at the bakery mock him but Jencic plods along unheeding till Teena, most vivid and bold of them all, gets herself into trouble and turns to Jencic for help.

Booklist 26:35 O '29

"Inasmuch as Hunky is a psychological study of one man, its hero should have a more definite background to be comprehensible or authentic. But Mr. Williamson writes smoothly and vigorously, and Jencic is sure to be accepted as a plausible workingman by ladies distinctly not of the working class." G. T. Hellman

+ — Bookm 69:661 Ag '29 300w

Boston Transcript p3 Jl 31 '29 500w

Reviewed by Marian Tyler

New Repub 60:54 Ag 28 '29 230w

"Mr. Williamson knows what he is doing with Jencic. But the rest of the book is mediocre. Having conceived Jencic, a wholly original and living figure, it seems that Mr. Williamson exhausted his powers as a novelist and was forced to fall back on the well-known dodges of the trade. For the plot of 'Hunky' is of the obvious movie type." W. R. Burnett

+ — Sat R of Lit 6:19 Ag 3 '29 700w

"'Hunky' is a freshly conceived non-conventional novel."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ag 11 '29 200w

Times [London] Lit Sup p816 O 17 '29 400w

WILLIAMSON, THAMES ROSS. Stride of man. 379p $2.50 Coward-McCann

28-27809

From childhood to old age the stride of Daniel Patterson's life reaches from a lonely pioneer cabin in the Oregon woods to a sprawling, roaring industrial city. The story traces the steps in the progress of its vagabond visionary and inventor to the practical realization of his dreams in the automobile and the airplane, and epitomizes in its sweep the development of America during Daniel Patterson's life time.

Reviewed by Juana Allraum

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p27 N 25 '28 480w

Boston Transcript p7 Ja 12 '29 650w

Cleveland Open Shelf p47 Mr '29

"Now here, for once, is a novel that really can be called an epic of America without error. For it does, on the whole, 'measure the earth by the stride of man,' following the turbulent career of a strong central character across the Continent through a good many of the outstanding events and scenes of the past seventy-five years. Too many, sometimes. One becomes confused in the chronology; the story loses form and line, becomes chaotic. But throughout there are splendidly written re-creations of episodes in the recent past. And the portrait of Daniel Patterson emerges as sometimes more dynamically alive than a lay figure."

+ — N Y Times p8 D 2 '28 620w

"All honest books germinated from our national past are welcome, and one would respect Mr. Williamson's on that score, even if it were not unusually good of its kind. But for all that, his book would have more nearly realized his own intent if he had cut the experience into tenths and used no more than one of the tithes for the complete exploitation of one man. One American truly created will be more national than a hymn to the sun, even so sustainedly brilliant a hymn as Mr. Williamson's." Bernard De Voto

+ — Sat R of Lit 6:569 Ja 5 '29 720w

"Will appeal strongly to many readers, and most of all perhaps to those among the business men. It has force, ruggedness and movement, and offers plenty of observation of human nature and active life."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e My 5 '29 230w

WILLOUGHBY, MRS FLORANCE (BARRETT). Trail Eater; a romance of the All-Alaska sweepstakes. 400p $2 (7s 6d) Putnam

29-12915

Kerry's one-time friend Rance Herrington turns against him when Kerry wins the mastery over Tokon, the wolf dog who has defied Rance. A third man does his best to widen the breach between the two ex-friends. The quarrel culminates in the great sweepstakes race which, in spite of trickery, Kerry wins, at the same time winning the girl.

Booklist 26:122 D '29

"Miss Willoughby has written the story of a race in Alaska. It moves with heart-thumping speed. It catches the breath and makes the hand tremble. If you want two hours of high adventure you will find them in the pages of 'The Trail Eater.'"

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Je 23 '29 300w

"The story is amazingly well told. If your interest flags for an instant, you are switched to another aspect." I. W. L.
+ Boston Transcript p3 Ag 31 '29 400w

"If Rin Tin Tin is looking for a good talkie, he would do well to look into Miss Willoughby's book." Edwin Seaver
N Y Evening Post p7m Je 29 '29 100w

"If you like stories in which the hero is a strong yet gentle, self-effacing yet persistent, never-say-die young man, and in which the heroine is a lovely unspoiled young girl, read the book."
N Y Times p16 Jl 7 '29 130w

"The closing hundred and fifty pages of the story, which deal solely with the progress of the race, are intensely vivid and exciting, but might have been even better had the two hundred and fifty pages of Frozen North melodrama preceding them undergone drastic pruning."
— + Sat R of Lit 6:298 O 19 '29 150w
Springf'd Republican p6e D 15 '29 370w
Times [London] Lit Sup p457 Je 6 '29 150w

WILLOUGHBY, WILLIAM CHARLES. Soul of the Bantu; a sympathetic study of the magico-religious practices and beliefs of the Bantu tribes of Africa. 476p $5 Doubleday, Doran [15s S.C.M.]

299.62 Bantus. Religion, Primitive. Ancestor-worship (28-23935)

Many years of service as a missionary in Africa gave to Professor Willoughby opportunity for the close study of the primitive religious rites and beliefs of the Bantu tribe which are set forth in this volume. The author is professor of missions in Africa, Kennedy school of missions, Hartford seminary Foundation.

---

Reviewed by Ellsworth Faris
Christian Century 45:1558 D 20 '29 780w

"He has been fortunate in securing assistance from tribal authorities who previously had successfully withheld information of this nature from the eyes of other investigators equally curious but less sympathetic. As a study of primitive religions, their tenets and rites, together with their relations to the better known philosophies of the Egyptian and Oriental cultures, The Soul of the Bantu can be unreservedly recommended." L. T. Griswold
+ Living Age 335:155 O '28 230w

" 'The Soul of the Bantu' is an old missionary's acute and unprejudiced study of the magico-religious practices and beliefs of the Bantu tribes of Africa. It is a monument to scholarship and broad-mindedness." F: O'Brien
+ N Y World p9e O 28 '28 200w

"The great value of the treatise consists in the broad and wise attitude of its accomplished author." N. H. Dole
+ Portland Evening News p5 Je 11 '29 1250w

"Dr. Willoughby's volume will almost certainly stand as a, and perhaps the, primary authority on African cults and beliefs: every page is thick with information which no student can ignore and no library dispense with." H. B. Alexander
+ Sat R of Lit 5:556 D 29 '28 800w

"Dr. Willoughby has a reputation as one of the greatest authorities on African affairs in our time; and the present book goes far to explain that reputation. He possesses a scientist's curiosity in, and a poet's sympathy with, those who are blessed because of their simplicity. He stresses the need for sympathetic understanding." Bruno Lasker
+ Survey 61:699 F 15 '29 230w

"Mr. Willoughby is the master of a lucid and telling style, and will be read with delight as well as profit, not by the missionary only—though he writes for him in the first instance—but also by the administrator, the educated colonist, the enlightened public generally and, last but perhaps not least important, the scientific student of human culture."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p88 F 7 '29 1250w

"The book has a limited appeal; it will be read chiefly by those interested in foreign missions; but to many such it will be a piece of news that early Christianity was in large measure disguised paganism. . . 'The Soul of the Bantu' is marked not only by sound matter but by a finished form." Woodbridge Riley
+ Yale R n s 19:187 autumn '29 380w

WILLSON, BECKLES. America's ambassadors to England (1785-1929); a narrative of Anglo-American diplomatic relations. 497p $5 Stokes [21s J. Murray]

327.73 United States—Foreign relations—Great Britain. Great Britain—Foreign relations—United States. United States—Diplomatic and consular service. Ambassadors 29-6170

Portraits of the American ambassadors to the Court of St James from John Adams, when George III was king, to Alanson B. Houghton of our own day. The background of the portraits is a continuous, if sketchy, picture of Anglo-American diplomatic relationships.

---

"Abounding in rather well-authenticated gossip, the volume should meet nevertheless something more than a popular demand, for it contains information concerning some thirty-eight personalities and problems, big and little, relating to Anglo-American affairs from the days of John Adams to the present year. . . Apart from sketches of personalities the narrative presents the larger problems of Anglo-American diplomacy with sufficient clarity to give to the story continuity and development." H: B. Learned
+ — Am Hist R 35:135 O '29 1000w
Booklist 25:347 Je '29

"Mr. Willson puts sentiment to one side when he comes to his narrative, and gives us a series of well-written sketches at once instructive and entertaining." W: MacDonald
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 My 5 '29 900w

Reviewed by S. L. Cook
Boston Transcript p2 Mr 9 '29 1350w
N Y Evening Post p11m My 11 '29 180w

Reviewed by W: MacDonald
N Y Times p11 Je 9 '29 1000w
Outlook 151:430 Mr 13 '29 40w

"He has woven all the material into a running narrative of surpassing interest. Nothing quite like it is to be found in any of our standard histories. It supplements and augments them." W. B. Shaw
+ R of Rs 79:16 Ap '29 120w
St Louis 27:158 My '29

"Mr. Beckles Willson, the chronicler of Embassies, has given us a book of lasting value; for it provides an account not only of the men by whom the United States have been represented at the Court of St. James', but of the controversial issues which they have needed to handle; and the list of these is long and instructive, if not always edifying."
+ Spec 141:887 D 8 28 150w
Times [London] Lit Sup p35 Ja 17 '29 1800w
Wis Lib Bul 25:276 Jl '29

WILLY, COLETTE. See Colette, pseud.

WILM, GRACE (GRIDLEY) (MRS EMIL CARL WILM). Appreciation of music; ten talks on musical form. 139p $1.75 Macmillan

780.1 Musical form. Music—Analysis, interpretation, appreciation 28-22557

Mrs Wilm, formerly instructor of music at Wellesley college, explains the different forms of musical composition to the reader who would like to bring to the enjoyment of music an informed intelligence. In these talks Mrs Wilm

WILM, GRACE—Continued
discusses canon and fugue, preludes and études, the suite, the sonata, etc.

---

Booklist 25:153 Ja '29

Reviewed by P: Bowdoin
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 My 19 '29 150w
St Louis 27:96 Mr '29

"Miss Wilm offers compact information in a style which is economical of words except for the occasional use of two adjectives to do the work of one. Her brief essays cater to readers who wish to be supplied with facts but have not time to comprehend the ideas which the facts express."
+ — Sat R of Lit 5:495 D 8 '28 150w

"Contains enough historical and critical material to make the book useful to an unexacting reader. As introductory lessons on the subject to school children the different chapters would do quite well; publication in book form is hardly justified."
— + Times [London] Lit Sup p366 My 2 '29 180w

WILSON, ALEXANDER DOUGLAS. Murder mansion. 343p $2 (7s 6d) Longmans
[29-19690]

Christine Van der Frean, who owns a very valuable emerald, is pursued by a gang of thieves until, surrounded by Scotland Yard men and aided by Dick Hallows, who loves her, she finds herself a guest at Professor Winter's house-party in Murder Mansion, where events come to a climax. The belief that the house is haunted, becomes a sinister reality on the night that the gang makes a last desperate attempt to secure the emerald, for a terrible, gorilla-like form with a bloody hand stalks thru the place, leaving fear and death in its trail, before it is captured and accounted for.

---

"Apparently offered in dead earnest, this one contains not a little good, clean unconscious fun." Will Cuppy
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p24 N 10 '29 170w
N Y Times p48 D 1 '29 70w

"There is well-sustained action. If the humor is a bit heavy at times, we are at least accustomed to that in detective stories, and all is forgiven in this instance because clews are neatly laid and the ending is unusual."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e N 17 '29 120w

WILSON, SIR ARNOLD TALBOT. Persian gulf; with a foreword by L. S. Amery. 327p il $7 (25s) Oxford
955 Persian gulf. Asia, Western—History
28-18894

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Reviewed by C. Van H. Engert
Am Hist R 34:560 Ap '29 900w

"Possesses all the characteristics of a standard work. Up to the Great War [the author] has given a singularly lucid account of events, based on wide study of both ancient and modern authorities, whose statements he has been able to co-ordinate and interpret with his accurate knowledge of the geography and conditions of the region." D. S. M.
+ Eng Hist R 44:502 Jl '29 370w
Geog R 19:176 Ja '29 200w

WILSON, BARBARA (LISTER) lady. House of memories. 216p $3 Dial press [6s Heinemann]
914.436 Paris—Social life and customs
29-23754

The memories consist of a series of informal sketches concerning episodes and experiences of the author's life in France. People, customs, scenes and places she talks of, in a style that is distinctly individual, charming and witty.

---

"Such recollections of lost days have their perennial charm. It is not remote enough to be history, it is not up-to-date enough to be gossip; it is merely a reconstruction to which we lend the willing help of our half-forgotten memories. There is a peculiar pleasure in reading about facts which have been as familiar to us as to the author." V. Sackville-West
+ Nation and Ath 45:241 My 18 '29 270w

"An excellently written little book of reminiscences. France is Lady Wilson's memory house, and her love of the French country and its people is imparted to us in a simple, unaffected prose that makes pleasant reading throughout." Edwin Seaver
+ N Y Evening Post p12m D 21 '29 30w

"This is a book which combines, with a richness as unusual as it is delightful, personal memoirs with keen comment upon the life and customs of another nation. . . The result is a book of unusual quality in its penetration and its charm." Katherine Woods
+ N Y Times p36 D 8 '29 1200w

"Lady Wilson's memories are, for the most part, so agreeably told, and with such charm, unaffected sentimentality, profusion of metaphor, and brightness that it would be ungracious to criticize. One's greatest admiration is of the memory rather than the memories. How few could evoke so easily such detailed pictures of school days and experiences, and impart a fragrance so unconsciously."
+ Sat R 147:581 Ap 27 '29 370w

"This is a most pleasant book. We use the words as great praise; such books are becoming rare and are now of the nature of a luxury."
+ Spec 142:797 My 18 '29 70w

"Her profound love and admiration for the French people, so certain of itself that it can see defects and cherish them, gives this little book—which has some signs of haste and a few imperfections—a real value and charm. . . Lady Wilson gives us in a few pages things that she has felt with all her heart. She is witty herself and can recall the wit of others, and the quotations with which she heads her chapters are delightful."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p361 My 2 '29 430w

WILSON, DAVID ALEC. Carlyle to threescore-and-ten (1853-1865). 6v v 5 604p $6 Dutton [18s K. Paul]
B or 92 Carlyle, Thomas [29-22715]

The fifth volume in Wilson's great biography of Carlyle comes down to 1865 and his seventieth year. The concluding volume is in preparation.

---

Booklist 26:117 D '29

"With more than Boswellian relish Mr. Wilson sweeps up every anecdote he can lay hands on. In his thoroughness he even repeats some of his stories—on one occasion an entire page. It is the greater pity, because there is so much vital and entertaining stuff between the covers of this book." Jacob Zeitlin
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p19 N 3 '29 480w

"His book is not only a big one but something very like a great one. It is as lively as it is long. Mr. Wilson's method has often been described, and he must be tired of seeing it compared to mosaic. Yet the comparison is hard to avoid, for one is continually struck afresh by the skill with which he dovetails his documents."
+ Christian Science Monitor p16 S 14 '29 460w

"Mr. Wilson has with unfailing courage pursued an original method all through his Biography; and though that method is not only original, but risky, the result can now be pronounced a success—that is, if it be a success frankly to reveal the character of the man whose biography you have undertaken to write." Augustine Birrell
+ Nation and Ath 45:510 Jl 13 '29 800w

"Mr. Wilson's stuff is raw material. He has accumulated all the documents, and the result is not so much a biography as an annual register and collection of extracts. The details of Carlyle's life are fully known. There is nothing more to be discovered about the man, his circumstances and his circle. But Mr. Wilson is a partisan, without discrimination. And now that everything factual has been set forth by him, it remains for some understanding critic to compose the definitive interpretation of Carlyle, for the making of which these half-dozen volumes will be indispensable." S. K. R.

+ — New Repub 60:249 O 16 '29 1000w

"The thing to be chiefly regretted is that Mr. Wilson is no nearer to impartiality than Froude. It is absurd that we should have had to wait for forty years and then be left with the completed record as set forth by a partisan. Mr. Wilson is an indiscriminating advocate, and his attitude to Mrs. Carlyle is one of plain dislike. The case so excellently stated last year by Miss Elizabeth Drew has made no impression upon him. His comments upon Carlyle's books and upon innumerable incidental matters are childish." S. K. R.

— New Statesman 33:472 Jl 20 '29 1700w

Reviewed by Edwin Seaver

N Y Evening Post p12m N 16 '29 130w

"This volume [is] the most enjoyable to read of those so far produced."

+ N Y Times p4 O 6 '29 800w

"This is the penultimate volume of Mr. Wilson's immense and very interesting survey of Carlyle. It is full of vivid things enlivened with shrewd comment."

+ Sat R 148:76 Jl 20 '29 770w

Reviewed by Gerald Carson

Sat R of Lit 6:366 N 9 '29 550w

"Mr. Wilson's arrangement of his material is masterly, and no unfair selection is made in order to emphasize matter which corroborates his own criticisms and conclusions."

+ Spec 143:163 Ag 3 '29 880w

"Mr. Wilson gets incomparable effects from his mosaic method of biography, in which he seldom has need to speak himself, and when he does (it must be owned) does not always speak very judiciously. . . There is evidence enough in this volume of the stoic greatness of Carlyle's character, but the really engaging part of it is the instances it gives of his little inconsistencies and foibles. They detract nothing from him, but serve rather to show the rich light and shade of his nature."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p533 Jl 4 '29 2200w

WILSON, MRS DESEMEA (NEWMAN). See Patrick, D., pseud.

WILSON, EDMUND. I thought of Daisy. 311p $2.50 Scribner

29-18421

The reactions of a young man who comes to New York just after the war and meets life, especially as typified by two girls, Daisy, a chorus girl, and Rita, a young poet. In some of the main characters may be seen likenesses to well known members of New York's Bohemian circles.

"There is no real confusion here, though the scenes, characters and moods differ radically. The author moves easily from one atmosphere to another, relating Professor Grosbeak's abstractions, the suffering of Dostoevsky, Daisy's wisecracks, Rita's poems, Hugo Bamman's dislike of almost everything and translating one into the terms of the others. . . The result is coherence, humor, maturity and a delightful range of idiom. Mr. Wilson should not be let off easily for the casual sentences which thread their way, sometimes for a whole page, through a labyrinth of commas and one-em dashes." M. C. Dawson

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p5 Ag 25 '29 1050w

"If Mr. Wilson has freed his soul of a complex by this publication, then those who admire him in his more familiar literary roles will have reason to be thankful that he 'thought of Daisy.' Not otherwise." Norah Meade

— Nation 130:20 Ja 1 '30 280w

"As the person who tells the story (this is a novel in the first person), Mr. Wilson presents his own ideas, his own wonderings, in that stanch, direct way to which he has already accustomed us. His prose is too nervous and fibrous to be seductive; but it has the quality of trenchancy. Unfortunately, however, the analytical portions of this novel are not offset by the necessary counterweight of drama. The drive of Mr. Wilson's logic is not matched by a drive of the imagination." J: Chamberlain

+ — N Y Times p9 Ag 18 '29 1200w

"The story is very thin, and important only as an adhesive for binding together a number of unrelated shrewd criticisms." J. D. Tasker

Outlook 152:710 Ag 28 '29 280w

"Mr. Wilson is an excellent critic of contemporary life and letters; he makes just and subtle discriminations; he has an interesting mind. He has traces of humor, too, and a pretty wit. In short, this is one of the most promising and at the same time most annoying first novels which have lately been given us. When he has thoroughly digested his Proust, and recovered his equanimity, there is every reason to believe that he will give us a novel, or novels, worth cherishing—because entirely his own." L. M. Dodd

+ — Sat R of Lit 6:439 N 23 '29 280w

"Exhibits refinement, honesty and, it must be admitted, immaturity. But it also exhibits certain delineative and analytical powers which save it from being dismissed as another autobiographical novel of New York's literary Bohemia. Mr Wilson stands sufficiently apart from that world, while at the same time being of it, to give a certain pictorial validity to episodes and phases which reveal its frequent misappropriation of talent and its far more frequent ridiculousness and futility. The style has aplomb without preciosity."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e S 15 '29 500w

WILSON, EDMUND. Poets, farewell! 78p $2 [2] Scribner

811 29-22828

Lyrics of diverse subject matter, a few prose sketches, three translations, a group of nonsense verse, some epitaphs, and a sequence of five poems grouped under the heading which furnishes the title for the volume. Edmund Wilson is a critic and contributing editor to the New Republic.

Reviewed by Vincent McHugh

N Y Evening Post p12m N 16 '29 250w

"When he chooses, Wilson can write lines of color, lines of sharp, staccato rhythms, which tantalize with the richness of their promise. An experience, a whim, a sudden thought—these he likes to hurl forth in quick verse, or, occasionally, strange tissues of prose. But he does not care to more than jest with the muses, who have given this young man a talent to squander which scores would pay half a lifetime to possess for an hour."

N Y Times p45 D 1 '29 280w

"Mr. Wilson's book is physically slight, but it is not a mere promissory note on the gold of Parnassus. There are fine lyrics in it and some swift, slashing satire. Mr. Wilson does not higgle and niggle with words; he does not need to, having command of a pure nervous English which passes at its best into an authentic poetic style." L. W. Dodd

+ Yale R n s 19:390 winter '30 180w

WILSON, ERNEST HENRY. China, mother of gardens. 408p il $10 Stratford

915.1 China—Description and travel. Botany —China 29-9901

The subject matter of this book has been taken in part from the author's previous work "A naturalist in Western China," published in England in 1913 and now long out of print. The material has been amended and revised and newly illustrated. It is an account of an eleven years' wandering in China in search of rare plants and shrubs. The author is keeper of the Arnold Arboretum in Boston.

WILSON, E. H:—Continued

Reviewed by J. E. Chamberlain
Boston Transcript p10 Ap 6 '29 1350w

"Perhaps better than any other writer of America or Europe the author of this handsomely made and attractive volume knows the plant life of China." F. F. Kelly
+ N Y Times p8 Ap 7 '29 1400w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks
Outlook 151:593 Ap 10 '29 60w

"He unquestionably presents an authoritative survey of Chinese flora, both wild and cultivated, and the indefatigable industry of a people engaged in turning to account the varied horticultural resources of the country is fully described in chapters on Chinese materia medica, tea growing, sericulture, and the primitive insect white-wax industry."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 29 '29 430w
Times [London] Lit Sup p366 My 2 '29 50w

WILSON, FORREST. Rich brat. 439p $2.50
Bobbs [7s 6d Cassell]
29-22136

"The story concerns itself with a young American dress buyer on his first trip to Paris who finds himself duped into acting as a financial backer to a famous French dressmaker whose genius is tempered by love of gambling at Cannes and maintaining a Russian courtesan in the style to which he has accustomed her."—N Y World

"Rodney Cobb's career leaves room for much local color, but the possibilities of Mr. Wilson's tale are limited by banal characters and hackneyed situations. The villain is too heinous, the hero too dumb, the princess too Slavic, and above all, the dress model, 'Rich Brat,' is too successful. The trouble with this book lies in its mainspring."
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p26 N 17 '29 450w

"The machinery involved in the running of the great House of Charmy, the way the new collections are prepared, the secrecy with which the models are guarded for fear of copyists and design stealers, these things interest. But while this setting is original, the plot does not deserve it. It is the old plot of the triumph of the stupid hero and the defeat of the crafty villain."
— + N Y Times p30 N 10 '29 220w

"There is plenty of authentic Paris atmosphere, a swift-moving plot, villainy, romance and a good, old-fashioned climax. If this is Mr. Wilson's first step in introducing a new vogue in modern novels, he has our hearty support. 'Rich Brat' is a frightful title, but perhaps just the bait for talkie scouts."
+ N Y World p11m D 1 '29 160w

"A few minor blemishes mar the story, but all in all the book is competently done and vastly entertaining."
+ — Sat R of Lit 6:490 N 30 '29 280w

"So circumstantial is the detail accumulated by the author, and so vivid his rendering of the Parisian atmosphere and of the various characters with whom his hero comes into contact, that its improbabilities are readily condoned in one's enjoyment of an unusually fresh and brightly written novel."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p928 N 14 '29 200w

WILSON, FRANCIS. John Wilkes Booth; fact and fiction of Lincoln's assassination. 321p il $4.50 Houghton

B or 92 Booth, John Wilkes 29-4677

The author, an actor and a friend of the Booth family, has had access to personal letters and extracts from John Wilkes Booth's diary from which he has written this account of the life of Booth, the assassination of President Lincoln and the aftermath.

Booklist 25:320 My '29

"Mr. Wilson is very sympathetic with the subject of his biography. Although he fully acknowledges Booth's crime, the book as a whole is intended to give the impression that the 'sorrow of it is that one so gifted and personally so attractive should have been engulfed by an hallucination.' Willing as the reader may be to accept this point of view, if he is entirely unprejudiced at the start it is unlikely that the book will convince him of anything or impress him greatly, despite its carefully documented text." J. D. Tasker
— + Bookm 69:208 Ap '29 220w

Reviewed by W. P. Eaton
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 Mr 31 '29 320w
Nation 128:sup492 Ap 17 '29 40w

"Unfortunately, the author is an actor and not a competent writer. By his redundancy and misarrangement much that should be plain has been made confusing and obscure. But his main purpose can never be mistaken. He is a gentleman in the best sense of the word. He wants to tell the truth. Moreover, he views an appallingly bitter epoch without bitterness. When a final, working biography is to be written, the usefulness of Mr. Wilson's work will appear." C. A. C.
+ — New Repub 58:182 Mr 27 '29 130w

"Francis Wilson has invaded a field poisoned by more than half a century of defamatory propaganda, and emerged triumphant. He has rewritten a chapter in our history which demanded revision. That the task should have been performed by a brother actor, and a friend of Edwin Booth, is the more fitting." Poultney Bigelow
+ N Y Times p4 F 24 '29 1250w

Reviewed by Harry Hansen
N Y World p10m F 17 '29 1600w

Reviewed by Herschel Brickell
No Am 227:adv Ap '29 100w

Reviewed by Jane Hope
Outlook 151:314 F 20 '29 180w
Pratt p33 autumn '29

"His book, though somewhat diffuse, repetitive, and disjointed, is not without certain absolute merits. It is, at least, a conscientious and laborious compendiary of all known and authoritative records, contains a lot of pleasant, contributory, and not impertinent gossip, is written with a good deal of kindly and judicious observation, and with its compilation of legally proved facts—still occasionally disputed—may perhaps, give the coup de grace to some of the ridiculous rumors set afloat from time to time by the mischievous or the ignorant." J. R. Towse
+ — Sat R of Lit 5:830 Mr 30 '29 1000w
Wis Lib Bul 25:195 Je '29

WILSON, GEORGE LLOYD. Motor traffic management. (Appleton's transportation ser.) 251p $3 (12s 6d) Appleton

388.3 Transportation, Automotive. Transportation—United States. Motor trucks. Motor buses. Automobiles—Laws and regulations 28-6835

A practical work on the problems of merchandising the service of motor freight and passenger carriers. It discusses systems of classification, rates, fares and special transportation requirements of highway carriers.

Booklist 24:349 Je '28
Pittsburgh Mo Bul 33:469 O '28
St Louis 26:276 S '28
Wis Lib Bul 24:219 Jl '28

WILSON, GROVE. Human side of science. 397p il $4 Cosmopolitan bk.

925 Scientists. Science—History 29-19767

Simply written sketches, for the layman, of the life and work of the world's greatest scientists, from Thales to Einstein.

Bookm 70:xviii N '29 100w

"Without doubt it took years of research to acquire, assort, and choose all the facts it contains. What a pity that these are not presented in a more serious manner. There is room in the world for humorous books, light books, and there is room for serious contemplation of the lives of the few men who ever learned to think. But it does not seem right that the two should be scrambled together into something less digestible and attractive than an omelette." B. B.

— Boston Transcript p2 N 2 '29 500w

"The sketches are written with imagination, sometimes, perhaps, with a little more imagination than is warranted, although when the author does thus endeavor to re-create and visualize the real human being it is usually in connection with matters not of vital consequence."

+ — N Y Times p32 O 20 '29 420w

"Mr. Wilson is a fiction-writer, but no novel that he has written, or is likely to write, can be as sensational as some of the experiences disclosed in this book." W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 80:24 N '29 80w

WILSON, HARRY LEON. Lone tree. 331p $2.50 Cosmopolitan bk.

29-18174

Ben Carcross, cattle-owner, strikes oil on his ranch. His wife and the girls go to Europe; they return to find Ben just recovering from an operation, and in process of moving two nurses, a professor, an aviator and a smuggled baby out to Lone Tree Ranch. Here things move well for all concerned.

Booklist 26:122 D '29

Bookm 70::xxviii D '29 80w

"The simple and cheering truth is that Ben Carcross is one of Harry Leon Wilson's major creations—a priceless blend of homely humor and wisdom to place beside those other major creations, Bunker Bean, Merton, Ruggles, Ma Pettingill et al. . . . 'Lone Tree' is to be read for its characters and for its unfailing entertainment."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p37 S 29 '29 300w

Boston Transcript p2 S 18 '29 280w

"Ben Carcross is far more than a sentimental centre for the absurd capers of amusing characters. He is a fine lovable person, a rugged member of the West's Old Guard, battling valiantly and not altogether vainly against a modern tide of wealth, affectations and impositions. He has in him essential simplicities all too rare and precious. . . Ben constitutes one of the most delightful portraits in Harry Leon Wilson's distinguished gallery."

+ N Y Times p8 S 15 '29 750w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks

Outlook 153:111 S 18 '29 150w

"The plot is highly elementary. But undeniably there is humor and occasional intelligence in the novel; incidents here and there are catchily amusing. Though 'Lone Tree' may please a good many who like their fiction quick and easy, Mr. Wilson certainly could have done a much better job if he had felt so inclined."

— + Sat R of Lit 6:299 O 19 '29 170w

WILSON, HELEN CALISTA, and MITCHELL, ELSIE REED. Vagabonding at fifty; from Siberia to Turkestan. 335p il $5 Coward-McCann

915.7 Siberia—Description and travel. Asia, Central—Description and travel. Altai mountains 29-6772

Interest in the Russian revolution sent the two authors of the book on a trek across the country from Siberia to Turkestan, to find out for themselves as much as they could of what it was all about. By motor, on foot, and on horseback they made their way from village to village, making friends, asking questions, keeping note of their adventures and their observations. The book is the interesting result of their unorthodox journey.

Booklist 25:356 Je '29

"This book illustrates magnificently the idiocy of talking about the tameness of modern life. Here is a great chunk of the largest continent into which no railroad penetrates, here are marvelous mountain peaks that have never been climbed, roads on which no wagon, let alone swarms of automobiles, can pass, villages which have never seen an American, and great rivers with no bridges over them." A. B. Parsons

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Ag 11 '29 550w

Boston Transcript p3 Je 8 '29 330w

Cleveland Open Shelf p109 Jl '29

"After eager perusal of this book I have come to the conclusion that, in spite of its charming, graphic, and detailed descriptions of places little frequented by travelers, the book will be of interest chiefly because two women of fifty made the journey. . . They are perhaps the first women in history to frankly dwell on their lack of feminine charms and youth and to capitalize their middle age. And they modestly remind us at the close that their sex, advanced years, and lack of feminine attractions really were an advantage on the trip!" R. E. Kennell

+ Nation 128:sup483 Ap 17 '29 620w

Reviewed by Edwin Seaver

N Y Evening Post p11m Mr 23 '29 130w

"The book is enlivened by a play of keen, tolerant middle-aged feminine humor. And the dog, Ferghana, is a companion as essential and unusual as was Stevenson's Modestine in his 'Travels with a Donkey.' "

Sat R of Lit 5:1120 Je 15 '29 200w

Wis Lib Bul 25:275 Jl '29

WILSON, HOWARD EUGENE. Mary McDowell, neighbor. 235p il $3 Univ. of Chicago press

B or 92 McDowell, Mary E. 29-3139

"Mary McDowell is the patroness of the Chicago Back of the yards district, and as such is the defender of the rights of immigrants, Negroes, and all poor and oppressed people who live in that neighborhood. Mr. Wilson recounts the story of her influence in securing the protection of packing-house employees, in furthering racial harmony, in providing for the sanitary disposal of garbage, and many other activities which have made her a 'good neighbor.' "—Booklist

"While the book is intended as a tribute to Miss McDowell rather than as a critical evaluation of her achievements, it is based on authoritative sources and bears evidence of painstaking work on the part of the author." J. F. Steiner

+ Am J Soc 34:1206 My '29 160w

Booklist 25:284 Ap '29

"Mary McDowell's biographer has succeeded in giving a colorful picture of her gallant and useful life." M. K. Simkhovitch

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Mr 31 '29 280w

Boston Transcript p4 F 9 '29 680w

"More than a biography, it is a chapter in the history of Chicago and in the record of the developing social conscience of our time, and a concrete exhibition of the meaning and methods of certain classes of social work. And it is also, for those who do not already know her, an introduction to a very remarkable woman whose contribution to the making of the city by 'building a house of the friendly spirit' has been second to none."

+ Christian Century 46:1124 S 11 '29 100w

Reviewed by Graham Taylor

Survey 62:142 Ap 15 '29 430w

Wis Lib Bul 25:195 Je '29

WILSON, MARGARET (MRS G. D. TURNER). Trousers of taffeta; a novel of the child mothers of India. 256p $2.50 Harper [7s 6d Cape]

Women in India 29-21551

Written from the point of view and experiences of an American woman doctor, this is a story of the life of women in India. For all of them, the bearing of children is the chief end of existence. It is not so much a matter of religion, nor of compulsion on the part of the men who desire many heirs, but apparently a natural desire to be surrounded by babies. Babies they adore, hope for, pray for, and live for, whether they are "child mothers" or older women. Travel, experience, education and careers, so familiar to women of a western civilization, apparently mean nothing to these women of India of whom Margaret Wilson writes.

---

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 D 8 '29 220w

"It would be difficult to overpraise the charm of Miss Wilson's writing, the sanity with which she deals with hysteria and heartbreak, the shrewd observation and deft humor that distinguish her lighter scenes." M. L. S.

+ Boston Transcript p5 N 30 '29 600w

"The author, who spent eight years in India as a medical missionary, has drawn in graphic scenes the life story of India's womanhood. It could not be adequately told by one of less skill."

+ Christian Century 46:1474 N 27 '29 90w

N Y Times p7 N 10 '29 550w

Reviewed by Johan Smertenko

Outlook 153:398 N 6 '29 50w

"It is not all pathos in Trousers of Taffeta. There is humour and an almost photographic power of observation and description. But behind it all is the infinite tenderness of a woman who has worked among her Indian sisters, to allay their pains and ease the burden of vicious traditions. It will be a long time before India can afford to do without Margaret Wilson or her like."

+ Spec 143:415 S 28 '29 300w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 8 '29 80w

"In craftsmanship Miss Margaret Wilson's new novel marks a distinct advance on 'Daughters of India.' The insight, tenderness, simplicity, remain; so does the humour, though now it is somewhat overborne by sadness. But the threads of the story are more deftly interwoven, the individual characters are better drawn, the style has become more supple."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p534 Jl 4 '29 500w

WILSON, ROBERT MCNAIR (ANTHONY WYNNE, pseud.). The dagger. 314p $2 Lippincott

29-7487

The hero's troubles begin with the disappearance first of his father and then of his wife: they increase with a vengeance with the return of a supposedly dead wife who has come back for no good. But Dr Hailey, redoubtable detective, is a proper match for her.

---

"Anthony Wynne appears not to mind wasting a scientific detective, the renowned Dr. Hailey, upon a clutter of material that is hardly laboratory stuff. The reader must get what fun he can out of a group of sawdust characters, successive killings, the Dangerfield diamonds, bigamy, blackmail and unclassified, presented without benefit of psychology." Will Cuppy

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 F 3 '29 80w

"This story of the finding of the lost dagger is so plausibly written that we do not stop to analyze its probability."

+ Boston Transcript p5 F 16 '29 180w

Springf'd Republican p7e F 10 '29 150w

Times [London] Lit Sup p861 N 15 '28 80w

WILSTACH, PAUL. Tidewater Virginia. 326p il $5 Bobbs

917.55 Virginia—Description and travel. Virginia—Historic houses, etc. 29-22645

"Mr. Wilstach has an eye for houses and their furnishings; he delves among the records of the past, consults parish registers, recalls the days when Jefferson studied architecture, when Cornwallis commanded at Yorktown, when Martha Custis, widow of Daniel Parke Custis, received the dashing George Washington at her home, White House, on the Pamunky. He recalls how the early farmers built their chimneys and drew their fresh water; his eye ranges over the landscape and notes its physical contours and recalls its historical associations. This makes a richly detailed book; we read of Norfolk, Richmond, Williamsburg—now about to be restored to its colonial splendor—Fredericksburg and its shrines, Mount Vernon, Pohick Church —even of the literary associations of Virginia, from Poe to Vaughn Kester."—N Y World

---

"Into his pictures of this halcyon land, Mr. Wilstach has fused the research of the historian, the imagination of the poet, the delicacy yet depth of color of the true artist, the enthusiasm of his love for his subject." F. B.

+ Boston Transcript p2 N 6 '29 950w

Reviewed by Harry Hansen

N Y World p10m N 10 '29 700w

" 'Tidewater Virginia' is not only an interesting and well-organized example of popular descriptive writing but it serves as an introduction to a region which still is relatively little known and infrequently described in books of general circulation. . . In this volume Mr. Wilstach has probably relied for the most part on existing studies, but his approach is that of a writer who has a good general understanding of the region. It is the chief merit of the book that it conveys not a little of this understanding to the reader."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e N 10 '29 900w

WIMBERLY, LOWRY CHARLES. Folklore in the English and Scottish ballads. 465p $5 Univ. of Chicago press [25s Cambridge univ. press]

821.09 English ballads and songs. Scottish ballads and songs. Folklore—England. Folklore—Scotland 28-30945

"As the greatest edition of our English and Scottish ballads is the work of an American, so now another American, Dr. L. C. Wimberly, has worthily supplemented Child's work by reproducing an exhaustive analysis of their content. Folklore in the English and Scottish Ballads is accordingly concerned, not with the manner, but with the matter of our ballad poetry, and this volume deals with the ballad ideas of religion and magic—a body of belief which a sophisticated age summarily labels as superstition. . . What emerges from a general view of Professor Wimberly's work is the essentially pagan character of ballad-thought. The ballads are, it is true, overlaid with a modern veneer of Christianity, but they are 'pagan at heart.' "—Spec

---

"A very useful book which will be of great help both to ballad students and to folklorists. It would be impossible to enumerate here the many interesting instances of heathen lore in ballad poetry. I wish to call special attention to the important chapter on the material ghost or the living corpse, a chapter in which this pre-animistic notion is shown to have been present in the popular ballads." Jan De Vries

+ — Am Anthropol 31:803 O '29 430w

"The antiquity of these songs render this study as valuable as it is fascinating." Abbe Niles

+ Bookm 68:709 F '29 180w

"Mr. Wimberly has assembled his material in such manner as to make clear his line of study. It is a question whether such extensive analysis adds to the charm of balladry. . . Given Mr. Wimberly's point of view, his work is scholarly and painstaking."

+ — Boston Transcript p6 N 10 '28 130w

Reviewed by Archer Taylor
Mod Philol 26:357 F '29 920w
St Louis 27:12 Ja '29

"We can here only record our admiration of its scholarship and wide range of research, and acclaim it as the most massive contribution yet made towards expounding the religious and spiritual content of our ballads."
+ Spec 142:24 Ja 5 '29 350w

WINCHILSEA, ANNE (KINGSMILL) FINCH, countess of. Poems; sel. and with an introd. essay by John Middleton Murry. 112p $2 Harper [5s J. Cape]

821 [28-19990]

John Middleton Murry has written a biographical and critical essay by way of introduction to this selection from the poems of Anne, countess of Winchilsea, 1661?-1720, and for the good of the modern reader has revised the poems as to spelling and punctuation.

"Mr. Murry has at once performed a service and urged few claims; among the minors the countess must most certainly be ranked, but in their company she makes a gracious, witty and lovable figure." B. R. Redman
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 F 24 '29 180w
Boston Transcript p2 Ap 6 '29 460w

"Hitherto accessible only in the ponderous complete edition, which is as likely to turn away the simple lover of poetry as it will, no doubt, encourage the scholar or literary historian, Mr. Murry has determined that the pleasures she offers ought to be procurable in an easier and more popular form. Thus he has produced a graceful, cheap, well-printed collection of her verse, and prefaced it with a brief memoir and critical foreword."
+ New Statesman 31:543 Ag 4 '28 950w

"What gives pleasure to the reader is the delicacy of each of these poems, even of the satires. It is quite individual, this delicacy, and its charm grows with each rereading, bringing all the delight which Mr. Murray prophesies in his introduction." Granville Hicks
+ N Y World p11m F 10 '29 220w

"Written in the manner of her time, and frequently in the hexameter beloved of Pope, epigrammatic, full of gracious compliment and classical allusion, Lady Winchilsea's poetry is notable for its emotional quality in an age which preferred intellectual verse. The biographical and critical essay by Middleton Murry is interesting and charmingly written."
+ Outlook 151:229 F 6 '29 110w

"Anne is beyond doubt a true and a very delightful poet. This charming little book, a work of literary piety if ever there were one, should do much to bring her to the readers who will appreciate her." E: Shanks
+ — Sat R 145:166 F 11 '29 1100w

"It is not merely in her nature poetry that Anne excelled. She had a use of phrase and cadence that it is quite astonishing to find in her century, clean, delicate and ravishing. It is not too much to say that she is the only English poetess whose verse is original and honest, whose words ring true. Others had greater gifts; but most of them played at being men in disguise."
+ Spec 140:233 F 18 '28 230w

"Mr. Murry once again reveals himself as a critic of singular insight and melodious response when he is in touch with a poetic personality verging on the mystical, subtle in sense, imperfect in art. The choice of poems (which are printed in modern spelling) is highly agreeable."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p93 F 9 '28 1200w

WINGFIELD-STRATFORD, ESME CECIL. History of British civilization. 2v 1332p $12 Harcourt [42s Routledge]

942 Great Britain—Civilization. Great Britain—History

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

"It is no disparagement to Mr. Wingfield-Stratford's book to call it a work of comment on history rather than itself a history. To make a sustained and brilliant interpretation of the course of British life from the Stone Age to the outbreak of the war is a piece of excellent and rewarding English scholarship and one we willingly commend to all readers." E: P. Cheyney
+ Am Hist R 35:96 O '29 1000w
Booklist 25:316 My '29

"The clean pages, uncluttered by footnotes and vivid with telling phrase, are neither academic nor journalistic, but the work of an intellectual who follows English rather than Teutonic methods of scholarship. . . There is a sense of continuity, of action and drama and the flux of life, that is as real as a stage play." V. L: Parrington
+ Bookm 69:217 Ap '29 600w

"Mr. Wingfield-Stratford must have planned and begun these two bulky volumes long before Dr. Beard's book appeared, but he has gone even farther in the same direction. Like Dr. Beard, he is always readable; his style, indeed, stamps his book as literature; but it is a lighter manner than Dr. Beard's, brilliant and occasionally witty at its best, though inclined to lapse too often into undress." H. N. Brailsford
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 F 24 '29 1400w

"Mr. Wingfield-Stratford has a wide range of reading, a faculty of lucid expression, and considerable power of imagination and sympathy. He does not strain after dramatic presentation, but states his views moderately. . . Mr. Wingfield-Stratford's book does suffer, here and there, from an abandonment in style of the dignity of history; he maintains his zest, but not the balance and restraint of his style, all through." R. B. Mowat
+ — Eng Hist R 44:666 O '29 800w

"The reader who possesses a considerable knowledge of history will find a great deal of food for thought in these volumes, and no student of any phase of English history can afford to pass them by. They are not, it should be said, for beginners. The author is not obscure in the sense of failing to make his meaning clear, but he is frequently allusive. . . Yet with all gratitude to the author for what he has done, it must be confessed that he has no mature interpretation or consistent philosophy of history." R. L. Schuyler
+ — Nation 128:195 F 13 '29 700w

"That which is valuable in the book stands, whatever weaknesses there are in other directions. Of these the first, obvious, and almost unavoidable, is that no one can properly master so wide a field. The book has, therefore, to be treated as an elementary introduction for educated people, and valued for its suggestions rather than for its statements." L. B. Namier
Nation and Ath 44:447 D 22 '28 970w

"It has all the elements of sound popularity for an English public, a vigorous full-blooded style, a freedom of personal judgment, an absence of pedantry or the apparatus of learning, a readiness to admit national crimes and defects, and a glorious ending on the right side, with the British Commonwealth of Nations standing for the cause of humanity, and encompassed by the greater League of all nations. It is a capital and most interesting book, well deserving its success. But we are looking at it here from the special point of view of science, and . . . it is still very inadequate. This book, and most surveys of modern history, end on a note of poignant resignation, not of despair but of horror and uneasiness, of hope against hope. We believe this tone to be largely due to the divorce of the literary mind from science. . . Above all books, a 'history of civilisation' should give due place to these things, for what is modern civilisation if we leave out science?" F. S. Marvin
+ — Nature 123:863 Je 8 '29 1300w

"Dr. Wingfield-Stratford has written a great history. Every American who pretends to be informed about England ought to read it. It would be a happy stroke of fortune if it could supplant some of our dry manuals in colleges

WINGFIELD-STRATFORD, E. C.—Continued
This history is an achievement, a contribution to English thought, a noble example for emulation." C: A. Beard
+ New Repub 57:327 F 6 '29 1600w

"Neither mannerisms nor lapses impair greatly the value or interest of what is really a notable book. Mr. Wingfield-Stratford has been singularly successful in giving unity to his long story and in keeping its proportions true." W: MacDonald
+ N Y Times p6 Ja 13 '29 2300w

"An incredibly well informed, on the whole brilliantly written, fair-playing account of all that has passed in the imperial islands since their inhabitation, a magnificent annex to Green and antidote to him as well." W: Bolitho
+ N Y World p10m D 30 '28 480w

Pratt p32 summer '29

"He has given us in thirteen hundred large pages two interesting volumes, of which the first especially is one that lovers of England's story cannot overlook. It is comment that is never commonplace, usually entertaining, and often discerning. Hardly a page but has sentences that one would not miss." Wallace Notestein
+ Sat R of Lit 5:701 F 23 '29 2000w

"The book, though disfigured all too frequently with inapt metaphors, loose analogies, slashing judgments, and inaccuracies, is not one to be cast carelessly aside. To begin with, its comprehensiveness, if not so remarkable as the florid encomiums of the publishers would indicate, is still notable. A flowing style and a happy use of quotation and anecdote make the book readable in every part. And it is more than that. Through the author's power of dramatization, through his sensitive perception, and through the very intensity of feeling which leads him into many faults, his narrative at times attains an epic quality." H. C. Bell
+ — Yale R n s 18:798 summer '29 800w

WINKLER, JOHN KENNEDY. John D.; a portrait in oils. 256p $2.25 Vanguard press

B or 92 Rockefeller, John Davison. Standard oil company 29-14355

A lively, anecdotal account, by a newspaperman, of four generations of Rockefellers. Some of the chapters were written originally for the New Yorker.

---

Booklist 26:31 O '29

"Having abandoned a successful career as a reporter in the service of William Randolph Hearst to write a biography of that worthy, Mr. Winkler passes on to another millionaire in his second book, carrying with him in both style and approach the training he received as a newspaperman. That is to say, his study of the great benefactor to the human race, John D. Rockefeller, is 'snappy,' more than a little vulgar, and on the whole quite entertaining." Herschel Brickell
+ — Bookm 69:664 Ag '29 720w

"Mr. Winkler has written in the modern mood, gaily, colorfully, shrewdly, touching the high spots with high spirits. One closes the book with a sense that one understands how these men talk and think and eat and skate and play golf in the third decade of the twentieth century; but the questions how and why John D. came to be the overwhelming master of oil, how he was able to give so many wrenches to the steering-wheel of history, remain something of a mystery." L: Gannett
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 Je 23 '29 880w

Reviewed by S. L. Cook
Boston Transcript p2 Je 22 '29 1300w

"Lively biographical sketch." Heywood Broun
Nation 129:7 Jl 3 '29 1200w

"Mr. Winkler's contribution does not consist in the originality of his material but in his way of bringing to life an almost forgotten figure of the pioneer days of American industrialism." R. A. Gibson
+ Nation 129:174 Ag 14 '29 600w

"Unfortunately, Mr. Winkler has failed to produce a portrait. His work has not been welded with thought. It lacks continuity. . . For all its well chosen gossip, the present work does not scratch the surface. It is not only journalistic: it is frequently slangy. . . The field is still clear for a biography worthy of the father of the modern trust." C. A. Chapman
— New Repub 60:80 S 4 '29 700w

Reviewed by F: F. Van de Water
N Y Evening Post p6m Jl 6 '29 250w

"His method is that of the totally irreverent but never vindictive reporter. His contributions to knowledge about Mr. Rockefeller and the Rockefeller family are those that a good newspaper man trained on sensational journals, and not afraid to push through unguarded doors and ask the most intimate questions, might be expected to make. His work represents the stripping away of privacy that is the penalty of success in modern America." R. L. Duffus
+ N Y Times p3 Je 23 '29 1500w

Reviewed by Herschel Brickell
No Am 228:adv Ag '29 260w
— Outlook 152:348 Je 26 '29 320w

"Mr. Winkler's characterizations of the younger Rockefellers—particularly of John D., third, Princeton '29, are among the best passages in the book. Mr. Winkler is a good reporter." W: B. Shaw
+ R of Rs 80:16 Ag '29 300w

St Louis 27:314 N '29

"Mr. Winkler has given us a volume of gossip, good-natured and shrewd if not urbane or dignified, about the man, and his family. It is never of much importance, and the taste is not always impeccable, but the author at least cannot be accused of unkindness or unfairness." Allan Nevins
+ — Sat R of Lit 6:127 S 14 '29 1000w

WINTERICH, JOHN TRACY. Books and the man. 374p il $5 Greenberg

820.4 Authors, English. Authors, American. Literature—Anecdotes, facetiae, satire, etc. Bibliography—First editions 29-22249

"Each of the twenty essays in the book presents an author in terms of the book for which he is famous, and includes the subsequent and original adventures of the book in its first and early editions. Walt Whitman and 'Leaves of Grass,' Samuel Johnson and his 'Dictionary of the English Language,' Izaak Walton and 'The Compleat Angler,' Nathaniel Hawthorne and 'The Scarlet Letter,' Samuel Pepys and his 'Diary,' Lewis Carroll and 'Alice's Adventures in Wonderland' are among the authors and books treated."—N Y Evening Post

---

" 'Books and the Man' should prove as delightful to the book lover as it is informative to the book collector." Edwin Seaver
+ N Y Evening Post p6m S 21 '29 230w

"Mr. Winterich in 'A Primer of Book Collecting' proved himself a captivating instructor in those initiations so safeguarding and helpful to amateurs in that field. The work was as competent on its informative side as it was pleasing in style, and the same features are as forthstanding in the writer's 'Books and the Man,' which carries one into the higher realms of book collecting." Uffington Valentine
+ N Y Times p2 S 22 '29 1900w

"Mr. Winterich has, apparently, tried more eagerly to fulfil what he considers to be the requirements of the General Reader, than, by ignoring the class as a whole, to write for individuals whose interest in books is at least equivalent to his own. There is a little too much easiness of manner—it amounts often to chattiness—, a little too much emphasis upon the prices the books he discusses brought at recent auctions, to separate his essays wholly from the conventional afternoon lectures to local women's clubs, and place them in a higher class. But for what he has accomplished, he should be praised!" G. M. T.
— + Sat R of Lit 6:548 D 7 '29 500w

WINWAR, FRANCES (MRS B. D. N. GREBANIER). Pagan interval. 352p $2.50 Bobbs

29-11748

A Mediterranean island, Ennios, is the setting for this story concerning certain members of a foreign colony and their contact with a background in which the pagan traditions of Greek, Roman and Saracen ancestry are mingled. Mark Blake, an American archeologist, the Baron von Schönhof, a collector, and Clarice Arlan, a beautiful American girl who has come to Ennios for her health, and finds an interlude of romance, are among the chief actors. The occurrence of an island earthquake brings the story to a climax.

"The story of love and intrigue is dramatic and exciting; it is a fresh and original plot. There are no hackneyed situations; the only thing that is familiar is our common human nature, recognizable, comic and pathetic with slight variations between one individual and another." J: Macy

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 Je 16 '29 860w

"With all allowance for Miss Winwar's evident love of Sicily and her frequently felicitous descriptions, the net effect of her book is to reinforce that recent sage observation of Joan Lowell (or was it Corey Ford?), that sex should be lived more and talked less."

Sat R of Lit 6:218 O 5 '29 160w

WIRE, HAROLD CHANNING. Mountain man. 305p $2 Crowell

29-16771

A Western tale of the wide open spaces in which Gordon Breck, handsome forest ranger, saves Louise Temple from a cattle stampede and runs down the murderer of his chum.

"An unpretentious and likable adventure story with a setting which appears to be authentic."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 D 1 '29 170w

"Readers who enjoy action in a Western binding will welcome 'Mountain Man,' which is a tale without much subtlety, portraying its specific section of humanity easily and well."

+ Boston Transcript p3 O 26 '29 120w

WIRTH, LOUIS. The ghetto. (Univ. of Chicago sociological ser.) 306p il $3 Univ. of Chicago press

296 Jews. Jews—Political and social conditions. Jews in Chicago 29-2559

"Begun as an investigation of one of the typical local areas of the Chicago urban community, this volume has been developed by Louis Wirth, a former teacher in the sociology department of the University of Chicago, into a study of the phenomenon of the ghetto during the thousand years of the Diaspora, the dispersion of the Jews through the Western world. Since Mr. Wirth's approach is sociological rather than historical, his primary interest is properly a consideration of the effects of the ghetto history in the conditioning, or, as he believes, in the creating of a social type—the modern Jew as made by the medieval and by the modern ghetto segregation."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

Am Hist R 34:695 Ap '29 70w

"This is a careful, objective analysis of the conditions associated with a form of human grouping and of the effects of such a mode of life on human nature itself." R. D. MacKenzie

+ Am J Soc 35:487 N '29 350w

Booklist 25:232 Mr '29

"Even more than for its well co-ordinated research, Mr. Wirth's volume is grateful reading because of its scientific approach to material that in most of the present-day writing is befogged by emotion and too great zeal. Mr. Wirth, being a sociologist and not a pro-Semite or an anti-Semite propagandist, has no thesis to propound or salvation to offer." F. K. Frank

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 Mr 3 '29 650w

Reviewed by W. E. Garrison

Christian Century 46:426 Mr 28 '29 170w

"Considering that it is purely a sociological documentation of facts, it is a valuable and sincere piece of work, founded on a study of the Chicago ghetto." J. B. Temple

+ New Repub 58:181 Mr 27 '29 350w

"It is Mr. Wirth's theory that Ghetto life has left certain social and psychic traces upon the Jewish people, and his book is therefore a valuable contribution to racial understanding." Herschel Brickell

+ No Am 227:adv Mr '29 90w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 79:22 Mr '29 120w

"His book gives the most informing general account of the cultural background and tne psychological development of the American Jew that we have seen for many a year. Both the author and the university are to be congratulated." Bruno Lasker

+ Survey 61:686 F 15 '29 330w

Times [London] Lit Sup p285 Ap 11 '29 720w

WISE, FREDERIC MAY. A marine tells it to you, as told to Meigs O. Frost. 366p $3 Sears

359 United States. Marine corps. European war, 1914-1918—Personal narratives

29-6009

"Through pages replete with comedy, adventure and human interest stalks this modern D'Artagnan. From the Forbidden City in Peking during the Boxer uprising to the Philippines in chase of the elusive Gugu; from Cacao rebellions in Haiti to revolutions in San Domingo; from Smyrna and the Orient to the shelling of Vera Cruz—wherever history is being made his footsteps are found. Then the World War, and the undying fame won by the Marines at Chateau-Thierry, Belleau Wood, St. Mihiel and the Argonne. The actual words were written by Meigs O. Frost, from the story told to him by Colonel Wise."—Boston Transcript

"There is no doubt that Mr. Frost has followed the original narration closely. The terse, pithy style is never the product of a civilian pen."

+ Boston Transcript p3 Ap 6 '29 230w

Cleveland Open Shelf p108 Jl '29

"Colonel Wise is a soldier and a gentleman, and a remarkable man, and he has written a remarkable book. The pages that tell simply of his men's heroism during the worst days of the fighting in France (of his own heroism Colonel Wise says nothing) are nothing short of superb. It is also an amusing book—there are funny flashes, of incident, of personality, of repartee."

+ N Y Times p5 Mr 24 '29 720w

"Free of official shackles, Col. Wise reveals incident after incident that would have made front page news stories if it had been possible to cut through the tangled skein of red tape."

+ N Y World p11m Mr 17 '29 90w

WISE, JAMES WATERMAN (ANALYTICUS, pseud.). Jews are like that! 241p il $3.50 Brentano's

920 Jews in the United States. Jews—Biography 28-29546

A sympathetic study of nine prominent American citizens of Jewish birth: Louis D. Brandeis; Henry Morgenthau; Louis Lipsky; Stephen S. Wise; Ludwig Lewisohn; Felix Adler; Aaron Sapiro; Louis Marshall; and Nathan Straus.

Booklist 25:246 Mr '29

"Analyticus has presented a great deal of fascinating analysis of active Jews, and he causes one to reflect on the race and to feel his own enthusiasm for it. All of these men with whom Analyticus deals have devoted themselves at one time or another and with varying degrees of interest and intensity to the interests of the Jewish race as a whole. It is fascinating to grasp by means of the author's keen analy-

WISE, J. W.—Continued
ses the difference in their methods and the difference in the results achieved." M. R. Werner

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 D 16 '28 1150w

" 'Jews Are Like That' is a clever and very ably written series of biographic sketches, and despite some of its prejudices and errors in judgment, its analytical method gives a good cross-section of the nature and character of the Jewish community in America." J. S. S.

+ Boston Transcript p10 D 15 '28 1400w

"Written to illuminate extraordinarily useful lives and focusing the reader's attention throughout on the public character of the special service performed in the field of justice, law, politics, philosophy, philanthropy, and enlightenment generally." Maurice Gertlin

+ Portland Evening News p5 N 27 '28 800w

St Louis 27:45 F '29

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 20 '29 310w

"It is a distinctly well written book and interesting to liberals because most of the men whose careers it depicts have at some time in their lives battled for liberal causes—for social and judicial reform, freedom of pulpit and press, municipal and civic welfare, and world peace." G. E. M.

+ World Tomorrow 12:283 Je '29 220w

WISEHART, MARION KARL. Marvels of science; modern discoveries and inventions and the part they play in our everyday life. 254p il $2.50 Century

504 Science. Industrial arts 28-23013

Each chapter of this popular book tells the story of the part played by some discovery or invention or substance in our everyday life—the new things produced by chemistry, the X-ray in industry and life-saving, the wonders of radium, asbestos and aluminum, the work of the Bureau of standards, underground engineering, etc.

---

Booklist 25:151 Ja '29

N Y New Tech Bks 14:9 Ja '29

St Louis 27:12 Ja '29

"This is a book of science up to the minute and written so that it reads like a novel. We sat down to browse through it and read it from cover to cover. The author, a journalist, novelist, and scientist, has taken a difficult task upon himself—translating into a readable book deeply technical scientific discoveries. 'The Marvels of Science' will interest anyone from fifteen to a hundred and fifteen years old, whether he be student, business man, or scientist."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:767 Mr 9 '29 180w

Wis Lib Bul 25:71 F '29

WITKOP, PHILIPP. German students' war letters; tr. and arr. from the original ed., by A. F. Wedd. 376p $3 Dutton [7s 6d Methuen]

940.48 European war, 1914-1918—Personal narratives

Letters from German university students at the front to their parents and friends. Most of the letters were written by boys who, at the age of twenty-one or two, met death a few days later. The majority express an intense patriotism, strong religious feeling, affection for home life, and a sense of the tragedy in the death of young men who have not yet had opportunity for a career, marriage, or any realization of their ideals.

---

"One of the most valuable war books we have yet seen. . . Most of the letters seem to have been written by students killed in the first or second year of the war. The note of bitter disillusionment, so frequent in German war books, is scarcely to be found here. Here, instead, is sublime confidence. All these students believe explicitly in the cause they are fighting for, and express themselves with self-conscious righteousness."

+ Nation and Ath 46:sup224 N 9 '29 580w

"They are curiously different from similar letters written by either French, English or American young soldiers of education. For one thing, they are far more sentimental and for another their writers seem, all of them, chiefly intent upon making their friends and relatives realize the full horror and repulsiveness and terror of their experiences. They are all fine, sensitive youths, appalled by the realities of war, most of them made desperately unhappy by the shock those realities have given to their faith in the world and in human nature."

N Y Times p27 N 10 '29 450w

WITTEN, GEORGE. Outlaw trails; a Yankee hobo soldier of the queen. 252p $2.50 Minton 29-6027

The autobiographical story of Mr Witten's early years. At ten the author ran away from home, wandered westward, and after several vagrant years with a hobo named "Red," enlisted in the Boer war. His adventures as a scout in South Africa form the rest of the narrative.

---

Boston Transcript p4 My 18 '29 250w

" 'Outlaw Trails' is very readable, the more so in that it is devoid of all moralizing. I think most mothers would agree that Mr. Witten would not be a very good influence for their boys." Edwin Seaver

+ N Y Evening Post p11m Mr 2 '29 260w

"It is a sordid, repulsive tale, although the author seems rather proud of his youthful adventures and peccadillos. The author tells his story very well, with appreciation of dramatic incidents and a closely knit narrative."

+ N Y Times p21 Mr 3 '29 450w

"It's a more exciting tale than ninety per cent of the thrillers we've read in the past year." W. R. Brooks

+ Outlook 151:440 Mr 13 '29 120w

St Louis 27:290 O '29

WITTKE, CARL. History of Canada. (Borzoi hist. ser.) 415p il $7.50; (25s) text ed $5 Knopf

971 Canada—History 28-21914

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

"The book is chiefly one for the reader who wishes to learn how and why Canada has reached her present status, ranking as a full nation, yet continuing the political tie with other parts of the British Empire under a common sovereign. . . Professor Wittke makes no claim to be picturesque, but he is always lucid and he writes with complete detachment of mind. Perhaps he is the first writer who, with adequate knowledge of both countries, has tried to cover on a considerable scale the long history of the relations of Canada and the United States." G: M. Wrong

+ Am Hist R 34:630 Ap '29 700w

Booklist 25:206 F '29

"Mr. Wittke has placed every college teacher and student of Canadian history profoundly in his debt. The book is a conscientious and discriminating piece of work, and very few errors have been noticed." A. G. Dorland

+ Canadian Hist R 9:355 D '28 830w

"While there is no touch of the picturesque in the writing, the story is told in a clear style and every phase of importance is covered with striking detachment and insight."

+ Nation 130:21 Ja 1 '30 100w

Reviewed by A. G. Dewey

Pol Sci Q 44:473 S '29 650w

"This book, which tells the story of Canada from the very beginning down to 1927—the Diamond Jubilee of the Dominion—and which is accompanied by some clear and useful maps, is a very substantial piece of work. It may be criticized, as overloaded with detail; but at any rate it is a thorough and exhaustive account of Canada and her fortunes, and the bibliographies at the ends of the chapters add greatly to its usefulness. It seems to be an accurate account, too, in the main, so far as facts are concerned."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p220 Mr 21 '29 1050w

WITWER, HARRY CHARLES. Yes man's land. 312p $2 Putnam
29-6856

In his own breezy idiom Marty Evans, manager to a handsome prize-fighter known as Gentleman Jack, recounts the ups and downs of his protégé in the ring and in the love game.

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Ap 28 '29 110w

"It is an amusing tale, enlivened by countless Witwerian sidelights on the ring, on the films and on human nature in general."
+ Boston Transcript p2 My 1 '29 230w

N Y Times p22 My 12 '29 130w

"In this lightest of light fictions, Mr. Witwer gives us a good many canny observations on Hollywood. He makes flip but pertinent remarks on producers, actors, and hangers-on; even the infant 'talkies' come in for their share of disrespect. Mr. Witwer is so conscientiously up-to-the-minute that his wisecracking book will need a glossary before many months have passed."
Sat R of Lit 5:1117 Je 15 '29 120w

Springf'd Republican p7e Je 16 '29 150w

WODEHOUSE, PELHAM GRENVILLE. Fish preferred. 326p $2 Doubleday, Doran 29-14150

Lady Constance Keeble's acid objections to the marriage of her niece Millicent with the blithe and careless Hugh, and of her nephew Ronnie Fish with a lovely chorister, are overcome by means of hilariously complicated doings at Blandings Castle.

Booklist 26:35 O '29

"It is all in the best Wodehouse manner, and those who know Wodehouse need be told no more."
+ Bookm 69:xxv Ag '29 60w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 Ag 18 '29 700w

"All the characters are stock ones, yet he manages to invoke new life in them. Only Booth Tarkington can write with more facility of deft phrase than Mr. Wodehouse. Mr. Wodehouse will still be in the business of making laughter when all his contemporary rivals have dropped out, because he alone knows the value of restraint . . . and the fact that there is no satisfactory substitute for first class goods." W. E. H.
+ Boston Transcript p2 Jl 10 '29 520w

"P. G. Wodehouse at his best, which, in our estimation, means comic literature at its funniest." F: F. Van de Water
+ N Y Evening Post p6m Jl 13 '29 780w

N Y Times p6 Je 30 '29 580w

"It's what used to be called 'summer reading,' but we believe it would be just as funny in December as it is in August." W. R. Brooks
+ Outlook 152:629 Ag 14 '29 80w

Pratt p38 autumn '29

"The tale moves in Mr Wodehouse's humorously dashing yet urbane manner, mingling comic invention and intelligent understanding of human foibles. Mr Wodehouse seldom indulges in overt satire, and the fun is mostly for its own sake. But the fun is sufficient, as is the supply of Anglo-American slang."
+ Springf'd Republican p7e Jl 7 '29 480w

WODELL, HELEN PAGE. Beginning to garden. (Works and play ser.) 104p il $1.75 Macmillan

716 Gardening—Juvenile literature 28-27551

A beginner's book on gardens and gardening, designed for children under ten, but useful for older gardeners. Both flower and vegetable gardens are included. Illustrated with line drawings and diagrams.

Booklist 25:217 F '29

"'It is all here, just what has to be done from year to year and how to go about it,' said one of the most successful of gardeners. 'I consider it an excellent garden book for anybody who wants to start a garden.' . . Reinforced by this testimony, I give thanks for a children's book on gardening which is neither sentimental nor yet devoid of feeling for growing plants and for the soil in which they are grown." A. C. Moore
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p8 Ap 7 '29 300w

WOLCOTT, IMOGENE B. (MRS ROGER WOLCOTT). Blue gingham cook book. 481p il $2.75 Morrow

641.5 Cookery 28-24340

"The book is made up of contributions from food manufacturers, each recipe carrying a courtesy line indicating the name of its donor." —Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

"'The Blue Gingham Cook Book' presents a cheerful exterior in blue and white checked oilcloth; between its covers is a not very stimulating collection of recipes. One might find the recipes more interesting if one were not so amazed at a book filled from cover to cover with material which finds its legitimate place in the advertising columns of magazines and newspapers."
— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p11 D 30 '28 130w

"A most helpful addition to one's standard cook-book."
+ Boston Transcript p4 N 17 '28 180w

Cleveland Open Shelf p57 Ap '29

Wis Lib Bul 24:342 D '28

WOLFE, HUMBERT. Dialogues & monologues. 248p $2.50 Knopf [7s 6d Gollancz]

824 English literature. Poetry 29-1221

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Booklist 25:278 Ap '29

"His book is largely taken up with a defense of the sort of verse that he writes himself and an attack upon the 'Modernists'. He uses a rhetorical style, embellished with epigrams in the Oxford manner. The book is packed with false logic." Raymond Mortimer
— Bookm 69:102 Mr '29 400w

"The book is extremely quotable. For it is full of good things and true things as well as, occasionally, things merely smart." R. B. Sanborn
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 F 17 '29 600w

"Written with the greatest good humor, but at the same time with great emphasis, 'Dialogues and Monologues' is an arresting piece of work." G. K.
+ Boston Transcript p2 Ja 19 '29 550w

Dial 86:437 My '29 120w

"'Dialogues and Monologues' shows the author a scholar, a wit, a civilized writer." Paul Eldridge
+ N Y Evening Post p9m Ja 5 '29 530w

N Y Times p2 Ja 20 '29 310w

Pratt p28 summer '29

Reviewed by Arthur Colton
Sat R of Lit 5:679 F 16 '29 1200w

Times [London] Lit Sup p984 D 13 '28 1150w

WOLFE, HUMBERT. Notes on English verse satire. (Hogarth lectures on literature ser.) 158p $1.25 Harcourt [3s 6d Hogarth press]

821.09 English poetry—History and criticism. Satire, English 29-22829

History of satire in English verse. Mr Wolfe discusses the nature of satire, satire as it appeared in Chaucer and during the Elizabethan age, Pope and the Golden age of English satire, and satire among the Victorian and modern poets.

WOLFE, HUMBERT—Continued

"With considerable if not impeccable erudition Mr. Wolfe surveys the chief figures in verse satire from Chaucer to the Sitwells. While he does not alter the map of the country—he is too sensible a traditionalist for that—he makes it alive, and one wants to rush off and instantly reread Skelton and Butler and a dozen more, including Chesterton."

+ Bookm 70:456 D '29 580w

Reviewed by T: R. Lester

Boston Transcript p2 N 30 '29 1250w

"Mr. Wolfe's critical judgments, though occasionally rather wild, are not perverted by his theories, which they very often help to refute."

+ — Nation and Ath 46:258 N 16 '29 700w

"An intelligent, illuminating study of the nature of verse satire as well as an adequate, if brief, history of the form in English literature. Even a typical English professor would find it hard to make such a subject dull; while a person suited to the subject by temperament and experience, as Mr. Wolfe is, could not fail to write a diverting as well as an informing book." Granville Hicks

+ N Y World p10m N 24 '29 100w

"Mr. Wolfe's brief historical and critical survey is written in an elaborate and metaphorical manner, which sometimes makes it difficult to extract the precise implications of his words."

Times [London] Lit Sup p866 O 31 '29 1000w

WOLFE, HUMBERT. This blind rose. 131p $1.50 Doubleday, Doran [6s Gollancz]

821 29-6267

Poems of an eerie beauty, more in the manner of the author's earlier volume, Kensington gardens.

---

Booklist 25:279 Ap '29

"Mr. Wolfe has perhaps been somewhat harmed by too rapid a rise to prominence, and one suspects him to be over-producing. His recent work is disquietingly glib, nor is it saved, by a considerable technical adroitness, from that kind of thinness which suggests that the author is too often writing verse merely because he wants to write verse. . . He might with profit be a little severe with himself, scrutinizing a shade more carefully in advance the theme which he has selected and avoiding a tendency to excessive limpidity." Conrad Aiken

+ — Bookm 69:214 Ap '29 530w

"Not great poetry, but it is poetry that has a truth and a validity of its own." Newton Arvin

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 Je 23 '29 620w

"Mr. Wolfe does not aim to set forth any especial philosophy of life in his poems. Like Lanier he has no purpose save to add to the beauty of the world by music and imagery of words. Having achieved 'This Blind Rose,' it behooves him now to go further. His work still is characterized by promise rather than fulfillment." G. R. B. R.

+ — Boston Transcript p5 Ap 6 '29 600w

"Mr. Humbert Wolfe knows the poet's secret. Readers of 'This Blind Rose' will be instantly aware that he knows it, for, open his latest and most remarkable book where they may, there is never a page, hardly an isolated line, that fails to communicate the authentic thrill which not all the verse in the world, if it comes short of poetry in a very exclusive sense, can offer." T: Moult

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 Je 6 '28 1000w

"Mr. Wolfe is our contemporary Della Cruscan both for quality and quantity, or asininity and assiduity."

— Nation and Ath 43:304 Je 2 '28 500w

"There is a certain obvious disparity between Mr. Humbert Wolfe's poetical accomplishment and the almost unqualified popular applause with which his later volumes have been received. Unquestionably distinguished in bulk, conspicuous for its high-spirited exuberant flow, the quality of his work, volume by volume, becomes less remarkable. Yet his talent is so curious a hybrid that its products are rarely dull."

+ — New Statesman 31:261 Je 2 '28 250w

Reviewed by Horace Gregory

N Y Evening Post p8m F 9 '29 120w

"The popularity of Mr. Wolfe in England is indubitable; he is one of the few poets who 'sell.' To understand why this is so one has but to turn to 'This Blind Rose' and note the indisputable atmospheric affect and delicacy of handling that are so much integral qualities of the poet's best work. He is a craftsman of no mean ability and though there often may be less in his poetry than seems to meet the eye that does not destroy the rhythmical charm of the work."

+ N Y Times p38 Mr 17 '29 380w

Reviewed by Laura Benet

N Y World p11m Mr 3 '29 180w

Reviewed by J. D. Tasker

Outlook 151:269 F 13 '29 80w

"We believe in Mr. Wolfe's past and his present, but still more do we believe in his future; and there may be danger to that future in the amazing knack which goes side by side with his amazing gift. The very brilliance of his intellectual powers may disturb with impatience the divine silence through which the divine voice is to break. Meanwhile, we are wholly and ardently grateful for the beauty already achieved and offered—and offered, perhaps, in the best parts of this book, more abundantly than in the author's previous best."

+ — Sat R 145:526 Ap 28 '28 780w

"The poet has strayed off the high road of his purpose for a while; but has composed some charming and some unhappy-sounding songs whilst wandering in the marigold meadows."

Spec 140:621 Ap 21 '28 100w

"There is a want of substance in his poetry which no verbal strategy can conceal or correct because it derives from a superficial imagination. It is indeed fertile in fancy and finished in technique; but invention, however exquisitely served by art, is a poor substitute for creative insight. . . Mr. Wolfe is too self-conscious and cultivated an artist to achieve a really intimate relation with life."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p448 Je 14 '28 480w

WOLFE, THOMAS. Look homeward, angel; a story of the buried life. 626p $2.50 Scribner

29-22336

Done in the Thackeray manner, this is a long, vigorous, disconnected first novel of family life in a commonplace southern town. The elder Gant, a strong, lecherous and often drunken man, and his wife Eliza, self-centered, greedy, and shrewd real-estate investor, are portrayed as parents who thwart and stifle the lives of their children. Eugene, the youngest child, and central character of the book, is enough of an individual to try to break away from family corruption, but he does not quite succeed in freeing himself from a sense of the pain, loneliness and futility of wasted life.

---

"Thomas Wolfe is a distinct anomaly: he has not a nostalgic temperament. Look Homeward, Angel is not the book of a frayed spirit who is trying his level best to escape through elegiac writing; it is a rich, positive grappling with life, a remembrance of things past untinged by the shadow of regret, of one who has found his youthful experiences full of savor. No more sensuous (not to be construed as sensual) novel has been written in the United States. There is an easy, unforced strength to it that should be the despair of those beginners of the New American Caravan who have tossed overboard one genteel tradition only to fall into another." J: Chamberlain

+ Bookm 70:449 D '29 780w

"There is such mammoth appreciation of experience and of living that the intention of the novel cannot be articulated. It comes through to you like fumes or like one supreme mood of courage that you can never forget, and with it all the awe, the defilement and grandeur of actual life. . . If I could create one magic word that would make every one want to read the book I would write it down and be utterly satisfied." Margery Latimer

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 N 3 '29 950w

"The composition itself is too vast for ordinary minds, pre-occupied with their own humdrum affairs, to take in or properly evaluate the multiplicity of detail, the elaborate network of ideas. There is another weakness. The work in its present form is greatly in need of cutting. Mr. Wolfe has a torrential flow of words. The thing that saves him is the fact that his ideas pour forth in equal abundance. Nearly all the scenes and the moments of narrative have a value of some kind." W. E. H.

+ — Boston Transcript p2 N 9 '29 550w

"An extraordinarily fine novel, not to be mentioned in the same breath with all the forgotten blue-ribbon winners of the past few years. . . Mr. Wolfe has a quality that is rare enough in itself and is practically never found (as it is here) combined with literary ability, taste, and a scholarly background: relish. He has, in addition, an ironic wit and a sincerity that should prevent his emotional passages from seeming affected to even the most violent prose-poetry haters." G. T. Hellman

+ New Repub 61:122 D 18 '29 650w

"For any variation in the few elementary patterns from which the majority of contemporary novels are cut, there is apt to be stirred in the reader, depending upon his conviction in such things, a feeling of either gratitude or annoyance. And because even a little variation is felt as extraordinary, the gratitude or annoyance will perhaps be exaggerated beyond a point merited by the performance in itself. 'Look Homeward, Angel' is such a performance, an unusual novel, almost an eccentric one." Kenneth Fearing

+ N Y Evening Post p12m N 16 '29 680w

"Here is a novel of the sort one is too seldom privileged to welcome. It is a book of great drive and vigor, of profound originality, of rich and variant color. . . The color of the book is not borrowed; it is native and essential. Mr. Wolfe has a very great gift—the ability to find in simple events and in humble, unpromising lives the whole meaning and poetry of human existence. . . His style is sprawling, fecund, subtly rhythmic and amazingly vital. He twists language masterfully to his own uses, heeding neither the decency of a word nor its licensed existence, so long as he secures his sought for and instantaneous effect." Margaret Wallace

N Y Times p7 O 27 '29 750w

"A big, fat novel in the Thackeray manner. There is rich emotion in it, there is understanding sympathy in it, and there is in it the presence of an author who is aware of himself and his theme, who is more than a recorder." Harry Hansen

+ N Y World p15 O 26 '29 900w

"It is chaotic, weighty, over-emotional, exhausting, often hard to follow, sometimes revolting, but always robust, always impassioned. It is full of faults, but they are not inglorious ones." F. L. Robbins

+ — Outlook 153:669 D 25 '29 300w

"It seems to be the great gift of Mr. Wolfe that everything is interesting, valuable, and significant to him. It must be confessed that he has just missed the greatest of gifts, that of being able to convey his interest to the ordinary reader." Basil Davenport

+ — Sat R Lit 6:584 D 21 '29 1300w

WOLFF, EDWIN DANIEL. Why we do it. 304p $2.50 Macaulay

390 Manners and customs 29-12578

Mr Wolff has hunted up the origin of many of our popular superstitions and current customs of speech and dress, and imparts the information jauntily.

Boston Transcript p6 Ap 13 '29 150w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks

Outlook 151:400 Mr 6 '29 80w

"This is both an amusing and a clever compilation of interesting odds and ends of knowledge concerning social customs and popular beliefs. It carries on the interest of 'Ask Me Another' and the curiosity hunting thrill of "Believe It or Not,' and in the same mingling of jest and earnest, conveys information painlessly and at times profitably."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:840 Mr 30 '29 100w

WOOD, CHARLES ERSKINE SCOTT. Book of tales; being some myths of the North American Indians. 165p $2 Vanguard press

398 Indians of North America—Legends 29-15151

"The author of this little book was graduated from West Point some fifty years ago and gave forty years of service to the United States Army. During his early years in the army he was stationed at various places in the West and Northwest and in Alaska and talked much with the Indians of several tribes, who told him the myths of their people. To make this book Lieutenant Wood has selected twenty of the most interesting and has retold them with literary skill, retaining the simplicity of thought and language of the original, but sometimes, evidently, giving them touches of beauty that Indian originals do not always possess."—N Y Times

---

"The volume may appeal to older children, but it has been written rather for minds that love primitive thought and vision. Many collections of Indian tales exist; the peculiar value of this volume lies in the fact that Mr. Wood heard the stories and has retold them after his own fashion." E. L. Walton

+ Nation 129:309 S 18 '29 250w

"The tales are enlightening to the student of comparative religion, and as stories they have a gift of fantasy that will appeal to all children and all adults who desire to escape from too great a burden of drab sophistication." Joe Gould

+ N Y Evening Post p6m Ag 3 '29 420w

N Y Times p18 Ag 18 '29 400w

St Louis 27:332 D '29

"This book is superior to many of its kind, inasmuch as there has been no attempt to remodel the tales to any literary whim of the author's. . . In so far as Indian legends in that shape are worth recording and saving, Colonel Wood has done an excellent service."

+ Sat R of Lit 6:313 O 26 '29 250w

WOOD, CLEMENT. Craft of poetry. 389p $3 Dutton

808.1 Poetry. Poetics. English language—Versification 29-6371

A study of the technique of versification, especially of light and humorous verse, and a description of the various kinds of poetry.

---

Reviewed by H. R. Hays

Bookm 70:221 O '29 170w

"So long as he adheres to questions of rhyme and rhythm and verse form—the fundamentals of the poet's laboratory—Mr. Wood is lucid in exposition and helpful in suggestion. He illustrates his points with well-chosen examples, and writes with an animation which keeps the subject from drifting into the doldrums of mere textbook utility."

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Je 9 '29 200w

"Rarely is there to be found so sane, wholesome, and entertaining a discussion of versification as Mr. Wood's book. It is straightforward, earnest, yet not dogmatic." R. R. M.

+ Boston Transcript p2 Ap 27 '29 750w

Reviewed by Horace Gregory

N Y Evening Post p10m Mr 30 '29 130w

WOOD, CLEMENT—Continued

"It is a clear and excellent work covering every phase of the practicing poet's daily work. For those who read poetry, especially those who are occasionally concerned in criticizing poetry, the book will clarify many problems."

+ N Y Times p2 S 8 '29 100w

WOOD, CLEMENT. Hunters of heaven; the American soul as revealed by its poetry. 351p il $3.50 Stokes

811.09 American poetry—History and criticism. American poetry—Selections, extracts, etc. 29-21088

Mr Wood attempts a psychoanalysis of American poetry—the verse of today he interprets in the light of the past, and that of tomorrow in the signs of today. The book is divided into seven historical periods, designated by the author as: The copper-colored heaven; The singing Eden; A colonial paradise; The mottled sky; A celestial digression; The Valhalla of sweet echoes; Heavens on troubled earth.

---

The fault of the author's argument is that in his consideration of poetry he has lost sight of its larger importance. To render it useful he has ignored conditions whose fulfilment alone can make it great. His book enlists poetry to serve as a hand-maiden to social reform instead of demonstrating its wider and more significant implications."

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p28 N 17 '29 650w

Boston Transcript p8 D 7 '29 600w

"The amount of labor that Mr. Wood has accomplished is obviously considerable; the aim of his book is an important and commendable one; and one is therefore sorry to have to report that his aim is not realized. His book is illustrative of a growing recent tendency of critics to make all literature subordinate to a theory and to regard it in the narrow light of some individual bias or assumption."

— N Y Times p3 D 8 '29 400w

Reviewed by Granville Hicks

N Y World p10m N 24 '29 170w

"This is a cluttered book, and the writing of it is often careless, the judgments often hasty; but it is full of interesting material. It is written with pell-mell gusto from a large fund of information." W: R. Benèt

— + Sat R of Lit 6:210 O 5 '29 230w

WOOD, CLEMENT. King Henry the rake [Henry VIII and his women]. 327p il $3.50 Stratford

B or 92 Henry VIII, king of England 29-5589

As clearly indicated in the title, this biography is really the story of the love life of Henry VIII written without fastidiousness, in the coarse spirit and language of its subject.

---

Bookm 69:vi Ag '29 70w

"A rattling yarn rather than a scholarly work."

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 My 19 100w

"Mr. Wood has written this chronicle of royal love, lust and license with remarkable freedom. He has searched the history of England carefully and in detail, assembling facts and telling incidents not to be found in the usual histories." J. S. B.

+ Boston Transcript p5 Ap 13 '29 330w

"Writing for an audience whose intellectual capacity is on par with that of school-children, Mr. Wood has merely emphasized what school-children already knew—or guessed. . . Perhaps his single-mindedness of purpose is commendable; in all other particulars his biography, scholastically speaking, rates from D— to F." R. F. Dibble

— Nation 128:587 My 15 '29 300w

"One gets the impression, alas, from Mr. Wood's sortie into the life and times of this royal man of many marriages, that our native Strachey is a mere apt impersonator who, attracted by the ballyhoo, puts on a shocking sideshow to attract the crowds around the big tent. The book is overwritten and underthought. Historically, it is a hop, skip and jump. Not that Mr. Wood does not write with vigor and rolling eloquence. He does—until the exhausted ear aches for surcease." Florence Haxton

— N Y Evening Post p10m Ap 6 '29 430w

"Mr. Wood is not the sober historian; his conversations are not documentary transcriptions. It is the mad aphrodisiac atmosphere that he would recapture and often he is surprisingly successful." I: Goldberg

— + N Y World p11m My 5 '29 680w

"The author has dug up in the literature of the time all the coarseness and indecency that he could find, and with a vivid imagination has added details. He can write in a way to give those details all their value. To what base uses may history descend. This book will doubtless be banned in Boston where it is published and thus secure a considerable success. It deserves a place easily in libraries of erotica."

— Sat R of Lit 5:783 Mr 16 '29 80w

Reviewed by W. B. Shaw

R of Rs 79:12 Je '29 60w

WOOD, SUMNER GILBERT. Ulster Scots and Blandford scouts. 436p il $5 The author, box 146, West Medway, Mass.

941.6 Scotch in Ireland. Scotch-Irish in New England. Blandford, Massachusetts 28-29642

"A valuable and painstaking study into New England origins by the author of 'The Taverns and Turnpikes of Blandford, 1733-1833.' Rev. Mr Wood, formerly pastor of the old white church which, perched at the top of Blandford hill, is one of the outstanding landmarks of Western Massachusetts, has performed a useful service by his exhaustive exploration of the old records in order to establish who the founders of the town were, where they came from and what their lives and those of their forebears had been. . . Blandford, while one of the most beautiful and picturesque of Western Massachusetts hill towns, is not one of the oldest. Its settlement dates from 1735. Mr Wood, however, carries his story further back. As the title indicates, the settlers of Blandford were 'Ulster Scots.' "—Springf'd Republican

---

"It is in the intimate glimpses Mr. Wood gives of colonial Blandford and its God-fearing, hard-working, straight-shooting, sincerely religious (as they saw 'religion') people that he touches a note to which every imaginative reader must respond with a sense of personal affiliation. Blandford is fortunate in having Mr. Wood, himself of the blood of those Ulster Scots who became 'Blandford Scouts,' as her historian." F. B.

+ Boston Transcript p9 D 8 '28 1150w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 6 '29 1100w

WOODBRIDGE, FREDERICK JAMES EUGENE. Son of Apollo; themes of Plato. 272p $4 Houghton

888.4 Plato

A reinterpretation of the philosophy of Plato, the man of letters. The work is divided into the following parts: The life of Plato; The writings of Plato; The perfect city; Education; Love; Death; Socrates.

---

"Mr. Woodbridge, as revealed in this singularly beautiful book, fulfills nearly all the specifications of a Platonist's dream. Here is Plato not so much analyzed as rendered, and for any one who would like to have Plato as he is or see life in terms of the Platonic mood, there are now two indispensable required readings, the dialogues of Plato and 'The Son of Apollo.' This book, written in prose that has an eighteenth century dignity and a fresh, timeless intensity, succeeds by the most simple device in doing what is the best thing any one could do for Plato; it reveals what is actually there for the reader of the dialogues." Irwin Edman

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p3 D 1 '29 1850w

"What Professor Woodbridge offers is, first, a rambling but readable introduction on the life of Plato, of which the main point is that the marvelous and mythical anecdotes told of this son of Apollo, though not literally true, may symbolize more truth than a dry summary of the few facts which historical evidence could convey. There is, secondly, a desultory and skeptical chapter about Plato's writings, and thirdly to seventhly a succession of chapters on the Perfect City, Education, Love, Death, Socrates. These chapters are in no sense a reinterpretation of Plato and Platonism." Paul Shorey

— Nation 129:676 D 4 '29 1780w

"The reader who is seeking ample light or even a profoundly colored revaluation of values will, I regret to say, be sadly disappointed. There is nothing essentially new in this book, nor yet is there something so organically personal that it achieves newness by force of its self-complete intensity; nor yet, so far as I can find, a scintilla of abstract thinking in the best English tradition of Locke, Hume, Berkeley and Bradley." Pierre Loving

— N Y World p11m Ja 5 '30 850w

"Clear statement and quiet humor mark the essays that make up this volume." W: B. Shaw

+ R of Rs 80:16 D '29 200w

WOODFORD, JACK. Evangelical cockroach. 309p $2.50 Carrier

A collection of brief, humorous short stories ironic and sophisticated in tone. They include the tale of the irreligious professor who is converted while watching the antics of a cockroach in church, and other satires on modern conventions, professions, and mankind in general.

"Some of the stories—many of them are nothing more than sketches—have a biting realism and a considerable ironic heat. A few are needlessly and inartistically plain spoken. All of them are concise and pointed. You may not always care for the point, but at least you have not been wearied by the journey to it."

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p25 S 8 '29 150w

"Mr. Woodford's style might be described as 'George Ade gone native.' He has a roguish way of using words too long to be quite respectable, and such as may be calculated to send the biologically-untrained giggling to the dictionary. You never quite know what he will be about next with his devilish learning."

— + Boston Transcript p2 S 4 '29 250w

"Mr. Woodford is conscientiously and arrogantly the smart-aleck; he is a show-off, parading an exhibitionist's desire to shock the ordinary reader. We should not score him for being non-conformist if there seemed to be honesty in his revolt. But speciousness seems to shout aloud from almost every page, as he chases after the normal decencies. . . . The literary qualities of his work are practically nil."

— Sat R of Lit 6:274 O 12 '29 150w

"Whether Mr Woodford has succeeded in foiling magazine publishers by presenting his latest volume may be debated. His exposure of humanity's foibles is sprinkled with sophistication but the product is prevailingly thin."

— Springf'd Republican p7e Ag 18 '29 130w

WOODHILL, THELMA. Love story. 352p $2.50 Simon & Schuster

29-17895

"A young girl is sheltered and dominated by her fanatical mother, is brought up in complete and terrifying ignorance of normal emotions, and is finally subjected to legalized rape in the form of a revolting marriage."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

"Miss Woodhill writes fluently and interestingly, with impact and sympathy and decision—she knows what she is about. Her characters have vitality, but they remain types: the Appallingly Innocent Maiden, the Shrew, the Meek Husband, the Unscrupulous Bounder. With a little more restraint her book would have been better, the story of a tragic and determined hypocrite who sinned successfully in the name of God."

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p18 S 8 '29 460w

"There is little if any excuse for this story. Its publishers and presumably its author excuse its presentation on the basis that it is a forceful study of an ancient story. There is no doubt that the story is ancient. The dominating mother, the hen-pecked husband, the delicate, be-shuttered daughter, the millionaire to whom she is to be married. Nothing could be much older. And the presentation resolves itself into a tragical-comic revelation of the usual sordid tale by means of caricature."

— Boston Transcript p4 S 7 '29 150w

"If, as it would appear, this is her first book, then she is a writer of great promise. There can be no doubting that she has something more than skill—that something more which cannot exist save in the presence of sincerity." E. S.

+ New Statesman 34:394 D 28 '29 430w

"Miss Woodhill, in approaching her subject, decided upon the simplest and handiest tools to accomplish its capitulation—a realistic prose and a use of novel technique, economically calculated to fulfill the requirements. The result is a book whose honesty will cost the squeamish and guilty more than a casual wince, and which will impress the enlightened by its precise accent. It demonstrates the ability of a case of female hysteria to spoil a husband's home life and to be substantially injurious to a daughter's capacity as a healthy girl." Parker Tyler

+ N Y Evening Post p5m S 14 '29 430w

"Mrs. Barnet was one of those monsters of maternity who make their motherhood a bulwark of selfishness and tyranny. The character is drawn mercilessly and with no little power." Mary Shirley

Outlook 152:709 Ag 28 '29 270w

Springf'd Republican p7e O 13 '29 350w

WOODRUFF, ELIZABETH. Dickey Byrd. 146p il $3 Bradley

28-21807

Beautifully illustrated stories of Dickey Byrd and his toys that came alive in the moonlight and of the naughty elves that came to play with them.

Reviewed by M. G. Bonner

N Y Times p40 D 2 '28 90w

"The author's fancy has had free rein in these accounts of Dickey Byrd; this pleasant invention plus the beauty of the book should make the work a favorite at holiday time."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 16 '28 200w

WOODS, ELEANOR HOWARD (BUSH) (MRS ROBERT ARCHEY WOODS). Robert A. Woods, champion of democracy. 376p il $5 Houghton

B or 92 Woods, Robert Archey. Boston. South End house 29-9751

This biography of the founder and director of South End House, Boston, is presented largely in his own words, thru his letters and extracts from his books, addresses and reports, supplemented by the memories of his wife and co-worker.

Booklist 26:68 N '29

"Mrs. Woods has embodied the personality of Mr. Woods in his multifold, human relations, always neighborly, calm and stimulating; she has revealed his heroic faith and resources, always a sane philosopher as well as an effective 'man of action.'" A. R. Marble

+ Boston Transcript p2 Ap 6 '29 1200w

WOODS, E. H.—Continued

"Mrs. Woods has performed a thorough and balanced piece of work in telling the story of her husband's life." C: L: Slattery

+ Churchman 139:16 My 11 '29 200w

"Though the editing is not impeccable, the volume is a worthy memorial to a man who contributed much to human welfare in Massachusetts."

+ — Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 21 '29 1150w

"As one who shared his life and thought and feeling, Mrs. Woods lets her readers see the spoken and written word evolving from the deed, the principle and policy slowly formulating from the experience. Meanwhile these psychological processes are lit up by such incidental expressions of the human, humorous, patient, hopeful spirit as turn inside out the man that she—and he himself—knew Robert Woods to be." Graham Taylor

+ Survey 62:317 Je 1 '29 630w

WOODWARD, WILLIAM E. Meet General Grant. 512p il $5 Liveright

B or 92 Grant, Ulysses Simpson 28-27597

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

For biographical sketch of the author see Boston Transcript p1 Ja 19 '29

---

Booklist 25:163 Ja '29

Cleveland Open Shelf p73 My '29

"Barring two or three minor errors, Mr. Woodward's book is a sound, and, I believe, an enduring, piece of work. Aside from its main theme, it contains much pungent comment on nineteenth-century American civilization." C: L. Snider

+ New Repub 57:353 F 13 '29 600w

St Louis 27:62 F '29

Springf'd Republican p7e F 17 '29 1050w

Wis Lib Bul 25:30 Ja '29

"Mr. Woodward has attempted to 'do' Grant in popular style, as he has already 'done' Washington. He has an unusual power of description, and, in some respects of analysis both of conditions and of people. In the main, his book is historically sound. Perhaps the most serious specific defect in it is the treatment accorded to President Polk and the Mexican War." R. V. Harlow

+ — Yale R n s 18:596 spring '29 300w

WOOLACOTT, JOHN EVANS. India on trial; a study of present conditions. 257p $4 (10s) Macmillan

915.4 India—Social conditions. India—Economic conditions [29-17291]

From the point of view that Great Britain has made a definite and considerable contribution to India's progress, and that complete dissolution of relations between the two countries would be disastrous to both, the author discusses causes of political unrest in India, and other current problems.

---

"If India is on trial, then this book is the argument for the prosecution. It is by no means a study. . . It is even doubtful if many of the British members of the Indian Civil Service are sufficiently exasperated with nationalism in India to indorse Mr. Woolacott's jeremiad without reservations."

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p14 Ag 25 '29 200w

"Somehow Mr. Woolacott does not write as one detached. His experience has left him a pessimist, and he attempts here to give reasons for his pessimism. His book varies much in quality. When he writes from knowledge and experience he is convincing. But where a subject is outside his own experience he falls into monotony."

— + Nation and Ath 45:78 Ap 20 '29 550w

"A very powerful and comprehensive defence, both of the existence and of the present conduct of British government in India."

+ New Statesman 33:340 Je 22 '29 180w

"Perhaps its shortcoming is that it is a shade too all-embracing in its praises; a picture is made more convincing by a certain amount of shadow. But the author recounts the good deeds of the British rulers of India worthily and well." C: Johnston

+ — N Y Times p3 Ja 5 '30 170w

St Louis 27:315 N '29

Sat R 147:436 Mr 30 '29 320w

Reviewed by E: Thompson

Sat R of Lit 6:203 O 5 '29 300w

"It is the work of an experienced Anglo-Indian journalist, who has spent twenty years in India—latterly as editor of that great journal the Pioneer of Allahabad—and who is independent of the bureaucracy and the politicians alike. Mr. Woolacott knows the questions that the average English reader would put to him about India, and answers them in this very lucid and instructive book."

+ Spec 142:426 Mr 16 '29 180w

Times [London] Lit Sup p195 Mr 14 '29 800w

WOOLF, VIRGINIA (STEPHEN) (MRS LEONARD SIDNEY WOOLF). A room of one's own. 199p $2 Harcourt [5s Hogarth press]

396.8 Women as authors. Woman in England. English fiction—History and criticism 29-27524

Mrs Woolf herein writes about women, or women and fiction in particular. She decides that the age-old economic subservience of women has had a very malicious effect upon woman's chances for a literary career, to say nothing of other careers: that even in this supposedly enlightened age for women, their personal poverty as compared to the wealth and power of men, is pathetic. A woman who wants to write, Mrs Woolf says, needs a fixed income, and a room of her own.

---

For biographical sketch of the author see Wilson bulletin 3:516 Mr '29

---

Booklist 26:112 D '29

"This is a book especially interesting to those whose fingers itch for pen or typewriter, but its measure goes far beyond the writing craft. Fiction, or writing in general, as Mrs. Woolf conceives it, is not the apologia or refuge which many would make it, whereby they evade the hard facts of themselves and their lives, but the art which all of us must practice in some degree if we are to live—washing away unessentials to find what core of meaning there is in ourselves." Mary Ross

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 O 27 '29 2100w

"Like Jane Austen among women writers, Mrs. Woolf talks only of what she knows and understands and has thought about with the result that 'A Room of One's Own' is sane as well as stimulating and suggestive and convincing from the practical point of view, as well as beautifully written and very entertaining." B. B.

+ Boston Transcript p4 N 23 '29 500w

Reviewed by Francis Snow

Current Hist 31:628 Ja '30 200w

"A work which combines the sober delights of a treatise with the vitality and humour of fiction. The women's movement is entering a new phase when such a book is written about it, and by a woman. It is ceasing, as Mrs. Woolf for the sake of literature is so anxious that it shall cease, to be a war fought by women with weapons borrowed from the other sex, and if it is still at times the butt of masculine jocosity, it is no longer an outlet for feminine irritation." L. L. Irvine

+ Nation and Ath 46:201 N 9 '29 260w

Reviewed by Louise Bogan

New Repub 61:105 D 18 '29 1100w

"Mrs. Woolf speaks for her sex with as much fancy as logic, as much wit as knowledge, and with the imagination of a true novelist. And she speaks for it well. Moreover, she escapes from an attitude of conventional feminism by really arguing in this book not for women but for artists." L: Kronenberger

+ N Y Times p2 N 10 '29 1500w

"Mrs. Woolf has given us another book of smoothly flowing prose, and, as Louis Bromfield remarked the other day, What matters her argument provided she keeps on writing books like this? She is discursive, sometimes positively garrulous. She will mention a new name and go off on a tangent, but it is most pleasant reading and stimulates the reader to inquire into his own resources." Harry Hansen

+ N Y World p15 O 29 '29 1000w

Outlook 153:350 O 30 '29 80w

"Mrs. Woolf's essay has so much wit to sharpen its compassion for women, so much learning to inform its retrospect of domestic life and letters in England, and such a beauty of style to convey the whole trend of thought which springs to the larger matters from a good lunch and a bad dinner. Feminist dissertation is so often harsh and hectoring. Mrs. Woolf's feminism has none whatever of that rawness of temper, none of the nagging note, and it has been the cause of an exquisite piece of writing."

+ Sat R 148:615 N 23 '29 800w

"Virginia Woolf's wit, penetration and style have seldom shown to greater advantage than in 'A Room of One's Own,' a series of lectures ostensibly composed on the theme, 'Women and Fiction,' but actually a searching exposition of the feminist issue."

+ Springf'd Republican p6 D 26 '29 880w

Times [London] Lit Sup p867 O 31 '29 980w

WOOLLCOTT, ALEXANDER. Two gentlemen and a lady. 121p il $2.50 Coward-McCann

Dogs—Legends and stories 28-24509

The first of these appealing dog stories, "The passing of Nicholas," concerns a temperamental Madame and an Airedale pup; "The story of Verdun Belle" recaptures a fragment of the war; "My friend Egon" is a police dog socially prominent on two continents. The illustrations are a good half of the fun of the book.

Booklist 25:214 F '29

"The make-up of the book is splendidly competent, the drawings are amusing indeed, and the 'copy' also is thoroughly workmanlike. The only thing that detracts is a certain 'snootiness' which keeps one from full sympathy with the tales. The atmosphere smacks just a bit, if we must say so, of snobbery."

+ — Boston Transcript p5 N 17 '28 200w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 20 '29 220w

WOOLLEY, CHARLES LEONARD. The Sumerians. 198p il $2.50 (6s) Oxford

913.35 Sumerians [29-26346]

"Three or four years ago Mr. Woolley's discoveries in Ur were given wide newspaper publicity, and in his account of the Sumerians he has made capital use of the archæology of this magnificent capital of Sumer. But the object he has set himself is no mere statement of local findings, however important; it is that of an ordered and non-technical account of the history and customs of lower Mesopotamia in so far as we can know it from archæology and the cuneiform writings."—Books (N Y Herald Tribune)

Reviewed by Ruth Benedict

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 Mr 10 '29 450w

"This book is written in clear and interesting style and is furnished with twenty-nine excellent illustrations of the life and civilization of the Sumerians." J. M. P. Smith

+ Christian Century 46:363 Mr 14 '29 400w

Nation and Ath 44:728 F 23 '29 360w

"Although this little book is professedly written for the non-specialist reader, the specialist none the less will welcome it, for, apart from lectures and scattered newspaper articles, it is the first story of the Sumerian civilisation to be given us by the man who has done so much to reveal and reconstruct it."

+ New Statesman 32:614 F 16 '29 200w

"His book is not only scholarly and authoritative; it is readable and amply illustrated."

+ Outlook 151:389 Mr 6 '29 180w

Pratt p31 autumn '29

"Mr. Woolley presents in lucid manner and attractive style the impressions which he has gathered from the arduous yet romantic task of resurrecting the civilization of the Sumerians. At the same time he seeks to make his conclusions more valid by incorporating results obtained at other sites. . . The cogent reasons for his far-reaching conclusions are presented in a book which combines the direct practical approach of the excavator with the vivid creative power of the historian." R. P. Dougherty

+ Sat R of Lit 5:771 Mr 16 '29 950w

"Attractive and valuable little book."

+ Spec 142:391 Mr 9 '29 180w

"Mr. Woolley has the capacity for making his ancient people live; he has grasped what is necessary in a book of this kind; and, with such criticisms as we have made, we have no hesitation in saying that it is the best popular book in English on the subject of Ur."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p226 Mr 21 '29 1500w

"With the acumen of a careful reasoner and the zest of a devoted archaeologist he marshals his facts lucidly and, to a large extent, convincingly. . . Sincere gratitude is due him for the production of a volume which is stimulating both as history and as literature." R. P. Dougherty

+ Yale R n s 19:199 autumn '29 1000w

WOOLLEY, KATHARINE (MRS CHARLES LEONARD WOOLLEY). Adventure calls. 286p $2 Minton

29-9006

The Gillespies had been in Arabia for many years; they knew the Arab and his ways. When danger threatened British rule Colin Gillespie took a long chance and impersonated her twin brother Sandy, with great success. And she found romance as well as danger.

"The story moves. There can be no doubt of that. Not for an instant does the action flag." J. W. M.

+ Boston Transcript p3 Jl 20 '29 470w

"Katharine Woolley's background, Arabia, is the best part of her story. Her characters, especially the Gillespie twins, strain the imagination rather badly."

— + N Y Times p19 Ap 21 '29 220w

Outlook 151:556 Ap 3 '29 20w

Reviewed by Kermit Roosevelt

Sat R of Lit 5:1143 Je 29 '29 430w

WOOLRICH, CORNELL. Times square. 274p $2 Liveright

29-9938

Concerning the life and frequent loves of a boy and girl on Broadway. The girl is a dance hall hostess. The boy falls in love with her when she is injured in the dance hall and he takes her home and looks after her. They take an apartment together, but she leaves him to become the mistress of a rich man, and he marries another girl. The Times Square section in which they live and love is as much a part of their story as the events which take place in it.

Reviewed by M. C. Dawson

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 My 19 '29 300w

"Here you have the hard-bitten inhabitants of Broadway's night life presented with the breathless precision of a vaudeville skit. . . The speed and lightness of the author are the only things that make the recital bearable." C. A. C.

+ New Repub 59:215 Jl 10 '29 250w

WOOLRICH, CORNELL—Continued

"Mr Woolrich's conscious efforts to portray the lesser hangers-on of Broadway in a manner and style distinctively their own has resulted in a novel as tawdry and inconsequential as the people with whom it deals."

— N Y Times p16 Je 16 '29 330w

"The story is of the 'slice of life' variety, so that the plot is negligible, but the incidents are clever and the characters well drawn. . . . The scenes in the motion picture colony are handled with nice restraint, and the mad whirl of life of the denizens of Times Square is dramatically and faithfully reported."

+ — N Y World p11m My 5 '29 150w

"The only thing in the book's favor is that it is not quite so trivial as the author's 'Children of the Ritz.' "

Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 28 '29 120w

WOOLRICH, WILLIS RAYMOND. Handbook of refrigerating engineering. 331p il $4 Van Nostrand

621.56 Refrigeration and refrigerating machinery 29-2613

A manual on the principles of refrigerating engineering designed for the engineer already in practice and for students of engineering courses.

Booklist 25:273 Ap '29

"The author has given a practical and concise treatment of the subject of mechanical refrigeration, with a clear presentation of the elementary principles involved. No doubt the book will take its place among the useful handbooks of technical engineering subjects and fill a niche in the list of college textbooks." C. H. Ehrenfeld

+ Ind & Eng Chem 21:293 Mr '29 380w

J Home Econ 21:210 Mr '29 50w

WOON, BASIL DILLON. From Deauville to Monte Carlo via Le Touquet, Biarritz, Vichy, Aix-les-Bains and Cannes. 331p il $2.50 Liveright

914.4 France—Description and travel. France—Social life and customs. Spain—Description and travel. Spain—Social life and customs 29-11183

In the knowing manner of "When it's cocktail time in Cuba" the author follows notables of international social fame from one fashionable French resort to another, gossiping familiarly of places, people, and the reputations of both.

Reviewed by A. B. Maurice

Bookm 70:xxvi O '29 550w

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Je 9 '29 180w

"Written in a crackling style, with an air of vast indiscretion; and is cheerfully—and not in the least offensively—snobbish." Florence Haxton

+ N Y Evening Post p8m Je 1 '29 350w

WOON, BASIL DILLON. When it's cocktail time in Cuba. 284p il $2.50 Liveright

917.291 Cuba—Description and travel. Havana—Description. Havana—Amusements. Americans in Cuba 28-27796

Follows the social round in Havana, listing the haunts of Cuban and American notables and furnishing a brief who's who. For the visitor with a well-lined purse.

"As gay, as tropical, as full of movement and color as Cuba itself. This book tells you every place to dine, the name of every head waiter, the real recipe for a Daiquiri, the name of the right place to be seen in at the right time and even the names of the habitués of these places and how they happen to be there."

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p21 F 17 '29 200w

Boston Transcript p7 D 15 '28 400w

"A lively and informed Baedeker to Cuba written to please readers of the New Yorker."

+ Nation 127:526 N 14 '28 20w

"Cuba, it seems, has replaced the Riviera in the hearts of many, who find everything in the former that they were wont to admire in the latter. It should be explained, if any such explanation is necessary, that the information contained in this book is not likely to be of keen personal interest to the poor or even those of moderate means, although the author sedulously avoids sordid details."

Springf'd Republican p7e Mr 10 '29 180w

WORCESTER, ELWOOD. Allies of religion. 322p il $2.50 Marshall Jones

252 Sermons. Religion 29-20665

"For twenty-five years Dr. Worcester has been rector of Emmanuel Church, Boston. Now, simultaneously with his resignation, comes this volume of sermons, all but one of which were delivered from that pulpit—a volume which not only epitomizes his teachings but which will go very far toward revealing to future generations the secret of his outstanding leadership."—Boston Transcript

" 'The Allies of Religion' is essentially hopeful in its outlook, serene in its faith, impartial in its judgments, bearing witness to a life lived in integral relations with reality. Back of the analysis, the prophecy, one may glimpse the certainty that comes from long years of careful study, from service rich in human contacts and experiences, from successful integration of discordant elements, human as well as social. There is evidence of a keen and unwearied intellect, abundantly able to see behind the materialism of the age something of value to the spiritual need of humanity." G. R. B. Richards

+ Boston Transcript p4 S 28 '29 2300w

"Dr. Worcester does what few writers can do—he actually helps one to face life without fear." E. B. Chaffee

+ Outlook 153:430 N 13 '29 130w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 10 '29 900w

WORK, MILTON COOPER. Contract bridge for all; including the official laws and count of contract bridge adopted by the Whist club, New York. 243p $2 Winston

795.41 Contract bridge 29-12173

"In this volume Mr. Work tells you how to count the trick-taking value of your hand for all original bids, how much to bid under all circumstances, and when to assist, overcall, or jump your partner's declaration, as well as when to make informatory and business doubles. All these rules are illustrated and enforced by numerical tables of values. Mr. Work's suggestions about slam-bidding are particularly well balanced and valuable."—N Y Evening Post

Booklist 26:22 O '29

Boston Transcript p4 J1 6 '29 200w

"Mr. Work is one of the acknowledged authorities on the game of Auction Bridge. Although in his new volume, 'Contract Bridge for All,' he advances his views with great modesty, there can be hardly any doubt of his pre-eminence as an analyst of the comparatively new game as well. Mr. Work's system of play, which, with modifications, he carries over into Contract, has always been a severely arithmetical one, based completely on a careful study of probabilities." E. J.

+ N Y Evening Post p5s Je 8 '29 300w

"Will be welcomed by all players of bridge. It is the sanest exposition yet published. Mr. Work is certainly justified in his hope that the book presents the simplest contract system yet devised."

+ Spec 143:632 N 2 '29 50w

Springf'd Republican p7e My 19 '29 250w

WORK, MONROE NATHAN, comp. Bibliography of the Negro in Africa and America. 698p $12; also sold on service basis Wilson, H.W.

016.326 Negroes—Bibliography 28-17150

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

"For the compilation by Dr. Work, there can be only the highest praise. . . The shortcomings of the book are essentially those of the pioneer in a vast field." M. J. Herskovits
+ Am Anthropol 31:525 Jl '29 500w

Reviewed by R. E. Park
Am J Soc 35:126 Jl '29 850w
Times [London] Lit Sup p29 Ja 10 '29 80w
Wis Lib Bul 25:97 Mr '29

WORLD'S best short stories of 1929; sixteen stories selected by the editors of leading American magazines; under the auspices of the New York World; with a foreword by Paul Palmer. 302p $2.50 Minton

Short stories—Collections (25-25757)

Sixteen short stories selected by the editors of leading American magazines. Among the authors represented are Vina Delmar, Coningsby Dawson, Arthur Somers Roche, Alice Duer Miller and Ruth Suckow.

Reviewed by B. R. Redman
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 O 27 '29 170w
Boston Transcript p2 S 11 '29 300w

WREN, PERCIVAL CHRISTOPHER. Good Gestes. 307p $2 Stokes

29-5708

A group of stories setting forth the earlier exploits of Beau Geste and his brothers in the French Foreign legion.

Booklist 25:324 My '29

"This book lacks the fascination of the three novels that preceded it, perhaps because there is too much similarity of background and theme, but nevertheless it is genuinely interesting."
+ — Bookm 70:xxiii S '29 70w

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Mr 17 '29 150w
Boston Transcript p4 Ap 20 '29 250w
Cleveland Open Shelf p96 Je '29

"Major Wren bolsters up the frail plot structure of his tales with little show of craftsmanship. Where his style fails to show signs of careless haste it becomes labored or impossibly stilted. One is forced to suspect that for him not two, but all of the Geste brothers have been buried and forgotten long since. And with them most of his interest in the doings of the Foreign Legion, for tales of torture, murder, rape and insanity that might have been made vivid and luridly exciting remain in 'Good Gestes' commonplace and lifeless."
— N Y Times p7 Mr 17 '29 360w
Pratt p42 summer '29

"Clean, breezy romance, enlivened by the broadest of humour, again characterizes Mr. Wren's work, and admirers of Beau Geste, of the French Foreign Legion, will revel in this further record of the adventures of that gentleman and his brothers with their gaiety, charm, and imperturbable savoir faire."
+ Spec 142:397 Mr 9 '29 70w

"As a rule, the stories are wanting in spontaneity."
Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 14 '29 180w

"We lay down this book of short stories about the Gestes and their friends sincerely regretting that the things that we have seen in Beau, John and Trumpeter Digby we now can see no more. There is a painful falling off in humour, romance and informative value."
— Times [London] Lit Sup p244 Mr 21 '29 130w
Wis Lib Bul 25:128 Ap '29

WREN, PERCIVAL CHRISTOPHER. Soldiers of misfortune; the story of Otho Bellême. 366p $2 Stokes

29-15569

"The prize ring is important in 'Soldiers of Misfortune.' Otho is a remarkable boxer, and his fights fill many pages of the book. Professional fighters are often subordinate characters, and events in the ring are often turning points in the plot. The rest of the novel is perhaps less interesting. We see the decay of Otho's worldly position, brought about by a misunderstanding in a matter of love. At the end, Otho and two fighter-friends are in service with the Foreign Legion."—Sat R of Lit

Booklist 26:35 O '29

"Here are Wren sentiment, Wren color, Wren fun and the whole bag of tricks refurbished and most effectively presented." Will Cuppy
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 S 8 '29 250w
Boston Transcript p2 Jl 31 '29 560w

Reviewed by E. F. Edgett
Boston Transcript p5 Ag 10 '29 150w

"Though it is an extremely long book with a fairly complicated plot, the greater part of the novel is given over to detailed descriptions of pugilistic encounters, and it is principally to people who like to read about prizefighting that the tale will appeal."
N Y Times p7 Ag 11 '29 450w

"A new group of characters has taken the place of the Gestes, but it is sufficiently like the Gestes to alienate no old friends. In Sir Otho Belleme we have a blood cousin of Beau Geste: both are quixotic, sentimental, too good for this world, and yet all that we romantically wish in our hearts a man might be. The tone and mannerisms of this new book are precisely those of the earlier novels. Mr. Wren proves that he can tell captivating stories of a very definite and almost unique type and, moreover, that he knows when the time has come to call the old characters by new names. It is a wise author that knows the extent of his own gifts." R. B. Macdougall
+ Sat R of Lit 6:53 Ag 17 '29 750w

"He has done that very difficult thing, made a servant and not a master of romance, and so, even though he does stretch the arm of coincidence to its utmost reach, the temptation to make a happy ending is diverted by the stronger claims of likelihood, and sentimentality always gives way to humour."
+ Spec 143:827 N 30 '29 200w

"The fights that punctuated Otho's career are brilliantly described, and in them at any rate Mr. Wren lives up to his reputation for writing scenes that move quickly, are packed with incident, and keep suspense stretched out tautly to the end."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p720 S 19 '29 500w

WRIGHT, ERNEST HUNTER. Meaning of Rousseau. 168p $3 (8s 6d) Oxord

B or 92 Rousseau, Jean Jacques [29-18763]

The interested reader will find in this small volume by Mr Wright, professor of English in Columbia university, a clear statement of the meaning of Rousseau and an explanation of apparent paradoxes and inconsistencies in his writings. The chapters are: The natural man; The natural education; The natural society; The natural religion.

Reviewed by C. H. C. Wright
Am Hist R 35:344 Ja '30 160w
Boston Transcript p2 Jl 13 '29 460w

"Professor Wright treats Rousseau as a serious thinker, so that the majority of people will probably not bother to read his book. But the loss will be theirs, for it is a profound and scholarly work."
+ New Statesman 33:556 Ag 10 '29 700w

"Professor Wright's book is succinct, clear and scholarly. Always moderate and restrained, he quietly obliterates the debris of falsehood and misapprehension under which Rousseau has been buried, and builds up a just, persuasive, and thoughtful picture of his real meaning. It speaks highly for the powers of compression and synthesis of the author that he has been able to concentrate so much wisdom and digested information into the few pages of this book. 'The Meaning of Rousseau' is not only a service to scholarship; it is a pleasure to read." Edgar Johnson

WRIGHT, E. H.—Continued
+ N Y Evening Post p7m Je 29 '29 1000w
Sat R of Lit 6:252 O 12 '29 380w

"Prof Wright's study is based both on Rousseau's own text and on Rousseau's best interpreters, and is thoughtfully and moderately written, though somewhat deficient in pregnant phrase."
+ Springf'd Republican p12 Je 27 '29 220w

"The first section of his book, on 'The Natural Man,' does more justice to Rousseau and more speedily than any of the innumerable books about the enigmatic man that we have read. Our only regret is that even Professor Wright has too easily accepted the general belief that Rousseau was practically insane at the end of his life. It has always seemed to us extremely doubtful."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p416 My 23 '29 1150w

WRIGHT, EUGENE. Great horn spoon. 320p il $4 Bobbs

915.4 India—Description and travel. East (Far East)—Description and travel 28-23069

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

"Speaking of books of travel, I have found what seems to me the supreme classic of its class: The Great Horn Spoon." W. E. Garrison
+ Christian Century 45:1262 O 18 '28 230w
Cleveland Open Shelf p45 Mr '29

"Here is life, real and convincing, beautiful and exciting. And it is literature quite as much as 'Jurgen,' 'Ulysses,' 'Two Years Before the Mast!'" F: O'Brien
+ N Y World p11m N 18 '28 840w
Pittsburgh Mo Bul 33:642 D '28
St Louis 27:59 F '29

Reviewed by L. P. Hartley
Sat R 147:684 My 18 '29 130w

"If credibility is made the sole consideration, 'The Great Horn Spoon' will prove a stiff dose for many readers who will be convinced that Mr. Wright has taken his cue from the 'romancing lad' of his title-page. But about its breathless readability there is no possible doubt whatever. . . . Here, if ever, is the time for a willing suspension of belief and the meed of attention due an accomplished storyteller who is more interested in describing the adventure in hand than in glorifying his own share in it."
+ Sat R of Lit 5:591 Ja 12 '29 200w

"Mr. Wright is uneven, but at his best he is much more effective than others of the present story-tellers in this romantic genre."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p387 My 9 '29 260w

WRIGHT, FREDERICK ADAM, tr. Fathers of the church; a selection from the writings of the Latin fathers; with an introd. and biographical notices. 350p $4 Dutton [12s 6d Routledge]

281.1 Fathers of the church [29-10909]

A selection from the writings of the early Latin fathers of the church: Tertullian, Cyprian, Arnobius, Lactantius, Ambrose, Jerome, Augustine.

---

Boston Transcript p2 Ap 6 '29 220w

"The principle upon which Professor Wright proceeds in the selection of passages is so far from sound that his volume is neither suitable for the student who desires to obtain a correct impression of the Early Fathers, nor acceptable to the reasonably fastidious reader."
— Cath World 129:252 My '29 100w

"An illuminating introduction and brief prefatory sketches of the Fathers from whose works extracts are presented add to the value of a book that has culled from writings generally regarded as forbidding matter of vivid interest."
+ Sat R of Lit 5:786 Mr 16 '29 60w

"Professor Wright's extracts, which run from Tertullian to St. Augustine, are translated with an easy skill which conceals its own art. They show, too, a sympatnetic appreciation of the mordant wit by which these holy shepherds of souls not infrequently castigated the less satisfactory members of their flock; and in so doing, cast a bright and often amusing light on the social customs of their day." Evelyn Underhill
+ Spec 141:790 N 24 '28 630w

"The book certainly deserves a welcome, since it differs from the majority of such works in the fact that it is possible to read it through for its own sake, and the separate extracts are not merely or chiefly valuable as a means of illustrating something else. The translations are plain, straightforward renderings of passages some of which are notoriously difficult."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p863 N 15 '28 180w

WRIGHT, RICHARDSON LITTLE. Forgotten ladies; nine portraits from the American family album. 307p il $5 (21s) Lippincott

920.7 Woman—Biography. United States—Biography 28-27856

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

"Mr. Wright's tone is a little jocose in a literary way; but he handles his material well, integrates the important events and the important mental habits of the time into his stories. The book is documented and, in the parts of which I have personal knowledge, exceptionally accurate and well-balanced." Gilbert Seldes
+ Bookm 68:582 Ja '29 200w
Cleveland Open Shelf p73 My '29

"Not literature but good entertainment."
Dial 86:166 F '29 100w

Reviewed by E. C. Beckwith
N Y World p10m D 23 '28 200w
St Louis 27:60 F '29

"Mr Wright's sketches are meant to be readable, and have more romantic than historic interest."
Springf'd Republican p10 F 27 '29 400w

WRIGHT, RICHARDSON LITTLE. Gardener's bed-book; short and long pieces to be read in bed by those who love husbandry and the green growing things of earth. 341p $2.50 Lippincott

716 Gardening 29-26567

A delightful garden journal in which Mr Wright has set down from day to day thruout the year his mellow observations on "the green growing things of earth," and has added a gardening hint in italics at the end of each day's entry.

---

Booklist 25:384 Jl '29

"Mr. Wright has a witty, whimsical way of saying very practical things. Few men appreciate the subtle delights of a garden as much as he, and fewer still can put their appreciation in such a delightful way. Each month has a 'long piece' at the close which is a choice essay of a wider range of thought, and indicates how good a writer the editor of 'House and Garden' can be."
+ Boston Transcript p5 My 11 '29 130w
Nation 128:513 Ap 24 '29 30w
Sat R of Lit 6:83 Ag 24 '29 370w
Springf'd Republican p7e D 29 '29 230w

"Taken in small doses, it may fulfil its purpose well enough; but read through it produces an impression of too industrious sprightliness."
— + Times [London] Lit Sup p770 O 3 '29 150w

WRIGHT, SYDNEY FOWLER. Dawn. 349p $2.50 Cosmopolitan bk.

29-22423

The story of a handful of English people who were the only survivors of an earthquake which submerged all but a few miles of the land beneath the ocean. They elect Martin Webster leader. He is forced to set up entirely new standards of living to meet this curious return to almost primitive conditions.

"A highly imaginative story."
+ Bookm 70:xxviii D '29 100w

"Mr. Wright is a hopeful philosopher. He has ideals. He has social convictions. But he has not written a novel. He rambles. He does not go in for form. Expunge him of theory and you will find little feeling for story. Each of the characters in 'Dawn' is a type common to a race. They are figure heads in the social problem with which he is dealing. And as such you do not care what becomes of them. They are mere waxen forms used to drape the dreamy speculations of a philosophically minded writer."
+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 D 15 '29 320w

"A strange story is this, but one which despite its imaginative construction compels the attention of the reader and long haunts the mind. The author has a truth to impart, and surely there could be no more subtle or dramatic way in which his object could be accomplished." J. C. G.
+ Boston Transcript p10 N 23 '29 530w

"Here, certainly, is a theme of unbounded potentialities, one to intrigue the imagination and to compel a rapt attention."
— N Y Times p7 N 17 '29 600w

"A continuation of the exciting Deluge, but by no means so good." W. R. Brooks
Outlook 153:388 N 6 '29 50w

WRONG, GEORGE MCKINNON. Rise and fall of New France. 2v 925p $10.50 Macmillan

971 Canada—History 28-28986

A two-volume history of Canada which goes back to the journeys of Marco Polo and the voyages of the Norsemen for a beginning, and carries forward the story of the New France with contrasting pictures of old France.

Booklist 25:206 F '29

"The student of history will find in Professor Wrong's volumes a scholarly presentation of the rôle played by France in the development of the North American continent. . . There is a splendid descriptive bibliography in both volumes, organized by chapters, but inserted at the end of each volume. And of course, there is an index. But the outstanding feature of The Rise and Fall of New France is its readability."
+ Bookm 68:xiv F '29 180w

"Mr. Wrong has made use of all the printed material that has become available since Parkman's time, and his two volumes may be relied upon. They are sound but not the equal of Parkman's in style, and the chief advantage for the reader is in having the whole tale compressed into two volumes instead of Parkman's long series." J. T. Adams
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 Ja 27 '29 530w

Boston Transcript p8 Mr 9 '29 250w

"These new volumes are something greater, better, and more lasting than any others he has written." W: Wood
+ Canadian Hist R 10:56 Mr '29 1200w

"Professor Wrong practices the art of history. He has a sure and personal sense of general composition and proportion, he always writes interestingly, he never forgets that he is writing about persons, and the literary merit of his work, always considerable, is occasionally outstanding. . . Since publication this history has been submitted to what seems to be one unfair criticism, namely, that it is based almost entirely on printed materials. The author made no pretence of its being otherwise, and while research in the extraordinary collections of the Archives at Ottawa would have enriched and qualified his history, there is much to be said for his stand."
+ — Hist Outlook 20:354 N '29 700w

"It is a good story which Professor Wrong has to tell and on the whole, although his style falters here and there and he inserts some commonplace incidents from European history which could well be omitted, he tells that story well." Arthur Lower
+ — Nation 128:288 Mr 6 '29 660w

"An easy, simple narrative, studded with shrewd comment and informed with sympathy and a lifelong love and knowledge of Canada. Professor Wrong has crowned long years of work for Canadian education with a delightful book." K. N. B.
+ New Statesman 33:16 Ap 13 '29 1200w

"Professor Wrong has performed his task without infringing even in a sentimental sense on the prerogatives of Parkman. His work and that of the New England master may be read together, since they are on different models and there is a need of both. If a special achievement is to be singled out in this thorough treatment of the subject, it is that Dr. Wrong has been indefatigable in his exposition of the origins in Europe of the great French colonial adventure in the New World at every stage of its progress." A. S. Will
+ N Y Times p3 Ja 27 '29 1550w

Reviewed by Herschel Brickell
No Am 227:adv F '29 60w

Pratt p33 summer '29

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 79:26 F '29 120w

"The tale Professor Wrong tells with such thoroughness is one of absorbing interest and his account is likely to remain a standard work for a long time to come. The analysis of the causes of the fall of New France is not the least interesting feature of this interesting book."
+ Sat R 147:540 Ap 20 '29 420w

"The long and complicated story as the author conceives it is told with sustained effect and progressive success. It affords many opportunities for bias and partisanship. In avoiding these, Mr. Wrong never degenerates into a bald chronicler. He is not afraid to make judgments and they are objective, courteous, and scholarly. The volumes are beautifully printed and admirably indexed, and there are clear and adequate maps." W. P. M. Kennedy
+ Sat R of Lit 5:682 F 16 '29 1450w

"The early history of Canada under its French founders is a fascinating subject. It loses nothing of its charm while gaining in completeness and accuracy in the substantial work which the ablest of modern Canadian scholars, Dr. Wrong, has based on the researches of a lifetime."
+ Spec 142:427 Mr 16 '29 680w

"All in all, 'The Rise and Fall of New France' is a work nobly planned and admirably executed, and should delight both the veteran and the recruit to the field of Canadian history."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p255 Mr 28 '29 1150w

WU, CHAO-CHU. Nationalist program for China. 112p $1.50 Yale univ. press [7s Milford]

951 China—Politics and government. China—Foreign relations. Manchuria 29-18107

An explanation of the principles and program of the Chinese nationalist party by the minister from China to the United States, formerly minister of foreign affairs of the Nationalist government of China.

Reviewed by H. F. MacNair
Am Pol Sci R 23:1039 N '29 200w

Booklist 26:64 N '29

Times [London] Lit Sup p1038 D 5 '29 300w

WYCLIFFE, JOHN, pseud. See Bedford-Jones, H:

WYETH, JOHN ALLAN BENEDICT. This man's army; a war in fifty-odd sonnets. 60p $2 Vinal

811 European war, 1914-1918—Poetry 29-493

"In a slim volume of fifty sonnets Mr. Wyeth has caught the color and drabness of the World War as seen through the eyes of the American soldier. He takes his readers through the shot and shell of battles and to the still peaceful vales behind the lines. We eat corned willie and drink coffee in the mud-filled trenches of the ridge at Chipilly and open champagne bottles in the gay little cafes in Paris with the men on leave."—Boston Transcript

---

"Mr. Wyeth, handling the sonnet in a fresh, unconventional way, takes the war as his theme and carries the reader from Camp Upton to Brest and on to regions of trenches and air raids—with colloquial companions and a life etched realistically." C: Divine

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 My 19 '29 180w

"There is a dash and a spirit to Mr. Wyeth's work that sweeps the reader along with him. The use of the traditional sonnet form, instead of hindering him in his art, enabled him to acquire a colloquial ease which is most interesting and also technically correct."

+ Boston Transcript p3 F 9 '29 130w

"Mr. Wyeth's sonnets often achieve a sharp outline in one line, but the effect is dissipated by what follows." R. E. L.

— + New Repub 59:80 Je 5 '29 100w

" 'This Man's Army,' a series of 'odd' sonnets, lacks, as does practically all war poetry, the perspective necessary to the best of imaginative expression. It is, moreover, much more about Mr. Wyeth than about the war. In other words we are offered here the personal notebook of a young army man. For such running comment the book has interest." E. L. Walton

— + Sat R of Lit 5:884 Ap 13 '29 180w

WYLIE, ELINOR (HOYT) (MRS WILLIAM ROSE BENET). Angels and earthly creatures. 63p $2.50 Knopf

811 29-10540

Some of Elinor Wylie's best work is in this volume, posthumously issued. The first group of nineteen sonnets is infused with an intensity of personal emotion new to her work.

---

Booklist 25:387 Jl '29

"Miss Wylie has left us a handful of poems which are among the best and most individual of her generation. She united a keen, logical and metaphysical sense with a real gift for image: and to these she brought a fine skill in form." Conrad Aiken

+ Bookm 69:323 My '29 180w

"In 'Angels and Earthly Creatures' she appears personal even where she is actually perhaps dramatic. Her true voice sounds in her words. Veritable raptures determine her rhythms. Her thoughts, instead of marching like an argument, beat like a pulse. And her vision, hitherto in her poems ordinarily serene and rational, is now an aching flame." Carl Van Doren

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 Ap 28 '29 1350w

"Elinor Wylie has bestowed upon American poetic art a gift unequalled by any other woman writer of the present time. With a fearless loyalty she has used the perfection of rhythm of the old masters. She has transcended the trivial and has touched new and age old themes exquisitely." E. B.

+ Boston Transcript p3 Je 1 '29 400w

Cleveland Open Shelf p155 D '29

"There was behind these poems an intellectual energy that never drooped and a concern for perfection that was alien to compromise. Elinor Wylie's poetry may have sung a farewell to the life we know, a welcome to sleep and change, but her valedictories have the proud vigor of deathless youth." Ridgely Torrence

+ Nation 128:741 Je 19 '29 680w

"A collection of uncommon vivacity and speculative quickness of experience." E. B.

+ Nation and Ath 45:277 My 25 '29 80w

"The series of sonnets which stand first in this collection are of a high order of excellence. Of the other poems in the book, critical judgments will perhaps be as numerous as the critics; none of these poems is negligible, and their form and manner are so varied that they are apt to appeal to widely differing tastes." T. S. Matthews

+ — New Repub 59:77 Je 5 '29 600w

"This new collection is far better than either of the volumes which preceded it. Angels and Earthly Creatures will remain, for those who had the privilege of encountering its authoress during one of her meteoric flights through London, the appropriate memorial of an engaging and elusive personality." P. Q.

+ New Statesman 33:274 Je 8 '29 90w

"Her work is clear and vivid. This is poetry that will always be understood and appreciated." Horace Gregory

+ N Y Evening Post p11m My 4 '29 650w

"Always distinguished in manner, and intellectually sound, Miss Wylie's verse has also possessed a very subtle beauty of a highly individual sort, although at times she has seemed all but elusive. . . The little collection is poetry from beginning to end." Percy Hutchison

+ N Y Times p2 Ap 28 '29 700w

"Every poem in 'Angels and Earthly Creatures' shows that self-assurance whose lack her brilliance had only partially concealed. The first part of the book, composed of nineteen sonnets, is one of the most clearly individual groups of love poems in our literature." Granville Hicks

+ N Y World p10m My 12 '29 1500w

"In 'Angels and Earthly Creatures' Elinor Wylie is at last fully expressive. . . From the opening nineteen sonnets to the closing 'Little Elegy' this collection of poems is consistently expressive of Elinor Wylie's extraordinary personality." J. D. Tasker

+ Outlook 152:36 My 1 '29 230w

Pratt p27 autumn '29

"This is very intellectual poetry, the result of slow, profound thought—thought so wedded to emotion as thought ought to be in poetry, that the two cannot be disentangled. Elinor Wylie thought deeply before she wrote." M. M. Colum

+ Sat R of Lit 5:1043 My 25 '29 1700w

"Verse whose texture must be compared to clear water, so smoothly and transparently does it convey its meaning." R: Church

+ Spec 143:380 S 21 '29 100w

Springf'd Republican p7e Je 30 '29 900w

"The remarkable sonnet sequence that gives title and first distinction to the book relates a personal experience so directly and powerfully as to disarm criticism. These nineteen sonnets celebrate 'the perfect ceremony of love's rite,' symbolizing the old paradoxical truth that whoever would save his love must lose it. They are written with a passionate sensibility and fire." Helen MacAfee

+ Yale R n s 18:814 summer '29 120w

WYLIE, ELINOR (HOYT) (MRS WILLIAM ROSE BENET). Trivial breath. 80p $2.50 (7s 6d) Knopf

811 28-16478

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Cleveland Open Shelf p8 Ja '29

"Mrs. Wylie delights in the relics of romance, and a manner of verse which suggests the elaborate designings of old craftsmen." E. B.

Nation and Ath 44:529 Ja 12 '29 40w

New Statesman 32:296 D 8 '28 100w

Pratt p25 winter '29

"Her verse has the hardness and the preciosity of 'gold and glass,' of the agate and the onyx, and it is intensely egotistic."
Times [London] Lit Sup p1014 D 20 '28 200w

WYLIE, IDA ALENA ROSS. Silver virgin. 317p $2.50 Doubleday, Doran 29-2965

The story begins and ends at a little mountain shrine of the Silver Virgin in Spain where Gale and Justine met and fell instantly in love. They were married later in England during Gale's leave from the war. He returns maimed, never again able to be her husband. The painful and dramatic story of their broken marriage and Justine's passion for another man is told in the disjointed flashback style of the movies.

---

Booklist 25:324 My '29

"Allowances once made for its popularizing formula, 'The Silver Virgin' stands out as a book written with genuine feeling. In her description both of Spanish village and English household Miss Wylie conveys a vivid and authentic atmosphere, and in the portrayal of many of the characters (notably the women) shows a discerning conception of the misery that is often the lot of superficially enviable persons." G. T. Hellman
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p6 F 17 '29 830w

"The story is unusually long even for a modern novel and for those of us who have the patience to read through so many, closely printed pages it is refreshingly interesting, because it contains much that is wholly real."
+ Boston Transcript p4 F 16 '29 100w

"With the puzzlement and suspense brought about by the narrative manner, with the unnecessary melodrama which is so often added, and with the lack of real penetration which fails to make the characters wholly clear, this becomes a second rate book. But something about it lingers in the memory. It might have been good. It had a beautiful conception." Marjorie Johnson
— + N Y Evening Post p9m F 2 '29 600w

"Miss Wylie has been lavish with her incidents, and she has limited herself pretty well to the psychologically sound. An occasional lapse into melodrama is forgivable—if for no other reason than that one is thoroughly enjoying the book."
+ N Y Times p8 Ja 27 '29

"The delicacy of her theme renders her task difficult. To us, it seems, this effort on Ida Wylie's part confuses her and weighs the story with too much irrelevant detail, too many characters, too tedious descriptions. In themselves and as prose they are admirably and estimably done; but in a story of this kind too much veiling with poetic scenes, sentimental memories, crowding of other characters and minor plots, all tend to make the reader impatient with an author who thus seems to shy away from the sordid, immensely bitter and delicate tragedy she has had the courage to imagine."
— + N Y World p5e F 24 '29 180w

"'The Silver Virgin' is a good example of the best type of the morbid, realistic school of writing. In spite of [its] melancholy assortment of characters there is beauty in the novel —beauty of reality rather than that of poetry— and an excellent magic plot." Milton Byron
+ — Outlook 151:189 Ja 30 '29 120w

"We are grateful for the many fine passages in the book and for Miss Wylie's ability to carry the feeling of her story over to the reader without any cheapening or sensationalism. This novel, courageous and straightforward, cannot leave one unmoved."
+ Sat R of Lit 5:839 Mr 30 '29 350w

"This is a bold theme for a novelist, but Miss Wylie has carried it through with quite remarkable success, due in the first place to the intensity with which she has described the life of the Pyrennean village and in the second to the almost tragic sincerity of her idealism."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p204 Mr 14 '29 350w

WYLIE, PHILIP. Babes and sucklings. 300p $2.50 Knopf
29-9007

Cynthia leaves her husband and California for good. Questing for adventure she arrives in New York where she meets Thornton. Their love affair begins almost at once and thru a maze of other entangling alliances in Greenwich Village follows its unorthodox course to an orthodox ending.

---

"Philip Wylie has written a head-strong, compelling book, with the inconsolable bitterness of youth in it. . . Here are aplomb, unabated vitality, penetrative awareness of people and motives; and, by their side, an inordinate straining after effect, boldness with occasional descent into vulgarity, gimcrackery. . . 'Babes and Sucklings' remains a prodigal, strangely moving book, at once heroic and a little absurd, with the sound, scent and color of life in it." Leonard Ehrlich
+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 Ap 21 '29 620w

"Granted the lack of purposeful clarity in Mr. Wylie's novel, one questions, however unprudish one may be, the rather surprising amount of common coarseness which the author believes it necessary to affix between the covers of a slender volume. . . His statements are very sweeping and for the most part clever through their very immatureness and exaggeration."
— Boston Transcript p10 My 11 '29 190w

"There are long passages of nothing but character analysis. It is consistent analysis, sympathetic and revealing, but it smacks too much of a case history chart to be fully artistic."
— + N Y Times p6 Ap 14 '29 700w

"Without having known his characters we should have lost a vital experience. There is enough material in Philip Wylie's beautifully integrated novel to make a score of best-sellers."
+ Outlook 151:548 Ap 3 '29 100w

"The author of 'Heavy Laden' lives up to the title of his first novel in this his second, one of those Manhattan cocktail things, compacted of synthetic sin and orange-juice. He actually succeeds in making vice as boring as virtue, and combines all the familiar features of the rising-young-writer story with all the dreary preachments of Sigmund Freud and Lucy Stone. One has the feeling that the author felt under tremendous urgency to get it all off his chest, at the cost of jerky construction, banal plot, and prolonged preachments."
— Sat R of Lit 5:935 Ap 20 '29 230w

"A lot of talking is done, but no acting, unless you count the energy expended in shaking up cocktails. There is but little plot, and what there is is old."
— Springf'd Republican p7e Jl 21 '29 150w

WYNNE, ANTHONY, pseud. See Wilson, R. M.

WYNNE, PAMELA, pseud. See Scott, W. M.

WYNNTON, PATRICK. Lost mark. 304p $2 Lippincott [7s 6d Hodder & S.]
29-20104

A valuable curative mineral had been found under the sea, and its location was sought by a band of rascals. Cutty Lorringer, first mate of the Maid of Dee, knew of it too, and together with a beautiful girl whom he had rescued in Marseilles, set out to search for the mineral. Cutty had the secret of the location and the pirates knew it; for which information battle, murder and sudden death descended upon Cutty's crew. But there was an unexpected ending.

---

Bookm 70:xxiv S '29 70w

WYNNTON, PATRICK—Continued

"This is a readable combination of underworld crime and love on the bounding waves, adorned with swift and violent action." Will Cuppy

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p12 Jl 21 '29 100w

Boston Transcript p2 Ag 25 '29 200w

N Y Times p16 Ag 4 '29 230w

"A succession of adventures which are eminently satisfactory to the reader. Mr. Wynnton provides an unexpected ending which is as dramatic as it is suitable."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p341 Ap 25 '29 140w

Y

YAMATA, KIKOU. The shoji; Japanese interiors and silhouettes; [tr. from the French by J. and S. F. Mills Whitham]. (Golden dragon lib.) 182p $2.50 Dial press [6s Routledge]

915.2 Japan—Social life and customs

"Miss Kikou Yamata's Shoji is a modern book of essays and stories, the first part of which is devoted to interpreting Japan for Europe, while the second deals with the effects of Western thought and customs on the Japanese." —New Statesman

Boston Transcript p6 Je 1 '29 230w

"It is quite interesting, if a little vague; the translation from the French is undistinguished."

+ — New Statesman 32:536 F 2 '29 150w

"Mlle. Yamata's little essays and vignettes are touching and clear-sighted, often poetic, especially when she writes objectively and factually of the life and customs of her country. When, however, she writes of individual people in her stories and sketches she almost never succeeds in making them effective." L. T.

+ — N Y Evening Post p12m D 21 '29 160w

"Devoid of sentimentality, simple in narrative and delicately etched in detail, serious in mood with a tranquil strength of sympathy for the young men and women of Japan she knows so well, 'The Shoji' is faithfully interpretative of a Japan few Westerners know. Its admixture of understanding of the West marks the author as the possessor of an unusual heritage, and of a talent that may yet even more notably celebrate her fortune." Gardner Harding

+ N Y Times p5 Je 9 '29 1000w

St Louis 27:341 D '29

"The sketches are very well done in their way, but it is doubtful whether their semi-imaginative form is the best the author could have chosen for her purpose. She is very much in earnest about national traditions and the emancipation of Japanese women in particular."

Times [London] Lit Sup p962 D 6 '28 90w

YATES, DORNFORD, pseud. See Mercer, C. W:

YBARRA, THOMAS RUSSELL. Bolivar, the passionate warrior. 365p $4 Washburn

B or 92 Bolívar, Simón 29-21294

"The biography of the great Venezuelan patriot, Simón Bolivar. The story, told here in a journalistic staccato, deals mainly with the years 1810 to 1830; that is to say, with the last half of Bolivar's life, for he was born in 1783 and died in 1830 at the age of 47."—Hist Outlook

Reviewed by Margaret Wallace

Bookm 70:453 D '29 550w

"The author has succeeded in depicting a real, living hero, with the sordid glamour of the reality in which he lived. But the author is a hero-worshiper and a descendant of a Venezuelan, and his story is often told with anti-Spanish spirit and pro-Patriot proclivities. His descriptions of bloody fighting pulsate with vividness and are frequently excellent. On the whole, the background picture is accurate, and the volume should be read by students of the revolutionary period. But the author or publisher has marred the book by a surprising indifference to the use of Spanish accents." A. C. Wilgus

+ — Hist Outlook 20:408 D '29 270w

"Mr. Ybarra, himself a native of Caracas and related by a collateral branch of his father's family to one of Bolivar's aides, tells the story with an insight and certainty that no outsider could possess. He knows the region and the people as well as the printed sources. His narrative has the ring of authenticity. With the centennial of the Liberator's death only a little more than a year off it is particularly pertinent."

+ N Y Times p8 O 20 '29 1100w

"Mr. Ybarra's 'Bolivar' is neither patronizing nor adulatory; it bears every mark of truth but it is sympathetic; it is cool and unprejudiced but it moves with the swift intensity which marked the performances of its hero. One is not quite certain how Mr. Ybarra has attained these almost paradoxical merits; he has. . . It is dramatic and convincing—because it is human; and Bolivar seems more heroic in this candid light than in more naive, purely adulatory biographies—because it is evident he conquered enemies and succumbed to some, not outside his own soul." P. D. Stong

+ N Y World p10m D 8 '29 500w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks

Outlook 153:351 O 30 '29 40w

R of Rs 80:20 D '29 160w

"The narrative is chronologically and geographically accurate—no small asset in current popular biography—and as a reflection of the many-faceted personality of Bolivar it is eminently successful." C. H. Haring

+ Sat R of Lit 6:602 D 28 '29 400w

YELLOW book; sel., ed. by Cedric Ellsworth Smith. 413p il $4 Mitchell

820.8 English literature—Collections 29-2577

"It is a one-volume selection of the best material contained in the thirteen volumes of the famous quarterly magazine, 'The Yellow Book,' which made literary and artistic history in the eighteen-nineties."—Boston Transcript

Booklist 25:279 Ap '29

"Unofficially it is a rather delightful window into a period when writers took themselves and their lives more seriously than is fashionable now."

Boston Transcript p4 F 9 '29 200w

"Mr. Smith's selection is a continuous procession of unexpected names and surprising documents." Hansell Baugh

N Y Evening Post p8m Ja 5 '29 800w

Reviewed by Ernest Boyd

Outlook 151:151 Ja 23 '29 880w

YEO, MARGARET. King of shadows. 384p $2 Macmillan [7s 6d Sheed & W.]

29-19691

Historical in setting, the story takes place in the time of James III; and against a background of war and intrigue moves the love-story of the Scots heroine, Margaret Ogilvie, and the Italian Prince Piero d'Este.

"Accuracy in details does not concern her. Miss Yeo invariably writes 'St. Germains' for St. Germain, and informs us that the strings of the harpsichord were plucked by hand. Much of her romance is in the tempo of Dumas, but her imagination is sometimes a little breathless and hysterical." R. C. B. Brown

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 Jl 7 '29 380w

Boston Transcript p2 Ag 3 '29 550w

Cath World 129:629 Ag '29 360w

"Miss Yeo tells her story with considerable verve and color and contributes a fine book for boys and girls." Edwin Seaver

+ N Y Evening Post p7m Je 22 '29 100w

"It is well written and well characterized, with a closely knit, extremely complicated plot, an abundance of movement and drama."

+ N Y Times p9 Je 23 '29 750w

Sat R of Lit 6:274 O 12 '29 200w

"Students of history will disagree as to the validity of Miss Yeo's claim that her hero, James the Pretender, was inspired in his attempts for the throne of England by a sincere religious enthusiasm that warred with his natural desire for tranquility. But Miss Yeo is so persuasive an advocate and weaves so delicately the web of romance, that we are willing, for the time being, to yield our judgment to hers, and to enjoy for its own sake a very charming story."

+ Spec 142:61 Ja 12 '29 130w

Times [London] Lit Sup p334 Ap 25 '29 420w

YERKES, ROBERT MEARNS, and YERKES, MRS ADA (WATTERSON). Great apes; a study of anthropoid life. 652p il $10 Yale univ. press [45s Milford]

599.88 Apes. Psychology, Comparative
29-18079

Psychobiological studies of the anthropoid apes: the gibbon, the orang-outan, the chimpanzee and the gorilla. An introductory outline of historical material and research on the subject of the great apes opens the volume. A separate consideration of each anthropoid type follows, with the material arranged under various topics, such as habits and life history, receptivity and adaptivity, mode of life, captivity and diseases, temperament and speech, etc. A large part of the book is concerned with studies and experimental tests of the intelligence of the orang-outan, chimpanzee and gorilla, made by the authors and by other authorities. At the close appears a synoptic comparison of anthropoid apes, extensive bibliography, and index.

---

Booklist 26:108 D '29

"Dr. Yerkes has made his book eminently readable. It can be divided into two phases in considering this quality: the quotations from other writers, and Dr. Yerkes's own narrative. He has drawn upon travelers, explorers and writers from Marco Polo down and has made sharp comment on their contributions. There are curious and amusing passages in these quoted contributions. . . The greatest book on the subject ever written, it is also continuously fascinating—an achievement that approaches the incredible." W. A. M.

+ Boston Transcript p4 N 2 '29 850w

"The Yerkes set out to write an objective historical account summarizing the world's present knowledge of anthropoid life, but, fortunately for science, they soon began to mix critical and original writing with the historical and objective points of view in the manuscript. If you want to get a clear and fair summary of our present knowledge of the manlike apes spend $10 on this volume. It is cheap at that price, with its profusion of excellent photographs supplementing the text." Gregory Mason

N Y Times p13 D 29 '29 1000w

"To speak first of an exceedingly rare merit, this book is punctuated as though punctuation were really a handmaiden of composition, whose function is to help in the expression of thought, instead of—as most modern printed matter suggests—a handful of characters to be scattered around among words, preferably where they will trip up the reader and impede his comprehension. I suspect that the punctuation as well as the index, is 'author-made.' As for matter—an amateur in this field can only testify that wherever he opens the book he finds such fascinating reading that it requires self-restraint not to go on to the end." E: T. Devine

+ Outlook 153:671 D 25 '29 500w

"Professor and Mrs. Yerkes have produced the most important treatise on the great apes that has yet been written, if it be remembered that anatomy, to which they refer only incidentally, has been sufficiently described in an abundant literature. Their object is psychology in the widest sense. . . No one with any training in experimental psychology can read Professor Yerkes's treatise without realizing that the mental make-up of the apes differs in kind, not merely in degree, from that of any other mammal except man. No one who has read the book should fail to use any opportunities he may have for making exact experimental observations, and so add to knowledge instead of to anecdotage."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p1019 D 5 '29 550w

YODER, FRED ROY. Introduction to agricultural economics. (Crowell's social science ser.) 472p $3 Crowell

630.973 Agriculture—Economic aspects. Agriculture—United States
29-8269

A brief history of the development of American agriculture precedes a discussion of farm population and land as a factor in agricultural production. Farm credit, farm labor, management, marketing, agriculture and the tariff, and farmers' movements are among the topics considered.

---

"It fails to knit itself into any stout fabric of logically consistent and factually adequate analysis of current agricultural problems. . . Professor Yoder has made an industrious sifting of the literature of agricultural economics. No great originality or penetration into the essential problems which have emerged out of the rapidly changing conditions of the industry is apparent." E. G. Nourse

— Am Econ R 19:674 D '29 480w

"The two good points of the work are its comprehensiveness and its simplicity of presentation."

+ Am J Soc 35:521 N '29 100w

"Professor Yoder has a style which is exceptionally clear and simple. His material is well selected and well organized, considering the present somewhat vague status of agricultural economics." J. E. Boyle

+ Pol Sci Q 44:476 S '29 770w

Wis Lib Bul 25:192 Je '29

YONGE, CHARLES MAURICE. Queer fish; essays on marine science and other aspects of biology. (Science for you) 193p $2.50 Brentano's [5s Routledge]

591.92 Marine fauna. Marine biology. Fisheries
29-22326

"Why herring are more abundant in cold years than in warm; the mystery of the oyster pearl; the uncanny ability of the 'shipworm' to eat wood; how to farm oysters and to sterilize mussels—these and other subsea topics Mr. Yonge discusses, combining the fresh fruits of research with the honored tradition of British essay-writing."—Nation

---

"Commendably up to date, as well as excellently adapted to certain needs of navigation and commerce on the one hand and to the requirements of all who study oceanography on the other."

+ Boston Transcript p2 Ap 13 '29 400w

Nation 128:772 Je 26 '29 40w

"Dr. Yonge's book is essentially a reprint of articles that have appeared in periodicals, and this has led to an undue amount of repetition. This perhaps is better than self-contradiction; but surely some revision of hastily written sentences might have been attempted, for Dr. Yonge's style is often far from attaining the lucidity which his publishers claim for it."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p227 Mr 21 '29 720w

YOST, CASPER SALATHIEL. Quest of God; a journalist's view of the bases of religious faith. 155p $1.50 Revell

231 God 29-13570

"Scientific knowledge, religious experience and theological history all supply the evidence by which he proves, in logical sequence, the reality of God, the divinity of Jesus and the immortality of man. Science, he asserts, marvelous as it has shown itself to be, must bow to a power higher than itself—the power that created it."—Boston Transcript

---

"As chief editorial writer of a great newspaper, Mr. Yost knows how to write; he has read widely, yet thought much for himself, and he is moved by a genuine desire to convey reverently and convincingly to others, especially to the questioning youth of our time, the faith which he has found. This book will create no sensation, and will not be long remembered. But it has its place, and will do its work." J: H. Holmes

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 S 8 '29 120w

"Man consciously or subconsciously, reflects in his words some shade of belief, and Mr. Yost's book is therefore colored by his own religious feeling. He has, nevertheless, tried to be fair to all sides, and has come nearer, in his little volume, to reconciling scientific and religious belief to the satisfaction of 'Main Street' than many of his contemporaries." J. C. G.

+ Boston Transcript p5 Jl 20 '29 420w

Christian Century 56:1040 Ag 21 '29 50w

"Mr. Yost's appeal is almost wholly intellectual. In the natural world about him he sees law and design and purpose, and behind them he sees divine will. Man is the flower product of this divine will, and man's life is a 'means of soul making.' " Byron Darnton

N Y Evening Post p7m Jl 20 '29 200w

"It is a personal statement that Mr Yost presents, but one fortified with the results of much meditative reading in philosophy, biology and the literature of religion."

Springf'd Republican p8 Ag 13 '29 250w

YOUNG, ARTHUR. On my way. 303p il $4 Liveright

B or 92 28-25384

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Booklist 25:163 Ja '29

"His book is a delight and one to keep by for reading at any hour. Written as a diary it can be read anywhere; but nowhere without finding something to charm and to uplift." E. L. Masters

+ Bookm 68:595 Ja '29 970w

Cleveland Open Shelf p62 Ap '29

"On My Way is a series of marginal notes on life, as trenchant and illuminating as the drawings which have taken shape under the same hand."

+ Dial 86:166 F '29 100w

"The text of the book, necessarily, lacks the relief of Art Young's drawings. It is more interesting when we read it through than any of the notes might appear separately. And though his sketches of celebrities sometimes seem to us perfunctory, they have at others a force of under-emphasis." Edmund Wilson

New Repub 57:217 Ja 9 '29 1250w

"In addition to the literary value of his sincere book, there are many of his own inimitable drawings to make it more valuable." Herschel Brickell

+ No Am 227:adv Ja '29 150w

St Louis 27:169 My '29

Springf'd Republican p12 Ja 17 '29 220w

YOUNG, ARTHUR MORGAN. Japan in recent times, 1912-1926. 347p $3.50 Morrow

952 Japan—Politics and government. Japan —History. European war, 1914-1918—Japan 29-26885

"No Occidental, resident in Japan for any length of time, escapes a knowledge of the Japan Chronicle—the provocative, independent Kobe daily ranked by Dean Walter Williams as among the hundred best newspapers of the world. In 'Japan in Recent Times' Mr. Young, the editor of the Chronicle since 1922, gathers into a connected story the gist of many of his editorials. The story of Japan's intervention in Siberia, its course in China, its Korean and Formosan policies, the growth of labor unionism, the spread of virulent anti-alienism in certain quarters, the political imbroglios, the incredible 'earthquake rumors' that led to massacres of helpless Koreans and of labor leaders by murderers who became popular heroes . . . are all told either for the first time to Western readers or told in more complete detail."—Nation

---

Boston Transcript p2 S 21 '29 300w

Reviewed by H. E. Wildes

Nation 129:446 O 16 '29 350w

"General readers will find Mr. Young's book all that The Japan Chronicle's veteran record for candor, fearlessness and fairness promises . . . In the making of the Japanese nation these have been crucial years, and they are nowhere more understandable or more intriguing than in these ruthless but inwardly profoundly sympathetic pages." Gardner Harding

+ N Y Times p11 O 20 '29 1400w

YOUNG, EDWARD DRUMMOND. Art of the photographer. (New art lib.) 154p il $6 Lippincott [21s Seeley, S.]

770 Photography

A practical guide for professional photographers on the technique of producing, by camera, not only a good photograph, but a work of art. The author devotes special chapters to an analysis of lenses, types of cameras, development, printing, studios, lighting, composition, landscape, architecture, mounting and framing, etc.

---

"This is a very good and practical book for photographers. . . Mr. Young is a skilled painter as well as a photographer, and he writes with a full sense of the limitation of photography as well as with enthusiasm. The book is illustrated by 140 photographs which add a great deal to the text."

+ New Statesman 34:276 N 30 '29 200w

"It is a thoroughly practical book, with little or no airing of theories, but with constant attention to how and why each process and phase of the work must be done to achieve the desired result."

+ N Y Times p45 D 8 '29 380w

"To those who desire to import artistic methods into photography Mr. Young's book will be of real value. On such subjects as exposure, development, printing, lighting, composition and retouching he has much sound advice to offer, and there is a particularly interesting chapter on landscapes."

+ Sat R 148:650 N 30 '29 160w

YOUNG, ELLA. Tangle-coated horse, and other tales; episodes from the Fionn saga. 186p il $3.50 Longmans

398 Folklore—Ireland 29-20253

Collection of tales from the saga of Fionn, the Gaelic hero, in which figure the shaggy coated horse who carried the friends of Fionn to the Land-Under-Wave, and Bran and Sgeolaum, and many others from Gaelic folklore.

---

Booklist 26:76 N '29

"Here is a great book by a great story-teller. You enter it by the gate of an amusing, friendly, childish title. You are lured on by the author's foreword, telling you how all Irishmen love Fionn McCool. The first story makes a fine, swift-moving, adventurous beginning. So we are embarked on the life of a hero whose tale, with all the allied tales of his comrades, makes an epic of a great day, of a dream country whose heroes have shaped the heroism of Irishmen ever since." Louise Seaman

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p11 N 17 '29 950w

"There is magic for us in this author's style; she captures for us the spirit of Irish poetry, and we hope, with her, that these tales which are on the lips of the children of Gaelic-speaking Scotland and all parts of Ireland, will soon be likewise loved by our American children. Vera Brock's illustrations in black and white have caught the somewhat epic spirit of the book."

+ Cath World 130:376 D '29 220w

Cleveland Open Shelf p133 N '29

"This collection of episodes from the saga of Fionn is full of the glamor of fine folk-lore and has the fascination of a true hero tale. It is told in spirited and poetic prose."

+ Nation 129:600 N 20 '29 80w

"A more exquisite handling of this 'oldest and strangest of the Gaelic sagas' would be hard to find. Besides the versions by Standish O'Grady and Lady Gregory, to which she has referred, Miss Young has gone back to Campbell's old tales and those of MacInnis and Kennedy, all wonderful source material." Muriel Fuller

+ N Y World p11m N 3 '29 300w

St Louis 27:316 N '29

Springf'd Republican p12 D 20 '29 100w

YOUNG, ERIC BRETT. Dancing Beggars. 302p $2 Lippincott [7s 6d Hutchinson]

29-26573

Bentley is murdered in a village on the Cornwall coast. Bootlegging and smuggling among the reefs called the Dancing Beggars, enter into the plot but the mystery hinges on the psychological relation between two women, mother and daughter, the latter beloved of the local clergyman who tells the tale.

---

"Mr. Young's characters are credible, his sleuthing competent and his secret sufficient, the sum total amounting to a bargain in gentle mystery, genus sane." Will Cuppy

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p10 Jl 7 '29 110w

"Here is a story, otherwise unusually well told, packed with incidents and real people, which is spoiled by the impossibility of conjecturing the motive for its crime or of suspecting the person who commits it."

+ — New Statesman 33:26 Ap 13 '29 90w

"It is the clergyman, the Rev. John Gosling, who tells the story, and the author manages, through him, to reveal the various characters so clearly as to engage the reader's interest quite aside from the mystery in which those characters are involved."

+ N Y Times p16 Je 30 '29 150w

"This is one of those irritating stories which are perfectly reasonable until you come to the explanation. We just don't believe the murder was done in that way, nor for that motive. Otherwise, well written." W. R. Brooks

+ — Outlook 152:393 Jl 3 '29 60w

" 'Dancing Beggars' is considerably more than a good detective story . . . it is a good novel."

+ Sat R of Lit 5:1181 Jl 13 '29 230w

Times [London] Lit Sup p297 Ap 11 '29 150w

YOUNG, FRANCIS BRETT. Black roses. 325p $2.50 Harper [7s 6d Heinemann]

29-19252

Of English and Italian parentage, Paul Ritchie spent his boyhood in an Italian village. His father wished him to become a doctor, but Paul had a consuming desire to be an artist. So he left his family and went to Naples to study art. Here he fell in love with Cristina, the woman who cared for his rooms, while he earned a living making parchment-covered boxes. Then the cholera attacked Naples. During the plague and his own illness, Paul lost track of Cristina, but years later, as a successful artist, he fondly thought of her whenever he recalled his youth in Naples.

---

Booklist 26:73 N '29

"Black Roses lives up to its title: it is exotic, melodramatic, extravagant, sentimental. Cristina is a plausible and touching character; but Paul's love for her seems insufficiently motivated. Mr. Brett Young is skilful in creating a decadent atmosphere."

+ — Bookm 70:313 N '29 280w

"There is a suggestion of conscious, almost tortured, writing, unnatural turns of expression, unusual words, a straining for effect. The sureness of touch characteristic of 'My Brother Jonathan' is lost, the easy swinging simplicity born of self-assurance. And one regrets, too, that in this overtense tale there is little or no opportunity for one of Mr. Young's most charming qualities, the quiet, slow, but pricking humor which made his last novel so rich." Thayer Hobson

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p34 S 29 '29 920w

"Dr. Brett Young's portrait of the artist is, unfortunately, not sufficiently complete—it is here and in a certain awkwardness in the use of an inverted method of story telling that 'Black Roses' falls short of excellence—but the peasant girl is a triumph of character drawing." J. F. S.

— + Boston Transcript p2 O 16 '29 430w

Cleveland Open Shelf p143 N '29

Reviewed by L. L. Irvine

Nation and Ath 45:830 S 28 '29 80w

"Though consistently enjoyable, [the book] is at its best when his theme is most prosaic, when he is writing of the bleak upland village where his protagonist, a boy of mixed parentage, half English and half Italian, had been reared—of the peasants at work among the terraced vineyards, the dark chemists' shop where the local politicians meet to argue." P. Q.

+ New Statesman 33:782 O 5 '29 140w

"It is proof of the craftsmanship of Francis Brett Young that in his latest novel he has, without romanticizing his characters, without hiding any of their disloyalties, revulsions, suspicions and meannesses, imparted to the story of their love a quality of touching innocence: a quality enhanced by its almost lurid background." Malcolm Logan

+ N Y Evening Post p6m S 28 '29 560w

"Dr. Young has related his touching and compassionate story of the lovers—exalted above the squalor of Naples—with an accompaniment of terror. The story rises above the romantic fable into a dramatic novel of compelling emotional power. The great moments of Paul's life—which are to fill the rest of his days with indelible memory—are presented with real vitality."

+ N Y Times p6 O 6 '29 720w

"From a title which is not quite cheap to a climax which is not quite convincing 'Black Roses' follows a tantalizing midway which never varies enough on the one hand to make it tawdry, on the other to make it exquisite."

— + N Y World p11m D 1 '29 220w

" 'Black Roses' is not Mr. Brett Young at his best. It exemplifies many of his qualities, his command of language, his fairness of outlook, his ability to unite sense and sensibility, his power to charge with poetry and attitude towards life robust almost to the point of being 'hearty.' But he has not succeeded in giving unity to his conception, and the book fails of its ultimate effect." L. P. Hartley

— + Sat R 148:355 S 28 '29 280w

Reviewed by V. S. Pritchett

Spec 143:504 O 12 '29 200w

"The book is well planned and executed. It is a simple story and vividly told and has none of the author's philosophies incorporated."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 29 '29 400w

YOUNG, F. B.—Continued

"This situation is one that might tempt an author to melodrama, but Mr. Brett Young does better than that. The last few chapters move rapidly with an effect of increasing suspense, but the climax, however terrible, does not offend our sense of probability. It is all admirably done with a fine feeling for the atmosphere of Southern Italy."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p764 O 3 '29 450w

YOUNG, FRANCIS BRETT. My brother Jonathan. 437p $3 Knopf [10s 6d Heinemann]

28-23467

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Booklist 25:168 Ja '29

"It is all substantial, massive and careful. The prose is simple and solid. There is nothing empty and hollow in the book except Edie and Harold; but the unfortunate surprise about it all is that with its positive qualities it is dull." Margery Latimer

+ — N Y World p11m D 2 '28 440w

Pratt p38 winter '29

Reviewed by Gladys Graham

Sat R of Lit 5:660 F 9 '29 280w

YOUNG, JOAN FRANCES. Yellow primrose. 348p $2.50 (7s 6d) Longmans

[28-21494]

After the war Lesnewth tries to continue the development of his farm estate in Cornwall, but post-war conditions make it difficult. Estranged from his wife Lesnewth has fallen in love with a girl of the country. In this affair too he is frustrated; he sells out and goes to Colorado where there is a hope that Ebbot, refusing a sturdy farmer, may follow him.

"Such [as outlined] seems to be the story, but in the maze of tangled sentences and three-page paragraphs it is hard to be sure."

— Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p17 F 10 '29 200w

"It is a sad and rather sombre tale, with little light of joy or hope to relieve it, but if one wants to live again those years of war, here is a book that will bring them back with realism and truth."

+ Boston Transcript p5 D 29 '28 280w

" 'The Yellow Primrose' remains, in spite of some very fine writing, an uneven and vaguely disappointing book."

— + N Y Times p7 D 16 '28 420w

" 'The Yellow Primrose' falls short of its intent but remains interesting as an expression of one type of reaction—and a very honest one—to war and postwar social and psychological problems."

— + Sat R of Lit 5:630 Ja 26 '29 180w

"An extreme solidity is the distinguishing mark of the characters in The Yellow Primrose. One would say that they are conceived not completely in the round, but rather as forms in deep relief; such is the effect of the combination of quiet, rather heavy figures and a background from which they cannot be detached. . . Stubbornly the characters work out their fate; and a little stubbornly Miss Young co-operates; but any unnecessary weightiness in her writing is atoned for by the profound, the vital sincerity of her basic ideas."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p78 Ja 31 '29 480w

YOUNG, STARK. River house. 304p $2.50 Scribner

29-19515

A conflict of wills between a father, Major Dandridge of the old South, and his son John, of the present day. Into the pleasant home of his fathers, where lived his stern father and his charming elderly spinster aunts, John brought his wife Evelyn, also of the new South. But there was enough of the spirit of a former age even in the young people to make the conflict a vital one. So John departed once more from the home he loved, and Evelyn followed him.

Booklist 26:122 D '29

"Mr. Young shows the charm of the quiet eventless Southern existence as well as its tedium. But its charm is not very robust, and the dialogue (there is a great deal) often becomes wearisome. The characters are stilted and do not seem made of flesh and blood; a soporific old-rose glow spreads over everything." G. T. Hellman

— Bookm 70:313 N '29 350w

"Mr. Young's new novel, with its background an old house in a little Mississippi town not yet wholly engulfed by the rising tides of change, is a distinguished and notable addition to his interpretation of the peculiar culture of the South which he began in a charming genré study, 'Heaven Trees,' and continued in his second novel, 'The Torches Flare.' . . His rare combination of emotional and intellectual understanding results in a sort of spiritual realism, a quality with which 'River House' glows in every page." Herschel Brickell

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 O 20 '29 1000w

"Mr. Young's service is considerable. Let the stately pageants of the traditional South, and the modern 'exposes' of the Southern Babbitt go on. The garden gates of River House have been opened to us; we go in gladly, and we hate to leave." G. K.

+ Boston Transcript p2 O 2 '29 950w

Cleveland Open Shelf p157 D '29

"The book is too long; much of it is unnecessary repetition; two of the characters might be omitted without any loss resulting; yet the virtues of the book outweigh its faults. The picture is full and provocative. The dialogue and the use of the dialogue to portray character and create impressions are excellent. Moreover, Mr. Young exhibits an attitude that is rare among American authors: he writes of sentimental people without either an emotional or an intellectual bias, without satire or solicitation."

+ — Nation 129:782 D 25 '29 180w

"Though several characters barely escape settling into the mold of types, the author has managed to present an acute complexity of tender family relations. But the book is injured by the joiner's work of dictated situations. Most of the action is as evidently bare invention as the characters are rich imagination; the two logics do not groove." Vincent McHugh

— + N Y Evening Post p11m O 19 '29 800w

"Mr. Young is known primarily as a critic of the theatre. It is perhaps a very fine tribute to his abilities as a novelist that one feels no imperative while reading 'River House' to furbish up the old objection to critics' novels: that they are not sufficiently creative to be good literature. In fact, it is only too apparent that Mr. Young's real province is fiction, that his ability as a creater is superior to his ability as a critic. For it is sensitivity that is his forte, not analysis. 'River House' makes that plain."

+ N Y Times p6 O 13 '29 900w

"It is difficult to think of any quality in Stark Young which should encourage him to continue writing novels. His slow-muted style reduces all of life to a single beat and a single tone and empowers him with presentation of extremely limited situations. . . Stark Young is telling us a story which can neither interest nor convince because he himself has merely heard about it and never lived through any part of it." Emanuel Eisenberg

— N Y World p11m O 27 '29 500w

"This is Stark Young's third distinguished novel. Each one has shown definite growth, and in 'River House' he has reached his full stride as a novelist. There is mellowness in both writing and thought. It is a fascinating picture of Southern life, a novel of first rank, a mature and civilized book." Lyle Saxon

+ Sat R of Lit 6:520 D 7 '29 850w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 22 '29 400w

YOUNGHUSBAND, SIR FRANCIS EDWARD. Coming country; a pre-vision. 309p $3 Dutton [7s 6d J. Murray]

Mr Younghusband's utopian romance tells how the whole life of the village of Holm in Ourownland was made over on new levels of peace and happiness by a small group of idealists under the guidance of a young man named Golden Promyss and his aunt Vera Love. Other characters in the allegory bear such names as Clere Lyte, Gay Kurridge and Percy Veerhance.

" 'The Coming Country' is about as abstruse a work as 'Peter Pan' or 'The Blue Bird,' and its archaic quality is not entirely of idiom and form. It is old fashioned in content, too. But it is made appealing and sweet by the author's naïve earnestness and his unbounded faith that love conquers all." Florence Haxton

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Ap 28 '29 700w

"Though the various elements in modern civilization tending to crowd out religion are ably presented, there is too little originality in the remedy which is developed to fire the reader's imagination. On the other hand a great deal of food for reflection, many an ingenious thought and new recognition of the strength and beauty in the life of that Man of Galilee who once preached the gospel of love and tolerance and growth, can be found in this modern allegory of The Coming Country."

— + Boston Transcript p5 Mr 16 '29 250w

"Mr. Younghusband approaches dangerously close to the border-line of sermonizing, and in other places he dwells upon things religious at a length and with a fervor which will not prove to the liking of every reader; but even his worst faults are condoned by his sincerity, and the reader will find that, in spite of an occasional uninviting stretch, the book on the whole is thoughtful, provocative and decidedly individual in its manner of presentation."

+ — N Y Times p18 Mr 24 '29 360w

Spec 141:993 D 29 '28 250w

"The narrative is by no means clumsy and is written with real depth of feeling. Sir Francis does his best to be fair, but his own enthusiasm blocks his way to an appreciation of the real quality of modern religious doubt."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p1028 D 27 '28 220w.

YOUTH'S COMPANION (periodical). Girl of Tiptop, and other stories; selected by Wilhelmina Harper. 332p il $2 Little

29-9297

"These stories selected from the Youth's Companion deal with girls in different kinds of crises. Girls from East and West meet and difficult adjustments are made. A mad race on skiis down the hillside saves a life. Judy secretly conquers Hammerhead, the outlaw horse. Beatrice rouses the town to the need of a new hospital."—Wis Lib Bul

Booklist 25:399 J1 '29

Boston Transcript p6 Je 1 '29 220w

Wis Lib Bul 25:326 O '29

YOUTZ, PHILIP NEWELL. Sounding stones of architecture. 256p $2.50 Norton

720.1 Architecture 29-8826

Here architecture is defined as a visual aspect of history, as a tool to create civilization. Succeeding chapters deal with the science of structure, the choice of materials, the evolution of style, and the aesthetic enjoyment of architecture.

Am J Soc 35:520 N '29 100w

Booklist 26:109 D '29

Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p20 Je 2 '29 80w

"The attempt to butter his subject with the quaint and picturesque antagonizes adult intelligence and leaves the barbarian comfortably certain that art and intellectualism are diseased afflictions. If one perseveres beyond these obstacles one learns that Mr. Youtz's views are enlightened if not original. . . If—to fall into the book's own jargon—it were sweated clear of its billowing fatty tissues of language, down to the clean anatomical structure, this volume would prove a sensible resume of the aims and merits of good architecture." Edgar Johnson

— + N Y Evening Post p7m Jl 20 '29 350w

" 'Sounding Stones' is not a book from which an architect will draw much benefit in its recital of things that are commonplaces to him—though it presents them in a cultivated, if at times a somewhat rhapsodical style. For the layman, however, it is a work of real value. It will not only give him a survey of the evolutions of architecture, but will warm his imagination, make him feel the play of a human spirit in all that building art is achieving today, and will suffuse architecture with a new synthetical significance." Uffington Valentine

+ N Y Times p5 My 26 '29 1750w

"The book deserves praise for its literary excellence. The author is not afraid to write with enthusiasm and eloquence, yet the style, though marred by an occasional superfluous phrase or clause, is, on the whole, precise and compact. 'Sounding Stones' should take an honorable place in the small company of books that includes 'Sticks and Stones' and 'The Stones of Venice.' " Oakley Johnson

+ — N Y World p7m Jl 7 '29 1000w

"Mr. Youtz sums up in a stimulating way, with a notable freedom from technical verbiage, the philosophy of architecture. Through his eyes the layman comes to see the subject in its broader relationships." W: B. Shaw

R of Rs 80:18 S '29 170w

"Mr Youtz has thought much and feelingly about this art, and his generalizations, though apparently introduced at times for the sake of broadening the appeal of his subject, are for the most part discerning and pregnant. Considered as an example of exposition, Mr Youtz's book might have been bettered if he had oftener used physical examples rather than suggestive ideas as illustrations of the principles he is analyzing. Though he aims to be simple, the method of aphoristic definition into which he falls assumes an instructed audience. The bypaths, disclosing a well-nourished and sensitive mind, sometimes lead into the realm of abstract esthetics or philosophy."

+ — Springf'd Republican p6 My 6 '29 560w

"As nearly as may be he sees the subject whole, and in all its relations. We do not always agree with him in detail, but we have found his book very stimulating and suggestive."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p719 S 19 '29 1000w

Z

ZAGORSKII, SEMEN OSIPOVICH. State control of industry in Russia during the war. (Carnegie endowment for int. peace. Division of economics and hist. Economic and social hist. of the world war. Russian ser.) 351p $4 Yale univ. press [18s Oxford]

330.947 Industry and state. Russia—Industries. Russia—Economic conditions. European war, 1914-1918—Economic aspects

28-25442

"Professor Zagorsky prefaces his study of state control of industry during the war by a brief sketch of Russian industry before the war and a survey of the conditions brought about by the war which adversely affected industry, such as the isolation of Russia from the world market, the disorganization of railway transport, the deterioration of the labor supply, inflation and general rise in prices, etc.

ZAGORSKII, S. O.—Continued
He then examines the various organs through which the government exercised control of industry and sketches the evolution of state regulation of several of the most important branches of industry—metal, fuel, textile, and leather."—Am Hist R

"In the concluding chapter, probably the best in the book, the author endeavors to arrive at an estimate of the results of state regulation of industry in Russia during the war. He sets forth very lucidly the various factors influencing state control which make it impossible to pass any general judgment on Russian economic policy during the war. . . While Professor Zagorsky's treatise is intended primarily for the specialist, his discussion and analysis of economic conditions and developments during the war deserve the attention of the general student of Russian affairs."
+ Am Hist R 34:604 Ap '29 380w

Reviewed by Simon Kuznets
Pol Sci Q 44:267 Je '29 1000w

ZAMACOIS, EDUARDO. Roots; tr. from the Spanish. 342p $2.50 Viking press
29-22807

A Spanish novel with the Cain and Abel motif. The story concerns two brothers, Manuel Santoyo, materialist and lover of earth, and Leandro, poetic and visionary. Manuel hates his brother and, fearing lest Leandro succeed in obtaining his share of the inheritance, murders him.

Boston Transcript p3 Ja 4 '30 300w

"This is the first novel of Zamacois to be done into English, but the barely adequate translation is powerless to lessen the strong pulse of the original. The form of 'Roots' is roughly but truly hewn out with a legendary and barbaric stroke which embraces entire a fierce people in their fierce, glinting province. No book of brawnier stature has come out of Spain in our generation." Vincent McHugh
+ N Y Evening Post p11m D 28 '29 500w

"This is one of the most important contributions to belles-lettres we have had from Spain since the war. It is a book that places Zamacois easily in the rank of Galsworthy, Gide and the half dozen other living masters of the novel." Drake de Kay
+ N Y Times p8 D 1 '29 650w

"The atmosphere is strikingly similar to that of 'Desire Under the Elms'. That 'Roots' does not make so profound an impression as 'Desire Under the Elms' is partly because, to Anglo-Saxon readers at least, it seems a little overwritten, not in the style, but in the whole design. There are too many revolting incidents intended to show that the Spaniard avenges an injury upon the part that gave it; the chorus in the cafe labor their points too much. But the difference in effect is more because of the different heroes. Leandro, who wants only something different from his surroundings, is, like most undetermined idealists in fiction, rather hard to visualize, still more to compassionate. But Leandro is the only vague figure in a brutally vivid and absorbing book. 'Roots' should find many readers in this country." Basil Davenport
+ — Sat R of Lit 6:557 D 14 '29 620w

ZANKOV, STEFAN. Eastern orthodox church; tr. and ed. by Donald A. Lowrie. 168p $2.25 Morehouse [5s Student]
281.9 Greek church

Dr Zankov, rector of the Theological academy of Sofia, Bulgaria, delivered six addresses at the University of Berlin on the subject of the Orthodox church. The present volume is the embodiment of these lectures, translated.

"The book is a thoughtful, careful interpretation of what the Eastern Orthodox church is, does, stands for and believes, by one of its own leaders."
+ Boston Transcript p3 N 30 '29 320w

"As a series of lectures delivered in German to a Lutheran audience it would in any case have been noteworthy, and, though the writer is led to assume a larger measure of agreement in sentiment and doctrine than in fact exists, that does not detract from its importance as a statement of his own position and that of the Church to which he belongs. . . Mr. Lowrie's version may be accepted as leaving a fairly accurate impression of what the Bulgarian Professor intended."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p799 O 10 '29 370w

ZEITLIN, IDA. King's pleasure. 230p il $4 Harper
Legends—Serbia 29-25612

Stories containing the legendary history of the Serbian people. Among the tales retold are those of Michael the drunkard; of beautiful Rosanda, buried alive; and of the great Basil, who defeated the Bulgars and made himself ruler of Illyria.

Boston Transcript p5 Ja 4 '30 100w

Reviewed by Francis Snow
Current Hist 31:632 Ja '30 40w

"Miss Zeitlin has done a remarkable job in the retelling of these legends. There is a brave flourish in the grand style to her story-telling, the rich, clamorous movement of life, a fine flair for ornament and imagery, and all infused with a warm sense of color and informed with an imagination that makes her stories very enjoyable reading. 'King's Pleasure' may safely be recommended as one of the most fascinating books of its kind, and should take its place alongside of the equally fine books of Padraic Colum's on the Greek and Nordic lore." Edwin Seaver
+ N Y Evening Post p7s Ja 4 '30 230w

"It is an extraordinary world, with laws, honors, taboos and a system of ethics all its own. Miss Zeitlin has told of it in the language of some imaginative and gifted peasant storyteller of that far-off time." Allan Nevins
+ N Y World p10m D 15 '29 320w

ZEITLIN, JACOB, and WOODBRIDGE, HOMER EDWARDS. Life and letters of Stuart P. Sherman. 2v 880p $10 Farrar & Rinehart
B or 92 Sherman, Stuart Pratt

A two-volume biography that includes the selected letters of Stuart Sherman to his friends and associates. Volume one begins with the famous critic's early childhood in Iowa, in California, and in an Arizona mining town with friends of his parents. His high school and college days follow, and his professorship at the University of Illinois. The remainder of the volume takes him from his critical work on the Evening post and the Nation to the close of the War. Volume two opens with Sherman at the height of his career as teacher and critic, culminating with the publication of "My Dear Cornelia." Then, his resignation from the University of Illinois to become editor of Books of The New York Herald Tribune. Letters to his son John, and to his associates on Books, end with his sudden death in 1926. There is an extensive bibliography.

"The mass of material forced on his biographers must have been enormous, but they have displayed remarkable organizing ability, and futhermore have told the story with lucidity and charm. Minor faults are almost impossible to discover. It must be added, however, that the work has a major fault for which we are given no explanation: in spite of the frequent use of diaries, letters, and personal knowledge, Sherman's life is told almost entirely from the outside. . . To be told nothing of what went on in his mind during his two critical periods—namely, when he acquired a philosophy and when he changed it—leaves the reader baffled, and wondering whether essential material has not been omitted."
+ — Bookm 70:289 N '29 5500w

"The book that Professors Zeitlin and Woodbridge have composed, with an ardent devotion to their subject nicely tempered by balanced judgment, gives the impression of being a work of severe condensation. It is large because it deals with a man of Johnsonian amplitude and vigor. If he was not the clearest visioned critic of his generation, he was at least engaged in the most pressing work that criticism in America could find to do." G: F. Whicher

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p1 O 13 '29 1700w

"The book contains a charming portrait of an eager man; it explains his stand on all matters; it describes his critical points of view; it is, because it is about Stuart Sherman, an able dissertation of American criticism during the first quarter of the twentieth century." K: Schriftgiesser

+ Boston Transcript p10 O 26 '29 2000w

"Messrs. Zeitlin and Woodbridge have produced the indispensable book about Stuart Sherman; but in addition they have written a book which is readable in its own right, a book which tells a rich and moving story with fulness yet with art, with loyalty not only to the subject as a person but to the discipline of the profession which he practiced. I have heard complaints that the book is too detailed and that the authors of it have been too zealous in the defense of their subject against every petty attack made upon him. The second charge is probably just, though the error would be pardonable; the first is certainly not so. No detail was to me uninteresting, which I suppose is the test in such matters." Mark Van Doren

+ Nation 129:675 D 4 '29 2050w

Reviewed by F. O. Matthiessen

New Repub 61:113 D 18 '29 1600w

"The best reading in the 'Life and Letters of Stuart P. Sherman' is the correspondence with his college and professorial friends, with those astute literary advisors, Paul Elmer More, Irving Babbitt and W. C. Brownell; with his students, with his mother and his son, with anybody, in fact, to whom he had occasion to write. Zest and humor went into these epistles." G. B. Munson

+ N Y Evening Post p10m O 12 '29 1300w

"One wishes that his biographers had not been so zealously partisan, so eager to confute all who differed with their friend, and that they had omitted much unnecessary detail. But theirs was a work well worth doing, a valuable record for those who would study the intellectual currents of American life."

+ — N Y Times p1 N 3 '29 1150w

"They are large volumes, not far from a thousand pages; but they are not a page too long. They contain one of the most interesting and provocative of recent literary biographies; they offer material which goes to the heart of some of the most vital issues in American social and critical thought since 1910, and they will explain to that large body of people who will read biographical narrative and letters, but will not read literary essays, just why it was that Sherman rose steadily on the American intellectual horizon until, at the time of his death, he loomed up as one of the most powerful thinkers in his own field since Emerson and Lowell." Allan Nevins

+ N Y World p10m O 13 '29 1800w

Reviewed by Harry Hansen

N Y World p14 D 16 '29 1000w

"Sherman is articulate in these letters as in his closely packed, meticulously phrased essays he never quite became beyond the limits of a brilliant sentence or flushed and eloquent paragraph. In his letters, he is openly the romantic and defiantly the idealist. . . The great service of this 'Life and Letters' is to reconstruct the story of Emerson's 'American scholar,' come alive, in our own day, an experience more vivid in its intellectual ardors, and I think more significant, than any novel Sherman might have written." H: S. Canby

+ Sat R of Lit 6:201 O 5 '29 5800w

"The volumes not only are a substantial memorial to a man of brilliant gifts, whose personal life had many interesting and attractive phases, but they also reflect the conflicts and changes of a somewhat bewildering era in America's literary and intellectual development."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e O 20 '29 850w

"To those readers who may wish to understand, either now or fifty years from now, the actual university atmosphere and literary conditions of the United States during the first quarter of the twentieth century, the 'Life and Letters' of Stuart Sherman affords a document of unique significance. It is more, too, than a document for historians; it is a most intimate record of a fascinating personality." Bliss Perry

+ Yale R n s 19:386 winter '30 1950w

ZEROMSKI, STEFAN. Ashes; tr. from the Polish by Helen Stankiewicz Zand. 2v 758p $6 Knopf

28-23664

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

"The writer who created this huge, sprawling historical romance of the Napoleonic invasion of Poland had passion and sincerity and a national feeling that occasionally gives his incredible prose a quality of rhetorical grandeur. . . Ashes has no more form or organization than a crazy quilt but is heartily recommended to all those fond of eight hundred pages of assorted fireworks." C. P. Fadiman

— + Bookm 68:588 Ja '29 200w

"Zeromski is well known and admired in his native Poland; and this translation should go far to establish his reputation in America. Let us hope that no one will be dismayed by the formidable length of his book: this reader, for one, could have wished it longer—as indeed it was in the original, by an entire volume." T. S. Matthews

+ New Repub 57:356 F 13 '29 250w

"In this American translation Ashes is difficult to read and even to admire." G. W. S.

— New Statesman 33:16 Ap 13 '29 180w

"It is a work which in all probability will remain among the great epics of all times." Karsten Roedder

+ N Y World p11m Ja 20 '29 500w

Pratt p42 summer '29

"The novel is unquestionably a piece of imaginative literature of a high order; but it would probably gain by being more severely condensed in translation."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p256 Mr 28 '29 860w

ZIMAND, SAVEL. Living India; with an introd. by Æ. [George W. Russell]. 280p il $3 (10s 6d) Longmans

954 India—History. India—Social conditions. India—Religion 28-27791

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

Booklist 25:206 F '29

"Mr. Zimand's work is an indispensable handbook for those desirous of following the developments of the present acute crisis in India with intelligent understanding. The documentation throughout is scrupulous and the analysis keen and lucid. The whole book indeed has been written in the scientific temper of a dispassionate critic." Syud Hossain

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p19 Ap 7 '29 300w

"As an informing and discriminating treatment of the problems of civilization and government in India, Living India deserves to be marked with a double star. It contains illuminating chapters of history, briefly and vividly told, but the main emphasis is upon present conditions and the outlook for the future. The author detects and exposes some inaccuracies in Miss Mayo's book and, without whitewashing the dark spots, presents a very different picture."

+ Christian Century 46:459 Ap 4 '29 100w

Cleveland Open Shelf p67 My '29

ZIMAND, SAVEL—Continued
Reviewed by Stanley High
Nation 128:164 F 6 '29 160w

"He draws his conclusions ready-made from Nationalist sources, and shows no critical faculty. He never gets below the surface of things: his history is commonplace, his purple patches and even his photographs are commonplace. We may hope that the citizens of the U.S.A. will find a more informative guide to the Indian situation than Mr. Zimand offers them."
— Spec 141:929 D 15 '28 100w
Springf'd Republican p10 Ja 15 '29 400w
Wis Lib Bul 25:29 Ja '29

"Of all the books recently written that I have read and studied, Savel Zimand's Living India appears to me the most impartial and fair-minded picture." C. F. Andrews
+ World Tomorrow 12:135 Mr '29 280w

ZIMMERN, ALFRED ECKHARD. America & Europe, and other essays. 213p $3 Oxford

320.4 United States—Foreign relations. Political science—Addresses, essays, lectures
29-14335

A collection of essays "written at various times and in various countries during recent years," the most of which deal with America's international relations. There are also: American universities; The scholar in public affairs; Politics as an idealistic career, and Prospects of democracy.

---

Reviewed by E. M. Sait
Am Pol Sci R 23:1031 N '29 280w
Booklist 26:57 N '29

"It is evident that Mr. Zimmern is an optimist, and that he rates very high the potential abilities of the mass. If the ideals which he holds out are not likely to be attained very comprehensively in any near future, a reading of his book will strengthen the courage of those who believe that we can, if we are so disposed, make the future of national politics and international relations a good deal better than what we have at present." Donald Williams
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p16 Ag 18 '29 1000w

"A series of essays, all of them good and some of them excellent. In the title essay on America and Europe we see Professor Zimmern's mind at its best, a mind preternaturally alive to those subtleties, sometimes entirely determinant of the nuances of the psychological relationship between nations, which escape clumsier souls, a mind which moves to its solutions with the elegance and beauty of the play of chess champions." G: E. G. Catlin
+ Nation 129:18 Jl 3 '29 730w

"Mr. Zimmern's richly endowed and supple mind deals boldly with the facts of international affairs. . . There is an advantage in the fact that these papers are gathered from the writing of half a dozen years. The steadiness of his faith is thus better shown, and this kind of thought, carefully considered, urbanely spoken, gains something from our realization that it is based on a stable point of view which passing events have strengthened and confirmed." Lyman Bryson
+ New Repub 59:267 Jl 24 '29 600w

Reviewed by Clarence Britten
N Y Evening Post p7m Jl 6 '29 960w

"Quotations and summaries do not do justice to the energy, decisiveness and close thinking of Professor Zimmern's book. Nor does a mere statement of these qualities do justice to his essential humanitarianism. He has both intellect and heart. He trusts God and keeps his powder dry." R. L. Duffus
+ N Y Times p11 Je 9 '29 1200w

Reviewed by W: B. Shaw
R of Rs 80:14 Ag '29 50w
Springf'd Republican p12 Je 21 '29 400w

ZIMMERN, ALFRED ECKHARD. Solon & Croesus, and other Greek essays. 200p $3 (7s 6d) Oxford

938 Civilization, Greek [29-14469]

"All but one of the essays in this volume, [the author] candidly admits, are left-overs from the material assembled for his famous work on the Greek Commonwealth; and it is a tribute to the solidity of his scholarship that after twenty years they hardly date at all. The title essay, lately written, is the one that counts. The title, of course, derives from the famous story in Herodotus which represents Solon the sage talking to Croesus the richest man in the world, 'not as equal but as master. Today Crœsus is king in fact if not in name, and the successors of Solon, no longer law givers, count themselves happy if they are not his hirelings.' In the reversal of the two rôles lies the central problem of twentieth-century civilization.' "—Sat R of Lit

---

"Throughout the book a tone of despair lurks behind which there is certainly sufficient documentation; yet Mr. Zimmern does not run away from issues, nor cloud them over with a temperamental pessimism such as one may find in Spengler. He poses the problem and tries to meet it in so far as it is within the historian's province to do so."
Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p22 N 3 '29 380w
Boston Transcript p2 Jl 27 '29 430w

"If we are to extricate civilization from such a dire peril we need not only good will but clear thinking; and here Zimmern sets us a bad example, which begins with his very title. He presumably knows that the Solon-Crœsus story is a myth; chronology makes it virtually impossible to believe that the two ever met. . . There is something in Mr. Zimmern's contrast between Greek and modern ways, as there is something in his main thesis; but both need qualification. A man who comes to the defense of intellectual integrity ought himself to set an example of exactitude and straight thinking." Elmer Davis
Sat R of Lit 6:33 Ag 10 '29 3650w

ZORBAUGH, HARVEY WARREN. Gold coast and slum; a sociological study of Chicago's Near North side. (Univ. of Chicago sociological ser.) 287p $3 Univ. of Chicago press [13s 6d Cambridge univ. press]

917.731 Chicago—Social conditions. Chicago—Description
29-12607

'The Near North Side is within walking distance of Chicago's skyscraper section. It is a compact mile of varied types. In no American city is there so small an area of so much color and cosmopolitanism. Every class in society from crooks to social queens, from bohemians to standpatters and all the contrasts found in any city are found here. These variform classes represent so many social worlds that 'touch but do not interpenetrate.' The book under review is a study of the social mosaic called the Near North Side."—Survey

---

"Despite the tendency to unwarranted generalizations the reviewer thinks well of Zorbaugh's book. While it lacks precision in definition and interpretation, it explores actualities with a freshness and literary insight that gives them a vital significance such as could not be portrayed by the ordinary methods of statistical finesse." R. D. McKenzie
+ — Am J Soc 35:486 N '29 500w

"The author seems to have had little taste or ability for systematic treatment; he is a colorist rather than a draftsman. These are minor criticisms; Mr. Zorbaugh's approach is good, his style readable, his material splendid. The monograph is a credit to the series." H. P. Becker
+ — Ann Am Acad 145:202 S '29 450w
Booklist 26:114 D '29

"He has indicated, in a fairly objective manner, the many-sided life of the mile-by-a-mile-and-a-half strip of lake front, which embraces the ultra-exclusive Gold Coast, the furnished room area, Hobohemia and little Sicily. His description of behavior in the various sectors of the locality is studied with vivid documents written by inhabitants of the area; it presents a picture which is true, not only of Chicago, but of any large city in the United States."

+ Bookm 69:xiii Ag '29 250w

"Here is a type of sociological investigation which is equally marked by human interest and scientific method. It falls within a scheme of studies of the city which has been inspired and developed largely by the work of Professors Robert E. Park and E. W. Burgess. What it gives is not solutions for problems; not even a definition of problems as problems; but the factual data upon which everything else must be built if it is to be built soundly. One need not be either a Chicagoan or a sociologist to find in this volume an absorbingly interesting presentation of a highly important body of material." W. E. G.

+ Christian Century 46:870 Jl 3 '29 600w

"The book as a whole has high interest and value not only for sociologists but for all who look with concern upon the increasing importance of the city. For in all its essentials it is as applicable to any other large American city as to Chicago."

+ N Y Times p20 My 12 '29 520w

"It represents one of the first attempts in this country to examine carefully under the microscope of sociology a bit of urban community life. . . Some of the findings might even apply to some of the many settlements and community centers in New York and other cities. At least community workers whatever their convictions ought to read this book." Nels Anderson

+ Survey 62:454 Jl 15 '29 300w

"This admirable study of Chicago's Near North Side contains meat enough to feed a social philosopher for months."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p568 Jl 18 '29 1100w

ZUCKER, ADOLF EDUARD. Ibsen, the master builder. 312p il $3.50 Holt

B or 92 Ibsen, Henrik 29-23918

A thorough and conventional biography of the great Norwegian dramatist. Ibsen's boyhood, the years of poverty and revolt which contributed to the formation of his eccentric character, are emphasized. Discussions of the more important of his social plays and their public reception, and the Ibsen of later life in contrast to the Ibsen of early years, occupy much of the biographer's attention.

---

"Here is no biography in the modern manner. A. E. Zucker has compiled a straightforward and authoritative account of the life and work of Henrik Ibsen. His method, which depends less for its effect upon imagination than upon research and documentation, may be slightly duller than that now in vogue, but in its solid fidelity it has a virtue which outshines mere sprightliness. Ibsen, the Master Builder is a valuable addition to the altogether too slender list of informative and enduring biographies." Margaret Wallace

+ Bookm 70:210 O '29 400w

"In this new life of Ibsen Mr. Zucker has succeeded better, perhaps, than anyone before in making a human being out of that solemn and self-centered old Titan. . . The great merit of the new biography is that Mr. Zucker, by a careful arrangement of the facts, particularly of Ibsen's early life, excites both interest and sympathy; he humanizes his subject without taking away a jot of that frigid, rather vain and pompous dignity to which, after all, the old gentleman of later years was quite entitled." W. P. Eaton

+ Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p7 N 24 '29 950w

"Professor Zucker has produced exactly the work one needs to place beside one's set of Ibsen's works. The biography is immensely valuable to every one who proposes to write about Ibsen, to talk about him, or to read him."

+ N Y Times p4 O 27 '29 1400w

Reviewed by F. L. Robbins
Outlook 153:348 O 30 '29 600w

ZUGSMITH, LEANE. All victories are alike. 251p $2.50 Brewer

29-8395

"Once, Page Trent had had a sense of wonder. But years of clever clowning in a newspaper column, of posing among other poseurs, had destroyed it, had all but destroyed him. Then he married Lucy—for no particular reason but that she was small and lonely and 'wanted to give him something.' What she gave him, finally, after he had tired of her, was knowledge of himself. But that his final conversion was really final, we doubt."—Outlook

---

"It is the amiable custom of most reviewers to call first novels promising. 'All Victories Are Alike' is decidedly not to be tagged with the bitter-sweet adjective. It arrives with its small share of beginners' faults, all curable with time and trouble (life, in short) and all the more forgivable for its cargo of actual accomplishment." Will Cuppy

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p15 Je 2 '29 550w

"This is one of those introspective stories which crowd the literary menu, but is much better than most of its kind."

Boston Transcript p2 Je 29 '29 250w

Reviewed by F: F. Van de Water
N Y Evening Post p11m Ap 13 '29 300w

"In this first novel of hers, Leane Zugsmith creates a character, not merely an inanimate sketch traced in printer's ink, but a man who exists beyond the last page of the book and enters the circle of our more intimate acquaintances."

+ N Y Times p18 Ag 11 '29 250w

Reviewed by W. R. Brooks
Outlook 151:520 Mr 27 '29 80w

ZWEIG, ARNOLD. Case of Sergeant Grischa; tr. from the German by Eric Sutton. 449p $2.50 Viking press [7s 6d Secker]

28-30156

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

Booklist 25:214 F '29

"One hestitates to call a book great in these days of misleading over-emphasis, but The Case of Sergeant Grischa is undoubtedly fine literature." Norah Meade

+ Bookm 69:93 Mr '29 400w

+ Boston Transcript p4 Ja 2 '29 700w

"No other books that this reviewer has read give such a powerful impression of the entity formed by war."

+ Dial 86:344 Ap '29 200w

"One of the best novels of the War that has yet appeared." T. S. Matthews

+ New Repub 57:355 F 13 '29 120w

"The best novel of the war that I have read. Mr. Sutton's translation is admirably readable, and tides one over the author's frequent emotional wooliness and untrimmed edges." Cyril Connolly

+ New Statesman 32:412 Ja 5 '29 1050w

Pittsburgh Mo Bul 34:12 F '29

Pratt p42 summer '29

"You cannot read the opening chapters of 'Sergeant Grischa' without recognizing, in surprise and wonder, the signs of genius at its task, absorbed and happy. This German, Arnold Zweig, whoever he is, takes his place with the elect. He has made so unlikely an object as an old helmet an object of beautiful but appalling meaning. When we have finished his novel

ZWEIG, ARNOLD—Continued
things are not quite the same as when we began it. He has changed our light. The case of Sergeant Grischa is our case." H. M. Tomlinson

+ Sat R of Lit 5:617 Ja 26 '29 1600w

"What leaves the most profound impression is Herr Zweig's ability to depict with clarity and understanding the seemingly insignificant and pathetic figure of the individual against the vast and complicated machinery of war. . . Though he reveals war as the terrible curse that it is, he is not blinded by passion or rage. His work has balance and authority and represents a vigorous achievement."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e F 17 '29 900w

ZWEIG, STEFAN. Adepts in self-portraiture: Casanova, Stendhal, Tolstoy; tr. from the German by Eden and Cedar Paul. (Master builders) 357p $3.50 Viking press

B or 92 Casanova de Seingalt, Giacomo Girolamo. Beyle, Marie Henri. Tolstoi, Leo Nikolaievich 28-24739

For descriptive note see Annual for 1928.

---

"The three portraits rise in scope and intensity. Each of them is a rounded portrait, given solidity by a thorough knowledge of the facts." L. S. Morris

+ Bookm 69:101 Mr '29 200w

"As long as he confines himself to his masters' portraits and immediate psychological background he writes with penetration and assurance. Elsewhere he wanders along confused and confusing by-ways toward a goal that permits a display of not very convincing dialectic powers." Eugene Lohrke

+ — Books (N Y Herald Tribune) p4 N 18 '28 1300w

"We are given a visual impression of each of these men; we are brought to live with them for a while; we are shown how to measure the power and the limitation of each. The book is powerful and it is subtle." Padraic Colum

+ Dial 86:513 Je '29 750w

"The portraits are credible and brilliant." Angus Burrell

+ Nation 128:431 Ap 10 '29 550w

"With zest and full-blooded delight, with much rhetoric and yet a keen appreciation of subtleties which indicates a calm observer behind the storm and rattle of his manner, Stefan Zweig presents his heroes as intimately as if they were characters in fiction. . . Each of these studies is a brilliant piece of work." R. A. Scott-James

+ New Statesman 32:604 F 16 '29 1350w

"A rich and satisfying book." Harry Salpeter

+ N Y World p10m D 16 '28 1200w

St Louis 27:59 F '29

Sat R of Lit 5:1117 Je 15 '29 230w

"In its essence, the book is not critical but descriptive. It is interesting but not profound; it is informative, but contains nothing new; it is written with vigor and great evocative skill, but it is not a work of art, and the cumulative effect of its volubility is stupefying."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p93 F 7 '29 1050w

Reviewed by Albert Feuillerat

Yale R n s 19:164 autumn '29 1100w

ZWEMER, SAMUEL MARINUS. Across the world of Islam; studies in aspects of the Mohammedan faith and in the present awakening of the Moslem multitudes. 382p il $3.50-$4 Revell [16s Oliphants]

297 Mohammedanism 29-2374

"The veteran missionary, who has also been a traveler and student in this field for 38 years, here gives a comprehensive view of the faith of Islam and of the present state of thought and culture among the Mohammedans of every country which has a considerable Mohammedan element, with special attention to the revival of zeal and the revision of concepts which have come since the war."—Christian Century

---

Booklist 26:9 O '29

"If any Christian in the world knows more about the Mohammedan countries and peoples and about the mind of the Moslem than does Dr. Zwemer, I do not know who it can be."

+ Christian Century 46:992 Ag 7 '29 100w

Pratt p10 autumn '29

Times [London] Lit Sup p830 O 24 '29 500w

List of Documents for Use in the Smaller Libraries

Compiled by

MARY E. FURBECK

Public Affairs Information Service

Aeronautics

Laws and regulations

Air traffic rules, December 1, 1929. (U.S. Commerce dept. Aeronautics bul. 15) 12p pa D '29

Agricultural credit

The use, value and cost of credit in agriculture. C. H. West. (California. Agric. exp. sta. Bul. 480) 47p pa '29 College of Agriculture, University of California, Berkeley

Agriculture

Statistics

Nebraska agricultural statistics, 1928. (Nebraska. Agric. dept.) 197p pa '29 Department of Agriculture, Lincoln, Neb.

Art

A study of American art and Southern artists of note. M. deB. Graves. (North Carolina Univ. Exten. bul.) 34p pa Ag '29 50c University of North Carolina Extension Division, Chapel Hill

Banks and banking

Statistics

Annual report. U.S. Comptroller of the currency. 750p '29 (Treasury dept doc. no. 3004)

Birds

Common birds of North Carolina gardens, farms and orchards. S. H. Snyder. (North Carolina. Agric. exten. serv. Exten. circ. 170) 47p pa O '28 North Carolina. Agricultural Extension Service, State College Station, Raleigh

Births

Statistics

Birth, stillbirth, and infant mortality statistics for the birth registration area of the United States, 1926: pt. 1, Summary and rate tables and general tables. (U.S. Census bur.) 253p pa '29

Blind

The blind population of the United States, 1920: a statistical analysis of the data obtained at the 14th decennial census. U.S. Census bur. 191p pa '28 30c

Boys' and girls' clubs

Plans for conducting boys' and girls' 4-H club work in Missouri. (Missouri. Col. of Agric. Agric exten. service. Project announcement 27) 98p pa S '28 University of Missouri College of Agriculture, Columbia

Bread

The principles of bread-making. N. E. Goldthwaite. (Colorado. Agric. col. Exper. Sta. Bul. 344) 37p pa F '29 Colorado Experiment Station, Fort Collins

Building

Statistics

Building permits in the principal cities of the United States in 1927. (U.S. Labor statistics bur. Bul. 469) 105p pa N '28

Building permits in the principal cities of the United States in 1928. (U.S. Labor statistics bur. Bul. 500) 108p pa N '29

Cacti

Cacti. David Griffiths and C. H. Thompson. (U.S. Agric. dept. Circ. 66) 62p pa Je '29

Canada

Industries and resources

Canada's natural resources. (Canada. Natural resources intelligence service.) 32p pa '28 Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Ont.

Canning

Home canning of fruits and vegetables. Ruth Jordan. (Purdue univ. Dept. of agric. exten. Bul. 164). 12p pa Ag '29 Purdue University Department of Agricultural Extension, Lafayette, Ind.

Cats

How to make a cat trap. James Silver and F. N. Jarvis. (U.S. Agric. dept. Leaflet 50) 4p pa '29

Chemical industry

The American chemical industry: production and foreign trade in first quarter of twentieth century. A. H. Swift. (U.S. Foreign and domestic commerce bur. Trade promotion ser. 78) 114p pa '29

Child labor

Child workers on city streets. N. P. McGill. (U.S. Children's bur. Bur. pub. 188) 74p pa '28

Children in agriculture. N. P. McGill. (U.S. Children's bur. Pub. 187) 81p pa '29

Child training

Applying nursery school methods of child training in the home. H. W. Ford. (Kansas. Bul. 2) 40p pa '29 Kansas State Agricultural College, Manhattan

Children

Care and hygiene

Child care. Wanda Przyluska. (Ohio. Ohio state univ. Agric. exten. serv. Bul. 84) 39p pa Mr '29

Good food habits for children. C. R. Schmidt. (U.S. Agric. dept. Leaflet 42) 8p pa '29

Clothing

Play suits for winter. B. M. Viemont. (U.S. Agric. dept Leaflet 54) 8p pa N '29

Suits for the small boy. C. L. Scott. (U.S. Agric. dept. Leaflet 52) 8p pa '29

Coal industry

Illinois coal: a non-technical account of its occurrence, production and preparation. A. Bement. (Illinois. Geol. survey. Bul. 56) Geological Survey, Urbana, Ill.

Commerce

Bibliography

Commerce and manufactures: list of publications for sale by superintendent of documents. (U.S. Supt. of docs. Price list 62, 11th ed.) 67p pa Je '29

Statistics

Commerce yearbook, 1929: v. 2, Foreign countries. (U.S. Foreign and domestic commerce bur.) 783p '29

Community halls

Rural community halls in Montana. J. W. Barger. (Montana. Univ. Agric. exp. sta. Bul. 221) 52p pa University of Montana. Agricultural Experiment Station, Bozeman

Cost and standard of living

Incomes and expenditures of village and town families in Minnesota. C. C. Zimmerman. (Minnesota. Agric. exp. sta. Bul. 253) 47p pa '29 University of Minnesota, University Farm, St Paul

Cotton industry

Cotton or weevils. J. L. Webb and F. A. Merrill. (U.S. Agric. dept. Misc. pub. 35) 16p pa Ja '29

Crippled children

Education

Digest of legislation for education of crippled children. W. W. Keesecker. (U.S. Educ. bur. Bul., 1929, no. 5) 13p pa '29

Currants
Currants and gooseberries; their culture and relation to white-pine blister rust. G. M. Darrow and S. B. Detwiler. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers bul. 1398) 43p pa S '29

Dairy industry
Dairy-herd-improvement associations, and stories the records tell. J. C. McDowell. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers bul. 1604) 21p pa O '29

Education

Directories

Educational directory, 1929. (U.S. Educ. bur. Bul., 1929, no. 1) 206p 30c

Education of adults
Helps for teachers of adult immigrants and native illiterates. L. R. Alderman. (U.S. Educ. bur. Bul. 1928, no. 27) 68p pa '28

Electricity in the home
The electric range for the home. H. C. Brigham. (Iowa. Iowa state col. Engineering ext. service. Bul. 102) 44p pa My 29 '29 Iowa State College, Ames

Employment systems
The elder worker: restricted employment; annuities; relief. J. W. Rogers. (Kentucky. Bur. of agric., labor and statistics, Bul. 35) 45p pa '29 Department of Labor, Frankfort, Kentucky

European war

Casualties

A comparative study of World war casualties from gas and other weapons. H. L. Gilchrist. (U.S. War office) 51p '28

Fairs
International fairs and expositions. (U.S. Foreign and domestic commerce bur. Trade promotion ser. 75) 76p pa '29

Family

Bibliography

Foundations of family life: a reading course for parents. (U.S. Educ. bur. Reading course 33) 6p pa '29

Farm life
The present use of work time of farm homemakers. I. Arnquist and E. H. Roberts. (Washington. State col. Agric. exp. sta. Bul. 234) 31p pa Jl '29 State College of Washington, Pullman

Farms
Beautifying the farmstead. F. L. Mulford. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers' bul. 1087) 38p pa N '29

Fire protection
Fire-protective construction on the farm (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers' bul. 1590) 21p pa Ap '29
Rescue methods for firemen. (Iowa. State col. of Agric. and mech. arts. Eng. ext. service Bul. 97) folded sheet N 28 '28 Iowa State College, Ames

Food
Definitions and standards for food products. (U.S. Food, drug and insecticide administration. Service and regulatory announcements, no. 2) 20p pa '28
Food consumption of farm families. Hughina McKay. (Ohio. Agric. exp. sta. Bul. 433) 34p pa Ag '29 Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station. Wooster
Food habits of Utah farm families. A. P. Brown. (Utah. Agric. exp. sta. Bul. 213) 20p pa Jl '29 Utah State Agricultural College, Logan
Vitamins in food materials. S. L. Smith. (U.S. Agric. dept. Circ. 84) 55p bibl. pa N '29

Forests and forestry
Forest planting in Maryland. F. B. Trenk. (Maryland. Univ. Ext. service. Ext. bul. 45) 23p pa F '29 University of Maryland, College Park
Forestry clubs for young people. M. F. Heisley. (U.S. Agric. dept. Misc. pub. 45) 20p pa Ap '29
The forests of Canada: their extent, character, ownership, management, products, and probable future. Canada. Forest service. 56p pa '28 Forest Service, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Ont.
Trees in Kansas. (Kansas. State bd. of agric. Report. v. 47, no. 186-A) 372p pa Je '28 Kansas State Board of Agriculture, Topeka
Contents: The forest situation in Kansas, by Albert Dickens; Kansas and her historic trees, by M. E. Whittemore; Kansas trees and their uses, by C. A. Scott; Handbook of Kansas trees, by F. C. Gates.

Gardening
Growing annual flowering plants. L. C. Corbett and F. L. Mulford. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers' bul. 1171) 62p pa O '29

High schools
Accredited secondary schools in the United States. (U.S. Educ. bur. Bul. 1928, no. 6) 144p pa '29
Statistics of private high schools and academies, 1927-1928. (U.S. Educ. bur. Bul., 1929, no. 19) 61p pa '29

Home economics
The enjoyable home. I. S. Davenport. (Louisiana. State. Univ. Agric. ext. div. Ext. circ. 134) 45p pa Je '29 Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge
Publications of interest to suburbanites and home-builders. (U.S. Supt. of docs. Price list 72, 7th ed.) 20p pa Je '29

Horticulture
Spraying fruit plants. W. F. Pickett and W. R. Martin, jr. (Kansas. Agric. exp. sta. Circ. 145) 32p pa Mr '29 Kansas State Agricultural College, Manhattan

House decoration
The art of furniture arrangement. Helen Shelby. (Maryland. Univ. Ext. service. Circ. 70) 7p pa N '28 University of Maryland, College Park
Windows and their decoration. Helen Shelby. (Maryland. Univ. Ext. service. Circ. 72) 13p pa F '29 University of Maryland, College Park

House plants
House plants and their care. H. O. Yates. (New Jersey. Agric. exp. sta. Circ. 217) 24p pa '29 New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, New Brunswick

Ice cream
Ice cream frozen without stirring. Louise Stanley and J. A. Clive (U.S. Agric. dept. Leaflet 49) 8p pa '29

Illegitimacy
Analysis and tabular summary of state laws relating to illegitimacy in the United States, in effect January 1, 1928 and the text of selected laws. Marietta Stevenson. (U.S. Children's bur. Chart 16) 49p pa '29

Industrial education
Industrial education, 1926-1928. M. M. Proffitt. (U.S. Educ. bur. Bul. 1929, no. 21) 24p pa '29. (Advance sheets from the Biennial survey of education in the U.S., 1926-1928)

Inheritance tax
Regulations 70 (1929 edition), relating to estate tax under the Revenue act of 1926, as amended and supplemented by the Revenue act of 1928. (U.S. Internal revenue bur.) 154p pa '29

Insects, Injurious and beneficial
Common pests of field and garden crops. R. H. Pettit. (Michigan. Agric. exp. sta. Special bul. 183) 77p pa Je '29 Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, East Lansing
Protection of log cabins, rustic work and unseasoned wood from injurious insects. R. A. St George. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers bul. 1582) 20p pa Jl '29
Termites in buildings. T. E. Snyder. (U.S. Agric. dept. Leaflet 31) 5p pa Je '29

Investments, Foreign
American underwriting of foreign securities in 1928. (U.S. Bur. of foreign and domestic commerce. Trade information bul. 613) 21p pa Ap '29

Kitchens
The Nebraska farm kitchen. Greta Gray. (Nebraska. Univ. Col. of agric. Exp. sta. Bul. 226) 14p pa '28 University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Labor laws and legislation
New York labor laws enacted in 1929. (New York (state). Dept. of labor. Spec. bul. 159) 64p pa Je '29 State Department of Labor, Albany, N.Y.

Laundering
Methods and equipment for home laundering. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers bul. 1497) 37p pa '29

Market surveys
Market data handbook of New England. E. F. Gerish. (U.S. Foreign and domestic commerce bur. Dom. commerce ser. 24) 208p bibl '29
Part 3 of the Commercial survey of New England

Marketing
Market research agencies: a guide to publications and activities relating to domestic marketing, 1928. (U.S. Foreign and domestic commerce bur. Domestic commerce ser. 6) 206p '28 15c
Roadside marketing. H. P. Gaston. (Michigan. Agric. exp. sta. Special bul. 185) 49p pa Ja '29 Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, East Lansing

Markets
Farmers' produce markets in Ohio. C. W. Hauck. (Ohio. Agric. exp. sta. Bul. 443) 46p pa N '29

Meat
Home canning of meats. J. B. Francioni, jr. (Louisiana. State univ. Div. of agric. ext. Ext. circ. 118) 55p pa Mr '29 Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge
Selection and use of pork cuts. A. M. Child. (Minnesota. Univ. Agric. exp. sta. Bul. 254) 26p pa Ap '29 Agricultural Experiment Station, University Farm, St Paul, Minn.

Milk
An economic study of the collection of milk at country plants in New York. Leland Spencer. (N.Y. Cornell agric. exp. sta. Bul. 486) 47p pa Je '29 Agricultural Experiment Station, Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y.
Fermented milks. L. A. Rogers. Rev. by W. R. Albus. (U.S. Agric. dept. Dept. bul. 319) 28p pa N '28

Mothers' pensions
Public aid to mothers with dependent children: extent and fundamental principles. E. O. Lundberg. (U.S. Children's bur. pub. 162, rev.) 24p pa '28

Motor vehicle industry and trade
The automotive market of Australia. C. F. Baldwin. (U.S. Bur. of foreign and domestic commerce. Trade information bul. 611) 52p pa '29

Motor vehicles
Operating cost statistics of automobiles and trucks. T. R. Agg and H. S. Carter. (Iowa. State col. of agric. and mechanic arts. Eng. exp. sta. Bul. 91) 51p bibl '28 State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, Ames

Laws and regulations
Motor vehicle laws of Rhode Island, 1929. (Rhode Island. Motor vehicle dept.) 113p pa '29 Motor Vehicle Department, Providence, R.I.

Moving pictures
The European motion-picture industry in 1928. (U.S. Foreign and domestic commerce bur. Trade information bul. 617) 74p pa '29
Motion pictures in Australia and New Zealand. (U.S. Bur. of foreign and domestic commerce. Trade information bul. 608) 58p pa '29

Naturalization
Naturalization, citizenship and expatriation laws; naturalization regulations, July 1, 1929. (U.S. Naturalization bur.) 116p pa '29

North Carolina
North Carolina: a good place to live. (North Carolina. Conservation and development dept.) 78p pa '28 Department of Conservation and Development, Raleigh, N.C.

Nurses and nursing
Home care of the sick. Wanda Przyluska. (Ohio. Ohio state univ. Agric. ext. serv. Bul. 88) 36p pa Ap '29

Oil burners
A study of the oil burner as applied to domestic heating. A. H. Senner. (U.S. Agric. dept. Tech. bul. 109) 84p pa Jl '29

Oil industry
International trade in petroleum and its products. (U.S. Foreign and domestic commerce bur. Trade promotion ser. 80) 153p pa '29
Report III to the president of the United States, Feb. 25, 1929. U.S. Fed. oil conservation bd. 218p pa '29

Old age
Old age dependency: a study of the care given to needy aged in California. (California. Dept. of social welfare) 64p pa '28 Department of Social Welfare, Sacramento, Calif.

Pacific states
Transcontinental and intercoastal trade of the Pacific southwest in 1926. R. J. McFall. (U.S. Foreign and domestic commerce bur. Domestic commerce ser. 25) 95p pa '29

Parliamentary practice
Conducting the business meeting: parliamentary practice for rural community organizations. A. F. Wileden. (Wisconsin. Agric. col. Exten. service. Circ. 227) 16p pa O '28 Agricultural Extension. Service, University of Wisconsin, Madison

Patterns
The permanent pattern. Catharine Griebel. (N.J. State col. of agric. Exten. bul. 69) 23p pa Ja '29 New Jersey State College of Agriculture, Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Pensions, Civil
Public retirement systems: United States. Canada and Europe. (U.S. Labor statistics bur. Bul. 477) 223p pa Ja '29

Perennials
About perennials. A. C. Hottes. (Ohio. Ohio state univ. Agric. ext. serv. Bul. 83) 31p pa Ja '29 Ohio State University, Columbus

Plumbing industry
Recommended minimum requirements for plumbing: report of subcommittees on plumbing of the building code committee, revised August 30, 1928. (U.S. Standards bur Elimination of waste ser.) 280p pa '29

Poison ivy
Poison ivy and poison sumac and their eradication. C. V. Grant and A. A. Hansen. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers' bul. 1166) 14p pa My '29

Pork
Pork in preferred ways. L. M. Alexander and F. W. Yeatman. (U.S. Agric. dept. Leaflet 45) 8p pa '29

Ports

Charges
Shipping charges at United States and Foreign ports. (U.S. War dept. Engineer dept. Misc. ser. 2) 142p pa '28

Poultry
Causes of poultry mortality in North Carolina. R. S. Dearstyne, and others. (North Carolina. Agric. exp. sta. Bul. 264) 31p pa Mr '29 Agricultural Station, State College Station, Raleigh, N.C.
Feeding poultry for egg production. C. W. Knox. (Iowa. Agric. exp. sta. Circ. 114) 15p pa Mr '29. Bulletin Editor, Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station, Ames
Poultry diseases, their prevention and control. L. D. Bushnell and C. A. Brandly. (Kansas. Agric. exp. sta. Bul. 247) 107p pa Je '29 Agricultural Experiment Station, Manhattan, Kan.
Poultry keeping in back yards. M. A. Jull and A. R. Lee. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers' bul. 1508) 29p pa N '29
Preparing poultry produce for market. F. Elford. (Canada. Agric. dept. Bul. 20) 26p pa '29

Prices
Retail prices, 1890-127. (U.S. Labor statistics bur. Bul. 464) 221p pa '28
Wholesale prices, 1913-1927. (U.S. Labor statistics bur. Bul. 473) 229p pa Ja '29

Prisoners
The prisoner's antecedents: statistics concerning the previous life of offenders committed in 1923 to state and federal prisons and reformatories. (U.S. Census bur.) 77p pa '29

Pruning
Pruning young fruit trees. R. E. Marshall, and others. (Michigan. Agric. exp. sta. Circ. bul. 127) 32p pa Jl '29 Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, East Lansing

Race problems
Report of the Interracial commission with recommendations to the governor and General assembly of Maryland, 1928. 23p pa '28 Interracial Commission of Maryland, John O. Spencer, Chm., Morgan College, Baltimore, Md.

Radio communication
Commercial and government radio stations of the United States, June 30, 1929. (U.S. Commerce dept.) 211p pa '29

Railroads
Statistics
Preliminary abstract of statistics of common carriers, for the year ended December 31, 1928. (U.S. Interstate commerce comm.) 28p pa '29 (Mim.)

Reclamation of land
Clearing land of brush and stumps. G. R. Boyd. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers' bul. 1526) 34p pa Je '29

Reference books
Handy books: list of publications for sale by superintendent of documents. (U.S. Supt. of docs. Price list 73, 5th ed.) 15p pa Jl '29

Rodents
Some Colorado rodent and bird pests with suggestions for control. W. L. Burnett. (Colorado. Agric. Col. Circ. 56) 22p pa Je '29 Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins

Rubber industry
British colonial office reports on the rubber industry. E. G. Holt, comp. (U.S. Foreign and domestic commerce bur. Trade information bur. 603) 35p pa '29

School lunches
The school lunch. E. J. Jeffers. (Pennsylvania State college. Agric. ext. div. Circ. 125)

Sewage disposal
Sewage disposal for the farm home. R. C. Kelleher and E. W. Lehmann. (Illinois Col. of agric. and agric. exp. sta. Circ. 336) 20p pa Mr '29 University of Illinois, Urbana

Sewing
Seams and stitches. (Pennsylvania. School of agric. and exp. sta. Agric. ext. div. Circ. 126) 26p pa My '29 Pennsylvania State College, State College

Shipping
Statistics
Water transportation, 1926. (U.S. Census bur.) 172p pa '29

Siam
Economic development of Siam. M. A. Pugh. (U.S. Foreign and domestic commerce bur. Trade information bul. 606) 45p pa '29

Silage
The making and feeding of silage. T. E. Woodward, and others. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers' bul. 578) 26p pa D '28

Stoves, Electric
Selection and use of the electric range. A. M. Child and F. C. Kelley. (Minnesota. univ. Agric. ext. div. Pam. 6) 16p pa O '28 (mim.) University of Minnesota, St Paul

Theaters
Stage scenery
Scenery and lighting for school and little theatre stages. Samuel Selden. (North Carolina. Univ. Exten. bul. v. 8, no. 7) 64p pa D '28 50c University Extension Division, Chapel Hill, N.C.

Trees
Propagation of trees and shrubs. G. E. Yerkes. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers' bul. 1567) 52p pa '29
Transplanting trees and shrubs. F. L. Mulford. (U.S. Agric. dept. Farmers bul. 1591) 34p pa '29

Turkeys
Raising turkeys in Wisconsin. J. B. Hayes, and G. E. Annin. (Wisconsin. College of agric. Ext. service. Circ. 231) 16p pa My '29 University of Wisconsin, Madison

United States. Standards, Bureau of Scientific and technical positions in the National bureau of standards. (U.S. Standards bur. Misc. pub. 94) 14p pa '29

United States
Commerce
Commerce yearbook, 1929: v. 1, United States. (U.S. Commerce dept.) 720p '29
Foreign trade of the United States in the fiscal year 1928-29. G. A. Witherow. (U.S. For. and dom. commerce bur. Trade information bul. 650) 22p pa '29

Diplomatic and consular service
The American foreign service. U.S. State dept. 60p pa '29

Vegetable gardening
The home vegetable garden. E. S. Haber. (Iowa. Agric. exp. sta. Circ. 115) 24p pa Ap '29 Bulletin Editor, Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station, Ames

Wages
Statistics
Union scale of wages and house of labor, 1927-1928. (U.S. Labor statistics bur. Bul. 476) 169p pa F '29

Washington, D.C.
Points of historic interest in the national capital. (U.S. Senate. Com. on marking points of historic interest) 59p '29 (U.S. 70th Cong., 2d sess., S. doc. 228)

Weather
Statistics
The climate of Colorado: a forty-one year record. R. E. Trimble. (Colorado. Agric. col. Exp. sta. Bul. 340) *68p pa D '28 Colorado Experiment Station, Fort Collins

Woman
Employment
What the wage-earning woman contributes to family support. A. L. Peterson. (U.S. Women's bur. Bul. 75) 20p pa '29
Women in gainful occupations, 1870-1920. J. A. Hill. (U.S. Census bur. Census monograph 9) 416p '29

Women's clubs
Manual for neighborhood women's clubs. E. M. Heyle, and others. (Missouri. Col. of Agric. Agric. exten. service. Project announcement 26) 47p pa S '28 University of Missouri College of Agriculture, Columbia

The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions, and unless otherwise indicated may be obtained only through members of Congress. Librarians should make application to their own representatives in Washington.

The Department of Agriculture's supply of the Current number of Farmers' Bulletins is ordinarily sufficient to make it possible to send them free to all applicants. They are also for sale at 5 cents per copy [by the Superintendent of Documents].

The Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., is authorized to sell at cost of paper and printing any United States public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for. Publications cannot be supplied free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Subject, Title and Pseudonym Index

To Author Entries, March, 1929—February, 1930

A B C of Adler's psychology. Mairet, P. (Ag '29)
A B C of nerves. Fraser-Harris, D: F. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Abbey theater, Dublin
Malone, A. E. Irish drama. (N '29)
Abbott, A. A., pseud. See Spewack, S:
Abe Martin's barbed wire. Hubbard, F. M. (Mr '29)
Abe Martin's town pump. Hubbard, F. M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Abigail Adams, the second first lady. Bobbé, D. (My '29)
Ability
Goddard, H: H. School training of gifted children. (My '29)
Testing
Anderson, V: V. Psychiatry in industry. (N '29)
Cohen, I. D: Principles and practices of vocational guidance. (Ag '29)
O'Connor, J. Born that way. (N '29)
Abingdon Bible commentary. Eiselen, F: C., and others. (D '29)
Abraham Lincoln. Holden, R. P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Abraham Lincoln. Shaw, A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1858. Beveridge, A. J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Abyssinia
MacCreagh, G. Last of free Africa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Accessory after the fact. Eng title of Innocent accomplice. Reynolds. G. M. (My '29)
Accident. Bennett, A. (Mr '29)
Account rendered. Forbes, R. (O '29)
Accounting and cost finding for the chemical industries. Prochazka, G: A. (Je '29)
Across the world of Islam. Zwemer, S: M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Acting
Dolman, J: Art of play production. (Mr '29)
Action. Montague, C: E: (Mr '29)
Activity school. Ferriere, A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Actors and actresses
Benjamin, L: S. Stage favourites of the eighteenth century. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.
Cantor, E. My life is in your hands. (My '29)
Hart, W: S. My life east and west. (Ag '29)
Whiffen, B. Keeping off the shelf. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Adam, the baby, and the man from Mars. Edman, I. (S '29)
Adams, Abigail (Smith) (Mrs John Adams)
Bobbé, D. Abigail Adams, the second first lady. (My '29)
Adams, John
McCoy, S: D. This man Adams. (Mr '29)
Adams, John Quincy
Adams, J. Q. Diary, 1794-1845. (Mr '29)
Adam's first wife. Speller, J. and R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Adam's opera. Dane, C., pseud. (O '29)
Adepts in self-portraiture. Zweig, S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Adiós! Bartlett, L. V. S. (S '29)
Administration of an elementary school. Gist, A. S. (Ap '29)
Admirals
Lewis, C: L. Famous old-world sea fighters. (N '29)
Adolescence
Boorman, W: R. Developing personality in boys. (My '29)
Cosgrave, J. Psychology of youth. (Ap '29)
Hollingworth, L. A. Psychology of the adolescent. (Je '29)
Mead, M. Coming of age in Samoa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Read, C: S. Struggles of male adolescence. (My '29)
Schwab, S. I:, and Veeder, B. S. The adolescent. (D '29)
The adolescent. Schwab, S. I:, and Veeder, B. S. (D '29)
Adoption
Healy, W:, and others. Reconstructing behavior in youth. (S '29)
Adrigoole. O'Donnell, P. (N '29)
Adventure calls. Woolley, K. (S '29)
Adventure of being man. Black, H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Adventures in Afghanistan for boys. Thomas, L. J. (Je '29)
Adventures of an African slaver. Canot, T. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Adventures of an outlaw. Rashleigh, R., pseud. (S '29)
Adventures of Andris. Jacobi, E. P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Adventures of human thought. Boas, G: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Adventures of Theodore Roosevelt. Emerson, E. (Je '29)
Adventures of Tommy. Wells, H. G: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Adventurous America. Mims, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Advertising
Aymar, G. C. Introduction to advertising illustration. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Carpenter C: E. Dollars and sense. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Cherington, P. T. Consumer looks at advertising. (My '29)
Dwiggins, W: A. Layout in advertising. (Ap '29)
Goode, K. M. How to turn people into gold. (D '29)
Meynell, F. Typography of newspaper advertisements. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Miskella, W: J. Practical color simplified. (Mr '29)
Rheinstrom, C. Psyching the ads. (S '29)
History
Presbrey, F. History and development of advertising. (S '29)
Hotels, restaurants, etc.
Dahl, J. O. Selling public hospitality. (D '29)
Aeolus. Stewart, O. (Mr '29)
Aerial bombardment and the international regulation of warfare. Royse, M. W: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Aerobatics. Stewart, O. (My '29)
Aeronautics
Collins, A. F: Aviation and all about it. (D '29)
Elm, I. E. Avigation by dead reckoning. (D '29)
Garber, P. E: Building and flying model aircraft. (Ap '29)
Gould, B. Sky larking. (S '29)
Jones, P. Alphabet of aviation. (Mr '29)
Macmillan, N. Art of flying. (My '29)
Stewart, O. Aeolus. (Mr '29)
Stewart, O. Aerobatics. (My '29)

Aeronautics—Continued
Swoffer, F. A. Learning to fly. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Flights
Ellsworth, L., ed. Air pioneering in the Arctic. (S '29)
Giudici, D. Tragedy of the Italia. (Ap '29)
Hill, R. Baghdad air mail. (S '29)
Kingsford-Smith, C: E., and Ulm, C: T. P. Flight of the Southern Cross. (My '29)
Lundborg, E. P. A. M. Arctic rescue. (Je '29)
Sassoon, P. Third route. (D '29)

History
Charnley, M. V. Boy's life of the Wright brothers. (My '29)
Maitland, L. J. Knights of the air. (O '29)

Juvenile literature
Dobias, F. Picture book of flying. (Ap '29)

Laws and regulations
Hotchkiss, H: G. Treatise on aviation law. (N '29)
Royce, M. W: Aerial bombardment and the international regulation of warfare. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

United States
Hotchkiss, H: G. Treatise on aviation law. (N '29)
Patrick, M. M. United States in the air. (Mr '29)

Aeronautics, Commercial
Black, A. Civil airports and airways. (O '29)
Hotchkiss, H: G. Treatise on aviation law. (N '29)

Aeronautics, Military
Ashmore, E: B. Air defence. (D '29)
Lehmann, E. A., and Mingos, H. L. The Zeppelins. (Mr '29)
Royse, M. W: Aerial bombardment and the international regulation of warfare. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Æsthetic judgment. Prall, D: W. (N '29)
Aesthetics of the novel. Ames, V. M. (Ap '29)
Affair at the château. Reynolds, G. M. (F '30) (1929 Annual) Affirmative religion. Garrison, W. E. (S '29)

Afghan poetry
Abdullah, A., tr. Lute and scimitar. (Mr '29)

Afghanistan

Description and travel
King, D: W. Living East. (D '29)
Thomas, L. J. Adventures in Afghanistan for boys. (Je '29)

Africa

Civilization
Buell, R. L. Native problem in Africa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Colonization
Evans, I. L. British in tropical Africa. (Je '29)

Description and travel
Appel, J. H. Africa's white magic. (Je '29)
Coupland, R. Kirk on the Zambesi. (Je '29)
Singer, C., and Baldridge, C. Le R. White Africans and black. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Economic conditions
Buell, R. L. Native problem in Africa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Native races
Buell, R. L. Native problem in Africa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Londres, A. Very naked people. (D '29)

Politics
Buell, R. L. Native problem in Africa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Race question
Buell, R. L. Native problem in Africa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Africa, Central
Flandrau, G. Then I saw the Congo. (O '29)

Description and travel
Wells, C. In coldest Africa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Africa, East
Kittenberger, K. Big game hunting and collecting in East Africa, 1903-1926. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Description and travel
Akeley, M. L. Carl Akeley's Africa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Africa, French Equatorial

Description and travel
Gide, A. P. G. Travels in the Congo. (Je '29)

Africa, West
Londres, A. Very naked people. (D '29)
Africa's white magic. Appel, J. H. (Je '29)
After Mother India. Field, H. H. (N '29)
After thirty years. Gladstone, H. J: G. (Mr '29)
The aftermath. Churchill, W. L. S. (My '29)
Against the wall. Millay, K. (O '29)
Age of Grey and Peel. Davis, H: W: C. (O '29)

Aggrey, James Emman Kwegyir
Smith, E. W: Aggrey of Africa. (N '29)
Aggrey of Africa. Smith, E. W: (N '29)
Agnolo Bronzino. McComb, A. K. (My '29)

Agnosticism
Bell, B. I. Beyond agnosticism. (S '29)
Darrow, C. S., and Rice, W. de G. C., comps. Infidels and heretics. (O '29)

Agricultural colonies
Brunner, E. de S. Immigrant farmers and their children. (S '29)
Agricultural economics. O'Brien, G: A. T: (Je '29)

Agricultural education
Shepardson, W. H. Agricultural education in the United States (N '29)
Agricultural education in the United States. Shepardson, W. H. (N '29)

Agricultural laborers
Brunner, E. de S. Immigrant farmers and their children. (S '29)

Agricultural laws and legislation

Mexico
Tannenbaum, F. Mexican agrarian revolution. (Ag '29)

Agricultural reform in the United States. Black, J: D. (N '29)

Agriculture

Economic aspects
Black, J: D. Agricultural reform in the United States. (N '29)
Burr, W. Small towns. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Carr, L: F. America challenged. (S '29)
Kirkpatrick, E. L. Farmer's standard of living. (Je '29)
Lippincott, I: What the farmer needs. (Ap '29)
O'Brien, G: A. T: Agricultural economics. (Je '29)
Rommel, G: M. Farm products in industry. (Je '29)
Seligman, E. R. A. Economics of farm relief. (N '29)
Yoder, F. R. Introduction to agricultural economics. (N '29)

Great Britain
Ashley, W: J. Bread of our forefathers. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Mexico
Tannenbaum, F. Mexican agrarian revolution. (Ag '29)

United States
Black, J: D. Agricultural reform in the United States. (N '29)
Carr, L: F. America challenged. (S '29)
Lippincott, I: What the farmer needs. (Ap '29)
McMillen, W. Too many farmers. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Seligman, E. R. A. Economics of farm relief. (N '29)
Yoder, F. R. Introduction to agricultural economics. (N '29)

Agriculture, Cooperative
Montgomery, R. H. Coöperative pattern in cotton. (D '29)
Aims of education. Whitehead, A. N. (Ag '29)
Air defence. Ashmore, E: B. (D '29)
Air pioneering in the Arctic. Ellsworth, L., ed. (S '29)
Airplane and its engine. Chatfield, C: H., and Taylor, C: F. (Je '29)
Airplane structures. Niles, A. S., and Newell, J. S. (D '29)
Airplanes
Chatfield, C: H., and Taylor, C: F. Airplane and its engine. (Je '29)
Niles, A. S., and Newell, J. S. Airplane structures. (D '29)

Models

Allen, E. L. Model airplanes. (Mr '29)
Garber, P. E: Building and flying model aircraft. (Ap '29)
Airports
Black, A. Civil airports and airways. (O '29)
Airways
Black, A. Civil airports and airways. (O '29)
Akeley, Carl Ethan
Akeley, M. L. Carl Akeley's Africa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Alanna. Crew, H. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Alas, Queen Anne. Brown, B. C. (N '29)
Albany river, Ontario
North, R. C. Bob North by canoe and portage. (Mr '29)
Albert I, king of the Belgians
Graham, E. Albert, king of the Belgians. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Alchemy murder. Oldfeld, P:, pseud. (Ag '29)
Alcibiades
Benson, E: F: Life of Alcibiades. (My '29)

Fiction

Atherton, G. F. Jealous gods. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Aldanov, M. A., pseud. See Landau, M. A.
Alexander and some other cats. Eddy, S. J., comp. (S '29)
Alexander Botts. Upson, W: H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Alexander Graham Bell. Mackenzie, C. D. (Mr '29)
Alexandra, empress consort of Nicholas II, emperor of Russia
Buxhoeveden, S. K. Life and tragedy of Alexandra Feodorovna. (Mr '29)
Nicholas II, emperor of Russia. Letters of the tsar to the tsaritsa, 1914-1917. (Ag '29)
Alice in Elephantland. Bradley, M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Alice Meynell. Meynell, V. (O '29)
Alien from heaven. Crane, N. C. R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Aliens
Mears, E. G. Resident Orientals on the American Pacific coast. (Ag '29)
Pergler, C: Judicial interpretation of international law in the United States. (S '29)
All about pets. Bianco, M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
All else is folly. Acland, P. (N '29)
All in a day. Armstrong, M. (Ap '29)
All in the family. Roosevelt, T. (D '29)
All on a summer's day. Ryerson, F., and Clements, C. C. (Je '29)
All quiet on the western front. Remarque, E. M. (Ag '29)
All the brave rifles. Venable, C. (Ag '29)
All victories are alike. Zugsmith, L. (Ag '29)
Allen, Ethan
Pell, J: Ethan Allen. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Allies of religion. Worcester, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Alma mater. Hall, J. H: (Je '29)
Along old trails. Simpson, W: H. (Je '29)
Alphabet of aviation. Jones, P. (Mr '29)
Alraune. Ewers, H. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Altai-Himalaya. Roerich, N. K. (Ag '29)
Altai mountains
Roerich, N. K. Altai-Himalaya. (Ag '29)
Wilson, H. C., and Mitchell, E. R. Vagabonding at fifty. (Je '29)
Am I getting an education? (S '29)
Amateur theatricals
Dolman, J: Art of play production. (Mr '29)
Amazing Benjamin Franklin. Smythe, J: H:, ed. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Amazing life of John Law. Oudard, G. (Mr '29)
Amazon of the desert. Krasnov, P. N. (Ap '29)
The ambassador. Freeman, J. E: (Je '29)
Ambassador of peace. Eng title of Versailles to Rappallo, 1920-1922. D'Abernon, E. V. (My '29)
Ambassadors
Willson, B. America's ambassadors to England (1785-1929). (Ap '29)
America

Antiquities

Verrill, A. H. Old civilizations of the New world. (S '29)

Discovery and exploration

Strawn, A. Sails & swords. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

America and Europe. Zimmern, A. E. (S '29)
America challenged. Carr, L: F. (S '29)
America of today. Eng title of Through English eyes. Spender, J: A. (Mr '29)
America set free. Keyserling, H. A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
American architecture. Kimball, S. F. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
American background. Portus, G. V. (O '29)
American backlogs. Roosevelt, E. K. and K., comps. (Je '29)
American ballads and songs
Smith, R., comp. South Carolina ballads. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
American beauty. Meeker, A., jr. (Je '29)
American business adventure. Dix, M. H. (My '29)
American caravan, New. (N '29)
American colonies. Jernegan, M. W. (Ag '29)
American colony. Brackett, C: (O '29)
American community in action. Steiner, J. F: (Mr '29)
American diplomacy in the modern world. Bullard, A. (Ap '29)
American drama
Duffus, R. L. American renaissance. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Collections

Eastman, F., ed. Modern religious dramas. (Mr '29)
Goin' home. (Ag '29)
Isaacs, E. J., ed. Plays of American life and fantasy. (Ag '29)

History and criticism

Mantle, B. American playwrights of today. (D '29)

American essays
Bachelor, J. M., and Henry, R. L., eds. Challenging essays in modern thought. (Je '29)
Hastings, W: T., and Mason, K. O., eds. Essays from five centuries. (N '29)
Shepard, O., ed. Contemporary essays. (O '29)
American estimates. Canby, H: S. (My '29)
American experiment. Faÿ, B., and Claflin, A. (Ap '29)
American fiction
O'Brien, E: J. H. Dance of the machines. (D '29)
Pearson, E. L. Dime novels. (D '29)

History and criticism

Marble, A. Study of the modern novel. (Ap '29)

American folk and fairy tales. Field, R. L., comp. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
American foreign relations. Mathews, J: M. (N '29)
American foreign relations, 1928. Howland, C: P., ed. (My '29)
American Indian frontier. Macleod, W: C. (Mr '29)
American investment trusts. Fowler, J: F. (Je '29)

American literature
Karsner, D: Sixteen authors to one. (My '29)
Mims, E. Adventurous America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Bibliography
Manly, J: M., and Rickert, E. Contemporary American literature. (D '29)

Collections
American caravan, New. (N '29)
Quinn, A. H., and others. Literature of America. (S '29)

History and criticism
Canby, H: S. American estimates. (My '29)
Foerster, N., ed. Reinterpretation of American literature. (My '29)
Leisy, E. E. American literature. (O '29)
Munson, G. B. Style and form in American prose. (D '29)
Van Dyke, H: Man behind the book. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

American literature. Leisy, E. E. (O '29)
American marriage and family relationships. Groves, E. R., and Ogburn, W: F. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
American Negro. American academy of political and social science, Philadelphia. (My '29)
American Negro folk-songs. White, N. I. (Mr '29)
American party battle. Beard, C: A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
American plants for American gardens. Roberts, E. A., and Rehmann, E. (Ag '29)
American playwrights of today. Mantle, B. (D '29)

American poetry

Collections
Aiken, C. P., comp. American poetry, 1671-1928. (Ag '29)
Auslander, J., and Hill, F. E., comps. Winged horse anthology. (S '29)
Braithwaite, W: S. B., ed. Anthology of magazine verse for 1927; and, Yearbook of American poetry. (Mr '29)
Moult, T:, comp. Best poems of 1928. (Mr '29)
Moult, T:, comp. Best poems of 1929. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sanders, G. de W., and Nelson, J: H. eds. Chief modern poets of England and America. (S '29)

History and criticism
Kreymborg, A. Our singing strength. (D '29)
Russell, C: E: Hour of American poetry. (S '29)
Wood, C. Hunters of heaven. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Selections, extracts, etc.
Wood, C. Hunters of heaven. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

American poetry, 1671-1928. Aiken, C. P., comp. (Ag '29)
American policy toward Russia since 1917. Schuman, F: L: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
American polo. Bent, N. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
American press opinion, Washington to Coolidge. Nevins, A., comp. (Mr '29)
American reconstruction, 1865-1870, and the impeachment of President Johnson. Clemenceau, G. E. B: (Mr '29)
American renaissance. Duffus, R. L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
American rock gardens. Hamblin, S. F. (S '29)
American scholar. Foerster, N. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
American secretaries of state and their diplomacy, v 6-10. Bemis, S: F., ed. (Mr, Je, S '29)
American whaleman. Hohman, E. P. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
American woman and her bank. Mott, B. Q. (N '29)

Americans in Cuba
Woon, B. D. When it's cocktail time in Cuba. (Ap '29)

America's ambassadors to England (1785-1929). Willson, B. (Ap '29)
America's naval challenge. Moore, F: (S '29)
America's part. Reilly, H: J. (Mr '29)

Amino acids
Mitchell, H. H., and Hamilton, T. S. Biochemistry of the amino acids. (S '29)

Amundsen, Roald Engelbregt Gravning
Partridge, B. Amundsen, the splendid Norseman. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Amundsen, the splendid Norseman. Partridge, B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Amusements
Elsom, J. C. Community recreation. (N '29)
May, H: L:, and Petgen, D. Leisure and its use. (My '29)
Analytical principles of the production of oil, gas and water from wells. Herold, S. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Analyticus, pseud. See Wise, J. W.
Ananias. Pach, W. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Anarchism is not enough. Riding, L. (My '29)

Anastasia, grand duchess of Russia
Rathlef-Keilmann, H. von. Anastasia. (Je '29)
Anatomy of emotion. Lazell, E: W: (S '29)
Ancestor Jorico. Locke, W: J: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Ancestor-worship
Willoughby, W: C: Soul of the Bantu. (Ap '29)
Ancient explorers. Cary, M., and Warmington, E. H. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Ancient pagan symbols. Goldsmith, E. E. (O '29)
And then came Ford. Merz, C: (My '29)
And was made man. Hodgson, L. (Ag '29)

Andalusia

Description and travel
Nexø, M. A. Days in the sun. (Je '29)

Andrew Jackson. Karsner, D: (My '29)
Andrew Johnson. Stryker, L. P. (Ag '29)
Andy breaks trail. Skinner, C. L. (Ap '29)
Angel arms. Fearing, K. (Ag '29)
Angels and earthly creatures. Wylie, E. (Je '29)

Angkor, Cambodia
Casey, R. J. Four faces of Siva. (Ag '29)
Anglo-American preaching. McKeehan, H. D., ed. (Mr '29)

Angora, Turkey

Description
Dewey, J: Impressions of soviet Russia and the revolutionary world. (Je '29)

Animal industry
Wardle, R. A. Principles of applied zoology. (N '29)

Animal intelligence
Hingston, R: W: G: Instinct and intelligence. (Ag '29)
Animal mysteries. Boulenger, E: G: (Ag '29)
Animal parasitology. Hegner, R. W., and others. (S '29)

Animal pictures
Daglish, E. F. Animals in black and white, v 1-2. (Mr '29)

Animals
Jennison, G: Noah's cargo. (Mr '29)

Habits and behavior
Blair, W: R. In the Zoo. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Boulenger, E: G: Animal mysteries. (Ag '29)
Eipper, P. Animals looking at you. (D '29)
Hingston, R: W: G: Instinct and intelligence. (Ag '29)
Rossell, L. Tracks & trails. (Je '29)

Legends and stories
Mukerji, D. G. Hindu fables. (O '29)
Norwood, E. P. Circus menagerie. (D '29)
Peattie, D. C. and L. Down wind. (S '29)
Skipper, M. Jungle meeting-pool. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Animals in black and white, v 1-2. Daglish, E. F. (Mr '29)

Animals in literature
Douglas, N. Birds and beasts of the Greek anthology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Animals looking at you. Eipper, P. (D '29)

Anise, pseud. See Strong, A. L.
Annals of the New York stage, v 3-4. Odell, G: C. D. (Ap '29)

Anne, queen of Great Britain
Brown, B. C. Alas, Queen Anne. (N '29)
Anne Stuart, queen of England. Eng title of Alas, Queen Anne. Brown, B. C. (N '29)
Annie Besant. West, G. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Another day. Farnol, J. (D '29)
Another part of the world. Mackail, D. G: (Ap '29)

Antarctic regions
Elias, E. L. Young folk's book of polar exploration. (S '29)
Greely, A. W. Polar regions in the twentieth century. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Anthologia graeca
Douglas, N. Birds and beasts of the Greek anthology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Anthologia graeca. Greek anthology. (Ag '29)

Anthologies
Riding, L., and Graves, R. Pamphlet against anthologies. (Mr '29)
Anthology of magazine verse for 1927; and, Yearbook of American poetry. Braithwaite, W: S. B., ed. (Mr '29)
Anthology of recent philosophy. Robinson, D. S., comp. (My '29)
Anthology of revolutionary poetry. Marcus, S., comp. (S '29)
Anthology of world poetry. Van Doren, M., ed. (Ap '29)

Anthropology
Boas, F. Anthropology and modern life. (Mr '29)
Foster, T. S. Travels and settlements of early man. (Ag '29)
Hankins, F. H. Introduction to the study of society. (Ap '29)
Lowie, R. H. Are we civilized? (N '29)

Anthropology, Biblical
Astley, H. J: D. Biblical anthropology. (S '29)
Anthropology and modern life. Boas, F. (Mr '29)

Antipathies and prejudices
Clarke, E. L. Art of straight thinking. ( N '29)
Antiquamania. Roberts, K. L: (Ap '29)

Antiques
Rawson, M. N. Country auction. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Ants
Forel, A. H. Social world of the ants compared with that of man. (S '29)

Apache Indians
Davis, B. Truth about Geronimo. (D '29)

Apes
Yerkes, R. M. and A. Great apes. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Apes. Phillpotts, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Apes and parrots. Squire, J: C., comp. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Aphorisms and apothegms
Smith, L. P., ed. Treasury of English aphorisms. (My '29)
Aphrodite. Gould, W. (My '29)
Applause. Brown, B. (Mr '29)
Appraisal of a social studies course. Bamesberger, V. C. (D '29)
Appreciation of music. Wilm, G. G. (Ag '29)
Approach to the psychology of religion. Flower, J: C. (Mr '29)

Arabia

Description and travel

Rutter, E. Holy cities of Arabia. (D '29)

Arabian romances and folk-tales. Katibah, H. I. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Arabs in Palestine
Samuel, M. What happened in Palestine. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Arbitration, International
Hill, N. L. Public international conference. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hughes, C: E. Pan American peace plans. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mead, L. T. Law or war. (Ap '29)
Miller, D: H. Peace pact of Paris. (Mr '29)

History

Ralston, J. H. International arbitration, from Athens to Locarno. (S '29)

Archbishop Davidson and the English church. Dark, S. (Ag '29)

Archeology
Peake, H. J: E:, and Fleure, H. J: Steppe & the sown. (My '29)

Archer, Owen, pseud. See Greenwood, A: G:

Archery
Lambert, A. W., jr. Modern archery. (D '29)

Architectural drawing
Guptill, A. L. Drawing with pen and ink. (O '29)

Architecture
Youtz, P. N. Sounding stones of architecture. (O '29)

England

Clark, K. Gothic revival. (My '29)

France

Markham, V. R. Romanesque France. (O '29)

United States

Kimball, S. F. American architecture. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Klauder, C: Z., and Wise, H. C. College architecture in America. (N '29)
Stanley-Brown, K. Young architects. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Starrett, W: A. Skyscrapers, and the men who build them. (Mr '29)

Architecture, Domestic
Adams-Acton, M. Domestic architecture and old furniture. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Stanley-Brown, K. Young architects. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Italy

Harte, G. B. Villas of Pliny. (Ag '29)

Architecture, Gothic
Clark, K. Gothic revival. (My '29)

Architecture, Roman
Harte, G. B. Villas of Pliny. (Ag '29)

Architecture, Romanesque
Markham, V. R. Romanesque France. (O '29)

Arctic regions
Ashton, J. M. Ice-bound. (Ap '29)
Brainard, D: L. Outpost of the lost. (Je '29)
Elias, E. L. Young folk's book of polar exploration. (S '29)
Ellsworth, L., ed. Air pioneering in the Arctic. (S '29)
Giudici, D. Tragedy of the Italia. (Ap '29)
Greely, A. W. Polar regions in the twentieth century. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Green, F. Bob Bartlett. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lundborg, E. P. A. M. Arctic rescue. (Je '29)
Parijanine, M. The Krassin. (Ap '29)
Streeter, D. W. Arctic rodeo. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Arctic rescue. Lundborg, E. P. A. M. (Je '29)
Arctic rodeo. Streeter, D. W. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Arden, Clive, pseud. See Nutt, L. C.
Ardent eighties. Weinstein, G. (Ag '29)
Are we civilized? Lowie, R. H. (N '29)

Aristotle
Chance, R. J. F. Until philosophers are kings. (Ag '29)

Arithmetic

Problems, exercises, etc.

Collins, A. F: Fun with figures. (Mr '29)

Arizona

Biography

Lockwood, F. C. Arizona characters. (Je '29)

Arizona characters. Lockwood, F. C. (Je '29)
Armies of the first French Republic. Phipps, R. W. (D '29)
Armistice. Mottram, R. H. (Ap '29)
Armour wherein he trusted. Webb, M. G. (Je '29)

Art
Gibson, K. Goldsmith of Florence. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Marvin, F. S., and Clutton-Brock, A. F., eds. Art and civilization. (S '29)

Art—Continued
Pach, W. Ananias. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
West, R. Strange necessity. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Addresses, essays, lectures
Rosenfeld, P. By way of art. (Ap '29)

History
Hector, G. M. Peeps at arts & crafts. (Mr '29)
Rochemont, R. de. Evolution of art. (Je '29)
Seaby, A. W: Art in the life of mankind. (Ap '29)

Study and teaching
Duffus, R. L. American renaissance. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Mathias, M. E. Art in the elementary school. (S '29)

England
Whitley, W: T. Art in England, 1800-1820. (Je '29)

Florence
Gibson, K. Goldsmith of Florence. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

France
Sedgwick, H: D. France. (S '29)

Italy
Schoonmaker, F. Come with me through Italy. (D '29)

Mexico
Brenner, A. Idols behind altars. (N '29)

Turkestan
Le Coq, A. von. Buried treasures of Chinese Turkestan. (D '29)

United States
Duffus, R. L. American renaissance. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
La Follette, S. Art in America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Galleries and museums
Duffus, R. L. American renaissance. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

History
La Follette, S. Art in America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Art, Byzantine
Byron, R. Byzantine achievement. (N '29)
Byron, R. The station. (My '29)

Art, Gothic
Sitwell, S. Gothick North. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Art, Greek
Beardsley, G. M. Negro in Greek and Roman civilization. (Ja '30 )(1929 Annual)
Miller, W. Daedalus and Thespis. (O '29)

Art, Renaissance
Taylor, R. A. Leonardo the Florentine. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Art, Roman
Beardsley, G. M. Negro in Greek and Roman civilization. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Strong, E. Art in ancient Rome. (My '29)

Art and civilization
Marvin, F. S., and Clutton-Brock, A. F., eds. (S '29)

Art and mythology
Goldsmith, E. E. Ancient pagan symbols. (O '29)

Art criticism
Pach, W. Ananias. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Art in America. La Follette, S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Art in ancient Rome. Strong, E. (My '29)

Art in England, 1800-1820. Whitley, W: T. (Je '29)

Art in the elementary school. Mathias, M. E. (S '29)

Art in the life of mankind. Seaby, A. W: (Ap '29)

Art industries and trade
Gibson, K. Goldsmith of Florence. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Hector, G. M. Peeps at arts & crafts. (Mr '29)

Art objects
Grantham, A. E. Porcelain pagodas and palaces of jade. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Art of flying. Macmillan, N. (My '29)

Art of life. Ellis, H. (Ag '29)

Art of play production. Dolman, J: (Mr '29)

Art of playwriting. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Art of playwriting. Williams, J. L., and others. (Ag '29)

Art of straight thinking. Clarke, E. L. (N '29)

Art of the dance. Duncan, I. (Ap '29)

Art of the photographer. Young, E: D. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Art of thinking. Dimnet, E. (Mr '29)

Artagnan, Charles de Baatz de Castelmore, styling himself comte d'

Fiction
Féval, P., and Lassez, M. Years between, v 3-4. (Ap '29)

Arthur, King
Geoffrey of Monmouth. Historia regum Britanniæ. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Articles de Paris. Huddleston, S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Artificial silk. Reinthaler, F. (N '29)

An artist passes. Giusti, A. (S '29)

Artists
Gibson, K. Goldsmith of Florence. (F' 30) (1929 Annual)
Pach, W. Ananias. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rothenstein, J: K. Pot of paint. (Je '29)

Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.
Chase, J. C. Romance of an art career. (Ap '29)

Artists, American
Carrick, A. V. Shades of our ancestors. (Ap '29)

Artists, Mexican
Brenner, A. Idols behind altars. (N '29)

Artsybashev, Boris Mikhailovich, illus.
Fairy shoemaker. (Je '29)

Arturo Toscanini. Nicotra, T. (Je '29)

As far as Jane's grandmother's. Olivier, E. (My '29)

As God made them. Bradford, G. (My '29)

As I know them. Kohut, R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

As they saw us. Viereck, G: S., and Branden, A. P. M., eds. (Ag '29)

Asbury, Francis
Duren, W: L. Francis Asbury. (Ap '29)

Ascensions. Masson, T: L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Ascent of humanity. Heard, G. (O '29)

Ashes. Zeromski, S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Ashton, Helen, pseud. See Jordan, H. R.

Ashton, Winifred. See Dane, C., pseud.

Asia
Biography
Hall, J. W. Eminent Asians. (N '29)

Description and travel
Clavijo, R. G. de. Embassy to Tamerlane, 1403-1406. (Je '29)
Sherwood, M., and Mantz, H. E. Road to Cathay. (Mr '29)

Asia, Central
Strong, A. L. Red star in Samarkand. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Description and travel
Roerich, N. K. Altai-Himalaya. (Ag '29)
Wilson, H. C., and Mitchell, E. R. Vagabonding at fifty. (Je '29)

Asia, Western
History
Wilson, A. T. Persian gulf. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Aspects of biography. Maurois, A. (S '29)

Aspects of Doctor Johnson. Roscoe, E: S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Assessments and anticipations. Eng title of Labels & libels. Inge, W: R. (My '29)

Association management. Holtzclaw, H: F. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Assyria
History
Smith, S. Early history of Assyria. (O '29)
Astor, John Jacob
Smith, A. D. H. John Jacob Astor. (Je '29)
Astrology
Rose, W. My stars! (Je '29)
Astronomy
Jeans, J. H. Astronomy and cosmogony. (Ap '29)
Jeans, J. H. Eos. (N '29)
Jeans, J. H. Universe around us. (N '29)
Luyten, W. J. Pageant of the stars. (Ap '29)
Olcott, W: T., and Putnam, E. W. Field book of the skies. (D '29)
Smart, W: M. Sun, the stars and the universe. (Ap '29)
Astronomy and cosmogony. Jeans, J. H. (Ap '29)
At home among the atoms. Kendall, J. (My '29)
Athletics
Bickley, G. Handbook of athletics. (Ag '29)
Duncan, M. M., and Cundiff, V. P. Play days for girls and women. (D '29)
Athos, Mount
Byron, R. The station. (My '29)
Atlantic states
Description and travel
Gordon, J. and C. J. On wandering wheels. (Mr '29)
Atmosphere of love. Maurois, A. (O '29)
Attic room. Coffin, R. P: T. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Attila
Brion, M. Attila. (Ag '29)
Attila. Santangelo, P. E. (S '29)
Auction bridge
Whitehead, W. C. Championship bridge hands. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Audacious Audubon. Muschamp, E: A. (N '29)
Audubon, John James
Muschamp, E: A. Audacious Audubon. (N '29)
Augur, pseud. See Poliakoff, V.
Augustine, Saint, bp. of Hippo
Marlatt, E. B. Protestant saints. (My '29)
Aunt Green, Aunt Brown and Aunt Lavender. Beskow, E. (Je '29)
Austin Dobson. Dobson, A. (O '29)
Australia
Description and travel
Wilkins, G: H. Undiscovered Australia. (Ap '29)
Discovery and exploration
Scott, E., ed. Australian discovery by sea. (D '29)
Exiles
Rashleigh, R., pseud. Adventures of an outlaw. (S '29)
Social life and customs
Wilkins, G: H. Undiscovered Australia. (Ap '29)
Australian discovery by sea. Scott, E., ed. (D '29)
Austria
Description and travel
Gedye, G: E. R. Wayfarer in Austria. (My '29)
Economic conditions
Pasvolsky, L. Economic nationalism of the Danubian states. (S '29)
Austria-Hungary
Politics and government
Jászi, O. Dissolution of the Habsburg monarchy. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Authority (theology)
Anson, H. Authority in religion. (N '29)
Authority in religion. Anson, H. (N '29)
Authority of the Bible. Dodd, C: H. (Ag '29)
Authors
Frye, P. H. Visions & chimeras. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Rascoe, B. Bookman's daybook. (Je '29)
Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.
Benjamin, L: S. Not all the truth. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Etherege, G: Letterbook. (Je '29)
Lucas, E: V. The Colvins and their friends. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Authors, American
Ellsworth, W: W. Creative writing. (Je '29)
Karsner, D: Sixteen authors to one. (My '29)
Winterich, J: T. Books and the man. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Authors, English
Winterich, J: T. Books and the man. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Authors and patrons
Collins, A. S. Authorship in the days of Johnson. (S '29)
Collins, A. S. Profession of letters. (S '29)
Authors and publishers
Collins, A. S. Authorship in the days of Johnson. (S '29
Collins, A. S. Profession of letters. (S '29)
Author's annual, 1929. Lanier, H: W., ed. (S '29)
Authorship
Collins, A. S. Authorship in the days of Johnson. (S '29)
Collins, A. S. Profession of letters. (S '29)
Ellsworth, W: W. Creative writing. (Je '29)
Handbooks, manuals, etc.
Lanier, H: W., ed. Author's annual, 1929. (S '29)
Authorship in the days of Johnson. Collins, A. S. (S '29)
Autobiography
Maurois, A. Aspects of biography. (S '29)
Autobiography. Coolidge, C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Autobiography. Haldane of Cloan, R: B. H. (My '29)
An autobiography. Hornby, E. G. (My '29)
Autobiography, v 2, Jørgensen, J. (S '29)
Autobiography of Ousâma. Usâmah ibn Murshid. (Ag '29)
Automobile industry and trade
Dunn, R. W. Labor and automobiles. (S '29)
MacManus, T. F., and Beasley, N. Men, money, and motors. (Ag '29)
Automobile touring
Ellis, M. H. Express to Hindustan. (N '29)
Automobiles
Laws and regulations
Wilson, G: L. Motor traffic management. (Ap '29)
Painting
Miskella, W: J. Practical automotive lacquering. (Ap '29)
Avatar in Vishnu land. Warburton, S. (Mr '29)
Aviation and all about it. Collins, A. F: (D '29)
Aviators
Maitland, L. J. Knights of the air. (O '29)
Avigation by dead reckoning. Elm, I. E. (D '29)
Awake and rehearse. Bromfield, L: (Je '29)
Aztecs
Verrill, A. H. Old civilizations of the New world. (S '29)
Azure cities. (Ag '29)

Babes and sucklings. Wylie, P. (Je '29)
Babes in the wood. Arlen, M., pseud. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Baccarat club. Rickard, J. L. (S '29)
Back to stay. Leonard, J. (Je '29)
Background for Caroline. Jordan, H. R. (D '29)
Background of the Bible. Booth, H: K. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Background of the Russian revolution. Meyendorff, A. F. (N '29)
Bacteria
Park, W: H., and Williams, A. W. Who's who among the microbes. (Ag '29)

Bacteriology
Buchanan, R. E., and Fulmer, E. I. Physiology and biochemistry of bacteria. (Je '29)
Johnson, A. L. Bacteriology of the home. (O '29)
Bacteriology of the home. Johnson, A. L. (O '29)
Badger on investment principles and practices. Badger, R. E. (S '29)
Bagdad
History
Levy, R. Baghdad chronicle. (O '29)
Baghdad air mail. Hill, R. (S '29)
Baghdad chronicle. Levy, R. (O '29)
Bagot, Sir Charles
Glazebrook, G. P. de T. Sir Charles Bagot in Canada. (Ag '29)
Bakhtiari mountains
Sackville-West, V. M. Twelve days. (Mr '29)
Bakunin, Mikhail Aleksandrovich
Fiction
Bacchelli, R. Devil at the Long bridge (Il diavolo al Pontelungo). (Ag '29)
Balance of births and deaths, v 1. Kuczynski, R. R. (My '29)
Balboa, Vasco Nuñez de
Strawn, A. Sails & swords. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Baldwin, Mrs Faith. See Cuthrell, F.
Balearic islands
Goldring, D. People and places. (Ag '29)
Balkan pivot: Yugoslavia. Beard, C: A., and Radin, G: (My '29)
Balkan states
Armstrong, H. F. Where the East begins. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Social life and customs
Durham, M. E. Some tribal origins, laws and customs of the Balkans. (O '29)
Ballads
Smith, R., comp. South Carolina ballads. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Ballads, American
Dolph, E: A., ed. Sound off! (S '29))
Shay, F., comp. More pious friends and drunken companions. (Mr '29)
Smith, R., comp. South Carolina ballads. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Ballads, English
Baskervill, C: R. Elizabethan jig and related song drama. (S '29)
Balloon. Colum, P. (O '29)
Balls (parties)
Barbour, S. On with the dance. (N '29)
Ballyhoo for a mendicant. Talbott, C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Baltimore and Ohio railroad
Hungerford, E: Story of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, 1827-1927. (Je '29)
Balzac, Honoré de
Gozlan, L. Balzac in slippers. (Je '29)
Balzac in slippers. Gozlan, L. (Je '29)
Bandaged face. Ponder, Z. I. (My '29)
Bandits (Les haïdoucs). Istrati, P. (S '29)
Bandits and the Southern Pacific. Glasscock, C. B. (My '29)
Bands and rebels. Wallis, K. (S '29)
Banjo. McKay, C. (Ag '29)
Bankers' balances. Watkins, L. L. (N '29)
Banks and banking
Mlynarski, F. J: Gold and central banks. (Ag '29)
Mott, B. Q. American woman and her bank. (N '29)
Herzog, P: W. Morris plan of industrial banking. (N '29)
Branch banks
Harr, L. A. Branch banking in England. (S '29)
France
Rogers, J. H., and others. Process of inflation in France 1914-1927. (S '29)
Great Britain
Harr, L. A. Branch banking in England. (S '29)
United States
Hoggson, N. F. Epochs in American banking. (O '29)
Watkins, L. L. Bankers' balances. (N '29)
Bantus
Willoughby, W: C: Soul of the Bantu. (Ap '29)
Barbarian. Skinner, D. (Je '29)
Barbarian stories. Mitchison, N. (S '29)
Barbé-Marbois, François, marquis de
Barbé-Marbois, F. Our revolutionary forefathers. (Ap '29)
Bards and bardism
Spence, L: Mysteries of Britain. (D '29)
Bare hands. Daniel, H. (S '29)
Baroda
Sayaji Rao III, mahárájá gaekwár of Baroda. Speeches and addresses, 1877-1927. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Barrie, Sir James Matthew
Darton, F: J. H. J. M. Barrie. (Je '29)
Hammerton, J: A. Barrie. (N '29)
Barrington, E., pseud. See Beck, L.
Barron Ixell, crime breaker. Schisgall, O. (N '29)
Bartlett, Robert Abram
Green, F. Bob Bartlett. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Bartolomé de las Casas. Brion, M. (Ap '29)
Bases of modern science. Sullivan, J: W: N. (My '29)
Bashkirtseva, Mariĭa Konstantinovna
Cahuet, A. Moussia; the life and death of Marie Bashkirtseff. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Basket ball
Anderson, L. E. Basketball for women. (D '29)
Frymir, A. W. Basket ball for women. (Je '29)
Basket ball for women. Frymir, A. W. (Je '29)
Basketball for women. Anderson, L. E. (D '29)
Battle of behaviorism. Watson, J: B., and MacDougall, W: (Je '29)
Baudelaire, Charles Pierre
Porché, F. Charles Baudelaire. (Mr '29)
Beaconsfield, Benjamin Disraeli, 1st earl of
Beaconsfield, B: D. Letters to Lady Chesterfield and Lady Bradford. (N '29)
Beatitudes
Hayes, D. A. Heights of Christian blessedness. (N '29)
Beatrice (clipper-ship)
Villiers, A. J. Falmouth for orders. (Je '29)
Beaumarchais, Pierre Augustin Caron de
Dalsème, R. Beaumarchais, 1732-1799. (D '29)
Beautiful years. Williamson, H: (O '29)
Beauty? I wonder. Coursen, D. (O '29)
Beddoes, Thomas Lovell
Snow, R. H. Thomas Lovell Beddoes, eccentric & poet. (Mr '29)
Beebe, Elswyth Thane. See Thane, E., pseud.
Bees
Gilman, A. Practical bee-breeding. (My '29)
Beethoven, Ludwig van
Mason, D. G. Dilemma of American music. (Ap '29)
Mies, P. Beethoven's sketches. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Rolland, R. Beethoven the creator. (O '29)
Schauffler, R. H. Beethoven. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Beethoven the creator. Rolland, R. (O '29)
Beethoven's sketches. Mies, P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Beginning to garden. Wodell, H. P. (Je '29)
Beginnings of man. James, E. O. (My '29)
Behavior of young children. Waring, E. M., and Wilker, M. (D '29)
Behaviorism (psychology)
Dorsey, G: A. Hows and whys of human behavior. (Ap '29)
Leary, D. B. Modern psychology, normal and abnormal. (Mr '29)
Markey, J: F. Symbolic process and its integration in children. (O '29)

Patrick, G: T: W. What is the mind? (Ag '29)
Sherman, M. and I. Process of human behavior. (S '29)
Troland, L. T. Fundamentals of human motivation. (Mr '29)
Watson, J: B., and MacDougall, W: Battle of behaviorism. (Je '29)
Behind your front. Oppenheim, J. (Ap '29)
Behold the man. Rittelmeyer, F. (D '29)
Belgian problems since the war. Piérard, L: (O '29)

Belgium

Colonies

Lichtervelde, L: de. Léopold of the Belgians. (S '29)

Politics and government

Lichtervelde, L: de. Léopold of the Belgians. (S '29)

Beliefs of 700 ministers. Betts, G: H. (Ag '29)
Beliefs that matter. Brown, W: A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Believe it or not! Ripley, R. L. (Ap '29)
Belinda. Belloc, H. (My '29)

Bell, Alexander Graham

Mackenzie, C. D. Alexander Graham Bell. (Mr '29)
Belphégor. Benda, J. (Je '29)

Bengal

History

Ray, P. C. Life and times of C. R. Das. (N '29)

Bennett, James Gordon, 1795-1872

Seitz, D. C. James Gordon Bennetts. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bennett, James Gordon, 1841-1918

Seitz, D. C. James Gordon Bennetts. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bentham, Jeremy

Halévy, E. Growth of philosophic radicalism. (My '29)

Beowulf

Lawrence, W: W. Beowulf and epic tradition. (Mr '29)
Beowulf and epic tradition. Lawrence, W: W. (Mr '29)

Berkeley, Anthony, pseud. See Cox, A. B.

Bernard of Clairvaux, Saint

Marlatt, E. B. Protestant saints. (My '29)
Berrington. Parry, E: (O '29)

Besant, Mrs Annie (Wood)

West, G. Annie Besant. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Best British short stories of 1929. O'Brien, E: J. H., ed. (D '29)
Best English detective stories of 1928. Knox, R. A., and Harrington, H:, eds. (D '29)
Best European short stories of 1928. Eaton, R:, ed. (Je '29)
Best poems of 1928. Moult, T:, comp. (Mr '29)
Best poems of 1929. Moult, T:, comp. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Best short stories of 1929; and, The yearbook of the American short story. O'Brien, E: J. H., ed. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Between fairs. Gibson, W. W. (Je '29)
Between the lines. McKenna, S. (N '29)
Between twelve and one. Vahey, J: G: H. (O '29)
Between war and peace. Boeckel, F. B. (Ap '29)
Betwixt heaven and Charing cross. Burrell, M. (My '29)
Beware after dark! Harré, T: E., ed. (D '29)

Beyle, Marie Henri

Hazard, P. Stendhal (Henri Beyle). (Je '29)
Zweig, S. Adepts in self-portraiture. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Beyond agnosticism. Bell, B. I. (S '29)

Bhagavadgītā

Saunders, K. J. Gospel for Asia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bible. Whole

Selections

Bible. Whole. Selections. Cambridge shorter Bible. (N '29)

Commentaries

Eiselen, F: C., and others. Abingdon Bible commentary. (D '29)
Gore, C:, and others, eds. New commentary on Holy Scripture. (Ap '28)

Criticism, interpretation, etc.

Booth, H: K. Background of the Bible. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Warfield, B: B. Biblical doctrines. (N '29)

Evidences, authority, etc.

Dodd, C: H. Authority of the Bible. (Ag '29)

History of biblical events

Langstaff, J: B. From now to Adam. (Ap '29)
Powys, L. Cradle of God. (D '29)
Simms, P. M. Bible from the beginning. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Trattner, E. R. Unravelling the Book of books. (S '29)

Versions, English

Wild, L. H. Romance of the English Bible. (S '29)

Bible. Old Testament

Biography

Kittel, R. Great men and movements in Israel. (S '29)

Literary character

Baldwin, E: C. Types of literature in the Old Testament. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Stories

De La Mare, W. J: Stories from the Bible. (N '29)

Study and teaching

Smith, R. S. Use of the Old Testament in current curricula. (S '29)

Parts of the Old Testament

Prophetical books

Smith, G: A. Book of the twelve prophets. (S '29)

Single books

Genesis

Powys, T. F. Interpretation of Genesis. (N '29)

Isaiah

Torrey, C: C. Second Isaiah. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Jeremiah

Jefferson, C: E: Cardinal ideas of Jeremiah. (My '29)
Welch, A. C. Jeremiah, his time and his work. (Ag '29)

Apocrypha

Hurst, G: L. Literary background of the New Testament. (My '29)

Bible. New Testament

Bulcock, H. Religion and its New Testament expression. (S '29)

Commentaries

Moffatt, J. General epistles. (My '29)

Criticism, interpretation, etc.

Malden, R: H: Religion and the New Testament. (O '29)

Gospels

Dalman, G. H. Jesus-Jeshua. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Hodgson, L. And was made man. (Ag '29)

History

Hurst, G: L. Literary background of the New Testament. (My '29)
Malden, R: H: Religion and the New Testament. (O '29)

Single books

St. John

Saunders, K. J. Gospel for Asia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bible. New Testament—Single books—Continued

Colossians

Robertson, A. T: Paul and the intellectuals. (Je '29)

Bible from the beginning. Simms, P. M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Bible in literature

Forrest, W: M. Biblical allusions in Poe. (Ag '29)

Biblical allusions in Poe. Forrest, W: M. (Ag '29)

Biblical anthropology. Astley, H. J: D. (S '29)

Biblical doctrines. Warfield, B: B. (N '29)

Bibliography

Van Hoesen, H: B., and Walter, F. K. Bibliography, practical, enumerative, historical. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Best books

English, T: H., and Pope, W. B. What to read. (D '29)

Lanier, H: W., ed. Author's annual, 1929. (S '29)

First editions

Winterich, J: T. Books and the man. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Bibliography of pulp and paper making, 1900-1928. West, C. J., comp. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Bibliography of the Negro in Africa and America. Work, M. N., comp. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bibliography, practical, enumerative, historical. Van Hoesen, H: B., and Walter, F. K. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bibliomania

Starrett, V. Penny wise and book foolish. (Ag '29)

Bierce, Ambrose

De Castro, A. D. Portrait of Ambrose Bierce. (Je '29)

Grattan, C. H. Bitter Bierce. (My '29)

Neale, W. Life of Ambrose Bierce. (N '29)

Big game hunting and collecting in East Africa, 1903-1926. Kittenberger, K. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Big Shot. Packard, F. L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Bigger and better murders. Eng title of Great American band-wagon. Merz, C: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bill Haywood's book. Haywood, W: D. (Je '29)

Billiard room mystery. Flynn, B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Binandeli (Papuan people)

Williams, F. E. Orokaiva magic. (Mr '29)

Biochemistry of the amino acids. Mitchell, H. H., and Hamilton, T. S. (S '29)

Biography (as a literary form)

Maurois, A. Aspects of biography. (S '29)

Biography (individual)

Abbott, C. C. Life and letters of George Darley. (Je '29)

Adams, J. Q. Diary, 1794-1845. (Mr '29)

Agate, J. E. Rachel. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Alexander, J. A. Life of George Chaffey. (O '29)

Andrews, M. R. A lost commander: Florence Nightingale. (Je '29)

Anthony, K. S. Queen Elizabeth. (N '29)

Aretz, G. Queen Louise of Prussia, 1776-1810. (Je '29)

Arvin, N. Hawthorne. (N '29)

Asbury, H. Carry Nation. (N '29)

Aston, G: G. Biography of the late Marshal Foch. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Bacon, R. H. S. Life of Lord Fisher of Kilverstone. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Baker, G: P. Hannibal. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Barbé-Marbois, F. Our revolutionary forefathers. (Ap '29)

Barton, W: E. Lineage of Lincoln. (Ag '29)

Beaconsfield, B: D. Letters to Lady Chesterfield and Lady Bradford. (N '29)

Beer, T: Hanna. (D '29)

Bell, C. Proust. (Ap '29)

Belloc, H. Richelieu. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Benson, A. L: Daniel Webster. (D '29)

Benson, E: F: Life of Alcibiades. (My '29)

Béraud, H. My friend Robespierre. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bertram, A. Life of Sir Peter-Paul Rubens. (O '29)

Bertrand, L: Louis XIV. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Beveridge, A. J. Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1858. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bie, O. Schubert, the man. (Ap '29)

Bikle, L. L. George W. Cable. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Boas, R. P. and L. S. Cotton Mather. (Mr '29)

Bobbé, D. Abigail Adams, the second first lady. (My '29)

Booth, E. Stealing through life. (Ag '29)

Bordeaux, H. Saint Francis de Sales. (N '29)

Borgman, A. S. Thomas Shadwell, his life and comedies. (Je '29)

Bowen, M., pseud. William, prince of Orange. (My '29)

Boyd, T: A. Mad Anthony Wayne. (D '29)

Brett, O. Wellington. (Mr '29)

Brion, M. Attila. (Ag '29)

Brion, M. Bartolomé de las Casas. (Ap '29)

Brown, H. C. Grandmother Brown's hundred years, 1827-1927. (D '29)

Buchan, J: Montrose. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bugnet, C: Foch speaks. (Ag '29)

Burdett, O. The Brownings. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Burr, A. R. Weir Mitchell. (D '29)

Burton, M. E. Mabel Cratty. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Butler, E. M. Tempestuous Prince: Hermann Pückler-Muskau. (Je '29)

Buxhoeveden, S. K. Life and tragedy of Alexandra Feodorovna. (Mr '29)

Cahuet, A. Moussia; the life and death of Marie Bashkirtseff. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Callahan, J. Man's grim justice. (Ag '29)

Campbell, J. M. Transplanted heather. (My '29)

Canot, T. Adventures of an African slaver. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Cantor, E. My life is in your hands. (My '29)

Carleton, G: Memoirs. (S '29)

Carr, H. W. Leibniz. (My '29)

Carré, J. M. Goethe. (N '29)

Champion, P. H. J. B. Louis XI. (O '29)

Charpentier, J: Coleridge, the sublime somnambulist. (N '29)

Charteris, J: Field-Marshal Earl Haig. (Je '29)

Chesterton, A. E. St Teresa. (Je '29)

Chew, S: C. Swinburne. (Je '29)

Chidsey, D. B. Bonnie Prince Charlie. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Chidsey, D. B. Marlborough. (O '29)

Chinard, G. Thomas Jefferson. (D '29)

Clark, L. P. Napoleon. (O '29)

Clark-Kennedy, A. E. Stephen Hales. (N '29)

Comper, F. M. M. Life of Richard Rolle. (Ap '29)

Coolidge, C. Autobiography. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Cortés, H. Five letters, 1519-1526. (Ag '29)

Cox, S. Robert Frost. (Je '29)

Curle, R: Last twelve years of Joseph Conrad. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Dakin, E. F. Mrs Eddy. (O '29)

Dalsème, R. Beaumarchais, 1732-1799. (D '29)

Da Ponte, L. Memoirs; tr. by Elisabeth Abbott. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Da Ponte, L. Memoirs; tr. by L. A. Sheppard. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Dark, S. Archbishop Davidson and the English church. (Ag '29)

Darton, F: J. H. J. M. Barrie. (Je '29)

D'Auvergne, E. B. F. Napoleon the Third. (N '29)

Day, L. Paganini of Genoa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Dean, H. Pedro Gorino. (My '29)

De Castro, A. D. Portrait of Ambrose Bierce. (Je '29)

De Haas, J. Louis D. Brandeis. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

De Koven, A. Horace Walpole and Madame du Deffand. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Delarus-Mardrus, L. Sainte Therese of Lisieux. (D '29)

Dent, J. M. Memoirs, 1849-1926. (Mr '29)

Der Ling, princess. Kowtow. (D '29)

Der Ling, princess. Old Buddha. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Desti, M. Untold story; the life of Isadora Duncan. (Ap '29)
Diapea, W: Cannibal Jack. (Ap '29)
Dickens, H: F. Memories of my father. (Ap '29)
Dies, E: J. The plunger [Benjamin P. Hutchinson]. (Ag '29)
Dix, M. H. American business adventure. (My '29)
Dobson, A. Austin Dobson. (O '29)
Dostoevskaĭa, A. G. Diary of Dostoyevsky's wife. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Dottin, P. Life and strange and surprising adventures of Daniel De Foe. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Downey, F. D. Grande Turke; Suleyman the Magnificent. (Ag '29)
Downs, B. W. Richardson. (Ap '29)
Du Hausset, Mme. Memoirs of Madame de Pompadour. (My '29)
Duncan, I., and MacDougall, A. R. Isadora Duncan's Russian days. (Ap '29)
Dupré, H. Purcell. (Ap '29)
Duren, W: L. Francis Asbury. (Ap '29)
Dyer, F. L:, and others. Edison, his life and inventions. (O '29)
Eadie, T. I like diving (Ag '29)
Eaton, J. Daughter of the Seine. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Elam, S: M. George Borrow. (Je '29)
Elgin, M. Letters. (Mr '29)
Ellis, A. Life of an ordinary woman. (D '29)
Emerson, E. Adventures of Theodore Roosevelt. (Je '29)
Endore, S. G. Casanova. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Farington, J. Farington diary, v 8. (O '29)
Fausset, H. l'A. William Cowper. (Mr '29)
Faÿ, B. Franklin. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Fetzer, H. Book of Rabelais. (Mr '29)
Fife, R. H. Young Luther. (My '29)
Finger, C: J. A man for a' that; the story of Robert Burns. (D '29)
Flitcroft, J: E. Novelist of Vermont [Daniel Pierce Thompson]. (Je '29)
Flower, W. N. Franz Schubert. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Fuller, J: F: C: Generalship of Ulysses S. Grant. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Garrod, H. W: Collins. (My '29)
Geer, W. Napoleon and his family, v 2. (Ap '29)
Genthe, A. Isadora Duncan. (Ag'29)
Gissing, G: R. Selections autobiographical and imaginative. (N '29)
Gladstone, H. J: G. After thirty years. (Mr '29)
Glazebrook, G. P. de T. Sir Charles Bagot in Canada. (Ag '29)
Glück, E. John Mitchell, miner. (Je '29)
Gogh, V. van. Further letters of Vincent Van Gogh, v 3. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Goldsmith, M. Frederick the Great. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gordon, T. Born to be. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gorman, H. S. Incredible marquis, Alexandre Dumas. (O '29)
Gozlan, L. Balzac in slippers. (Je '29)
Graf, O. M. Prisoners all. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Graham, E. Albert, king of the Belgians. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Graham, S. Peter the Great. (D '29)
Gramont, E. de. Pomp and circumstance. (S '29)
Grattan, C. H. Bitter Bierce. (My '29)
Gray, J. Doomed ship. (Ap '29)
Green, F. Bob Bartlett. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hackett, F. Henry the Eighth. (My '29)
Haldane of Cloan, R: B. H. Autobiography. (My '29)
Hammerton, J: A. Barrie. (N '29)
Hardy, F. E., comp. Early life of Thomas Hardy, 1840-1891. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Harper, G: M. William Wordsworth. (O '29)
Hart, W: S. My life east and west. (Ag '29)
Hartmann, C. H. Magnificent Montmorency. (My '29)
Hawthorne, N. Heart of Hawthorne's journals. (Je '29)
Haywood, W: D. Bill Haywood's book. (Je '29)
Hazard, P. Stendhal (Henri Beyle). (Je '29)
Hegemann, W. Frederick the Great. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Helm, K. True story of Mary, wife of Lincoln. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Henderson, H. W. The enchantress [Dianne de Poitiers]. (Mr '29)
Hibben, P. Peerless leader: William Jennings Bryan. (D '29)
Hogarth, D: G: Life of Charles M. Doughty. (Mr '29)
Holden, R. P. Abraham Lincoln. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Holdsworth, W: S. Charles Dickens as a legal historian. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hollis, C. Dr Johnson. (My '29)
Horn, A. A., pseud. Waters of Africa. (S '29)
Hornby, E. G. An autobiography. (My '29)
House, E: M. Intimate papers of Edward House. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Howe, E. W. Plain people. (My '29)
Howe, M. A. De W. James Ford Rhodes. (Je '29)
Howells, W: D. Life in letters. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Huddleston, S. Louis XIV in love and in war. (Ag '29)
Hügel, F. Letters to a niece. (Ap '29)
Hull, I: Commodore Hull. (N '29)
Hunt, F. Custer, the last of the cavaliers. (Ap '29)
Irwin, W. Herbert Hoover. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Irwin, W: H: House that shadows built [story of Adolph Zukor]. (Ap '29)
James, J. A. Life of George Rogers Clark. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
James, M. The Raven; a biography of Sam Houston. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Johnson, G. W. Randolph of Roanoke. (Je '29)
Johnson, S: His career and writings. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Johnson, W. F. George Harvey. (D '29)
Jones, C. M. D. Lord's minstrel [St Francis of Assisi]. (Mr '29)
Jørgensen, J. Autobiography, v 2, (S '29)
Jouvenel, H: de. Stormy life of Mirabeau. (S '29)
Karsner, D: Andrew Jackson. (My '29)
Keller, H. A. Midstream. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Kobald, K: Franz Schubert and his times. (Ap '29)
La Fayette, M. M. Secret history of Henrietta, princess of England. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Landau, R. Pilsudski and Poland. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Langbridge, R. G. Charlotte Brontë. (D '29)
Lascelles, E: C: P. Granville Sharp and the freedom of slaves in England. (Ap '29)
Lavedan, H. L. E. Heroic life of Saint Vincent de Paul. (N '29)
Lawton, M. Schumann-Heink, the last of the Titans. (Ap '29)
Lee, U. The Lord's horseman [John Wesley]. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Leonard, J. N. Loki. (O '29)
Leonora Christina. Memoirs. (S '29)
Lewinsohn, R: Mystery man of Europe: Sir Basil Zaharoff. (D '29)
Lewis, D. B. W. King Spider; [Louis XI, king of France]. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Lewis, L. Myths after Lincoln. (Ag '29)
Lewisohn, L. Mid-channel. (Je '29)
Lichtervelde, L: de. Léopold of the Belgians. (S '29)
Liddell Hart, B. H: Sherman, soldier, realist, American. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lipsky, A. John Wesley. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Little, S. George Washington. (N '29)
Lockyer, T. M. and W. L. Life and work of Sir Norman Lockyer. (Je '29)
Loth, D: G. The Brownings. (My '29)
Lucas, E: V. The Colvins and their friends. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Lucas-Dubreton, J. Fourth musketeer; the life of Alexander Dumas. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Biography (individual)—Continued

Lunn, A. H: M. John Wesley. (Je '29)
Lutz, A. Emma Willard, daughter of democracy. (Ag '29)
Lynch, D. T. Epoch and a man; Martin Van Buren and his times. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
McCoy, S: D. This man Adams. (Mr '29)
Mackenzie, C. D. Alexander Graham Bell. (Mr '29)
Macphail, A. Three persons. (Ag '29)
Mansfield, K., pseud. Letters. (Mr '29)
Marcu, V. Lenin. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Mariéjol, J. H. Daughter of the Medicis [Margaret of Valois]. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Marjoribanks, E: For the defense; the life of Sir Edward Marshall Hall. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Matthiessen, F. O: Sarah Orne Jewett. (Je '29)
Mayne, E. C. Life and letters of Anne Isabella Lady Noel Byron. (S '29)
Mégroz, R. L: Dante Gabriel Rossetti. (Ap '29)
Merezhkovskii, D. S. Napoleon, the man. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Merz, C: And then came Ford. (My '29)
Meynell, V. Alice Meynell. (O '29)
Miller, F. T. Lindbergh. (N '29)
Mitchell, B. William Gregg, factory master of the old South. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Monroe, A. S. World I saw. (Mr '29)
Moore, C: Life and times of Charles Follen McKim. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Morse, J: T. Thomas Sergeant Perry. (Ag '29)
Mott, T: B. Myron T. Herrick. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mowat, R. B. Life of Lord Pauncefote. (My '29)
Muir, E. John Knox. (O '29)
Mumford, L: Herman Melville. (My '29)
Munthe, A. M. F. Story of San Michele. (O '29)
Murat, M. Private life of Catherine the Great of Russia. (Je '29)
Murphy, C: J. V. Struggle; the life and exploits of Commander Richard E. Byrd. (Ap '29)
Muschamp, E: A. Audacious Audubon. (N '29)
Mussolini, B. My autobiography. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Napoleon I. Memoirs. (Je '29)
Nazaroff, A. I. Tolstoy, the inconstant genius. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Neale, W. Life of Ambrose Bierce. (N '29)
Nelson, W: H. Tinker and thinker: John Bunyan. (Mr '29)
Neumann, P. Diary. (My '29)
Nevinson, H: W. Last changes, last chances. (Mr '29)
Newton, T: W. L. Life of the Marquess of Lansdowne. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Nicholas II, emperor of Russia. Letters of the tsar to the tsaritsa, 1914-1917. (Ag '29)
Nicotra, T. Arturo Toscanini. (Je '29)
Nock, A. J., and Wilson, C. R. Francis Rabelais. (D '29)
O'Connor, T: P. Memoirs of an old parliamentarian. (S '29)
Orpen, A. E. R. Memories of the old emigrant days in Kansas, 1862-1865. (Je '29)
Oudard, G. Amazing life of John Law. (Mr '29)
Oudard. G. Peter the Great. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Owen, R. D. My perilous life in Palestine. (Ag '29)
Paine, S. Eilley Orrum. (Ag '29)
Paléologue, G. M. Tragic empress. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Palmer, F: Clark of the Ohio. (S '29)
Palmerston, H: J: T., and Gladstone, W: E. Gladstone and Palmerston. (Ap '29)
Partridge, B. Amundsen, the splendid Norseman. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Pell, J: Ethan Allen. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Penman, J: S. Lafayette and three revolutions. (Ag '29)
Pennell, E. Life and letters of Joseph Pennell. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Pepys, S: Further correspondence, 1662-1679. (My '29)
Perkins, J. R. Trails, rails and war; the life of General G. M. Dodge. (Je '29)
Perry, T: S. Selections from [his] letters. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Pless, M. T. O. Daisy, princess of Pless. (My '29)
Polk, J. K. Polk. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Pollard, A. F: Wolsey. (O '29)
Ponsonby, A. A: W: H. Samuel Pepys. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual )
Porché, F. Charles Baudelaire. (Mr '29)
Postgate, R. W: That devil Wilkes. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Putnam, S: François Rabelais. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Rathlef-Keilmann, H. von. Anastasia. (Je '29)
Redlich, J. Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. (Ap '29)
Reese, L. W. Victorian village. (N '29)
Repplier, A. Père Marquette, priest, pioneer, and adventurer. (Mr '29)
Revere, P. Paul Revere's own story. (S '29)
Rhees, H. C. Laurenus Clark Seelye. (Je '29)
Rheinbaben, R. Stresemann, the man and the statesman. (Ag '29)
Richards, L. E. Laura Bridgman. (Ap '29)
Riesemann, O. von. Moussorgsky. (Ap '29)
Roberts, P. I. F. B. Meyer. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Rodman, H. Yarns of a Kentucky admiral. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rogers, C. Cyrano. (D '29)
Rogers, H: M. Memories of ninety years. (Mr '29)
Rolland, R. Beethoven the creator. (O '29)
Ronaldshay, L. J: L. D. Life of Lord Curzon, v 1. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Roof, K. M. Colonel William Smith and lady. (S '29)
Roscoe, E: S. Aspects of Doctor Johnson. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rourke, C. M. Troupers of the Gold Coast; or, The rise of Lotta Crabtree. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rühle, O: Karl Marx. (Ag '29)
Russell, J: A. Joseph Warren Fordney. (My '29)
Russell, P. Emerson, the wisest American. (D '29)
Sacco, N., and Vanzetti, B. Letters. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Saghaphi, M. K. In the imperial shadow. (Ap '29)
Sand, G:, pseud. Intimate journal. (Ag '29)
Saunderson, H: H. Charles W. Eliot, Puritan liberal. (Mr '29)
Schalit, L. John Galsworthy. ( S '29)
Schauffler, R. H. Beethoven. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Schiff, J. H: Jacob H. Schiff. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Schurz, C. Intimate letters. (N '29)
Scott, T. Oliver Goldsmith bibliographically and biographically considered. (My '29)
Secrett, T. Twenty-five years with Earl Haig. (S '29)
Seitz, D. C. From Kaw teepee to capitol; the story of Charles Curtis. (Ap '29)
Sellers, C: C. Lorenzo Dow, the bearer of the Word. (Mr '29)
Sencourt, R. E. Life of George Meredith. (N '29)
Sermoneta, V. Things past. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sharp, D. L. Boys' life of John Burroughs. (My '29)
Shaw, A. Abraham Lincoln. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Shelley, P. B. Letters. (S '29)
Sherwin, O. Mr. Gay [author of the Beggar's opera]. (Ag '29)
Smith, A. D. H. John Jacob Astor. (Je '29)
Smith, A. E. Up to now. (N '29)
Smith, C. H. Bridge of life. (Ag '29)
Smith, E. W: Aggrey of Africa. (N '29)
Smith, M. S. Story of Napoleon. (Mr '29)
Smythe, J: H:, ed. Amazing Benjamin Franklin. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Snow, R. H. Thomas Lovell Beddoes, eccentric & poet. (Mr '29)
Speight, H. E. B. Life and writings of John Bunyan. (Mr '29)

Śpinoza, B. de Correspondence of Spinoza. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Spring Rice, C. Letters and friendships. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Spurr, H. A. Life and writings of Alexandre Dumas. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Stanley, A. F. E. Later letters, 1864-1876. (D '29)
Steel, F. A. Garden of fidelity. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Stern, E. G. When love comes to woman. (S '29)
Strachey, G. L. Elizabeth and Essex. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Straus, R. Charles Dickens. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Stryker, L. P. Andrew Johnson. (Ag '29)
Tagore, R. Letters to a friend. (S '29)
Tate, A. Jefferson Davis. (N '29)
Taylor, R. A. Leonardo the Florentine. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Thaddeus, V: Voltaire, genius of mockery. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Tiltman, H. H. J. Ramsay MacDonald. (N '29)
Tolstaĭa, S. A. Diary of Tolstoy's wife, v 1. (Ap '29)
Tolstoi, L. N., and Tolstaĭa, A. A. Letters (1857-1903). (Ag '29)
Townsend, W. and L. Biography of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Tu Fu. Tu Fu: autobiography. (D '29)
Tuan, M.-L. Simonde de Sismondi as an economist. (Ag '29)
Turnbull, A. D. Commodore David Porter, 1780-1843. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Ueland, A. Recollections of an immigrant. (My '29)
Van Every, E: Muldoon. (N '29)
Vaucaire, M. Bolivar the Liberator. (S '29)
Victoria Adelaide Mary Louisa, consort of Frederick III, German emperor. Letters. (Mr '29)
Wagenknecht, E: C: The man Charles Dickens. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Wallace, E. People. (Je '29)
Warren, R. P. John Brown. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Warwick, F. E. Life's ebb and flow. (N '29)
Waugh, W: T. James Wolfe, man and soldier. (My '29)
Wehner, G: B. A curious life. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Werner, M. R. Bryan. (Je '29)
West, G. Annie Besant. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Westermarck, E. A. Memories of my life. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Whiffen, B. Keeping off the shelf. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Whitaker-Wilson, C. Franz Schubert, man and composer. (Je '29)
Whitlock, B. La Fayette. (N '29)
Whitton, F: E. Wolfe and North America. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Whyte, F: William Heinemann. (My '29)
Wiegler, P. William the First. (S '29)
Wilkinson, C. Dampier, explorer and buccaneer. (D '29)
Williams-Ellis, A. Exquisite tragedy; an intimate life of John Ruskin. (Ap '29)
Wilson, D: A. Carlyle to threescore-and-ten (1853-1865). (O '29)
Wilson, F. John Wilkes Booth. (My '29)
Wilson, H. E. Mary McDowell, neighbor. (Je '29)
Winkler, J: K. John D. (S '29)
Wood, C. King Henry the rake. (Je '29)
Woods, E. H. Robert A. Woods. (Je '29)
Woodward, W: E. Meet General Grant. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wright, E. H. Meaning of Rousseau. (S '29)
Ybarra, T: R. Bolivar, the passionate warrior. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Young, A. On my way. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Zeitlin, J., and Woodbridge, H. E. Life and letters of Stuart P. Sherman. (N '29)
Zucker, A. E. Ibsen, the master builder. (D '29)
Zweig, S. Adepts in self-portraiture. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Biography (collective)
Abdullah, A., and Pakenham, T. C. Dreamers of empire. (D '29)
Barry, P. B. Sinners down the centuries. (N '29)
Bashford, H: H. Harley Street calendar. (D '29)
Benjamin, L: S. Stage favourites of the eighteenth century. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Bigham, C. Kings of England, 1066-1901. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Bishop, M. Gallery of eccentrics. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Bolitho, W:, pseud. Twelve against the gods. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Bradford, G. As God made them. (My '29)
Bridges, T: C:, and Tiltman, H. H. Kings of commerce. (D '29)
Clark, B. H., comp. Great short biographies of the world. (Ap '29)
Cournos, J: Modern Plutarch. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Dark, S. Twelve bad men. (My '29)
Gleichen-Russwurm, A. Dandies and Don Juans. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hall, J. W. Eminent Asians. (N '29)
Hodgson, S. Portraits and reflections. (O '29)
Lewis, C: L. Famous old-world sea fighters. (N '29)
Martin, W: Statesmen of the war in retrospect, 1918-1928. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Stokes, S. Pilloried! (S '29)
Taylor, G: R. S. English political portraits of the nineteenth century. (S '29)
Thompson, C: W. Presidents I've known and two near presidents. (Ap '29)
Weigall, A. E: P. B. Personalities of antiquity. (Ag '29)
White, W: A. Masks in a pageant. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wilson, G. Human side of science. (D '29)
Wright, R. L. Forgotten ladies. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Biography of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales. Townsend, W. and L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Biography of the late Marshal Foch. Aston, G: G. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Biology
Cleveland, F: A., ed. Modern scientific knowledge of nature, man, and society. (O '29)
Cunningham, J. T: Modern biology. (O '29)
Fox, H. M. Blue blood in animals. (S '29)
Hankins, F. H. Introduction to the study of society. (Ap '29)

Juvenile literature
Williams-Ellis, A. How you began. (Je '29)
Biology of spiders. Savory, T. H. (Mr '29)
Bird in hand. Drinkwater, J: (Ag '29)
Bird of God. Hersch, V. (D '29)

Birds

Legends and stories
Peattie, D. C. and L. Down wind. (S '29)

South Carolina
Sass, H. R. On the wings of a bird. (S '29)
Birds and beasts of the Greek anthology. Douglas, N. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Birds got to fly. Blodgett, R. R. (O '29)

Birds in literature
Douglas, N. Birds and beasts of the Greek anthology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Birmingham, George A., pseud. See Hannay, J. O.

Birth control
Sanger, M. Motherhood in bondage. (Mr '29)
Bishop murder case. Van Dine, S. S., pseud. (Ap '29)

Bison, American
Branch, E: D. Hunting of the buffalo. (My '29)
Bitter Bierce. Grattan, C. H. (My '29)
Bitter sweet. Coward, N. P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Bitter sweet, McCann, R. (Ag '29)
Bitter waters. Hauser, H. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Bituminous coal
Hamilton, W. H., and Wright, H. R. Way of order for bituminous coal. (O '29)
Black Ace. Dilnot, G: (Ap '29)

Black America. Nearing, S. (Je '29)
Black camel. Biggers, E. D. (O '29)
Black Christ. Cullen, C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Black democracy. Davis, H. P. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Black Dudley murder. Allingham, M. (Ag '29)
Black flower. Abbott, J. L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Black gale. Shellabarger, S: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Black gold. McBlair, R. (Je '29)
Black magic. Morand, P. (Ag '29)
Black pigeon. Austin, A. (S '29)
Black roadways. Beckwith, M. W. (O '29)
Black rock. Fletcher, J: G. (Ap '29)
Black roses. Young, F. B. (N '29)
Black sun. Kandel, A. (O '29)
The blacker the berry. Thurman, W. (My '29)
Bladed barrier. Ames, J. B. (N '29)
Blair's attic. Lincoln, J. C. and F. (O '29)

Blake, William
Saurat, D. Blake and modern thought. (O '29)
Soupault, P. William Blake. (Ag '29)
Blake and modern thought. Saurat, D. (O '29)

Blandford, Massachusetts
Wood, S. G. Ulster Scots and Blandford scouts. (My '29)
Bleston mystery. Kennedy, R. M., pseud. (Ag '29)
Blind. Brown, L. O. (My '29)
Bloody assize. Parry, E: A. (S '29)

Bloody assizes, 1685
Parry, E: A. Bloody assize. (S '29)
Bloody ground. Tarleton, F: (Ap '29)
Blow the man down. Broadhurst, T: W. (O '29)
Blue blood in animals. Fox, H. M. (S '29)
Blue eyes and gray. Orczy, E. (S '29)
Blue gingham cook book. Wolcott, I. B. (Ap '29)
Blue glamor. Waldron, W. (Ag '29)
Blue Juniata. Cowley, M. (O '29)

Boards of trade
Holtzclaw, H: F. Association management. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Boats and boating
Schoettle, E. J., ed. Sailing craft. (Ap '29)
Bob Bartlett. Green, F. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Bob Davis abroad! Davis, R. H. (N '29)
Bob North by canoe and portage. North, R. C. (Mr '29)
Bodily changes in pain, hunger, fear and rage. Cannon, W. B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Body on the floor. Mavity, N. (D '29)

Bolivar, Simón
Vaucaire, M. Bolivar the Liberator. (S '29)
Ybarra, T: R. Bolivar, the passionate warrior. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Fiction

McLaughlin, F. Vale of Aragon. (D '29)
Bolivar the Liberator. Vaucaire, M. (S '29)
Bolivar, the passionate warrior. Ybarra, T: R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Bolshevism

Russia

Batsell, W. R. Soviet rule in Russia. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Dewey, J: Impressions of soviet Russia and the revolutionary world. (Je '29)
Hindus, M. G. Humanity uprooted. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Marcu, V. Lenin. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Thompson, D. New Russia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Bolt. Shore, P. R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Bombardment
Royse, M. W: Aerial bombardment and the international regulation of warfare. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Bonaparte, Unruh, F. von. (My '29)
Bonnie Prince Charlie. Chidsey, D. B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Book collecting
Boutell, H. S. First editions of today and how to tell them. (Ap '29)
Starrett, V. Penny wise and book foolish. (Ag '29)
Book of Bette. Kelly, E. (S '29)
Book of earths. Kenton, E. (Ap '29)
Book of electricity. Parker, B. M. (Ag '29)
Book of English law. Jenks, E: (S '29)
Book of modern short stories. Brewster, D., ed. (My '29)
Book of Monelle. Schwob, M. (Ag '29)
Book of other wines than French. Shand, P. M. (O '29)
Book of Puka-puka. Frisbie, R. D. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Book of Rabelais. Fetzer, H. (Mr '29)
Book of remarkable machinery. Eng title of Boys' book of remarkable machinery. Hawks, E. (My '29)
Book of songs. Macmillan, E., ed. (Ag '29)
Book of sonnet sequences. Peterson, H., ed. (N '29)
Book of tales. Wood, C: E. S. (N '29)
Book of the twelve prophets. Smith, G: A. (S '29)
Book of weaving. Shook, A. N. (Mr '29)

Book ornamentation
Modern book production. (Je '29)
Book shops. Park, R. B. (Ap '29)

Bookbinding
Cockerell, D. Some notes on bookbinding. (N '29)
Matthews, W: F. Bookbinding. (N '29)

Facsimiles

Modern book production. (Je '29)
Bookman's daybook. Rascoe, B. (Je '29)

Books
Orcutt, W: D. Master makers of the book. (Ap '29)

Books and reading
Becker, M. Books as windows. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
English, T: H., and Pope, W. B. What to read. (D '29)
Gray, W: S., and Munroe, R. Reading interests and habits of adults. (Ag '29)
Lowes, J: L. Of reading books. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Books and the man. Winterich, J: T. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Books as windows. Becker, M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Booksellers and bookselling
Mitchell, E. V. Morocco bound. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Park, R. B. Book shops. (Ap '29)

Booth, Bramwell
Mackenzie, F: A. Clash of the cymbals. (N '29)

Booth, Ernest
Booth, E. Stealing through life. (Ag '29)

Booth, Evangeline Cory
Mackenzie, F: A. Clash of the cymbals. (N '29)

Booth, John Wilkes
Lewis, L Myths after Lincoln. (Ag '29)
Wilson, F. John Wilkes Booth. (My '29)

Borax
Teeple, J: E. Industrial development of Searles Lake brines. (O '29)
Borgia. Gale, Z. (D '29)
Born that way. O'Connor, J. (N '29)
Born to be. Gordon, T. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
The boroughmonger. Mottram, R. H. (Je '29)

Borrow, George Henry
Elam, S: M. George Borrow. (Je '29)

Boston. South End house
Barrows, E. G. Neighbors all. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Boston. Sinclair, U. B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Boswell, James
Salpeter, H. Dr Johnson & Mr Boswell. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Bibliography

Pottle, F: A. Literary career of James Boswell. (S '29)

Botany

Ecology

Roberts, E. A., and Rehmann, E. American plants for American gardens. (Ag '29)

China

Wilson, E. H: China, mother of gardens. (Je '29)

United States
Roberts, E. A., and Rehmann, E. American plants for American gardens. (Ag '29)
Both sides of the Jordan. Hamilton, N. R. (Je '29)
Boundaries
Bowman, I. New world. (Je '29)
Bowers, Mrs Eilley (Orrum)
Paine, S. Eilley Orrum. (Ag '29)
Bowery murder. Smith, W. K. (S '29)
Box book. Showalter, H. F. (S '29)
Boxes
Showalter, H. F. Box book. (S '29)
Boy prophet. Fleg, E. (S '29)
Boy scout and his law. Chalmers, B. (My '29)
Boy scout around the world. Huld, P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Boy scouts
Chalmers, B. Boy scout and his law. (My '29)
Lisle, C. Hobnails and heather. (Je '29)
Reimer, E: F. Matching mountains with the Boy scout uniform. (O '29)
Boys
Boorman, W: R. Developing personality in boys. (My '29)
Boys' book of coast guards. Crump, I. (Ag '29)
Boys' book of dogs. Barbour, R. H: (My '29)
Boys' book of remarkable machinery. Hawks, E. (My '29)
Boys' life of John Burroughs. Sharp, D. L. (My '29)
Boy's life of the Wright brothers. Charnley, M. V. (My '29)
Bradford, Selina Louisa (Forester) Bridgeman, countess
Beaconsfield, B: D. Letters to Lady Chesterfield and Lady Bradford. (N '29)
Bradmoor murder. Post, M. D. (My '29)
Brain
Pavlov, I. P. Lectures on conditioned reflexes. (My '29)
Branch banking in England. Harr, L. A. (S '29)
Brand of the sea. Anderson, K. (Je '29)
Brandeis, Louis Dembitz
De Haas, J. Louis D. Brandeis. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Bread
Ashley, W: J. Bread of our forefathers. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Bread of our forefathers. Ashley, W: J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Brearley, Mary, pseud. See Jayne, M.
Bride adorned. Murray, D: L. (My '29)
Bride's house, Powell, D. (Je '29)
Bridge of life. Smith, C. H. (Ag '29)
Bridgman, Laura Dewey
Richards, L. E. Laura Bridgman. (Ap '29)
Brief sketch of the Church of England. Bell, G: K. A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Brigands and robbers
Glasscock, C. B. Bandits and the Southern Pacific. (My '29)
Bright intervals. Hoyt, N. (O '29)
Bright thread. Le Boutillier, C. (Ag '29)
Brighton beach. Eng title of Peep show. Dudeney, A. (Ap '29)
British employment exchange. Seymour, J: B. (N '29)
British food control. Beveridge, W: H: (Ag '29)
British foreign policy under Sir Edward Grey. Montgelas, M. M. K: D. (Mr '29)
British Honduras
Gann, T: W: F. Discoveries and adventures in Central America. (My '29)
British in tropical Africa. Evans, I. L. (Je '29)
British industry today. Selekman, B. M. and S. (O '29)
British plays from the restoration to 1820. Moses, M. J., ed. (Je '29)
British routes to India. Hoskins, H. L. (S '29)
Broadway interlude. Abdullah, A., and Cuthrell, F. (N '29)
Brock, Lynn, pseud. See McAllister, A
Broken marriage. Sullivan, A. (Ag '29)
Bronco Pegasus. Lummis, C: F. (Ap '29)
Bronshtein, Lev Davidovich. See Trotsky, L., pseud.
Brontë, Charlotte
Langbridge, R. G. Charlotte Brontë. (D '29)
Bronzino, Angielo
McComb, A. K. Agnolo Bronzino. (My '29)
Brooks, Jonathan, pseud. See Mellett, J: C.
Brothers and sisters. Compton-Burnett, I. (N '29)
Brown, John
Warren, R. P. John Brown. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Brown, Mrs Maria Dean (Foster)
Brown, H. C. Grandmother Brown's hundred years, 1827-1927. (D '29)
Browne, Robert Gore. See Gore-Browne, R.
Browning, Mrs Elizabeth (Barrett)
Burdett, O. The Brownings. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Loth, D: G. The Brownings. (My '29)
Browning, Robert
Atkins, G. G. Reinspecting Victorian religion. (Ag 29) (1928 Annual)
Burdett, O. The Brownings. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Loth, D: G. The Brownings. (My '29)
The Brownings. Burdett, O. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
The Brownings. Loth, D: G. (My '29)
Bryan, William Jennings
Hibben, P. Peerless leader: William Jennings Bryan. (D '29)
Werner, M. R. Bryan. (Je '29)
Buck fever. Robinson, H: M. (Ag '29)
Buck in the snow. Millay, E. St V. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Buckinghamshire, England
Robinson, R. M. Penn country and the Chilterns. (O '29)
Buddha and Buddhism
Pratt, J. B. Pilgrimage of Buddhism and a Buddhist pilgrimage. (Mr '29)
Saunders, K. J. Gospel for Asia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Buell, Wilder, pseud. See Buell, K. L.
The buffer. Rice, A. C. (Je '29)
Bugle. Hinkle, T: C. (My '29)
Building
Hill, C: S. Winter construction methods. (My '29)
Building and flying model aircraft. Garber, P. E: (Ap '29)
Building materials
Dictionaries
Brady, G: S. Materials handbook. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Bulbs
Thayer, C. L. Spring flowering bulbs. (My '29)
Bull whip. Jervis, V. M. S. (S '29)
Bullets and bolos. White, J: R. (Mr '29)
Bunkhouse man. Bradwin, E. W: (My '29)
Bunyan, John
Nelson, W: H. Tinker and thinker: John Bunyan. (Mr '29)
Speight, H. E. B. Life and writings of John Bunyan. (Mr '29)
Bureau of educational experiments, New York
Johnson, H. M. Children in the Nursery school. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Burgess seashore book for children. Burgess, T. W. (F '30) (1929 Annual) Burgundy
Civilization
Cartellieri O: Court of Burgundy. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Court and Courtiers
Cartellieri, O: Court of Burgundy (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Buried treasures of Chinese Turkestan. Le Coq, A. von. (D '29)
Burning beauty. Bailey, T. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Burning fountain. Chilton, E. C. (My '29)
Burning ring. Burdekin, K. (Ap '29)

Burns, Robert
Finger, C: J. A man for a' that. (D '29)

Fiction
Steuart, J: A. Immortal lover. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Burroughs, John
Sharp, D. L. Boys' life of John Burroughs. (My '29)

Bushwhacking. Clifford, H. C: (Je '29)

Business
Bishop, A. L. Financing of business enterprises. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Goode, K. M. How to turn people into gold. (D '29)
Sprague, J. R. Middleman. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Business education
Kitson, H. D., ed. Commercial education in secondary schools. (Ag '29)

Business management
Shibley, F. W. New way to net profits. (My '29)

But soft—we are observed! Eng title of Shadowed! Belloc, H. (Mr '29)

Buttonwood summer. Kilmer, A. (N '29)

Buying
Frederick, C. Selling Mrs. Consumer. (N '29)

By Soochow waters. Miln, L. (N '29)

By way of art. Rosenfeld, P. (Ap '29)

By way of introduction. Milne, A. A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Byrd, Richard Evelyn
Murphy, C: J. V. Struggle. (Ap '29)

Byron, Anne Isabella (Milbanks) Byron, baroness
Mayne, E. C. Life and letters of Anne Isabella Lady Noel Byron. (S '29)

Byzantine achievement. Byron, R. (N '29)

Byzantine empire
Byron, R. Byzantine achievement. (N '29)

C. I. D. of Dexter Drake. Barker, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

C. V. C. murders. Williams, K. (Ag '29)

Cabinet officers

United States
Bemis, S: F., ed. American secretaries of state and their diplomacy, v 6-10. (Mr, Je, S '29)

Cable, George Washington
Bikle, L. L. George W. Cable. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Caddis. Paradis, M. B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Caesar, Caius Julius
Gundelfinger, F. Mantle of Caesar. (Mr '29)

Cagliostro, Alessandro, conte di, assumed name of Giuseppe Balsamo

Fiction
Guenther, J. von. Cagliostro. (My '29)

Cagliostro. Guenther, J. von. (My '29)

Cain. Godwin, G: S. (N '29)

Calf love. Bartlett, V. (D '29)

California. State prison, San Quentin
Tasker, R. J. Grimhaven. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

California

Gold discoveries
Cossley-Batt, J. L. E. Last of the California rangers. (My '29)

History
Hunt, R. D., and Sánchez, N. Short history of California. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

California, Lower

Description and travel
Cudahy, J: Mañanaland. (Ap '29)
Rothery, A. E. Central America and the Spanish Main. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Callahan, Jack
Callahan, J: Man's grim justice. (Ag '29)

Cambodia

Description and travel
Casey, R. J. Four faces of Siva. (Ag '29)

Cambridge. University
Hall, J. H: Alma mater. (Je '29)

Cambridge ancient history, v 7. (Je '29)

Cambridge history of India, v 3. (N '29)

Cambridge history of the British empire, v 1. (S '29)

Cambridge shorter Bible. Bible. Whole. (N '29)

Campbell, James Mann
Campbell, J. M. Transplanted heather. (My '29)

Camping
Wilder, J. A. Jack-knife cookery. (O '29)

Can women forget? Riddell, F. (N '29)

Canada

Foreign relations

United States
Keenleyside, H. L. Canada and the United States. (O '29)

History
Borden, R. L. Canada in the commonwealth. (S '29)
Martin, C. Empire and commonwealth. (O '29)
Wittke, C. History of Canada. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

To 1763 (New France)
Whitton, F: E. Wolfe and North America. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wrong, G: M. Rise and fall of New France. (Ap '29)

Politics and government
Borden, R. L. Canada in the commonwealth. (S '29)
Glazebrook, G. P. de T. Sir Charles Bagot in Canada. (Ag '29)
Martin, C. Empire and commonwealth. (O '29)

Canada and the United States. Keenleyside, H. L. (O '29)

Canada in the commonwealth. Borden, R. L. (S '29)

Cannibal Jack. Diapea, W: (Ap '29)

Canot, Theodore
Canot, T. Adventures of an African slaver. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual )

Can't get a red bird. Scarborough, D. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Cantor, Eddie
Cantor, E. My life is in your hands. (My '29)

Capitalism
Chesterton, G. K., and Shaw, G: B. Do we agree? (Ag '29)
Humphrey, A. W. Modern case for socialism. (My '29)
Sée, H. E. Modern capitalism. (Ag '29)

Capitalists and financiers
Warshow, R. I. Story of Wall Street. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Cap'n George Fred himself. Tilton, G: F. (Mr '29)

Captain's daughter. Pushkin, A. S. (My '29)

Caprice. Silberer, G. (D '29)

The captive. Proust, M. (S '29)

Capuchins
Cuthbert, Father. The Capuchins. (Je '29)

Car painting and finishing
Hengeveld, H: J:, and others. Practical railway painting and lacquering. (D '29)

Carbon
Mantell, C: L. Industrial carbon. (Je '29)

Carbon compounds
Hurd, C: D. Pyrolysis of carbon compounds. (O '29)

Carbonization
Gentry, F. M. Technology of low temperature carbonization. (Ap '29)

Cardinal ideas of Jeremiah. Jefferson, C: E: (My '29)

Care and handling of dogs. Leonard, J: L. (Ap '29)

Caribbean sea
England. G: A. Isles of romance. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Foster, H. La T. Combing the Caribbees. (Je '29)
Caricatures and cartoons
Low, D: Lions and lambs. (Mr '29)
Shaw, A. Abraham Lincoln. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Carl Akeley's Africa. Akeley, M. L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Carleton, George
Carleton, G: Memoirs. (S '29)
Carlyle, Thomas
Lehman, B: H. Carlyle's theory of the hero. (Je '29)
Wilson, D: A. Carlyle to threescore-and-ten (1853-1865). (O '29)
Carlyle to threescore-and-ten (1853-1865). Wilson, D: A. (O '29)
Carlyle's theory of the hero. Lehman, B: H. (Je '29)
Carmella commands. Ball, W. S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Carmen Sheila. Clay, R. K. (Je '29)
Caroline Ormesby's crime. Adams, H. (O '29)
Carols
Oxford book of carols. (Ap '29)
Carow, Mrs Gertrude Elizabeth (Tyler)
Roosevelt, E. K. and K., comps. American backlogs. (Je '29)
Carow family
Roosevelt, E. K. and K., comps. American backlogs. (Je '29)
Carriers
Reynolds, G: G. Distribution of power to regulate interstate carriers between the nation and the states. (Mr '29)
Carruthers, John, pseud. See Greig, J: Y. T.
Carry Nation. Asbury, H. (N '29)
Carvalho, David Nunes
Carvalho, C., and Sparkes, B. Crime in ink. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Casanova de Seingalt, Giovanni Jacopo
Brunelli Bonetti, B. Casanova loved her. (D '29)
Endore, S. G. Casanova. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Zweig, S. Adepts in self-portraiture. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Casanova loved her. Brunelli Bonetti, B. (D '29)
Casas, Bartolomé de las, bp. of Chiapa
Brion, B. Bartolomé de las Casas. (Ap '29)
Case for the defendant. Aufricht-Ruda, H. (Ag '29)
Case of Constance Kent. Street, C. J: C: (My '29)
Case of Sergeant Grischa. Zweig, A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Case of the black twenty-two. Flynn, B. (My '29)
Case with nine solutions. Stewart, A. W. (Ap '29)
Cases on equity. Durfee, E. N., ed. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Castanets. Reyles, C. (D '29)
Castile
History
Seaver, H: L. Great revolt in Castile. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Castles in Kenya. Riddell, F. (Je '29)
Catalonia
Social life and customs
Langdon-Davies, J: Dancing Catalans. (S '29)
Catalysis
Hilditch, T: P. Catalytic processes in applied chemistry. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Catalytic processes in applied chemistry. Hilditch, T: P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Caterina da Genova, Saint
Hügel, F. Readings. (Ag '29)
Catharine II, empress of Russia
Murat, M. Private life of Catherine the Great of Russia. (Je '29)
Cathedrals
Wade, J. H: Rambles in cathedral cities. (Ap '29)
Catherine Foster. Bates, H. E. (N '29)
Catholic church and healing. Walsh, J. J. (Ag '29)
Catholic-Protestant mind. Moehlman, C. H: (D '29)
Catholicism and Christianity. Cadoux, C. J: (D '29)
Catholicism and the American mind. Garrison, W. E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Catholicism and the modern mind. Williams, M. (Ap '29)
Cats
Eddy, S. J., comp. Alexander and some other cats. (S '29)
Cats in the Isle of Man. Fellowes, D. (N '29)
Cavender's house. Robinson, E. A. (Je '29)
Cawdor. Jeffers, R. (Mr '29)
Cedar box. Nathan, R. (Ag '29)
Cellulose
Rommel, G: M. Farm products in industry. (Je '29)
Cement. Gladkov, F. V. (Ag '29)
Censorship
Graves, W: B., ed. Readings in public opinion. (My '29)
Seldes, G: You can't print that! (Ap '29)
Central America
Antiquities
Gann, T: W: F. Discoveries and adventures in Central America. (My '29)
Description and travel
Crowther, S: Romance and rise of the American tropics. (Ag '29)
Rothery, A. E. Central America and the Spanish Main. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
History
Crowther, S: Romance and rise of the American tropics. (Ag '29)
Relations (general) with United States
Crowther, S: Romance and rise of the American tropics. (Ag '29)
Central America and the Spanish Main. Rothery, A. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Central park murder. Duff, B. (O '29)
Certain poets of importance. Sloss, H. L., comp. (D '29)
Chaffey, George
Alexander, J. A. Life of George Chaffey. (O '29)
Chains. Delmont, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Chains of lightning. Mellett, J: C. (Je '29)
Challenge of the aged. Epstein, A. (Ap '29)
Challenging essays in modern thought. Bachelor, J. M., and Henry, R. L., eds. (Je '29)
Championship bridge hands. Whitehead, W. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Chance
Stoddard, T. L. Luck, your silent partner. (D '29)
Changing family. Fiske, G: W. (My '29)
Changing New England. Whiting, E: E. (D '29)
Channel Islands
Description and travel
Holland. C. Things seen in the Channel Islands. (S '29)
Chapter the last. Hamsun, K. (D '29)
Chapters in the administrative history of mediaeval England, v 3-4. Tout, T: F: (My '29)
Character
Cabot, E. Temptations to rightdoing. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
King, B. Seven torches of character. (My '29)
Saudek, R. Experiments with handwriting. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Characters and characteristics
Croisset, F. de. Our puppet show. (S '29)
Oppenheim, J. Behind your front. (Ap '29)
Characters and events. Dewey, J: (Ag '29)
Chariot wheels. Thompson, S. (D '29)
Charities
Great Britain
Eden, F: M. State of the poor. (S '29)
Charlemagne
Echols, U. W. Knights of Charlemagne (Je '29)

Charles Baudelaire. Porché, F. (Mr '29)
Charles Dickens. Straus, R. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Charles Dickens as a legal historian. Holdsworth, W: S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Charles Edward, the Young Pretender
Chidsey, D. B. Bonnie Prince Charlie. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Francis, G. R. Scotland's royal line. (Ap '29)
Charles V, emperor of Germany
Seaver, H: L. Great revolt in Castile. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Charles W. Eliot, Puritan liberal. Saunderson, H: H. (Mr '29)
Charlotte, empress consort of Maximilian, emperor of Mexico
Fiction
Henderson, D. M. Crown for Carlotta. (D '29)
Charlotte Brontë. Langbridge, R. G. (D '29)
Charlotte Corday and certain men of the revolutionary torment. Scherr, M. (Ap '29)
Chaucer, Geoffrey
Ker, W: P. Form and style in poetry. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Chemical publications. Mellon, M. G. (Ap '29)
Chemicals
Manufacture and industry
Badger, W. L., and Baker, E. M. Inorganic chemical technology. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Chemistry
Glasstone, S: Chemistry in daily life. (N '29)
Kendall, J. At home among the atoms. (My '29)
Bibliography
Mellon, M. G. Chemical publications. (Ap '29)
Study and teaching
Mellon, M. G. Chemical publications. (Ap '29)
Chemistry, Inorganic
Badger, W. L., and Baker, E. M. Inorganic chemical technology. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Chemistry, Medical and pharmaceutical
Stieglitz, J. O., and others, eds. Chemistry in medicine. (My '29)
Chemistry, Organic
Cohn, L. Organic laboratory methods. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hurd, C: D. Pyrolysis of carbon compounds. (O '29)
Chemistry, Physical and theoretical
Cartledge, G. H. Introductory theoretical chemistry. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Chemistry, Technical
Badger, W. L., and Baker, E. M. Inorganic chemical technology. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Glasstone, S: Chemistry in daily life. (N '29)
Hilditch, T: P. Catalytic processes in applied chemistry. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Jones, T: W: Hermes. (D '29)
Little, A. D. Handwriting on the wall. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Riegel, E. R. Industrial chemistry. (My '29)
Rommel, G: M. Farm products in industry. (Je '29)
Chemistry in daily life. Glasstone, S: (N '29)
Chemistry in medicine. Stieglitz, J. O., and others, eds. (My '29)
Cher, Marie, pseud. See Scherr, M.
Chéri. Collette, pseud. (O '29)
Chesterfield, Anne Elizabeth (Forester) Stanhope, countess
Beaconsfield, B: D. Letters to Lady Chesterfield and Lady Bradford. (N '29)
Chestnut court. Tyrrell, M. L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Chicago
Biography
Gilbert, P. T:, and Bryson, C: L. Chicago and its makers. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Description
Drury, J: Chicago in seven days. (Ap '29)
Zorbaugh, H. W. Gold coast and slum. (O '29)
History
Gilbert, P. T:, and Bryson, C: L. Chicago and its makers. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lewis, L., and Smith, H: J. Chicago. (O '29)
Politics and government
Merriam, C: E: Chicago. (S '29)
Public schools
Counts, G: S. School and society in Chicago. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Social conditions
Merriam, C: E: Chicago. (S '29)
Zorbaugh, H. W. Gold coast and slum. (O '29)
Chicago. University. Chapel
Goodspeed, E. J. University of Chicago chapel. (My '29)
Chicago. Lewis, L., and Smith, H: J. (O '29)
Chicago. Merriam, C: E: (S '29)
Chicago and its makers. Gilbert, P. T:, and Bryson, C: L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Chicago in seven days. Drury, J: (Ap '29)
Chief modern poets of England and America. Sanders, G. De W., and Nelson, J: H., eds. (S '29)
Chief of the herd. Mukerji, D. G. (D '29)
Child and the world. Naumburg, M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Child-centered school. Rugg, H. O., and Shumaker, A. (Ap '29)
Child in America. Thomas, W: I: and D. S. (My '29)
Child in primitive society. Miller, N. (S '29)
Child life and religious growth. Bonser, E. M. (Ag '29)
Child study
Arlitt, A. H. Psychology of infancy and early childhood. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Bernfeld, S. Psychology of the infant. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Blatz, W: E., and Bott, H. Parents and the pre-school child. (Ag '29)
Bovet, P. Child's religion. (Ap '29)
Chadwick, M. Difficulties in child development. (My '29)
Gesell, A. L. Infancy and human growth. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Johnson, H. M. Children in the nursery school. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Johnson, M. L. Youth in a world of men. (O '29)
Kirkpatrick, E. A. Fundamentals of child study. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lasker, B. Race attitudes in children. (Ag '29)
Low, B. Psycho-analysis and education. (My '29)
Markey, J: F. Symbolic process and its integration in children. (O '29)
Piaget, J. Child's conception of the world. (Je '29)
Popenoe, P. B. Child's heredity. (N '29)
Sayles, M. B. Problem child at home. (Ap '29)
Sherman, M. and I. Process of human behavior. (S '29)
Thomas, W: I: and D. S. Child in America. (My '29)
Wickman, E. K. Children's behavior and teachers' attitudes. (My '29)
Childhood in exile. Levin, S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Children
Miller, N. Child in primitive society. (S '29)
Care and hygiene
Blatz, W: E., and Bott, H. Parents and the pre-school child. (Ag '29)
Furfey, P. H. Social problems of childhood. (Je '29)
Charities, protection, etc.
Furfey, P. H. Social problems of childhood. (Je '29)
Healy, W:, and others. Reconstructing behavior in youth. (S '29)
Thomas, W: I: and D. S. Child in America (My '29)
Language
Markey, J: F. Symbolic process and its integration in children. (O '29)

Management
Blatz, W: E., and Bott, H. Parents and the pre-school child. (Ag '29)
Chadwick, M. Difficulties in child development. (My '29)
Cosgrave, J. Psychology of youth. (Ap '29)
Groves, E. R. and G. Parents and children. (Ap '29)
Groves, E. R. and G. Wholesome parenthood. (O '29)
Johnson, M. L. Youth in a world of men. (O '29)
Pyle, W: H: Training children. (Je '29)
Walker, K. M. and E. M. On being a father. (N '29)
Waring, E M., and Wilker, M. Behavior of young children. (D '29)
Wickman, E. K. Children's behavior and teachers' attitudes. (My '29)

Children, Abnormal and backward
Healy, W:, and others. Reconstructing behavior in youth. (S '29)
Sayles, M. B. Problem child at home. (Ap '29)

Children as authors
Mearns, H. Creative power. (D '29)

Children in Persia
Mirza, Y. B: Myself when young. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Children in the nursery school. Johnson, H. M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Children of darkness. Mayer, E. J. (S '29)
Children of fire and shadow. Trent, L. (O '29)
Children of Hollywood. Demarest, P. G. (My '29)
Children of the cave. Thompson, E: H. (N '29)
The children reap. Drake, H: B. (S '29)
Children's behavior and teachers' attitudes. Wickman, E. K. (My '29)
Children's country. Burdekin, K. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Children's literature
Abbott, J. L. Black flower. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Adams, P: Clipper ships done in cork models. (N '29)
Aldis, D. Jane's father. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Allee, M. Susanna and Tristram. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Anderson, P. L. With the Eagles. (S '29)
Applegate, F. G. Indian stories from the Pueblos. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Ashley, M. P. Other crowd. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Baker, O. Panther magic. (My '29)
Ball, E. Story Peter told. (N '29)
Ball, W. S. Carmella commands. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Barbour, R. H: Boys' book of dogs. (My '29)
Bazin, R. Juniper farm (Il etait quatre petits enfants). (Ap '29)
Beskow, E. Aunt Green, Aunt Brown and Aunt Lavender. (Je '29)
Beskow, E. Olle's ski trip. (Je '29)
Bianco, M. All about pets. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Bill, A. H. Red prior's legacy. (N '29)
Bonner, M. G. Magic music shop. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Borski, L. M., and Miller, K. B., comps. and trs. Jolly tailor. (Mr '29)
Bradley, M. Alice in Elephantland. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Brann, E. Nanette of the wooden shoes. (S '29)
Brock, T. L. Runaway sardine. (S '29)
Buller, M. Story of Woofin-Poofin. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Burdekin, K. Children's country. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Burgess, T. W. Burgess seashore book for children. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Burleigh, L. Story of the theater, (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Calvin, J. Square-rigged. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Capuana, L. Italian fairy tales. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Casserley, A. T. Whins on Knockattan. (Mr '29)
Cendrars, B. Little black stories for little white children. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Chandler, A. C. Voyage to Treasure land. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Charnley, M. V. Boy's life of the Wright brothers. (My '29)
Chatterton, E: K. Through sea and sky. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Chevalier, J. C. Noah's grandchildren. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Choate, F., and Curtis, E., comps. Little people of the hills. (Mr '29)
Collins, A. F: Fun with figures. (Mr '29)
Crew, H. C. Alanna. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Crew, H. C. Under two eagles. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Crichton, F. E. Peep-in-the-world. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Crosby, P. L. Dear Sooky. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Crownfield, G. Joscelyn of the forts. (O '29)
Crump, I. Boys' book of coast guards. (Ag '29)
Daglish, E. F. Animals in black and white, v 1-2. (Mr '29)
Daniel, H. Bare hands. (S '29)
Daniel, H. Seal of the White Buddha. (Ap '29)
Darrow, F. L. St Nicholas book of science. (My '29)
Davis, M. M. Dr Pete of the Sierras. (Mr '29)
De La Mare, W. J: Stories from the Bible. (N '29)
Dixon, W: M. Cinderella's garden. (Ap '29)
Dobias, F. Picture book of flying. (Ap '29)
Dorey, J. Three and the moon. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dowdall, H. G., and Gleason, J. H. Sham-battle. (N '29)
Dunbar, A. Once there was a prince. (Ap '29)
Eastman, F. Pursuit of the flying baby. (Ag '29)
Eaton, J. Daughter of the Seine. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Echols, U. W. Knights of Charlemagne. (Je '29)
Elias, E. L. Young folk's book of polar exploration. (S '29)
Ernst, C. H., and White, T. M., eds. Opportunity ahead! (O '29)
Eyton, J: S. Kullu of the carts. (S '29)
Fairy shoemaker. (Je '29)
Ferris, H. J., comp. Love comes riding. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Field, R. L. Hitty. (D '29)
Field, R. L. Pocket-handkerchief park. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Field, R. L., comp. American folk and fairy tales. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Finger, C: J. Courageous companions. (D '29)
Forbes, H. C. Mario's castle. (My '29)
Franck, H. A. Marco Polo, junior. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Fraser, C. C. Story of engineering in America. (My '29)
French, J. L:, ed. Pioneers all! (Je '29)
Fyleman, R. Forty good-morning tales. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gág, W. Funny thing. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gibson, K. Goldsmith of Florence. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Gordon, D., ed. Sing it yourself. (Mr '29)
Green, F. Bob Bartlett. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hawks, E. Boys' book of remarkable machinery. (My '29)
Herodotus. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hillyer, V. M. Child's geography of the world. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Holland, R. S. Pirate of the Gulf. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Holway, H. Story of water supply. (D '29)
Huld, P. Boy scout around the world. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Hunt, L. L. 25 kites that fly. (D '29)
Hurlbutt, I. B. Little Heiskell. (Ag '29)
Jacobi, E. P. Adventures of Andris. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Jones, C. M. D. Lord's minstrel. (Mr '29)
Katibah, H. I. Arabian romances and folktales. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Katibah, H. I. Other Arabian nights. (Mr '29)
Kellock, H. Down in the grass. (S '29)
Kelly, E. P. Trumpeter of Krakow. (Mr '29)

Children's literature—Continued
Kettelwell, J: Story of Aladdin and the wonderful lamp. (Ap '29)
Keyes, M. W. Juniper Green. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
King-Hall, S. Child's story of civilization. (Ap '29)
Knipe, E. and A. A. Story of Old Ironsides. (Je '29)
Kožišek, J. Forest story. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Kožišek, J. Magic flutes. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Kyle, A. D. Crusaders' gold. (Ag '29)
Langstaff, J: B. From now to Adam. (Ap '29)
La Prade, E. Marching notes. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Laughlin, C. E. Where it all comes true in France. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Laughlin, C. E. Where it all comes true in Scandinavia. (O '29)
Leighton, R. Olaf the glorious. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lenski, L. Little girl of nineteen hundred. (Ag '29)
Lenski, L. Two brothers and their animal friends. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lenski, L. Wonder city. (O '29)
Lisle, C. Treasure of the Château. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Lofting, H. Noisy Nora. (S '29)
McNeely, M. Jumping-off place. (D '29)
McNeely, M. Rusty Ruston. (Je '29)
McNeer, M. Y., and Ward, L. K. Prince Bantam. (S '29)
Marie, queen consort of Ferdinand, king of Roumania. Magic doll of Roumania. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Martin, D. B. Fatma was a goose. (D '29)
Masson, E. R. Folktales of Brittany. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Meader, S. W. Longshanks. (Ag '29)
Meigs, C. L. Crooked apple tree. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Miller, W. H. Under the admiral's stars. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Milne, A. A. Christopher Robin story book. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mirza, Y. B: Myself when young. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Montgomery, L. M. Magic for Marigold. (D '29)
Moon, G. Magic trail. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Morris, G. E. Tales from Bernard Shaw. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Morse, E. Siamese cat. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mukerji, D. G. Chief of the herd. (D '29)
Mukerji, D. G. Hindu fables. (O '29)
Neumann, D. Timothy travels. (Je '29)
North, R. C. Bob North by canoe and portage. (Mr '29)
Olcott, V. Concetta, the coral girl. (Ap '29)
Orr, G. D., and Schiele, H. P. E. Sally in South Africa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Overton, J. Long Island's story. (S '29)
Patch, E. M. Holiday Pond. (O '29)
Peck, A. M. Storybook Europe. (S '29)
Peck, W. King of Melido. (Mr '29)
Perkins, L. Farm twins. (Mr '29)
Petersham, M. and M. Miki. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Potter, B. Fairy caravan. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Power, R. D. and E. E. More boys and girls of history. (N '29)
Reimer, E: F. Matching mountains with the Boy scout uniform. (O '29)
Rhys, M. Mr Hermit Crab. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Rickert, E. Greedy goroo. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Robida, A. Treasure of Carcassonne. (Mr '29)
Rowe, D. Traveling shops. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sale, J: B. Tree named John. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sandburg, C. Rootabaga country. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Schram, C. W. Olaf, Lofoten fisherman. (D '29)
Schultz, J. W. Skull Head the terrible. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Schwimmer, R. Tisza tales. (Mr '29)
Scott, E., pseud. Witch Perkins. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Ségur, S. Sophie. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Shannon, M. Eyes for the dark. (Mr '29)
Sharp, D. L. Boys' life of John Burroughs. (My '29)
Shumway, H. I. Wonderful voyages of Cap'n Pen. (D '29)
Siebe, J. Kasperle's adventures. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Singmaster, E. Virginia's bandit. (D '29)
Singmaster, E. You make your own luck. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Skinner, C. L. Andy breaks trail. (Ap '29)
Skipper, M. Jungle meeting-pool. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Smith, M. S. Story of Napoleon. (Mr '29)
Speyer, W. Galahads and pussy-cats. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Stewart, A. B. Three white cats of Avignon. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Stratton, C. Harbor pirates. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Swift, H. H. Little Blacknose. (D '29)
Tate, S. J. Sally's A B C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Thomas, L. J. Adventures in Afghanistan for boys. (Je '29)
Thompson, E: H. Children of the cave. (N '29)
Tyrrell, M. L. Chestnut court. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Wells, H. G: Adventures of Tommy. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wells, R. Coco the goat. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
White, E. O. Sally in her fur coat. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Whiteman, E. Jane and Jerry. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Wiese, K. Chinese ink stick. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wiese, K. Karoo, the kangaroo. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Williams-Ellis, A. How you began. (Je '29)
Williamson, H. Monkey tale. (D '29)
Wodell, H. P. Beginning to garden. (Je '29)
Woodruff, E. Dickey Byrd. (Mr '29)
Young, E. Tangle-coated horse. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Youth's companion (periodical). Girl of Tiptop. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Bibliography
Mahoney, B. E., and Whitney, E., comps. Realms of gold in children's books. (S '29)

Children's literature (books about)
Moore, A. C. Three owls. (Ap '29)

Children's plays
Brown, A. Golden ball. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Bufano, R. Pinocchio for the stage. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mitchison, N. M. Nix-nought-nothing. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Reighard, C. F. Plays for people and puppets. (My '29)

Children's poetry
Harrower, M. Plain Jane. (Ag '29)
Lindsay, V. Johnny Appleseed. (Ap '29)
Millay, C. Little Otis. (Ap '29)
Miller, M. B. Menagerie. (My '29)
Paget-Fredericks, J. R. Green pipes. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Tippett, J. S. I go a-traveling. (D '29)

Children's songs
Gordon, D., ed. Sing it yourself. (Mr '29)

Child's conception of the world. Piaget, J. (Je '29)

Child's geography of the world. Hillyer, V. M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Child's heredity. Popenoe, P. B. (N '29)

Child's religion. Bovet, P. (Ap '29)

Child's story of civilization. King-Hall, S. (Ap '29)

Chiltern Hills
Robinson, R. M. Penn country and the Chilterns. (O '29)

China

Civilization
Legendre, A. F. Modern Chinese civilization. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Wilhelm, R: Short history of Chinese civilization. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Commerce

Hamilton, A. Industrial and commercial correspondence. (Ap '29)

Court and courtiers

Der Ling, princess. Old Buddha. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Description and travel

Buxton, L. H. D, China: the land and the people. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Franck, H. A. Marco Polo, junior. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sherwood, M., and Mantz, H. E. Road to Cathay. (Mr '29)
Thomas, J. A. Pioneer tobacco merchant in the Orient. (My '29)
Wilhelm, R: Soul of China. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wilson, E. H: China, mother of gardens. (Je '29)

Economic conditions

Dewey, J: Impressions of soviet Russia and the revolutionary world. (Je '29)

Foreign relations

Bau, M. J. China and world peace. (Ap '29)
Treat, P. J. Far East. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wu, C.-C. Nationalist program for China. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

History

Vinacke, H. M. History of the Far East in modern times. (Mr '29)
Wilhelm, R: Short history of Chinese civilization. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Wilhelm, R: Soul of China. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Williams, E: T: Short history of China. (Ap '29)

Republic, 1912

Strong, A. L. China's million's (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Politics and government

Wu, C.-C. Nationalist program for China. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Social life and customs

Der Ling, princess. Kowtow. (D '29)
Franck, H. A. Marco Polo, junior. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

China and world peace. Bau, M. J. (Ap '29)
China, mother of gardens. Wilson, E. H: (Je '29)
China: the land and the people. Buxton, L. H. D. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
China venture. Graham, D. (Ap '29)
China's millions. Strong, A. L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Chinese ink stick. Wiese, K. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Chinese poetry

Collections

Christy, A., tr. Images in jade. (Je '29)
Jade mountain. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Chinese rugs. Leitch, G. B. (D '29)

Chivalry

Prestage, E., ed. Chivalry. (Ag '29)

Chosen people. Tharaud, J. and J. (My '29)
Christ and society. Gore, C: (Mr '29)
Christ of God. Cadman, S: P. (O '29)
Christian and Jew. Landman, I:, ed. (Ag '29)

Christian art and symbolism

Gardner, P. Principles of Christian art. (Je '29)

Christian biography

Potter, C: F. Story of religion. (S '29)

Christian ethics

Malden, R: H: Religion and the New Testament. (O '29)
Ward, H. F: Our economic morality. (Je '29)

Christian God. Roberts, R: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Christian life

Lushington, F. de W. Christ's way and modern problems. (Ag '29)
Sheen, F. J: Life of all living. (N '29)
Sundar Singh. With and without Christ. (Ag '29)
Valentine, C. H: What do we mean by God? (N '29)

Christian science

Dakin, E. F. Mrs Eddy. (O '29)

Christian union

Ainslie, P: Scandal of Christianity. (Je '29)
Bass, A. B. Protestantism in the United States. (Je '29)
Slosser, G. J. Christian unity. (O '29)

Christian unity. Slosser, G. J. (O '29)

Christianity

Alexander, H. B. Truth and the faith. (N '29)
Atkins, G. G. Making of the Christian mind. (Je '29)
Barnes, H. E. Twilight of Christianity. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Barth, K: Word of God and the word of man. (S '29)
Bell, B. I. Beyond agnosticism. (S '29)
Brown, W: A. Beliefs that matter. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Grammer, C. E. Things that remain. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
McCabe, J. Story of religious controversy. (D '29)
McConnell, F. J: Humanism and Christianity. (O '29)
Orchard, W: E. Present crisis in religion. (N '29)
Sellars, R. W. Religion coming of age. (My '29)
Sperry, W. L. Signs of these times. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Weigall, A. E: P. B. Paganism in our Christianity. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Christianity and other religions

Saunders, K. J. Gospel for Asia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Judaism

Kohler, K. Origins of the synagogue and the church. (Je '29)
Landman, I:, ed. Christian and Jew. (Ag '29)

Christian's alternative to war. Richards, L. (N '29)

Christmas stories

Dawson, C. W: When Father Christmas was late. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Christopher Robin story book. Milne, A. A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Christ's way and modern problems. Lushington, F. de W. (Ag '29)
Chronicles of a countryman. Dyer, W. A. (Mr '29)
Chronicles of a gigolo. Applin, A. (O '29)
Chrysalis. Humphrey, Z. (Ap '29)

Chukchi

Burnham, J: B. Rim of mystery. (Je '29)

Church

Davis, O. S. Credentials of the church. (Ap '29)
Douglass, H. P. Church comity. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Douglass, H. P. City's church. (O '29)
Fiske, C: Confessions of a puzzled parson. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Church and labor

Davis, J. D., ed. Labor speaks for itself on religion. (O '29)

Church and state

Allen, J: W: History of political thought in the sixteenth century. (Mr '29)
Moehlman, C. H: Catholic-Protestant mind. (D '29)

Church and state in Italy

Hearley, J: Pope or Mussolini. (S '29)

Church and state in the United States

Garrison, W. E. Catholicism and the American mind. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Church and war. Stratmann, F. (N '29)

Church architecture

Lamborn, E. A. G. Parish church. (N '29)

Europe

Strzygowski, J. Early church art in northern Europe. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Church architecture—Continued

France

Markham, V. R. Romanesque France. (O '29)

Church comity. Douglass, H. P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Church decoration and ornament
Strzygowski, J. Early church art in northern Europe. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Church history
Atkins, G. G. Making of the Christian mind. (Je '29)
History of Christianity in the light of modern knowledge. (S '29)
Nagler, A. W. Church in history. (Ag '29)

Primitive and early church

Kohler, K. Origins of the synagogue and the church. (Je '29)
Streeter, B. H. Primitive church. (N '29)

Church in history. Nagler, A. W. (Ag '29)

Church of England
Bell, G: K. A. Brief sketch of the Church of England. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dark, S. Archbishop Davidson and the English church. (Ag '29)

Church work
Stock, H. T: Church work with young people. (D '29)

Church work with young people. Stock, H. T: (D '29)

Churches
Douglass, H. P. How to study the city church. (Ap '29)

Churchill street. Wasson, M. (Ap '29)

Cinderella's garden. Dixon, W: M. (Ap '29)

Circling South America. Anderson, I. W. (Je '29)

Circus
Kober, A. H. Star turns. (N '29)
Norwood, E. P. Circus menagerie. (D '29)

Circus menagerie. Norwood, E. P. (D '29)

Cities and towns
Burr, W. Small towns. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Africa

Belloc, H. Towns of destiny. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Europe

Belloc, H. Towns of destiny. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

United States

Anderson, S. Hello towns! (Je '29)
Dorau, H. B., and Hinman, A. G. Urban land economics. (Mr '29)
Lynd, R. S. and H. M. Middletown. (Ap '29)
Steiner, J. F: American community in action. (Mr '29)

Cities of the plain [Sodom et Gomorrhe]. Proust, M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Citizenship
Eldridge, S. New citizenship. (Je '29)
Hill, H. C. Vocational civics. (Ag '29)
Johnston, G: A. Citizenship in the industrial world. (My '29)
Newman, G: Citizenship and the survival of civilization. (O '29)

Great Britain

Gaus, J: M. Great Britain (O '29)

Russia

Harper, S: N. Civic training in soviet Russia. (S '29)

United States

Offutt, M. Protection of citizens abroad by the armed forces of the United States. (N '29)
Pergler, C: Judicial interpretation of international law in the United States. (S '29)

Citizenship and the survival of civilization. Newman, G: (O '29)

Citizenship in the industrial world. Johnston, G: A. (My '29)

City and surburban gardening. Sherlock, C. C. (Ap '29)

City and town life
Thompson, J: G. Urbanization. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

City of to-morrow. Jeanneret, C: E. (N '29)

City planning
Jeanneret, C: E. City of to-morrow. (N '29)
Truxal, A. G. Outdoor recreation legislation and its effectiveness. (D '29)

City's church. Douglass, H. P. (O '29)

Civic training in soviet Russia. Harper, S: N. (S '29)

Civil airports and airways. Black, A. (O '29)

Civil engineering
Binger, W. D: What engineers do. (Je '29)

Civilization
Barnes, H. E. Living in the twentieth century. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Beard, C: A., ed. Whither mankind. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Boas, F. Anthropology and modern life. (Mr '29)
Cowan, A. R. War in world-history. (N '29)
Dawson, C. H: Progress and religion. (N '29)
Folsom, J. K. Culture and social progress. (Ag '29)
Fosdick, R. B. The old savage in the new civilization. (Mr '29)
Haldeman-Julius, E. Outline of bunk. (Ap '29)
Hertz, F. O: Race and civilization. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hoyt, E. E. Consumption of wealth. (O '29)
Jones, T: J. Essentials of civilization. (Ag '29)
Krutch, J. W. Modern temper. (My '29)
Lowie, R. H. Are we civilized? (N '29)
Marvin, F. S., and Clutton-Brock, A. F., eds. Art and civilization. (S '29)
Muller-Freienfels, R. Mysteries of the soul. (O '29)
Noble, E. Our slumbering world. (Ap '29)
Randall, J: H. Our changing civilization. (Je '29)
St. Louis post-dispatch. Drift of civilization. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Wells, H. G: Open conspiracy. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

History

Chapin, F. S. Cultural change. (My '29)
Denison, J: H. Emotion as the basis of civilization. (Ap '29)
Heard, G. Ascent of humanity. (O '29)
Hertzler, J. O. Social progress. (Mr '29)
King-Hall, S. Child's story of civilization. (Ap '29)
Spengler, O. Decline of the West, v 2. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Van Loon, H. W. Man, the miracle maker. (Mr '29)

Civilization, Ancient
Peake, H. J: E., and Fleure, H. J: Steppe & the sown. (My '29)
Smith, G. E. Human history. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Civilization, Assyro-Babylonian
McCown, C. C. Genesis of the social gospel. (S '29)

Civilization, Greek
Zimmern, A. E. Solon & Croesus. (O '29)

Civilization, Maori
Firth, R. W: Primitive economics of the New Zealand Maori. (N '29)

Civilization, Medieval
Cartellieri, O: Court of Burgundy. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Rand, E: K. Founders of the middle ages. (Ap '29)
Sellery, G: C., and Krey, A. C: Medieval foundations of western civilization. (My '29)
Vossler, K: Medieval culture. (Je '29)

Clark, George Rogers
James, J. A. Life of George Rogers Clark. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Palmer, F: Clark of the Ohio. (S '29)

Clark of the Ohio. Palmer, F: (S '29)

Clash of the cymbals. Mackenzie, F: A. (N '29)

Class of 1902. Glaeser, E. (N '29)

Class reunion. Werfel, F. V. (S '29)

Classification

Books

Merrill, W: S. Code for classifiers. (Je '29)
Sayers, W: C. B. Manual of classification for librarians & bibliographers. (Ag '29)

Classified property tax in the United States. Leland, S. E. (My '29)

Cleopatra, queen of Egypt

Fiction

Beck, L. Laughing queen. (S '29)
Mundy, T. Queen Cleopatra. (Ap '29)

Clergy

Freeman, J. E: The ambassador. (Je '29)
Niebuhr, R. Leaves from the notebook of a tamed cynic. (S '29)

Clermont-Tonnerre, Elisabeth (de Gramont) duchesse de

Clermont-Tonnerre, E. Pomp and circumstance. (S '29)

Clinical and experimental studies in personality. Prince, M. (Je '29)

Clipper-ships

Villiers, A. J. Falmouth for orders. (Je '29)

Clipper ships done in cork models. Adams, P: (N '29)

Close, Upton, pseud. See Hall, J. W.

Cloth of gold. Thane, E., pseud. (Je '29)

Cloud by day. Stiles, P. (My '29)

Clouded hills. Vermorcken, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Clown prince. Dekobra, M. (Ap '29)

Clue of the clot. Barry, C:, pseud. (S '29)

Clue of the second murder. Strange, J: S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Clues of the Caribbees. Stribling, T: S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Cluny problem. Fielding, A. (My '29 )

Coal

Thom, W: T. Petroleum and coal. (S '29)

Coal distillation

Gentry, F. M. Technology of low temperature carbonization. (Ap '29)

The coal merchant. Eng title of Coals from Newcastle. Beddow, B. (D '29)

Coal mines and mining

United States

Hamilton, W. H., and Wright, H. R. Way of order for bituminous coal. (O '29)

Coal trade

United States

Hamilton, W. H., and Wright, H. R. Way of order for bituminous coal. (O '29)

Coals from Newcastle. Beddow, B. (D '29)

Coat without seam. Baring, M. (Ag '29)

Cobra candlestick. Barker, E. (Ap '29)

Cochin, China

Description and travel

Casey, R. J. Four faces of Siva. (Ag '29)

Cochrane, the unconquerable. Turnbull, A. D., and Van der Veer, N. R. (My '29)

Coco the goat. Wells, R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Code for classifiers. Merrill, W: S. (Je '29)

Cold (disease)

Wells, W. A. Common head cold and its complications. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Cold steel. Shiel, M. P. (Ag '29)

Coleridge, Samuel Taylor

Charpentier, J: Coleridge, the sublime somnambulist. (N '29)

Coleridge, the sublime somnambulist. Charpentier, J: (N '29)

Collected essays. Hadow, W: H: (S '29)

Collected poems. Aldington, R: (Ap '29)

Collected poems. Gould, G. (D '29)

Collected poems. Lawrence, D: H. (S '29)

Collected poems, 1928. Davies, W: H: (O '29)

Collected verse. Carroll, L:, pseud. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Collected works; v 20, The revolution of 1917. Lenin, N. (O '29)

Collectors and collecting

Anecdotes, facetiae, satire, etc.

Roberts, K. L: Antiquamania. (Ap '29)

College and school drama

Motter, T: H. V. School drama in England. (Ag '29)

College architecture

Klauder, C: Z., and Wise, H. C. College architecture in America. (N '29)

College architecture in America. Klauder, C: Z., and Wise, H. C. (N '29)

College life in the old South. Coulter, E. M. (Ap '29)

College or kindergarten? McConn, C: M. (Ap '29)

College professors and instructors

Henderson, Y., and Davie, M. R., eds. Incomes and living costs of a university faculty. (My '29)

College sports

Hawes, J. A. Twenty years among the twenty year olds. (Ap '29)

Colleges and universities

Great Britain

Kolbe, P. R. Urban influences on higher education in England and the United States. (Ag '29)

United States

Edwards, R: H:, and others. Undergraduates. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Hawes, J. A. Twenty years among the twenty year olds. (Ap '29)

Jordan, D: S. Trend of the American university. (N '29)

Kolbe, P. R. Urban influences on higher education in England and the United States. (Ag '29)

McConn, C: M. College or kindergarten? (Ap '29)

Colleges and universities, Municipal

Kolbe, P. R. Urban influences on higher education in England and the United States. (Ag '29)

Collier, John Payne

Tannenbaum, S: A. Shakspere forgeries in the Revels accounts. (My '29)

Collins, William

Garrod, H. W: Collins. (My '29)

Colloid chemistry. Svedberg, T. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Colloids

Holmes, H. N. Laboratory manual of colloid chemistry. (Mr '29)

Svedberg, T. Colloid chemistry. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Colonel William Smith and lady. Roof, K. M. (S '29)

Color

Franklin, C. Colour and colour theories. (S '29)
Miskella, W: J. Practical color simplified. (Mr '29)

Colorado river

Eddy, C. Down the world's most dangerous river. (D '29)

Color-sense

Franklin, C. Colour and colour theories. (S '29)

Colors

Analysis

Miskella, W: J. Practical color simplified. (Mr '29)

Colour and colour theories. Franklin, C. (S '29)

Columbia university

Johnson, S: His career and writings. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Columbus, Christopher

Fiction

Blasco Ibáñez. V. Unknown lands. (My '29)

Colvin, Frances Fetherstonhaugh (Sitwell), lady

Lucas, E: V. The Colvins and their friends. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Colvin, Sir Sidney

Lucas, E: V. The Colvins and their friends. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

The Colvins and their friends. Lucas, E: V. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Combing the Caribbees. Foster, H. La T. (Je '29)

Come with me through Italy. Schoonmaker, F. (D '29)

Comets
Chamberlin, T: C. Two solar families. (O '29)
Coming country. Younghusband, F. E: (My '29)
Coming of age in Samoa. Mead, M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Coming of the Lord. Millin, S. G. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Coming of the white man, 1492-1848. Priestley, H. I. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Commerce
Klein, J. Frontiers of trade. (S '29)
Pratt, E: E. International trade in staple commodities. (My '29)

Commercial associations
Holtzclaw, H: F. Association management. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Commercial education in secondary schools. Kitson, H. D., ed. (Ag '29)

Commercial policy
Donaldson, J: International economic relations. (Je '29)

Commercial products
Carpenter, C: E. Dollars and sense. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Killough, H. B. and L. Raw materials of industrialism. (N '29)
Lippincott, I: Economic resources and industries of the world. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Dictionaries
Brady, G: S. Materials handbook. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Commission for relief in Belgium
Gay, G: I., and Fisher, H. H: Public relations of the Commission for relief in Belgium. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Commodore David Porter, 1780-1843. Turnbull, A. D. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Commodore Hull. Hull, I: (N '29)
Common head cold and its complications. Wells, W. A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Common sense in education. Bell, B. I. (Mr '29)
Commonwealth and restoration stage. Hotson, J: L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Commonwealth teacher-training study. Charters, W. W., and Waples, D. (Je '29)

Communication and traffic
Hoskins, H. L. British routes to India. (S '29)

Communism

Russia
Dreiser, T. Dreiser looks at Russia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
McCormick, A. Hammer and the scythe. (Mr '29)

Community life
Burr, W. Small towns. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Lynd, R. S. and H. M. Middletown. (Ap '29)
Steiner, J. F: American community in action. (Mr '29)
Community recreation. Elsom, J. C. (N '29)
Compass rose. Coatsworth, E. J. (Ag '29)
Complete poetry and selected prose. Donne, J: (S '29)
Concetta, the coral girl. Olcott, V. (Ap '29)

Concordat of 1929
Hearley, J: Pope or Mussolini. (S '29)

Concrete construction
Hill, C: S. Winter construction methods. (My '29)

Conduct of life
Babson, R. W. Storing up triple reserves. (Je '29)
Borsodi, R. This ugly civilization. (D '29)
Ferris, H. J. This happened to me. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Goodman of Paris (Le ménagier de Paris). (My '29)
Manuel, H. T. Master of my fate. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Parshley, H. M. Science and good behavior. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Poling, D. A. Youth and life. (N '29)
Riggs, A. F. Intelligent living. (S '29)
Trine, R. W. Power that wins. (O '29)
White, S. E: Why be a mud turtle? (Mr '29)
Coney Island. Croy, H. (D '29)

Confectionery
Porter, V: W. Practical candy making. (N '29)
Confederate privateers. Robinson, W: M. (Ap '29)

Confederate States of America
Hergesheimer, J. Swords and roses. (My '29)

Navy
Robinson, W: M. Confederate privateers. (Ap '29)
Confessions of a puzzled parson. Fiske, C: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Conflicts in religious thought. Harkness, G. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Confucius and Confucianism
Magre, M. Kingdom of Lu. (Je '29)
Confucius and his quest. Eng title of Kingdom of Lu. Magre, M. (Je '29)
Confusion of tongues. Ferguson, C: W. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Congo gods. Lütken, O: (O '29)

Congresses and conventions
Dunn, F: S. Practice and procedure of international conferences. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hill, N. L. Public international conference. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Congressional investigating committees. Dimock, M. E: (Ag '29)
Congressional investigations. Eberling, E. J. (Ag '29)

Connecticut

Social life and customs
Shelton, J. de F. Salt-box house. (Ag '29)

Connington, J: J., pseud. See Stewart, A. W.
Conquering lover. Scott, W. M. (D '29)
Conquerors. Malraux, A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Conquest. Carter, J: F. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Conrad, Joseph
Curle, R: Last twelve years of Joseph Conrad. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Consciousness
Prince, M. Clinical and experimental studies in personality. (Je '29)
Consecratio medici. Cushing, H. W. (Mr '29)

Constantinople woman's college
Patrick, M. M. Under five sultans. (D '29)

Constitution (frigate)
Knipe, E. and A. A. Story of Old Ironsides. (Je '29)

Constitutions
Headlam-Morley, A. New democratic constitutions of Europe. (Mr '29)
Construction of index numbers. Persons, W. M. (D '29)
Consumer looks at advertising. Cherington, P. T. (My '29)

Consumption (economics)
Frederick, C. Selling Mrs Consumer. (N '29)
Hoyt, E. E. Consumption of wealth. (O '29)
Phelps, G: H. Our biggest customer. (D '29)
Consumption of wealth. Hoyt, E. E. (O '29)
Contemporary American literature. Manly, J: M., and Rickert, E. (D '29)
Contemporary British literature. Manly, J: M., and Rickert, E. (N '29)
Contemporary education. Klapper, P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Contemporary essays. Shepard, O., ed. (O '29)
Contemporary movements in European literature. Rose, W:, and Isaacs, J., eds. (My '29)

Contempt of court
Eberling, E. J. Congressional investigations. (Ag '29)

Contract bridge
Vanderbilt, H. S. Contract bridge. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Whitehead, W. C. Championship bridge hands. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Work, M. C. Contract bridge for all. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Contract bridge for all. Work, M. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Contract labor

Canada

Bradwin, E. W: Bunkhouse man. (My '29)

Contractors' operations
Hill, C: S. Winter construction methods. (My '29)

Contributions to analytical psychology. Jung, C. G. (My '29)

Convent girl. Mullins, H. (O '29)

Conversation
Taft, H: W. Kindred arts. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Conversation with an angel. Belloc, H. (S '29)

Conversion
Clark, E. T. Psychology of religious awakening. (Je '29)

Cookery
Adair, A. H. Dinners, long and short. (Ap '29)
Adam, P. Kitchen ranging. (N '29)
Halliday, E. G., and Noble, I. T. Hows and whys of cooking. (Ap '29)
Wilder, J. A. Jack-knife cookery. (O '29)
Wolcott, I. B. Blue gingham cook book. (Ap '29)

Cookery, French
Goodman of Paris (Le ménagier de Paris). (My '29)

Cookery for the sick
Cooper, L. F., and others. Nutrition in health and disease. (S '29)

Coolidge, Calvin
Coolidge, C. Autobiography. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Coöperative pattern in cotton. Montgomery, R. H. (D '29)

Copper Bottle. Millward, E: J. (N '29)

Cora. Suckow, R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Cora Potts. Greene, W. (N '29)

Corday d'Armont, Marie Anne de
Scherr, M. Charlotte Corday and certain men of the revolutionary torment. (Ap '29)

Corporate earning power. Crum, W: L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Corporation law
Sears, J: H. New place of the stockholder. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Corporations
Crum, W: L. Corporate earning power. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sears, J: H. New place of the stockholder. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Finance

Bishop, A. L. Financing of business enterprises. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Corpse on the bridge. Barry, C:, pseud. (Ap '29)

Corpulence
Lieb, C. W: Eat, drink and be slender. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Corral of death. Wheeler-Nicholson, M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Correspondence of Spinoza. Spinoza, B. de. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Corruption (in politics)
Moley, P. Politics and criminal prosecution. (Je '29)

Cortés, Hernando
Cortés, H. Five letters, 1519-1526. (Ag '29)
Verrill, A. H. Great conquerors of South and Central America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Cosmogony
Chamberlin, T: C. Two solar families. (O '29)
Jeans, J. H. Astronomy and cosmogony. (Ap '29)
Jeans, J. H. Eos. (N '29)
Jeans, J. H. Universe around us. (N '29)

Cosmology
Cleveland, F: A., ed. Modern scientific knowledge of nature, man, and society. (O '29)
Kenton, E. Book of earths. (Ap '29)
McWilliams, J. A. Cosmology. (S '29)
Whitehead, A. N. Process and reality. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Cosmopolitan evening school. Friese, J: F. (O '29)

Cost accounting
Maze, C. L., and Glover, J: G: How to analyze costs. (N '29)
Prochazka, G: A. Accounting and cost finding for the chemical industries. (Je '29)

Cost and standard of living
Henderson, Y., and Davie, M. R., eds. Incomes and living costs of a university faculty. (My '29)
Hoyt, E. E. Consumption of wealth. (O '29)
Kirkpatrick, E. L. Farmer's standard of living. (Je '29)
Lynd, R. S. and H. M. Middletown. (Ap '29)

Costume
Boehn, M. von. Modes & manners: ornaments. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Hiler, H. From nudity to raiment. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

History

Kohler, C. History of costume. (Ag '29)

Cotton growing and manufacture
Herring, H. L. Welfare work in mill villages. (Je '29)
Mitchell, B. William Gregg, factory master of the old South. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Vance, R. B. Human factors in cotton culture (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Cotton Mather. Boas, R. P. and L. S. (Mr '29)

Cotton trade

United States

Montgomery, R. H. Coöperative pattern in cotton. (D '29)

Coucou. Pember, E. (O '29)

Country auction. Rawson, M. N. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Country life
Dyer, W. A. Chronicles of a countryman. (Mr '29)
Kirkpatrick, E. L. Farmer's standard of living. (Je '29)
Sorokin, P. A., and Zimmerman, C. C. Principles of rural-urban sociology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Steiner, J. F: American community in action. (Mr '29)

Count's ball. Radiguet, R. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

County government
Wager, P. W. County government and administration in North Carolina. (Je '29)

County government and administration in North Carolina. Wager, P. W. (Je '29)

Couple of quick ones. Hatch, E. (Ap '29)

Courageous companions. Finger, C: J. (D '29)

Courses of study
Bamesberger, V. C. Appraisal of a social studies course. (D '29)

Court of Burgundy. Cartellieri, O: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Courts

Great Britain

Robson, W: A. Justice and administrative law. (Mr '29)

Courts and courtiers
Bibesco, M. L. Royal portraits. (My '29)

Courts of the morning. Buchan, J: (O '29)

Courtship
Technique of the love affair. (My '29)

Cousin Beryl. Snaith, J: C. (O '29)

Cowper, William
Fausset, H. I'A. William Cowper. (Mr '29)

Coxey, Jacob Sechler
McMurry, D. Le C. Coxey's army. (D '29)

Coxey's army. McMurry, D. Le C. (D '29)

Crabb Robinson in Germany, 1800-1805. Robinson, H: C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Crabtree, Lotta
Rourke, C. M. Troupers of the Gold Coast. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Cradle of God. Powys, L. (D '29)

Cradle of the deep. Lowell, J., pseud. (My '29)

Craft of poetry. Wood, C. (Je '29)

Craft work. Cave, E. S. (N '29)

Cratty, Mabel
Burton, M. E. Mabel Cratty. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Creative imagination. Downey, J. E. (Ag '29)
Creative power. Mearns, H. (D '29)
Creative theatre. Mitchell, R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Creative understanding. Keyserling, H. A. (Ag '29)
Creative writing. Ellsworth, W: W. (Je '29)
Credentials of the church. Davis, O. S. (Ap '29)
Credit
Lawrence, J. S. Wall Street and Washington. (O '29)
Crescendo. Mannin, E. E. (Ag '29)
Crime and criminals
Ashton-Wolfe, H. Crimes of violence and revenge. (Ag '29)
Callahan, J. Man's grim justice. (My '29)
Carvalho, C., and Sparkes, B. Crime in ink. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Clarke, D. H. In the reign of Rothstein. (D '29)
Dilnot, G: Triumphs of detection. (Ag '29)
Douthwaite, L: C: Mass murder. (Ap '29)
Godwin, G: S. Cain. (N '29)
Guerin, E. I was a bandit. (Je '29)
Logan, G. B. H. Guilty or not guilty? (S '29)
O'Dare, K. Philosophy of the dusk. (Ag '29)
Raine, W: M. Famous sheriffs and western outlaws. (Ag '29)
Sabin, E. L. Wild men of the wild West. (D '29)
Tasker, R. J. Grimhaven. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Bibliography
Kuhlman, A: F:, comp. Guide to material on crime and criminal justice. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
California
Glasscock, C. B. Bandits and the Southern Pacific. (My '29)
Chicago
Sullivan, E: D. Rattling the cup on Chicago crime. (S '29)
France
Ashton-Wolfe, H., and Locard, E. Invisible web. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Germany
Hampe, T. Crime and punishment in Germany. (D '29)
Great Britain
Rashleigh, R., pseud. Adventures of an outlaw. (S '29)
Roughead, W: Malice domestic. (S '29)
Smith, E: H: You can escape. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Crime and punishment in Germany. Hampe, T. (D '29)
Crime at Black Dudley. Eng title of Black Dudley murder. Allingham, M. (Ag '29)
Crime in ink. Carvalho, C., and Sparkes, B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Crime of Dr Garine. Sokoloff, B. (Mr '29)
Crime: the autobiography of a crook. Eng title of I was a bandit. Guerin, E. (Je '29)
Crimes of violence and revenge. Ashton-Wolfe, H. (Ag '29)
Criminal law
Moley, R. Politics and criminal prosecution. (Je '29)
Crimson circle. Wallace, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Crippled lady of Peribonka. Curwood, J. O. (My '29)
Crisis. Oldfield, C. H. (Ag '29)
Cristina and I. Stringer, A. J: A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Criticism in the making. Cazamian, L: F. (D '29)
Crooked apple tree. Meigs, C. L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Crouchback. Lenanton, C. M. A. (N '29)
Crowds
Hiller, E. T. The strike. (Ag '29)
Crown for Carlotta. Henderson, D. M. (D '29)
Cruise of the Kronprinz Wilhelm. Niezychowski, A. von. (S '29)
Crusaders' gold. Kyle, A. D. (Ag '29)
Crusades
Bercovici, K. Crusades. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Usāmah ibn Murshid. Autobiography of Ousâma. (Ag '29)
Cry of time. Hall, H. (Ap '29)
Cuba
Description and travel
Woon, B. D. When it's cocktail time in Cuba. (Ap '29)
Economic conditions
Jenks, L. H. Our Cuban colony. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Foreign relations
United States
Jenks, L. H. Our Cuban colony. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Industries
Jenks, L. H. Our Cuban colony. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Cuirass of diamonds. Jepson, E. (N '29)
Cultural change. Chapin, F. S. (My '29)
Culture
Chapin, F. S. Cultural change. (My '29)
Powys, J: C. Meaning of culture. (D '29)
Culture and social progress. Folsom, J. K. (Ag '29)
Cunningham, Peter
Tannenbaum, S: A. Shakspere forgeries in the Revels accounts. (My '29)
Cup of gold. Steinbeck, J: (N '29)
Curiosities
Ripley, R. L. Believe it or not! (Ap '29)
A curious life. Wehner, G: B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Curious lottery. Duranty, W. (My '29)
Currency question
Lawrence, J. S. Stabilization of prices. (Ag '29)
Mlynarski, F. J: Gold and central banks. (Ag '29)
France
Dulles, E. L. French franc, 1914-1928. (D '29)
Rogers, J. H., and others. Process of inflation in France 1914-1927. (S '29)
United States
Fisher, I. Money illusion. (Ap '29)
Current events
Study and teaching
Kimball, R. S., and others. Current-events instruction. (D '29)
Current-events instruction. Kimball, R. S., and others. (D '29)
Curtis, Charles
Seitz, D. C. From Kaw teepee to Capitol. (Ap '29)
Curzon of Kedleston, George Nathaniel Curzon, 1st marquis
Ronaldshay, L. J: L. D. Life of Lord Curzon, v 3. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Custer, George Armstrong
Hunt, F. Custer, the last of the cavaliers. (Ap '29)
Custer, the last of the cavaliers. Hunt, F. (Ap '29)
Cycle of modern poetry. Elliott, G: R. (Ag '29)
Cyrano de Bergerac, Savinien
Rogers, C. Cyrano. (D '29)
Fiction
Feval, P., and Lassez, M. Years between, v 3-4. (Ap '29)
Czechoslovak Republic
Beneš, E. My war memoirs. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Economic conditions
Pasvolsky, L. Economic nationalism of the Danubian states. (S '29)

D., H., pseud. See Aldington, H.

Dacia
Pârvan, V. Dacia. (Mr '29)
Daedalus and Thespis. Miller, W. (O '29)
The dagger. Wilson, R. M. (My '29)

Dahlias
Rockwell, F: F. Dahlias. (My '29)
Daily health builder. Crampton, C: W. (Je '29)
Dain curse. Hammett, D. (O '29)
Daisy, princess of Pless. Pless, M. T. O. (My '29)

Dampier, William
Wilkinson, C. Dampier, explorer and buccaneer. (D '29)
Dampier, explorer and buccaneer. Wilkinson, C. (D '29)
Dance of the machines. O'Brien, E: J. H. (D '29)

Dancing
Barbour, S. On with the dance. (N '29)
Baskervill, C: R. Elizabethan jig and related song drama. (S '29)
Duncan, I. Art of the dance. (Ap '29)
Langdon-Davies, J: Dancing Catalans. (S '29)
Shawn, T. Gods who dance. (O '29)
Dancing Beggars. Young, E. B. (S '29)
Dancing Catalans. Langdon-Davies, J: (S '29)

Dandies
Gleichen-Russwurm, A. Dandies and Don Juans. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Dandies and Don Juans. Gleichen-Russwurm, A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Danger Islands
Frisbie, R. D. Book of Puka-puka. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Daniel Webster. Benson, A. L: (D '29)
Danish folk school. Campbell, O. A. (Ap '29)

Dante Alighieri
Vossler, K: Medieval culture. (Je '29)
Dante Gabriel Rossetti. Mégroz, R. L: (Ap '29)

Danton, Georges Jacques
Scherr, M. Charlotte Corday and certain men of the revolutionary torment. (Ap '29)

Da Ponte, Lorenzo
Da Ponte, L. Memoirs; tr. by Elisabeth Abbott. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Da Ponte, L. Memoirs; tr. by L. A. Sheppard. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Daredevil. Charteris, L. (N '29)
Dark duel. Steen, M. (S '29)
Dark eyes of London. Wallace, E. (D '29)
Dark Hester. Sedgwick, A. D. (My '29)
Dark journey. Green, J. (O '29)
Dark star. Moon, L. (Je '29)
Dark summer. Bogan, L. (D '29)
Dark weather. Baldwin, M. R. (O '29)
Darkened rooms. Gibbs, P. H. (Ap '29)

Darley, George
Abbott, C. C. Life and letters of George Darley. (Je '29)
Dartmouth murders. Orr, C. (D '29)

Das, Chitta Ranjan
Ray, P. C. Life and times of C. R. Das. (N '29)
Daughter of earth. Smedley, A. (My '29)
Daughter of the Medicis [Margaret of Valois]. Mariéjol, J. H. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Daughter of the Seine. Eaton, J. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
David and Diana. Eng title of Goose fair. Roberts, C. (Ap '29)

Davidson, Randall Thomas, abp.
Dark, S. Archbishop Davidson and the English church. (Ag '29)
Davidson case. Eng title of Murder at Bratton grange. Street, C. J: C: (O '29)

Davis, Jefferson
Tate, A. Jefferson Davis. (N '29)
Dawn. Wright, S. F. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dawn beloved. Devanny, J. (Ag '29)
Day of the brown horde. Tooker, R: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Day of the cattleman. Osgood, E. S. (O '29)
Day of Yahweh. Heidel, W: A. (S '29)
Days in the sun. Nexø, M. A. (Je '29)
Days of fear. Gallagher, F. (My '29)

Dazzi, Romano
Beck, O: W. Self-development in drawing. (Je '29)

A dead man dies. Marks, P. (Ap '29)
Dead men's shoes. Thayer, L. (My '29)

Dean, Harry
Dean, H. Pedro Gorino. (My '29)
Dear Judas. Jeffers, R. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Dear Sooky. Crosby, P. L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Dearest idol. Beckett, W. (Je '29)
Death at Four corners. Gilbert, A. (Ap '29)
Death fear. Martyn, W. (N '29)
Death of a hero. Aldington, R: (O '29)
Death of Laurence Vining. Thomas, A. E. W. (Je '29)
Death of the claimant. Martin, A. R: (S '29)
Death on Scurvy street. Williams, B. A. (Ag '29)
Death on the air. Landon, H. (Ag '29)

Debts, Public
Cassel, G., and others. Foreign investments. (Je '29)
Gerould, J. T., and Turnbull, L. S., comps. Selected articles on interallied debts and revision of the debt settlements. (Mr '29)

Debussy, Achille Claude
Vallas, L. Theories of Claude Debussy. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Decline and fall. Waugh, E. (Je '29)
Decline of the age of Louis XIV. Tilley, A. A: (O '29)
Decline of the West, v 2. Spengler, O. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Deep-sea bubbles. Bootes, H: H. (S '29)
Deep song. Brown, I. H: (Je '29)

Defoe, Daniel
Dottin, P. Life and strange and surprising adventures of Daniel De Foe. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Delafield, E. M., pseud. See De La Pasture, E. E. M.

De La Mare, Walter John
Reid, F. Walter De La Mare. (O '29)

Democracy
Child, R. W. Writing on the wall. (Je '29)
Sait, E: M. Democracy. (N '29)
Stimson, F: J. Western way. (Ag '29)
Thompson, J: G. Urbanization. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Democratic party
Minor, H: A. Story of the Democratic party. (Ap '29)
Demon of the absolute. More, P. E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Denmark
Social conditions
Campbell, O. A. Danish folk school. (Ap '29)
Denmark's best stories. Larsen, H. A., ed. (Ap '29)

Dent, Joseph Mallaby
Dent, J. M. Memoirs, 1849-1926. (Mr '29)

Dentistry
Stoloff, C: I. Your teeth. (My '29)

Department stores
Donovan, F. R. Saleslady. (D '29)
Departure. Dorgelès, R. (Mr '29)

Der Ling, princess
Der Ling, princess. Kowtow. (D '29)
Derry's partner. Evans, H. R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Deruga trial. Huch, R. O. (S '29)

Descartes, René
Maritain, J. Three reformers. (Je '29)
Desert drums. Crane, L. (Ap '29)
Desert of love. Mauriac, F. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Desert road to Turkestan. Lattimore, O. (Ap '29)

Desertion, Military
Lonn, E. Desertion during the Civil war. (Je '29)
Desertion during the Civil war. Lonn, E. (Je '29)
Destinies. Mauriac, F. (Ag '29)
Destroying Victor. Beals, C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Detective Duff unravels it. O'Higgins, H. J. (S '29)

Detective stories
Knox, R. A., and Harrington, H:, eds. Best English detective stories of 1928. (D '29)
Sayers, D. L., ed. Omnibus of crime. (S '29)

Detectives
Dilnot, G: Triumphs of detection. (Ag '29)
Determination of hydrogen ions. Clark, W: M. (My '29)
Developing personality in boys. Boorman, W: R. (My '29)
Development of dramatic art. Stuart, D. C. (Ap '29)
Development of European law. Smith, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Development of governmental forest control in the United States. Cameron, J. (Mr '29)
Development of international law. Butler, G. G., and Maccoby, S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Development of the flour-milling industry in the United States. Kuhlmann, C: B. (N '29)

Devil
Thompson, R. L. History of the devil. (Je '29)
Devil and the deep sea. Jordan, E. G. (My '29)
Devil at the Long bridge (Il diavolo al Ponte-lungo). Bacchelli, R. (Ag '29)
Devil beats his wife. Wasson, B. (Je '29)
The devil is a woman. Kimball, A. M. (My '29)
Devil's bridge. Landau, M. A. (Mr '29)
Devils, drugs, and doctors. Haggard, H. W. (Je '29)

Devotional exercises
Barstow, R. W. Getting acquainted with God. (Ap '29)
Dewer rides. Strong, L. A. G: (F '30) (1929 Annual) Dialogues & monologues. Wolfe, H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Diana. Ludwig, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Diana. Mann, H. (Je '29)
Diana Dauntless. Kester, P. (O '29)
Dianne de Poytiers. Eng title of The enchantress. Henderson, H. W. (Mr '29)

Diapea, William
Diapea, W: Cannibal Jack. (Ap '29)
Diary. Neumann, P. (My '29)
Diary, 1794-1845. Adams, J. Q. (Mr '29)
Diary of a communist undergraduate. Rozânov, M. G. (Ag '29)
Diary of a rum runner. Moray, A. (S '29)
Diary of an ambassador; v 1, Versailles to Rapallo, 1920-1922. D'Abernon, E. V. (My '29)
Diary of Dostoyevsky's wife. Dostoevskaîa, A. G. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Diary of Montaigne's journey to Italy in 1580 and 1581. Montaigne, M. E. de. (S '29)
Diary of Tolstoy's wife, v 1. Tolstaîa, S. A. (Ap '29)

Dickens, Charles
Dickens, H: F. Memories of my father. (Ap '29)
Holdsworth, W: S. Charles Dickens as a legal historian. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Straus, R. Charles Dickens. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wagenknecht, E: C: The man Charles Dickens. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Dickey Byrd. Woodruff, E. (Mr '29)
Dictionary of American biography, v 1 and 2. (Ap '29)
Dictionary to the plays and novels of Bernard Shaw. Broad, C. L: and V. M. (Je '29)

Dido, queen of Carthage

Fiction

Atherton, G. F. Dido, queen of hearts. (D '29)

Dido, queen of hearts. Atherton, G. F. (D '29)

Diet
Cooper, L. F., and others. Nutrition in health and disease. (S '29)
Lieb, C. W: Eat, drink and be slender. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Oldfield, J. Eat and be happy. (D '29)

Diet in disease
Cooper, L. F., and others. Nutrition in health and disease. (S '29)
Difficulties in child development. Chadwick, M. (My '29)

Dighton rock
Delabarre, E. B. Dighton rock. (Ag '29)
Dilemma of American music. Mason, D. G. (Ap '29)
Dilemma of Protestantism. Hammond, W: E. (S '29)
Dime novels
Pearson, E. L. Dime novels. (D '29)
Dime novels. Pearson, E. L. (D '29)
Dinners and dining
Adair, A. H. Dinners, long and short. (Ap '29)
Dinners, long and short. Adair, A. H. (Ap '29)
Disarmament
Bullard, A. American diplomacy in the modern world. (Ap '29)
Ichihashi, Y. Washington conference and after. (My '29)
Madariaga, S. de. Disarmament. (Je '29)
Moore, F: America's naval challenge. (S '29)
Discoveries (in geography)
Cary, M., and Warmington, E. H. Ancient explorers. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mitchell, J. L. Hanno. (N '29)
Parks, G: B. Richard Hakluyt and the English voyages. (S '29)
Discoveries and adventures in Central America. Gann, T: W: F. (My '29)
Discovery of the rare gases. Travers, M. W: (Je '29)
Dish for the gods. Hume, C. (Je '29)
The disinherited. Waldman, M. (Je '29)
Dissertations, Academic
Good, C. V: How to do research in education. (My '29)
Dissolution of the Habsburg monarchy. Jászi, O. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Distant stars. Carfrae, E. (Je '29)
Distribution of power to regulate interstate carriers between the nation and the states. Reynolds, G: G. (Mr '29)
Diving, Submarine
Eadie, T. I like diving. (Ag '29)
Ellsberg, E: On the bottom. (Je '29)
Dix, Henry A.
Dix, M. H. American business adventure. (My '29)
Do we agree? Chesterton, G. K., and Shaw, G: B. (Ag '29)
Do we need a new religion? Schilpp, P. A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Do what you will. Huxley, A. L. (D '29)
'Dobe walls. Vestal, S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dobson, Austin
Dobson, A. Austin Dobson. (O '29)
Dr. Artz. Hichens, R. S. (Ag '29)
Doctor Fogg. Matson, N. H. (O '29)
Dr Johnson. Hollis, C. (My '29)
Dr Johnson & Mr Boswell. Salpeter, H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dr Krasinski's secret. Shiel, M. P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dr Pete of the Sierras. Davis, M. M. (Mr '29)
Doctor who held hands. Footner, H. (O '29)
Doctor's letters to expectant parents. Richardson, F. H. (Ag '29)
Doctrine of necessity in international law. Rodick, B. C. (My '29)
Dodge, Grenville Mellen
Perkins, J. R. Trails, rails and war; the life of General G. M. Dodge. (Je '29)
Dodgson, Charles Lutwidge. See Carroll, L:, pseud.
Dodsworth. Lewis, S. (My '29)
Dogs
Barbour, R. H: Boys' book of dogs. (My '29)
Leonard, J: L. Care and handling of dogs. (Ap '29)
Trapman, A. H. Man's best friend. (S '29)

Legends and stories

Evans, H. R. Derry's partner. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hinkle, T: C. Bugle. (My '29)
Holland, R. P. My gun dogs. (D '29)
Woollcott, A. Two gentlemen and a lady. (Ap '29)

Dollars and sense. Carpenter, C: E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dollars for bullets. Denny, H. N. (S '29)
Domestic architecture and old furniture. Adams-Acton, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Domestic discord. Mowrer, E. R. and H. (Ag '29)
Don Cristobal. Goodwin, E. (S '29)
Don't be afraid. Löbel, J. (Je '29)

Don't call me clever. Drake, L. (N '29)
Doomed ship. Gray, J. (Ap '29)

Dostoevskii, Feodor Mikhailovich
Dostoevskaia, A. G. Diary of Dostoyevsky's wife. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Dot & Will. Kilbourne, F. (Ag '29)
The double. Wallace, E. (Mr '29)
Double axe. Haggard, A. (O '29)
Doublecross. Livingston, A. (N '29)

Doughty, Charles Montagu
Hogarth, D: G: Life of Charles M. Doughty. (Mr '29)

Dow, Lorenzo
Sellers, C: C. Lorenzo Dow, the bearer of the Word. (Mr '29)
Down in the grass. Kellock, H. (S '29)
Down the world's most dangerous river. Eddy, C. (D '29)
Down wind. Peattie, D. C. and L. (S '29)
Downfall. Brecht, H. W. (Ag '29)

Drainage
Ayres, Q. C., and Scoates, D. Land drainage and reclamation. (Je '29)

Drama
Art of playwriting. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Burton, R: How to see a play. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Croisset, F. de. Our puppet show. (S '29)

History and criticism
Balmforth, R. Problem-play. (S '29)
Cheney, S. The theatre. (D '29)
Stuart, D. C. Development of dramatic art. (Ap '29)

Technique
Krows, A. E. Playwriting for profit. (Ap '29)
Williams, J. L., and others. Art of playwriting. (Ag '29)

Dramas
Anderson, M., and Hickerson, H. Gods of the lightning; [and] Outside looking in. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Barrie, J. M. Plays. (Ap '29)
Barry, P. Holiday. (S '29)
Belasco, D: Six plays. (Ap '29)
Boker, G: H: Nydia. (N '29)
Bottomley, G. Scenes and plays. (O '29)
Brody, A. Lamentations. (Mr '29)
Brown, L. O. Blind. (My '29)
Colum, P. Balloon. (O '29)
Coward, N. P. Bitter sweet. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Coward, N. P. Plays; first ser. (My '29)
Crothers, R. Let us be gay. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dane, C., pseud. Adam's opera. (O '29)
De La Roche, M. Low life. (My '29)
Drinkwater, J: Bird in hand. (Ag '29)
Dunsany, E: J: M. D. P. Seven modern comedies. (Ap '29)
Frost, R. A way out. (O '29)
Galsworthy, J: Plays. (Ap '29)
Gibson, W. W. Between fairs. (Je '29)
Granville-Barker, H. G. His Majesty. (Ap '29)
Martínez Sierra, G. Kingdom of God. (My '29)
Maugham, W: S. Sacred flame. (Ap '29)
Mayer, E. J. Children of darkness. (S '29)
Milne, A. A. Toad of Toad hall. (Ag '29)
Molnár, F. Plays. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Musset, A. de. Fantasio. (S '29)
Nichols, R. M. B., and Browne, M. Wings over Europe. (My '29)
O'Neill, E. G. Dynamo. (N '29)
Pilcher, V. The searcher. (Ag '29)
Pollock, C. Mr. Moneypenny. (Je '29)
Raynal, P. Unknown warrior. (Ap '29)
Rice, E. L. Street scene. (S '29)
Ryerson, F., and Clements, C. C. All on a summer's day. (Je '29)
Sherriff, R. C. Journey's end. (Ag '29)
Sherwood, R. E. Queen's husband. (Ag '29)
Silberer, G. Caprice. (D '29)
Stephens, J. Julia Elizabeth. (S '29)
Stout, O. Harvest. (O '29)
Strindberg, A. Easter. (O '29)
Unruh, F. von. Bonaparte. (My '29)

Collections
Moses, M. J., ed. British plays from the restoration to 1820. (Je '29)
One-act plays for stage and study; fourth ser. (My '29)

Dramatists, American
Mantle, B. American playwrights of today. (D '29)

Drawing
Aymar, G. C. Introduction to advertising illustration. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Instruction
Beck, O: W. Self-development in drawing. (Je '29)
Guptill, A. L. Drawing with pen and ink. (O '29)
Mathias, M. E. Art in the elementary school. (S '29)
Drawing with pen and ink. Guptill, A. L. (O '29)

Drawings
Beck, O: W. Self-development in drawing. (Je '29)
Dream boat. Richardson, N. (Ap '29)
Dream of the red chamber. T'sao Hsüeh-chin, and Kao Ngoh. (Ag '29)
Dreamers of empire. Abdullah, A., and Pakenham, T. C. (D '29)
Dreaming. Bullett, G. W: (My '29)

Dreams
Bullett, G. W: Dreaming. (My '29)
Green, G: H. Terror-dream. (O '29)
Maeterlinck, M. Life of space. (Ap '29)
Dreiser looks at Russia. Dreiser, T. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Drift of civilization. St. Louis post-dispatch. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Drift of the day. Jenkins, B. A. (My '29)

Drinking songs
Shay, F., comp. More pious friends and drunken companions. (Mr '29)

Drugs

Adulteration and analysis
Wiley, H. W. History of a crime against the food law. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Laws and legislation
Wiley, H. W. History of a crime against the food law. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Druids and druidism
Spence, L: Mysteries of Britain. (D '29)

Dry Tortugas
England, G: A. Isles of romance. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Duchess and her daughter. Mason, A. B. (Ag '29)

Du Deffand de La Lande, Marie Anne (de Vichy Chamrong) marquise
De Koven, A. Horace Walpole and Madame du Deffand. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dudley & Gilderoy. Blackwood, A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Dueling
Seitz, D. C. Famous American duels. (S '29)
The Duke of York's steps. Aubrey-Fletcher, H: L. (O '29)
The Duke steps out. Cary, L. (Ap '29)

Dumas, Alexandre
Dumas, A. On board the Emma. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Gorman, H. S. Incredible marquis, Alexandre Dumas. (O '29)
Lucas-Dubreton, J. Fourth musketeer; the life of Alexander Dumas. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Spurr, H. A. Life and writings of Alexandre Dumas. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Duncan, Isadora
Desti, M. Untold story; the life of Isadora Duncan. (Ap '29)
Duncan, I., and MacDougall, A. R. Isadora Duncan's Russian days. (Ap '29)
Genthe, A. Isadora Duncan. (Ag '29)
Duskin. Lutz, G. (S '29)
Dust and sun. Ripley, C. (N '29)

Dutch East Indies

Description and travel

Bradley, M. Trailing the tiger. (S '29)
Van Dyke, J: C: In Java. (My '29)

Dynamo. O'Neill, E. G. (N '29)
Dynasty. Kelland, C. B. (Je '29)

Eadie, Tom
Eadie, T. I like diving. (Ag '29)
Eagles black and white. Poliakoff, V. (O '29)
Eagles fly high. Dewing, E. B. (D '29)

Ear
Oaks, L: W., and Merrill, H. G. Your nose, throat and ears. (N '29)
Early candlelight. Lovelace, M. (O '29)
Early church art in northern Europe. Strzygowski, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Early German theatre in New York, 1840-1872 Leuchs, F: A. H. (My '29)
Early history of Assyria. Smith, S. (O '29)
Early life of Thomas Hardy, 1840-1891. Hardy, F. E., comp. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Earth
Forbes, G: The earth, the sun, and the moon. (Mr '29)
Jeffreys, H. The earth. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Jeffreys, H. Future of the earth. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Kenton, E. Book of earths. (Ap '29)
Earth. Townshend, F. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Earth-born. Snyder, H. (Ag '29)
The earth, the sun, and the moon. Forbes, G: (Mr '29)
Earth-tube. Edwards, G. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Earthbound. Mullins, H. (My '29)
Easily persuaded. Deane, E. (Je '29)

East

Description and travel

Harris, W. B. East for pleasure. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sassoon, P. Third route. (D '29)

Politics

Kohn, H. History of nationalism in the East. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

East (Far East)
Institute of Pacific relations. Problems of the Pacific. (Mr '29)
Treat, P. J. Far East. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Description and travel

Andrews, R. C. Ends of the earth. (D '29)
Benson, S. Worlds within worlds. (Mr '29)
Grenfell, W. T. Labrador looks at the Orient. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Keith, E. Eastern windows. (Mr '29)
Thomas, J. A. Pioneer tobacco merchant in the Orient. (My '29)
Wright, E. Great horn spoon. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

History

Vinacke, H. M. History of the Far East in modern times. (Mr '29)

East and west of Jordan. Gilmore, A. F. (Je '29)
East for pleasure. Harris, W. B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
East south east. Morley, F. V. (O '29)

Easter
Van Buren, M., and Bemis, K. I., eds. Easter in modern story. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Easter. Strindberg, A. (O '29)
Easter in modern story. Van Buren, M., and Bemis, K. I., eds. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Eastern orthodox church. Zankov, S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Eastern question (Balkan)
Pasvolsky, L. Economic nationalism of the Danubian states. (S '29)

Eastern question (Far East)
Ichihashi, Y. Washington conference and after. (My '29)
Treat, P. J. Far East. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Eastern windows. Keith, E. (Mr '29)
Eat and be happy. Oldfield, J. (D '29)
Eat, drink and be slender. Lieb, C. W: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Eater of darkness. Coates, R. M. (O '29)
Economic bases of disunion in South Carolina. Van Deusen, J: G: (Ag '29)

Economic conditions
Donaldson, J: International economic relations. (Je '29)
Johnston, G: A. Citizenship in the industrial world. (My '29)
Lippincott, I: Economic resources and industries of the world. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Economic foreign policy of the United States. Williams, B: H. (Ag '29)
Economic nationalism of the Danubian states Pasvolsky, L. (S '29)

Economic policy
Donaldson, J: International economic relations. (Je '29)
Economic resources and industries of the world. Lippincott, I: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Economics
Colbourne, M. D. Unemployment or war. (Ap '29)
Curtis, R. E. Economics, principles and interpretation. (My '29)
Garver, F: B., and Hansen, A. H. Principles of economics. (S '29)
Keezer, D. M., and others. Problem economics. (O '29)
Lapidus, I., and Ostrovityanov, K. Outline of political economy. (D '29)
Rueff, J. From the physical to the social sciences. (N '29)
Senior, N. W: Industrial efficiency and social economy. (My '29)
Soule, G: H: Useful art of economics. (S '29)
Taylor, H. Making goods and making money. (Ap '29)
Ward, H. F: Our economic morality. (Je '29)
Economics of farm relief. Seligman, E. R. A. (N '29)
Economics of fashion. Nystrom, P. H: (O '29)
Economics, principles and interpretation. Curtis, R. E. (My '29)

Eddy, Mrs Mary (Baker)
Dakin, E. F. Mrs Eddy. (O '29)
Eddy and Edouard. Hutten zum Stolzenberg, B. (S '29)
Edge of the nest. Stevenson, P. (Ag '29)

Edison, Thomas Alva
Dyer, F. L:, and others. Edison, his life and inventions. (O '29)
Edison, his life and inventions. Dyer, F. L:, and others. (O '29)

Editions
Boutell, H. S. First editions of today and how to tell them. (Ap '29)

Education
Bell, B. I. Common sense in education. (Mr '29)
Dewey, J: Sources of a science of education. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Finney, R. L. Sociological philosophy of education. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Giddings, F. H: Mighty medicine. (Je '29)
Hart, J. K. Social interpretation of education. (O '29)
Klapper, P. Contemporary education. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Snedden, D: S: Educational sociology for beginners. (Je '29)
Sturt, M., and Oakden, E. C. Matter and method in education. (O '29)

Addresses, essays, lectures

Whitehead, A. N. Aims of education. (Ag '29)

Curricula

Finney, R. L. Sociological philosophy of education. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Prosser, C: A., and Allen, C: R. Have we kept the faith? (S '29)
Uhl, W. L., ed. Supervision of secondary subjects. (N '29)

Experimental methods

Burton, W: H: Nature and direction of learning. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Ferriere, A. Activity school. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Johnson, H. M. Children in the nursery school. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Johnson, M. L. Youth in a world of men. (O '29)
Mearns, H. Creative power. (D '29)
Naumburg, M. Child and the world. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rugg, H. O., and Shumaker, A. Child-centered school. (Ap '29)

Philosophy
Thomson, G. H. Modern philosophy of education. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Denmark
Campbell, O. A. Danish folk school. (Ap '29)

Great Britain
Gardiner, D. English girlhood at school. (S '29)
Gaus, J: M. Great Britain. (O '29)

Illinois
Counts, G: S. School and society in Chicago. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

New England
Klain, Z. Educational activities of New England Quakers. (Ag '29)

Norway
Jensen, A. S. Rural schools of Norway. (Ag '29)

Ohio
Goddard, H: H. School training of gifted children. (My '29)

Russia
Dewey, J: Impressions of soviet Russia and the revolutionary world. (Je '29)
Harper, S: N. Civic training in soviet Russia. (S '29)
Pinkevitch, A. P. New education in the Soviet Republic. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Scandinavia
Campbell, O. A. Danish folk school. (Ap '29)

Southern states
Coulter, E. M. College life in the old South (Ap '29)

United States
Prosser, C: A., and Allen, C: R. Have we kept the faith? (S '29)

Education, Higher
Am I getting an education? (S '29)

Education, Secondary
Fontaine, E. C. Ways to better teaching in the secondary school. (Ag '29)
Uhl, W. L., ed. Supervision of secondary subjects. (N '29)

Education and state
Counts, G: S. School and society in Chicago. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Education of adults
Friese, J: F. Cosmopolitan evening school. (O '29)

Education of children
Cleveland, E. If parents only knew. (S '29)
Ferriere, A. Activity school. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Goddard, H: H. School training of gifted children. (My '29)
Holley, C: E. Modern principles and the elementary teacher's technique. (Ag '29)
Johnson, M. L. Youth in a world of men. (O '29)
Naumburg, M. Child and the world. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Riggs, A. F. Intelligent living. (S '29)
Rugg, H. O., and Shumaker, A. Child-centered school. (Ap '29)

Education of the modern girl. Blake, M. B., and others. (Ag '29)

Education of women
Blake, M. B., and others. Education of the modern girl. (Ag '29)
Gardiner, D. English girlhood at school. (S '29)

Educational activities of New England Quakers. Klain, Z. (Ag '29)

Educational psychology. Pintner, R. (D '29)
Educational psychology. Sandiford, P: (Je '29)

Educational research
Good, C. V: How to do research in education. (My '29)

Educational sociology for beginners. Snedden, D: S: (Je '29)

Educational surveys
Engelhardt, N. L: School building programs in American cities. (D '29)

Edward Albert, prince of Wales
Townsend, W. and L. Biography of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Efficiency, Industrial
Alford, L. P. Laws of management applied to manufacturing. (S '29)
Bruère, H: J., and Pugh, G. Profitable personnel practice. (D '29)
Burtt, H. E. Psychology and industrial efficiency. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Clark, K. S. Music in industry. (S '29)
Cornell, W: B. Industrial organization and management. (S '29)
Hackett, J. D. Labor management. (N '29)
Laird, D. A. Psychology and profits. (N '29)
Myers, C: S:, ed. Industrial psychology. (N '29)
Shibley, F. W. New way to net profits. (My '29)
Watkins, G. S. Labor management. (Ap '29)

Egypt
Antiquities
Childe, V. G. Most ancient East. (Je '29)

Description and travel
Grenfell, W. T. Labrador looks at the Orient. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hall, T. Egypt in silhouette. (Je '29)

History
Baikie, J. History of Egypt. (D '29)
Elgood, P. G: Transit of Egypt (Je '29)

Politics and government
1882-
Elgood, P. G: Transit of Egypt. (Je '29)

Social life and customs
Hall, T. Egypt in silhouette. (Je '29)

Egypt in silhouette. Hall, T. (Je '29)
Eighteen-seventies. Granville-Barker, H. G., ed. (N '29)
Eileen of the trees. Stacpoole, H: de V. S. (S '29)
Eilley Orrum. Paine, S. (Ag '29)

Electric lighting
Fuchs, T. Stage lighting. (Je '29)

Electric lines
Overhead
Kurtz, E. B. Lineman's handbook. (Ap '29)

Electric utilities
Mosher, W: E., and others, eds. Electrical utilities. (D '29)

Electric word. Schubert, P. (Ap '29)
Electrical utilities. Mosher, W: E., and others, eds. (D '29)

Electricity
Parker, B. M. Book of electricity. (Ag '29)

Electrolysis
Clark, W: M. Determination of hydrogen ions. (My '29)

Elementary foundry technology. Hartley, L. A., ed. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Elena (yacht)
Bell, H. G. Winning the king's cup. (My '29)

Elephants
Legends and stories
Bradley, M. Alice in Elephantland. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mukerji, D. G. Chief of the herd. (D '29)

Elgin, Mary (Nisbet) countess of
Elgin, M. Letters. (Mr '29)

Eliot, Charles William
Saunderson, H: H. Charles W. Eliot, Puritan liberal. (Mr '29)

Elizabeth, queen of England
Anthony, K. S. Queen Elizabeth. (N '29)
Klarwill, V:, ed. Queen Elizabeth and some foreigners. (Mr '29)
Strachey, G. L. Elizabeth and Essex. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Elizabeth, pseud. See Russell, M. A.
Elizabeth and Essex. Strachey, G. L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Elizabethan jig and related song drama. Baskervill, C: R. (S '29)
Elizabethan journal. Harrison, G: B. (Je '29)
Ellis, Mrs Anne
Ellis, A. Life of an ordinary woman. (D '29)
Elspeth, pseud. See O'Halloran, E.
Elva. Grinstead, D. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Embassy to Tamerlane, 1403-1406. Clavijo, R. G. de. (Je '29)
The embezzlers. Kataev, V. P. (D '29)
Emerson, Ralph Waldo
Russell, P. Emerson, the wisest American. (D '29)
Emerson, the wisest American. Russell, P. (D '29)
Eminent Asians. Hall, J. W. (N '29)
Emma Willard, daughter of democracy. Lutz, A. (Ag '29)
Emotion as the basis of civilization. Denison, J: H. (Ap '29)
Emotions
Cannon, W. B. Bodily changes in pain, hunger, fear and rage. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Denison, J: H. Emotion as the basis of civilization. (Ap '29)
Lazell, E: W: Anatomy of emotion. (S '29)
Marston, W: M. Emotions of normal people. (Ap '29)
Sherman, M. and I. Process of human behavior. (S '29)
Troland, L. T. Fundamentals of human motivation. (Mr '29)
Emotions of normal people. Marston, W: M. (Ap '29)
Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. Redlich, J. (Ap '29)
Emperor of America. Rohmer, S., pseud. (D '29)
Empire and commonwealth. Martin, C. (O '29)
Empire government. Nathan, M. (N '29)
Employees' representation in management
Gemmill, P. F. Present-day labor relations. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Guillebaud, C. W. Works council. (My '29)
Employment agencies
Seymour, J: B. British employment exchange. (N '29)
Employment management
Anderson, V: V. Psychiatry in industry. (N '29)
Bruère, H: J., and Pugh, G. Profitable personnel practice. (D '29)
Hackett, J. D. Labor management. (N '29)
Laird, D. A. Psychology and profits. (N '29)
O'Connor, J. Born that way. (N '29)
Tead, O. Human nature and management. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Watkins, G. S. Labor management. (Ap '29)
The enchantress. Henderson, H. W. (Mr '29)
Encyclopædia Britannica; 14th ed. (D '29)
Encyclopedias and dictionaries
Encyclopædia Britannica; 14th ed. (D '29)
Ends of the earth. Andrews, R. C. (D '29)
The engineer, his work and his education. Sackett, R. L. (Ap '29)
Engineering
Addresses, essays, lectures
Jackson, D. C., and Jones, W. P., eds. Profession of engineering. (D '29)
Study and teaching
Sackett, R. L. The engineer, his work and his education. (Ap '29)
United States
Fraser, C. C. Story of engineering in America. (My '29)
Engineers
Jackson, D. C., and Jones, W. P., eds. Profession of engineering. (D '29)
Sackett, R. L. The engineer, his work and his education. (Ap '29)
England, Jane, pseud. See Jervis, V. M. S.
England
Description and travel
Lisle, C. Hobnails and heather. (Je '29)
Maxwell, G. S. Road to France. (N '29)
Nutting, W. England beautiful. (Mr '29)
Robinson, R. M. Penn country and the Chilterns. (O '29)
Wade, J. H: Rambles in cathedral cities. (Ap '29)
Social conditions
Hartley, D., and Elliot, M. M. V. Life and work of the people of England, v 3-4. (My '29)
Social life and customs
Hartley, D., and Elliot, M. M. V. Life and work of the people of England, v 3-4. (My '29)
King, R. W., ed. England from Wordsworth to Dickens. (My '29)
England. Robinson, C. E: (Mr '29)
England beautiful. Nutting, W. (Mr '29)
England from Wordsworth to Dickens. King, R. W., ed. (My '29)
Englander. Kircher, R. (Ag '29)
English and American furniture. Cescinsky, H., and Hunter, G: L. (D '29)
English and science. McDonald, P. B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
English ballads and songs
Wimberly, L. C: Folklore in the English and Scottish ballads. (Ap '29)
English comedy. Thorndike, A. H. (Ag '29)
English comic drama, 1700-1750. Bateson, F: N. W. (N '29)
English constitutional conflicts of the seventeenth century, 1603-1689. Tanner, J. R. (Ag '29)
English drama
Collections
Moses, M. J., ed. British plays from the restoration to 1820. (Je '29)
Rubinstein, H. F:, ed. Great English plays. (My '29)
History and criticism
Baskervill, C: R. Elizabethan jig and related song drama. (S '29)
Bateson, F: N. W. English comic drama, 1700-1750. (N '29)
Motter, T: H. V. School drama in England. (Ag '29)
Thorndike, A. H. English comedy. (Ag '29)
Selections, extracts, etc.
Nicoll, A. Readings from British drama. (Ap '29)
English essays
Collections
Bachelor, J. M., and Henry, R. L., eds. Challenging essays in modern thought. (Je '29)
Hastings, W: T., and Mason, K. O., eds. Essays from five centuries. (N '29)
Shepard, O., ed. Contemporary essays. (O '29)
English fiction
Ford, F. M. The English novel. (Je '29)
Muir, E. Structure of the novel. (Ap '29)
History and criticism
Dane, C., pseud. Tradition and Hugh Walpole. (N '29)
Greig, J: Y. T. Scheherazade. (Mr '29)
Jameson, S. Georgian novel and Mr Robinson. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Marble, A. Study of the modern novel. (Ap '29)
Woolf, V. A room of one's own. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
English girlhood at school. Gardiner, D. (S '29)
English humor. Priestley, J: B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
English king. MacDonagh, M. (O '29)

English language

Errors

Use of words

Burton, R: Why do you talk like that? (Je '29)

Etymology

Burton, R: Why do you talk like that? (Je '29)

Phonetics

De Witt, M. E. Our oral word as a social and economic factor. (Je '29)

Rhetoric

McDonald, P. B. English and science. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Read, H. E: English prose style. (Mr '29)

Study and teaching

Mearns, H. Creative power. (D '29)
Opdycke, J: B. In the service of youth. (Je '29)

Versification

Wood, C. Craft of poetry. (Je '29)

English letters

Van Doren, D., ed. Lost art. (Ap '29)

English literature

Garrod, H. W: Profession of poetry. (O '29)
Wolfe, H. Dialogues & monologues. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Bibliography

Manly, J: M., and Rickert, E. Contemporary British literature. (N '29)

Collections

Hope-Nicholson, H., comp. Mindes delight. (D '29)
King, R. W., ed. England from Wordsworth to Dickens. (My '29)
Lieder, P. R., and others, eds. English poetry and prose. (My '29)
Yellow book. (Je '29)

History and criticism

Blunden, E. C: Nature in English literature. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Collins, A. S. Profession of letters. (S '29)
Dobrée, B. Lamp and the lute. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Elton, O. Survey of English literature, 1730-1780. (Ap '29)
Granville-Barker, H. G., ed. Eighteen-seventies. (N '29)
Greig, J: Y. T. Scheherazade. (Mr '29)
Shaaber, M. A. Some forerunners of the newspaper in England, 1476-1622. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Van Dyke, H: Man behind the book. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Outlines, syllabi, etc.

Manly, J: M., and Rickert, E. Contemporary British literature. (N '29)

The English novel. Ford, F. M. (Je '29)

English poetry

Chapman, J. A. Papers on Shelley, Wordsworth & others. (S '29)
Garrod, H. W: Profession of poetry. (O '29)
Ker, W: P. Form and style in poetry. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Naylor, E: W. Poets and music. (N '29)
Read, H. E: Phases of English poetry. (Ap '29)
Riding, L. Pamphlet against anthologies. (Mr '29)
Riding, L., and Graves, R. Survey of modernist poetry. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Collections

Auslander, J., and Hill, F. E., comps. Winged horse anthology. (S '29)
Campbell, O. J., and Pyre, J. F. A., eds. English poetry of the nineteenth century. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hebel, J: W:, and Hudson, H. H., eds. Poetry of the English renaissance, 1509-1660. (O '29)
Horan, K., comp. Parnassus en route. (N '29)
Marcus, S., comp. and ed. Anthology of revolutionary poetry. (S '29)
Moult, T:, comp. Best poems of 1928. (Mr '29)
Moult, T:, comp. Best poems of 1929. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Oxford book of regency verse, 1798-1837. (My '29)
Oxford poetry, 1928. (My '29)
Sanders, G. De W., and Nelson, J: H. eds. Chief modern poets of England and America. (S '29)
Sloss, H. L., comp. Certain poets of importance. (D '29)

History and criticism

Chilton, E. C., and Agar, H. Garment of praise. (My '29)
Grierson, H. J: C. Lyrical poetry of the nineteenth century. (My '29)
Tinker, C. B. Good estate of poetry. (Je '29)
Wolfe, H. Notes on English verse satire. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

English poetry and prose. Lieder, P. R., and others, eds. (My '29)
English poetry of the nineteenth century. Campbell, O. J. and Pyre, J. F. A., eds. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
English political portraits of the nineteenth century. Taylor, G: R. S. (S '29)
English prose style. Read, H. E: (Mr '29)
English proverbs and proverbial phrases. Apperson, G: L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
English public school. Darwin, B. R: M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
English wild life. Parker, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Enter Sir John. Dane, C., pseud., and Simpson, H. (Mr '29)

Entertaining

Hamilton, B. M. Please come to my party. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Enzymes

Waldschmidt-Leitz, E. Enzyme actions and properties. (Je '29)

Enzyme actions and properties. Waldschmidt-Leitz, E. (Je '29)
Eos. Jeans, J. H. (N '29)

Epic poetry

Lawrence, W: W. Beowulf and epic tradition. (Mr '29)

Epigrams

Cooley, H., and Corwin, N. L., comps. So say the wise. (D '29)
Epoch and a man; Martin Van Buren and his times. Lynch, D. T. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Epochs in American banking. Hoggson, N. F. (O '29)

Equipment for stage production. Krows, A. E. (Ap '29)

Equity

Durfee, E. N., ed. Cases on equity. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Era of the French revolution (1715-1815). Gottschalk, L: R. (Ag '29)

Erie canal

Fiction

Edmonds, W. D. Rome haul. (Ap '29)

Escapes

Smith, E: H: You can escape. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Eskimo village. Hutton, S: K. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Eskimos

Hutton, S: K. Eskimo village. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Streeter, D. W. Arctic rodeo. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Essayes. Montaigne, M. E. de. (S '29)

Essays

Bell, F. E. E. Landmarks. (O '29)
Belloc, H. Conversation with an angel. (S '29)
Bragdon, C. F. New image. (Ap '29)
Burrell, M. Betwixt heaven and Charing cross. (My '29)
Chesterton, G. K. Generally speaking. (Ap '29)
Coffin, R. P: T. Attic room. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Edman, I. Adam, the baby, and the man from Mars. (S '29)
Gale, Z. Portage, Wisconsin. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Essays—Continued
Greene, A. Lambs in March. (Ap '29)
Huddleston, S. Articles de Paris. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Huneker, J. G. Essays. (D '29)
Huxley, A. L. Do what you will. (D '29)
Lucas, E: V. Turning things over. (N '29)
Milne, A. A. By way of introduction. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Monroe, A. S. Hearth of happiness. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Montaigne, M. E. de. Essayes. (S '29)
Morley, C. D. Off the deep end. (Mr '29)
Murry, J: M. Things to come. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Nicholson, M. Old familiar faces. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Pritchard, F. H:, ed. From Confucius to Mencken. (S '29)
Riding, L. Anarchism is not enough. (My '29)
Rodó, J. E. Motives of Proteus. (Je '29)
Shepard, O. Joys of forgetting. (My '29)
Townsend, R. T. This, that, and the other thing. (S '29)
West, R. Strange necessity. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wolfe, H. Dialogues & monologues. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Zimmern, A. E. America and Europe. (S '29)
Essays from five centuries. Hastings, W: T., and Mason, K. O., eds. (N '29)
Essays in philosophy. Smith, T: V., and Wright, W: K., eds. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Essentials of civilization. Jones, T: J. (Ag '29)

Essex, Robert Devereux, 2d earl of
Strachey, G. L. Elizabeth and Essex. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Esteven, John, pseud. See Shellabarger, S:

Esthetics
Ames, V. M. Aesthetics of the novel. (Ap '29)
Munro, T: Scientific method in æsthetics. (S '29)
Prall, D: W. Æsthetic judgment. (N '29)
Eternal forest. Godwin, G: S. (Ag '29)
Ethan Allen. Pell, J: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Ether and me. Rogers, W. (N '29)

Ethics
Ayres, C. E. Holier than thou. (My '29)
Carritt, E. F: Theory of morals. (S '29)
Copeland, E. B. Natural conduct. (S '29)
Drake, D. New morality. (Mr '29)
Goodman of Paris (Le ménagier de Paris). (My '29)
Hall-Quest, A. L. It's not our fault. (Ag '29)
Lippmann, W. Preface to morals. (Je '29)
Lodge, R. C. Plato's theory of ethics. (Mr '29)
Parshley, H. M. Science and good behavior. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rueff, J. From the physical to the social sciences. (N '29)
Stapledon, W: O. Modern theory of ethics. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wallace, W: K. Scientific world view. (Ap '29)
Whitney, R. E. Morality in the making. (Je '29)

History
Riley, I: W. Men and morals. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Ethics, Evolutionary
Bridges, H. J. Taking the name of science in vain. (My '29)
Copeland, E. B. Natural conduct. (S '29)
Parshley, H. M. Science and good behavior. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Ethics, Greek
Earp, F. R. Way of the Greeks. (S '29)

Ethics, Japanese
Hibino, Y. Nippon shindo ron. (Ag '29)

Ethnology

Trobriand Islands
Malinowski, B. Sexual life o' savages in North-Western Melanesia. (S '29)

Ethnopsychology
Allier, R. S. P. Mind of the savage. (O '29)
Lévy-Bruhl, L. "Soul" of the primitive. (Mr '29)

Eton college
Lubbock, P. Shades of Eton. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Eugenics
Rice, T. B. Racial hygiene. (N '29)
Schmucker, S: C. Heredity and parenthood. (N '29)

Eugénie, empress consort of Napoleon III
Paléologue, G. M. Tragic empress. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Europe

Biography
Dark, S. Twelve bad men. (My '29)

Civilization
Romier, L. Who will be master, Europe or America? (Mr '29)

Commercial policy
Hoskins, H. L. British routes to India. (S '29)

Description and travel
Bercovici, K. Nights abroad. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Fuller, H: B. Gardens of this world. (D '29)
Neumann, D. Timothy travels. (Je '29)
Peck, A. M. Storybook Europe. (S '29)
Petre, E. R. Shrines of the great in Europe. (My '29)
Price, L. Winged sandals. (Ap '29)
Wells, C. Let's do the Mediterranean. (Mr '29)

Poetry
Horan, K., comp. Parnassus en route. (N '29)

History
Buell, R. L. Europe. (Mr '29)
Hyma, A. Short history of Europe, 1500-1815. (D '29)
Marvin, F. S. Modern world. (N '29)

20th century
Huddleston, S. Europe in zigzags. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

History, Juvenile
Peck, A. M. Storybook Europe. (S '29)

Literature
Rose, W:, and Isaacs, J., eds. Contemporary movements in European literature. (My '29)

Politics
D'Abernon, E. V. Diary of an ambassador; v 1, Versailles to Rapallo, 1920-1922. (My '29)
Edwards, W: H. Heading for war. (Ap '29)
Fay, S. B. Origins of the world war. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Germany, Auswärtiges amt. German diplomatic documents, 1871-1914. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Huddleston, S. Europe in zigzags. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Klarwill, V:, ed. Queen Elizabeth and some foreigners. (Mr '29)
Montgelas, M. M. K: D. British foreign policy under Sir Edward Grey. (Mr '29)
Mowat, R. B. History of European diplomacy, 1451-1789. (My '29)

Europe. Buell, R. L. (Mr '29)
Europe in zigzags. Huddleston, S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

European war, 1914-1918
Barbusse, H. I saw it myself. (Ag '29 (1928 Annual)
Nevinson, H: W. Last changes, last chances. (Mr '29)
Recouly, R. Foch. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Aerial operations
Ashmore, E: B. Air defence. (D '29)
Hall, B., and Niles, J: J. One man's war. (Ag '29)
Lehmann, E. A., and Mingos, H. L. The Zeppelins. (Mr '29)

Atrocities
Ponsonby, A. A: W: H. Falsehood in wartime. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Battlefields
Williamson, H: Wet Flanders plain. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Biography

Martin, W: Statesmen of the war in retrospect, 1918-1928. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Blockades

Nol'de, B. E. Russia in the economic war. (S '29)

Campaigns

Carey, G. V., and Scott, H. S., comps. Outline history of the Great war. (Ap '29)

France

Aston, G: G. Biography of the late Marshal Foch. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Causes

Barnes, H. E. In quest of truth and justice. (My '29)
Fay, S. B. Origins of the world war. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Ludwig, E. July '14. (D '29)
Montgelas, M. M. K: D. British foreign policy under Sir Edward Grey. (Mr '29)

Economic aspects

Dulles, E. L. French franc, 1914-1928. (D '29)
Motherwell, H. Imperial dollar. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Nol'de, B. E. Russia in the economic war. (S '29)
Peel, D. C. How we lived then, 1914-1918. (S '29)
Zagorskii, S. O. State control of industry in Russia during the war. (Ag '29)

Finance

Cassel, G., and others. Foreign investments. (Je '29)
Gerould, J. T., and Turnbull, L. S. comps. Selected articles on interallied debts and revision of the debt settlements. (Mr '29)

Food question

Beveridge, W: H: British food control. (Ag '29)
Surface, F. M. Grain trade during the World war. (My '29)

Hospitals, charities, etc.

Gay, G. I., and Fisher, H. H: Public relations of the Commission for relief in Belgium. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Pottle, F: A. Stretchers. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Influence and results

Edwards, W: H. Heading for war. (Ap '29)
Nowak, K: F. Versailles. (Ag '29)

Naval operations

Bone, D: W: Merchantmen-at-arms. (D '29)
Newbolt, H: J: Naval operations. (N '29)
Niezychowski, A. von. Cruise of the Kronprinz Wilhelm. (S '29)

Submarine

Campbell, G. My mystery ships. (Ap '29)
Clark, W: B. When the U-boats came to America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Thomas, L. J. Raiders of the deep. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Personal narratives

Andrews, M. M. Scraps of paper. (N '29)
Binding, R. G. Fatalist at war. (My '29)
Blunden, E. C: Undertones of war. (Ap '29)
Hall, B., and Niles, J: J. One man's war. (Ag '29)
Hopper, J. M. Medals of honor. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Jünger, E. Storm of steel. (N '29)
Luckner, F. Sea Devil's fo'c'sle. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Wallach, M. "Farmer, have you a daughter fair?" (Ag '29)
Westover, W. Suicide battalions. (Je '29)
Wise, F: M. A marine tells it to you. (Ag '29)
Witkop, P. German students' war letters. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Poetry

Wyeth, J: A. B. This man's army. (Ag '29)

Propaganda

Allen, W: C. War! (N '29)
Ponsonby, A. A: W: H. Falsehood in wartime. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Reparations

Gerould, J. T., and Turnbull, L. S., comps. Selected articles on interallied debts and revision of the debt settlements. (Mr '29)

Secret service

Johnston, T: M. Our secret war. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Territorial questions

Bowman, I. New world. (Je '29)
MacCallum, E. P. Nationalist crusade in Syria. (My '29)
Stoyanovsky, J. Mandate for Palestine. (N '29)

Transportation

Hines, W. D. War history of American railroads. (Ap '29)

War work

Jones, L. M. Quakers in action. (Je '29)

Belgium

Graham, E. Albert, king of the Belgians. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Laveille, A. P. Life of Cardinal Mercier. (Mr '29)

Czechoslovak Republic

Beneš, E. My war memoirs. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Great Britain

Carey, G. V., and Scott, H. S., comps. Outline history of the Great war. (Ap '29)
Charteris, J: Field-Marshal Earl Haig. (Je '29)
Peel, D. C How we lived then, 1914-1918. (S '29)

Greece

Phocas-Cosmetatos, S. P. Tragedy of Greece (S '29)

Japan

Young, A. M. Japan in recent times, 1912-1926. (Ja '30) (1929 annual)

Russia

Marye, G: T: Nearing the end in imperial Russia. (O '29)
Nicholas II, emperor of Russia. Letters of the tsar to the tsaritsa, 1914-1917. (Ag '29)

United States

House, E: M. Intimate papers of Colonel House. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Reilly, H: J. America's part. (Mr '29)
Viereck, G: S., and Branden, A. P. M., eds. As they saw us. (Ag '29)

Evangelical cockroach. Woodford, J. (O '29)

Evangelistic work

Loud, G. C. Evangelized America. (Mr '29)

Evangelized America. Loud, G. C. (Mr '29)

Evening and continuation schools

Friese, J: F. Cosmopolitan evening school. (O '29)

Evenings in the orchestra. Berlioz, H. L: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Everlasting Harpers. Wasson, M. (D '29)

Everton, Francis, pseud. See Stokes, F. W:

Every soul is a circus. Lindsay, V. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Everyman's psychology. Adams, J: (D '29)

Evoe of Punch, pseud. See Knox, E. G: V.

Evolution

Conger, G: P. New views of evolution. (D '29)
Fasten, N. Origin through evolution. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Gregory, W: K. Our face from fish to man. (My '29)
James, E. O. Beginnings of man. (My '29)

Evolution—Continued
McDougall, W: Modern materialism and emergent evolution. (O '29)
Macfie, R. C. Metanthropos. (N '29)
Patrick, G: T: W. What is the mind? (Ag '29)

History
Osborn, H: F. From the Greeks to Darwin. (S '29)

Evolution of art. Rochemont, R. de. (Je '29)
Evolution of the igneous rocks. Bowen, N. L. (O '29)
Excellence of revealed religion. Challenger, C. G. (Ag '29)

Exchange
Rogers, J. H., and others. Process of inflation in France 1914-1927. (S '29)
Excuse it, please. Herford, O. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Exercise
Crampton, C: W. Daily health builder. (Je '29)
Lieb, C. W: Eat, drink and be slender. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Experiments with handwriting. Saudek, R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Expiation. Russell, M. A. (Ap '29)

Explosives
Sohlman, R., and Schück, H. Nobel. (Ag '29)
Express to Hindustan. Ellis, M. H. (N '29)
Exquisite tragedy; an intimate life of John Ruskin. Williams-Ellis, A. (Ap '29)
Extra-classroom activities in elementary and secondary schools. Jordan, R. H. (N '29)

Extra-curricular activities
Jordan, R. H. Extra-classroom activities in elementary and secondary schools. (N '29)
Meyer, H. D., and Eddleman, S. M. Financing extra curricular activities. (D '29)
Roemer, J., and Allen, C: F. Readings in extra-curricular activities. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Extra-girl. Perry, S. G. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Ex-wife. Parrott, K. U. (O '29)

Eye
Care and hygiene
Thomson, E. S. Your eyes and their care. (Je '29)

Diseases and defects
Thomson, E. S. Your eyes and their care. (Je '29)

Eye for an eye. Hickok, F. (Je '29)
Eyelids of the morn. Johnston, W. (My '29)
Eyes for the dark. Shannon, M. (Mr '29)

F. B. Meyer. Roberts, P. I. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Fables,
Powys, T. F. Fables. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Fables, Hindu
Mukerji, D. G. Hindu fables. (O '29)

Face
Gregory, W: K. Our face from fish to man. (My '29)
Face in the night. Wallace, E. (S '29)

Factory management
Alford, L. P. Laws of management applied to manufacturing. (S '29)
Cornell, W: B. Industrial organization and management. (S '29)
Hackett, J. D. Labor management (N '29)

Factory system
Borsodi, R. This ugly civilization. (D '29)
Facts of modern medicine. Palfrey, F. W. (S '29)
Fairy caravan. Potter, B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Fairy plays
Mitchison, N. M. Nix-nought-nothing. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Fairy shoemaker. (Je '29)

Fairy tales
Borski, L. M., and Miller, K. B., comps. and trs. Jolly tailor. (Mr '29)
Capuana, L. Italian fairy tales. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Casserley, A. T. Whins on Knockattan. (Mr '29)
Choate, F., and Curtis, E., comps. Little people of the hills. (Mr '29)
Shannon, M. Eyes for the dark. (Mr '29)

Faith
Alexander, H. B. Truth and the faith. (N '29)
Bell, B. I. Beyond agnosticism. (S '29)
Black, H. Adventure of being man. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Juergens, S. P. Newman on the psychology of faith in the individual. (Ag '29)
Murry, J: M. God. (D '29)
Falcon's flight. Douglas, D. (N '29)
Falcons of France. Nordhoff, C: B., and Hall, J. N. (N '29)
Fall of the planter class in the British Caribbean, 1763-1833. Ragatz, L. J. (N '29)
Falmouth for orders. Villiers, A. J. (Je '29)
False face. Lilly, J. (D '29)
False youth. Rising, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Falsehood in war-time. Ponsonby, A. A: W: H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Falstaff, Jake, pseud. See Fetzer, H.

Familiar letters on important occasions. Richardson, S: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Family
Fiske, G: W. Changing family. (My '29)
Groves, E. R. and G. Parents and children. (Ap '29)
Groves, E. R., and Ogburn, W: F. American marriage and family relationships. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Malinowski, B. Sexual life of savages in North-Western Melanesia. (S '29)
Mowrer, E. R. and H. Domestic discord. (Ag '29)
Rich, M. E., ed. Family life to-day. (Ap '29)
Family group. Patrick, D., pseud. (S '29)
Family life to-day. Rich, M. E., ed. (Ap '29)
Famous American duels. Seitz, D. C. (S '29)
Famous old-world sea fighters. Lewis, C: L. (N '29)
Famous sheriffs and western outlaws. Raine, W: M. (Ag '29)
Fanfare. Halliday, R: (O '29)
Fantasio. Musset, A. de. (S '29)
Far East. Treat, P. J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Far Eastern international relations. Morse, H. B., and MacNair, H. F. (Ap '29)
Far wandering men. Russell, J: (Ag '29)
Farewell to arms. Hemingway, E. (N '29)
Farewell to paradise. Thiess, F. (N '29)

Farington, Joseph
Farington, J. Farington diary, v 8. (O '29)
Farington diary, v 8. Farington, J. (O '29)

Farm life
Burr, W. Small towns. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Kirkpatrick, E. L. Farmer's standard of living. (Je '29)

Farm produce
Rommel, G: M. Farm products in industry. (Je '29)

Marketing
Lippincott, I: What the farmer needs. (Ap '29)

Farm products in industry. Rommel, G: M. (Je '29))
Farm twins. Perkins, L. (Mr '29)
"Farmer, have you a daughter fair?" Wallach, M. (Ag '29)
Farmer's standard of living. Kirkpatrick, E. L. (Je '29)
Farthing Hall. Walpole, H., and Priestley, J: B. (My '29)

Fashion
Nystrom, P. H: Economics of fashion. (O '29)
Fatal kisses (in history and tradition). O'Donnell, E. (N '29)
Fatalist at war. Binding, R. G. (My '29)
Fate of the jury. Masters, E. L. (Je '29)
Father in modern story. Van Buren, M., and Bemis, K. I., eds. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Father William. Stewart, D. O. (Je '29)

Fathers
Walker, K. M. and E. M. On being a father. (N '29)

Fathers of the church
Wright, F: A., tr. Fathers of the church. (My '29)

Fatigue
Myers, C: S:, ed. Industrial psychology. (N '29)

Fatma was a goose. Martin, D. B. (D '29)

Federal income taxation. Klein, J. J. (D '29)

Federal reserve banks
Lawrence, J. S. Stabilization of prices. (Ag '29)
Lawrence, J. S. Wall Street and Washington. (O '29)
Watkins, L. L. Bankers' balances. (N '29)

Félix, Elisa Rachel
Agate, J. E. Rachel. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Festivals
Ashby, T: Some Italian scenes and festivals. (O '29)
Heidel, W: A. Day of Yahweh. (S '29)

Fiction (books about)
Ames, V. M. Aesthetics of the novel. (Ap '29)
Muir, E. Structure of the novel. (Ap '29)
Overton, G. M. Philosophy of fiction. (Ap '29)

Technique
Bedford-Jones, H: This fiction business. (N '29)
Gallishaw, J: Twenty problems of the fiction writer. (S '29)
Garbo, C. H: Technique of the novel. (Ag '29)

Fiction (classified according to subject)

Adolescence
Bartlett, V. Calf love. (D '29)
Benson, T. Salad days. (Mr '29)
Brecht, H. W. Downfall. (Ag '29)
Glaeser, E. Class of 1902. (N '29)
Goolden, B. Waking bird. (D '29)
Hill, F. Plundered host. (My '29)
Joseph, D. October's child. (D '29)
Morgan, C: First love. (Ap '29)
Samuels, C: Frantic young man. (My '29)
Stevenson, P. Edge of the nest. (Ag '29)
Thiess, F. Farewell to paradise. (N '29)
Toohey, J: P: Growing pains. (S '29)
Van Druten, J: Young Woodley. (My '29)

Adventure
Abdullah, A. They were so young. (Je '29)
Ames, J. B. Bladed barrier. (N '29)
Buchan, J: Courts of the morning. (O '29)
Chapman, E. Minstrels in satin. (S '29)
Clay, R. K. Carmen Sheila. (Je '29)
Clifford, H. C: Prisoners of the forest. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Doyle, A. C. Maracot Deep. (D '29)
Drake, H: B. The children reap. (S '29)
Edwards, G. Earth-tube. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Farson, N. Fugitive love. (N '29)
Hummel, G: F: Summer lightning. (Je '29)
Keck, M., and Orbison, O. Key to the Casa. (Ag '29)
Lane, J. Left hand of God. (D '29)
McBlair, R. Black gold. (Je '29)
McFee, W: Sailors of fortune. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
MacGrath, H. Wolves of chaos. (Je '29)
Marshall, E. Fish hawk. (S '29)
Morley, F. V. East south east. (O '29)
Mowery, W: B. Girl from God's Mercie. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Oppenheim, E: P. Mr. Billingham, the marquis and Madelon. (S '29)
Pease, H. Shanghai passage. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Pertwee, R. Hell's loose. (Je '29)
Rhys, E., and Scott, C. A., eds. 26 adventure stories, old and new. (S '29)
Ripley, C. Dust and sun. (N '29)
Shiel, M. P. Cold steel. (Ag '29)
Smith, A. D. H. Grey maiden. (N '29)
Smith, W. Tiger's mate. (Mr '29)
Stribling, T: S. Strange moon. (Ag '29)
Taine, J: Greatest adventure. (Ap '29)
Thane, E., pseud. Cloth of gold. (Je '29)
Warburton, S. Avatar in Vishnu land. (Mr '29)
Watson, R. High hazard. (Ag '29)
Wheeler-Nicholson, M. Corral of death. (F '30 (1929 Annual)
Woolley, K. Adventure calls. (S '29)
Wynnton, P. Lost mark. (O '29)

Americans abroad
Brackett, C: American colony. (O '29)
Condon, F. Once in a blue moon. (N '29)
Lewis, S. Dodsworth. (My '29)

Animal stories
Blackwood, A. Dudley & Gilderoy. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Brand, M. Mistral. (O '29)
Evans, H. R. Derry's partner. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hinkle, T: C. Bugle. (My '29)
Mukerji, D. G. Chief of the herd. (D '29)
Woollcott, A. Two gentlemen and a lady. (Ap '29)

Artist life
Huntsman, H. Mad fingers. (Ag '29)
Young, F. B. Black roses. (N '29)

Biblical stories
Eyles, M. L. Shepherd of Israel. (O '29)
Granger, M. Wife to Pilate. (Je '29)
Scott, G. Golden gospel. (Ag '29)

Business
Dewing, E. B. Eagles fly high. (D '29)
Kelland, C. B. Dynasty. (Je '29)
Lutz, G. Duskin. (S '29)
Mellett, J: C. Chains of lightning. (Je '29)
Schultz, A. B. Private secretary. (N '29)

Character studies
Acland, P. All else is folly. (N '29)
Arlen, M., pseud. Lily Christine. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Bang, H. J. Ida Brandt. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Baring, M. Coat without seam. (Ag '29)
Basso, H. Relics and angels. (D '29)
Bates, H. E. Catherine Foster. (N '29)
Beals, C. Destroying Victor. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Beers, L. D. A humble Lear. (Ag '29)
Begbie, H. Laslett affair. (Mr '29)
Bentley, P. E. Partnership. (D '29)
Bentley P. E. Spinner of the years. (My '29)
Blake, E. Third weaver. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Blodgett, R. R. Birds got to fly. (O '29)
Booth, M. Gem of earth. (N '29)
Bullett, G. W: History of Egg Pandervil. (S '29)
Bullett, G. W: Nicky, son of Egg. (O '29)
Carter, B. Mortal men. (S '29)
Chambrun, C. de. His wife's romance. (D '29)
Clarke, I. C. We that are left. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Coyle, K. Liv. (My '29)
Crawford, L. I. On the anvil. (N '29)
Dewing, E. B. Eagles fly high. (D '29)
Ertz, S. Galaxy. (S '29)
Fort, J: P. Stone Daugherty. (Ag '29)
Fuller, M. W. Her son. (Ap '29)
Gibbs, A. Young Apollo. (D '29)
Giusti, A. An artist passes. (S '29)
Goncharov, I. A. Oblomov. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Graham, S. Lay confessor. (Ap '29)
Greene, W. Cora Potts. (N '29)
Hamilton, D: O. Pale warriors. (Je '29)
Hatch, R: W. Into the wind. (Ag '29)
Herbst, J. Money for love. (N '29)
Hess, L. Tomorrow's voyage. (D '29)
Holstius, E: Gold dust. (N '29)
Huntington, E. Son of Dr. Tradusac. (Ag '29)
Hutten zum Stolzenberg, B. Eddy and Edouard. (S '29)
Jervis, V. M. S. Bull whip. (S '29)
Jordan, H. R. Background for Caroline. (D '29)
Kinck, H. E. A young people. (S '29)
Lewis, S. Dodsworth. (My '29)
Logan, A. Necessary man. (O '29)
Manning, E. Lot houses. (D '29)
Maxwell, W: B. Man who pretended. (D '29)

Fiction—Character studies—Continued
Millis, W. Sand castle. (Ap '29)
Muir, D. Virtuous woman. (O '29)
Nevill, J: C. Strange companions. (Ag '29)
Olivier, E. As far as Jane's grandmother's. (My '29)
O'Riordan, C. O. Yet do not grieve. (Mr '29)
Parrish, A. Methodist faun. (N '29)
Pocock, G. N. Knight's gambit. (S '29)
Prowse, R: O. Prophet's wife. (S '29)
Read, H. E. Thurman Lucas. (Ag '29)
Reid, A. We are the dead. (S '29)
Rinehart, M. This strange adventure. (Je '29)
Samuel, M. Outsider. (D '29)
Skinner, D. Barbarian. (Je '29)
Smedley, A. Daughter of earth. (My '29)
Suckow, R. Cora. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Swinnerton, F. A. Merry heart. (Je '29)
Swinnerton, F. A. Sketch of a sinner. (D '29)
Terhune, A. M. White mouse. (N '29)
Vachell, H. A. Leading man. (My '29)
Verschoyle, C. M. Willow and cypress. (Ag '29)
Walpole, H. Hans Frost. (O '29)
Watkins, S. This poor player. (Je '29)
Wharton, E. N. Hudson River bracketed. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Cheerful stories

Adams, H. Caroline Ormesby's crime. (O '29)
Adams, S: H. Flagrant years. (Ag '29)
Cook, N. E. Welcome—stranger. (N '29)
Garstin, C. Houp la! (O '29)
Hatch, E. Couple of quick ones. (Ap '29)
Jacot de Boinod, B. L: Trust Wesley! (N '29)
Kilbourne, F. Dot & Will. (Ag '29)
Mackail, D. G: Another part of the wood. (Ap '29)
North, J: Patricia lacked a lover. (Ag '29)
Rosman, A. G. Visitors to Hugo. (S '29)
Stacpoole, H: de V. S. Eileen of the trees. (S '29)
Tompkins, J. W. Left in trust. (Je '29)
Turnbull, M. The handsome man. (My '29)
Wilde, P. Rogues in clover. (My '29)
Wilson, H. L. Lone tree. (O '29)
Witwer, H. C: Yes man's land. (Je '29)
Wodehouse, P. G. Fish preferred. (S '29)

Children, Stories about

Brann, E. Nanette of the wooden shoes. (S '29)
Crosby, P. L. Skippy. (Ag '29)
Hughes, R: A. W. Innocent voyage. (Je '29)
Kilmer, A. Buttonwood summer. (N '29)
Nevill, J: C. Strange companions. (Ag '29)
Stanford, E. E. Mascot goes across. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Stevenson, P. Edge of the nest. (Ag '29)
Tarkington, B. Penrod Jashber. (N '29)
Williamson, H: Beautiful years. (O '29)

Communities

Seldes, G. V. Wings of the eagle. (D '29)

Convent life

Mullins, H. Convent girl. (O '29)

Cowboys

James, W. Sand. (Ag '29)

Crime and criminals

Barr, A. J. Let tomorrow come. (Je '29)
Burnett, W. R. Little Caesar. (Ag '29)
Clarke, D. H. Louis Beretti. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Coe, C: F. Hooch! (Je '29)
Daviot, G. Kif. (My '29)
Footner, H. Self-made thief. (My '29)
Hammett, D. Red harvest. (Ap '29)
King, B. Satan as lightning. (O '29)
Smalley, D. E. Stumbling. (O '29)
Walt, C:, pseud. Love in Chicago. (My '29)
Wilde, P. Rogues in clover. (My '29)

Detective stories

See Fiction—Mystery stories

Divorce

Johnson, O. M. Sacrifice. (O '29)
Vanderbilt, C. Reno. (D '29)
Waugh, A. Portrait of a celibate. (Mr '29)

Drunkards

Wertenbaker, C: Peter the drunk. (My '29)

Dual personality

Hesse, H. Steppenwolf. (O '29)

European war

Acland, P. All else is folly. (N '29)
Aldington, R: Death of a hero. (O '29)
Barretto, L. Horses in the sky. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Blake, G: Path of glory. (Ag '29)
Daviot, G. Kif. (My '29)
Dawson, C. W: Unknown soldier. (O '29)
Erskine, L. Y. Fine fellows. (S '29)
Grabenhorst, G. Zero hour. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Guest, C. Yellow pigeon. (Ag '29)
Hemingway, E: Farewell to arms. (N '29)
Lee, M. 'It's a great war!' (D '29)
Löhrke, E. Overshadowed. (O '29)
MacArthur, C: G. War bugs. (S '29)
Mackenzie, C. Three couriers. (My '29)
Markovits, R. Siberian garrison. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Mottram, R. H. Armistice. (Ap '29)
Nason, L. H. Man in the white slicker. (S '29)
Nordhoff, C: B., and Hall, J. N. Falcons of France. (N '29)
Remarque, E. M. All quiet on the western front. (Ag '29)
Renn, L. War. (S '29)
Scanlon, W: T. God have mercy on us! (D '29)
Schindel, B. Golden pilgrimage. (N '29)
Schlump. (N '29)
Schoepp, M. Scrapped. (S '29)
Thurston, E. T. Portrait of a spy. (S '29)
Trites, W: B. Modern girl. (Ag '29)
Vring, G. von der. Private Suhren. (Ap '29)
Weston, G: Wings of destiny. (S '29)
Zweig, A. Case of Sergeant Grischa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Family life

Basso, H. Relics and angels. (D '29)
Bentley, P. E. Partnership. (D '29)
Brinig, M. Singermann. (O '29)
Campbell, I. Jack Sprat. (D '29)
Campbell, L. B. These are my jewels. (My '29)
Chapman, E. Minstrels in satin. (S '29)
Dashwood, J., pseud. Three daughters. (D '29)
De La Roche, M. Whiteoaks of Jalna. (O '29)
Faulkner, W: The sound and the fury. (N '29)
Fox, J. D. Rain before seven. (Ag '29)
Guyol, L. H. Gallant Lallanes. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hurst, F. Five and ten. (O '29)
Kandel, A. Black sun. (O '29)
Lauferty, L. Street of chains. (D '29)
McCutcheon, G: B. The Merivales. (D '29)
Neale, R. Relatives. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Nevill, J: C. Strange companions. (Ag '29)
O'Donnell, P. The way it was with them. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Patrick, D., pseud. Family group. (S '29)
Pinchot, A. Hour upon the stage. (D '29)
Rea, L. Six Mrs Greenes. (Je '29)
Rice, A. C. The buffer. (Je '29)
Runbeck, M. L. People will talk. (D '29)
Santmyer, H. H. Fierce dispute. (Ag '29)
Sergeant, E. S. Short as any dream. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Trites, W: B. Paterfamilias. (O '29)
Wasson, M. Everlasting Harpers. (D '29)
Wolfe, T: Look homeward, angel. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Young, S. River house. (D '29)

Fantasies

Beauclerk, H. Love of the foolish angel. (O '29)
Blackwood, A. Dudley & Gilderoy. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Burdekin, K. Burning ring. (Ap '29)
Clock, H., and Boetzel, E. Light in the sky. (S '29)
Crane, N. C. R. Alien from heaven. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Douglas, N. Nerinda. (N '29)
Ewers, H. H. Alraune. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Farjeon, E. Kaleidoscope. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hughes, R: A. W. Innocent voyage. (Je '29)
O'Leary, C. This delicate creature. (My '29)
O'Neill, R. C. Garda. (Je '29)
Smith, T. Stray lamb. (D '29)
Warner, S. T. True heart. (Ap '29)
West, R. Harriet Hume. (D '29)

Farm life

Chamson, A. The road. (Je '29)
Chase, D. Pines of Jaalam. (My '29)
Cowley, R. Gift supreme. (Ag '29)
Freeman, H. W. Joseph & his brethren. (Mr '29)
Muir, D. Virtuous woman. (O '29)

Fathers and sons

Bolitho, H: Judith Silver. (My '29)
Dell, F. Souvenir. (Ap '29)
Williamson, H: Beautiful years. (O '29)

Feminism

Ammers-Küller, J. van. Rebel generation. (Mr '29)

Football

Neville, J. M. Mud and glory. (D '29)

Frontier and pioneer life

Evarts, H. G: Tomahawk rights. (N '29)
Fort, J: P. Stone Daugherty. (Ag '29)
Godwin, G: S. Eternal forest. (Ag '29)
Grey, Z. Fighting caravans. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Historical novels

Carthage

Atherton, G. F. Dido, queen of hearts. (D '29)

Crete

Haggard, A. Double axe. (O '29)

England

Bailey, H: C. Merchant prince: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Cook, W: V: Keys of England. (Ag '29)
Lenanton, C. M. A. Crouchback. (N '29)
Shiel, M. P. Cold steel. (Ag '29)

France

Bailey, H: C. Young lovers. (Je '29)
Davis, W: S. Whirlwind. (D '29)
Douglas, D. Falcon's flight. (N '29)
Feval, P., and Lassez, M. Years between, v 3-4. (Ap '29)
Gaye, P. F. Vivandière. (Ag '29)
O'Riordan, C. O. Yet do not grieve. (Mr '29)
Salmon, G. G. Fleur de Lys. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Hungary

Surányi, M. Woman of Naples. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Italy

Bacchelli, R. Devil at the Long bridge (Il diavolo al Pontelungo). (Ag '29)
Huch, R. O. Victory. (My '29)
Watson, V. C. Ginevra. (O '29)

Italy (Tuscany)

Neumann, A. The rebels. (S '29)

Russia

Gielgud, V. H: White eagles. (N '29)
Landau, M. A. Devil's bridge. (Mr '29)

Serbia

Zeitlin, I. King's pleasure. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Spain

Blasco Ibáñez, V. Unknown lands. (My '29)

United States

Clarke, E. H. Strength of the hills. (Ag '29)
Scott, E., pseud. The wave. (S '29)

Horror tales

Asquith, C. M. E., ed. Shudders. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Harré, T: E., ed. Beware after dark! (D '29)
Hickok, F. Eye for an eye. (Je '29)
Masterman, W. S. Green toad. (Ag '29)
Renard, M. Hands of Orlac. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sayers, D. L. Omnibus of crime. (S '29)

Humor and satire

Bedel, M. Molinoff. (Ag '29)
Belloc, H. Belinda. (My '29)
Belloc, H. Shadowed! (Mr '29)
Benson, E: F: Paying guests. (S '29)
Borden, M. Jehovah's day. (My '29)
Coates, R. M. Eater of darkness. (O '29)
Condon, F. Once in a blue moon. (N '29)
Dekobra, M. Clown prince. (Ap '29)
Erskine, J: Penelope's man. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Ferguson, C: W. Pigskin. (D '29)
Fetzer, H. Reini Kugel. (Ag '29)
Hannay, J. C. Major's candlesticks. (O '29)
Marquis, D. Variety of people. (D '29)
Matson, N. H. Doctor Fogg. (O '29)
Maurois, A. Voyage to the Island of the Articoles. (Mr '29)
Nathan, R. There is another heaven. (N '29)
Noyes, A. Sun cure. (O '29)
O'Duffy, E. Spacious adventures of the man in the street. (M '29)
Phillpotts, E. Apes. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Smith, T. Stray lamb. (D '29)
Speller, J. and R. Adam's first wife. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Stewart, D. O. Father William. (Je '29)
Tarkington, B. Young Mrs Greeley. (Ag '29)
Upson, W: H. Alexander Botts. (Ja '30) (1929 (1929 Annual)
Waugh, E. Decline and fall. (Je '29)
Woodford, J. Evangelical cockroach. (O '29)

Immigrants in America

Ball, W. S. Carmella commands. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Brinig, M. Singermann. (O '29)
Rølvaag, O. E. Peder Victorious. (Mr '29)

Indian tales and legends

Evarts, H. G: Tomahawk rights. (N '29)
La Farge, O. Laughing Boy. (D '29)
McClinchey, F. E. Joe Pete. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Schultz, J. W. Skull Head the terrible. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

International intrigue

Lane, J. Left hand of God. (D '29)
Reynolds, G. M. Affair at the château. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

International marriages

Channon, H: Joan Kennedy. (S '29)
Collins, B. Rome express. (Mr '29)
Hutten zum Stolzenberg, B. Eddy and Edouard. (S '29)

Jewish life

Brinig, M. Singermann. (O '29)
Brod, M. Reubeni, prince of the Jews. (Ap '29)
Drake, L. Don't call me clever. (N '29)
Lauferty, L. Street of chains. (D '29)
Pinchot, A. Hour upon the stage. (D '29)

Journalism

Ross, M. H. Penny dreadful. (Ag '29)
Williams, B. A. Death on Scurvy street. (Ag '29)

Judaism

Waldman, M. The disinherited. (Je '29)

Labor and laboring classes

Green, H: Living. (S '29)
Grove, F: P. Search for America. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Letters (stories in letter form)

Walpole, H., and Priestley, J: B. Farthing Hall. (My '29)

Liquor problem

Cobb, I. S. Red likker. (N '29)

Fiction—Continued

Locality, Novels of

Africa

Hastings, A. C: G. Gone native. (O '29)
Lütken, O: Congo gods. (O '29)

Africa (Kenya)

Riddell, F. Castles in Kenya. (Je '29)

Alaska

Wagner, E. Partners three. (Mr '29)
Willoughby, F. Trail Eater. (S '29)

Alsace

Schickele, R. Heart of Alsace. (Ap '29)

Arabia

Woolley, K. Adventure calls. (S '29)

Argentina

Martínez Zuviría, G. A. Peach blossom. (Je '29)

Assyria

Crofton, A. Queen of Nineveh. (O '29)

Australia

Cottrell, D. Singing gold. (Ap '29)
Eldershaw, M. B., pseud. A house is built. (N '29)
O'Shaughnessy, E. L. Other ways and other flesh. (Ap '29)
Richardson, H: H., pseud. Ultima Thule. (O '29)

Bay of Fundy

Gillmor, F. Thumbcap weir. (My '29)

California

Ames, J. B. Bladed barrier. (N '29)
Bartlett, L. and V. S. Adiós! (S '29)
Norris, K. Storm house. (Je '29)
Vogdes, W. A great man. (My '29)

Canada

Adams, I. Heart of the woods. (Ap '29)
Bindloss, H. The frontiersman. (O '29)
Constantin-Weyer, M. A man scans his past. (O '29)
De La Roche, M. Whiteoaks of Jalna. (O '29)
Mowery, W: B. Silver Hawk. (S '29)
Orczy, E. Blue eyes and gray. (S '29)
Skinner, C. L. Red willows. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Treynor, A. M. Snow-blind. (My '29)

Canada (Alberta)

Loeb, H. A. Tumbling mustard. (Ag '29)

Canada (British Columbia)

Godwin, G: S. Eternal forest. (Ag '29)
Sullivan, A. Splendid silence. (Je '29)

Canada (Quebec)

Curwood, J. O. Crippled lady of Peribonka. (My '29)

Canada (Toronto)

Jacob, F. Pee Vee. (My '29)

Cape Cod

Lincoln, J. C. and F. Blair's attic. (O '29)

Cape May

Hand, M. B. Romance of old Cape May. (Ag '29)

Central America

McFee, W: Pilgrims of adversity. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Smith, W. Tiger's mate. (Mr '29)

Chicago

Burnett, W. R. Little Caesar. (Ag '29)
Channon, H: Joan Kennedy. (S '29)
Synon, M. Good red bricks. (Mr '29)
Walt, C:, pseud. Love in Chicago. (My '29)

China

Ehrenstein, A. Robbers and soldiers. (Ag '29)
Graham, D. China venture. (Ap '29)
Hobart, A. T. Pidgin cargo. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Malraux, A. Conquerors. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Miln, L. By Soochow waters. (N '29)
Ohta, T., and Sperry, M. Golden wind. (D '29)

Cuba

Cozzens, J. G. Son of perdition. (O '29)

Dakota

Haycox, E. Free grass. (Ag '29)

Dutch East Indies

Collins, D. Idolaters. (O '29)
Wiehe, E. M. Too much Java. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

England

Ertz, S. Galaxy. (S '29)
Galsworthy, J: A modern comedy. (O '29)

England (London)

Gore-Browne, R. Imperfect lover. (N '29)
Hamilton, P. Midnight Bell. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
James, N. C. Sleeveless errand. (S '29)
McKenna, S. Shadow of Guy Denver. (Mr '29)
Parry, E: Berrington. (O '29)
Patmore, B. No tomorrow. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

England (provincial and rural)

Beddow, B. Coals from Newcastle. (D '29)
Close, E. Through the lattice. (Je '29)
Crosbie, M. Rekindled fires. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Farnol, J. Another day. (D '29)
Fletcher, J. S. Wild oat. (O '29)
Freeman, H. W. Joseph & his brethren. (Mr '29)
Hutchinson, V. Thy dark freight. (Ap '29)
Kaye-Smith, S. Three against the world. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Kaye-Smith, S. Village doctor. (Ap '29)
Logan, A. Necessary man. (O '29)
Masefield, J: Hawbucks. (D '29)
Mottram, R. H. The boroughmonger. (Je '29)
Owen, J: Lark's fate. (O '29)
Phillpotts, E. Tryphena. (S '29)
Powys, J: C. Wolf Solent. (Ag '29)
Reid, A. We are the dead. (S '29)
Strong, L. A. G: Dewer rides. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Weekes, A. R. Secret room. (S '29)
Williamson, H: Pathway. (Ap '29)
Young, J. F. Yellow primrose. (Ap '29)

Florida

Hillgarth, A. What price paradise. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Terhune, A. P. Secret of Sea-dream house. (My '29)

Formosa

Drake, H: B. The children reap. (S '29)

France

Bedel, M. Molinoff. (Ag '29)
Bill, A. H. Red prior's legacy. (N '29)
Campbell, J: L. Miracle of Peille. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Chamson, A. The road. (Je '29)
Fournier, A. The wanderer (Le grand Meaulnes). (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Leroux, G. New idol. (D '29)
Richardson, N. Dream boat. (Ap '29)
Sutherland, J. Golden altar. (Ag '29)
Thomas, E. F. Nevertheless the Duke. (Ag '29)

France (Brittany)

Le Franc, M. Whisper of a name (Grand-Louis l'Innocent). (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

France (Paris)

Kessel, J. Princes of the night. (Ap '29)
Radiguet, R. Count's ball. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Rhys, J. Quartet. (Je '29)
Samuel, M. Outsider. (D '29)
Shellabarger, S: Black gale. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Soupault, P. Last nights of Paris. (N '29)
Wilson, F. Rich brat. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

France (Provence)

Douglas, D. Falcon's flight. (N '29)

Geneva

Ritchie, A. The molehill. (Ap '29)

Germany

Bartlett, V. Calf love. (D '29)
Glaeser, E. Class of 1902. (N '29)
Griese, F. Winter. (Ag '29)
Sanzara, R. Lost child. (N '29)
Wassermann, J. Maurizius case. (D '29)

Greece

Aldington, H. Hedylus. (My '29)
Glaspell, S. Fugitive's return. (D '29)

Hawaii

Clarke, K. M. Under the skin. (S '29)
Tempski, A. von. Fire. (O '29)

Holland

Ammers-Küller, J. van. House of joy. (O '29)
Ammers-Küller, J. van. Rebel generation. (Mr '29)

Hungary

Tickell, J. Yolan. (Ap '29)

India

Diver, M. Wild bird. (Ag '29)
Eyton, J: S. Kullu of the carts. (S '29)
Thompson, E: J: Night falls on Siva's hill. (N '29)
Warburton, S. Avatar in Vishnu land. (Mr '29)
Wilson, M. Trousers of taffeta. (D '29)

Ireland

Bowen, E. The last September. (Ap '29)
Farrell, M. J. Young entry. (My '29)
O'Donnell, P. Adrigoole. (N '29)
O'Donnell, P. The way it was with them. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
O'Flaherty, L. House of gold. (N '29)

Isle of Man

Cowley, R. Gift supreme. (Ag '29)

Italy

Hummel, G: F: Summer lightning. (Je '29)
Stern, G. B. Modesta. (O '29)

Italy (Florence)

Coxe, H. Passage to the sky. (O '29)

Italy (Naples)

Young, F. B. Black roses. (N '29)

Italy (Rome)

Ferrero, G. Seven vices. (S '29)
Murray, D: L. Bride adorned. (My '29)
Scherr, M. Up at the villa. (N '29)

Japan

Beck, L. Garden of vision. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Plomer, W: C: F. Paper houses. (Ag '29)

Kentucky

Cobb, I. S. Red likker. (N '29)

Louisiana

Wall, E. No-nation girl. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Louisiana (New Orleans)

Le May, A. Pelican coast. (Ag '29)
Martin, A. L. The gambler. (Ag '29)

Maine

Paradise, V. Wits' end. (Mr '29)
Wasson, M. Churchill street. (Ap '29)

Malaya

Clifford, H. C: Prisoners of the forest. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Massachusetts (Boston)

Powel, H. W. H. Married money. (D '29)

Massachusetts (Salem)

Grinstead, D. Elva. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Mexico

Azuela, M. Under dogs. (N '29)
Giusti, A. An artist passes. (S '29)
Gregory, J. Sentinel of the desert. (My '29)
Ripley, C. Dust and sun. (N '29)
Wheeler-Nicholson, M. Corral of death. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Minnesota

Aldrich, D. Peter Good for Nothing. (Je '29)
Beers, L. D. A humble Lear. (Ag '29)
Lovelace, M. Early candlelight. (O '29)

Mississippi

Faulkner, W: Sartoris. (My '29)

Monte Carlo

Malcoskey, E. W. Unholy virgins. (Ag '29)

Morocco

Ossendowski, F. A. Lioness. (Ap '29)

Nevada (Reno)

Vanderbilt, C. Reno. (D '29)

New England

Buell, W. Other side of Main street. (Je '29)
Chase, D. Pines of Jaalam. (My '29)
Hatch, R: W. Into the wind. (Ag '29)
Kavanagh-Priest, A. Memoirs of a Gothic American. (Je '29)
Leonard, J. Back to stay. (Je '29)
Parmenter, C. Silver ribbons. (O '29)
Paul, E. H. Low run tide; and, Lava rock. (D '29)
Sergeant, E. S. Short as any dream. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Terhune, A. M. White mouse. (N '29)
Wasson, M. Everlasting Harpers. (D '29)

New York (city)

Abdullah, A., and Cuthrell, F. Broadway interlude. (N '29)
Carlisle, H. G. See how they run. (O '29)
Chalmers, S. House of the two green eyes. (Ap '29)
Coffey, E: H. Manhattan cocktail. (Je '29)
Croy, H. Coney Island. (D '29)
Fischer, M. Pleasure first. (D '29)
Lauferty, L. Street of chains. (D '29)
Parsons, A. The insider. (My '29)
Stiles, P. Cloud by day. (My '29)
Wilson, E. I thought of Daisy. (O '29)
Woolrich, C. Times square. (Ag '29)
Wylie, P. Babes and sucklings. (Je '29)

New York city (Brooklyn)

MacKenna, E: L. Hardware. (Ag '29)

New York (state)

Edmonds, W. D. Rome haul. (Ap '29)
Wharton, E. N. Hudson River bracketed. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

New Zealand

Devanny, J. Dawn beloved. (Ag '29)

Norway

Duun, O. Good conscience. (My '29)
Egge, P: Hansine Solstad. (D '29)
Undset, S. Snake pit. (Mr '29)

Ohio

Neale, R. Hobby house. (Je '29)
Powell, D. Bride's house. (Je '29)

Pennsylvania

Neale, R. Relatives. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Pennsylvania (Pittsburgh)

Vermorcken, E. Clouded hills. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Peru

Dixon, T: Sun virgin. (Ag '29)
Mason, A. B. Duchess and her daughter. (Ag '29)
Stone, G. Z. Heaven and earth of Doña Elena. (Ag '29)

Fiction—Locality, Novels of—Continued

Poland

Zeromski, S. Ashes. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Rhodesia

Forrester, H. Lure of the dust. (Je '29)

Riviera

Frankau, P. Three. (N '29)

Russia

Azure cities. (Ag '29)
Babel, I. E. Red cavalry. (D '29)
Cournos, J:, comp. and tr. Short stories out of soviet Russia. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Duranty, W. Curious lottery. (My '29)
Gladkov, F. V. Cement. (Ag '29)
Graham, S. Lay confessor. (Ap '29)
Kataev, V. P. The embezzlers. (D '29)
Krasnov, P. N. White Coat. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Landau, M. A. Devil's bridge. (Mr '29)
MacGrath, H. Wolves of chaos. (Je '29)
Nazhivin, I. F. Rasputin. (Ja '30) 1929 Annual)
Nugent, M. M.-M. Phantom in the wine. (Ap '29)
Rozânov, M. G. Diary of a communist undergraduate. (Ag '29)
Shmelev, I. S. Inexhaustible Cup. (Mr '29)
Vogau, B. A. Naked year. (Je '29)

St Louis

Read, H. E. Thurman Lucas. (Ag '29)

Scotland

Moon, L. Dark star. (Je '29)

Siberia

Krasnov, P. N. Amazon of the desert. (Ap '29)

South Africa

Jervis, V. M. S. Bull whip. (S '29)
Lewis, E. Mantis. (Ap '29)
Millin, S. G. Coming of the Lord. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Millin, S. G. Fiddler. (S '29)
Muir, D. Virtuous woman. (O '29)

South America

Buchan, J: Courts of the morning. (O '29)

South Carolina

Oemler, M. Johnny Reb. (D '29)

South Carolina (Charleston)

Heyward, Du B. Mamba's daughters. (Mr '29)

Spain

Goodwin, E. Don Cristobal. (S '29)
Kelly, E. Book of Bette. (S '29)
Reyles, C. Castanets. (D '29)
Scoggins, C: E. John Quixote. (O '29)
Zamacois, E. Roots. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Texas

Kyne, P: B. Jim the conqueror. (D '29)
Scarborough, D. Can't get a red bird. (Ja '30) Annual)
Venable, C. All the brave rifles. (Ag '29)

United States (middlewestern)

Ogden, G: W. Sooner land. (Ap '29)
Rølvaag, O. E. Peder Victorious. (Mr '29)
Taylor, E. Towers along the grass. (Mr '29)

United States (southern)

Basso, H. Relics and angels. (D '29)
Burman, B. L. Mississippi. (D '29)
Faulkner, W: The sound and the fury. (N '29)
Wasson, B. Devil beats his wife. (Je '29)
Wolfe, T. Look homeward, angel. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Young, S. River house. (D '29)

United States (southwestern)

Crichton, K. S. Law and order, ltd. (Mr '29)
Fergusson, H. In those days. (Mr '29)
Mulford, C. E: Mesquite Jenkins. (My '29)
Vestal, S. 'Dobe walls. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

United States (western)

Bower, B. M., pseud. Rodeo. (O '29)
Bower, B. M., pseud. Swallowfork bulls. (Ap '29)
Brand, M. Gun tamer. (N '29)
Breck, J: When hell came through. (Ag '29)
Cook, N. E. Welcome—stranger. (N '29)
Coolidge, D. War paint. (My '29)
Gregory, J. Mystery at Spanish hacienda. (N '29)
Grey, Z. Fighting caravans. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Grey, Z. Wild Horse Mesa. (Ap '29)
James, W. Sand. (Ag '29)
Mulford, C. E: Me an' Shorty. (S '29)
Paul, E. H. Low run tide; and, Lava rock. (D '29)
Pendexter, H. Gate through the mountain. (Ag '29)
Seltzer, C: A. The raider. (N '29)
Wire, H. C. Mountain man. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Venezuela

McLaughlin, F. Vale of Aragon. (D '29)
Stribling, T: S. Strange moon. (Ag '29)

Virginia

Campbell, T: B. Old Miss. (N '29)
McCutcheon, G: B. The Merivales. (D '29)

Wales

Jones, E. I. Starved fields. (N '29)

Washington (state)

Perry, M. C. Tide house. (D '29)

Love stories

Armstrong, M. D. Sleeping fury. (N '29
Attenborough, G. M. Rich young man. (N '29)
Bailey, T. Burning beauty. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Cary, L. The Duke steps out. (Ap '29)
Cleugh, S. Spring. (S '29)
Cohen, O. R. Valley of Olympus. (My '29)
Coppard, L. A. Orange court. (Je '29)
Coxon, M. Ladder of folly. (Je '29)
Curwood, J. O. Crippled lady of Peribonka. (My '29)
Cuthrell, F. Incredible year. (N '29)
De La Pasture, E. E. M. First love. (Mr '29)
Dell, E. M. Gate marked "private." (Mr '29)
Delmar, V. Loose ladies. (Ag '29)
Demarest, P. G. Children of Hollywood. (My '29)
Devanny, J. Dawn beloved. (Ag '29)
Eiker, M. Stranger fidelities. (O '29)
Ferris, H. J., comp. Love comes riding. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Greig, M. Satin straps. (S '29)
Haggard, H: R. Marion Isle. (Je '29)
Hamilton, P. Midnight Bell. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Hutchinson, A. S. M. Uncertain trumpet. (O '29)
Kerr, S. Mareea-Maria. (Ap '29)
Larrimore, L. The wagon and the star. (S '29)
Le Franc, M. Whisper of a name (Grand-Louis l'Innocent). (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Linfield, M. B. Young woman in love. (Je '29)
Lovelace, M. Early candlelight. (O '29)
McKenna, S. Shadow of Guy Denver. (Mr '29)
Mercer, C. W: Summer fruit. (Je '29)
Merrel, C. Miracle merchant. (Ap '29)
Miller, A. The prince serves his purpose. (Ag '29)
Morgan, C: First love. (Ap '29)
Morris, L. R. Procession of lovers. (Ap '29)
Norris, K. Red silence. (N '29)
Norris, K. Storm house. (Je '29)
Nutt, L. C. Spider and the fly. (Je '29)
Orczy, E. Blue eyes and gray. (S '29)
Paradise, V. Wits' end. (Mr '29)
Pedler, M. Guarded halo. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Roberts, C. Goose fair. (Ap '29)
Royde-Smith, N. G. Give me my sin again. (N '29)
Royde-Smith, N. G. The lover. (Mr '29)
Sabatini, R. Romantic prince. (S '29)
Sawyer, R. Four ducks on a pond. (My '29)
Scott, W. M. Conquering lover. (D '29)

Stacpoole, H: De V. Return of spring. (Ap '29)
Sullivan, A. Broken marriage. (Ag '29)
Sullivan, V. Permanent wave. (S '29)
Synon, M. Good red bricks. (Mr '29)
Tempski, A. von. Fire. (O '29)
Tompkins, J. W. Left in trust. (Je '29)
Verona, G. da. Mimi Bluette. (Ag '29)
Vignaud, J. Venus. (S '29)
Wasson, M. Churchill street. (Ap '29)
Williams, E. C. Quest for love. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Williams, J. L. They still fall in love. (My '29)
Williamson, H: Pathway. (Ap '29)
Wylie, I. A. R. Silver virgin. (Ap '29)
Wylie, P. Babes and sucklings. (Je '29)
Young, F. B. Black roses. (N '29)

Marines

Thomason, J: W: Marines and others. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Marriage

Cannan, J. Sheila both-ways. (Ag '29)
Cole, H. Maids will be wives. (Ag '29)
Cuthrell, F. Garden oats. (Je '29)
Erskine, J: Sincerity. (D '29)
Gibbs, J. C. Humdrum house. (Ap '29)
Heyer, G. Pastel. (S '29)
Jayne, M. Good marriage. (Ap '29)
Johnson, O. M. Sacrifice. (O '29)
Seymour, B. K. Youth rides out. (Mr '29)

Mining

Beddow, B. Coals from Newcastle. (D '29)
Heslop, H. Gate of a strange field. (O '29)

Ministers of the gospel

Oliver, J: R. Victim and victor. (Mr '29)

Missionaries

Morrow, H. Splendor of God. (O '29)

Mothers and daughters

Dashwood, J., pseud. Three daughters. (D '29)

Mothers and sons

Shea, T., pseud. Sarah and son. (D '29)

Mountaineers (mountain whites)

Chapman, M. Homeplace. (O '29)
MacKaye, P. Weathergoose—woo! (O '29)
Tarleton, F. Bloody ground. (Ap '29)

Moving pictures

Halliday, R: Fanfare. (O '29)
McEvoy, J. P. Hollywood girl. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Perry, S. G. Extra-girl. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Musicians

Sanborn, P. Prima donna. (Ap '29)

Mystery stories

Adams, F. R. Help yourself to happiness. (N '29)
Adams, H. Oddways. (O '29)
Allingham, M. Black Dudley murder. (Ag '29)
Aresby, R. and H., pseuds. Mark of the dead. (N '29)
Armstrong, A., pseud. Secret trail. (Ap '29)
Aubrey-Fletcher, H: L. The Duke of York's steps. (O '29)
Austin, A. Black pigeon. (S '29)
Barker, E. C. I. D. of Dexter Drake. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Barker, E. Cobra candlestick. (Ap '29)
Barry, C:, pseud. Clue of the clot. (S '29)
Barry, C:, pseud. Corpse on the bridge. (Ap '29)
Beeding, F., pseud. Five Flamboys. (S '29)
Beeding, F., pseud. Pretty sinister. (My '29)
Biggers, E. D. Black camel. (O '29)
Blaker, R: Jefferson secret. (S '29)
Booth, C: G. Gold bullets. (Ap '29)
Brown, W. C. Second guess. (My '29)
Buck, C: N. Marked men. (D '29)
Bush, C. Perfect murder case. (O '29)
Campbell, A. O. Water weed. (N '29)
Casey, R. J. Secret of thirty-seven Hardy street. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Chalmers, S. House of the two green eyes. (Ap '29)
Charteris, L. Daredevil. (N '29)
Charteris, L. Meet the Tiger. (My '29)
Chesterton, G. K. Poet and the lunatics. (D '29)
Christie, A. Partners in crime. (O '29)
Christie, A. Seven dials mystery. (My '29)
Cohen, O. R. May Day mystery. (O '29)
Cole, G: D. H., and M. I. Poison in a garden suburb. (N '29)
Cole, G: D. H. and M. I. Superintendent Wilson's holiday. (My '29)
Connell, R: Murder at sea. (Ap '29)
Courths, H. String of pearls. (N '29)
Cox, A. B. Layton court mystery. (Je '29)
Crofts, F. W. Purple sickle murders. (O '29)
Daingerfield, F. Linden walk tragedy. (Je '29)
Dalton, M. One by one they disappeared. (Je '29)
Daly, C. J: Hidden hand. (N '29)
Dane, C., pseud., and Simpson, H. Enter Sir John. (Mr '29)
Davidson, T. L. Murder in the laboratory. (O '29)
Daviot, G. Man in the queue. (O '29)
Dilnot, G: Black Ace. (Ap '29)
Duff, B. Central park murder. (O '29)
Dupree, M., pseud. Tap on the shoulder. (O '29)
Dutton, C: J. Streaked with crimson. (Je '29)
Eberhart, M. G. Patient in room 18. (Ag '29)
Edington, A. C. and C. B. Studio murder mystery. (S '29)
Ellis, J: B. Mysterious Dr Oliver. (N '29)
Emery, S: House that whispered. (Ap '29)
Fairlie, G. Stone blunts scissors. (My '29)
Fairlie, G. Yellow Munro. (O '29)
Farjeon, J. J. 5:18 mystery. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Farjeon, J. J. Person called "Z." (Je '29)
Ferguson, W. B. M. Riddle of the rose. (O '29)
Fielding, A. Cluny problem. (My '29)
Fielding, A. Mysterious partner. (O '29)
Fletcher, J. S. House in Tuesday market. (Ap '29)
Fletcher, J. S. Matheson formula. (S '29)
Fletcher, J. S. Old Lattimer's legacy. (N '29)
Fletcher, J. S. Paradise court. (Ap '29)
Flynn, B. Billiard room mystery. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Flynn, B. Case of the black twenty-two. (My '29)
Footner, H. Doctor who held hands. (O '29)
French, J. L:, ed. Great detective stories of the world. (D '29)
Friend, O. J. Golf club murder. (S '29)
Friend, O. J. Red kite clue. (S '29)
Garrett, W: A. From dusk till dawn. (S '29)
Gilbert, A. Death at Four corners. (Ap '29)
Gluck, S. Man who never blundered. (Je '29)
Gluck, S. Shadow in the house. (N '29)
Gollomb, J. Subtle trail. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Goodwin, J: Let it lie. (Je '29)
Goodwin, J: Sealed orders. (N '29)
Granby, G: Secret of Musterton house. (Je '29)
Greenleaves, W. Trout Inn mystery. (N '29)
Gregory, J. Mystery at Spanish hacienda. (N '29)
Gribble, L. R. Terrace suicide mystery. (D '29)
Grierson, F. D. White camellia. (O '29)
Hammett, D. Dain curse. (O '29)
Harré, T: E., ed. Beware after dark! (D '29)
Hart, F. Hide in the dark. (O '29)
Hawk, J: Murder of a mystery writer. (Ag '29)
Hay, J. Hidden woman. (My '29)
Hickok, F. Eye for an eye. (Je '29)
Hillgarth, A. What price paradise? (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Holding, E. Miasma. (Je '29)
Holt, H: Mayfair murder. (Ag '29)
Hosken, C. J. W. Havering plot. (My '29)
Hosken, C. J. W. Sanfield scandal. (N '29)
Huch, R. O. Deruga trial. (S '29)
Jeffries, G. M. Trouble! (O '29)
Jepson, E. Cuirass of diamonds. (N '29)
Jones, C: R. King murder. (Ag '29)
Jordan, E. G. Devil and the deep sea. (My '29)

Fiction—Mystery stories—Continued

Keeler, H. S. Spectacles of Mr Cagliostro. (My '29)
Keeler, H. S. Thieves' nights. (D '29)
Kennedy, H. A. Unsought adventure. (N '29)
Kennedy, R. M., pseud. Bleston mystery. (Ag '29)
Kennedy, R. M., pseud. Man who rang the bell. (N '29)
Kindon, T: Murder in the moor. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
King, R. Murder by the clock. (Ag '29)
Kingston, C: Guilty house. (My '29)
Knox, R. A., and Harrington, H:, eds. Best English detective stories of 1928. (D '29)
Kummer, F: A. Mark of the rat. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Landon, H. Death on the air. (Ag '29)
Le Queux, W: Lawless hand. (My '29)
Leroux, G. New idol. (D '29)
Levinrew, W. Poison plague. (D '29)
Lewis, M. A. Three amateurs. (D '29)
Lilly, J. False face. (D '29)
Limnelius, G:, pseud. Medbury Fort murder. (D '29)
Lincoln, J. C. and F. Blair's attic. (O '29)
Lincoln, N. S. Fifth latchkey. (O '29)
Livingston, A. Doublecross. (N '29)
Livingston, A. Monster in the pool. (N '29)
Lowndes, M. A. One of those ways. (Ag '29)
McAllister, A. Murder at the inn. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
MacDonald, P. White Crow. (Mr '29)
McIntyre, J: T: Museum murder. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
McNeile, H. C. Temple tower. (O '29)
Magill, M. Who shall hang? (S '29)
Martin, A. R: Death of the claimant. (S '29)
Martin, S. Only seven were hanged. (S '29)
Martyn, W. Death fear. (N '29)
Martyn, W. Murder Island. (My '29)
Masterman, W. S. Green toad. (Ag '29)
Mavity, N. Body on the floor. (D '29)
Mavity, N. Tule marsh murder. (Ap '29)
Merwin, S: Lady can do. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Meynell, L. Shadow and the stone. (N '29)
Millward, E: J. Copper Bottle. (N '29)
Mitchell, G. Speedy death. (N '29)
Neale, A., ed. Great weird stories. (S '29)
Norway, N. S. Mysterious aviator. (Mr '29)
O'Higgins, H. J. Detective Duff unravels it. (S '29)
Oldfeld, P:, pseud. Alchemy murder. (Ag '29)
Oppenheim, E: P. Glenlitten murder. (O '29)
Oppenheim, E: P. Nicholas Goade, detective. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Oppenheim, E: P. Treasure house of Martin Hews. (My '29)
Orczy, E. Skin o' my Tooth. (Ap '29)
Orr, C. Dartmouth murders. (D '29)
Osbourne, L. Peril. (Ag '29)
Packard, F. L. Big Shot. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Pettee, F. M. Palgrave mummy. (S '29)
Ponder, Z. I. Bandaged face. (My '29)
Post, M. D. Bradmoor murder. (My '29)
Propper, M. M. Strange disappearance of Mary Young. (Je '29)
Queen, E., pseud. Roman hat mystery. (O '29)
Reeve, C. Ginger cat. (D '29)
Reynolds, G. M. Affair at the château. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Reynolds, G. M. Innocent accomplice. (My '29)
Rickard, J. L. Baccarat club. (S '29)
Rohmer, S., pseud. Emperor of America. (D '29)
Rohmer, S., pseud. She who sleeps. (Ap '29)
Rollins, W:, jr. Midnight treasure. (Ag '29)
Salmon, G. G. Fleur de Lys. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sayers, D. L. Omnibus of crime. (S '29)
Schisgall, O. Barron Ixell, crime breaker. (N '29)
Scott, L. Living dead man. (S '29)
Shiel, M. P. Dr. Krasinski's secret. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Shore, P. R. Bolt. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Small, A. J. Needle's kiss (N '29)
Small, A. J. Web of murder. (S '29)
Smith, H. M. Inspector Frost's jigsaw. (N '29)
Smith, W. K. Bowery murder. (S '29)
Sneddon, R. W: Monsieur X. (Mr '29)
Spewack, S: Murder in the Gilded cage. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Spewack, S: Skyscraper murder. (Mr '29)
Starrett, V. Murder on "B" deck. (Je '29)
Stewart, A. W. Case with nine solutions. (Ap '29)
Stewart, A. W. Grim vengeance. (S '29)
Stokes, F. W: Hammer of doom. (My '29)
Strahan, K. Footprints. (Ap '29)
Strange, J: S. Clue of the second murder. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Street, C. J: C: House on Tollard ridge. (Ag '29)
Street, C. J: C: Murder at Bratton grange. (O '29)
Stribling, T: S. Clues of the Caribees. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Temple-Ellis, N. A. Inconsistent villains. (Ag '29)
Terhune, A. P. Secret of Sea-dream house. (My '29)
Thayer, L. Dead men's shoes. (My '29)
Thomas, A. E. W. Death of Laurence Vining. (Je '29)
Thynne, M. The strangler. (N '29)
Tracy, L: Lastingham murder. (My '29)
Truss, S. Living alibi. (My '29)
Truss, S. Stolen millionaire. (S '29)
Vahey, J: G: H. Between twelve and one. (O '29)
Van Dine, S. S., pseud. Bishop murder case. (Ap '29))
Wallace, E. Crimson circle. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Wallace, E. Dark eyes of London. (D '29)
Wallace, E. The double. (Mr '29)
Wallace, E. Face in the night. (S '29)
Wallace, E. Flying squad. (My '29)
Wallace, E. Mammoth mystery book. (N '29)
Wallace, E. Murder book of J. G. Reeder. (S '29)
Wallace, E. Northing tramp. (N '29)
Wallace, E. Three just men. (Ag '29)
Wallace, E. Twister. (Je '29)
Walling, R. A. J: Murder at the keyhole. (Je '29)
Webster, H: K. Sealed trunk. (Ag '29)
Wells, C. Sleeping dogs. (S '29)
Wells, C. Tapestry room murder. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wells, C. Triple murder. (D '29)
Wentworth, P. Fool errant. (D '29)
Whitechurch, V: L. Robbery at Rudwick house. (Je '29)
Williams, B. A. Death on Scurvy street. (Ag '29)
Williams, K. C. V. C. murders. (Ag '29)
Wilson, A. D. Murder mansion. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wilson, R. M. The dagger. (My '29)
Young, E. B. Dancing Beggars. (S '29)

Mysticism

Pelley, W: D. Golden rubbish. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Negro life

Bradford, R. This side of Jordan. (Ap '29)
Caspary, V. White girl. (Ap '29)
Fauset, J. R. Plum bun. (Ap '29)
Heyward, Du B. Half pint flash. (N '29)
Heyward, Du B. Mamba's daughters. (Mr '29)
Kennedy, R. E. Red Bean row. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Larsen, N. Passing. (Ag '29)
McKay, C. Banjo. (Ag '29)
Morand, P. Black magic. (Ag '29)
Odum, H. W. Wings on my feet. (O '29)
Peterkin, J. M. Scarlet sister Mary. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Snyder, H. Earth-born. (Ag '29)
Thurman, W. The blacker the berry. (My '29)

Physicians

Deeping, W. Roper's Row. (S '29)
Kaye-Smith, S. Village doctor. (Ap '29)

Picaresque novels

Ehrenstein, A. Robbers and soldiers. (Ag '29)
Montgomery, J. S. Virtue of this jest. (N '29)
Parry, E: Berrington. (O '29)

Political novels

Davis, C. O. Woman of it. (O '29)
McKenna, E: L. Hardware. (Ag '29)
Mottram, R. H. The boroughmonger. (Je '29)
Sutherland, J. Golden altar. (Ag '29)

Prehistoric times

Tooker, R: Day of the brown horde. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Prize fighting

Wren, P. C. Soldiers of misfortune. (O '29)

Pseudo-history and biography

Kavanagh-Priest, A. Memoirs of a Gothic American. (Je '29)
Kronenberger, L: Grand manner. (My '29)

Pseudo-science

Edwards, G. Earth-tube. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Matson, N. H. Doctor Fogg. (O '29)

Psychological novels

Armstrong, M. D. All in a day. (Ap '29)
Bennett, A. Accident. (Mr '29)
Bodenheim, M. Sixty seconds. (My '29)
Bolitho, H. Judith Silver. (My '29)
Brinig, M. Madonna without child. (My '29)
Brod, M. Three loves. (N '29)
Bryner, E. While the bridegroom tarried. (Mr '29)
Chilton, E. C. Burning fountain. (My '29)
Comstock, S. The moon is made of green cheese. (Ag '29)
Diamant, G. Labyrinth. (Ag '29)
Dudeney, A. Peep show. (Ap '29)
Fleg, E. Boy prophet. (S '29)
Gale, Z. Borgia. (D '29)
Glaspell, S. Fugitive's return. (D '29)
Glenn, I. Transport. (Mr '29)
Golding, L: Prince or somebody. (Je '29)
Green, J. Dark journey. (O '29)
Greene, G. Man within. (N '29)
Hall, R. Unlit lamp. (O '29)
Hervey, H. Red ending. (D '29)
Hill, F. Plundered host. (My '29)
Knister, R. White narcissus. (O '29)
Mannin, E. E. Crescendo. (Ag '29)
Maurois, A. Atmosphere of love. (O '29)
Moon, L. Dark star. (Je '29)
Murray, R. Hard liberty. (O '29)
Oldfield, C. H. Crisis. (Ag '29)
Oliver, J: R. Victim and victor. (Mr '29)
O'Neill, R. C. Garda. (Je '29)
Ostenso, M. Young May moon. (O '29)
Powys, J: C. Wolf Solent. (Ag '29)
Pyke, R: Lives and deaths of Roland Greer. (Je '29)
Richardson, H: H. Ultima Thule. (O '29)
Rogers, L. The shadow. (Mr '29)
Sedgwick, A. D. Dark Hester. (My '29)
Stout, R. How like a god. (O '29)
Stribling, T: S. Clues of the Caribbees. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Taylor, E. Towers along the grass. (Mr '29)
Werfel, F. V. Class reunion. (S '29)
West, R. Harriet Hume. (D '29)
Weston, H. Patchwork madonna. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Williamson, T. Hunky. (S '29)

Radio

Storm, H. O: Full measure. (N '29)

Railroad stories

Lynde, F. Young blood. (Ag '29)

Religion

Le Boutillier, C. Bright thread. (Ag '29)

Religious psychology

Anker-Larsen, J. Stranger in paradise. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Botkin, G. The God who didn't laugh. (D '29)
Campbell, J: L. Miracle of Peille. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Fleg, E. Boy prophet. (S '29)

Roman Catholic faith

Ashton, M. G. Shackles of the free. (S '29)
Barrès, M. Sacred hill. (D '29)
Eichler, L. Stillborn. (Je '29)
Murray, D: L. Bride adorned. (My '29)

Romance

Barringer, L. Joris of the Rock. (Ap '29)
Broadhurst, T: W. Blow the man down. (O '29)
Brooks, C. Her serene highness. (Ag '29)
Byrne, D. Field of honor. (O '29)
Chambers, R. W: The Happy Parrot. (O '29)
Cook, W: V: Keys of England. (Ag '29)
Delayen, G. Misadventures of Martin Guerre. (D '29)
Dixon, T: Sun virgin. (Ag '29)
Douglas, D. Falcon's flight. (N '29)
Duffus, R. L. Tomorrow never comes. (Je '29)
Gielgud, V. H: White eagles. (N '29)
Goodwin, E. Don Cristobal. (S '29)
Henderson, D. M. Crown for Carlotta. (D '29)
Herring, P. Sir Toby and the regent. (D '29)
Heyer, G. The masqueraders. (O '29)
Kellogg, W. G. Parish's fancy. (Ag '29)
Kester, P. Diana Dauntless. (O '29)
Knittel, J: Nile gold. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lenanton, C. M. A. Crouchback. (N '29)
Ohta, T., and Sperry, M. Golden wind. (D '29)
Steuart, J: A. Immortal lover. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Stone, G. Z. Heaven and earth of Doña Elena. (Ag '29)
Stringer, A. J: A. Woman who couldn't die. (Ag '29)
Totheroh, D. Men call me fool. (Ag '29)
Turnbull, M. The handsome man. (My '29)
Vestal, S. 'Dobe walls. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Vogdes, W. A great man. (My '29)
Walpole, H., and Priestley, J: B. Farthing Hall. (My '29)
Walsh, M. Small dark man. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Watson, V. C. Ginevra. (O '29)
Weekes, A. R. and R. K. Lily and the sword. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Winwar, F. Pagan interval. (N '29)
Wright, S. F. Dawn. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Yeo, M. King of shadows. (O '29)

School and college life

Barnes, C. D. Schoolgirl. (S '29)
Cary, L. The Duke steps out. (Ap '29)
Edgar, D. In Princeton town. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Ferguson, C: W. Pigskin. (D '29)
Haynes, R. Neapolitan ice. (Ap '29)
Hoyt, J. Wings of wax. (My '29)
Marks, P. Unwilling god. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Millay, K. Against the wall. (O '29)
Neff, W. F. Lone voyagers. (S '29)
Neville, J. M. Mud and glory. (D '29)
Rozânov, M. G. Diary of a communist under graduate. (Ag '29)
Simpson, L. J. Treadmill. (Ag '29)

Sea stories

Andersen, K. Brand of the sea. (Je '29)
Austin, F: B. Saga of the sea. (Ag '29)
Bootes, H: H. Deep-sea bubbles. (S '29)
Broadhurst, T: W. Blow the man down. (O '29)
Lowell, J., pseud. Cradle of the deep. (My '29)
McFee, W: Sailors of fortune. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mason, A. Swansea Dan. (S '29)
Nason, L. H. Incomplete mariner. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Noble, E: Pulse of darkness. (Ap '29)
Pease, H. Shanghai passage. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Perkins, K. Gold. (O '29)
Stanford, A. B. Invitation to danger. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Turnbull, A. D., and Van der Veer, N. R. Cochrane, the unconquerable. (My '29)

Secret service

Mackenzie, C. Three couriers. (My '29)

Short stories

Arlen, M., pseud. Babes in the wood. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Asquith, C. M. E., comp. Funny bone. (Mr '29)

Fiction—Short stories—Continued
Asquith, C. M. E., ed. Shudders. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Azure cities. (Ag '29)
Barker, E. C. I. D. of Dexter Drake. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Becker, M., ed. Golden tales of our America. (S '29)
Bowen, E. Joining Charles. (D '29)
Brewster, D., ed. Book of modern short stories. (My '29)
Bromfield, L: Awake and rehearse. (Je '29)
Brush, K. Night club. (S '29)
Callaghan, M. Native argosy. (Je '29)
Cobb, I. S. This man's world. (Je '29)
Coffey, E: H. Manhattan cocktail. (Je '29)
Cole, G: D. H. and M. I. Superintendent Wilson's holiday. (My '29)
Coppard, A. E. Silver circus. (Mr '29)
Cournos, J:, comp, and tr. Short stories out of soviet Russia. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dawson, C. W: When Father Christmas was late. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Delmar, V. Loose ladies. (Ag '29)
Eaton, R:, ed. Best European short stories of 1928. (Je '29)
Edgar, D. In Princeton town. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Erskine, L. Y. Fine fellows. (S '29)
Farnol, J. The shadow. (S '29)
French, J. L:, ed. Great detective stories of the world. (D '29)
Gilman, M. Headlines. (Ap '29)
Gogol, N. V. Mirgorod. (Ag '29)
Hamilton, C. Little gold ring. (N '29)
Hoult, N. Poor women! (Ag '29)
Hurst, F. Procession. (Ap '29)
Jessup, A., ed. Representative modern short stories. (My '29)
Keene, F. Peccadilloes. (N '29)
Keller, G. People of Seldwyla. (S '29)
Knox, R. A., and Harrington, H:, eds. Best English detective stories of 1928. (D '29)
Kyne, P: B. Parson of Panamint. (S '29)
Lardner, R. W. Round up. (Je '29)
Larsen, H. A., ed. Denmark's best stories. (Ap '29)
Latimer, M. Nellie Bloom. (Ag '29)
Lea, F. H. Wild-goose chase. (My '29)
London Mercury. Mercury story book. (D '29)
Lowndes, M. A. Some men and women. (Mr '29)
McFee, W: Sailors of fortune. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mackail, D. How amusing! (D '29)
MacKaye, P. Weathergoose—woo! (O '29)
Marquis, D. Variety of people. (D '29)
Marshall, A. Simple people. (Je '29)
Miller, A. The prince serves his purpose. (Ag '29)
Mitchison, N. Barbarian stories. (S '29)
Montague, C: E: Action. (Mr '29)
Morand, P. Black magic. (Ag '29)
Mottram, R. H. Armistice. (Ap '29)
O. Henry memorial award. Prize stories of 1928. (My '29)
O'Brien, E: J. H., ed. Best British short stories of 1929. (D '29)
O'Brien, E: J. H., ed. Best short stories of 1929; and, The yearbook of the American short story. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
O'Flaherty, L. Mountain tavern. (Ag '29)
O'Higgins, H. J. Detective Duff unravels it. (S '29)
Oppenheim, E: P. Nicholas Goade, detective. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Phillpotts, E. The torch. (S '29)
Plomer, W: C: F. Paper houses. (Ag '29)
Post, M. D. Bradmoor murder. (My '29)
Rhys, E., and Scott, C. A., eds. 26 adventure stories, old and new. (S '29)
Rinehart, M. The romantics. (O '29)
Riordan, J: On the make. (D '29)
Russell, J: Far wandering men. (Ag '29)
Salt, S. Tiny seed of love. (Ag '29)
Sayers, D. L. Lord Peter views the body. (Je '29)
Sayers, D. L. Omnibus of crime. (S '29)
Schisgall, O. Barron Ixell, crime breaker. (N '29)
Schnitzler, A. Little novels. (N '29)
Sokoloff, B. Crime of Dr Garine. (Mr '29)
Steele, W. D. Tower of sand. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Stern, G. B. Slower Judas. (Ap '29)
Thomason, J: W: Marines and others. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Transition (periodical). Transition stories. (My '29)
Van Buren, M., and Bemis, K. I., eds. Easter in modern story. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Van Buren, M., and Bemis, K. I., eds. Father in modern story. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Vanity fair. Short stories. (Ap '29)
Wakefield, H. R. Others who returned. (N '29)
Webb, M. G. Armour wherein he trusted. (Je '29)
Wells, H. G: Short stories. (My '29)
Woodford, J. Evangelical cockroach. (O '29)
World's best short stories of 1929. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wren, P. C. Good Gestes. (Ag '29)

Social conditions and problems
Haldeman-Julius, A. M. and E. Violence. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
King, B. Satan as lightning. (O '29)
Williamson, T. R. Stride of man. (Mr '29)

Social work
Leonard, J. Meddlers. (O '29)

Society life
Coxon, M. Ladder of folly. (Je '29)
Hopkins, G. Seeing's believing. (My '29)
McKenna, S. Between the lines. (N '29)
Meeker, A., jr. American beauty. (Je '29)
Train, A. C. Illusion. (Ag '29)
Wakefield, H. R. Happy ever after. (Ag '29)

Spiritualism
Gibbs, P. H. Darkened rooms. (Ap '29)

Steel industry
Jones, I. Steel chips. (S '29)
Vermorcken, E. Clouded hills. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Theater and stage life
Abdullah, A., and Cuthrell, F. Broadway interlude. (N '29)
Ammers-Küller, J. van. House of joy. (O '29)
Brown, B. Applause. (Mr '29)
Carter, W. Rose—the dancer. (S '29)
Caspary, V. Ladies and gents. (D '29)
Dane, C., pseud., and Simpson, H. Enter Sir John. (Mr '29)
Markey, G. Stepping high. (Je '29)
Priestley, J: B. Good companions. (N '29)
Shea, T., pseud. Sarah and son. (D '29)
Steen, M. Dark duel. (S '29)

Translated stories

Chinese
Ehrenstein, A. Robbers and soldiers. (Ag '29)
T'sao Hsüeh-chin, and Kao Ngoh. Dream of the red chamber. (Ag '29)

Danish
Andersen, K. Brand of the sea. (Je '29)
Anker-Larsen, J. Stranger in paradise. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Bang, H. J. Ida Brandt. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Larsen, H. A., ed. Denmark's best stories. (Ap '29)
Lütken, O: Congo gods. (O '29)

Dutch
Ammers-Küller, J. van. House of joy. (O '29)
Ammers-Küller, J. van. Rebel generation. (Mr '29)

Finnish
Stenvall, A. Seven brothers. (Ap '29)

French
Barrès, M. Sacred hill. (D '29)
Bedel, M. Molinoff. (Ag '29)
Beyle, M. H. Lamiel. (Je '29)
Bibesco, M. L. Green parrot. (Ag '29)
Bosschère, J. de. Marthe and the madman. (Ap '29)
Chamson, A. The road. (Je '29)
Chamson, A. Roux the bandit. (N '29)
Colette, pseud. Chéri. (O '29)

Constantin-Weyer, M. A man scans his past. (O '29)
Dekobra, M. Clown prince. (Ap '29)
Dekobra, M. Love clinic. (Ag '29)
Dekobra, M. Serenade to the hangman. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Delayen, G. Misadventures of Martin Guerre. (D '29)
Dorgelès, R. Departure. (Mr '29)
Feval, P., and Lassez, M. Years between, v 3-4. (Ap '29)
Fleg, E. Boy prophet. (S '29)
Fournier, A. The wanderer (Le grand Meaulnes). (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Gide, A. P. G. School for wives. (N '29)
Green, J. Dark journey. (O '29)
Istrati, P. Bandits (Les haïdoucs). (S '29)
Kessel, J. Princes of the night. (Ap '29)
Lacretelle, J. de. Marie Bonifas. (O '29)
Laforgue, J. Six moral tales (moralités legendaires). (My '29)
Lamandé, A. Montaigne, grave and gay. (Ap '29)
Le Franc, M. Whisper of a name (Grand-Louis l'Innocent). (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Leroux, G. New idol. (D '29)
Malraux, A. Conquerors. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Mauriac, F. Desert of love. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mauriac, F. Destinies. (Ag '29)
Maurois, A. Atmosphere of love. (O '29)
Maurois, A. Voyage to the island of the Articoles. (Mr '29)
Miomandre, F. de. Orientale (L'aventure de Therese Beauchamps). (Je '29)
Miomandre, F. de. Written on water. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Normand, S. Five women on a galley. (Ag '29)
Proust, M. The captive. (S '29)
Proust, M. Cities of the plain [Sodom et Gomorrhe]. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Radiquet, R. Count's ball. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Régnier, H. F. J. de. The libertines. (S '29)
Renard, M. Hands of Orlac. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Soupault, P. Last nights of Paris. (N '29)
Vignaud, J. Venus. (S '29)

German

Aufricht-Ruda, H. Case for the defendant. (Ag '29)
Bettauer, H. Viennese love [Die freudlose gasse]. (N '29)
Brod, M. Three loves. (N '29)
Courths, H. String of pearls. (N '29)
Ewers, H. H. Alraune. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Frank, B. The Persians are coming. (Ap '29)
Frank, L. Robber band. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Glaeser, E. Class of 1902. (N '29)
Grabenhorst, G. Zero hour. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Griese, F. Winter. (Ag '29)
Harper, F. Plus and minus. (N '29)
Hauser, H. Bitter waters. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Hesse, H. Steppenwolf. (O '29)
Huch, R. O. Victory. (My '29)
Keller, G. People of Seldwyla. (S '29)
Keyserling, E. H. N. Tides. (S '29)
Ludwig, E. Diana. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mann, H. Diana. (Je '29)
Mann, H. In the land of Cockaigne. (Je '29)
Neumann, A. The rebels. (S '29)
Reck-Malleczewen, F. P. Sven discovers paradise. (S '29)
Remarque, E. M. All quiet on the western front. (Ag '29)
Sanzara, R. Lost child. (N '29)
Schickele, R. Heart of Alsace. (Ap '29)
Schlump. (N '29)
Schoepp, M. Scrapped. (S '29)
Thiess, F. Farewell to paradise. (N '29)
Thiess, F. Interlude (Frauenraub). (Ag '29)
Trautwein, S. G. Lady of laws. (S '29)
Wassermann, J. Maurizius case. (D '29)
Werfel, F. V. Class reunion. (S '29)
Zweig, A. Case of Sergeant Grischa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Hungarian

Markovits, R. Siberian garrison. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Surányi, M. Woman of Naples. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Italian

Bacchelli, R. Devil at the Long bridge (Il diavolo al Pontelungo). (Ag '29)
Ferrero, G. Seven vices. (S '29)
Santangelo, P. E. Attila. (S '29)
Verona, G. da. Mimi Bluette. (Ag '29)

Norwegian

Bojer, J. New temple. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Duun, O. Good conscience. (My '29)
Egge, P: Hansine Solstad. (D '29)
Hamsun, K. Chapter the last. (D '29)
Kinck, H. E. A young people. (S '29)
Rølvaag, O. E. Peder Victorious. (Mr '29)
Undset, S. In the wilderness. (N '29)
Undset, S. Snake pit. (Mr '29)

Polish

Zeromski, S. Ashes. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Russian

Azure cities. (Ag '29)
Babel, I. E. Red cavalry. (D '29)
Delmont, J. Chains. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gladkov, F. V. Cement. (Ag '29)
Gogol, N. V. Mirgorod. (Ag '29)
Goncharov, I. A. Oblomov. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Kataev, V. P. The embezzlers. (D '29)
Krasnov, P. N. Amazon of the desert. (Ap '29)
Krasnov, P. N. White Coat. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Landau, M. A. Devil's bridge. (Mr '29)
Nazhivin, I. F. Rasputin. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Pushkin, A. S. Captain's daughter. (My '29)
Rozânov, M. G. Diary of a communist undergraduate. (Ag '29)
Shmelev, I. S. Inexhaustible Cup. (Mr '29)
Sokoloff, B. Crime of Dr Garine. (Mr '29)
Vogau, B. A. Naked year. (Je '29)

Spanish

Azuela, M. Under dogs. (N '29)
Martínez Zuviría, G. A. Peach blossom. (Je '29)
Reyles, C. Castanets. (D '29)
Valle-Inclán, R. del. Tyrant. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Zamacois, E. Roots. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Utopian romances

Younghusband, F. E: Coming country. (My '29)

Voyages and travels

Dorgelès, R. Departure. (Mr '29)
Glenn, I. Transport. (Mr '29)
Hughes, R: A. W. Innocent voyage. (Je '29)
Kauffman. R. W. Love de luxe. (O '29)

War

Austin, F: B. Saga of the sword. (Ag '29)
Gibbons, F. P. The red Napoleon. (O '29)
Maurois, A. Next chapter. (Ap '29)

Witchcraft

Grinstead, D. Elva. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Women

Bartley, N. I. Queen Dick. (S '29)
Carman, D. The glory and the parlour. (Ap '29)
Cole, H. B. Maids will be wives. (Ag '29)
Dreiser, T. Gallery of women. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Glasgow, E. A. G. They stooped to folly. (S '29)
Hoult, N. Poor women! (Ag '29)
John, W: M. Seven women. (D '29)
Normand, S. Five women on a galley. (Ag '29)
Powell, D. Bride's house. (Je '29)
Stringer, A. J: A. Cristina and I. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Fiction—Continued

Women in politics
Davis, C. O. Woman of it. (O '29)

Young people
Baldwin, M. R. Dark weather. (O '29)
Benson, T. Salad days. (Mr '29)
Blackburn, B. Sober feast. (O '29)
Farrell, M. J. Young entry. (My '29)
Fox, J. D. Rain before seven. (Ag '29)
Fuller, S., pseud. Their own desire. (S '29)
Gates, H: L. Lipstick. (N '29)
Gibbs, A. Young Apollo. (D '29)
Greenwood, A: G: Go as you please. (My '29)
Haynes, R. Neapolitan ice. (Ap '29)
Mackail, D. G: Another part of the wood. (Ap '29)
Parmenter, C. Silver ribbons. (O '29)
Riordan, J: On the make. (D '29)
Stiles, I. Saplings. (N '29)
Tchernine, O. Wild morning. (O '29)

Fiddler. Millin, S. G. (S '29)
Field book of marine fishes of the Atlantic coast from Labrador to Texas. Breder, C: M. (O '29)
Field book of the skies. Olcott, W: T., and Putnam, E. W. (D '29)
Field-Marshal Earl Haig. Charteris, J: (Je '29)
Field of honor. Byrne, D. (O '29)
Field studies in sociology. Palmer, V. M. (S '29)
Fierce dispute. Santmyer, H. H. (Ag '29)
Fifth latchkey. Lincoln, N. S. (O '29)
Fifty little businesses for women. Dodge, M. R. (Ag '29)
Fighting caravans. Grey, Z. (F '30) (1929 Annual) Figures of the revolution. Madelin, L: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Finance
Pigou, A. C. Study in public finance. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

France
Dulles, E. L. French franc, 1914-1928. (D '29)
Rogers, J. H., and others. Process of inflation in France 1914-1927. (S '29)

United States
Cassel, G., and others. Foreign investments. (Je '29)
Financing extra curricular activities. Meyer, H. D., and Eddleman, S: M. (D '29)
Financing of business enterprises. Bishop, A. L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Fine fellows. Erskine, L. Y. (S '29)

Finland
Van Cleef, E. Finland. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Fire
Greenwood, E. Prometheus, U.S.A. (S '29)
Fire. Tempski, A. von. (O '29)
Firehead. Ridge, L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
First editions of today and how to tell them. Boutell, H. S. (Ap '29)
First love. De La Pasture, E. E. M. (Mr '29)
Fish hawk. Marshall, E. (S '29)
Fish preferred. Wodehouse, P. G. (S '29)

Fisher, John Arbuthnot Fisher, baron
Bacon, R. H. S. Life of Lord Fisher of Kilverstone. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Fisheries
Yonge, C. M. Queer fish. (S '29)

Fishes
Breder, C: M. Field book of marine fishes of the Atlantic coast from Labrador to Texas. (O '29)

Fishing
Morritt, H: E: Fishing ways and wiles. (O '29)
Fishing ways and wiles. Morritt, H: E: (O '29)
Five and ten. Hurst, F. (O '29)
5:18 mystery. Farjeon, J. J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Five Flamboys. Beeding, F., pseud. (S '29)
Five letters, 1519-1526. Cortés, H. (Ag '29)
Five men of Frankfort. Ravage, M. E. (My '29)
Five women on a galley. Normand, S. (Ag '29)
Fjords and folk of Norway. Beckett, S: J. (Ap '29)
Flagrant years. Adams, S: H. (Ag '29)
Fleur de Lys. Salmon, G. G. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Flight of the Southern Cross. Kingsford-Smith, C: E., and Ulm, C: T. P. (My '29)
Flights into antiquity. Eng title of Personalities of antiquity. Weigall, A. E: P. B. (Ag '29)

Flour mills
Kuhlmann, C: B. Development of the flour-milling industry in the United States. (N '29)

Fly-casting
Plumley, L. With the trout fly. (Ag '29)

Flying machines
Stewart, O. Aeolus. (Mr '29)
Flying squad. Wallace, E. (My '29)

Foch, Ferdinand
Aston, G: G. Biography of the late Marshal Foch. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Bugnet, C: Foch speaks. (Ag '29)
Recouly, R. Foch. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Foch speaks. Bugnet, C: (Ag '29)

Folk songs
Gordon, D., ed. Sing it yourself. (Mr '29)

Folk songs, American
Shay, F., comp. More pious friends and drunken companions. (Mr '29)

Folk songs, Gipsy
Brown, I. H: Deep song. (Je '29)

Folk songs, Jewish
Idelsohn, A. Z. Jewish music in its historical development. (O '29)

Folklore

Arabia
Katibah, H. I. Arabian romances and folktales. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Katibah, H. I. Other Arabian nights. (Mr '29)

Brittany
Masson, E. R. Folktales of Brittany. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

England
Wimberly, L. C: Folklore in the English and Scottish ballads. (Ap '29)

Greece
Horton, G: Home of nymphs and vampires. (Je '29)

Hungary
Schwimmer, R. Tisza tales. (Mr '29)

Ireland
Young, E. Tangle-coated horse. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Jamaica
Beckwith, M. W. Black roadways. (O '29)

Scotland
Wimberly, L. C: Folklore in the English and Scottish ballads. (Ap '29)

South Carolina
Smith, R., comp. South Carolina ballads. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

United States
Field, R. L., comp. American folk and fairy tales. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Johnson, G. B. John Henry. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Folklore, Indian
Thompson, E., ed. Tales of the North American Indians. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Folklore, Negro
Sale, J: B. Tree named John. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Folklore in the English and Scottish ballads. Wimberly, L. C: (Ap '29)
Folktales of Brittany. Masson, E. A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Food
Oldfield, J. Eat and be happy. (D '29)

Food adulteration and inspection
Wiley, H. W. History of a crime against the food law. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Food law and legislation
Wiley, H. W. History of a crime against the food law. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Food supply

Great Britain

Beveridge, W: H: British food control. (Ag '29)

Fool errant. Wentworth, P. (D '29)
Footlights across America. Macgowan, K. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Footprints. Strahan, K. (Ap '29)
For daws to peck at. Gibbon, M. (Ag '29)
For Lancelot Andrewes. Eliot, T: S. (Je '29)
For the defense; the life of Sir Edward Marshall Hall. Marjoribanks, E: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Ford, Henry
Merz, C: And then came Ford. (My '29)
Trine, R. W. Power that wins. (O '29)

Ford motor company, Detroit
Merz, C: And then came Ford. (My '29)

Fordney, Joseph Warren
Russell, J: A. Joseph Warren Fordney. (My '29)

Foreign exchange
Dulles, E. L. French franc, 1914-1928. (D '29)
Mlynarski, F. J: Gold and central banks. (Ag '29)
Foreign investments. Cassel, G., and others. (Je '29)
Foreign legionaries in the liberation of Spanish South America. Hasbrouck, A. (Je '29)
Foreign missions under fire. Patton, C. H. (Ag '29)

Forest reserves
Cameron, J. Development of governmental forest control in the United States. (Mr '29)
Forest story. Kožíšek, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Forestry. Recknagel, A. B., and Spring, S: N. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Forests and forestry
Cameron, J. Development of governmental forest control in the United States. (Mr '29)

United States

Recknagel, A. B., and Spring, S: N. Forestry. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Forgery
Carvalho, C., and Sparkes, B. Crime in ink. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Osborn, A. S. Questioned documents. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Forgotten ladies. Wright, R. L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Form and style in poetry. Ker, W: P. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Forty good-morning tales. Fyleman, R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Forty years with General electric. Broderick, J: T: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Founders of the middle ages. Rand, E: K. (Ap '29)

Founding
Hartley, L. A., ed. Elementary foundry technology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Four ducks on a pond. Sawyer, R. (My '29)
Four faces of Siva. Casey, R. J. (Ag '29)

Fourth dimension
Maeterlinck, M. Life of space. (Ap '29)
Fourth musketeer; the life of Alexander Dumas. Lucas-Dubreton, J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Foxhounds
Thomas, J. B. Hounds and hunting through the ages. (S '29)

Fox-hunting
Reeve, J. S. Foxhunting recollections. (Mr '29)
Sassoon, S. L. Memoirs of a fox-hunting man. (Mr '29)
Thomas, J. B. Hounds and hunting through the ages. (S '29)
Foxhunting recollections. Reeve, J. S. (Mr '29)

France

Antiquities

Markham, V. R. Romanesque France. (O '29)

Army

Phipps, R. W. Armies of the first French Republic. (D '29)

Biography

Madelin, L: Figures of the revolution. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Thompson, J. M. Leaders of the French revolution. (Je '29)

Civilization

Guérard, A. L. Life and death of an ideal. (Mr '29)

Colonies

Londres, A. Very naked people. (D '29)

Court and courtiers

Du Hausset, Mme. Memoirs of Madame de Pompadour. (My '29)
La Fayette, M. M. Secret history of Henrietta, princess of England. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Description and travel

Elston, R. Off the beaten track in southern France. (Ag '29)
Laughlin, C. E. Where it all comes true in France. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Lisle, C. Hobnails and heather. (Je '29)
Turner, H. B. Picturesque old France. (S '29)
Woon, B. D. From Deauville to Monte Carlo. (S '29)

Economic conditions

Rogers, J. H., and others. Process of inflation in France 1914-1927. (S '29)

Foreign relations

Oncken, H. Napoleon III and the Rhine. (Mr '29)

History

Guérard, A. L. Life and death of an ideal. (Mr '29)
Sedgwick, H: D. France. (S '29)
Van Dyke, P. Story of France from Julius Caesar to Napoleon III. (Mr '29)

Capetians to 1328

Markham, V. R. Romanesque. (O '29)

House of Valois, 1328-1589

Champion, P. H. J. B. Louis XI. (O '29)

Revolution

Gottschalk, L: R. Era of the French revolution (1715-1815). (Ag '29)
Madelin, L: Figures of the revolution. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mathiez, A. French revolution. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Penman, J: S. Lafayette and three revolutions. (Ag '29)
Phipps, R. W. Armies of the first French Republic. (D '29)
Scherr, M. Charlotte Corday and certain men of the revolutionary torment. (Ap '29)
Thompson, J. M. Leaders of the French revolution. (Je '29)

Consulate and empire, 1799-1815

Gottschalk, L: R. Era of the French revolution (1715-1815). (Ag '29)
Penman, J: S. Lafayette and three revolutions. (Ag '29)

Restoration, 1815-1848

Lucas-Dubreton, J. Restoration and the July monarchy. (O '29)

July revolution, 1830

Penman, J: S. Lafayette and three revolutions. (Ag '29)

Second empire, 1852-1870

Cowley, H: R: C: W. Secrets of the second empire. (O '29)
D'Auvergne, E. B. F. Napoleon the Third. (N '29)

France—History—Continued

Third republic, 1870

Recouly, R. Third republic. (Mr '29)

Intellectual life

Benda, J. Belphégor. (Je '29)

Politics and government

Gottschalk, L: R. Era of the French revolution (1715-1815). (Ag '29)

Social life and customs

Goodman of Paris (Le ménagier de Paris). (My '29)
Hueffer, O. M. French France. (My '29)
Woon, B. D. From Deauville to Monte Carlo. (S '29)

France. Sedgwick, H: D. (S '29)
Francis Asbury. Duren, W: L. (Ap '29)
Francis de Sales, Saint, bp.
Bordeaux, H. Saint Francis de Sales. (N '29)
Francis Joseph I, emperor of Austria
Redlich, J. Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. (Ap '29)
Francis of Assisi, Saint
Jones, C. M. D. Lord's minstrel. (Mr '29)
Marlatt, E. B. Protestant saints. (My '29)
Francis Rabelais. Nock, A. J., and Wilson, C. R. (D '29)
Franco-German war, 1870-1871
Oncken, H. Napoleon III and the Rhine. (Mr '29)
François Rabelais. Putnam, S: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Franklin, Benjamin
Faÿ, B. Franklin. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Smythe, J: H:, ed. Amazing Benjamin Franklin. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Frankness in religion. Hutcheon, R. J. (My '29)
Frantic young man. Samuels, C: (My '29)
Franz Schubert. Flower, W. N. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Franz Schubert and his times. Kobald, K: (Ap '29)
Franz Schubert, man and composer. Whitaker-Wilson, C. (Je '29)
Freckles comes home. Meehan, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Frederick II, the Great, king of Prussia
Goldsmith, M. Frederick the Great. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hegemann, W. Frederick the Great. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Mann, T: Three essays. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Frederick the Great. Goldsmith, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Frederick the Great. Hegemann, W. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Fredericks, Arnold, pseud. See Kummer, F: A.
Free grass. Haycox, E. (Ag '29)
Free thought
Darrow, C. S., and Rice, W. de G. C., comps. Infidels and heretics. (O '29)
Murry, J: M. God. (D '29)
Free will and determinism
Knox, H. V. Will to be free. (N '29)
Freedom of the seas
Kenworthy, J. M., and Young, G: Freedom of the seas. (Ap '29)
Freienfels, Richard Muller. See Müller-Freienfels, R:
French drama
Croisset, F. de. Our puppet show. (S '29)

History and criticism

Norman, H. L. Swindlers & rogues in French drama. (N '29)

French fiction

History and criticism

Green, F: C: French novelists, manners & ideas. (My '29)

French franc, 1914-1928. Dulles, E. L. (D '29)
French France. Hueffer, O. M. (My '29)
French in Africa
Londres, A. Very naked people. (D '29)
French in Syria
MacCallum, E. P. Nationalist crusade in Syria. (My '29)
French liberal thought in the eighteenth century. Martin, K. (D '29)
French literature

History and criticism

Benda, J. Belphégor. (Je '29)
Bremond, H. Literary history of religious thought in France. (Ap '29)
Sedgwick, H: D. France. (S '29)
Tilley, A. A: Decline of the age of Louis XIV. (O '29)

French novelists, manners & ideas. Green, F: C: (My '29)
French revolution. Mathiez, A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Fresh-water fauna
Carpenter, K. E. Life in inland waters. (Je '29)
Friend of Jesus. Bates, E. S. (Ag '29)
Friends, Society of
Eddington, A. S. Science and the unseen world. (D '29)
Jones, L. M. Quakers in action. (Je '29)
Klain, Z. Educational activities of New England Quakers. (Ag '29)
From Confucius to Mencken. Pritchard, F. H:, ed. (S '29)
From Deauville to Monte Carlo. Woon, B. D. (S '29)
From dusk till dawn. Garrett, W: A. (S '29)
From Kaw teepee to Capitol. Seitz, D. C. (Ap '29)
From magic to science. Singer, C: (N '29)
From now to Adam. Langstaff, J: B. (Ap '29)
From nudity to raiment. Hiler, H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
From Sandy Hook to 62°. Russell, C: E: (D '29)
From the Greeks to Darwin. Osborn, H: F. (S '29)
From the physical to the social sciences. Rueff, J. (N '29)
From the seen to the unseen. Best, J: H: (N '29)
Frontier and pioneer life
Breakenridge, W: M. Helldorado. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Cossley-Batt, J. L. E. Last of the California rangers. (My '29)
French, J. L:, ed. Pioneers all! (Je '29)
Ghent, W: J. Road to Oregon. (Je '29)
Greenbie, S. Frontiers and the fur trade. (My '29)
Grinnell, G: B. Two great scouts and their Pawnee battalion. (S '29)
Laut, A. C. Overland trail. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Macbride, T: H. In cabins and sod-houses. (Je '29)
Orpen, A. E. R. Memories of the old emigrant days in Kansas, 1862-1865. (Je '29)
Rister, C. C. Southwestern frontier—1865-1881. (N '29)
Sabin, E. L. Wid men of the wild West. (D '29)

Frontiers. Hulbert, A. B. (Ag '29)
Frontiers and the fur trade. Greenbie, S. (My '29)
Frontiers of hope. Kallen, H. M. (S '29)
Frontiers of trade. Klein, J. (S '29)
The frontiersman. Bindloss, H. (O '29)
Frost, Robert
Cox, S. Robert Frost. (Je '29)
Fuel
Greenwood, E. Prometheus, U.S.A. (S '29)
Fugitive love. Farson, N. (N '29)
Fugitive's return. Glaspell, S. (D '29)
Full measure. Storm, H. O: (N '29)
Fun with figures. Collins, A. F: (Mr '29)
Fundamentals of child study. Kirkpatrick, E. A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Fundamentals of human motivation. Troland, L. T. (Mr '29)
Funny bone. Asquith, C. M. E., comp. (Mr '29)
Funny thing. Gág, W. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Fur trade
Greenbie, S. Frontiers and the fur trade. (My '29)

Moberly, H: J:, and Cameron, W: B. When fur was king. (S '29)
Vandiveer, C. A. Fur-trade and early western exploration. (N '29)
Fur-trade and early western exploration. Vandiveer, C. A. (N '29)

Furniture
Adams-Acton, M. Domestic architecture and old furniture. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Cescinsky, H., and Hunter, G: L. English and American furniture. (D '29)
Gould, G: G. and F. Period furniture handbook. (My '29)
Kahle, K. M. Outline of period furniture. (O '29)
Palmer, L. Your house. (My '29)
Furniture inlaying. Frost, C: W., and Fullerton, M. (Mr '29)
Further correspondence, 1662-1679. Pepys, S: (My '29)
Further letters of Vincent Van Gogh, v 3. Gogh, V. van. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Further poems. Dickinson, E. N. (My '29)
Future of the earth. Jeffreys, H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Galahads and pussy-cats. Speyer, W. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Galaxy. Ertz, S. (S '29)
Gallant Lallanes. Guyol, L. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gallery of eccentrics. Bishop, M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Gallery of women. Dreiser, T. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Galsworthy, John
Schalit, L. John Galsworthy. (S '29)
The gambler. Martin, A. L. (Ag '29)

Gambling
Clarke, D. H. In the reign of Rothstein. (D '29)

Game and game-birds
Parker, E., and others. Shooting by moor, field, and shore. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Games
Elsom, J. C. Community recreation. (N '29)
Hamilton, B. M. Please come to my party. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Garda. O'Neill, R. C. (Je '29)
Garden lilies. Preston, I. (S '29)
Garden oats. Cuthrell, F. (Je '29)
Garden of fidelity. Steel, F. A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Garden of vision. Beck, L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Gardener's bed-book. Wright, R. L. (S '29)
Gardener's colour book. King, L., and Fothergill, J: (Ap '29)

Gardening
Sherlock, C. C. City and suburban gardening. (Ap '29)
Thayer, C. L. Spring flowering bulbs. (My '29)
Williams, F. E. Orokaiva magic. (Mr '29)
Wright, R. L. Gardener's bed-book. (S '29)

Juvenile literature
Wodell, H. P. Beginning to garden. (Je '29)

Gardens
Fox, H. Patio gardens. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gothein, M. L. History of garden art. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
King, L., and Fothergill, J: Gardener's colour book. (Ap '29)
Nichols, R. S. Italian pleasure gardens. (Je '29)
Roberts, E. A., and Rehmann, E. American plants for American gardens. (Ag '29)
Sherlock, C. C. City and suburban gardening. (Ap '29)
Taylour, H. O. Japanese gardens. (Ap '29)
Villiers-Stuart, C. M. Spanish gardens. (O '29)

Gardens of this world. Fuller, H: B. (D '29)

Garibaldi, Giuseppe
Dumas, A. On board the Emma. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Fiction
Huch, R. O. Victory. (My '29)
Garment of praise. Chilton, E. C., and Agar, H. (My '29)

Gases, Rare
Travers, M. W: Discovery of the rare gases. (Je '29)

Gastronomy
Bonney, T. and L. Guide to the restaurants of Paris. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gate marked "private." Dell, E. M. (Mr '29)
Gate of a strange field. Heslop, H. (O '29)
Gate through the mountain. Pendexter, H. (Ag '29)

Gay, John
Irving, W: H: John Gay's London. (Je '29)
Sherwin, O. Mr. Gay. (Ag '29)
Gem of earth. Booth, M. (N '29)

General electric company
Broderick, J: T: Forty years with General electric. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
General epistles. Moffatt, J. (My '29)

General strike, Great Britain, 1926
Rayner, R. M. Story of trade unionism. (Je '29)
Generally speaking. Chesterton, G. K. (Ap '29)
Generalship of Ulysses S. Grant. Fuller, J: F: C: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Genesis of the social gospel. McCown, C. C. (S '29)

Genet, Edmond Charles Edouard
Minnigerode, M. Jefferson, friend of France, 1793. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Gentleman with a duster, pseud. See Begbie, H.

Geography
Hillyer, V. M. Child's geography of the world. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
George Borrow. Elam, S: M. (Je '29)
George Harvey. Johnson, W. F. (D '29)
George W. Cable. Bikle, L. L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
George Washington. Little, S. (N '29)

Georgia. University
Coulter, E. M. College life in the old South. (Ap '29)
Georgian novel and Mr. Robinson. Jameson, S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
German diplomatic documents, 1871-1914. Germany, Auswärtiges amt. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
German illumination. Goldschmidt, A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
German students' war letters. Witkop, P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Germans in Pennsylvania
Weygandt, C. Red hills. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Germany. Constitution
Blachly, F: F., and Oatman, M. E. Government and administration of Germany. (Je '29)

Germany

Description and travel
Montaigne, M. E. de. Diary of Montaigne's journey to Italy in 1580 and 1581. (S '29)
Newman, E: M. Seeing Germany. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Economic conditions
D'Abernon, E. V. Diary of an ambassador; v 1, Versailles to Rapallo, 1920-1922. (My '29)
Luehr, E. New German republic. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Meakin, W. New industrial revolution. (Ag '29)
Quigley, H., and Clark, R. T. Republican Germany. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Foreign relations
D'Abernon, E. V. Diary of an ambassador; v 1, Versailles to Rapallo, 1920-1922. (My '29)

Great Britain
Germany, Auswärtiges amt. German diplomatic documents, 1871-1914. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Poland
Poliakoff, V. Eagles black and white. (O '29)

Germany—Foreign relations—Continued

Russia

Saburov, P: A. Saburov memoirs. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

History

1789-1900

Weigler, P. William the First. (S '29)

1871-

Victoria Adelaide Mary Louisa, consort of Frederick III, German emperor. Letters. (Mr '29)

20th century

Luehr, E. New German republic. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Revolution

Daniels, H. G. Rise of the German Republic. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Luehr, E. New German republic. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Industries

Meakin, W. New industrial revolution. (Ag '29)

Intellectual life

Robinson, H: C. Crabb Robinson in Germany, 1800-1805. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Politics and government

Blachly, F: F., and Oatman, M. E. Government and administration of Germany. (Je '29)
Daniels, H. G. Rise of the German Republic. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Emerson, R. State and sovereignty in modern Germany. (Je '29)
Quigley, H., and Clark, R. T. Republican Germany. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rheinbaben, R. Stresemann, the man and the statesman. (Ag '29)
Scheidemann, P. Making of new Germany. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Social life and customs

Robinson, H: C. Crabb Robinson in Germany, 1800-1805 (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Geronimo, Apache chief
Davis, B. Truth about Geronimo. (D '29)

Gestalt (psychology)
Köhler, W. Gestalt psychology. (Ag '29)
Gestalt psychology. Köhler, W. (Ag '29)
Getting acquainted with God. Barstow, R. W. (Ap '29)
The ghetto. Wirth, L: (My '29)
Gift supreme. Cowley, R. (Ag '29)

Gilds
Burgess, J: S. Guilds of Peking. (S '29)
Gillespie suicide mystery. Eng title of Terrace suicide mystery. Gribble, L. R. (D '29)
Ginevra. Watson, V. C. (O '29)
Ginger cat. Reeve, C. (D '29)

Gipsies
Bercovici, K. Story of the gypsies. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Brown, I. H: Deep song. (Je '29)

Gipsy music
Brown, I. H: Deep song. (Je '29)

Girl from God's Mercie. Mowery, W: B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Girl in soviet Russia. Ardenne de Tizac, A. F. C. d'. (N '29)
Girl of Tiptop. Youth's companion (periodical). (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Girls
Ferris, H. J. This happened to me. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Girls men marry. Johns, J., pseud. (S '29)

Girondists
Scherr, M. Charlotte Corday and certain men of the revolutionary torment. (Ap '29)

Gissing, George Robert
Gissing, G: R. Selections autobiographical and imaginative. (N '29)
Give me my sin again. Royde-Smith, N. G. (N '29)

Gladstone, William Ewart
Gladstone, H. J: G. After thirty years. (Mr '29)
Palmerston, H: J: T., and Gladstone, W: E. Gladstone and Palmerston. (Ap '29)
Gladstone and Palmerston. Palmerston, H: J: T., and Gladstone, W: E. (Ap '29)
Glass over flower. Temple, J. (O '29)
Glenlitten murder. Oppenheim, E: P. (O '29)
Glimpse of Greece. Hutton, E: (Ap '29)
The glory and the parlour. Carman, D. (Ap '29)

Glycerin
Lawrie, J. W. Glycerol and the glycols. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Glycerol and the glycols. Lawrie, J. W. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Glycols
Lawrie, J. W. Glycerol and the glycols. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Go as you please. Greenwood, A: G: (My '29)

God
Buckham, J: W. Humanity of God. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
God in the modern world. (Je '29)
Murry, J: M. God. (D '29)
Roberts, R: Christian God. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sheen, F. J: Religion without God. (Ap '29)
Valentine, C. H: What do we mean by God? (N '29)
Yost, C. S. Quest of God. (S '29)
God. Murry, J: M. (D '29)
God-beguiled. O'Neil, G: (N '29)
God have mercy on us! Scanlon, W: T. (D '29)
God in the modern world. (Je '29)
The God who didn't laugh. Botkin, G. (D '29)
God's country. Barton, R. (Ap '29)
God's man. Ward, L. K. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gods of the lightning; [and] Outside looking in. Anderson, M., and Hickerson, H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Gods who dance. Shawn, T. (O '29)

Goethe, Johann Wolfgang von
Carré, J. M. Goethe. (N '29)
Mann, T: Three essays. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Gogh, Vincent van
Gogh, V. van. Further letters of Vincent Van Gogh, v 3. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Goin' home. (Ag '29)

Goiter
Bram, I. Goiter prevention and thyroid protection. (Ap '29)
Goiter prevention and thyroid protection. Bram, I. (Ap '29)

Gold
Mlynarski, F. J: Gold and central banks. (Ag '29)
Gold. Perkins, K. (O '29)
Gold and central banks. Mlynarski, F. J: (Ag '29)
Gold bullets. Booth, C: G. (Ap '29)
Gold coast and slum. Zorbaugh, H. W. (O '29)
Gold Coast customs. Sitwell, E. (N '29)
Gold dust. Holstius, E: (N '29)
Golden altar. Sutherland, J. (Ag '29)
Golden ball. Brown, A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Golden falcon. Coffin, R. P: T. (O '29)
Golden fleece. Gunther, J: (Je '29)
Golden gospel. Scott, G. (Ag '29)
Golden pilgrimage. Schindel, B. (N '29)
Golden room. Gibson, W. W. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Golden rubbish. Pelley, W: D. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Golden tales of our America. Becker, M., ed. (S '29)
Golden wind. Ohta, T., and Sperry, M. (D '29)

Goldfish
Sawyer, R. V., and Perkins, E. H. Water gardens and goldfish. (Ap '29)

Goldsmith, Oliver
Scott, T. Oliver Goldsmith bibliographically and biographically considered. (My '29)

Bibliography

Scott, T. Oliver Goldsmith bibliographically and biographically considered. (My '29)
Goldsmith of Florence. Gibson, K. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Golf
Collett, G., and Neville, J. M. Ladies in the rough. (S '29)
Knox, E. G: V., ed. Mr. Punch on the links. (O '29)
Metzger, S. Putting analyzed. (D '29)
Golf club murder. Friend, O. J. (S '29)
Gone native. Hastings, A. C: G. (O '29)

Gonzaga family
Brinton, S. J: C. Gonzaga—lords of Mantua. (Ap '29)
Gonzaga—lords of Mantua. Brinton, S. J: C. (Ap '29)

Good and evil
Talbot, N. S. Riddle of life. (My '29)
Good companions. Priestley, J: B. (N '29)
Good conscience. Duun, O. (My '29)
Good estate of poetry. Tinker, C. B. (Je '29)
Good Gestes. Wren, P. C. (Ag '29)
Good health. Thomson, I. S. (Je '29)
Good marriage. Jayne, M. (Ap '29)
Good red bricks. Synon, M. (Mr '29)
Goodman of Paris (Le ménagier de Paris). (My '29)
Goose fair. Roberts, C. (Ap '29)

Gordon, Taylor
Gordon, T. Born to be. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gospel for Asia. Saunders, K. J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Gothic revival. Clark, K. (My '29)
Gothick North. Sitwell, S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Governance of Hawaii. Littler, R. M. C: (D '29)
Government and administration of Germany. Blachly, F: F., and Oatman, M. E. (Je '29)
Government of Japan. Kitazawa, N. (Je '29)

Government ownership
Mosher, W: E., and others, eds. Electrical utilities. (D '29)
Government ownership and operation of railroads. Splawn, W. M. W: (My '29).

Graeme, Bruce, pseud. See Jeffries, G. M.

Graf, Oskar Maria
Graf, O. M. Prisoners all. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Graham, Marcus, pseud. See Marcus, S.

Grahame, Kenneth
Milne, A. A. Toad of Toad hall. (Ag '29)

Grain elevators
Patton, H. S. Grain growers' cooperation in western Canada. (My '29)
Grain growers' cooperation in western Canada. Patton, H. S. (My '29)

Grain trade
Goldstein, B: F. Marketing. (Ap '29)

Canada
Patton, H. S. Grain growers' cooperation in western Canada. (My '29)

Chicago
Dies, E: J. The plunger [Benjamin P. Hutchinson]. (Ag '29)

Great Britain
Ashley, W: J. Bread of our forefathers. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

United States
Surface, F. M. Grain trade during the World war. (My '29)
Grain trade during the World war. Surface, F. M. (My '29)

Gramont, Elisabeth de. See Clermont-Tonnerre, E.

Grand canyon
Tillotson, M. R., and Taylor, F. J. Grand Canyon country. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Grand Canyon country. Tillotson, M. R., and Taylor, F. J. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Grand manner. Kronenberger, L: (My '29)
Grande Turke; Suleyman the Magnificent. Downey, F. D. (Ag '29)
Grandmother Brown's hundred years, 1827-1927. Brown, H. C. (D '29)

Grant, Allen, pseud. See Smith, A. D. H.

Grant, Ulysses Simpson
Fuller, J: F: C: Generalship of Ulysses S. Grant. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Woodward, W: E. Meet General Grant. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Granville Sharp and the freedom of slaves in England. Lascelles, E: C: P. (Ap '29)

Graphology
Saudek, R. Experiments with handwriting. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Gray, Judd
Gray, J. Doomed ship. (Ap '29)
Great apes. Yerkes, R. M. and A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Great betrayal. Eng title of Treason of the intellectuals. Benda, J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Great Britain. Ministry of food
Beveridge, W: H: British food control. (Ag '29)

Great Britain

Biography
Bashford, H: H. Harley street calendar. (D '29)
Bridges, T: C:, and Tiltman, H. H. Kings of commerce. (D '29)
Hagberg, K. H. Kings, Churhills and statesmen. (Ag '29)
Hodgson, S. Portraits and reflections. (O '29)
Kircher, R. Englander. (Ag '29)

Civilization
Wingfield-Stratford, E. C. History of British civilization. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Colonies
Baker, P. J: N. Present juridical status of the British dominions in international law. (D '29)
Evans, I. L. British in tropical Africa. (Je '29)
Schuyler, R. L. Parliament and the British Empire. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Commercial policy
Hoskins, H. L. British routes to India. (S '29)

Constitutional history
Schuyler, R. L. Parliament and the British Empire. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Constitutional law
Robson, W: A. Justice and administrative law. (Mr '29)
Tanner, J. R. English constitutional conflicts of the seventeenth century, 1603-1689. (Ag '29)

Court and courtiers
Stanley, A. F. E. Later letters, 1864-1876. (D '29)

Economic conditions
Cole, G: D. H. Next ten years in British social and economic policy. (S '29)
Fay, C: R. Great Britain from Adam Smith to the present day. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Meakin, W. New industrial revolution. (Ag '29)

Economic policy
Benn, E. J: P. Return to laisser faire. (S '29)

Foreign relations
Montgelas, M. M. K: D. British foreign policy under Sir Edward Grey. (Mr '29)
Mowat, R. B. Life of Lord Pauncefote. (My '29)

Germany
Germany, Auswärtiges amt. German diplomatic documents, 1871-1914. (F '30) (1929 (Annual)

Spanish America
Rippy, J. F. Rivalry of the United States and Great Britain over Latin America (1808-1830). (S '29)

Great Britain—Foreign relations—Continued

United States

Rippy, J. F. Rivalry of the United States and Great Britain over Latin America (1808-1830). (S '29)
Willson, B. America's ambassadors to England (1785-1929). (Ap '29)

History

Cambridge history of the British empire, v 1. (S '29)
Lunt, W: E: History of England. (Ag '29)
Robinson, C. E: England. (Mr '29)
Wingfield-Stratford, E. C. History of British civilization. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

To 449

Geoffrey of Monmouth. Historia regum Britanniæ. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Tudors, 1485-1603

Hackett, F. Henry the Eighth. (My '29)

Elizabeth, 1558-1603

Harrison, G: B. Elizabethan journal. (Je '29)

Restoration, 1660-1688

Etherege, G: Letterbook. (Je '29)

1760-1789

Namier, L: B. Structure of politics at the accession of George III. (Ap '29)

Victoria, 1837-1901

Cowley, H: R: C: W. Secrets of the second empire. (O '29)

Edward VII, 1901-1910

Halévy, E. History of the English people; epilogue, v 1. (S '29)

Industries

Fay, C: R. Great Britain from Adam Smith to the present day. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Selekman, B. M. and S. British industry today. (O '29)

Intellectual life

Harrison, G: B. Elizabethan journal. (Je '29)

Kings and rulers

Bigham, C. Kings of England, 1066-1901. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
MacDonagh, M. English king. (O '29)

Nationality

Gaus, J: M. Great Britain. (O '29)

Navy

Moore, F: America's naval challenge. (S '29)

Parliament

Hewart of Bury, G. H. New despotism. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Schuyler, R. L. Parliament and the British Empire. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Politics and government

Davis, H: W: C. Age of Grey and Peel. (O '29)
Gaus, J: M. Great Britain. (O '29)
Hewart of Bury, G. H. New despotism. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lloyd George, D: Slings and arrows. (O '29)
MacDonagh, M. English king. (O '29)
Marriott, J: A. R. How England is governed. (Ap '29)
Namier, L: B. Structure of politics at the accession of George III. (Ap '29)
Nathan, M. Empire government. (N '29)
Palmerston, H: J: T., and Gladstone, W: E. Gladstone and Palmerston. (Ap '29)
Postgate, R. W: That devil Wilkes. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Ronaldshay, L. J: L. D. Life of Lord Curzon, v 3, (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Taylor, G: R. S. English political portraits of the nineteenth century. (S '29)
Tout, T: F: Chapters in the administrative history of mediaeval England, v 3-4. (My '29)

Princes and princesses

Thornton-Cook, E. Royal Elizabeths. (Je '29)

Royal household

Tout, T: F: Chapters in the administrative history of mediaeval England, v 3-4. (My '29)

Social conditions

Fay, C: R. Great Britain from Adam Smith to the present day. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Social life and customs

Calthrop, D. C. "I will be good!" (D '29)
Gloag, J:, and Walker, C. T. Home life in history. (Ap '29)
Harrison, G: B. Elizabethan journal. (Je '29)
Great Britain. Gaus, J: M. (O '29)
Great Britain from Adam Smith to the present day. Fay, C: R. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Great conjecture. Kirkland, W. M. (N '29)
Great conquerors of South and Central America. Verrill, A. H. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Great detective stories of the world. French, J. L:, ed. (D '29)
Great English plays. Rubinstein, H. F:, ed. (My '29)
Great enlightenment. Dodd, L. W. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Great Galilean. Keable, R. (My '29)
Great horn spoon. Wright, E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Great Lakes
Clowes, E. S. Shipways to the sea. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
A great man. Voydes, W. (My '29)
Great Mary Celeste hoax. Keating, L. J. (O '29)
Great men and movements in Israel. Kittel, R. (S '29)
Great revolt in Castile. Seaver, H: L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Great short biographies of the world. Clark, B. H., comp. (Ap '29)
Great trans-Pacific flight. Eng title of Flight of the Southern Cross. Kingsford-Smith, C: E., and Ulm, C: T. P. (My '29)
Great weird stories. Neale, A., ed. (S '29)
Greatest adventure. Taine, J: (Ap '29)
Greece

Antiquities

Hutton, E: Glimpse of Greece. (Ap '29)
Miller, W. Daedalus and Thespis. (O '29)

Civilization

Earp, F. R. Way of the Greeks. (S '29)

Description and travel

Hutton, E: Glimpse of Greece. (Ap '29)

History

Herodotus; ed. by Gordon King. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Robertson, J: C: and H. G. Story of Greece and Rome. (My '29)
Robinson, C. E: History of Greece. (N '29)

Religion

Earp, F. R. Way of the Greeks. (S '29)

Greece, Modern

Description and travel

Franck, H. A. I discover Greece. (S '29)

Foreign relations

Phocas-Cosmetatos, S. P. Tragedy of Greece. (S '29)

History

Herodotus; ed. by Gordon King. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Morgenthau, H:, and Strother, F. I was sent to Athens. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Phocas-Cosmetatos, S. P. Tragedy of Greece. (S '29)
Greedy goroo. Rickert, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Greek anthology. Anthologia graeca. (Ag '29)
Greek church
Zankov, S. Eastern orthodox church. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Greek drama
Miller, W. Daedalus and Thespis. (O '29)
Greek gestures. Griffith, W: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Greek literature
Collections
Livingstone, R: W., ed. Mission of Greece. (S '29)
History
Powell, J: U., and Barber, E. A., eds. New chapters in the history of Greek literature; second ser. (O '29)
Selections, extracts, etc.
Miller, W. Daedalus and Thespis. (O '29)
Greek poetry
Miller, W. Daedalus and Thespis. (O '29)
Collections
Anthologia graeca. Greek anthology. (Ag '29)
Douglas, N. Birds and beasts of the Greek anthology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
History and criticism
Körte, A. Hellenistic poetry. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Translations into English
Anthologia graeca. Greek anthology. (Ag '29)
Greek sceptics. Patrick, M. M. (D '29)
Greek thought and the origins of the scientific spirit. Robin, L. (Ag '29)
Greely, Adolphus Washington
Fiction
Unger, H. White betrayal. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Green parrot. Bibesco, M. L. (Ag '29)
Green pipes. Paget-Fredericks, J. R. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Green toad. Masterman, W. S. (Ag '29)
Greenland
Description and travel
Streeter, D. W. Arctic rodeo. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Gregg, William
Mitchell, B. William Gregg, factory master of the old South. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Grey maiden. Smith, A. D. H. (N '29)
Grim vengeance. Stewart, A. W. (S '29)
Grimhaven. Tasker, R. J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Group representation before Congress. Herring, E: P. (Ag '29)
Growing pains. Toohey, J: P: (S '29)
Growth
Johnson, H. M. Children in the nursery school. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Robbins, W: J., and others. Growth. (Ag '29)
Growth of philosophic radicalism. Halévy, E. (My '29)
Growth of reason. Lorimer, F. (D '29)
Grub-street journal
Hillhouse, J. T. Grub-street journal. (Ag '29)
Guarded halo. Pedler, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gudrun. (S '29)
Guide to Bernard Shaw. Wagenknecht, E: C: (N '29)
Guide to material on crime and criminal justice. Kuhlman, A: F:, comp. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Guide to reference books. Mudge, I. G. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Guide to the principal sources for early American history (1600-1800) in the city of New York. Greene, E. B., and Morris, R: B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Guide to the restaurants of Paris. Bonney, T. and L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Guilds of Peking. Burgess, J: S. (S '29)
Guilty house. Kingston, C: (My '29)
Guilty or not guilty? Logan, G. B. H. (S '29)
Gun tamer. Brand, M. (N '29)
Gundolf, Friedrich, pseud. See Gundelfinger, F.

Habeas corpus
Milligan, L. P., defendant. Milligan case. (Ag '29)
Hafiz. Hafiz, the Tongue of the hidden. (Ap '29)

Haig, Douglas Haig, 1st earl
Charteris, J: Field-Marshal Earl Haig. (Je '29)
Secrett, T. Twenty-five years with Earl Haig (S '29)
Haiti
History
Davis, H. P. Black democracy. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Social life and customs
Seabrook, W: B. Magic island. (Mr '29)
Hakluyt, Richard, 1552?-1616
Parks, G: B. Richard Hakluyt and the English voyages. (S '29)
Hakluyt, Richard, d. 1591
Parks, G: B. Richard Hakluyt and the English voyages. (S '29)
Haldane of Cloan, Richard Burdon Haldane, 1st viscount
Haldane of Cloan, R: B. H. Autobiography. (My '29)
Hales, Stephen
Clark-Kennedy, A. E. Stephen Hales. (N '29)
Half-hours in old London. Prince, H. (S '29)
Half pint flask. Heyward, Du B. (N '29)
Halford's adventure. Eng title of Mystery reef. Bindloss. H. (Mr '29)
Hamlet of A. MacLeish. MacLeish, A. (Mr '29)
Hammer and the scythe. McCormick, A. (Mr '29)
Hammer of doom. Stokes, F. W: (My '29)
Handbook of athletics. Bickley, G. (Ag '29)
Handbook of Greek mythology. Rose, H. J. (Ap '29)
Handbook of refrigerating engineering. Woolrich, W. R. (My '29)
Handbook on hanging. Duff, C: (O '29)
Handicraft
Cave, E. S. Craft work. (N '29)
Showalter, H. F. Box book. (S '29)
Hands of Orlac. Renard, M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
The handsome man. Turnbull, M. (My '29)
Handwriting on the wall. Little, A. D. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hanging
Duff, C: Handbook on hanging. (O '29)
Hanks family
Barton, W: E. Lineage of Lincoln. (Ag '29)
Hanna, Marcus Alonzo
Beer, T: Hanna. (D '29)
Hannibal
Baker, G: P. Hannibal. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Hanno. Mitchell, J. L. (N '29)
Hans Frost. Walpole, H. (O '29)
The Hansa. Nash, E. G. (D '29)
Hanseatic league
Nash, E. G. The Hansa. (D '29)
Hansine Solstad. Egge, P: (D '29)
Happiness
Pitkin, W. B. Psychology of happiness. (D '29)
Happy ever after. Wakefield, H. R. (Ag '29)
The Happy Parrot. Chambers, R. W: (O '29)
Hapsburg, House of
Jászi, O. Dissolution of the Habsburg monarchy. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Klarwill, V:, ed. Queen Elizabeth and some foreigners. (Mr '29)
Harbor pirates. Stratton, C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hard liberty. Murray, R. (O '29)
Hardware. McKenna, E: L. (Ag '29)
Hardy, Thomas
Hardy, F. E., comp. Early life of Thomas Hardy, 1840-1891. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Harley street calendar. Bashford, H: H. (D '29)
Harper, Wilhelmina, comp. See Youth's companion (periodical).
Harriet Hume. West, R. (D '29)
Hart, Basil Henry Liddell. See Liddell Hart, B. H:
Hart, William Surrey
Hart, W: S. My life east and west. (Ag '29)
Harvard dramatic club miracle plays. Robinson, D. F., ed. (Je '29)

Harvard lectures on the Vergilian age. Conway, R. S. (Ap '29)
Harvest. Stout, O. (O '29)
Harvey, George Brinton McClellan
Johnson, W. F. George Harvey. (D '29)
Harvey, William
Malloch, A. E: William Harvey. (N '29)
Havana
Amusements
Woon, B. D. When it's cocktail time in Cuba. (Ap '29)
Description
Woon, B. D. When it's cocktail time in Cuba. (Ap '29)
Have we kept the faith? Prosser, C: A., and Allen, C: R. (S '29)
Haverford college
Jones, R. M. Trail of life in college. (S '29)
Havering plot. Hosken, C. J. W. (My '29)
Hawaiian Islands
Politics and government
Littler, R. M. C: Governance of Hawaii. (D '29)
Hawbucks. Masefield, J: (D '29)
Hawthorne, Nathaniel
Arvin, N. Hawthorne. (N '29)
Hawthorne, N. Heart of Hawthorne's journals. (Je '29)
Haywood, William Dudley
Haywood, W: D. Bill Haywood's book. (Je '29)
Heading for war. Edwards, W: H. (Ap '29)
Headlines. Gilman, M. (Ap '29)
Health and physical education for elementary schools. Myers, A. F., and Bird, O. C. (N '29)
Health essentials. Andress, J. M., and others. (Ap '29)
Healy, Timothy Michael
Healy, T. M. Letters and leaders of my day. (Ap '29)
Heart of Alsace. Schickele, R. (Ap '29)
Heart of Hawthorne's journals. Hawthorne, N. (Je '29)
Heart of the woods. Adams, I. (Ap '29)
Hearth of happiness. Monroe, A. S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Heart's journey. Sassoon, S. L. (Je '29)
Heating
History
Greenwood, E. Prometheus, U.S.A. (S '29)
Heaven and earth of Doña Elena. Stone, G. Z. (Ag '29)
Hedylus. Aldington, H. (My '29)
Heights of Christian blessedness. Hayes, D. A. (N '29)
Heinemann, William
Whyte, F: William Heinemann. (My '29)
Hell in harness. Auslander, J. (N '29)
Helldorado. Breakenridge, W: M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hellenistic poetry. Körte, A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Hello towns! Anderson, S. (Je '29)
Hell's loose. Pertwee, R. (Je '29)
Help yourself to happiness. Adams, F. R. (N '29)
Henry VIII, king of England
Hackett, F. Henry the Eighth. (My '29)
Wood, C. King Henry the rake. (Je '29)
Henry the Eighth. Hackett, F. (My '29)
Her serene highness. Brooks, C. (Ag '29)
Her son. Fuller, M. W. (Ap '29)
Heraclitus. Betts, E. (Je '29)
Heraldry
Scott-Giles, G. W. Romance of heraldry. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Herbert Hoover. Irwin, W. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Heredity
Altenburg, E. How we inherit. (Je '29)
Popenoe, P. B. Child's heredity. (N '29)
Schmucker, S: C. Heredity and parenthood. (N '29)
Heredity and parenthood. Schmucker, S: C. (N '29)
Heritage, Martin, pseud. See Horler, S.
Herman Melville. Mumford, L: (My '29)
Hermes. Jones, T: W: (D '29)
Hermit thrush. Millay, K. (Je '29)
Hero in thy soul. Gossip, A. J: (D '29)
Herodotus; ed. by Gordon King. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Heroes
Lehman, B: H. Carlyle's theory of the hero. (Je '29)
Heroic life of Saint Vincent de Paul. Lavedan, H. L. E. (N '29)
Herrick, Myron Timothy
Mott, T: B. Myron T. Herrick, (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Herzogin Cecilie (clipper-ship)
Villiers, A. J. Falmouth for orders. (Je '29)
Hess, Lawrence Cuthbert. See Cuthbert, Father.
Hibernia. Waller, B. C. (S '29)
Hidden hand. Daly, C. J: (N '29)
Hidden woman. Hay, J. (My '29)
Hide in the dark. Hart, F. (O '29)
High falcon. Adams, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
High hazard. Watson, R. (Ag '29)
High walls. Tuckerman, A. (S '29)
High wind in Jamaica. Eng title of Innocent voyage. Hughes, R: (Je '29)
Himalaya mountains
Easton, J: Unfrequented highway. (Mr '29)
Roerich, N. K. Altai-Himalaya. (Ag '29)
Himself and Mr. Raikes. Eng title of Man who pretended. Maxwell, W: B. (D '29)
Hindu fables. Mukerji, D. G. (O '29)
Hinduism
Saunders, K. J. Gospel for Asia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hine, Muriel. See Coxon, M.
His career and writings. Johnson, S: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
His Majesty. Granville-Barker, H. G. (Ap '29)
His wife's romance. Chambrun, C. de. (D '29)
Historia regum Britanniæ. Geoffrey of Monmouth. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Historic development of logic. Enriques, F. (N '29)
Historical introduction to modern psychology. Murphy, G. (S '29)
Historical readings in nineteenth century thought. Hall, W. P., and Beller, E. A., eds. (O '29)
History
Dictionaries
Fogg, W. One thousand sayings of history. (My '29)
Historiography
Salmon, L. M. Why is history rewritten? (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Philosophy
Cowan, A. R. War in world-history. (N '29)
Heard, G. Ascent of humanity. (O '29)
Spengler, O. Decline of the West, v 2. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
History, Ancient
Cambridge ancient history, v 7. (Je '29)
Smith, G. E. Human history. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Weigall, A. E: P. B. Personalities of antiquity. (Ag '29)
History, Universal
Davies, H. A. Outline history of the world. (Mr '29)
History and development of advertising. Presbrey, F. S. (S '29)
History of a crime against the food law. Wiley, H. W. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
History of British civilization. Wingfield-Stratford, E. C. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
History of Canada. Wittke, C. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
History of Christian missions in China. Latourette, K. S. (My '29)
History of Christianity in the light of modern knowledge. (S '29)
History of costume. Kohler, C. (Ag '29)
History of Egg Pandervil. Bullett, G. W: (S '29)

History of Egypt. Baikie, J. (D '29)
History of England. Lunt, W: E: (Ag '29)
History of European diplomacy, 1451-1789. Mowat, R. B. (My '29)
History of financial speculation. Mottram, R. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
History of garden art. Gothein, M. L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
History of government. Eng title of Story of government. Petrie, C: A. (O '29)
History of Greece. Robinson, C. E: (N '29)
History of Italy, 1871-1915. Croce, B. (O '29)
History of manufactures in the United States. Clark, V: S. (N '29)
History of Maryland. Andrews, M. P. (Ag '29)
History of mechanical inventions. Usher, A. P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
History of nationalism in the East. Kohn, H. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
History of political thought in the sixteenth century. Allen, J: W: (Mr '29)
History of psychology. Pillsbury, W. B. (N '29)
History of Russia. Vernadskii, G. V. (O '29)
History of the American nation. West, W. M. (N '29)
History of the devil. Thompson, R. L. (Je '29)
History of the English people; epilogue, v 1. Halévy, E. (S '29)
History of the Far East in modern times. Vinacke, H. M. (Mr '29)
History of the Medical department of the United States army. Ashburn, P. M. (S '29)
History of the United States. Martin, A. E. (N '29)
Hitty. Field, R. L. (D '29)
Hobby house. Neale, R. (Je '29)
Hobnails and heather. Lisle, C. (Je '29)
Hobnails in Eden. Schauffler, R. H. (Ag '29)

Hohenzollern, House of
Eulenberg, H. Hohenzollerns. (My '29)
Hohenzollerns. Eulenberg, H. (My '29)
Holiday. Barry, P. (S '29)
Holiday Pond. Patch, E. M. (O '29)

Holidays

Poetry

Carnegie library school association. Our holidays in poetry. (O '29)
Holier than thou. Ayres, C. E. (My '29)
Holland. Bowen, M., pseud. (Ag '29)
Hollywood girl. McEvoy, J. P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Holmes, Gordon, pseud. See Tracy, L:
Holy cities of Arabia. Rutter, E. (D '29)
Holyrood. Hamilton, W: H., ed. (S '29)

Home
Fiske, G: W. Changing family. (My '29)
Norris, K. Home. (My '29)

Home economics
Frederick, C. Selling Mrs Consumer. (N '29)
Goodman of Paris (Le ménagier de Paris). (My '29)
Home life in history. Gloag, J:, and Walker, C. T. (Ap '29)
Home of nymphs and vampires. Horton, G: (Je '29)
Homeplace. Chapman, M. (O '29)
Hooch! Coe, C: F. (Je '29)

Hood, John Bell
Hay, T: R. Hood's Tennessee campaign. (O '29)
Hood's Tennessee campaign. Hay, T: R. (O '29)

Hook, Theodore Edward
Brightfield, M. F. Theodore Hook and his novels. (Ap '29)

Hoover, Herbert Clark
Irwin, W. Herbert Hoover. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Hope, Edward, pseud. See Coffey, E: H.

Hopi Indians
Applegate, F. G. Indian stories from the Pueblos. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Horace Walpole and Madame Du Deffand. De Koven, A. (Ja '30 )(1929 Annual)

Horn, Alfred Aloysius, pseud. (Alfred Aloysius Smith)
Horn, A. A., pseud. Waters of Africa. (S '29)

Hornby, Sir Edmund Grimani
Hornby, E. G. An autobiography. (My '29)

Horsemanship
Brooke, G. F. H. Way of a man with a horse. (O '29)

Horses

Legends and stories

Brand, M. Mistral. (O '29)
Horses in the sky. Barretto, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Hotels, restaurants, etc.

Management

Dahl, J. O. Selling public hospitality. (D '29)

Houghton, Claude, pseud. See Oldfield, C. H.

Hounds
Thomas, J. B. Hounds and hunting through the ages. (S '29)
Hounds and hunting through the ages. Thomas, J. B. (S '29)
Houp la! Garstin, C. (O '29)
Hour of American history. Morison, S: E. (S '29)
Hour of American poetry. Russell, C: E: (S '29)
Hour on health. Fishbein, M. (O '29)
Hour upon the stage. Pinchot, A. (D '29)
Hour with American music. Rosenfeld, P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hour with the movies and the talkies. Seldes, G. V. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

House, Edward Mandell
House, E: M. Intimate papers of Colonel House. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Macphail, A. Three persons. (Ag '29)

House decoration
Jackson, A. F. and B. Study of interior decoration. (Ag '29)
Palmer, L. Your house. (My '29)
Todd, D., and Mortimer, R. New interior decoration. (S '29)
House divided. Horler, S. (N '29)
House in Tuesday market. Fletcher, J. S. (Ap '29)
A house is built. Eldershaw, M. B., pseud. (N '29)
House of gold. O'Flaherty, L. (N '29)
House of joy. Ammers-Küller, J. van. (O '29)
House of memories. Wilson, B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
House of the two green eyes. Chalmers, S. (Ap '29)
House of Wingate. Eng title of House divided. Horler, S. (N '29)
House on Tollard ridge. Street, C. J: C: (Ag '29)
House that shadows built [story of Adolph Zukor]. Irwin, W: H: (Ap '29)
House that whispered. Emery, S: (Ap '29)

Housing
Pink, L: H. New day in housing. (My '29)

Great Britain

Simon, E. D. How to abolish the slums. (O '29)

New York (city)

Pink, L: H. New day in housing. (My '29)

Houston, Samuel
James, M. The Raven; a biography of Sam Houston. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Fiction

Oskison, J: M. Texas Titan. (Ag '29)
Hovering shadow. Frost, E. (O '29)
How amusing! Mackail, D. (D '29)
How England is governed. Marriott, J: A. R. (Ap '29)
How like a god. Stout, R. (O '29)
How to abolish the slums. Simon, E. D. (O '29)
How to analyze costs. Maze, C. L., and Glover, J: G: (N '29)
How to be a hermit. Cuppy, W: J. (O '29)
How to do research in education. Good, C. V: (My '29)
How to see a play. Burton, R: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
How to study the city church. Douglass, H. P. (Ap '29)
How to turn people into gold. Goode, K. M. (D '29)
How we are governed. Eng title of How England is governed. Marriott, J: A. R. (Ap '29)

How we inherit. Altenburg, E. (Je '29)
How we lived then, 1914-1918. Peel, D. C. (S '29)
How women can make money. Croy, M. B. (N '29)
How you began. Williams-Ellis, A. (Je '29)
Howard, William James
Cossley-Batt, J. L. E. Last of the California rangers. (My '29)
Howe, Edgar Watson
Howe, E. W. Plain people. (My '29)
Howells, William Dean
Howells, W: D. Life in letters. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hows and whys of cooking. Halliday, E. G., and Noble, I. T. (Ap '29)
Hows and whys of human behavior. Dorsey, G: A. (Ap '29)
Hubbard, Kin, pseud. See Hubbard, F. M.
Hudson River bracketed. Wharton, E. N. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hügel, Friedrich, freiherr von
Hügel, F. Letters to a niece. (Ap '29)
Hull, Isaac
Hull, I: Commodore Hull. (N '29)
Human factors in cotton culture. Vance, R. B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Human history. Smith, G. E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Human nature and management. Tead, O (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Human side of science. Wilson, G. (D '29)
Humanism
McConnell, F. J: Humanism and Christianity. (O '29)
Humanism and Christianity. McConnell, F. J: (O '29)
Humanity of God. Buckham, J: W. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Humanity uprooted. Hindus, M. G. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
A humble Lear. Beers, L. D. (Ag '29)
Humdrum. Acton, H. M. M. (Ap '29)
Humdrum house. Gibbs, J. C. (Ap '29)
Humor
Cobb, I. S. Irvin Cobb at his best. (Je '29)
Cuppy, W: J. How to be a hermit. (O '29)
Ford, C. Salt water taffy. (S '29)
Graves, R. Mrs. Fisher. (Ag '29)
Herford, O. Excuse it, please. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Hubbard, F. M. Abe Martin's barbed wire. (Mr '29)
Hubbard, F. M. Abe Martin's town pump. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Knox, E. G: V., ed. Mr. Punch on the links. (O '29)
Leacock, S. B. The iron man & the tin woman. (F '30) (1929 Annual) Priestley, J: B. English humor. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Rogers, W. Ether and me. (N '29)
Sandwell, B. K. Privacity agent. (N '29)
Sullivan, F. Innocent bystanding. (Ag '29)
Thurber, J., and White, E. B. Is sex necessary? (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hundred years of Catholic emancipation (1829-1929). Gwynn, D. R. (Ag '29)
Hungary
Economic conditions
Pasvolsky, L. Economic nationalism of the Danubian states. (S '29)
Hunger strikes
Gallagher, F. Days of fear. (My '29)
Hunky. Williamson, T. (S '29)
Hunters of heaven. Wood, C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hunting
Andrews, R. C. Ends of the earth. (D '29)
Holland, R. P. My gun dogs. (D '29)
Parker, E., and others. Shooting by moor field, and shore, (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Thomas, J. B. Hounds and hunting through the ages. (S '29)
Abyssinia
MacCreagh, G. Last of free Africa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Africa
Akeley, M. L. Carl Akeley's Africa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Johnson, M. E. Lion. (Je '29)
Kittenberger, K. Big game hunting and collecting in East Africa, 1903-1926. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wells, C. In coldest Africa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Alaska
Hubback, T. R. To far western Alaska for big game. (N '29)
Arctic regions
Streeter, D. W. Arctic rodeo. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
California, Lower
Cudahy, J: Mañanaland. (Ap '29)
Siberia
Burnham, J: B. Rim of mystery. (Je '29)
Hunting of the buffalo. Branch, E: D. (My '29)
Hutchinson, Benjamin P.
Dies, E: J. The plunger [Benjamin P. Hutchinson]. (Ag '29)
Hydrogen
Clark, W: M. Determination of hydrogen ions. (My '29)
Hydromechanics
Herold, S. C. Analytical principles of the production of oil, gas, and water from wells. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hygiene
Andress, J. M., and others. Health essentials. (Ap '29)
Babson, R. W. Storing up triple reserves. (Je '29)
Fishbein, M. Hour on health. (O '29)
Gallichan, W. M. Youthful old age. (S '29)
Thomson, I. S. Good health. (Je '29)
Study and teaching
Brown, M. A. Teaching health in Fargo. (N '29)
Keene, C: H. Physical welfare of the school child. (N '29)
Hygiene, Public
Vedder, E: B. Medicine. (N '29)
Hypnotism
Hollander, B. Methods and uses of hypnosis and self-hypnosis. (Mr '29)

I discover Greece. Franck, H. A. (S '29)
I go a-traveling. Tippett, J. S. (D '29)
I like diving. Eadie, T. (Ag '29)
I saw it myself. Barbusse, H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
I thought of Daisy. Wilson, E. (O '29)
I was a bandit. Guerin, E. (Je '29)
I was sent to Athens. Morgenthau, H:, and Strother, F. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
"I will be good!" Calthrop, D. C. (D '29)
Ibsen, Henrik
Dobrée, B. Lamp and the lute. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Zucker, A. E. Ibsen, the master builder. (D '29)
Ibsen, the master builder. Zucker, A. E. (D '29)
Ice-bound. Ashton, J. M. (Ap '29)
Ida Brandt. Bang, H. J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Idealism
Brightman, E. S. Philosophy of ideals. (My '29)
Idolaters. Collins, D. (O '29)
The idols. Binyon, L. (S '29)
Idols behind altars. Brenner, A. (N '29)
If I could preach just once. (Ag '29)
If I had only one sermon to preach. Marchant, J., ed. (Ap '29)
If parents only knew. Cleveland, E. (S '29)
Illinois college. Rammelkamp, C: H: (My '29)
Illumination of books and manuscripts
Goldschmidt, A. German illumination. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Illusion. Train, A. C. (Ag '29)
Illustration of books
Modern book production. (Je '29)
Images in jade. Christy, A., tr. (Je '29)
Imaginary wars and battles
Maurois, A. Next chapter. (Ap '29)
Imagination
Downey, J. E. Creative imagination. (Ag '29)
Immigrant farmers and their children. Brunner, E. de S. (S '29)
Immigration law
Mears, E. G. Resident Orientals on the American Pacific coast. (Ag '29)
Immortal lover. Steuart, J: A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Immortality
Black, H. Adventure of being man. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lodge, O. J. Why I believe in personal immortality. (Ap '29)
Lyman, E. W: Meaning of selfhood and faith in immortality. (Je '29)
Strong, S. D., ed. We believe in immortality. (My 29)
Imperfect lover. Gore-Browne, R. (N '29)
Imperial dollar. Motherwell, H. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Imperial federation
Baker, P. J: N. Present juridical status of the British dominions in international law. (D '29)
Impotence of man (L'homme impuissant). Richet, C: R. (N '29)
Impressionism (art)
Raynal, M. Modern French painters. (Ap '29)
Impressions of soviet Russia and the revolutionary world. Dewey, J: (Je '29)
The impuritans. Wickham, H. (My '29)
Impurities in metals. Smithells, C. J. (My '29)
In cabins and sod-houses. Macbride, T: H. (Je '29)
In chains. Eng title of Chains. Delmont, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
In coldest Africa. Wells, C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
In Java. Van Dyke, J: C: (My '29)
In Princeton town. Edgar, D. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
In quest of truth and justice. Barnes, H. E. (My '29)
In the clutches of the Tcheka. Cederholm, B. (D '29)
In the evening of my thought. Clemenceau, G. E. B: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
In the imperial shadow. Saghaphi, M. K. (Ap '29)
In the land of Cockaigne. Mann, H. (Je '29)
In the reign of Rothstein. Clarke, D. H. (D '29)
In the service of youth. Opdycke, J: B. (Je '29)
In the wilderness. Undset, S. (N '29)
In the Zoo. Blair, W: R. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
In those days. Fergusson, H. (Mr '29)
Incas
Verrill, A. H. Old civilizations of the New world. (S '29)
Income tax
United States
Klein, J. J. Federal income taxation. (D '29)
Incomes and living costs of a university faculty. Henderson, Y., and Davie, M. R., eds. (My '29)
Incomplete mariner. Nason, L. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Inconsistent villains. Temple-Ellis, N. A. (Ag '29)
Incredible marquis, Alexandre Dumas. Gorman, H. S. (O '29)
Incredible year. Cuthrell, F. (N '29)
Index numbers (economics)
Persons, W. M. Construction of index numbers. (D '29)
Index to short stories; supplement. Firkins, I. T. E., comp. (D '29)
India
Minney, R. J. Shiva. (D '29)
Description and travel
Bradley, M. Trailing the tiger. (S '29)
King, D: W. Living East. (D '29)
Powell, E: A. Last home of mystery. (Je '29)
Wright, E. Great horn spoon. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Economic conditions
Garratt, G. T. An Indian commentary. (N '29)
Lājpat, R. Unhappy India. (Mr '29)
Woolacott, J: E. India on trial. (Je '29)
History
Cambridge history of India, v 3. (N '29)
Zimand, S. Living India. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Politics and government
Garratt, G. T. An Indian commentary. (N '29)
Lawrence, W. R. India we served. (S '29)
Ray, P. C. Life and times of C. R. Das. (N '29)
Ronaldshay, L. J: L. D. Life of Lord Curzon, v 3. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Religion
Zimand, S. Living India. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Social conditions
Field, H. H. After Mother India. (N '29)
Garratt, G. T. An Indian commentary. (N '29)
Lājpat, R. Unhappy India. (Mr '29)
Mayo, K. Slaves of the gods. (Je '29)
Williams, G. L. Understanding India. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Woolacott, J: E. India on trial. (Je '29)
Zimand, S. Living India. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Social life and customs
Lawrence, W. R. India we served. (S '29)
Powell, E: A. Last home of mystery. (Je '29)
Williams, G. L. Understanding India. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
India on trial. Woolacott, J: E. (Je '29)
India we served. Lawrence, W. R. (S '29)
An Indian commentary. Garratt, G. T. (N '29)
Indian earth. Bynner, W. (O '29)
Indian stories from the Pueblos. Applegate, F. G. (F '30) (1929 Annual) Indians
Antiquities
Verrill, A. H. Old civilizations of the New world. (S '29)
Culture
Verrill, A. H. Old civilizations of the New world. (S '29)
Origin
Macleod, W: C. American Indian frontier. (Mr '29)
Indians of Mexico
Brenner, A. Idols behind altars. (N '29)
Indians of North America
Buffalo Child Long Lance (Siksika chief). Long Lance. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Greenbie, S. Frontiers and the fur trade. (My '29)
Commerce
Crane. V. W. Southern frontier, 1670-1732. (N '29)
History
Macleod, W: C. American Indian frontier. (Mr '29)
Legends
Applegate, F. G. Indian stories from the Pueblos. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Seymour, F. W. Story of the red man. (N '29)
Thompson, S., ed. Tales of the North American Indians. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wood, C: E. S. Book of tales. (N '29)
Pottery
Bunzel, R. L. Pueblo potter. (D '29)
Wars
Grinnell, G: B. Two great scouts and their Pawnee battalion. (S '29)
Rister, C. C. Southwestern frontier—1865-1881. (N '29)

Indians of North America—Continued

Arizona

Coolidge, M. E. B. Rain-makers. (My '29)

New Mexico

Coolidge, M. E. B. Rain-makers. (My '29)
Crane, L. Desert drums. (Ap '29)

Indians of South America
Dickey, H. S., and Daniel, H. Misadventures of a tropical medico. (D '29)

History

Macleod, W: C. American Indian frontier. (Mr '29)

Individual psychology. Wexberg, E. (N '29)

Individualism
Benn, E. J: P. Return to laisser faire. (S '29)
Heard, G. Ascent of humanity. (O '29)

Indo-China, French

Description and travel

Bradley, M. Trailing the tiger. (S '29)

Industrial and commercial correspondence. Hamilton, A. (Ap '29)

Industrial arts
Wisehart, M. K: Marvels of science. (My '29)

Biography

Holland, M., and Pringle, H: F. Industrial explorers. (Je '29)

Industrial carbon. Mantell, C: L. (Je '29)
Industrial chemistry. Riegel, E. R. (My '29)
Industrial development of Searles Lake brines. Teeple, J: E. (O '29)
Industrial efficiency and social economy. Senior, N. W: (My '29)
Industrial explorers. Holland, M., and Pringle, H: F. (Je '29)
Industrial organization and management. Cornell, W: B. (S '29)
Industrial psychology. Myers, C: S:, ed. (N '29)

Industrial relations
Clay, H: Problem of industrial relations. (S '29)

Industry
Colbourne, M. D. Unemployment or war. (Ap '29)
Ford, H: My philosophy of industry. (Ap '29)
Johnston, G: A. Citizenship in the industrial world. (My '29)
Lippincott, I: Economic resources and industries of the world. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Taylor, H. Making goods and making money. (Ap '29)

Industry and state
Humphrey, A. W. Modern case for socialism. (My '29)

Russia

Russia (U. S. S. R.). Soviet union looks ahead. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Zagorskii, S. O. State control of industry in Russia during the war. (Ag '29)

Inexhaustible Cup. Shmelev, I. S. (Mr '29)
Infancy and human growth. Gesell, A. L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Infants
Bernfeld, S. Psychology of the infant. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Inferiority feeling. Walsh, W: S. (Mr '29)
Infidels and heretics. Darrow, C. S., and Rice, W. de G. C., comps. (O '29)

Inland navigation
Clowes, E. S. Shipways to the sea. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Daggett, S. Principles of inland transportation. (My '29)

Innocent accomplice. Reynolds, G. M. (My '29)
Innocent bystanding. Sullivan, F. (Ag '29)
Innocent voyage. Hughes, R: A. W. (Je '29)
Inorganic chemical technology. Badger, W. L., and Baker, E. M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Insane hospitals
Owen, E. D. Pick up the pieces. (Je '29)

Insanity
White, W: A. Lectures in psychiatry. (Ap '29)

Insects
Hingston, R: W: G: Instinct and intelligence. (Ag '29)

Insects as carriers of contagion
Torrance, A. Tracking down the enemies of man. (S '29)

The insider. Parsons, A. (My '29)
Inspector Frost's jigsaw. Smith, H. M. (N '29)

Instinct
Hingston, R: W: G: Instinct and intelligence. (Ag '29)

Instinct and intelligence. Hingston, R: W: G: (Ag '29)

Instrumental music

Instruction and study

Bonner, M. G. Magic music shop. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Insurance, State and compulsory
McCahan, D: State insurance in the United States. (O '29)

Insurance, Unemployment
Selekman, B. M. and S. British industry today. (O '29)

Intellect
Claremont, C. A. Intelligence and mental growth. (Mr '29)
Patrick, G: T: W. What is the mind? (Ag '29)
Russell, B. A. W: Sceptical essays. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

The intellect is a brute. Ordway, S: H. (Ag '29)

Intellectual life
Huddleston, S. Paris salons, cafés, studios. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Intellectuals
Benda, J. Treason of the intellectuals (La trahison des clercs). (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Intelligence and mental growth. Claremont, C. A. (Mr '29)
Intelligence tests. Dearborn, W. F. (Je '29)
Intelligent living. Riggs, A. F. (S '29)
Intelligent man's guide to marriage and celibacy. Tanner, J., pseud. (O '29)
Intercolonial aspects of American culture on the eve of the revolution. Kraus, M. (Ap '29)
Interlude (Frauenraub). Thiess, F. (Ag '29)
International arbitration, from Athens to Locarno. Ralston, J. H. (S '29)

International cooperation
Cecil of Chelwood, E. A. R. G.-C. Way of peace. (Ag '29)
Institute of Pacific relations. Problems of the Pacific. (Mr '29)
Lorwin L: L. Labor and internationalism. (Ag '29)

Congresses

Dunn, F: S. Practice and procedure of international conferences. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hill, N. L. Public international conference. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

International economic relations. Donaldson, J: (Je '29)

International federation
Wells, H. G: Open conspiracy. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

International federation of trade unions
Lorwin, L: L. Labor and internationalism. (Ag '29)

International labor organization
National industrial conference board. Work of the International labor organization. (O '29)

International law and relations
Baker, P. J: N. Present juridical status of the British dominions in international law. (D '29)
Donaldson, J: International economic relations. (Je '29)
Eagleton, C. Responsibility of states in international law. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Higgins, A. P. Studies in international law and relations. (S '29)
Offutt, M. Protection of citizens abroad by the armed forces of the United States. (N '29)

Pergler, C: Judicial interpretation of international law in the United States. (S '29)
Rodick, B. C. Doctrine of necessity in international law. (My '29)
Toynbee, A. J. Survey of international affairs, 1926. (Ag '29)

Cases
Dickinson, E. DeW. Selection of cases and other readings on the law of nations. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

History
Butler, G. G., and Maccoby, S. Development of international law. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Ralston, J. H. International arbitration, from Athens to Locarno. (S '29)

International trade in staple commodities. Pratt, E: E. (My '29)
Interpretation of Genesis. Powys, T. F. (N '29)
Interpretation of religion. Baillie, J: (Ag '29)

Interstate commerce
Reynolds, G: G. Distribution of power to regulate interstate carriers between the nation and the states. (Mr '29)

Intervention
Offutt, M. Protection of citizens abroad by the armed forces of the United States. (N '29)
Intimate journal. Sand, G:, pseud. (Ag '29)
Intimate letters. Schurz, C. (N '29)
Intimate papers of Colonel House. House, E: M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Into the wind. Hatch, R: W. (Ag '29)
Introduction to advertising illustration. Aymar, G. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Introduction to agricultural economics. Yoder, F. R. (N '29)
Introduction to American economic history. Jennings, W. W. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Introduction to Dutch art. Wilenski, R. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Introduction to social work. O'Grady, J: (Mr '29)
Introduction to the study of society. Hankins, F. H. (Ap '29)
Introductory theoretical chemistry. Cartledge, G. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Inventions
Chase, S. Men and machines. (S '29)
Leeming, J. Peaks of invention. (Je '29)
Van Loon, H. W. Man, the miracle maker. (Mr '29)

History
Usher, A. P. History of mechanical inventions. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Inventors
Holland, M., and Pringle, H: F. Industrial explorers. (Je '29)
Investment policies that pay. Vance, R. (N '29)

Investment trusts
Fowler, J: F. American investment trusts. (Je '29)

Investments
Badger, R. E. Badger on investment principles and practices. (S '29)
Cassel, G., and others. Foreign investments. (Je '29)
Rose, D. C. Scientific approach to investment management. (Je '29)
Vance, R. Investment policies that pay. (N '29)

Invisible web. Ashton-Wolfe, H., and Locard, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Invitation to danger. Stanford, A. B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Invitation to the dance. Jenison, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Ions
Clark, W: M. Determination of hydrogen ions. (My '29)

Iowa
Social life and customs
Macbride, T: H. In cabins and sod-houses. (Je '29)

Ireland
Byrne, D. Ireland. (S '29)
Waller, B. C. Hibernia. (S '29)

Church history
Gwynn, D. R. Struggle for Catholic emancipation (1750-1829). (Je '29)

History
Healy, T. M. Letters and leaders of my day. (Ap '29)

Sinn Fein rebellion
Gallagher, F. Days of fear. (My '29)

Politics and government
O'Connor, T: P. Memoirs of an old parliamentarian. (S '29)

Ireland. Byrne, D. (S '29)

Iris (plant)
Rockwell, F: F. Irises. (S '29)

Irises. Rockwell, F: F. (S '29)

Irish drama
Malone, A. E. Irish drama. (N '29)

Iron-founding
Hartley, L. A., ed. Elementary foundry technology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

The iron man & the tin woman. Leacock, S. B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Iron mines and mining
De Kruif, P. Seven iron men. (N '29)

Irrigation
Alexander, J. A. Life of George Chaffey. (O '29)

Irvin Cobb at his best. Cobb, I. S. (Je '29)
Is sex necessary? Thurber, J., and White, E. B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Is this Wilson? Scott, C. A. (Ap '29)
Isadora Duncan. Genthe, A. (Ag '29)
Isadora Duncan's Russian days. Duncan, I., and MacDougall, A. R. (Ap '29)
Island of Articoles. Eng title of Voyage to the island of Articoles. Maurois, A. (Mr '29)
Islanders. Eng title of The way it was with them. O'Donnell, P. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Islands
England, G: A. Isles of romance. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Islands of the Ægean
Horton, G: Home of nymphs and vampires. (Je '29)

Isles of romance. England, G: A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Israel after the exile. Lofthouse, W: F: (Je '29)
Isthmian highway. Miller, H. G. (S '29)

Italia (air-ship)
Giudici, D. Tragedy of the Italia. (Ap '29)
Lundborg, E. P. A. M. Arctic rescue. (Je '29)
Parijanine, M. The Krassin. (Ap '29)

Italian fairy tales. Capuana, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Italian pleasure gardens. Nichols, R. S. (Je '29)

Italy
Antiquities
Randall-MacIver, D: Italy before the Romans. (Je '29)

Description and travel
Ashby, T: Some Italian scenes and festivals. (O '29)
Gordon-Barrett, R: R. Motoring in Italy. (Ap '29)
Montaigne, M. E. de. Diary of Montaigne's journey to Italy in 1580 and 1581. (S '29)
Nichols, R. S. Italian pleasure gardens. (Je '29)
Schoonmaker, F. Come with me through Italy. (D '29)

Economic conditions
Hullinger, E. W. New fascist state. (Je '29)

Fascist movement
Hearley, J: Pope or Mussolini. (S '29)
Schneider, H. W. Making the Fascist state (Ap '29)
Villari, L. Italy. (N '29)

History
Croce, B. History of Italy, 1871-1915. (O '29)
Villari, L. Italy. (N '29)

Politics and government
Hullinger, E. W. New fascist state. (Je '29)
Villari, L. Italy. (N '29)

Italy. Villari, L. (N '29)
Italy before the Romans. Randall-MacIver, D: (Je '29)
'It's a great war!' Lee, M. (D '29)
It's not our fault. Hall-Quest, A. L. (Ag '29)

J. M. Barrie. Darton, F: J. H. (Je '29)
J. Ramsay MacDonald. Tiltman, H. H. (N '29)
Jack-knife cookery. Wilder, J. A. (O '29)
Jack Sprat. Campbell, I. (D '29)

Jackson, Andrew
Karsner, D: Andrew Jackson. (My '29)

Fiction

Clark, E. H. Strength of the hills. (Ag '29)
Jacob H. Schiff. Schiff, J. H: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Jade
Grantham, A. E. Porcelain pagodas and palaces of jade. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Jade mountain. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Jamaica

Social life and customs

Beckwith, M. W. Black roadways. (O '29)

James bay
North, R. C. Bob North by canoe and portage. (Mr '29)
James Ford Rhodes. Howe, M. A. De W. (Je '29)
James Gordon Bennetts. Seitz, D. C. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
James Wolfe, man and soldier. Waugh, W: T. (My '29)
Jane and Jerry. Whiteman, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Jane's father. Aldis, D. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Japan

Court and courtiers

Sei Shonagon. Pillow-book. (My '29)

Foreign relations

Matsushita, M. Japan in the League of nations. (D '29)
Treat, P. J. Far East. (Ag '29 (1928 Annual)

History

Young, A. M. Japan in recent times, 1912-1926. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Politics and government

Kitazawa, N. Government of Japan. (Je '29)
Young, A. M. Japan in recent times, 1912-1926. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Social life and customs

Haring, D. G. Land of gods and earthquakes. (O '29)
Sei Shonagon. Pillow-book. (My '29)
Yamata, K. The shoji. (Ag '29)

Japan in recent times, 1912-1926. Young, A. M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Japan in the League of nations. Matsushita, M. (D '29)

Japanese drama
Lombard, F. A. Outline history of the Japanese drama. (My '29)
Japanese gardens. Taylour, H. O. (Ap '29)

Japanese in California
Mears, E. G. Resident Orientals on the American Pacific coast. (Ag '29)

Java

Description and travel

Van Dyke, J: C: In Java. (My '29)

Jazz
Spaeth, S. G. They still sing of love. (N '29)
Jealous gods. Atherton, G. F. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Jefferson, Thomas
Chinard, G. Thomas Jefferson. (D '29)
Jefferson, T: Literary Bible of Thomas Jefferson. (N '29)
Lindsay, V. Litany of Washington street. (Je '29)
Minnigerode, M. Jefferson, friend of France, 1793. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Jefferson Davis. Tate, A. (N '29)
Jefferson, friend of France, 1793. Minnigerode, M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Jefferson secret. Blaker, R: (S '29)

Jeffreys, George Jeffreys, 1st baron
Parry, E: A. Bloody assize. (S '29)
Jehovah's day. Borden, M. (My '29)

Jeremiah, the prophet
Welch, A. C. Jeremiah, his time and his work. (Ag '29)
Jeremiah, his time and his work. Welch, A. C. (Ag '29)

Jerome, Owen Fox, pseud. See Friend, O. J.

Jesus Christ
Bates, E. S. Friend of Jesus. (Ag '29)
Bundy, W. E. Our recovery of Jesus. (Je '29)
Bundy, W. E. Religion of Jesus. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Cadman, S: P. Christ of God. (O '29)
Fiske, C:, and Easton, B. S. Real Jesus. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Gore, C: Christ and society. (Mr '29)
Gore, C: Jesus of Nazareth. (Ag '29)
Keable, R. Great Galilean. (My '29)
Kirkland, W. M. Great conjecture. (N '29)
Merrifield, F. Rediscovery of Jesus. (D '29)
Powys, L. Cradle of God. (D '29)
Riddle, D. W. Jesus and the Pharisees. (Mr '29)
Rittelmeyer, F. Behold the man. (D '29)
Weigall, A. E: P. B. Paganism in our Christianity. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Biography

Bowie, W. R. The master. (Mr '29)
Marnas, M. Who is then this man? (S '29)
Norwood, R. W. Man who dared to be God. (D '29)

Juvenile literature

Ball, E. Story Peter told. (N '29)

Teaching

McCown, C. C. Genesis of the social gospel. (S '29)
Mathews, S. Jesus on social institutions. (Mr '29)

Words

Dalman, G. H. Jesus-Jeshua. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Jesus and the Pharisees. Riddle, D. W. (Mr '29)
Jesus-Jeshua. Dalman, G. H. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Jesus of Nazareth. Gore, C: (Ag '29)
Jesus on social institutions. Mathews, S. (Mr '29)

Jewett, Sarah Orne
Matthiessen, F. O: Sarah Orne Jewett. (Je '29)
Jewish influence in modern thought. Roback, A. A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Jewish music in its historical development. Idelsohn, A. Z. (O '29)

Jewish question
Landman, I:, ed. Christian and Jew. (Ag '29)

Jews
Wirth, L: The ghetto. (My '29)

Biography

Roback, A. A. Jewish influence in modern thought. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wise, J. W. Jews are like that! (Mr '29)

History

Kellett, E. E: Short history of the Jews. (N '29)
Kittel, R. Great men and movements in Israel. (S '29)
Lofthouse, W: F: Israel after the exile. (Je '29)
McCown, C. C. Genesis of the social gospel. (S '29)
Tharaud, J. and J. Chosen people. (My '29)

Liturgy and ritual

Idelsohn, A. Z. Jewish music in its historical development. (O '29)

Political and social conditions
Wirth, L: The ghetto. (My '29)

Religion
Heidel, W: A. Day of Yahweh. (S '29)
Kohler, K. Origins of the synagogue and the church. (Je '29)

Restoration
Kallen, H. M. Frontiers of hope. (S '29)

Rites and ceremonies
Heidel, W: A. Day of Yahweh. (S '29)
Kohler, K. Origins of the synagogue and the church. (Je '29)

Social life and customs
Tharaud, J. and J. Chosen people. (My '29)
Jews are like that! Wise, J. W. (Mr '29)

Jews in Chicago
Wirth, L: The ghetto. (My '29)

Jews in Europe
Tharaud, J. and J. Chosen people. (My '29)

Jews in literature
Kunitz, J. Russian literature and the Jew. (O '29)

Jews in Palestine
Samuel, M. What happened in Palestine. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Jews in Poland
Kallen, H. M. Frontiers of hope. (S '29)

Jews in Russia
Kallen, H. M. Frontiers of hope. (S '29)
Levin, S. Childhood in exile. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Jews in the United States
Kohut, R. As I know them. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wise, J. W. Jews are like that! (Mr '29)
Jim the conqueror. Kyne, P: B. (D '29)
Joan Kennedy. Channon, H: (S '29)

Jobbers
Sprague, J. R. Middleman. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Joe Pete. McClinchey, F. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
John Brown. Warren, R. P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
John Cameron's odyssey. Cameron, J: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
John D. Winkler, J: K. (S '29)
John Galsworthy. Schalit, L. (S '29)
John Gay's London. Irving, W: H: (Je '29)

John Henry
Johnson, G. B. John Henry; tracking down a negro legend. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
John Jacob Astor. Smith, A. D. H. (Je '29)
John Knox. Muir, E. (O '29)
John Mitchell, miner. Glück, E. (Je '29)
John Quixote. Scoggins, C: E. (O '29)
John Smith—also Pocahontas. Fletcher, J: G. (Mr '29)
John Wesley. Lipsky, A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
John Wesley. Lunn, A. H: M. (Je '29)
John Wesley among the scientists. Collier, F. W. (My '29)
John Wilkes Booth. Wilson, F. (My '29)
Johnny Appleseed. Lindsay, V. (Ap '29)
Johnny Reb. Oemler, M. (D '29)

Johnson, Andrew
Bowers, C. G. Tragic era. (O '29)
Clemenceau, G. E. B: American reconstruction, 1865-1870, and the impeachment of President Johnson. (Mr '29)
Stryker, L. P. Andrew Johnson. (Ag '29)

Johnson, Samuel
Hollis, C. Dr Johnson. (My '29)
Roscoe, E: S. Aspects of Doctor Johnson. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Salpeter, H. Dr. Johnson & Mr. Boswell. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Johnson, Samuel, 1696-1772
Johnson, S: His career and writings. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Joining Charles. Bowen, E. (D '29)
Jolly tailor. Borski, L. M., and Miller, K. B., comps. and trs. (Mr '29)

Jørgensen, Johannes
Jørgensen, J. Autobiography, v 2. (S '29)
Joris of the Rock. Barringer, L. (Ap '29)
Joscelyn of the forts. Crownfield, G. (O '29)
Joseph & his brethren. Freeman, H. W. (Mr '29)
Joseph Warren Fordney. Russell, J: A. (My '29)

Journalism
Brown, B. O. Problems of newspaper publishing. (D '29)
Bush, C. R. Newspaper reporting of public affairs. (S '29)
Shaaber, M. A. Some forerunners of the newspaper in England, 1476-1622. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Journey's end. Sherriff, R. C. (Ag '29)
Jouvenel, Mme Gabrielle Claudine (Colette) de. See Colette, pseud.
Joy in work. Man, H. de. (N '29)
Joys of forgetting. Shepard, O. (My '29)

Judas Iscariot
Bates, E. S. Friend of Jesus. (Ag '29)
Judicial interpretation of international law in the United States. Pergler, C: (S '29)
Judith Silver. Bolitho, H. (My '29)

Judson, Adoniram
Fiction
Morrow, H. Splendor of God. (O '29)
Julia Elizabeth. Stephens, J. (S '29)
July '14. Ludwig, E. (D '29)
Jumping-off place. McNeely, M. (D '29)
Jungle gods. Von Hoffman, C. (Je '29)
Jungle meeting-pool. Skipper, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Juniper farm (Il etait quatre petits enfants). Bazin, R. (Ap '29)
Juniper Green. Keyes, M. W. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Jurisdiction
Masterson, W: E: Jurisdiction in marginal seas. (S '29)
Pergler, C: Judicial interpretation of international law in the United States. (S '29)
Jurisdiction in marginal seas. Masterson, W: E: (S '29)

Justice, Administration of
Moley, R. Politics and criminal prosecution. (Je '29)
Justice and administrative law. Robson, W: A. (Mr '29)

Juvenile delinquency
Healy, W:, and others. Reconstructing behavior in youth. (S '29)
Thomas, W: I: and D. S. Child in America. (My '29)
Truxal, A. G. Outdoor recreation legislation and its effectiveness. (D '29)

Juvenile literature. See Children's literature

Kaleidoscope. Farjeon, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Kamerun
Description and travel
Gide, A. P. G. Travels in the Congo. (Je '29)
Karl Marx. Rühle, O: (Ag '29)
Karoo, the kangaroo. Wiese, K. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Kasperle's adventures. Siebe, J. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Keeping mentally fit. Jastrow, J. (Je '29)
Keeping off the shelf. Whiffen, B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Keller, Helen Adams
Keller, H. A. Midstream. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Kent, Constance Emilie
Street, C. J: C: Case of Constance Kent. (My '29)
Kept woman. Delmar, V. (D '29)

Keverne, Richard, pseud. See Hosken, C. J. W.
Key to the Casa. Keck, M., and Orbison, O. (Ag '29)
Keys of England. Cook, W: V: (Ag '29)

Khmers
Casey, R. J. Four faces of Siva. (Ag '29)

Kif. Daviot, G. (My '29)
Kindred arts. Taft, H: W. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
King Henry the rake. Wood, C. (Je '29)
King murder. Jones, C: R. (Ag '29)
King of Melido. Peck, W. (Mr '29)
King of shadows. Yeo, M. (O '29)
King Spider [Louis XI, king of France]. Lewis, D. B. W. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
King who was a king. Wells, H. G: (Je '29)
King with three faces. Seiffert, M. A. (D '29)
Kingdom of God. Martínez Sierra, G. (My '29)
Kingdom of Lu. Magre, M. (Je '29)
Kings and rulers
Bibesco, M. L. Royal portraits. (My '29)
Kings, Churchills and statesmen. Hagberg, K. H. (Ag '29)
Kings of commerce. Bridges, T: C:, and Tiltman, H. H. (D '29)
Kings of England, 1066-1901. Mersey, C. B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) King's pleasure. Zeitlin, I. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Kirk, Sir John
Coupland, R. Kirk on the Zambesi. (Je '29)
Kirk on the Zambesi. Coupland, R. (Je '29)
Kitchen ranging. Adam, H. P. (N '29)
Kites
Hunt, L. L. 25 kites that fly. (D '29)
Kivi, Alexis, pseud. See Stenvall, A.
Knight's gambit. Pocock, G. N. (S '29)
Knights of Charlemagne. Echols, U. W. (Je '29)
Knights of labor
Ware, N. J. Labor movement in the United States, 1860-1895. (Je '29)
Knights of the air. Maitland, L. J. (O '29)
Knock wood! Deerforth, D. (Mr '29)
Knowledge, Theory of
Claremont, C. A. Intelligence and mental growth. (Mr '29)
Dewey, J: Quest for certainty. (D '29)
Keyserling, H. A. Creative understanding. (Ag '29)
Keyserling, H. A Recovery of truth. (S '29)
Knox, John
Muir, E. John Knox. (O '29)
Kongo, Belgian
Flandrau, G. Then I saw the Congo. (O '29)
Lichtervelde, L: de. Léopold of the Belgians. (S '29)
Description and travel
Bradley, M. Alice in Elephantland. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Kowtow. Der Ling, princess. (D '29)
Krassin (ship)
Guidici, D. Tragedy of the Italia. (Ap '29)
Parijanine, M. The Krassin. (Ap '29)
Kronprinz Wilhelm (warship)
Niezychowski, A. von. Cruise of the Kronprinz Wilhelm. (S '29)
Kullu of the carts. Eyton, J: S. (S '29)
Kuyumjian, Dikran. See Arlen, M., pseud.

Labels & libels. Inge, W: R. (My '29)
Labor and automobiles. Dunn, R. W. (S '29)
Labor and farmer parties in the United States, 1828-1928. Fine, N. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Labor and internationalism. Lorwin, L: L. (Ag '29)
Labor and laboring classes
Johnston, G: A. Citizenship in the industrial world. (My '29)
Dwellings
Pink, L: H. New day in housing. (My '29)
Simon, E. D. How to abolish the slums. (O '29)
Poetry
Marcus, S., comp. and ed. Anthology of revolutionary poetry. (S '29)
Great Britain
Clay, H: Problem of industrial relations. (S '29)
Cole, G: D. H. Next ten years in British social and economic policy. (S '29)
Eden, F: M. State of the poor. (S '29)
Selekman, B. M. and S. British industry today. (O '29)
North Carolina
Herring, H. L. Welfare work in mill villages. (Je '29)
South
MacDonald, L. Southern mill hills. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
United States
Dunn, R. W. Labor and automobiles. (S '29)
Fine, N. Labor and farmer parties in the United States, 1828-1928. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Gemmill, P. F. Present-day labor relations. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Haywood, W: D. Bill Haywood's book. (Je '29)
Hutchins, G. Labor and silk. (S '29)
Lauck, W: J. New industrial revolution and wages. (Ag '29)
Phelps, G: H. Our biggest customer. (D '29)
Ware, N. J. Labor movement in the United States, 1860-1895. (Je '29)
Labor and silk. Hutchins, G. (S '29)
Labor camps
Canada
Bradwin, E. W: Bunkhouse man. (My '29)
Labor laws and legislation, International
National industrial conference board. Work of the International labor organization. (O '29)
Labor management. Hackett, J. D. (N '29)
Labor management. Watkins, G. S. (Ap '29)
Labor movement in the United States, 1860-1895. Ware, N. J. (Je '29)
Labor party (Belgium)
Piérard, L: Belgian problems since the war. (O '29)
Labor party (Great Britain)
Cole, G: D. H. Next ten years in British social and economic policy. (S '29)
Rayner, R. M. Story of trade unionism. (Je '29)
Labor speaks for itself on religion. Davis, J. D., ed. (O '29)
Laboratory manual of colloid chemistry. Holmes, H. N. (Mr '29)
Labrador
Hutton, S: K. Eskimo village. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Labrador looks at the Orient. Grenfell, W. T. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Labyrinth. Diamant, G. (Ag '29)
Lacquer and lacquering
Miskella, W: J. Practical automotive lacquering. (Ap '29)
Ladd-Franklin, Christine. See Franklin, C.
Ladder of folly. Coxon, M. (Je '29)
Ladies and gents. Caspary, V. (D '29)
Ladies in the rough. Collett, G., and Neville, J. M. (S '29)
Lady can do. Merwin, S: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lady Franklin Bay expedition
Brainard, D: L. Outpost of the lost. (Je '29)
The lady is cold. White, E. B. (O '29)
Lady of laws. Trautwein, S. G. (S '29)
Lafayette, Marie Joseph Paul Roch Yves Gilbert de Motier, marquis de
Penman, J: S. Lafayette and three revolutions. (Ag '29)
Whitlock, B. La Fayette. (N '29)
Lafayette and three revolutions. Penman, J: S. (Ag '29)
Lafayette in Virginia. Lafayette, M. J., marquis de. (Je '29)
Laissez-faire
Benn, E. J: P. Return to laisser faire. (S '29)
Lambs in March. Greene, A. (Ap '29)
Lamentations. Brody, A. (Mr '29)
Lamiel. Beyle, M. H. (Je '29)
Lamp and the lute. Dobrée, B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Lancelot
Lancelot. Sir Lancelot of the Lake. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Land
Dorau, H. B., and Hinman, A. G. Urban land economics. (Mr '29)
Land drainage and reclamation. Ayres, Q. C., and Scoates, D. (Je '29)
Land of dreams. Blake, W: (Je '29)
Land of gods and earthquakes. Haring, D. G. (O '29)
Land of the lama. MacDonald, D: (N '29)
Land tenure
Mexico
Tannenbaum, F. Mexican agrarian revolution. (Ag '29)
United States
Mears, E. G. Resident Orientals on the American Pacific coast. (Ag '29)
Landmarks. Bell, F. E. E. (O '29)
Landru, Henri Désiré
Mackenzie, F: A., ed. Landru. (S '29)
Landscape gardening
Bennett, J. M. Roadside development. (D '29)
Gothein, M. L. History of garden art. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Roberts, E. A., and Rehmann, E. American plants for American gardens. (Ag '29)
Lansdowne, Henry Charles Keith Petty-Fitzmaurice, 5th marquis
Newton, T: W. L. Life of the Marquess of Lansdowne. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Lark's fate. Owen, J: (O '29)
La Roncière, Emile François Guillaume Clément, comte de
Fiction
Aufricht-Ruda, H. Case for the defendant. (Ag '29)
Larsen, Johannes Anker-. See Anker-Larsen, J.
Laslett affair. Begbie, H. (Mr '29)
Last changes, last chances. Nevinson, H: W. (Mr '29)
The last enemy. Barry, I. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Last home of mystery. Powell, E: A. (Je '29)
Last nights of Paris. Soupault, P. (N '29)
Last of free Africa. MacCreagh, G. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Last of the California rangers. Cossley-Batt, J. L. E. (My '29)
The last September. Bowen, E. (Ap '29)
Last stand of the pack. Carhart, A. H., and Young, S. P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Last twelve years of Joseph Conrad. Curle, R: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Lastingham murder. Tracy, L: (My '29)
Later letters, 1864-1876. Stanley, A. F. E. (D '29)
Latin America and the United States. Stuart, G. H: (Je '29)
Latin literature
Conway, R. S. Harvard lectures on the Vergilian age. (Ap '29)
Latin literature, Medieval and modern
Foligno, C. Latin thought during the middle ages. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Latin thought during the middle ages. Foligno, C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Laughing Boy. La Farge, O. (D '29)
Laughing queen. Beck, L. (S '29)
The laughing string. Eng title of Mad fingers. Huntsman, H. (Ag '29)
Laura Bridgman. Richards, L. E. (Ap '29)
Laurenus Clark Seelye. Rhees, H. C. (Je '29)
Lava rock. Paul, E. H. (With his Low run tide). (D '29)
Law, John
Oudard, G. Amazing life of John Law. (Mr '29)
Law
History
Smith, M. Development of European law. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wigmore, J: H: Panorama of the world's legal systems. (My '29)
Reports and digests
Hervey, J: G. Legal effects of recognition in international law. (O '29)
Great Britain
Jenks, E: Book of English law. (S '29)
United States
Guild, J. Living with the law. (Ap '29)
Pergler, C: Judicial interpretation of international law in the United States. (S '29)
Law, Comparative
Wigmore, J: H: Panorama of the world's legal systems. (My '29)
Law, Germanic
Smith, M. Development of European law. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Law and order, ltd. Crichton, K. S. (Mr '29)
Law or war. Mead, L. T. (Ap '29)
Lawless hand. Le Queux, W: (My '29)
Lawns
Rockwell, F: F. Lawns. (O '29)
Lawrence, Thomas Edward
Macphail, A. Three persons. (Ag '29)
Laws of management applied to manufacturing. Alford, L. P. (S '29)
Lay confessor. Graham, S. (Ap '29)
Layman looks at doctors. Pierce, S. W., and J. T., pseuds. (D '29)
Layout in advertising. Dwiggins, W: A. (Ap '29)
Layton court mystery. Cox, A. B. (Je '29)
Leaders of the French revolution. Thompson, J. M. (Je '29)
Leading man. Vachell, H. A. (My '29)
League of nations
Bullard, A. American diplomacy in the modern world. (Ap '29)
Cecil of Chelwood, E. A. R. G.-C. Way of peace. (Ag '29)
Howard-Ellis, C: Origin, structure & working of the League of nations. (Je '29)
Madariaga, S. de. Disarmament. (Je '29)
Matsushita, M. Japan in the League of nations. (D '29)
Murray, G. Ordeal of this generation. (S '29)
Seabury, W: M. Motion picture problems. (N '29)
Learning and scholarship
Foerster, N. American scholar. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Learning to fly. Swoffer, F. A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Leaves from the notebook of a tamed cynic. Niebuhr, R. (S '29)
Leaves in windy weather. Tietjens, E. S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Le Corbusier, pseud. See Jeanneret, C: E.
Lectures in psychiatry. White, W: A. (Ap '29)
Lectures on conditioned reflexes. Pavlov, I. P. (My '29)
Lee, Benjamin
Roosevelt, E. K. and K., comps. American backlogs. (Je '29)
Left hand of God. Lane, J. (D '29)
Left in trust. Tompkins, J. W. (Je '29)
Legal effects of recognition in international law. Hervey, J: G. (O '29)
Legends
France
Dorey, J. Three and the moon. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Serbia
Zeitlin, I. King's pleasure. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Legends, Celtic
Geoffrey of Monmouth. Historia regum Britanniæ. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Legion. Minchin, H. C., ed. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Legislation
Great Britain
Hewart of Bury, G. H. New despotism. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Leibniz, Gottfried Wilhelm, freiherr von
Carr, H. W. Leibniz. (My '29)
Leisure
May, H. L:, and Petgen, D. Leisure and its use. (My '29)
Leisure and its use. May, H. L:, and Petgen, D. (My '29)
L'Enfant, Pierre Charles
Kite, E. S., comp. L'Enfant and Washington, 1791-1792. (N '29)

L'Enfant and Washington, 1791-1792. Kite, E. S., comp. (N '29)
Lenin, Nikolai, pseud. (Vladimir Ilich Ulyanov)
Marcu, V. Lenin. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Leonardo da Vinci
Taylor, R. A. Leonardo the Florentine. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Leonardo the Florentine. Taylor, R. A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Leonora Christina, Countess Ulfeldt
Leonora Christina. Memoirs. (S '29)
Léopold II, king of the Belgians
Lichtervelde, L: de. Léopold of the Belgians. (S '29)
Léopold of the Belgians. Lichtervelde, L: de. (S '29)
Let it lie. Goodwin, J: (Je '29)
Let tomorrow come. Barr, A. J. (Je '29)
Let us be gay. Crothers, R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Let's do the Mediterranean. Wells, C. (Mr '29)
Letter-writing
Taintor, S. A., and Munro, K. M. Secretary's handbook. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Letterbook. Etherege, G: (Je '29)
Letters
Richardson, S: Familiar letters on important occasions. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Letters. Elgin, M. (Mr '29)
Letters. Mansfield, K., pseud. (Mr '29)
Letters. Sacco, N., and Vanzetti, B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Letters. Shelley, P. B. (S '29)
Letters. Victoria Adelaide Mary Louisa, consort of Frederick III, German emperor. (Mr '29)
Letters (1857-1903). Tolstoi, L. N., and Tolstaîa, A. A. (Ag '29)
Letters and friendships. Spring Rice, C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Letters and leaders of my day. Healy, T. M. (Ap '29)
Letters of Peter Plymley to his brother Abraham who lives in the country. Smith, S. (O '29)
Letters of the tsar to the tsaritsa, 1914-1917. Nicholas II, emperor of Russia. (Ag '29)
Letters of women in love. Megroz, R. L., comp. (O '29)
Letters to a friend. Tagore, R. (S '29)
Letters to a niece. Hügel, F. (Ap '29)
Letters to Hilary. Eng title of Child's story of civilization. King-Hall, S. (Ag '29)
Letters to Lady Chesterfield and Lady Bradford. Beaconsfield, B: D. (N '29)
Letters to women. Auslander, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lewisohn, Ludwig
Lewisohn, L. Mid-channel. (Je '29)
Lexington, Kentucky
History
Townsend, W: H: Lincoln and his wife's home town. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Liberalism
Martin, K. French liberal thought in the eighteenth century. (D '29)
The libertines. Régnier, H. F. J. de. (S '29)
Liberty
Logan, G: B. Liberty in the modern world. (O '29)
Nevinson, H: W., comp. Voice of freedom. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Norton, T: J. Losing liberty judicially. (Ag '29)
Liberty in the modern world. Logan, G: B. (O '29)
Liberty of the press
Ernst, M. L., and Seagle, W: To the pure. . . (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Seldes, G: You can't print that! (Ap '29)
Liberty under the soviets. Baldwin, R. N. (My '29)
Librarians
McNiece, J. S., ed. Library and its workers. (D '29)
Libraries
Addresses, essays, lectures
McNiece, J. S., ed. Library and its workers. (D '29)
Library and its workers. McNiece, J. S., ed. (D '29)
Library science
McNiece, J. S., ed. Library and its workers. (D '29)
Van Hoesen, H: B., and Walter, F. K. Bibliography, practical, enumerative, historical. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Life
Richet, C: R. Impotence of man (L'homme impuissant). (N '29)
Life (biology)
Gaskell, A. What is life? (My '29)
Life and death of an ideal. Guérard, A. L. (Mr '29)
Life and labor in the old South. Phillips, U. B. (Ag '29)
Life and letters of Anne Isabella Lady Noel Byron. Mayne, E. C. (S '29)
Life and letters of George Darley. Abbott, C. C. (Je '29)
Life and letters of Joseph Pennell. Pennell, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Life and letters of Stuart P. Sherman. Zeitlin, J., and Woodbridge, H. E. (N '29)
Life and strange and surprising adventures of Daniel De Foe. Dottin, P. (Ja '30) (Annual)
Life and times of C. R. Das. Ray, P. C. (N '29)
Life and times of Charles Follen McKim. Moore, C: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Life and tragedy of Alexandra Feodorovna. Buxhoeveden, S. K. (Mr '29)
Life and work in prehistoric times. Renard, G. F. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Life and work of Sir Norman Lockyer. Lockyer, T. M. and W. L. (Je '29)
Life and work of the people of England, v 3-4. Hartley, D., and Elliot, M. M. V. (My '29)
Life and writings of Alexandre Dumas. Spurr, H. A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Life and writings of John Bunyan. Speight, H. E. B. (Mr '29)
Life goes on. Rogers, W. G. (O '29)
Life in freedom. Krishnamurti, J. (My '29)
Life in inland waters. Carpenter, K. E. (Je '29)
Life in letters. Howells, W: D. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Life of Alcibiades. Benson, E: F: (My '29)
Life of all living. Sheen, F. J: (N '29)
Life of Ambrose Bierce. Neale, W. (N '29)
Life of an ordinary woman. Ellis, A. (D '29)
Life of Cardinal Mercier. Laveille, A. P. (Mr '29)
Life of Charles M. Doughty. Hogarth, D: G: (Mr '29)
Life of George Chaffey. Alexander, J. A. (O '29)
Life of George Meredith. Sencourt, R. R. (N '29)
Life of George Rogers Clark. James, J. A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Life of H. R. H. the Duke of Flamborough. Housman, L., ed. (My '29)
Life of Lord Curzon, v 3. Ronaldshay, L. J: L. D. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Life of Lord Fisher of Kilverstone. Bacon, R. H. S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Life of Lord Pauncefote. Mowat, R. B. (My '29)
Life of Moses. Fleg, E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Life of Richard Rolle. Comper, F. M. M. (Ap '29)
Life of Sir Edward Marshall Hall. Eng title of For the defence. Marjoribanks, E:
Life of Sir Peter-Paul Rubens. Bertram, A. (O '29)
Life of space. Maeterlinck, M. (Ap '29)
Life of the Marquess of Lansdowne. Newton, T: W. L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Life's ebb and flow. Warwick, F. E. (O '29)
Light
Franklin, C. Colour and colour theories. (S '29)
Light in the sky. Clock, H., and Boetzel, E. (S '29)
Light of Egypt. Jansen, W. (Ap '29)
The lilac. McKelvey, S. D. (Ap '29)
Lilacs
McKelvey, S. D. The lilac. (Ap '29)
Lilies
Craig, W: N. Lilies and their culture in North America. (Ap '29)

Preston, I. Garden lilies. (S '29)
Lilies and their culture in North America. Craig, W: N. (Ap '29)
Lily and the sword. Weekes, A. R. and R. K. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lily Christine. Arlen, M., pseud. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Lincoln, Abraham
Barton, W: E. Lineage of Lincoln. (Ag '29)
Beveridge, A. J. Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1858. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Helm, K. True story of Mary, wife of Lincoln. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Holden, R. P. Abraham Lincoln. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lewis, L. Myths after Lincoln. (Ag '29)
Shaw, A. Abraham Lincoln. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Townsend, W: H: Lincoln and his wife's home town. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Fiction
Meader, S. W. Longshanks. (Ag '29)

Lincoln, Mrs Mary (Todd)
Helm, K. True story of Mary, wife of Lincoln. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Townsend, W: H: Lincoln and his wife's home town. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Fiction
Babcock, B. Lincoln's Mary and the babies. (Je '29)
Lincoln and his wife's home town. Townsend, W: H: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Lincoln family
Barton, W: E. Lineage of Lincoln. (Ag '29)
Lincoln's Mary and the babies. Babcock, B. (Je '29)

Lindbergh, Charles Augustus
Miller, F. T. Lindbergh. (N '29)
Linden walk tragedy. Daingerfield, F. (Je '29)
Lineage of Lincoln. Barton, W: E. (Ag '29)
Lineman's handbook. Kurtz, E. B. (Ap '29)
Links between Shakespeare and the law. Barton, D. P. (N '29)
Lion. Johnson, M. E. (Je '29)
Lioness. Ossendowski, F. A. (Ap '29)

Lions
Johnson, M. E. Lion. (Je '29)
Lions and lambs. Low, D: (Mr '29)
Lipstick. Gates, H: L. (N '29)

Liquor problem

Canada
Hose, R. E. Prohibition or control? (My '29)

Liquor traffic
Moray, A. Diary of a rum runner. (S '29)
Listen to the mocking-bird. King, S. (Mr '29)
Listening post. Richmond, G. L. (N '29)
Litany of Washington street. Lindsay, V. (Je '29)
Literary background of the New Testament. Hurst, G: L. (My '29)
Literary Bible of Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson, T: (N '29)
Literary career of James Boswell. Pottle, F: A. (S '29)

Literary criticism
Cazamian, L: F. Criticism in the making. (D '29)
Richards, I. A. Practical criticism. (S '29)
Scott-James, R. A. Making of literature. (Ag '29)

Literary ethics
Paull, H. M. Literary ethics. (S '29)

Literary forgeries and mystifications
Paull, H. M. Literary ethics. (S '29)
Literary history of religious thought in France. Bremond, H. (Ap '29)

Literary landmarks

Europe
Peck, A. M. Storybook Europe. (S '29)

Literature
Eliot, T: S. For Lancelot Andrewes. (Je '29)
Scott-James, R. A. Making of literature. (Ag '29)
West, R. Strange necessity. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Addresses, essays, lectures
More, P. E. Demon of the absolute. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Anecdotes, facetiae, satire, etc.
Winterich, J: T. Books and the man. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Collections
Hope-Nicholson, H., comp. Mindes delight. (D '29)
Pritchard, F. H:, ed. From Confucius to Mencken. (S '29)

Esthetics
Downey, J. E. Creative imagination. (Ag '29)

History and criticism
Canby, H: S. American estimates. (My '29)
Frye, P. H. Visions & chimeras. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Kellett, E. E: Whirligig of taste. (My '29)
Rascoe, B. Bookman's daybook. (Je '29)
Read, H. E: Sense of glory. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Rose, W:, and Isaacs, J., eds. Contemporary movements in European literature. (My '29)
Wickham, H. The impuritans. (My '29)

Philosophy
More, P. E. Demon of the absolute. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Literature, Medieval
Rand, E: K. Founders of the middle ages. (Ap '29)

Literature and morals
Wickham, H. The impuritans. (My '29)

Literature and science
Buchanan, S. M. Poetry and mathematics. (N '29)
Foerster, N. American scholar. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Literature of America. Quinn, A. H., and others. (S '29)
Little black stories for little white children. Cendrars, B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Little Blacknose. Swift, H. H. (D '29)
Little book of necessary nonsense. Johnson, B., comp. (S '29)
Little Caesar. Burnett, W: R. (Ag '29)
Little girl of nineteen hundred. Lenski, L. (Ag '29)
Little gold ring. Hamilton, C. (N '29)
Little Heiskell. Hurlbutt, I. B. (Ag '29)
Little novels. Schnitzler, A. (N '29)
Little Otis. Millay, C. (Ap '29)
Little people of the hills. Choate, F., and Curtis, E., comps. (Mr '29)
Liv. Coyle, K. (My '29)
Lives and deaths of Roland Greer. Pyke, R: (Je '29)
Living. Green, H: (S '29)
Living alibi. Truss, S. (My '29)
Living dead man. Scott, L. (S '29)
Living East. King, D: W. (D '29)
Living in the twentieth century. Barnes, H. E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Living India. Zimand, S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Living with the law. Guild, J. (Ap '29)

Livingstone, David
Coupland, R. Kirk on the Zambesi. (Je '29)

Loans
Herzog, P: W. Morris plan of industrial banking. (N '29)

Lobbying
Herring, E: P. Group representation before Congress. (Ag '29)

Lockyer, Sir Joseph Norman
Lockyer, T. M. and W. L. Life and work of Sir Norman Lockyer. (Je '29)

Locomotives
Allen, C. J: Steel highway. (My '29)

Loder, Vernon, pseud. See Vahey, J: G: H.

Logic
Burtt, E. A. Principles and problems of right thinking. (My '29)
Hegel, G. W. F. Science of logic. (Ag '29)

Logic—Continued

History

Enriques, F. Historic development of logic. (N '29)

Logic, Symbolic and mathematical
Barry, F: Scientific habit of thought. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Loki. Leonard, J. N. (O '29)

London

Description

Pendrill, C: Wanderings in medieval London. (Ap '29)
Pennell, J. London reverie. (My '29)
Prince, H. Half-hours in old London. (S '29)

Poetry

Irving, W: H: John Gay's London. (Je '29)

Historic houses, etc.

Prince, H. Half-hours in old London. (S '29)

Intellectual life

Draper, M. G. Music at midnight. (Ap '29)

Police

Moylan, J. F. Scotland Yard and the metropolitan police. (S '29)

Social life and customs

Irving, W: H: John Gay's London. (Je '29)

Theaters

Hotson, J: L. Commonwealth and restoration stage. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

London reverie. Pennell, J. (My '29)
Lone tree. Wilson, H. L. (O '29)
Lone voyagers. Neff, W. F. (O '29)
Lonely Americans. Brown, R. W. (Ap '29)

Long, Mrs Gabrielle Margaret Vere (Campbell). See Bowen, M., pseud.

Long Island

Historic houses, etc.

Eberlein, H. D. Manor houses and historic homes of Long Island and Staten Island. (My '29)

History

Overton, J. Long Island's story. (S '29)

Long Island's story. Overton, J. (S '29)
Long Lance. Buffalo Child Long Lance (Siksika chief). (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Long leash. North, J. N. (Je '29)
Longshanks. Meader, S. W. (Ag '29)
Look homeward, angel. Wolfe, T: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Loose ladies. Delmar, V. (Ag '29)
Lord Peter views the body. Sayers, D. L. (Je '29)
The Lord's horseman. Lee, U. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Lord's minstrel. Jones, C. M. D. (Mr '29)
Lorenzo Dow, the bearer of the Word. Sellers, C: C. (Mr '29)
Lorenzo the Magnificent. Loth, D: G. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Losing liberty judicially. Norton, T: J. (Ag '29)
Lost art. Van Doren, D., ed. (Ap '29)
Lost child Sanzara, R. (N '29)
Lost city. Strobel, M. (Ap '29)
A lost commander: Florence Nightingale. Andrews, M. R. (Je '29)
Lost mark. Wynnton, P. (O '29)
Lost sail. Kreymborg, A. (Ap '29)
Lot houses. Manning, E. (D '29)

Louis XI, king of France
Champion, P. H. J. B. Louis XI. (O '29)
Lewis, D. B. W. King Spider [Louis XI, king of France]. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Louis XIV, king of France
Bertrand, L: Louis XIV. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Huddleston, S. Louis XIV in love and in war. (Ag '29)

Louis XIV in love and in war. Huddleston, S. (Ag '29)
Louis Beretti. Clarke, D. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Louis D. Brandeis. De Haas, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Louise, queen consort of Frederick William III, king of Prussia
Aretz, G. Queen Louise of Prussia, 1776-1810. (Je '29)

Louisiana

Description and travel

Saxon, L. Old Louisiana. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Social life and customs

Saxon, L. Old Louisiana. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Love
Technique of the love affair. (My '29)
Love clinic. Dekobra, M. (Ag '29)
Love comes riding. Ferris, H. J., comp. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Love de luxe. Kauffman, R. W. (O '29)
Love in Chicago. Walt, C:, pseud. (My '29)

Love letters
Megroz, R. L:, comp. Letters of women in love. (O '29)

Love of the foolish angel. Beauclerk, H. (O '29)

Love poetry
Hill, C., comp. Twentieth century love poems. (D '29)

Love story. Woodhill, T. (O '29)
The lover. Royde-Smith, N. G. (Mr '29)
Low life. De La Roche, M. (My '29)
Low run tide; and, Lava rock. Paul, E. H. (D '29)
Luck, your silent partner. Stoddard, T. L. (D '29)

Ludwig II, king of Bavaria
Pourtalès, G. de. Mad king. (My '29)

Ludwig II of Bavaria. Eng title of Mad king. Pourtalès, G. de. (My '29)
Lure of the dust. Forrester, H. (Je '29)
Lute and scimitar. Abdullah A., tr. (Mr '29)

Luther, Martin
Fife, R. H. Young Luther. (My '29)
Maritain, J. Three reformers. (Je '29)

Lynch law
White, W. F. Rope & faggot. (Je '29)

Lyrical poetry of the nineteenth century. Grierson, H. J: C. (My '29)

Mabel Cratty. Burton, M. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

McAndrew, William
Counts, G: S. School and society in Chicago. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Macdonald, James Ramsay
Tiltman, H. H. J. Ramsay MacDonald. (N '29)

McDowell, Mary E.
Wilson, H. E. Mary McDowell, neighbor. (Je '29)

Machinery
Hawks, E. Boys' book of remarkable machinery. (My '29)
O'Brien, E: J. H. Dance of the machines. (D '29)
Randall, J: H. Our changing civilization. (Je '29)

History

Chase, S. Men and machines. (S '29)
Usher, A. P. History of mechanical inventions. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Machinery. Black, M. (Je '29)

Machinery in industry
Chase, S. Men and machines. (S '29)
Ford, H: My philosophy of industry. (Ap '29)

McKay, Donald
McKay, R: C. Some famous sailing ships and their builder, Donald McKay. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

McKim, Charles Follen
Moore, C: Life and times of Charles Follen McKim. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Mad Anthony Wayne. Boyd, T: A. (D '29)
Mad fingers. Huntsman, H. (Ag '29)
Mad king. Pourtalès, G. de. (My '29)
Madness of war. Brewster, H. S. (Ap '29)

Madonna. Marchant, J., comp. and ed. (Ag '29)
Madonna without child. Brinig, M. (My '29)

Magic
Allier, R. S. P. Mind of the savage. (O '29)

Magic, Papuan
Williams, F. E. Orokaiva magic. (Mr '29)
Magic doll of Roumania. Marie, queen consort of Ferdinand, king of Roumania. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Magic flutes. Kožíšek, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Magic for Marigold. Montgomery, L. M. (D '29)
Magic island. Seabrook, W: B. (Mr '29)
Magic music shop. Bonner, M. G. (F '30) (1929 Annual) Magic trail. Moon, G. (Ja '30) (1929) Annual)
Magnificent Montmorency. Hartmann, C. H. (My '29)

Mahābhārata
Saunders, K. J. Gospel for Asia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Maids will be wives. Cole, H. B. (Ag '29)
Major problems of democracy. Eldridge, S., and Clark, C. De W. (Je '29)
Major traditions of European philosophy. Boas, G: (D '29)
Major's candlesticks. Hannay, J. O. (O '29)
Make everybody rich. Javits, B: A., and Wood, C: W. (S '29)
Making goods and making money. Taylor, H. (Ap '29)
Making of literature. Scott-James, R. A. (Ag '29)
Making of new Germany. Scheidemann, P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Making of the Christian mind. Atkins, G. G. (Je '29)
Making of the Constitution. Warren, C: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Making the Fascist state. Schneider, H. W. (Ap '29)
Malaeska. Stephens, A. S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Malay Peninsula

Social life and customs
Clifford, H. C: Bushwhacking. (Je '29)
Malice domestic. Roughead, W: (S '29)
Mamba's daughters. Heyward, Du B. (Mr '29)
Mammoth mystery book. Wallace, E. (N '29)

Man
Black, H. Adventure of being man. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Heard, G. Ascent of humanity. (O '29)

Migrations
Foster, T. S. Travels and settlements of early man. (Ag '29)

Origin
Gregory, W: K. Our face from fish to man. (My '29)
James, E. O. Beginnings of man. (My '29)

Man, Prehistoric
Foster, T. S. Travels and settlements of early man. (Ag '29)
Peake, H. J: E:, and Fleure, H. J: Steppe & the sown. (My '29)
Renard, G. F. Life and work in prehistoric times. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Smith, G. E. Human history. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

America
Verrill, A. H. Old civilizations of the New world. (S '29)

Man a woman marries. Pedersen, V: C. (D '29)
Man and his powers. Lynch, R: (Ap '29)
Man behind the book. Van Dyke, H: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Man behind the scenes: the career of Sir Basil Zaharoff. Eng title of Mystery man of Europe. (D '29)
The man Charles Dickens. Wagenknecht, E: C: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
A man for a' that. Finger, C: J. (D '29)
Man in the queue. Daviot, G. (O '29)
Man in the white slicker. Nason, L. H. (S '29)
A man scans his past. Constantin-Weyer, M. (O '29)
Man, the miracle maker. Van Loon, H. W. (Mr '29)
Man who dared to be God. Norwood, R. W. (D '29)
Man who never blundered. Gluck, S. (Je '29)
Man who pretended. Maxwell, W: B. (D '29)
Man who rang the bell. Kennedy, R. M., pseud. (N '29)
Man within. Greene, G. (N '29)

Mana
Lévy-Bruhl, L. "Soul" of the primitive. (Mr '29)

Mañanaland. Cudahy, J: (Ap '29)

Manchuria
Wu, C.-C. Nationalist program for China. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Mandate for Palestine. Stoyanovsky, J. (N '29)
Manhattan cocktail. Coffey, E: H. (Je '29)
Manhattan men. Kreymborg, A. (Je '29)

Mann, A. Chester, pseud. See Roberts, P. I.

Manners and customs
Wolff, E. Why we do it. (Je '29)

Manor houses and historic homes of Long Island and Staten Island. Eberlein, H. D. (My '29)
Man's best friend. Trapman, A. H. (S '29)
Man's grim justice. Callahan, J. (My '29)
Man's social destiny in the light of science. Ellwood, C: A. (O '29)

Mansfield, Katherine, pseud. (Kathleen [Beauchamp] Murry) (Mrs John Middleton Murry)
Mansfield, K., pseud. Letters. (Mr '29)

Mansions of philosophy. Durant, W: J. (Ag '29)
Mantis. Lewis, E. (Ap '29)
Mantle of Caesar. Gundelfinger, F. (Mr '29)

Mantua

History
Brinton, S. J: C. Gonzaga—lords of Mantua. (Ap '29)

Manual of classification for librarians & bibliographers. Sayers, W: C. B. (Ag '29)
Manufacturing. Keir, R. M. (N '29)
Many cities. Eng title of Towns of destiny. Belloc, H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Many devices. Montgomery, R. M. (Ag '29)
Maori, past and present. Donne, T: E: (Mr '29)

Maoris
Donne, T: E: Maori, past and present. (Mr '29)
Firth, R. W: Primitive economics of the New Zealand Maori. (N '29)

Maracot Deep. Doyle, A. C. (D '29)

Marat, Jean Paul
Scherr, M. Charlotte Corday and certain men of the revolutionary torment. (Ap '29)

March of the Mormon battalion. Golder, F. A., and others, eds. (Mr '29)
Marching notes. La Prade, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Marco Polo, junior. Franck, H. A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Mareea-Maria. Kerr, S. (Ap '29)

Marguerite de Valois, queen consort of Henry IV, king of France
Mariéjol, J. H. Daughter of the Medicis [Margaret of Valois]. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Marine biology
Yonge, C: M. Queer fish. (S '29)

Marie Bonifas. Lacretelle, J. de. (O '29)

Marine fauna
Yonge, C: M. Queer fish. (S '29)

Juvenile literature
Burgess, T. W. Burgess seashore book for children. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

A marine tells it to you. Wise, F: M. (Ag '29)
Marines and others. Thomason, J: W: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Marion, Virginia
Anderson, S. Hello towns! (Je '29)

Marion Isle. Haggard, H: R. (Je '29)
Mario's castle. Forbes, H. C. (My '29)

Maritime law
Kenworthy, J. M., and Young, G: Freedom of the seas. (Ap '29)

Cases
Dickinson, E. DeW. Selection of cases and other readings on the law of nations. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Mark of the dead. Aresby, R. and H., pseuds. (N '29)
Mark of the rat. Kummer, F: A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Marked men. Buck, C: N. (D '29)

Marketing
Goode, K. M. How to turn people into gold. (D '29)
Marketing. Goldstein, B: F. (Ap '29)

Marlborough, John Churchill, 1st duke of
Childsey, D. B. Marlborough. (O '29)

Marlow, Louis, pseud. See Wilkinson, L: U.

Marquetry
Frost, C: W., and Fullerton, M. Furniture inlaying. (Mr '29)

Marquette, Jacques
Repplier, A. Père Marquette, priest, pioneer, and adventurer. (Mr '29)

Marriage
Binkley, R. C. and F. W. What is right with marriage. (N '29)
Crawley, A. E. Studies of savages and sex. (N '29)
Groves, E. R. Marriage crisis. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Groves, E. R., and Ogburn, W: F. American marriage and family relationships. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hamilton, G. Van T., and MacGowan, K. What is wrong with marriage. (Je '29)
Pedersen, V: C. Man a woman marries. (D '29)
Richmond, M. E., and Hall, F: S. Marriage and the state. (Je '29)
Russell, B. A. W: Marriage and morals. (D '29)
Sanger, M. Motherhood in bondage. (Mr '29)
Tanner, J., pseud. Intelligent man's guide to marriage and celibacy. (O '29)
Wile, I. S., and Winn, M. D. Marriage in the modern manner. (Je '29)

History

Westermarck, E: A. Marriage. (N '29)

Marriage and morals. Russell, B. A. W: (D '29)
Marriage and the state. Richmond, M. E., and Hall. F: S. (Je '29)
Marriage crisis. Groves, E. R. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Marriage in the modern manner. Wile, I. S., and Winn, M. D. (Je '29)

Marriage laws
May, G. Marriage laws and decisions in the United States. (S '29)
Richmond, M. E., and Hall, F: S. Marriage and the state. (Je '29)
Marriage laws and decisions in the United States. May, G. (S '29)
Married money. Powel, H. W. H. (D '29)

Marshall-Hall, Sir Edward
Marjoribanks, E: For the defense; the life of Sir Edward Marshall Hall. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Marthe and the madman. Bosschère, J. de. (Ap '29)

Martial law
Milligan, L. P., defendant. Milligan case. (Ag '29)
Martial notes of the old war and the new. Morris, H. S. (N '29)

Martin, Abe, pseud. See Hubbard, F. M.
Marvels of science. Wisehart, M. K: (My '29)

Marx, Karl
Rühle, O: Karl Marx. (Ag '29)

Mary, Virgin
Herolt, J. Miracles of the blessed Virgin Mary. (My '29)
Marchant, J., comp. and ed. Madonna. (Ag '29)

Mary Celeste (brig)
Keating, L. J. Great Mary Celeste hoax. (O '29)
Mary McDowell, neighbor. Wilson, H. E. (Je '29)
Mary of Marion Isle. Eng title of Marion Isle. Haggard, H: R. (Je '29)
Mary, queen of Scots. Kurlbaum, M. (My '29)
Mary Stuart, queen of Scots

Fiction

Kurlbaum, M. Mary, queen of Scots. (My '29)

Maryland

History

Andrews, M. P. History of Maryland. (Ag '29)

Politics and government

Andrews, M. P. History of Maryland. (Ag '29)
Mascot goes across. Stanford, E. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Masks (sculpture)
Benkard, E. Undying faces. (D '29)
Masks in a pageant. White, W: A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
The masqueraders. Heyer, G. (O '29)
Mass murder. Douthwaite, L: C: (Ap '29)
The master. Bowie, W. R. (Mr '29)
Master makers of the book. Orcutt, W: D. (Ap '29)
Master of my fate. Manuel, H. T. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Matching mountains with the Boy scout uniform. Reimer, E: F. (O '29)

Materialism
McDougall, W: Modern materialism and emergent evolution. (O '29)
Materials handbook. Brady, G: S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Mathematical recreations
Collins, A. F: Fun with figures. (Mr '29)

Mathematics
Russell, B. A. W: Mysticism and logic. (D '29)

Philosophy

Buchanan, S. M. Poetry and mathematics. (N '29)
Keyser, C. J. Pastures of wonder. (O '29)

Mather, Cotton
Boas, R. P. and L. S. Cotton Mather. (Mr '29)
Matheson formula. Fletcher, J. S. (S '29)
Matter and method in education. Sturt, M., and Oakden, E. C. (O '29)
Maurizius case. Wassermann, J. (D '29)

Maximilian, emperor of Mexico

Fiction

Henderson, D. M. Crown for Carlotta. (D '29)
May Day mystery. Cohen, O. R. (O '29)

Mayas
Gann, T: W: F. Discoveries and adventures in Central America. (My '29)
Verrill, A. H. Old civilizations of the New world. (S '29)

Mayfair murder. Holt, H: (Ag '29)

Mayo, Katherine
Field, H. H. After Mother India. (N '29)
Lājpat, R. Unhappy India. (Mr '29)
Maypoles and morals. Kummer, F: A. (S '29)
Me an' Shorty. Mulford, C. E: (S '29)
Meaning of culture. Powys, J: C. (D 29)
Meaning of Rousseau. Wright, E. H. (S '29)
Meaning of selfhood and faith in immortality. Lyman, E. W: (Je '29)

Mecca

Description

Rutter, E. Holy cities of Arabia. (D '29)

Medals of honor. Hopper, J. M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Medbury Fort murder. Limnelius, G:, pseud. (D '29)
Meddlers. Leonard, J. (O '29)
Medical leaders from Hippocrates to Osler. Lamber, S: W., and Goodwin, G: M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Medici, Lorenzo de', called Il Magnifico
Loth, D: G. Lorenzo the Magnificent. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Medicine
Chideckel, M. Strictly private! (Ap '29)
Löbel, J. Don't be afraid. (Je '29)
Palfrey, F. W. Facts of modern medicine. (S '29)

Vedder, E: B. Medicine. (N '29)
Walsh, J. J. Catholic church and healing. (Ag '29)

Addresses, essays, lectures
Cushing, H. W. Consecratio medici. (Mr '29)

Biography
Lambert, S: W., and Goodwin, G: M. Medical leaders from Hippocrates to Osler. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

History
Haggard, H. W. Devils, drugs, and doctors. (Je '29)
Hoffmann, R: H. Struggle for health. (Je '29)
Lambert, S: W., and Goodwin, G: M. Medical leaders from Hippocrates to Osler. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Singer, C: From magic to science. (N '29)
Singer, C: J. Short history of medicine. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Thorndike, L. Science and thought in the fifteenth century. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Medicine, Popular
Hawes, J: B. You—and the doctor. (Je '29)
Medieval culture. Vossler, K: (Je '29)
Medieval foundations of western civilization. Sellery, G: C., and Krey, A. C: (My '29)

Medina
Description
Rutter, E. Holy cities of Arabia. (D '29)

Mediterranean sea
Description and travel
Ludwig, E. On Mediterranean shores. (Ap '29)
Waldron, W. Blue glamor. (Ag '29)
Wells, C. Let's do the Mediterranean. (Mr '29)
Meet General Grant. Woodward, W: E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Meet the Tiger. Charteris, L. (My '29)

Melville, Herman
Mumford, L: Herman Melville. (My '29)

Melville, Lewis, pseud. See Benjamin, L: S.

Memmo, Andrea
Brunelli Bonetti, B. Casanova loved her. (D '29)
Memoirs. Carleton, G: (S '29)
Memoirs; tr. by Elisabeth Abbott. Da Ponte, L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Memoirs; tr. by L. A. Sheppard. Da Ponte, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Memoirs. Leonora Christina. (S '29)
Memoirs. Napoleon I. (Je '29)
Memoirs, 1849-1926. Dent, J. M. (Mr '29)
Memoirs of a fox-hunting man. Sassoon, S. L. (Mr '29)
Memoirs of a Gothic American. Kavanagh-Priest, A. (Je '29)
Memoirs of a social democrat. Eng title of Making of new Germany. Scheidemann, P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Memoirs of an old parliamentarian. O'Connor, T: P. (S '29)
Memoirs of Madame de Pompadour. Du Hausset, Mme. (My '29)
Memorandum on resignation. Morley of Blackburn, J: M. (S '29)
Memorial to George. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Memories of my father. Dickens, H: F. (Ap '29)
Memories of my life. Westermarck, E. A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Memories of ninety years. Rogers, H: M. (Mr '29)
Memories of the old emigrant days in Kansas, 1862-1865. Orpen, A. E. R. (Je '29)
Men and machines. Chase, S. (S '29)
Men and morals. Riley, I: W. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Men call me fool. Totheroh, D. (Ag '29)
Men, money, and motors. MacManus, T. F., and Beasley, N. (Ag '29)
Menagerie. Miller, M. B. (My '29)

Menken, Adah Isaacs
Fiction
Oursler, F. World's delight. (O '29)

Mental physiology and hygiene
Lazell, E: W: Anatomy of emotion. (S '29)
Riggs, A. F. Intelligent living. (S '29)

Mental tests
Dearborn, W. F. Intelligence tests. (Je '29)
Levine, A. J., and Marks, L: Testing intelligence and achievement. (Ag '29)
Pintner, R. Educational psychology. (D '29)
Thomas, W: I: and D. S. Child in America. (My '29)

Menus
Adair, A. H. Dinners, long and short. (Ap '29)
Bonney, T. and L. Guide to the restaurants of Paris. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Mercantile buildings
Starrett, W: A. Skyscrapers, and the men who build them. (Mr '29)

Merchant marine
Great Britain
Bone, D: W: Merchantmen-at-arms. (D '29)
Merchant prince. Bailey, H: C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Merchantmen-at-arms. Bone, D: W: (D '29)

Mercier, Désiré Felicien François Joseph, cardinal
Leveille, A. P. Life of Cardinal Mercier. (Mr '29)
Mercury story book. London Mercury. (D '29)

Meredith, George
Sencourt, R. E. Life of George Meredith. (N '29)
Mergers and the law. National industrial conference board. (N '29)
The Merivales. McCutcheon, G: B. (D '29)
Mermaid and centaur. Hughes, R. (S '29)

Merritt, Leonidas
De Kruif, P. H: Seven iron men. (N '29)

Merritt family
De Kruif, P. H: Seven iron men. (N '29)
Merry heart. Swinnerton, F. A. (Je '29)

Mesaba Range, Minnesota
De Kruif, P. H: Seven iron men. (N '29)

Mesopotamia
Antiquities
Childe, V. G. Most ancient East. (Je '29)
Mesquite Jenkins. Mulford, C. E: (My '29)

Metallurgy
Bray, J: L. Principles of metallurgy. (N '29)

Metals
Smithells, C. J. Impurities in metals. (My '29)
Metanthropos. Macñe, R. C. (N '29)

Meteorology
Free, E: E., and Hoke, T. Weather. (Mr '29)
Van Cleef, E. Story of the weather. (D '29)

Methodist Episcopal church
Duren, W: L. Francis Asbury. (Ap '29)
Methodist faun. Parrish, A. (N '29)

Methodology
Claremont, C. A. Intelligence and mental growth. (Mr '29)
Methods and uses of hypnosis and self-hypnosis. Hollander, B. (Mr '29)
Methods of private religious living. Wieman, H: N. (Ag '29)
Mexican agrarian revolution. Tannenbaum, F. (Ag '29)
Mexican side of the Texan revolution. Santa Anna, A. L. de, and others. (Ap '29)

Mexico
Gruening, E. H: Mexico and its heritage. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rippy, J. F., and others. Mexico. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Antiquities
Brenner, A. Idols behind altars. (N '29)

Description and travel
Russell, P. Red tiger. (Je '29)

Foreign relations
United States
Rippy, J. F., and others. Mexico. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Santa Anna, A. L. de, and others. Mexican side of the Texan revolution. (Ap '29)

History
Gruening, E. H: Mexico and its heritage. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Mexico—History—Continued
Santa Anna, A. L. de, and others. Mexican side of the Texan revolution. (Ap '29)

Revolution, 1910-
McCullagh, F. Red Mexico. (Mr '29)
Tannenbaum, F. Mexican agrarian revolution. (Ag '29)

Revolution, 1910—Fiction
Azuela, M. Under dogs. (N '29)

Politics and government
McCullagh, F. Red Mexico. (Mr '29)

Social conditions
Dewey, J: Impressions of soviet Russia and the revolutionary world, (Je '29)
Tannenbaum, F. Mexican agrarian revolution. (Ag '29)

Mexico and its heritage. Gruening, E. H: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Meyer, Frederick Brotherton
Roberts, P. I. F. B. Meyer. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Meynell, Alice Christiana (Thompson) (Mrs Wilfrid Meynell)
Meynell, V. Alice Meynell. (O '29)

Miasma. Holding, E. (Je '29)

Micro-organisms
Park, W: H., and Williams, A. W. Who's who among the microbes. (Ag '29)

Mid-channel. Lewisohn, L. (Je '29)

Middle ages
Foligno, C. Latin thought during the middle ages. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hulme, E: M. Middle ages. (N '29)
Rand, E: K. Founders of the middle ages. (Ap '29)
Sitwell, S. Gothick North. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

History
Sellery, G: C., and Krey, A. C: Medieval foundations of western civilization. (My '29)

Middleman. Sprague, J. R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Middletown. Lynd, R. S. and H. M. (Ap '29)

Midnight Bell. Hamilton, P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Midnight treasure. Rollins, W:, jr. (Ag '29)

Midstream. Keller, H. A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Midsummer night. Masefield, J: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Mighty medicine. Giddings, F. H: (Je '29)

Migrations of nations
Peake, H. J: E:, and Fleure, H. J: Steppe & the sown. (My '29)

Miki. Petersham, M. and M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Military art and science
Liddell Hart, B. H: Remaking of modern armies. (Mr '29)

Milligan case. Milligan, L. P., defendant. (Ag '29)

Mimi Bluette. Verona, G. da. (Ag '29)

Mind and body
Cannon, W. B. Bodily changes in pain, hunger, fear and rage. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Mind at mischief. Sadler, W: S: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Mind of the savage. Allier, R. S. P. (O '29)

Mindes delight. Hope-Nicholson, H., comp. (D '29)

Miniature painting
Boehn, M. von. Miniatures and silhouettes. (Ap '29)

Miniatures and silhouettes. Boehn, M. von. (Ap '29)

Ministers of the gospel
Betts, G: H. Beliefs of 700 ministers. (Ag '29)

Minstrels in satin. Chapman, E. (S '29)

Mirabeau, Honoré Gabriel Riquetti, comte de
Jouvenel, H: de. Stormy life of Mirabeau. (S '29)

Miracle merchant. Merrel, C. (Ap '29)

Miracle of Peille. Campbell, J: L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Miracles
Herolt, J. Miracles of the blessed Virgin Mary. (My '29)

Miracles of the blessed Virgin Mary. Herolt, J. (My '29)

Mirgorod. Gogol, N. V. (Ag '29)

Misadventures of a tropical medico. Dickey, H. S., and Daniel, H. (D '29)

Misadventures of Martin Guerre. Delayen, G. (D '29)

Mission of Greece. Livingstone, R: W., ed. (S '29)

Missions

China
Latourette, K. S. History of Christian missions in China. (My '29)

Rhodesia
Von Hoffman, C. Jungle gods. (Je '29)

Missions, Foreign
Patton, C. H. Foreign missions under fire. (Ag '29)

Mississippi. Burman, B. L. (D '29)

Mississippi river
Eskew, G. L. Pageant of the packets. (D '29)
Repplier, A. Père Marquette, priest, pioneer and adventurer. (Mr '29)

Mr. Amberthwaite. Wilkinson, L: U. (Ap '29)

Mr Billingham, the marquis and Madelon. Oppenheim, E: P. (S '29)

Mr. Gay. Sherwin, O. (Ag '29)

Mr. Hermit Crab. Rhys, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Mr. Moneypenny. Pollock, C. (Je '29)

Mr Punch on the links. Knox, E. G: V., ed. (O '29)

Mistral. Brand, M. (O '29)

Mrs Eddy. Dakin, E. F. (O '29)

Mrs. Fisher. Graves, R. (Ag '29)

Mitchell, John
Glück, E. John Mitchell, miner. (Je '29)

Mitchell, Silas Weir
Burr, A. R. Weir Mitchell. (D '29)

Model airplanes. Allen, E. L. (Mr '29)

Modern archery. Lambert, A. W., jr. (D '29)

Modern athletics. Butler, G. M. (Je '29)

Modern biology. Cunningham, J. T: (O '29)

Modern book production. (Je '29)

Modern capitalism. Sée, H. E. (Ag '29)

Modern case for socialism. Humphrey, A. W. (My '29)

Modern Chinese civilization. Legendre, A. F. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

A modern comedy. Galsworthy, J: (O '29)

Modern French painters. Raynal, M. (Ap '29)

Modern girl. Trites, W: B. (Ag '29)

Modern materialism and emergent evolution. McDougall, W: (O '29)

Modern philosophy of education. Thomson, G. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Modern Plutarch. Cournos, J: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Modern principles and the elementary teacher's technique. Holley, C: E. (Ag '29)

Modern psychology, normal and abnormal. Leary, D. B. (Mr '29)

Modern religious dramas. Eastman, F., ed. (Mr '29)

Modern scientific knowledge of nature, man, and society. Cleveland, F: A., ed. (O '29)

Modern temper. Krutch, J. W. (My '29)

Modern theory of ethics. Stapledon, W: O. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Modern world. Marvin, F. S. (N '29)

Modes & manners: ornaments. Boehn, M. von. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Modesta. Stern, G. B. (O '29)

Mohammedanism
Zwemer, S: M. Across the world of Islam. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

The molehill. Ritchie, A. (Ap '29)

Molinoff. Bedel, M. (Ag '29)

Monarchy
MacDonagh, M. English king. (O '29)

Money
Angell, N. Money game. (D '29)
Bilgram, H. Remedy for overproduction and unemployment. (Ap '29)
Cassel, G. Post-war monetary stabilization. (N '29)

Colbourne, M. D. Unemployment or war. (Ap '29)
Fisher, I. Money illusion. (Ap '29)

History
Angell, N. Story of money. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Money for love. Herbst, J. (N '29)
Money game. Angell, N. (D '29)
Money illusion. Fisher, I. (Ap '29)
Mongolia

Description and travel
Lattimore, O. Desert road to Turkestan. (Ap '29)
Monkey tale. Williamson, H. (D '29)
Monks are monks. Nathan, G: J. (O '29)
Monroe, Anne Shannon
Monroe, A. S. World I saw. (Mr '29)
Monroe county, Pennsylvania
Tyson, C. B. The Poconos. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Monroe doctrine
Miller, H. G. Isthmian highway. (S '29)
Monsieur X. Sneddon, R. W: (Mr '29)
Monster in the pool. Livingston, A. (N '29)
Montaigne, Michel Eyquem de

Fiction
Lamandé, A. Montaigne, grave and gay. (Ap '29)
Montaigne, grave and gay. Lamandé, A. (Ap '29)
Montenegro
Goldring, D. People and places. (Ag '29)
Montmorency, Henri II, duc de
Hartmann, C. H. Magnificent Montmorency. (My '29)
Montrose, James Graham, 1st marquis of Buchan, J: Montrose. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Moon
Forbes, G: The earth, the sun, and the moon. (Mr '29)
Proctor, M. Romance of the moon. (N '29)
Serviss, G. P. Story of the moon. (Mr '29)
The moon is made of green cheese. Comstock, S. (Ag '29)
Moorhead, Elizabeth. See Vermorcken, E.
Moral conditions
Hall-Quest, A. L. It's not our fault. (Ag '29)
Moral education
Cabot, E. Temptations to rightdoing. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Morality in the making. Whitney, R. E. (Je '29)
Mordaunt, Elinor, pseud. See Wiehe, E. M.
More boys and girls of history. Power, R. D. and E. E. (N '29)
More famous trials. Birkenhead, F: E. S. (Ap '29)
More pious friends and drunken companions. Shay, F., comp. (Mr '29)
Moresby, Louis, pseud. See Beck, L.
Morgan, Sir Henry

Fiction
Steinbeck, J: Cup of gold. (N '29)
Mormons and Mormonism
Golder, F. A., and others, eds. March of the Mormon battalion. (Mr '29)
Morning moods. Greene, L. (My '29)
Morocco

Description and travel
Bickerstaffe, L. E. Things seen in Morocco. (S '29)
Lowth, A. Wayfarer in Morocco. (Je '29)
Morocco bound. Mitchell, E. V. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Morris plan of industrial banking. Herzog, P: W. (N '29)
Morse, Richard, pseud. See Eastman, F.
Mortal men. Carter, B. (S '29)
Morton, Leah, pseud. See Stern, E. G.
Mosaic. Skelton, G. (D '29)
Moses
Fleg, E. Life of Moses. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Fiction
Eyles, M. L. Shepherd of Israel. (O '29)
Jansen, W. Light of Egypt. (Ap '29)
Untermeyer, L: Moses. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Most ancient East. Childe, V. G. (Je '29)
Motherhood in bondage. Sanger, M. (Mr '29)
Mothers
Sanger, M. Motherhood in bondage. (Mr '29)
Motion picture problems. Seabury, W: M. (N '29)
Motives of men. Coe, G: A. (Mr '29)
Motives of Proteus. Rodó, J. E. (Je '29)
Motor buses
Wilson, G: L. Motor traffic management. (Ap '29)
Motor mechanism of plants. Bose, J. C. (O '29)
Motor traffic management. Wilson, G: L. (Ap '29)
Motor trucks
Wilson, G: L. Motor traffic management. (Ap '29)
Motoring in Italy. Gordon-Barrett, R: R. (Ap '29)
Mount Vernon, Virginia
King, G. E. Mount Vernon on the Potomac. (My '29)
Mount Vernon ladies' association of the Union
King, G. E. Mount Vernon on the Potomac. (My '29)
Mount Vernon on the Potomac. King, G. E. (My '29)
Mountain against mountain. Ficke, A. D. (Ap '29)
Mountain man. Wire, H. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Mountain sheep
Burnham, J: B. Rim of mystery. (Je '29)
Mountain tavern. O'Flaherty, L. (Ag '29)
Moussia; the life and death of Marie Bashkirtseff. Cahuet, A. (F '30) (1929 Annual) Moussorgsky. Riesemann, O. von. (Ap '29)
Moving-picture plays
Gleason, M. N. Scenario writing and producing for the amateur. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Moving pictures
Betts, E. Heraclitus. (Je '29)
Irwin, W: H: House that shadows built. (Ap '29)
Seabury, W: M. Motion picture problems. (N '29)
Seldes, G. V. Hour with the movies and the talkies. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Moving pictures, Talking
Franklin, H. B. Sound motion pictures. (O '29)
Seldes, G. V. Hour with the movies and the talkies. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Mud and glory. Neville, J. M. (D '29)
Muldoon, William
Van Every, E: Muldoon. (N '29)
Multiplex man; or, The story of survival through invention. Eng title of Man, the miracle maker. Van Loon, H. W. (Mr '29)
Municipal government
Bush, C. R. Newspaper reporting of public affairs. (S '29)

Russia
Astrov, N. I. Municipal government and the all-Russian union of towns. (N '29)
Municipal government and the all-Russian union of towns. Astrov, N. I. (N '29)
Munthe, Axel Martin Fredrik
Munthe, A. M. F. Story of San Michele. (O '29)
Murder
Douthwaite, L: C: Mass murder. (Ap '29)
Logan, G. B. H. Guilty or not guilty? (S '29)
Roughead, W: Malice domestic. (S '29)
Sutherland, S. Ten real murder mysteries. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Murder at Bratton grange. Street, C. J: C: (O '29)

Murder at sea. Connell, R: (Ap '29)
Murder at the inn. McAllister, A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Murder at the keyhole. Walling, R. A. J: (Je '29)
Murder book of J. G. Reeder. Wallace, E. (S '29)
Murder by the clock. King, R. (Ag '29)
Murder in the Gilded cage. Spewack, S: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Murder in the laboratory. Davidson, T. L. (O '29)
Murder in the moor. Kindon, T: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Murder Island. Martyn, W. (My '29)
Murder mansion. Wilson, A. D. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Murder of a mystery writer. Hawk, J: (Ag '29)
Murder on "B" deck. Starrett, V. (Je '29)
Murder on the "Enriqueta." Eng title of The strangler. Thynne, M. (N '29)

Murray, Sinclair, pseud. See Sullivan, A.

Museum murder. McIntyre, J: T: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Mushrooms
McKenny, M. Mushrooms of field and wood (N '29)
Mushrooms of field and wood. McKenny, M. (N '29)

Music

Addresses, essays, lectures

Aldrich, R: Musical discourse. (Ap '29)
Berlioz, H. L: Evenings in the orchestra. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Grace, H. Musician at large. (Ag '29)
Hadow, W: H: Collected essays. (S '29)
Mason, D. G. Dilemma of American music. (Ap '29)
Rosenfeld, P. By way of art. (Ap '29)
Spaeth, S. G. They still sing of love. (N '29)

Analysis, interpretation, appreciation

Vallas, L. Theories of Claude Debussy. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wilm, G. G. Appreciation of music. (Ag '29)

History and criticism

Mason, D. G. Dilemma of American music. (Ap '29)

Instruction and study

La Prade, E. Marching notes. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Jews

Idelsohn, A. Z. Jewish music in its historical development. (O '29)

England

Colles, H: C. Voice and verse. (S '29)

France

Berlioz, H. L: Evenings in the orchestra. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Maine

Edwards, G: T. Music and musicians of Maine. (S '29)

United States

Clark, K. S. Music in industry. (S '29)
Mason, D. G. Dilemma of American music. (Ap '29)
Rosenfeld, P. Hour with American music. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Music and literature
Naylor, E: W. Poets and music. (N '29)
Music and musicians of Maine. Edwards, G: T. (S '29)
Music at midnight. Draper, M. G. (Ap '29)

Music in industry
Clark, K. S. Music in industry. (S '29)

Music-recorders
Metfessel, M. F. Phonophotography in folk music. (O '29)
Musical discourse. Aldrich, R: (Ap '29)

Musical form
Wilm, G. G. Appreciation of music. (Ag '29)

Musical instruments
Bonner, M. G. Magic music shop. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Musical notation
Metfessel, M. F. Phonophotography in folk music. (O '29)
Musician at large. Grace, H. (Ag '29)

Musicians

Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.

Draper, M. G. Music at midnight. (Ap '29)

Musicians, American
Edwards, G: T. Music and musicians of Maine. (S '29)
Rosenfeld, P. Hour with American music. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Musicians, Jewish
Idelsohn, A. Z. Jewish music in its historical development. (O '29)

Musorgskiĭ, Modest Petrovich
Riesemann, O. von. Moussorgsky, (Ap '29)

Mussolini, Benito
Hearley, J: Pope or Mussolini. (S '29)
Hullinger, E. W. New fascist state. (Je '29)
Mussolini, B. My autobiography. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
My African garden. Macdonald, S. S. (Mr '29)
My autobiography. Mussolini, B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
My brother Jonathan. Young, F. B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
My friend Robespierre. Béraud, H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
My gun dogs. Holland, R. P. (D '29)
My house and I. Starbuck, M. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
My life east and west. Hart, W: S. (Ag '29)
My life is in your hands. Cantor, E. (My '29)
My mystery ships. Campbell, G. (Ap '29)
My neighbour the universe. Jacks, L. P. (O '29)
My perilous life in Palestine. Owen, R. D. (Ag '29)
My philosophy of industry. Ford, H: (Ap '29)
My stars! Rose, W. (Je '29)
My war memoirs. Beneš, E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Myron T. Herrick. Mott, T: B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Myself when young. Mirza, Y. B: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Mysteries, Religious
Spence, L: Mysteries of Britain. (D '29)

Mysteries and miracle-plays
Robinson, D. F., ed. Harvard dramatic club miracle plays. (Je '29)
Mysteries of Britain. Spence, L: (D '29)
Mysteries of the soul. Müller-Freienfels, R: (O '29)
Mysterious aviator. Norway, N. S. (Mr '29)
Mysterious Dr Oliver. Ellis, J: B. (N '29)
Mysterious partner. Fielding, A. (O '29)
Mystery and art of the apothecary. Thompson, C: J: S: (O '29)
Mystery at Spanish hacienda. Gregory, J. (N '29)
Mystery man of Europe: Sir Basil Zaharoff. Lewinsohn, R: (D '29)
Mystery reef. Bindloss, H. (Mr '29)

Mysticism
Bragdon, C. F. New image. (Ap '29)
Cusanus, N. Vision of God. (Mr '29)
Mysticism and logic. Russell, B. A. W: (D '29)
Myth of Shakespeare. Williams, C: W. S. (N '29)

Mythology
Goldsmith, E. E. Ancient pagan symbols. (O '29)

Mythology, Celtic
Spence, L: Mysteries of Britain. (D '29)

Mythology, Greek
Rose, H. J. Handbook of Greek mythology. (Ap '29)
Myths after Lincoln. Lewis, L. (Ag '29)

Naked year. Vogau, B. A. (Je '29)
Nanette of the wooden shoes. Brann, E. (S '29)

Nanking incident, 1927
Hobart, A. T. Within the walls of Nanking. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Nantucket, Massachusetts
Starbuck, M. E. My house and I. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Napoleon I, emperor of the French
Clark, L. P. Napoleon. (O '29)
Geer, W. Napoleon and his family, v 2. (Ap '29)
Gottschalk, L: R. Era of the French revolution (1715-1815). (Ag '29)
Merezhkovskii, D. S. Napoleon, the man. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Napoleon I. Memoirs. (Je '29)
Smith, M. S. Story of Napoleon. (Mr '29)

Drama
Unruh, F. von. Bonaparte. (My '29)

Napoleon III, emperor of the French
D'Auvergne, E. B. F. Napoleon the Third. (N '29)
Oncken, H. Napoleon III and the Rhine. (Mr '29)

Fiction
Aubry, O. Phantom emperor. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Napoleon and his family, v 2. Geer, W. (Ap '29)
Napoléon, the man. Merezhkovskii, D. S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Napoleon the Third. D'Auvergne, E. B. F. (N '29)
Napoleon III and the Rhine. Oncken, H. (Mr '29)
Narrative of a journey across the island of Newfoundland in 1822. Cormack, W: E. (Je '29)

Nation, Mrs Carry Amelia (Moore)
Asbury, H. Carry Nation. (N '29)

National characteristics, American
Faÿ, B., and Claflin, A. American experiment. (Ap '29)
Frank, W. D: Re-discovery of America. (My '29)
Hulbert, A. B. Frontiers. (Ag '29)
Keyserling, H. A. America set free. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Müller-Freienfels, R: Mysteries of the soul. (O '29)

National characteristics, French
Hueffer, O. M. French France. (My '29)

National characteristics, Spanish
Cooper, C. S. Understanding Spain. (Ap '29)

Nationalism and nationality
Benda, J. Treason of the intellectuals (La trahison des clercs). (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Joseph, B. Nationality. (N '29)
Kohn, H. History of nationalism in the East. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Nationalist crusade in Syria. MacCallum, E. P. (My '29)
Nationalist program for China. Wu, C.-C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Nationality. Joseph, B. (N '29)
Native argosy. Callaghan, M. (Je '29)
Native problem in Africa. Buell, R. L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Natural conduct. Copeland, E. B. (S '29)

Natural history

Juvenile literature
Patch, E. M. Holiday Pond. (O '29)

Outdoor books
Fuller, R. T. Walk, look & listen! (S '29)
Sass, H. R. On the wings of a bird. (S '29)

England
Parker, E. English wild life. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Natural resources
Lippincott, I: Economic resources and industries of the world. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Nature and direction of learning. Burton, W: H: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Nature and meaning of teaching. Strebel, R. F:, and Morehart, G. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Nature in English literature. Blunden, E. C: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Nature in literature
Blunden, E. C: Nature in English literature. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Nature of the physical world. Eddington, A. S (Mr '29)

Navaho Indians

Fiction
La Farge, O. Laughing Boy. (D '29)

Naval history
Lewis, C: L. Famous old-world sea fighters. (N '29)

Naval operations. Newbolt, H: J: (N '29)
Neapolitan ice. Haynes, R. (Ap '29)
Near East and American philanthropy. Ross, F. A., and others. (D '29)

Near East relief
Ross, F. A., and others. Near East and American philanthropy. (D '29)

Nearer the bone. Wagner, C: A. (Ag '29)
Nearing the end in imperial Russia. Marye, G: T: (O '29)
Necessary man. Logan, A. (O '29)

Necessity (international law)
Rodick, B. C. Doctrine of necessity in international law. (My '29)

Needle's kiss. Small, A. J. (N '29)

Needlework

Implements and appliances
Whiting, G. Tools and toys of stitchery. (Je '29)

Negro authors
Green, E. A. Negro in contemporary American literature. (My '29)

Negro in contemporary American literature. Green, E. A. (My '29)
Negro in Greek and Roman civilization. Beardsley, G. M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Negro literature
Green, E. A. Negro in contemporary American literature. (My '29)

Negro songs
Johnson, G. B. John Henry. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Metfessel, M. F. Phonophotography in folk music. (O '29)
White, N. I. American Negro folk-songs. (Mr '29)

Negroes
American academy of political and social science, Philadelphia. American Negro. (My '29)
Moton, R. R. What the Negro thinks. (Je '29)
Nearing, S. Black America. (Je '29)

Bibliography
Work, M. N., comp. Bibliography of the Negro in Africa and America. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Economic conditions
Nearing, S. Black America. (Je '29)

Folklore
Johnson, G. B. John Henry. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Negroes in Greece
Beardsley, G. M. Negro in Greek and Roman civilization. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Negroes in Haiti
Seabrook, W: B. Magic island. (Mr '29)

Negroes in Jamaica
Beckwith, M. W. Black roadways. (O '29)

Negroes in literature
Green, E. A. Negro in contemporary American literature. (My '29)

Negroes in literature and art
Beardsley, G. M. Negro in Greek and Roman civilization. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Negroes in Rome
Beardsley, G. M. Negro in Greek and Roman civilization. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Neighbors all. Barrows, E. G. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Nellie Bloom. Latimer, M. (Ag '29)
Nemesis at Raynham Parva. Eng title of Grim vengeance. Stewart, A. W. (S '29)

Nepal

Description and travel

Powell, E: A. Last home of mystery. (Je '29)

Nerinda. Douglas, N. (N '29)

Nervous system

Fraser-Harris, D: F. A B C of nerves. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Sherman, M. and I. Process of human behavior. (S '29)

Diseases

Pierce, S. W., and J. T., pseuds. Layman looks at doctors. (D '29)

Netherlands

Description and travel

Bowen, M., pseud. Holland. (Ag '29)

Neumann, Philipp, freiherr von

Neumann, P. Diary. (My '29)

Neuroses

Wexberg, E. Individual psychology. (N '29)

Nevertheless the Duke. Thomas, E. F. (Ag '29)

Nevinson, Henry Woodd

Nevinson, H: W. Last changes, last chances. (Mr '29)

New chapters in the history of Greek literature; second ser. Powell, J: U., and Barber, E. A., eds. (O '29)

New citizenship. Eldridge, S. (Je '29)

New commentary on Holy Scripture. Gore, C:, and others, eds. (Ap '29)

New day in housing. Pink, L: H. (My '29)

New democratic constitutions of Europe. Headlam-Morley, A. (Mr '29)

New despotism. Hewart of Bury, G. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

New education in the Soviet republic. Pinkevitch, A. P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

New England

Antiquities

Delabarre, E. B. Dighton rock. (Ag '29)

History

Taussig, C: W: Rum, romance and rebellion. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Social life and customs

Rawson, M. N. Country auction. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Whiting, E: E. Changing New England. (D '29)

New exploration. McKaye, B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

New fascist state. Hullinger, E. W. (Je '29)

New German republic. Luehr, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

New idol. Leroux, G. (D '29)

New image. Bragdon, C. F. (Ap '29)

New industrial revolution. Meakin, W. (Ag '29)

New industrial revolution and wages. Lauck, W: J. (Ag '29)

New interior decoration. Todd, D., and Mortimer, R. (S '29)

New legends. Allen, H. (D. '29)

New map of South America. Gibbons, H. A. (Mr '29)

New morality. Drake, D. (Mr '29)

New place of the stockholder. Sears, J: H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

New quest. Jones, R. M. (Ag '29)

New roads in old Virginia. Rothery, A. E. (Je '29)

New Russia. Thompson, D. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

New temple. Bojer, J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

New views of evolution. Conger, G: P. (D '29)

New way to net profits. Shibley, F. W. (My '29)

New world. Bowman, I. (Je '29)

New worlds to conquer. Halliburton, R: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

New York. Zoological park

Blair, W: R. In the Zoo. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

New York (city)

Biography

Ulmann, A. New Yorkers. (My '29)

Weinstein, G. Ardent eighties. (Ag '29)

History

Abbott, W. C. New York in the American revolution. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Lenski, L. Wonder city. (O '29)

Libraries

Green, E. B., and Morris, R: B. Guide to the principal sources for early American history (1600-1800) in the city of New York. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Social conditions

Clarke, D. H. In the reign of Rothstein. (D '29)

Weinstein, G. Ardent eighties. (Ag '29)

Social life and customs

Odell, G: C. D. Annals of the New York stage, v 3-4. (Ap '29)

New York (state)

Politics and government

Smith, A. E. Up to now. (N '29)

New York herald

Seitz, D. C. James Gordon Bennetts. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

New York in the American revolution. Abbott, W. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

New Yorkers. Ulmann, A. (My '29)

Newfoundland

Description and travel

Cormack, W: E. Narrative of a journey across the island of Newfoundland in 1822. (Je '29)

Newman on the psychology of faith in the individual. Juergens, S. P. (Ag '29)

Newspaper reporting of public affairs. Bush, C. R. (S '29)

Newspapers

Brown, B. O. Problems of newspaper publishing. (D '29)

England

Shaaber, M. A. Some forerunners of the newspaper in England, 1476-1622. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Next chapter. Maurois, A. (Ap '29)

Next ten years in British social and economic policy. Cole, G: D. H. (S '29)

Nicaragua

Foreign relations

United States

Cramer, F. Our neighbor Nicaragua. (S '29)

Denny, H. N. Dollars for bullets. (S '29)

History

Cramer, F. Our neighbor Nicaragua. (S '29)

Nicholas II, emperor of Russia

Nicholas II, emperor of Russia. Letters of the tsar to the tsaritsa, 1914-1917. (Ag '29)

Nicholas Goade, detective. Oppenheim, E: P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Nicholas of Cusa. See Cusanus, N.

Nicky, son of Egg. Bullett, G. W: (O '29)

Nietzsche, Friedrich Wilhelm

Pourtalès, G. de. Mad king. (My '29)

Night club. Brush, K. (S '29)

Night falls on Siva's hill. Thompson, E: J: (N '29)

Nightingale, Florence

Andrews, M. R. A lost commander: Florence Nightingale. (Je '29)

Nights abroad. Bercovici, K. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Nile gold. Knittel, J: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Nineteenth century

Murray, G. Ordeal of this generation. (S '29)

Nippon shindo ron. Hibino, Y. (Ag '29)

Nitroglycerin

Naoúm, P. P. Nitroglycerine and nitroglycerine explosives. (My '29)

Sohlman, R., and Schück, H. Nobel. (Ag '29)

Nitroglycerine and nitroglycerine explosives. Naoúm, P. P. (My '29)

Nix-nought-nothing. Mitchison, N. M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
No enemy. Ford, F. M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
No love. Garnett, D: (Ag '29)
No-nation girl. Wall, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
No tomorrow. Patmore, B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Noah's cargo. Jennison, G: (Mr '29)
Noah's dove. Benét, L. (Je '29)
Noah's grandchildren. Chevalier, J. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Nobel, Alfred Bernhard
Sohlman, R., and Schück, H. Nobel. (Ag '29)

Nobel family
Sohlman, R., and Schück, H. Nobel. (Ag '29)

Nobel prizes
Sohlman, R., and Schück, H. Nobel. (Ag '29)

Nobile, Umberto
Giudici, D. Tragedy of the Italia. (Ap '29)
Lundborg, E. P. A. M. Arctic rescue. (Je '29)
Noise that time makes. Moore, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Noisy Nora. Lofting, H. (S '29)

Nonsense verses
Johnson, B., comp. Little book of necessary nonsense. (S '29)
Nor many waters. Eng title of Portrait of a celibate. Waugh, A. (Mr '29)

Normandy

Description and travel
Huddleston, S. Normandy. (My '29)
Normandy. Huddleston, S. (My '29)

North, Frank Joshua
Grinnell, G: B. Two great scouts and their Pawnee battalion. (S '29)

North, Luther Hedden
Grinnell, G: B. Two great scouts and their Pawnee battalion. (S '29)

North America

History
Priestley, H. I. Coming of the white man, 1492-1848. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

North Carolina

Social conditions
Herring, H. L. Welfare work in mill villages. (Je '29)

North pole
Ellsworth, L., ed. Air pioneering in the Arctic. (S '29)

North 3-1, pseud. See Owen, E. D.
Northing tramp. Wallace, E. (N '29)

Northwest, Canadian
Moberly, H: J:, and Cameron, W: B. When fur was king. (S '29)

Discovery and exploration
Vandiveer, C. A. Fur-trade and early western exploration. (N '29)

Northwestern university
Lloyd-Jones, E. Student personnel work at Northwestern university. (D '29)

Norway

Description and travel
Beckett, S: J. Fjords and folk of Norway (Ap '29)

Nose
Oaks, L: W., and Merrill, H. G. Your nose, throat and ears. (N '29)
Not all the truth. Benjamin, L: S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Notes on English verse satire. Wolfe, H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Novelist of Vermont [Daniel Pierce Thompson]. Flitcroft, J: E. (Je '29)
Now the sky. Van Doren, M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Nurse in public health. Beard, M. (D '29)
Nursery rhymes for children of darkness. Oaks, G. (Ap '29)

Nursery school
Johnson, H. M. Children in the nursery school (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Nurses and nursing
Burgess, M. Nurses, patients and pocketbooks. (My '29)

Nurses and nursing, Public health
Beard, M. Nurse in public health. (D '29)
Nurses, patients and pocketbooks. Burgess, M. (My '29)
Nutrition in health and disease. Cooper, L. F., and others. (S '29)

Nuts
Smith, J. R. Tree crops. (Je '29)
Nydia. Boker, G: H: (N '29)

O city, cities! Larsson, R. E. (N '29)
Oblomov. Goncharov, I. A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Obstetrics
Richardson, F. H. Doctor's letters to expectant parents. (Ag '29)

Occult sciences
Mann, T: Three essays. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Occupations
Dodge, M. R. Fifty little businesses for women. (Ag '29)
Fleischman, D. E., ed. Outline of careers for women. (My '29)
Hill, H. C. Vocational civics. (Ag '29)

O'Connor, Thomas Power
O'Connor, T: P. Memoirs of an old parliamentarian. (S '29)
October's child. Joseph, D. (D '29)
Oddways. Adams, H. (O '29)
Of reading books. Lowes, J: L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Off the beaten track in southern France. Elston, R. (Ag '29)
Off the deep end. Morley, C. D. (Mr '29)

Office management
Center, S. S., and Herzberg, M. J: Secretarial procedure. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Ognyov, N., pseud. See Rozânov, M. G.
Olaf, Lofoten fisherman. Schram, C. W. (D '29)
Olaf the glorious. Leighton, R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Old age
Epstein, A. Challenge of the aged. (Ap '29)
Gallichan, W. M. Youthful old age. (S '29)

Old age pensions
Epstein, A. Challenge of the aged. (Ap '29)
Old Buddha. Der Ling, princess. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Old civilizations of the New world. Verrill, A. H. (S '29)
Old familiar faces. Nicholson, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Old Lattimer's legacy. Fletcher, J. S. (N '29)
Old Louisiana. Saxon, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Old Miss. Campbell, T: B. (N '29)
Old post bags. Harlow, A. F. (Ap '29)
The old savage in the new civilization. Fosdick, R. B. (Mr '29)
Old silver of Europe & America from early times to the nineteenth century. Jones, E: A. (Ap '29)
Old world masters in New world collections. Singleton, E. (My '29)
Older woman in industry. Lobsenz, J. (Je '29)

Oliver, Laurence, pseud. See Brown, L. O.
Oliver Goldsmith bibliographically and biographically considered. Scott, T. (My '29)
Olle's ski trip. Beskow, E. (Je '29)
Oman, Carola. See Lenanton, C. M. A.
Omnibus of crime. Sayers, D. L. (S '29)
On being a father. Walker, K. M. and E. M. (N '29)
On board the Emma. Dumas, A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
On doing the right thing. Nock, A. J. (Ap '29)
On Mediterranean shores. Ludwig, E. (Ap '29)
On my way. Young, A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
On straw. Lewis, D. B. W. (Ag '29)
On the anvil. Crawford, L. I. (N '29)
On the bottom. Ellsberg, E: (Je '29)
On the high seas. Chatterton, E: K. (O '29)
On the make. Riordan, J: (D '29)
On the wings of a bird. Sass, H. R. (S '29)
On wandering wheels. Gordon, J. and C. J. (Mr '29)
On with the dance. Barbour, S. (N '29)

Once in a blue moon. Condon, F. (N '29)
Once there was a prince. Dunbar, A. (Ap '29)
One-act plays for stage and study; fourth ser. (My '29)
One by one they disappeared. Dalton, M. (Je '29)
One man's war. Hall, B., and Niles, J: J. (Ag '29)
One of those ways. Lowndes, M. A. (Ag '29)
One thousand sayings of history. Fogg, W. (My '29)
120 million. Gold, M. (My '29)
Only seven were hanged. Martin, S. (S '29)
Only two ways to write a story. Gallishaw, J: (S '29)

Ontario

Description and travel

North, R. C. Bob North by canoe and portage. (Mr '29)
Open conspiracy. Wells, H. G: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Opportunity ahead! Ernst, C. H., and White, T. M., eds. (O '29)
Orange court. Coppard, L. A. (Je '29)
Orbison, Keck, pseud. See Keck, M.; Orbison, O.
Ordeal of this generation. Murray, G. (S '29)

Oregon trail

Ghent, W: J. Road to Oregon. (Je '29)
Laut, A. C. Overland trail. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Organic laboratory methods. Cohn, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Organization and administration of the Union army, 1861-1865. Shannon, F. A. (Ap '29)
Organization of supervision. Ayer, F. C., and Barr, A. S. (My '29)
Oriental art. Koechlin, R., and Migeon, G. (Ap '29)

Oriental literature

Turnbull, G. H., comp. Tongues of fire. (Je '29)

Oriental poetry

Collections

Abdullah, A., tr. Lute and scimitar. (Mr '29)
Tietjens, E. S. Poetry of the Orient. (Ap '29)

Orientale (L'aventure de Therese Beauchamps). Miomandre, F. de. (Je '29)

Orientals in the United States

Mears, E. G. Resident Orientals on the American Pacific coast. (Ag '29)

Origin, structure & working of the League of nations. Howard-Ellis, C: (Je '29)
Origin through evolution. Fasten, N. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Origins of the synagogue and the church. Kohler, K. (Je '29)
Origins of the world war. Fay, S. B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Orléans, Henrietta Anne, duchesse d'

La Fayette, M. M. Secret history of Henrietta, princess of England. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Orokaiva magic. Williams, F. E. (Mr '29)

Orpen, Mrs Adela Elizabeth Richards

Orpen, A. E. R. Memories of the old emigrant days in Kansas, 1862-1865. (Je '29)

Other Arabian nights. Katibah, H. I. (Mr '29)
Other crowd. Ashley, M. P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Other side of Main street. Buell, W. (Je '29)
Other ways and other flesh. O'Shaughnessy, E. L. (Ap '29)
Others who returned. Wakefield, H. R. (N '29)
Our biggest customer. Phelps, G: H. (D '29)
Our business civilization. Adams, J. T. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Our changing civilization. Randall, J: H. (Je '29)
Our changing human nature. Schmalhausen, S: D. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Our Cuban colony. Jenks, L. H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Our economic morality. Ward, H. F: (Je '29)
Our face from fish to man. Gregory, W: K. (My '29)
Our holidays in poetry. Carnegie library school association. (O '29)
Our most popular trees. Gilbert, L. N. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Our neighbor Nicaragua. Cramer, F. (S '29)
Our oral word as a social and economic factor. De Witt, M. E. (Je '29)
Our puppet show. Croisset, F. de. (S '29)
Our recovery of Jesus. Bundy, W. E. (Je '29)
Our relations to the nations of the western hemisphere. Hughes, C: E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Our revolutionary forefathers. Barbé-Marbois, F. (Ap '29)
Our secret war. Johnson, T: M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Our singing strength. Kreymborg, A. (D '29)
Our slumbering world. Noble, E. (Ap '29)
Out of the coalfields. Boden, F: C. (S '29)
Outdoor recreation legislation and its effectiveness. Truxal, A. G. (D '29)
Outfitting the teacher of religion. Snowden, J. H: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Outlaw trails. Witten, G: (My '29)

Outlaws

Ashton-Wolfe, H. Crimes of violence and revenge. (Ag '29)
Breakenridge, W: M. Helldorado. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Raine, W: M. Famous sheriffs and western outlaws. (Ag '29)
Sabin, E. L. Wild men of the wild West. (D '29)

Outline history of the Great war. Carey, G. V., and Scott, H. S., comps. (Ap '29)
Outline history of the Japanese drama. Lombard, F. A. (My '29)
Outline history of the world. Davies, H. A. (Mr '29)
Outline of bunk. Haldeman-Julius, E. (Ap '29)
Outline of careers for women. Fleischman, D. E., ed. (My '29)
Outline of period furniture. Kahle, K. M. (O '29)
Outline of political economy. Lapidus, I., and Ostrovityanov, K. (D '29)
Outlines of the psychology of religion. Dresser, H. W. (O '29)
Outpost of the lost. Brainard, D: L. (Je '29)
Outsider. Samuel, M. (D '29)
Outsiders. Bentham, J. (Je '29)

Overland journeys to the Pacific

Ghent, W: J. Road to Oregon. (Je '29)
Laut, A. C. Overland trail. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Overland trail. Laut, A. C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Overshadowed. Löhrke, E. (O '29)

Owen, Rosamond Dale (Mrs Laurence Oliphant)

Owen, R. D. My perilous life in Palestine. (Ag '29)

Oxford. University

Hall, J. H: Alma mater. (Je '29)

Oxford book of carols. (Ap '29)
Oxford book of regency verse, 1798-1837. (My '29)
Oxford poetry, 1928. (My '29)

Pacific ocean

Institute of Pacific relations. Problems of the Pacific. (Mr '29)

Pacific railroads

Perkins, J. R. Trails, rails and war; the life of General G. M. Dodge. (Je '29)

Pacifism in the modern world. Allen, D., ed. (D '29)

Packets

Eskew, G. L. Pageant of the packets. (D '29)

Pact of Paris

Miller, D: H. Peace pact of Paris. (Mr '29)
Shotwell, J. T. War as an instrument of national policy. (Mr '29)

Pagan interval. Winwar, F. (N '29)

Paganini, Niccolò

Day, L. Paganini of Genoa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Paganini of Genoa. Day, L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Paganism in our Christianity. Weigall, A. E: P. B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Pageant of the packets. Eskew, G. L. (D '29)
Pageant of the stars. Luyten, W. J. (Ap '29)

Painters
Chandler, A. C. Story-lives of master artists. (D '29)
Painting, Dutch
Wilenski, R. H. Introduction to Dutch art. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Painting, French
Raynal, M. Modern French painters. (Ap '29)
Painting, Industrial
Hengeveld, H: J:, and others. Practical railway painting and lacquering. (D '29)
Paintings
Singleton, E. Old world masters in New world collections. (My '29)
Pale warriors. Hamilton, D: O. (Je '29)
Palestine
Description and travel
Gilmore, A. F. East and west of Jordan. (Je '29)
Golding, L: Those ancient lands. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Grenfell, W. T. Labrador looks at the Orient. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hamilton, N. R. Both sides of the Jordan. (Je '29)
Holmes, J: H. Palestine, to-day and to-morrow. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
History
Samuel, M. What happened in Palestine. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Politics and government
Stoyanovsky, J. Mandate for Palestine. (N '29)
Race question
Holmes, J: H. Palestine, to-day and to-morrow. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Palestine, to-day and to-morrow. Holmes, J: H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Palgrave mummy. Pettee, F. M. (S '29)
Palmer, John Leslie. See Beeding, F., pseud.
Palmerston, Henry John Temple, 3d viscount
Palmerston, H: J: T., and Gladstone, W: E. Gladstone and Palmerston. (Ap '29)
Pamphlet against anthologies. Riding, L., and Graves, R. (Mr '29)
Pan American peace plans. Hughes, C: E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Pan Americanism
Hughes, C: E. Pan American peace plans. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Pan and peacocks. Roberts, W. A. (Je '29)
Panama
Foreign relations
United States
Miller, H. G. Isthmian highway. (S '29)
Panama canal
Miller, H. G. Isthmian highway. (S '29)
Panorama of the world's legal systems. Wigmore, J: H: (My '29)
Pansies. Lawrence, D: H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Panther magic. Baker, O. (My '29)
Paper houses. Plomer, W: C: F. (Ag '29)
Paper making and trade
Bibliography
West, C. J., comp. Bibliography of pulp and paper making, 1900-1928. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Papers on Shelley, Wordsworth & others. Chapman, J. A. (S '29)
Paradise court. Fletcher, J. S. (Ap '29)
Parasites
Hegner, R. W., and others. Animal parasitology. (S '29)
Parent and child
Groves, E. R. and G. Parents and children. (Ap '29)
Groves, E. R. and G. Wholesome parenthood. (O '29)
Sayles, M. B. Problem child at home. (Ap '29)
Parents
Cleveland, E. If parents only knew. (S '29)
Parents and children. Groves, E. R. and G. (Ap '29)
Parents' and teachers' associations
Cleveland, E. If parents only knew. (S '29)
Parents and the pre-school child. Blatz, W: E., and Bott, H. (Ag '29)
Paris
Description
Bonney, T. and L. Shopping guide to Paris. (N '29)
Laughlin, C. E. So you're going to Paris! (N '29)
Slocombe, G: Paris in profile. (D '29)
Hotels, restaurants, etc.
Bonney, T. and L. Guide to the restaurants of Paris. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Street, J. L. Where Paris dines. (S '29)
Social life and customs
Huddleston, S. Paris salons, cafés, studios. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Josephy, H., and McBride, M. M. Paris is a woman's town. (S '29)
Slocombe, G: Paris in profile. (D '29)
Wilson, B. House of memories. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Paris embassy during the second empire. Eng title of Secrets of the second empire. Cowley, H: R: C: W. (O '29)
Paris in profile. Slocombe, G: (D '29)
Paris is a woman's town. Josephy, H., and McBride, M. M. (S '29)
Paris salons, cafés, studios. Huddleston, S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Parish church. Lamborn, E. A. G. (N '29)
Parish's fancy. Kellogg, W. G. (Ag '29)
Parks
Truxal, A. G. Outdoor recreation legislation and its effectiveness. (D '29)
Parliament and the British Empire. Schuyler, R. L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Parnassus en route. Horan, K., comp. (N '29)
Parodies
Squire, J: C., comp. Apes and parrots. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Parson of Panamint. Kyne, P: B. (S '29)
Partners in crime. Christie, A. (O '29)
Partners three. Wagner, E. (Mr '29)
Partnership. Bentley, P. E. (D '29)
Passage to the sky. Coxe, H. (O '29)
Passing. Larsen, N. (Ag '29)
Pastel. Heyer, G. (S '29)
Pastures of wonder. Keyser, C. J. (O '29)
Patchwork madonna. Weston, H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Patent law for the inventor and executive. Toulmin, H. A. (Ag '29)
Patent laws and legislation
Toulmin, H. A. Patent law for the inventor and executive. (Ag '29)
Patents
United States
Toulmin, H. A. Patent law for the inventor and executive. (Ag '29)
Paterfamilias. Trites, W: B. (O '29)
Path of glory. Blake, G: (Ag '29)
Pathway. Williamson, H: (Ap '29)
Patient in room 18. Eberhart, M. G. (Ag '29)
Patio gardens. Fox, H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Patricia lacked a lover. North, J: (Ag '29)
Paul, Saint
Baumann, E. Saint Paul. (Ag '29)
Paul and the intellectuals. Robertson, A. T: (Je '29)
Paul Revere's own story. Revere, P. (S '29)
Pauncefote, Julian, 1st baron
Mowat, R. B. Life of Lord Pauncefote. (My '29)
Pawnee Indians
Grinnell, G: B. Two great scouts and their Pawnee battalion. (S '29)
Paying guests. Benson, E: F: (S '29)
Peace
Allen, D., ed. Pacifism in the modern world (D '29)
Boeckel, F. B. Between war and peace. (Ap '29)
Bullard, A. American diplomacy in the modern world. (Ap '29)

Peace—Continued
Cecil of Chelwood, E. A. R. G.-C. Way of peace. (Ag '29)
Martin, C: E. Politics of peace. (S '29)
Mead, L. T. Law or war. (Ap '29)
Miller, D: H. Peace pact of Paris. (Mr '29)
Murray, G. Ordeal of this generation. (S '29)
Richards, L. Christian's alternative to war. (N '29)

Peace conference, 1919
House, E: M. Intimate papers of Colonel House. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Nowak, K: F. Versailles. (Ag '29)

Peace pact of Paris. Miller, D: H. (Mr '29)
The peacemakers. Eng title of The molehill. Ritchie, A. (Ap '29)
Peach blossom. Martínez Zuviría, G. A. (Je '29)
Peaks of invention. Leeming, J. (Je '29)
Peccadilloes. Keene, F. (N '29)
Peder Victorious. Rølvaag, O. E. (Mr '29)
Pedro Gorino. Dean, H. (My '29)
Peep-in-the-world. Crichton, F. E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Peep show. Dudeney, A. (Ap '29)
Peeps at arts & crafts. Hector, G. M. (Mr '29)
Peeps at Parnassus. Katzin, O. (My '29)
Peerless leader: William Jennings Bryan. Hibben, P. (D '29)
PeeVee. Jacob, F. (My '29)

Peking

Gilds
Burgess, J: S. Guilds of Peking. (S '29)

Social conditions
Burgess, J: S. Guilds of Peking. (S '29)

Pelican coast. Le May, A. (Ag '29)

Pen drawing
Guptill, A. L. Drawing with pen and ink. (O '29)

Penelope's man. Erskine, J: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Penn, William
Robinson, R. M. Penn country and the Chilterns. (O '29)

Penn country and the Chilterns. Robinson, R. M. (O '29)

Pennell, Joseph
Pennell, E. Life and letters of Joseph Pennell. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Penny dreadful. Ross, M. H. (Ag '29)
Penny wise and book foolish. Starrett, V. (Ag '29)
Penrod Jashber. Tarkington, B. (N '29)
People. Wallace, E. (Je '29)
People and places. Goldring, D. (Ag '29)
People of Seldwyla. Keller, G. (S '29)
People of Tibet. Bell, C: A. (Je '29)
People will talk. Runbeck, M. L. (D '29)
Pep. Feuchtwanger, L. (O '29)

Pepys, Samuel
Pepys, S: Further correspondence, 1662-1679. (My '29)
Ponsonby, A. A: W: H. Samuel Pepys. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Père Marquette, priest, pioneer, and adventurer. Repplier, A. (Mr '29)
Perfect murder case. Bush, C. (O '29)
Peril. Osbourne, L. (Ag '29)
Period furniture handbook. Gould, G: G. and F. (My '29)
Permanent wave. Sullivan, V. (S '29)

Perry, Thomas Sergeant
Morse, J: T. Thomas Sergeant Perry. (Ag '29)
Perry, T: S. Selections from [his] letters. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Persia

Description and travel
Amory, C., jr. Persian days. (My '29)
Norden, H. Under Persian skies. (My '29)
Sackville-West, V. M. Twelve days. (Mr '29)

Social life and customs
Edwards, A. C. Persian caravan. (Je '29)
Mirza, Y. B: Myself when young. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Saghaphi, M. K. In the imperial shadow. (Ap '29)

Persian caravan. Edwards, A. C. (Je '29)
Persian days. Amory, C., jr. (My '29)

Persian gulf
Wilson, A. T. Persian gulf. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

The Persians are coming. Frank, B. (Ap '29)
Person called "Z." Farjeon, J. J. (Je '29)
Personalities of antiquity. Weigall, A. E: P. B. (Ag '29)

Personality
Boorman, W: R. Developing personality in boys. (My '29)
Brown, W: Science and personality. (S '29)
Burgess, E. W., ed. Personality and the social group. (S '29)
Coffin, J. H. The soul comes back. (Ag '29)
Leary, D. B. Modern psychology, normal and abnormal. (Mr '29)
Manuel, H. T. Master of my fate. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Wexberg, E. Individual psychology. (N '29)

Personality, Disorders of
Prince, M. Clinical and experimental studies in personality. (Je '29)

Personality and the social group. Burgess, E. W., ed. (S '29)

Personnel work in education
Lloyd-Jones, E. Student personnel work at Northwestern university. (D '29)

Peter I, the Great, emperor of Russia
Graham, S. Peter the Great. (D '29)
Oudard, G. Peter the Great. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Peter Good for Nothing. Aldrich, D. (Je '29)
Peter the drunk. Wertenbaker, C: (My '29)
Peter the Great. Graham, S. (D '29)
Peter the Great. Oudard, G. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Petra, Arabia

Description and travel
Hamilton, N. R. Both sides of the Jordan. (Je '29)

Petroglyphs
Delabarre, E. B. Dighton rock. (Ag '29)

Petroleum
Herold, S. C. Analytical principles of the production of oil, gas, and water from wells. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Thom, W: T. Petroleum and coal. (S '29)

Petroleum and coal. Thom, W: T. (S '29)

Pets
Bianco, M. All about pets. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Phantom emperor. Aubry, O. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Phantom in the wine. Nugent, M. M.-M. (Ap '29)
Pharaoh's daughter. Gaw, A. and E. (Ap '29)

Pharisees
Riddle, D. W. Jesus and the Pharisees. (Mr '29)

Pharmacy
Thompson, C: J: S: Mystery and art of the apothecary. (O '29)

Phases of English poetry. Read, H. E: (Ap '29)
Pheidias. Howard, J: G. (S '29)

Phidias

Poetry
Howard, J: G. Pheidias. (S '29)

Philadelphia

Description
Barton, G: Walks and talks about old Philadelphia. (Je '29)

Philippine Islands
White, J: R. Bullets and bolos. (Mr '29)

Description and travel
Cole, M. E. Savage gentlemen. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

History
Forbes, W: C. Philippine Islands. (Ap '29)

Native races
Cole, M. E. Savage gentlemen. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Politics and government
Forbes, W: C. Philippine Islands. (Ap '29)

Social life and customs
Cole, M. E. Savage gentlemen. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Philippine Islands. Forbes, W: C. (Ap '29)

Philosophers
Herzberg, A. Psychology of philosophers. (N '29)

Philosophical theology, v 1. Tennant, F: R. (S '29)

Philosophy
Clemenceau, G. E. B: In the evening of my thought. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dewey, J: Philosophy of John Dewey. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Dewey, J: Quest for certainty. (D '29)
Durant, W: J. Mansions of philosophy. (Ag '29)
Hegel, G. W. F. Selections. (O '29)
Hocking, W: E. Types of philosophy. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Keyserling, H. A. Creative understanding. (Ag '29)
Keyserling, H. A. Recovery of truth. (S '29)
Larrabee, H. A. What philosophy is. (Mr '29)
Richet, C: R. Impotence of man (L'homme impuissant). (N '29)
Russell, B. A. W: Mysticism and logic. (D '29)

Addresses, essays, lectures
Smith, T: V., and Wright, W: K., eds. Essays in philosophy. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

History
Boas, G: Adventures of human thought. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Boas, G: Major traditions of European philosophy. (D '29)

Philosophy, Ancient
Livingstone, R: W., ed. Mission of Greece. (S '29)
Turnbull, G. H., comp. Tongues of fire. (Je '29)

Philosophy, French
Benda, J. Belphégor. (Je '29)
Martin, K. French liberal thought in the eighteenth century. (D '29)

Philosophy, Greek
Robin, L. Greek thought and the origins of the scientific spirit. (Ag '29)

Philosophy, Jewish
Roback, A. A. Jewish influence in modern thought. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Philosophy, Medieval
Thorndike, L. Science and thought in the fifteenth century. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Philosophy, Modern
Benda, J. Treason of the intellectuals (La trahison des clercs). (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Krutch, J. W. Modern temper. (My '29)
Robinson, D. S., comp. Anthology of recent philosophy. (My '29)
Urquhart, W: S. Vedanta and modern thought. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Philosophy and religion
Lippmann, W. Preface to morals. (Je '29)
Sheen, F. J: Religion without God. (Ap '29)

Philosophy of fiction. Overton, G. M. (Ap '29)

Philosophy of ideals. Brightman, E. S. (My '29)

Philosophy of John Dewey. Dewey, J: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Philosophy of Spinoza. McKeon, R: P: (Ap '29)

Philosophy of the dusk. O'Dare, K. (Ag '29)

Phonophotography in folk music. Metfessel, M. F. (O '29)

Photography
Young, E: D. Art of the photographer. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Photography, Legal
Osborn, A. S. Questioned documents. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Photography of animals
Akeley, M. L. Carl Akeley's Africa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Johnson, M. E. Lion. (Je '29)
Rossell, L. Tracks & trails. (Je '29)

Physical education and training
Crampton, C: W. Daily health builder. (Je '29)
Duncan, M. M., and Cundiff, V. P. Play days for girls and women. (D '29)
Keene, C: H. Physical welfare of the school child. (N '29)
Klapper, P. Contemporary education. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Myers, A. F., and Bird, O. C. Health and physical education for elementary schools. (N '29)

Physical welfare of the school child. Keene, C: H. (N '29)

Physician and patient. Emerson, L. E., ed. (Je '29)

Physicians
Bashford, H: H. Harley street calendar. (D '29)
Emerson, L. E., ed. Physician and patient. (Je '29)
Pierce, S. D., and J. T., pseuds. Layman looks at doctors. (D '29)

Physics
Sullivan, J: W: N. Bases of modern science. (My '29)

Philosophy
Eddington, A. S. Nature of the physical world. (Mr '29)

Physiognomy
Gregory, W: K. Our face from fish to man. (My '29)

Physiological chemistry
Stieglitz, J. O., and others, eds. Chemistry in medicine. (My '29)

Physiology and biochemistry of bacteria. Buchanan, R. E., and Fulmer, E. I. (Je '29)

Pick up the pieces. Owen, E. D. (Je '29)

Picture book of flying. Dobias, F. (Ap '29)

Picturesque old France. Turner, H. B. (S '29)

Pidgin cargo. Hobart, A. T. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Pierre. Melville, H. (S '29)

Pigskin. Ferguson, C: W. (D '29)

Pilgrimage of Buddhism and a Buddhist pilgrimage. Pratt, J. B. (Mr '29)

Pilgrims, Indians and patriots. Adams, R. G. (Ap '29)

Pilgrims of adversity. McFee, W: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Pilgrim's way in South Africa. Fairbridge, D. (S '29)

Pilloried! Stokes, S. (S '29)

Pillow-book. Sei Shōnagon (My '29)

Pilnyak, Boris, pseud. See Vogau, B. A.

Pilots and pilotage
Russell, C: E: From Sandy Hook to 62°. (D '29)

Pilsudski, Józef
Landau, R. Pilsudski and Poland. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Pilsudski and Poland. Landau, R. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Pines of Jaalam. Chase, D. (My '29)

Pinocchio for the stage. Bufano, R. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Pioneer tobacco merchant in the Orient. Thomas, J. A. (My '29)

Pioneers all! French, J. L:, ed. (Je '29)

Pioneers of freedom. Coleman, M. (Je '29)

Pirate of the Gulf. Holland, R. S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Pizarro, Francisco, marquis
Verrill, A. H. Great conquerors of South and Central America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Plagiarism
Paull, H. M. Literary ethics. (S '29)

Plain Jane. Harrower, M. (Ag '29)

Plain people. Howe, E. W. (My '29)

Plain tales from Flanders. Clayton, P. T: B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Planets
Chamberlin, T: C. Two solar families. (O '29)

Plantation life
Phillips, U. B. Life and labor in the old South. (Ag '29)
Saxon, L. Old Louisiana. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Plants
Irritability and movements
Bose, J. C. Motor mechanism of plants. (O '29)
Plants, Motion of fluids in
Bose, J. C. Motor mechanism of plants. (O '29)
Plato
Chance, R. J. F. Until philosophers are kings. (Ag '29)
Lodge, R. C. Plato's theory of ethics. (Mr '29)
Woodbridge, F: J. E. Son of Apollo. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Plato's theory of ethics. Lodge, R. C. (Mr '29)
Play
May, H. L:, and Petgen, D. Leisure and its use. (My '29)
Play days for girls and women. Duncan, M. M., and Cundiff, V. P. (D '29)
Playgrounds
May, H. L:, and Petgen, D. Leisure and its use. (My '29)
Truxal, A. G. Outdoor recreation legislation and its effectiveness. (D '29)
Plays. Barrie, J. M. (Ap '29)
Plays. Galsworthy, J: (Ap '29)
Plays. Molnár, F. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Plays; first ser. Coward, N. P. (My '29)
Plays for people and puppets. Reighard, C. F. (My '29)
Plays of American life and fantasy. Isaacs, E. J., ed. (Ag '29)
Playwriting for profit. Krows, A. E. (Ap '29)
Please come to my party. Hamilton, B. M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Pleasure first. Fischer, M. (D '29)
Pless, Mary Theresa Olivia (Cornwallis-West), fürstin von
Pless, M. T. O. Daisy, princess of Pless. (My '29)
Pliny, (Gaius Plinius Caecilius Secundus) the Younger
Harte, G. B. Villas of Pliny: (Ag '29)
Pluck the flower. Brophy, J: (My '29)
Plum bun. Fauset, J. R. (Ap '29)
Plundered host. Hill, F. (My '29)
The plunger [Benjamin P. Hutchinson]. Dies, E: J. (Ag '29)
Plus and minus. Harper, F. (N '29)
Pocahontas
Fletcher, J: G. John Smith—also Pocahontas. (Mr '29)
Pocket-handkerchief park. Field, R. L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Pocono mountain, Pennsylvania
Tyson, C. B. The Poconos. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
The Poconos. Tyson, C. B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Poe, Edgar Allen
Forrest, W: M. Biblical allusions in Poe. (Ag '29)
Poems. Boardman, R. (My '29)
Poems. Gore-Booth, E. (D '29)
Poems. Norman, C: (Ag '29)
Poems. Raleigh, W. (O '29)
Poems. Winchilsea, A. (Ap '29)
Poems (1914-26). Graves, R. (N '29)
Poems and The spring of joy. Webb, M. G. (Je '29)
Poet and the lunatics. Chesterton, G. K. (D '29)
Poetics
Wood, C. Craft of poetry. (Je '29)
Poetry
Buchanan, S. M. Poetry and mathematics. (N '29)
Chilton, E. C., and Agar, H. Garment of praise. (My '29)
Downey, J. E. Creative imagination. (Ag '29)
Ker, W: P. Form and style in poetry. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Read, H. E:. Phases of English poetry. (Ap '29)
Riding, L., and Graves, R. Survey of modernist poetry. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wolfe, H. Dialogues & monologues. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wood, C. Craft of poetry. (Je '29)
Collections
Hill, C. comp. Twentieth century love poems. (D '29)
Marcus, S., comp. Anthology of revolutionary poetry. (S '29)
Van Doren, M., ed. Anthology of world poetry. (Ap '29)
History and criticism
Elliott, G: R. Cycle of modern poetry. (Ag '29)
Richards, I. A. Practical criticism. (S '29)
Tinker, C. B. Good estate of poetry. (Je '29)
Poetry (individual authors)
Adams, L. High falcon. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Aiken, C. P. Selected poems. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Aldington, R: Collected poems. (Ap '29)
Allen, H. New legends. (D '29)
Allen, H. Sarah Simon. (N '29)
Auslander, J. Hell in harness. (N '29)
Auslander, J. Letters to women. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Benét, L. Noah's dove. (Je '29)
Binyon, L. The idols. (S '29)
Black, M. Machinery. (Je '29)
Blake, W: Land of dreams. (Je '29)
Boardman, R. Poems. (My '29)
Boden, F: C. Out of the coalfields. (S '29)
Bogan, L. Dark summer. (D '29)
Branch, A. H. Sonnets from a lock box. (D '29)
Bynner, W. Indian earth. (O '29)
Carman, B. Wild garden. (Je '29)
Carroll, L:, pseud. Collected verse. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Coatsworth, E. J. Compass rose. (Ag '29)
Coffin, R. P: T. Golden falcon. (O '29)
Conkling, G. W. Witch. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Cowley, M. Blue Juniata. (O '29)
Cullen, C. Black Christ. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Damon, S: F. Tilted moons. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Davies, W: H: Collected poems, 1928. (O '29)
Dickinson, E. N. Further poems. (My '29)
Dodd, L. W. Great enlightenment. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Donne, J: Complete poetry and selected prose. (S '29)
Fairbridge, K. O. Veld verse. (Mr '29)
Fearing, K. Angel arms. (Ag '29)
Feuchtwanger, L. Pep. (O '29)
Ficke, A. D. Mountain against mountain. (Ap '29)
Finley, J: H. Thalia. (O '29)
Flanner, H. Time's profile. (O '29)
Fleg, E. Wall of weeping. (D '29)
Fletcher, J: G. Black rock. (Ap '29)
Frost, E. Hovering shadow. (O '29)
Frost, R. Selected poems. (My '29)
Frost, R. West running brook. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Fuller, E. White peaks and green. (Ag '29)
Gibbon, M. For daws to peck at. (Ag '29)
Gibson, W. W. Golden room. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Giltinan, C. Veiled door. (Ag '29)
Gore-Booth, E. Poems. (D '29)
Gould, G. Collected poems. (D '29)
Gould, W. Aphrodite. (My '29)
Graves, R. Poems (1914-26). (N '29)
Greene, L. Morning moods. (My '29)
Griffith, W: Greek gestures. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Guiterman, A. Song and laughter. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hall, H. Cry of time. (Ap '29)
Harrower, M. Plain Jane. (Ag '29)
Jeffers, R. Cawdor. (Mr '29)
Jeffers, R. Dear Judas. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Katzin, O. Peeps at Parnassus. (My '29)
Kilmer, A. Selected poems. (Ag '29)
Kimball, A. M. The devil is a woman. (My '29)
King, S. Listen to the mocking-bird. (Mr '29)
Kreymborg, A. Lost sail. (Ap '29)
Kreymborg, A. Manhattan men. (Je '29)
Larsson, R. E. O city, cities! (N '29)
Lawrence, D: H. Collected poems. (S '29)

Lawrence, D: H. Pansies. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Leonard, W: E. Son of earth. (Mr '29)
Lindsay, V. Every soul is a circus. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Lummis, C: F. Bronco Pegasus. (Ap '29)
McCann, R. Bitter sweet. (Ag '29)
MacLeish, A. Hamlet of A. MacLeish. (Mr '29)
March, J. M. The set-up. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Masefield, J: Midsummer night. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Mason, F. C. This unchanging mask. (Ag '29)
Masters, E. L. Fate of the jury. (Je '29)
Millay, E. St V. Buck in the snow. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Millay, K. Hermit thrush. (Je '29)
Montgomery, R. M. Many devices. (Ag '29)
Moore, M. Noise that time makes. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Morris, H. S. Martial notes of the old war and the new. (N '29)
Mullins, H. Earthbound. (My '29)
Nathan, R. Cedar box. (Ag '29)
Norman, C: Poems. (Ag '29)
North, J. N. Long leash. (Je '29)
O'Donnell, C: L. Rime of the rood. (Ap '29)
O'Halloran, E. Strange truth. (Je '29)
O'Neil, G: God-beguiled. (N '29)
Raleigh, W. Poems. (O '29)
Ridge, L. Firehead. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Roberts, W. A. Pan and peacocks. (Je '29)
Robinson, E. A. Cavender's house. (Je '29)
Robinson, H: M. Buck fever. (Ag '29)
Sarojini Nāyadu. S. Sceptered flute. (Ag '29)
Sassoon, S. L. Heart's journey. (Je '29)
Schauffler, R. H. Hobnails in Eden. (Ag '29)
Seiffert, M. A. King with three faces. (D '29)
Simpson, W: H. Along old trails. (Je '29)
Sitwell, E. Gold Coast customs. (N '29)
Spitteler, C. Selected poems. (Ap '29)
Stringer, A. J: A. Woman at dusk. (Je '29)
Strobel, M. Lost city. (Ap '29)
Talbott, C. Ballyhoo for a mendicant. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Tietjens, E. S. Leaves in windy weather. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Townshend, F. Earth. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Trent, L. Children of fire and shadow. (O '29)
Van Doren, M. Now the sky. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wagner, C: A. Nearer the bone. (Ag '29)
Wallis, K. Bands and rebels. (S '29)
Webb, M. G. Poems and The spring of joy. (Je '29)
White, E. B. The lady is cold. (O '29)
Wilson, E. Poets, farewell! (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Winchilsea, A. Poems. (Ap '29)
Wolfe, H. This blind rose. (Mr '29)
Wyeth, J: A. B. This man's army. (Ag '29)
Wylie, E. Angels and earthly creatures. (Je '29)
Wylie, E. Trivial breath. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Poetry and mathematics. Buchanan, S. M. (N '29)

Poetry of places
Horan, K., comp. Parnassus en route. (N '29)
Poetry of the English renaissance, 1509-1660. Hebel, J: W:, and Hudson, H. H., eds. (O '29)
Poetry of the Orient. Tietjens, E. S. (Ap '29)
Poets and music. Naylor, E: W. (N '29)
Poets, farewell! Wilson, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Poison in a garden suburb. Cole, G: D. H. and M. I. (N '29)
Poison of prudery. Gallichan, W. M. (N '29)
Poison plague. Levinrew, W. (D '29)

Poitiers, Diane de, duchess of Valentinois
Henderson, H. W. The enchantress. (Mr '29)

Poland

Foreign relations

Germany

Poliakoff, V. Eagles black and white. (O '29)

Politics and government
Landau, R. Pilsudski and Poland. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Polar regions in the twentieth century. Greely, A. W. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Police

Philippine Islands
White, J: R. Bullets and bolos. (Mr '29)
Political handbook of the world. Council on foreign relations. (Je '29)

Political parties
Council on foreign relations. Political handbook of the world. (Je '29)

United States
Beard, C: A. American party battle. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Fine, N. Labor and farmer parties in the United States, 1828-1928. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Political science
Chance, R. J. F. Until philosophers are kings. (Ag '29)
Headlam-Morley, A. New democratic constitutions of Europe. (Mr '29)
Martin, C: E. Politics of peace. (S '29)
Murchison, C. A. Social psychology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Petrie, C: A. Story of government. (O '29)
Zimmern, A. E. American and Europe. (S '29)

History
Allen, J: W: History of political thought in the sixteenth century. (Mr '29)
Martin, K. French liberal thought in the eighteenth century. (D '29)
Politicks of Laurence Sterne. Curtis, L: P. (S '29)
Politics and criminal prosecution. Moley, R. (Je '29)
Politics of peace. Martin, C: E. (S '29)

Polk, James Knox
Polk, J. K. Polk. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Polo
Bent, N. American polo. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Pomp and circumstance. Clermont-Tonnerre, E. (S '29)

Pompadour, Jeanne Antoinette (Poisson) marquise de
Du Hausset, Mme. Memoirs of Madame de Pompadour. (My '29)

Poor

Great Britain
Eden, F: M. State of the poor. (S '29)
Poor devil. Smith, H: J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Poor laws

Great Britain
Eden, F: M. State of the poor. (S '29)
Poor women! Hoult, N. (Ag '29)
Pope or Mussolini. Hearley, J: (S '29)

Popes

Temporal power
Hearley, J: Pope or Mussolini. (S '29)

Population
Kuczynski, R. R. Balance of births and deaths, v 1. (My '29)
Porcelain pagodas and palaces of jade. Grantham, A. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Portage, Wisconsin. Gale, Z. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Porter, David
Turnbull, A. D. Commodore David Porter, 1780-1843. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Portrait in a mirror. Morgan, C. (Ap '29)
Portrait of a celibate. Waugh, A. (Mr '29)
Portrait of a spy. Thurston, E. T. (S '29)
Portrait of Ambrose Bierce. De Castro, A. D. (Je '29)

Portraits
Carrick, A. V. Shades of our ancestors. (Ap '29)
Portraits and reflections. Hodgson, S. (O '29)
Post-war monetary stabilization. Cassel, G. (N '29)

Post-war unemployment problem. Clay, H: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Postage stamps
Stiles, K. B. Stamps. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Postal service
History
Harlow, A. F. Old post bags. (Ap '29)
Postures. Eng title of Quartet. Rhys, J. (Je '29)
Pot of paint. Rothenstein, J: K. (Je '29)
Pot shots from Pegasus. Preston, K. (Ag '29)

Potash industry and trade
Teeple, J: E. Industrial development of Searles Lake brines. (O '29)
Pots and pans. Harrison, H. S. (N '29)

Pottery
Bunzel, R. L. Pueblo potter. (D '29)
Grantham, A. E. Porcelain pagodas and palaces of jade. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Harrison, H. S. Pots and pans. (N '29)
Weygandt, C. Red hills. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Pottery, Oriental
Koechlin, R., and Migeon, G. Oriental art (Ap '29)

Poverty
Kelso, R. W. Poverty. (D '29)
Power that wins. Trine, R. W. (O '29)
Powers and pillars. Eng title of Englander. Kircher, R. (Ag '29)
Practical automotive lacquering. Miskella, W: J. (Ap '29)
Practical bee-breeding. Gilman, A. (My '29)
Practical candy making. Porter, V: W. (N '29)
Practical color simplified. Miskella, W: J. (Mr '29)
Practical criticism. Richards, I. A. (S '29)
Practical railway painting and lacquering. Hengeveld, H: J:, and others. (D '29)
Practical speech-making. Shurter, E. Du B., and Marsh, C: A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Practice and procedure of international conferences. Dunn, F: S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Pragmatic revolt in politics. Elliott, W: Y. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Pragmatism
Elliott, W: Y. Pragmatic revolt in politics. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Preaching
Freeman, J. E: The ambassador. (Je '29)

Precocity
Goddard, H: H. School training of gifted children. (My '29)
Preface to morals. Lippmann, W. (Je '29)

Pregnancy
Richardson, F. H. Doctor's letters to expectant parents. (Ag '29)
Present crisis in religion. Orchard, W: E. (N '29)
Present-day labor relations. Gemmill, P. F. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Present juridical status of the British dominions in international law. Baker, P. J: N. (D '29)

Presidents
United States
Cook, S. L. Torchlight parade. (Je '29)
Thompson, C: W. Presidents I've known and two near presidents. (Ap '29)
White, W: A. Masks in a pageant. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Presidents I've known and two near presidents. Thompson, C: W. (Ap '29)
Presland, John, pseud. See Skelton, G.

Press
Graves, W: B., ed. Readings in public opinion. (My '29)

United States
Nevins, A., comp. American press opinion, Washington to Coolidge. (Mr '29)
Pretty sinister. Beeding, F., pseud. (My '29)
Priceman, James, pseud. See Kirkland, W. M.

Prices
Fisher, I. Money illusion. (Ap '29)
Lawrence, J. S. Stabilization of prices. (Ag '29)
Rogers, J. H., and others. Process of inflation in France 1914-1927. (S '29)
Prima donna. Sanborn, P. (Ap '29)
Primitive church. Streeter, B. H. (N '29)
Primitive economics of the New Zealand Maori. Firth, R. W: (N '29)
Prince Bantam. McNeer, M. Y., and Ward, L. K. (S '29)
Prince or somebody. Golding, L: (Je '29)
The prince serves his purpose. Miller, A. (Ag '29)
Princes of the night. Kessel, J. (Ap '29)
Principles and practices of vocational guidance. Cohen, I. D: (Ag '29)
Principles and problems of right thinking. Burtt, E. A. (My '29)
Principles of applied zoology. Wardle, R. A. (N '29)
Principles of Christian art. Gardner, P. (Je '29)
Principles of economics. Garver, F: B., and Hansen, A. H. (S '29)
Principles of inland transportation. Daggett, S. (My '29)
Principles of mechanical refrigeration. Macintire, H. J. (Ap '29)
Principles of metallurgy. Bray, J: L. (N '29)
Principles of rural-urban sociology. Sorokin, P. A., and Zimmerman, C. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Principles of sociology. Binder, R. M. (Ag '29)

Printers
Orcutt, W: D. Master makers of the book. (Ap '29)

Printing
History
Orcutt, W: D. Master makers of the book. (Ap '29)

Specimens
Dwiggins, W: A. Layout in advertising. (Ap '29)
Meynell, F. Typography of newspaper advertisements. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Modern book production. (Je '29)
Prisoners all. Graf, O. M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Prisoners of the forest. Clifford, H. C: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Prisons
Tasker, R. J. Grimhaven. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Russia
Cederholm, B. In the clutches of the Tcheka. (D '29)

United States
Smith, E: H: You can escape. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Privacity agent. Sandwell, B. K. (N '29)
Private life of Catherine the Great of Russia. Murat, M. (Je '29)
Private life of Tutankhamen. Tabouis, C. R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Private secretary. Schultz, A. B. (N '29)
Private Suhren. Vring, G. von der. (Ap '29)

Privateering
Robinson, W: M. Confederate privateers. (Ap '29)
Prize stories of 1928. O. Henry memorial award. (My '29)
Problem child at home. Sayles, M. B. (Ap '29)
Problem economics. Keezer, D. M., and others. (O '29)
Problem of industrial relations. Clay, H: (S '29)
Problem-play. Balmforth, R. (S '29)
Problems of newspaper publishing. Brown, B. O. (D '29)
Problems of the Pacific. Institute of Pacific relations. (Mr '29)
Process and reality. Whitehead, A. N. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Process of human behavior. Sherman, M. and I. (S '29)
Process of inflation in France 1914-1927. Rogers, J. H., and others. (S '29)
Procession. Hurst, F. (Ap '29)
Procession of lovers. Morris, L. R. (Ap '29)

Profession, Choice of
Ernst, C. H., and White, T. M., eds. Opportunity ahead! (O '29)
Fleischman, D. E., ed. Outline of careers for women. (My '29)
Hill, H. C. Vocational civics. (Ag '29)

Profession of engineering. Jackson, D. C., and Jones, W. P., eds. (D '29)
Profession of letters. Collins, A. S. (S '29)
Profession of poetry. Garrod, H. W: (O '29)

Profit
Bilgram, H. Remedy for overproduction and unemployment. (Ap '29)
Profitable personnel practice. Bruère, H: J., and Pugh, G. (D '29)

Progress
Barnes, H. E. Living in the twentieth century. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Beard, C: A., ed. Whither mankind. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Dawson, C. H: Progress and religion. (N '29)
Folsom, J. K. Culture and social progress. (Ag '29)
Heard, G. Ascent of humanity. (O '29)
Hertzler, J. O. Social progress. (Mr '29)
Noble, E. Our slumbering world. (Ap '29)
Page, K., ed. Recent gains in American civilization. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Progress and religion. Dawson, C. H: (N '29)
Progressive relaxation. Jacobson, E. (N '29)
Progressive scholasticism. Bruni, G. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Prohibited books
Ernst, M. L., and Seagle, W: To the pure . . . (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Prohibition
Fisher, I., and Brougham, H. B. Prohibition still at its worst. (Ap '29)
Prohibition or control? Hose, R. E. (My '29)
Prohibition still at its worst. Fisher, I., and Brougham, H. B. (Ap '29)
Prometheus, U.S.A. Greenwood, E. (S '29)

Propaganda
Bernays, E: L. Propaganda. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Clarke, E. L. Art of straight thinking. (N '29)
Graves, W: B., ed. Readings in public opinion. (My '29)
Ponsonby, A. A. W: H. Falsehood in war-time. (Ag '29)
Prophet's wife. Prowse, R: O. (S '29)
Protection of citizens abroad by the armed forces of the United States. Offutt, M. (N '29)
Protestant saints. Marlatt, E. B. (My '29)

Protestantism
Bass, A. B. Protestantism in the United States. (Je '29)
Cadoux, C. J: Catholicism and Christianity. (D '29)
Hammond, W: E. Dilemma of Protestantism. (S '29)
Protestantism in the United States. Bass, A. B. (Je '29)
Prothero, John Keith, pseud. See Chesterton, A. E.

Protozoa, Pathogenic
Hegner, R. W., and others. Animal parasitology. (S '29)
Thomson, J: G., and Robertson, A. Protozoology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Protozoology. Thomson, J: G., and Robertson, A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Proust, Marcel
Bell, C. Proust. (Ap '29)

Provence
Peck, A. M. Vagabond's Provence. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Description and travel
Richardson, L. Things seen in Provence. (My '29)

Proverbs
Apperson, G: L. English proverbs and proverbial phrases. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Pryde, Anthony, pseud. See Weekes, A. R.
Psychiatry in industry. Anderson, V: V. (N '29)

Psychical research
Lodge, O. J. Why I believe in personal immortality. (Ap '29)
Psyching the ads. Rheinstrom, C. (S '29)

Psychoanalysis
Adler, A. Science of living. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Green, G: H. Terror-dream. (O '29)
Herzberg, A. Psychology of philosophers. (N '29)
Jung, C. G. Contributions to analytical psychology. (My '29)
Jung, C. G. Two essays on analytical psychology. (Mr '29)
Low, B. Psycho-analysis and education. (My '29)
Mairet, P. A B C of Adler's psychology. (Ag '29)
Oppenheim, J. Behind your front. (Ap '29)
Pierce, S. W., and J. T., pseuds. Layman looks at doctors. (D '29)
Sadler, W: S: Mind at mischief. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Schmalhausen, S: D. Our changing human nature. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Troland, L. T. Fundamentals of human motivation. (Mr '29)
Walsh, W: S. Inferiority feeling. (Mr '29)
Psycho-analysis and education. Low, B. (My '29)

Psychology
Adams, J: Everyman's psychology. (D '29)
Brown, W: Science and personality. (S '29)
Cleveland, F: A., ed. Modern scientific knowledge of nature, man, and society. (O '29)
Coe, G: A. Motives of men. (Mr '29)
Downey, J. E. Creative imagination. (Ag '29)
Ellis, R. S. Psychology of individual differences. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Leary, D. B. Modern psychology, normal and abnormal. (Mr '29)
Munro, T: Scientific method in æsthetics. (S '29)
Murphy, G. Historical introduction to modern psychology. (S '29)
Patrick, G: T: W. What is the mind? (Ag '29)
Schmalhausen, S: D. Our changing human nature. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Stapledon, W: O. Modern theory of ethics. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Troland, L. T. Fundamentals of human motivation. (Mr '29)
Wheeler, R. H. Science of psychology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

History
Pillsbury, W. B. History of psychology. (N '29)

Psychology, Applied
Anderson, V: V. Psychiatry in industry. (N '29)
Burtt, H. E. Psychology and industrial efficiency. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Jastrow, J. Keeping mentally fit. (Je '29)
Laird, D. A. Psychology and profits. (N '29)
Lynch, R: Man and his powers. (Ap '29)
Man, H. de. Joy in work. (N '29)
Moss, F. A. Your mind in action. (Je '29)
Myers, C: S:, ed. Industrial psychology. (N '29)
O'Connor, J. Born that way. (N '29)
Tead, O. Human nature and management. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Psychology, Comparative
Forel, A. H. Social world of the ants compared with that of man. (S '29)
Yerkes, R. M. and A. Great apes. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Psychology, Educational
Burton, W: H: Nature and direction of learning. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Klapper, P. Contemporary education. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Low, B. Psycho-analysis and education. (My '29)
Naumburg, M. Child and the world. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Pintner, R. Educational psychology. (D '29)
Sandiford, P: Educational psychology. (Je '29)

Psychology, Pathological
Mairet, P. A B C of Adler's psychology. (Ag '29)
Morgan, J: J. B. Psychology of abnormal people. (Ap '29)
Prince, M. Clinical and experimental studies in personality. (Je '29)
Sadler, W: S: Mind at mischief. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Psychology, Pathological—Continued
Walsh, W: S. Inferiority feeling. (Mr '29)
Wexberg, E. Individual psychology. (N '29)
White, W: A. Lectures in psychiatry. (Ap '29)

Psychology, Physiological
Gesell, A. L. Infancy and human growth. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Lazell, E: W: Anatomy of emotion. (S '29)
Levine, A. J., and Marks, L: Testing intelligence and achievement. (Ag '29)
Marston, W: M. Emotions of normal people. (Ap '29)
Moss, F. A. Your mind in action. (Je '29)
Parshley, H. M. Science and good behavior. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Troland, L. T. Fundamentals of human motivation. (Mr '29)

Psychology and industrial efficiency. Burtt, H. E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Psychology and profits. Laird, D. A. (N '29)
Psychology of abnormal people. Morgan, J: J. B. (Ap '29)
Psychology of happiness. Pitkin, W. B. (D '29)
Psychology of individual differences. Ellis, R. S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Psychology of infancy and early childhood. Arlitt, A. H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Psychology of philosophers. Herzberg, A. (N '29)
Psychology of religious awakening. Clark, E. T. (Je '29)
Psychology of the adolescent. Hollingworth, L. A. (Je '29)
Psychology of the infant. Bernfeld, S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Psychology of youth. Cosgrave, J. (Ap '29)

Psychotherapy
Brown, W: Science and personality. (S '29)

Public international conference. Hill, N. L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Public opinion
Bernays, E: L. Propaganda. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Graves, W: B., ed. Readings in public opinion. (My '29)
Nevins, A., comp. American press opinion, Washington to Coolidge. (Mr '29)

Public relations of the Commission for relief in Belgium. Gay, G: I., and Fisher, H. H: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Public schools
England
Darwin, B. R: M. English public school. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
United States
Engelhardt, N. L: School building programs in American cities. (D '29)

Public service commissions
Mosher, W: E., and others, eds. Electrical utilities. (D '29)

Public speaking
Shurter, E. Du B., and Marsh, C: A. Practical speech-making. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Taft, H: W. Kindred arts. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Public utilities
Mosher, W: E., and others, eds. Electrical utilities. (D '29)

Publicity
Graves, W: B., ed. Readings in public opinion. (My '29)

Publishers and publishing
Brown, B. O. Problems of newspaper publishing. (D '29)
Lanier, H: W., ed. Author's annual, 1929. (S '29)

Pückler-Muskau, Hermann Ludwig Heinrich, fürst von
Butler, E. M. Tempestuous Prince; Hermann Pückler-Muskau. (Je '29)

Pueblo Indians
Applegate, F. G. Indian stories from the Pueblos. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Coolidge, M. E. B. Rain-makers. (My '29)
Crane, L. Desert drums. (Ap '29)
Art
Bunzel, R. L. Pueblo potter. (D '29)

Pueblo potter. Bunzel, R. L. (D '29)

Pulse of darkness. Noble, E: (Ap '29)

Punishment
Hampe, T. Crime and punishment in Germany. (D '29)

Puppet-plays
Reighard, C. F. Plays for people and puppets. (My '29)

Purcell, Henry
Colles, H: C. Voice and verse. (S '29)
Dupré, H. Purcell. (Ap '29)

Purple sickle murders. Crofts, F. W. (O '29)
Pursuit of the flying baby. Eastman. F. (Ag '29)
Püterschein, Hermann, pseud. See Dwiggins, W: A.
Putting analyzed. Metzger, S. (D '29)

Pyrenees mountains
Robson, E. I. Wayfarer in the Pyrenees. (Ag '29)

Pyrolysis of carbon compounds. Hurd, C: D. (O '29)

Quacks and quackery
Thompson, C: J: S: Quacks of old London. (My '29)

Quacks of old London. Thompson, C: J: S: (My '29)
Quakers in action. Jones. L. M. (Je '29)
Quartet. Rhys, J. (Je '29)

Quebec campaign, 1759
Whitton, F: E. Wolfe and North America. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Queen Cleopatra. Mundy, T. (Ap '29)
Queen Dick. Bartley, N. I. (S '29)
Queen Elizabeth. Anthony, K. S. (N '29)
Queen Elizabeth and some foreigners. Klarwill, V:, ed. (Mr '29)
Queen Louise of Prussia, 1776-1810. Aretz, G. (Je '29)
Queen of Nineveh. Crofton, A. (O '29)

Queens
Dark, S. Twelve royal ladies. (O '29)

Queen's husband. Sherwood, R. E. (Ag '29)
Queer fish. Yonge, C. M. (S '29)
Quest for certainty. Dewey, J: (D '29)
Quest for love. Williams, E. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Quest of God. Yost, C. S. (S '29)
Questioned documents. Osborn, A. S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Quotations
Fogg, W. One thousand sayings of history. (My '29)

Quotations, English
Cooley, H., and Corwin, N. L., comps. So say the wise. (D '29)

Rabelais, François
Fetzer, H. Book of Rabelais. (Mr '29)
France, A. Rabelais. (S '29)
Nock, A. J., and Wilson, C. R. Francis Rabelais. (D '29)
Putnam, S: François Rabelais. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Race and civilization. Hertz, F. O: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Race attitudes in children. Lasker, B. (Ag '29)

Race problems
American academy of political and social science, Philadelphia. American negro. (My '29)
Hertz, F. O: Race and civilization. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Lasker, B. Race attitudes in children. (Ag '29)

Rachel. Agate, J. E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Racial hygiene. Rice, T. B. (N '29)

Radcliffe college. Fay house
Baker, C. Story of Fay house. (S '29)

Radio
Radio industry. (My '29)
Schubert, P. Electric word. (Ap '29)

Radio broadcasting
Radio industry. (My '29)

Radio industry. (My '29)
Rag opera. Ware, H., and Prindle, J. (Je '29)
The raider. Seltzer, C: A. (N '29)
Raiders of the deep. Thomas, L. J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Railroad law
Daggett, S. Principles of inland transportation. (My '29)
United States
Reynolds, G: G. Distribution of power to regulate interstate carriers between the nation and the states. (Mr '29)
Railroad regulation since 1920. Locklin, D: P. (N '29)
Railroads
Allen, C. J: Steel highway. (My '29)
Electrification
Burtt, P. Railway electrification and traffic problems. (D '29)
United States
Daggett, S. Principles of inland transportation. (My '29)
Hines, W. D. War history of American railroads. (Ap '29)
Laut, A. C. Romance of the rails. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Locklin, D: P. Railroad regulation since 1920. (N '29)
Perkins, J. R. Trails, rails and war; the life of General G. M. Dodge. (Je '29)
Railroads and state
Splawn, W. M. W: Government ownership and operation of railroads. (My '29)
United States
Hines, W. D. War history of American railroads. (Ap '29)
Railway electrification and traffic problems. Burtt, P. (D '29)
Rain before seven. Fox, J. D. (Ag '29)
Rain-makers. Coolidge, M. E. B. (My '29)
Rambles in cathedral cities. Wade, J. H: (Ap '29)
Ranch life
Haley, J. E. XIT ranch of Texas. (N '29)
Randolph, John
Johnson, G. W. Randolph of Roanoke. (Je '29)
Randolph of Roanoke. Johnson, G. W. (Je '29)
Range of social theory. House, F. N. (Ag '29)
Rapidan. Eng title of Mystery at Spanish hacienda. Gregory, J. (N '29)
Rasputin. Nazhivin, I. F. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Rattling the cup on Chicago crime. Sullivan, E: D. (S '29)
The Raven; a biography of Sam Houston. James, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Raw materials of industrialism. Killough, H. B. and L. (N '29)
Rayon, and other synthetic fibers. Darby, W: D. (D '29)
Reading interests and habits of adults. Gray, W: S., and Munroe, R. (Ag '29)
Readings. Hügel, F. (Ag '29)
Readings from British drama. Nicoll, A. (Ap '29)
Readings in extra-curricular activities. Roemer, J., and Allen, C: F. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Readings in public opinion. Graves W: B., ed. (My '29)
Real Jesus. Fiske, C:, and Easton, B. S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Real situation in Russia. Trotsky, L., pseud. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Realms of gold in children's books. Mahony, B. E., and Whitney, E., comps. (S '29)
Reasoning
Lorimer, F. Growth of reason. (D '29)
Rebel generation. Ammers-Küller, J. van. (Mr '29)
Rebel passion. Burdekin, K. (N '29)
The rebels. Neumann, A. (S '29)
Recent economic changes in the United States. Conference on unemployment, Washington, D.C. 1921. (N '29)
Recent gains in American civilization. Page, K., ed. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Recent social changes in the United States since the war and particularly in 1927. Ogburn, W: F., ed. (Ag '29)
Reclamation of land
Ayres, Q. C., and Scoates, D. Land drainage and reclamation. (Je '29)
Recognition (international law)
Hervey, J: G. Legal effects of recognition in international law. (O '29)
Recollections of an immigrant. Ueland, A. (My '29)
Reconstructing behavior in youth. Healy, W:, and others. (S '29)
Reconstruction
Bowers, C. G. Tragic era. (O '29)
Clemenceau, G. E. B: American reconstruction, 1865-1870, and the impeachment of President Johnson. (Mr '29)
Reconstruction (European war)
Churchill, W. L. S. The aftermath. (My '29)
Jones, L. M. Quakers in action. (Je '29)
Germany
Luehr, E. New German republic. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Greece
Morgenthau, H:, and Strother, F. I was sent to Athens. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Recovery of truth. Keyserling, H. A. (S '29)
Recreation
Truxal, A. G. Outdoor recreation legislation and its effectiveness. (D '29)
Red Bean row. Kennedy, R. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Red cavalry. Babel, I. E. (D '29)
Red ending. Hervey, H. (D '29)
Red harvest. Hammett, D. (Ap '29)
Red hills. Weygandt, C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Red kite clue. Friend, O. J. (S '29)
Red likker. Cobb, I. S. (N '29)
Red Mexico. McCullagh, F. (Mr '29)
The red Napoleon. Gibbons, F. P. (O '29)
Red prior's legacy. Bill, A. H. (N '29)
Red silence. Norris, K. (N '29)
Red star in Samarkand. Strong, A. L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Red tiger. Russell, P. (Je '29)
Red willows. Skinner, C. L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Re-discovery of America. Frank, W. D: (My '29)
Rediscovery of Jesus. Merrifield, F. (D '29)
Reese, Lizette Woodworth
Reese, L. W. Victorian village. (N '29)
Reference books
Bibliography
Mudge, I. G. Guide to reference books. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Van Hoesen, H: B., and Walter, F. K. Bibliography, practical, enumerative, historical. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Reflexes
Pavlov, I. P. Lectures on conditioned reflexes. (My '29)
Reformation
Allen, J: W: History of political thought in the sixteenth century. (Mr '29)
Lacey, T: A. Reformation and the people. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Reformation and the people. Lacey, T: A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Reformed church in America
Romig, E. F. Tercentenary year. (D 29)
Refrigation. Moyer, J. A., and Fittz, R. U. (Je '29)
Refrigeration and refrigerating machinery
Macintire, H. J. Principles of mechanical refrigeration. (Ap '29)
Moyer, J. A., and Fittz, R. U. Refrigeration. (Je '29)
Woolrich, W. R. Handbook of refrigerating engineering. (My '29)
Regional planning
McKaye, B. New exploration. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Reini Kugel. Fetzer, H. (Ag '29)

Reinspecting Victorian religion. Atkins, G. G. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Reinterpretation of American literature. Foerster, N., ed. (My '29)
Rekindled fires. Crosbie, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Relatives. Neale, R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Relativity (physics)
Eddington, A. S. Nature of the physical world. (Mr '29)
Release. Eng title of Humdrum house. Gibbs, J. C. (Ap '29)
Relics and angels. Basso, H. (D '29)
Religion
Baillie, J: Interpretation of religion. (Ag '29)
Bulcock, H. Religion and its New Testament expression. (S '29)
Dawson, C. H: Progress and religion. (N '29)
Fiske, G: W. Changing family. (My '29)
Garrison, W. E. Affirmative religion. (S '29)
God in the modern world. (Je '29)
Hutcheon, R. J. Frankness in religion. (My '29)
Jenkins, B. A. Drift of the day. (My '29)
Orchard, W: E. Present crisis in religion. (N '29)
Randall, J: H. and J: H., jr. Religion and the modern world. (S '29)
Sellars, R. W. Religion coming of age. (My '29)
Valentine, C. H: What do we mean by God? (N '29)
Worcester, E. Allies of religion. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
History
McCabe, J. Story of religious controversy. (D '29)
Potter, C: F. Story of religion. (S '29)
Philosophy
Alexander, grand duke of Russia. Religion of love. (O '29)
Ames, E: S. Religion. (My '29)
Baillie, J: Interpretation of religion. (Ag '29)
Harkness, G. E. Conflicts in religious thought. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Hügel, F. Readings. (Ag '29)
Schilpp, P. A. Do we need a new religion? (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sheen, F. J: Religion without God. (Ap '29)
Tennant, F: R. Philosophical theology, v 1. (S '29)
Psychology
Bovet, P. Child's religion. (Ap '29)
Clark, E. T. Psychology of religious awakening. (Je '29)
Dresser, H. W. Outlines of the psychology of religion. (O '29)
Flower, J: C. Approach to the psychology of religion. (Mr '29)
Juergens, S. P. Newman on the psychology of faith in the individual. (Ag '29)
Religion. Ames, E: S. (My '29)
Religion, Primitive
Willoughby, W: C: Soul of the Bantu. (Ap '29)
Religion and its New Testament expression. Bulcock, H. (S '29)
Religion and science
Best, J: H: From the seen to the unseen. (N '29)
Collier, F. W. John Wesley among the scientists. (My '29)
Deerforth, D. Knock wood! (Mr '29)
Eddington, A. S. Science and the unseen world. (D '29)
James, E. O. Beginnings of man. (My '29)
Wallace, W: K. Scientific world view. (Ap '29)
Religion and the modern world. Randall, J: H. and J: H., jr. (S '29)
Religion and the New Testament. Malden, R: H: (O '29)
Religion coming of age. Sellars, R. W. (My '29)
Religion in literature
Atkins, G. G. Reinspecting Victorian religion. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Religion in soviet Russia. Emhardt, W: C. (O '29)
Religion of Jesus. Bundy, W. E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Religion of love. Alexander, grand duke of Russia. (O '29)
Religion, the dynamic of education. Howlett, W. M., ed. (O '29)
Religion without God. Sheen, F. J: (Ap '29)
Religions
Denison, J: H. Emotion as the basis of civilization. (Ap '29)
Religious drama
Eastman, F., ed. Modern religious dramas. (Mr '29)
Gaw, A. and E. Pharaoh's daughter. (Ap '29)
Religious education
Betts, G: H. Beliefs of 700 ministers. (Ag '29)
Bonser, E. M. Child life and religious growth. (Ag '29)
Bovet, P. Child's religion. (Ap '29)
Howlett, W. M., ed. Religion, the dynamic of education. (O '29)
Smith, R. S. Use of the Old Testament in current curricula. (S '29)
Snowden, J. H: Outfitting the teacher of religion. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Stock, H. T: Church work with young people. (D '29)
Religious literature
Bremond, H. Literary history of religious thought in France. (Ap '29)
Remaking of modern armies. Liddell Hart, B. H: (Mr '29)
Remedy for overproduction and unemployment. Bilgram, H. (Ap '29)
Renaissance
Taylor, R. A. Leonardo the Florentine. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Reno. Vanderbilt, C. (D '29)
Reporters and reporting
Bush, C. R. Newspaper reporting of public affairs. (S '29)
Representative modern short stories. Jessup, A., ed. (My '29)
Reproduction
Schmucker, S: C. Heredity and parenthood. (N '29)
Republican Germany. Quigley, H., and Clark, R. T. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Research, Industrial
Holland, M., and Pringle, H: F. Industrial explorers. (Je '29)
Resident Orientals on the American Pacific coast. Mears, E. G. (Ag '29)
Responsibility of states in international law. Eagleton, C. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rest
Jacobson, E. Progressive relaxation. (N '29)
Restaurants, lunch rooms, etc.
MacDougall, A. Secret of successful restaurants. (S '29)
Restoration and the July monarchy. Lucas-Dubreton, J. (O '29)
Return of spring. Stacpoole, H: De V. (Ap '29)
Return of William Shakespeare. Kingsmill, H. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Return to laisser faire. Benn, E. J: P. (S '29)
Reubeni, prince of the Jews. Brod, M. (Ap '29)
Revelation
Challenger, C. G. Excellence of revealed religion. (Ag '29)
Revere, Paul
Revere, P. Paul Revere's own story. (S '29)
Revivals
Loud, G. C. Evangelized America. (Mr '29)
Rhinestones. Widdemer, M. (Ag '29)
Rhode, John, pseud. See Street, C. J: C:
Rhodes, James Ford
Howe, M. A. De W. James Ford Rhodes. (Je '29)
Rhodesia
Religion
Von Hoffman, C. Jungle gods. (Je '29)
Social life and customs
Macdonald, S. S. My African garden. (Mr '29)
Von Hoffman, C. Jungle gods. (Je '29)
Rich brat. Wilson, F. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Rich young man. Attenborough, G. M. (N '29)
Richard Hakluyt and the English voyages. Parks, G: B. (S '29)

Richardson, Samuel
Downs, B. W. Richardson. (Ap '29)
Richelieu, Armand Jean du Plessis, cardinal, duc de
Belloc, H. Richelieu. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Riddell, John, pseud. See Ford, C.
Riddle of life. Talbot, N. S. (My '29)
Riddle of sex. Tenenbaum, J. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Riddle of the rose. Ferguson, W. B. M. (O '29)
Rim of mystery. Burnham, J: B. (Je '29)
Rime of the rood. O'Donnell, C: L. (Ap '29)
Rise and fall of New France. Wrong, G: M. (Ap '29)
Rise of the German Republic. Daniels, H. G. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rivalry of the United States and Great Britain over Latin America (1808-1830). Rippy, J. F. (S '29)
River house. Young, S. (D '29)
The road. Chamson, A. (Je '29)
Road to Cathay. Sherwood, M., and Mantz, H. E. (Mr '29)
Road to France. Maxwell, G. S. (N '29)
Road to Oregon. Ghent, W: J. (Je '29)
Roads
Bennett, J. M. Roadside development. (D '29)
Roadside development. Bennett, J. M. (D '29)
Robber band. Frank, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Robbers and soldiers. Ehrenstein, A. (Ag '29)
Robbery at Rudwick house. Whitechurch, V: L. (Je '29)
Robert A. Woods. Woods, E. H. (Je '29)
Robert Frost. Cox, S. (Je '29)
Robespierre, Maximilian Marie Isidore de
Béraud, H. My friend Robespierre. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Scherr, M. Charlotte Corday and certain men of the revolutionary torment. (Ap '29)
Rock gardens
Hamblin, S. F. American rock gardens. (S '29)
Rockefeller, John Davison
Winkler, J: K. John D. (S '29)
Rocks, igneous
Bowen, N. L. Evolution of the igneous rocks. (O '29)
Rodeo. Bower, B. M., pseud. (O '29)
Rodman, Hugh
Rodman, H. Yarns of a Kentucky admiral. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rogers, Henry Munroe
Rogers, H: M. Memories of ninety years. (Mr '29)
Rogues in clover. Wilde, P. (My '29)
Roland de la Platière, Manon Jeanne (Philipon)
Eaton, J. Daughter of the Seine. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Rôle of scientific societies in the seventeenth century. Ornstein, M. (Mr '29)
Rolle, Richard, of Hampole
Comper, F. M. M. Life of Richard Rolle. (Ap '29)
Roman Catholic church
Barrett, E: J: B. While Peter sleeps. (Je '29)
Belloc, H. Survivals and new arrivals. (N '29)
Gwynn, D. R. Struggle for Catholic emancipation, (1750-1829). (Je '29)
Lugan, A. Social principles of the gospel. (My '29)
Walsh, J. J. Catholic church and healing. (Ag '29)
Williams, M. Catholicism and the modern mind. (Ap '29)

Charities

O'Grady, J: Introduction to social work. (Mr '29)

Doctrinal and controversial works

Adam, K: Spirit of Catholicism. (O '29)
Cadoux, C. J: Catholicism and Christianity. (D '29)

History

Moehlman, C. H: Catholic-Protestant mind (D '29)

Roman Catholic church in England
Gwynn, D. R. Hundred years of Catholic emancipation (1829-1929). (Ag '29)

Roman Catholic church in Mexico
McCullagh, F. Red Mexico. (Mr '29)

Roman Catholic Church in the United States
Garrison, W. E. Catholicism and the American mind. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Moehlman, C. H: Catholic-Protestant mind (D '29)

Roman hat mystery. Queen, E., pseud. (O '29)

Roman law
Smith, M. Development of European law. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Roman question
Hearley, J: Pope or Mussolini. (S '29)
Romance and rise of the American tropics. Crowther, S: (Ag '29)
Romance of an art career. Chase, J. C. (Ap '29)
Romance of heraldry. Scott-Giles, C. W. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Romance of old Cape May. Hand, M. B. (Ag '29)
Romance of the English Bible. Wild, L. H. (S '29)
Romance of the moon. Proctor, M. (N '29)
Romance of the rails. Laut, A. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Romanesque France. Markham, V. R. (O '29)
Romantic prince. Sabatini, R. (S '29)
The romantics. Rinehart, M. (O '29)

Rome

Civilization

Conway, R. S. Harvard lectures on the Vergilian age. (Ap '29)

History

Robertson, J: C: and H. G. Story of Greece and Rome. (My '29)

Empire, B.C. 30-A.D. 476

Baker, G: P. Tiberius Cæsar. (Mr '29)

Social life and customs

Harte, G. B. Villas of Pliny. (Ag '29)

Rome express. Collins, B. (Mr '29)
Rome haul. Edmonds, W. D. (Ap '29)
Room of one's own. Woolf, V. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Roon. Asquith, H. (Ag '29)

Roosevelt, Theodore
Emerson, E. Adventures of Theodore Roosevelt. (Je '29)

Roosevelt family
Looker, E. White House gang. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Roosevelt, T. All in the family. (D '29)
Rootabaga country. Sandburg, C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Roots. Zamacois, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Rope & faggot. White, W. F. (Je '29)
Roper's Row. Deeping, W. (S '29)
Rose—the dancer. Carter, W. (S '29)

Rosenberg-Orsini, Giustiniana (Wynne) countess von
Brunelli Bonetti, B. Casanova loved her. (D '29)

Rossetti, Dante Gabriel
Mégroz, R. L: Dante Gabriel Rossetti. (Ap '29)

Rothschild family
Ravage, M. E. Five men of Frankfort. (My '29)

Rothstein, Arnold
Clarke, D. H. In the reign of Rothstein. (D '29)
Round up. Lardner, R. W. (Je '29)

Rousseau, Jean Jacques
Maritain, J. Three reformers. (Je '29)
Wright, E. H. Meaning of Rousseau. (S '29)
Roux the bandit. Chamson, A. (N '29)
Roxanne. Eng title of Return of spring. Stacpoole, H: De V.

Royal academy of arts, London
Whitley, W: T. Art in England, 1800-1820. (Je '29)

Royal Canadian mounted police

Fiction

Treynor, A. M. Snow-blind. (My '29)

Royal Elizabeths. Thornton-Cook, E. (Je '29)

Royal portraits. Bibesco, M. L. (My '29)

Rubens, Sir Peter Paul
Bertram, A. Life of Sir Peter-Paul Rubens. (O '29)

Rugs, Chinese
Leitch, G. B. Chinese rugs. (D '29)

Rugs, Oriental
Koechlin, R., and Migeon, G. Oriental art. (Ap '29)

Rum
Taussig, C: W: Rum, romance and rebellion (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rum, romance and rebellion. Taussig, C: W: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Rumania

Antiquities

Pârvan, V. Dacia. (Mr '29)

Economic conditions

Pasvolsky, L. Economic nationalism of the Danubian states. (S '29)

Runaway sardine. Brock, E. L. (S '29)

Rural schools

Denmark

Campbell, O. A. Danish folk school. (Ap '29)

Norway

Jensen, A. S. Rural schools of Norway. (Ag '29)
Rural schools of Norway. Jensen, A. S. (Ag '29)

Ruskin, John
Williams-Ellis, A. Exquisite tragedy; an intimate life of John Ruskin. (Ap '29)

Russia

Civilization

Hindus, M. G. Humanity uprooted. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Commerce

Nol'de, B. E. Russia in the economic war. (S '29)

Court and courtiers

Poliakoff, V. When lovers ruled Russia. (Mr '29)

Description and travel

Ardenne de Tizac, A. F. C. d'. Girl in soviet Russia. (N '29)
McCormick, A. Hammer and the scythe. (Mr '29)

Economic conditions

Dreiser, T. Dreiser looks at Russia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Lapidus, I., and Ostrovityanov, K. Outline of political economy. (D '29)
Nol'de, B. E. Russia in the economic war. (S '29)
Russia (U. S. S. R.). Soviet union looks ahead. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Soviet union information bureau, Washington, D.C. Soviet union. (D '29)

Economic policy

Zagorskii, S. O. State control of industry in Russia during the war. (Ag '29)

Foreign relations

Hindus, M. G. Humanity uprooted. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Germany

Saburov, P: A. Saburov memoirs. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

United States

Schuman, F: L: American policy toward Russia since 1917. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

History

Marye, G: T: Nearing the end in imperial Russia. (O '29)
Poliakoff, V. When lovers ruled Russia. (Mr '29)
Vernadskĭĭ, G. V. History of Russia. (O '29)

Revolution, 1917-

Lenin, N. Collected works; v 20, The revolution of 1917. (O '29)
Marcu, V. Lenin. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Meyendorff, A. F. Background of the Russian revolution. (N '29)

Industries

Russia (U. S. S. R.). Soviet union looks ahead. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Zagorskii, S. O. State control of industry in Russia during the war. (Ag '29)

Intellectual life

Harper, S: N. Civic training in soviet Russia. (S '29)

Kings and rulers

Poliakoff, V. When lovers ruled Russia. (Mr '29)

Politics and government

Baldwin, R. N. Liberty under the soviets. (My '29)
Batsell, W. R. Soviet rule in Russia. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Dreiser, T. Dreiser looks at Russia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Harper, S: N. Civic training in soviet Russia. (S '29)
Lenin, N. Selections; v 1. (N '29)
Soviet union information bureau, Washington, D.C. Soviet union. (D '29)
Thompson, D. New Russia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Trotsky, L., pseud. Real situation in Russia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Religion

Emhardt, W: C. Religion in soviet Russia. (O '29)

Social conditions

Ardenne de Tizac, A. F. C. d'. Girl in soviet Russia. (N '29)
Cederholm, B. In the clutches of the Tcheka. (D '29)
Dreiser, T. Dreiser looks at Russia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Harper, S: N. Civic training in soviet Russia. (S '29)
Hindus, M. G. Humanity uprooted. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
McCormick, A. Hammer and the scythe. (Mr '29)
Thompson, D. New Russia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Russia in the economic war. Nol'de, B. E. (S '29)

Russian literature
Kunitz, J. Russian literature and the Jew. (O '29)
Russian literature and the Jew. Kunitz, J. (O '29)

Rusty Ruston. McNeely, M. (Je '29)

Ruwenzori mountains
Wells, C. In coldest Africa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Ryall, William B. See Bolitho, W:, pseud.

S-4 (submarine)
Eadie, T. I like diving. (Ag '29)

S-51 (submarine)
Eadie, T. I like diving. (Ag '29)
Ellsberg, E: On the bottom. (Je '29)

Saburov memoirs. Saburov, P: A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Sacco, Nicola
Marks, J. A. Thirteen days. (Ag '29)
Sacco, N., and Vanzetti, B. Letters. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Fiction

Sinclair, U. B. Boston. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Sacraments
Lilley, A. L. Sacraments. (S '29)

Sacred books
Turnbull, G. H., comp. Tongues of fire. (Je '29)
Sacred flame. Maugham, W: S. (Ap '29)
Sacred hill. Barrès, M. (D '29)
Sacrifice. Johnson, O. M. (O '29)
Saddharmapundarika
Saunders, K. J. Gospel for Asia. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Saga of the sea. Austin, F: B. (Ag '29)
Saga of the sword. Austin, F: B. (Ag '29)
Saghaphi, Mahmoud Khan, mirza
Saghaphi, M. K. In the imperial shadow. (Ap '29)
Sailing
Schoettle, E. J., ed. Sailing craft. (Ap '29)
Sailing craft. Schoettle, E. J., ed. (Ap '29)
Sailors of fortune. McFee, W: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sails & swords. Strawn, A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
St Christopher's day. Eng title of All in a day. Armstrong, M. D. (Ap '29)
Saint Francis de Sales. Bordeaux, H. (N '29)
St Lawrence, Gulf of
England, G: A. Isles of romance. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
St. Lawrence navigation and power project. Moulton, H. G., and others. (D '29)
St Lawrence River
Clowes, E. S. Shipways to the sea. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Moulton, H. G., and others. St Lawrence navigation and power projects. (D '29)
St Nicholas book of science. Darrow, F. L. (My '29)
Saint Paul. Baumann, E. (Ag '29)
St Teresa. Chesterton, A. E. (Je '29)
Sainte Therese of Lisieux. Delarue-Mardrus, L. (D '29)
Saki, pseud. See Munro, H. H.
Salad days. Benson, T. (Mr '29)
Sales management fundamentals. Hay, R: C. (S '29)
Saleslady. Donovan, F. R. (D '29)
Salesmen and salesmanship
Hay, R: C. Sales management fundamentals. (S '29)
Saleswomen
Donovan, F. R. Saleslady. (D '29)
Sally in her fur coat. White, E. O. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sally in South Africa. Orr, G. D., and Schiele, H. P. E. (F '30) (1929 Annual) Sally's A B C. Tate, S. J. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Salons
Huddleston, S. Paris salons, cafés, studios. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Tornius, V. H. Salons. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Salt-box house. Shelton, J. de F. (Ag '29)
Salt water taffy. Ford, C. (S '29)
Salvage
Ellsberg, E: On the bottom. (Je '29)
Salvation army
Mackenzie, F: A. Clash of the cymbals. (N '29)
Samarkand
Strong, A. L. Red star in Samarkand. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Samoa
Social life and customs
Mead, M. Coming of age in Samoa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Samuel Pepys. Ponsonby, A. W: W: H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Sand, George, pseud. (Mme Amantine Lucile Aurore [Dupin] Dudevant)
Sand, G:, pseud. Intimate journal. (Ag '29)
Sand. James, W. (Ag '29)
Sand castle. Millis, W. (Ap '29)
Sanfield scandal. Hosken, C. J. W. (N '29)
Sanitation, Household
Johnson, A. L. Bacteriology of the home. (O '29)
Saplings. Stiles, I. (N '29)
Sapper, pseud. See McNeile, H. C.
Sarah and son. Shea, T., pseud. (D '29)
Sarah Orne Jewett. Matthiessen, F. O: (Je '29)
Sarah Simon. Allen, H. (N '29)
Sarasin, J. G., pseud. See Salmon, G. G.
Sartoris. Faulkner, W: (My '29)
Satan as lightning. King, B. (O '29)
Satin straps. Greig, M. (S '29)
Satire, English
Wolfe, H. Notes on English verse satire. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Saunders, Hilary Aldan St George. See Beeding, F., pseud.
Savage gentlemen. Cole, M. E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Savage Solomons as they were and are. Knibbs, S. G. C. (My '29)
Savages
Allier, R. S. P. Mind of the savage. (O '29)
Crawley, A. E. Studies of savages and sex. (N '29)
Scandal of Christianity. Ainslie, P: (Je '29)
Scandinavia
Description and travel
Laughlin, C. E. Where it all comes true in Scandinavia. (O '29)
Scarlet sister Mary. Peterkin, J. M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Scenario writing and producing for the amateur. Gleason, M. N. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Scenes and plays. Bottomley, G. (O '29)
Scenic West. Myall, W: (O '29)
Sceptical essays. Russell, B. A. W: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Sceptred flute. Sarojini Nāyadu, S. (Ag '29)
Scheherazade. Greig, J: Y. T. (Mr '29)
Schiff, Jacob Henry
Schiff, J. H: Jacob H. Schiff. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Schlump. (N '29)
Scholasticism
Bruni, G. Progressive scholasticism. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
School and society in Chicago. Counts, G: S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
School building programs in American cities. Engelhardt, N. L: (D '29)
School drama in England. Motter, T: H. V. (Ag '29)
School finance
Meyer, H. D., and Eddleman, S: M. Financing extra curricular activities. (D '29)
School for wives. Gide, A. P. G. (N '29)
School hygiene
Keene, C: H. Physical welfare of the school child. (N '29)
Myers, A. F., and Bird, O. C. Health and physical education for elementary schools. (N '29)
School management and organization
Gist, A. S. Administration of an elementary school. (Ap '29)
Uhl, W. L., ed. Supervision of secondary subjects. (N '29)
School superintendents and principals
Ayer, F. C., and Barr, A. S. Organization of supervision. (My '29)
Gist, A. S. Administration of an elementary school. (Ap '29)
School supervision and supervisors
Ayer, F. C., and Barr, A. S. Organization of supervision. (My '29)
Burton, W: H:, ed. Supervision of elementary subjects. (D '29)
Uhl, W. L., ed. Supervision of secondary subjects. (N '29)
School training of gifted children. Goddard, H: H. (My '29)
Schoolgirl. Barnes, C. D. (S '29)
Schoolhouses
Engelhardt, N. L: School building programs in American cities. (D '29)
Schools
Medical inspection
Keene, C: H. Physical welfare of the school child. (N '29)

Schubert, Franz Peter
Bie, O. Schubert, the man. (Ap '29)
Capell, R: Schubert's songs. (O '29)
Flower, W. N. Franz Schubert. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Kobald, K: Franz Schubert and his times. (Ap '29)
Whitaker-Wilson, C. Franz Schubert, man and composer. (Je '29)
Schubert, the man. Bie, O. (Ap '29)
Schubert's songs. Capell, R: (O '29)

Schumann-Heink, Ernestine
Lawton, M. Schumann-Heink, the last of the Titans. (Ap '29)
Schumann-Heink, the last of the Titans. Lawton, M. (Ap '29)

Schurz, Carl
Schurz, C. Intimate letters. (N '29)

Science
Cleveland, F: A., ed. Modern scientific knowledge of nature, man, and society. (O '29)
Randall, J: H. Our changing civilization. (Je '29)
Russell, B. A. W: Mysticism and logic. (D '29)
Wisehart, M. K: Marvels of science. (My '29)

Addresses, essays, lectures
Law, F: H., ed. Science in literature. (N '29)
St. Louis post-dispatch. Drift of civilization. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

History
Harvey-Gibson, R. J: Two thousand years of science. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Ornstein, M. Rôle of scientific societies in the seventeenth century. (Mr '29)
Singer, C: From magic to science. (N '29)
Thorndike, L. Science and thought in the fifteenth century. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wilson, G. Human side of science. (D '29)

Juvenile literature
Darrow, F. L. St Nicholas book of science. (My '29)

Methodology
Barry, F: Scientific habit of thought. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Burtt, E. A. Principles and problems of right thinking. (My '29)
Clarke, E. L. Art of straight thinking. (N '29)
Parshley, H. M. Science and good behavior. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rueff, J. From the physical to the social sciences. (N '29)

Philosophy
Bridges, H. J. Taking the name of science in vain. (My '29)
Dewey, J: Quest for certainty. (D '29)
Eddington, A. S. Nature of the physical world. (Mr '29)
Haldane, J: S. Sciences and philosophy. (D '29)
Keyser, C. J. Pastures of wonder. (O '29)
Wallace, W: K. Scientific world view. (Ap '29)
Whitehead, A. N. Process and reality. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Science and good behavior. Parshley, H. M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Science and personality. Brown, W: (S '29)
Science and the unseen world. Eddington, A. S. (D '29)
Science and thought in the fifteenth century. Thorndike, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Science in literature. Law, F: H., ed. (N '29)
Science of living. Adler, A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Science of logic. Hegel, G. W. F. (Ag '29)
Science of psychology. Wheeler, R. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sciences and philosophy. Haldane, J: S. (D '29)
Scientific approach to investment management. Rose, D. C. (Je '29)
Scientific habit of thought. Barry, F: (Ag '29)
Scientific method in æsthetics. Munro, T: (S '29)

Scientific research
Little, A. D. Handwriting on the wall. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Scientific societies
Ornstein, M. Rôle of scientific societies in the seventeenth century. (Mr '29)

Scientists
Holland, M., and Pringle, H: F. Industrial explorers. (Je '29)
Wilson, G. Human side of science. (D '29)

Scotch in Ireland
Wood, S. G. Ulster Scots and Blandford scouts. (My '29)

Scotch-Irish in New England
Wood, S. G. Ulster Scots and Blandford scouts. (My '29)

Scotland

Kings and rulers
Francis, G. R. Scotland's royal line. (Ap '29)

Scotland Yard
Moylan, J. F. Scotland Yard and the metropolitan police. (S '29)
Scotland Yard and the metropolitan police. Moylan, J. F. (S '29)
Scotland's royal line. Francis, G. R. (Ap '29)

Scottish ballads and songs
Wimberly, L. C: Folklore in the English and Scottish ballads. (Ap '29)

Scottish poetry

Collections
Hamilton, W: H., ed. Holyrood. (S '29)

Scouts and scouting
Grinnell, G: B. Two great scouts and their Pawnee battalion. (S '29)
Scrapped. Schoepp, M. (S '29)
Scraps of paper. Andrews, M. M. (N '29)

Sculpture
Casson, S. Some modern sculptors. (Je '29)
Rindge, A. M. Sculpture. (D '29)

Sculpture, Romanesque
Markham, V. R. Romanesque France. (O '29)
spere. (O '29)
Sea Devil's fo'c'sle. Luckner, F. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sea-lore. Rogers, S. R. H. (N '29)

Sea power
Kenworthy, J. M., and Young, G: Freedom of the seas. (Ap '29)

Sea stories
Chatterton, E: K. On the high seas. (O '29)
Luckner, F. Sea Devil's fo'c'sle. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Seafaring life
Cameron, J: John Cameron's odyssey. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Chatterton, E: K. On the high seas. (O '29)
Dean, H. Pedro Gorino. (My '29)
Luckner, F. Sea Devil's fo'c'sle. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Rogers, S. R. H. Sea-lore. (N '29)
Tilton, G: F. Cap'n George Fred himself. (Mr '29)
Seal of the White Buddha. Daniel, H. (Ap '29)
Sealed orders. Goodwin, J: (N '29)
Sealed trunk. Webster, H: K. (Ag '29)

Seamanship
Russell, C: E: From Sandy Hood to 62°. (D '29)
Search for America. Grove, F: P. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
The searcher. Pilcher, V. (Ag '29)

Searles Lake, California
Teeple, J: E. Industrial development of Searles Lake brines. (O '29)

Seashore
Burgess, T. W. Burgess seashore book for children. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Second guess. Brown, W. C. (My '29)
Second Isaiah. Torrey, C: C. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Secret history of Henrietta, princess of England. La Fayette, M. M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Secret of Musterton house. Granby, G: (Je '29)
Secret of Sea-dream house. Terhune, A. P. (My '29)
Secret of successful restaurants. MacDougall, A. (S '29)
Secret of thirty-seven Hardy street. Casey, R. J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Secret room. Weekes, A. R. (S '29)
Secret service
Rowan, R: W. Spy and counter-spy. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Secret trail. Armstrong, A., pseud. (Ap '29)
Secretarial procedure. Center, S. S., and Herzberg, M. J: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Secretaries, Private
Center, S. S., and Herzberg, M. J: Secretarial procedure. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Taintor, S. A., and Monro, K. M. Secretary's handbook. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Secretary's handbook. Taintor, S. A., and Monro, K. M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Secrets of the second empire. Cowley, H: R: C: W. (O '29)
Sects
Ainslie, P: Scandal of Christianity. (Je '29)
Ferguson, C: W. Confusion of tongues. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Niebuhr, H. R: Social sources of denominationalism. (F '30) (1929 Annual) Securities
Badger, R. E. Badger on investment principles and practices. (S '29)
See how they run. Carlisle, H. G. (O '29)
See my shining palace! Patrick, D., pseud. (Mr '29)
Seeing Germany. Newman, E: M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Seeing's believing. Hopkins, G. (My '29)
Seelye, Laurenus Clark
Rhees, H. C. Laurenus Clark Seelye. (Je '29)
Selected articles on interallied debts and revision of the debt settlements. Gerould, J. T., and Turnbull, L. S., comps. (Mr '29)
Selected articles on national defense. Johnsen, J. E., comp. (S '29)
Selected poems. Aiken, C. P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Selected poems. Frost, R. (My '29)
Selected poems. Kilmer, A. (Ag '29)
Selected poems. Spitteler, C. (Ap '29)
Selection from modern Swedish poetry. Locock, C: D., tr. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Selection of cases and other readings on the law of nations. Dickinson, E. De W. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Selections. Hegel, G. W. F. (O '29)
Selections; v 1. Lenin, N. (N '29)
Selections autobiographical and imaginative. Gissing, G: R. (N '29)
Selections from [his] letters. Perry, T: S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Self-development in drawing. Beck, O: W. (Je '29)
Self-made thief. Footner, H. (My '29)
Selling Mrs Consumer. Frederick, C. (N '29)
Selling public hospitality. Dahl, J. O. (D '29)
Sense and sensuality. Salt, S., pseud. (N '29)
Sense of glory. Read, H. E: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sentinel of the desert. Gregory, J. (My '29)
Serenade to the hangman. Dekobra, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sermoneta, Vittoria (Colonna) Caetani, duchess of Sermoneta, V. Things past. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sermons
Gossip, A. J: Hero in thy soul. (D '29)
If I could preach just once. (Ag '29)
Ingram, A. F. W. Why am I a Christian? (F '30) (1929 Annual)
McKeehan, H. D., ed. Anglo-American preaching. (Mr '29)
Marchant, J., ed. If I had only one sermon to preach. (Ap '29)
Worcester, E. Allies of religion. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
The set-up. March, J. M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Seven brothers. Stenvall, A. (Ap '29)
Seven dials mystery. Christie, A. (My '29)
Seven iron men. De Kruif, P. (N '29)
Seven modern comedies. Dunsany, E: J: M. D. P. (Ap '29)
Seven torches of character. King, B. (My '29)
Seven vices. Ferrero, G. (S '29)
Seven women. John, W: M. (D '29)
Sewing
Hyde, B. E. Sewing book. (My '29)
Sewing book. Hyde, B. E. (My '29)
Sex
Calverton, V: F., and Schmalhausen, S: D., eds. Sex in civilization. (Je '29)
Crawley, A. E. Studies of savages and sex. (N '29)
Eddy, G: S. Sex & youth. (My '29)
Gallichan, W. M. Poison of prudery. (N '29)
Hamilton, G. Van T., and MacGowan, K. What is wrong with marriage. (Je '29)
Malinowski, B. Sexual life of savages in North-Western Melanesia. (S '29)
Pedersen, V: C. Man a woman marries. (D '29)
Tanner, J., pseud. Intelligent man's guide to marriage and celibacy. (O '29)
Tenenbaum, J. Riddle of sex. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sex (psychology)
Calverton, V: F., and Schmalhausen, S: D. eds. Sex in civilization. (Je '29)
Mead, M. Coming of age in Samoa. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Schmalhausen, S: D. Our changing human nature. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sex & youth. Eddy, G: S. (My '29)
Sex in civilization. Calverton, V: F., and Schmalhausen, S: D., eds. (Je '29)
Sex in literature
Wickham, H. The impuritans. (My '29)
Sex instruction
Gallichan, W. M. Poison of prudery. (N '29)
Sexual ethics
Pedersen, V: C. Man a woman marries. (D '29)
Russell, B. A. W: Marriage and morals. (D '29)
Sexual life of savages in North-Western Melanesia. Malinowski, B. (S '29)
Shackles of the free. Ashton, M. G. (S '29)
Shades of Eton. Lubbock, P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Shades of our ancestors. Carrick, A. V. (Ap '29)
The shadow. Farnol, J. (S '29)
The shadow. Rogers, L. (Mr '29)
Shadow and the stone. Meynell, L. W: (N '29)
Shadow in the house. Gluck, S. (N '29)
Shadow of Guy Denver. McKenna, S. (Mr '29)
Shadowed! Belloc, H. (Mr '29)
Shadwell, Thomas
Borgman, A. S. Thomas Shadwell, his life and comedies. (Je '29)
Shakespeare, William
Hapgood, N. Why Janet should read Shakespere. (O '29)
Kaufman, N. Shakespeare. (O '29)
Criticism and interpretation
Bailey, J: C. Shakespeare. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Thaler, A. Shakspere's silences. (O '29)
Forgeries
Tannenbaum, S: A. Shakspere forgeries in the Revels accounts. (My '29)
Influence
Thaler, A. Shakspere's silences. (O '29)
Knowledge
Law
Barton, D. P. Links between Shakespeare and the law. (N '29)
Shakespeare in fiction, drama, poetry, etc.
Fisher, A. E: To the sun. (Ag '29)
Kingsmill, H. Return of William Shakespeare. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Williams, C: W. S. Myth of Shakespeare. (N '29)
Shakespeare. Bailey, J: C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Shakspere forgeries in the Revels accounts. Tannenbaum, S: A. (My '29)
Shakspere's silences. Thaler, A. (O '29)
Sham. Hocking, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Shambattle. Dowdall, H. G., and Gleason, J. H. (N '29)
Shanghai passage. Pease, H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Sharp, Granville
Lascelles, E: C: P. Granville Sharp and the freedom of slaves in England. (Ap '29)

Shaw, George Bernard
Broad, C. L: and V. M. Dictionary to the plays and novels of Bernard Shaw. (Je '29)
Morris, G. E. Tales from Bernard Shaw. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wagenknecht, E: C: Guide to Bernard Shaw. (N '29)
She who sleeps. Rohmer, S., pseud. (Ap '29)
Sheila both-ways. Cannan, J. (Ag '29)

Shelley, Percy Bysshe
Shelley, P. B. Letters. (S '29)
Shepherd and the child. Eng title of Lark's fate. Owen, J: (O '29)
Shepherd of Israel. Eyles, M. L. (O '29)

Sheriffs
Raine, W: M. Famous sheriffs and western outlaws. (Ag '29)

Sherman, Stuart Pratt
Zeitlin, J., and Woodbridge, H. E. Life and letters of Stuart P. Sherman. (N '29)

Sherman, William Tecumseh
Liddell Hart, B. H: Sherman, soldier, realist, American. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Sherman anti-trust law, 1890
National industrial conference board. Mergers and the law. (N '29)
Sherman, soldier, realist, American. Liddell Hart, B. H: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Shifting scenes of the modern European theatre. Flanagan, H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Ship models
Adams, P: Clipper ships done in cork models. (N '29)

Shipbuilding
McKay, R: C. Some famous sailing ships and their builder, Donald McKay. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Ships
McKay, R: C. Some famous sailing ships and their builder, Donald McKay. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Rogers, S. R. H. Sea-lore. (N '29)
Shipways to the sea. Clowes, E. S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Shiva. Minney, R. J. (D '29)
The shoji. Yamata, K. (Ag '29)
Shooting by moor, field, and shore. Parker, E., and others. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Shopping
Baldwin, W: H: Shopping book. (D '29)
Bonney, T. and L. Shopping guide to Paris. (N '29)
Shopping book. Baldwin, W: H: (D '29)
Shopping guide to Paris. Bonney, T. and L. (N '29)
Short as any dream. Sergeant, E. S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Short history of California. Hunt, R. D., and Sánchez, N. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Short history of China. Williams, E: T: (Ap '29)
Short history of Chinese civilization. Wilhelm, R: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Short history of Europe, 1500-1815. Hyma, A. (D '29)
Short history of medicine. Singer, C: J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Short history of the Jews. Kellett, E. E: (N '29)

Short stories

Bibliography

Firkins, I. T. E., comp. Index to short stories; supplement. (D '29)

Collections

Asquith, C. M. E., comp. Funny bone. (Mr '29)
Asquith, C. M. E., ed. Shudders. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Becker, M., ed. Golden tales of our America. (S '29)
Brewster, D., ed. Book of modern short stories. (My '29)
Cournos, J:, comp. and tr. Short stories out of soviet Russia. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Dawson, C. W: When Father Christmas was late. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Eaton, R:, ed. Best European short stories of 1928. (Je'29)
Ferris, H. J., comp. Love comes riding. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
French, J. L:, ed. Great detective stories of the world. (D '29)
Jessup, A., ed. Representative modern short stories. (My '29)
Larsen, H. A., ed. Denmark's best stories. (Ap '29)
London Mercury. Mercury story book. (D '29)
Minchin, H. C., ed. Legion. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Neale, A., ed. Great weird stories. (S '29)
O. Henry memorial award. Prize stories of 1928. (My '29)
O'Brien, E: J. H., ed. Best short stories of 1929; and, The yearbook of the American short story. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Rhys, E., and Scott, C. A., eds. 26 adventure stories, old and new. (S '29)
Sayers, D. L., ed. Omnibus of crime. (S '29)
Transition (periodical). Transition stories. (My '29)
Van Buren, M., and Bemis, K. I., eds. Easter in modern story. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Van Buren, M., and Bemis, K. I., eds. Father in modern story. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Vanity fair. Short stories. (Ap '29)
World's best short stories of 1929. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Short stories, Russian
Azure cities. (Ag '29)
Short stories. Vanity fair. (Ap '29)
Short stories. Wells, H. G: (My '29)
Short stories out of soviet Russia. Cournos, J:, comp. and tr. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Short story
Beach, S. Short-story technique. (S '29)
Bedford-Jones, H: This fiction business. (N '29)
Gallishaw, J: Only two ways to write a story (S '29)
Gallishaw, J: Twenty problems of the fiction writer. (S '29)
O'Brien, E: J. H. Dance of the machines. (D '29)
Short-story technique. Beach, S. (S '29)
Shrines of the great in Europe. Petre, E. R. (My '29)
Shudders. Asquith, C. M. E., ed. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Shute, Nevil, pseud. See Norway, N. S.
Shuttle-craft book of American hand-weaving. Atwater, M. M. (Ap '29)
Siamese cat. Morse, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Siberia

Description and travel

Ashton, J. M. Ice-bound. (Ap '29)
Wilson, H. C., and Mitchell, E. R. Vagabonding at fifty. (Je '29)
Siberian garrison. Markovits, R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Sicily

Description and travel

Emerson, I. Things seen in Sicily. (S '29)
Signs of these times. Sperry, W. L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Silhouettes
Boehn, M. von. Miniatures and silhouettes. (Ap '29)
Carrick, A. V. Shades of our ancestors. (Ap '29)

Silicates
Vail, J. G. Soluble silicates in industry. (My '29)

Silk, Artificial
Darby, W: D. Rayon, and other synthetic fibers. (D '29)
Reinthaler, F. Artificial silk. (N '29)

Silk manufacture and trade
Hutchins, G. Labor and silk. (S '29)
Sil-Vara, pseud. See Silberer, G
Silver circus. Coppard, A. E. (Mr '29)
Silver Hawk. Mowery, W: B. (S '29)
Silver ribbons. Parmenter, C. (O '29)
Silver virgin. Wylie, I. A. R. (Ap '29)

Silversmithing
Jones, E: A. Old silver of Europe & America from early times to the nineteenth century. (Ap '29)
Simonde de Sismondi, Jean Charles Léonard
Tuan, M.-L. Simonde de Sismondi as an economist. (Ag '29)
Simonde de Sismondi as an economist. Tuan, M.-L. (Ag '29)
Simple people. Marshall, A. (Je '29)
Sincerity. Erskine, J: (D '29)
Sinclair-Cowan, Mrs Bertha (Muzzy). See Bower, B. M., pseud.
Sing it yourself. Gordon, D., ed. (Mr '29)
Singermann. Brinig, M. (O '29)
Singing gold. Cottrell, D. (Ap '29)
Singspiel
Baskervill, C: R. Elizabethan jig and related song drama. (S '29)
Sinners down the centuries. Barry, P. B. (N '29)
Sir Charles Bagot in Canada. Glazebrook, G. P. de T. (Ag '29)
Sir Lancelot of the Lake. Lancelot. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sir Toby and the regent. Herring, P. (D '29)
Six Mrs Greenes. Rea, L. (Je '29)
Six moral tales. Laforgue, J. (My '29)
Six plays. Belasco, D: (Ap '29)
Sixteen authors to one. Karsner, D: (My '29)
Sixty seconds. Bodenheim, M. (My '29)
Skepticism
McCabe, J. Story of religious controversy. (D '29)
Russell, B. A. W: Sceptical essays. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Skeptics (Greek philosophy)
Patrick, M. M. Greek sceptics. (D '29)
Sketch of a sinner. Swinnerton, F. A. (D '29)
Skin o' my Tooth. Orczy, E. (Ap '29)
Skippy. Crosby, P. L. (Ag '29)
Skull Head the terrible. Schultz, J. W. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Sky larking. Gould, B. (S '29)
Skyscraper murder. Spewack, S: (Mr '29)
Skyscrapers
Starrett, W: A. Skyscrapers, and the men who build them. (Mr '29)
Skyscrapers, and the men who build them. Starrett, W: A. (Mr '29)
Slave trade
Canot, T. Adventures of an African slaver. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Taussig, C: W: Rum, romance and rebellion. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Great Britain

Lascelles, E: C: P. Granville Sharp and the freedom of slaves in England. (Ap '29)
Slavery in Great Britain
Lascelles, E: C: P. Granville Sharp and the freedom of slaves in England. (Ap '29)
Slavery in the United States
Phillips, U. B. Life and labor in the old South. (Ag '29)
Townsend, W: H: Lincoln and his wife's home town. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Slaves of the gods. Mayo, K. (Je '29)
Sleeping dogs. Wells, C. (S '29)
Sleeping fury. Armstrong, M. D. (N '29)
Sleeveless errand. James, N. C. (S '29)
Slings and arrows. Lloyd George, D: (O '29)
Slower Judas. Stern, G. B. (Ap '29)
Small dark man. Walsh, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Small towns. Burr, W. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Smith, Alfred Emanuel
Smith, A. E. Up to now. (N '29)
Smith, Mrs Amelia Abigail (Adams)
Roof, K. M. Colonel William Smith and lady. (S '29)
Smith, C. Harold
Smith, C. H. Bridge of life. (Ag '29)
Smith, John, 1580-1631
Fletcher, J: G. John Smith—also Pocahontas. (Mr '29)
Smith, William Stephens
Roof, K. M. Colonel William Smith and lady. (S '29)
Smith college
Rhees, H. C. Laurenus Clark Seelye. (Je '29)
Smuggling
Masterson, W: E: Jurisdiction in marginal seas. (S '29)
Moray, A. Diary of a rum runner. (S '29)
Snake pit. Undset, S. (Mr '29)
Snow. Furniss, R. P. (D '29)
Snow-blind. Treynor, A. M. (My '29)
So disdained. Eng title of Mysterious aviator. Norway, N. S. (Mr '29)
So say the wise. Cooley, H., and Corwin, N. L., comps. (D '29)
So you're going to Paris! Laughlin, C. E. (N '29)
Sober feast. Blackburn, B. (O '29)
Social conditions
Drake, D. New morality. (Mr '29)
Hall-Quest, A. L. It's not our fault. (Ag '29)
Thompson, J: G. Urbanization. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wallace, W: K. Scientific world view. (Ap '29)
Wells, H. G: Way the world is going. (Mr '29)
Social democratic party (Germany)
Scheidemann, P. Making of new Germany. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Social ethics
Ayres, C. E. Holier than thou. (My '29)
Drake, D. New morality. (Mr '29)
Jacks, L. P. My neighbour the universe. (O '29)
Russell, B. A. W: Sceptical essays. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Ward, H. F: Our economic morality. (Je '29)
Social interpretation of education. Hart, J. K. (O '29)
Social principles of the gospel. Lugan, A. (My '29)
Social problems
Boas, F. Anthropology and modern life. (Mr '29)
Dow, G. S: Society and its problems. (D '29)
Drake, D. New morality. (Mr '29)
Eldridge, S., and Clark, C. De W. Major problems of democracy. (Je '29)
Ellwood, C: A. Man's social destiny in the light of science. (O '29)
Kelso, R. W. Poverty. (D '29)
Mowrer, E. R. and H. Domestic discord. (Ag '29)
Ogburn, W: F., ed. Recent social changes in the United States since the war and particularly in 1927. (Ag '29)
Wells, H. G: Open conspiracy. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wells, H. G: Way the world is going. (Mr '29)
Social problems of childhood. Furfey, P. H. (Je '29)
Social progress. Hertzler, J. O. (Mr '29)
Social psychology
Burgess, E. W., ed. Personality and the social group. (S '29)
Calverton, V: F., and Schmalhausen, S: D., eds. Sex in civilization. (Je '29)
Hankins, F. H. Introduction to the study of society. (Ap '29)
Hiller, E. T. The strike. (Ag '29)
Markey, J: F. Symbolic process and its integration in children. (O '29)
Murchison, C. A. Social psychology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Social sciences
Fosdick, R. B. The old savage in the new civilization. (Mr '29)
Hall, W. P., and Beller, E. A., eds. Historical readings in nineteenth century thought. (O '29)
Rueff, J. From the physical to the social sciences. (N '29)

Addresses, essays, lectures

Dewey, J: Characters and events. (Ag '29)

History

House, F. N. Range of social theory. (Ag '29)

Social sciences—Continued

Study and teaching

Bamesberger, V. C. Appraisal of a social studies course. (D '29)

Social sources of denominationalism. Niebuhr, H. R: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Social service

Odencrantz, L. C. Social worker in family, medical and psychiatric social work. (S '29)

O'Grady, J: Introduction to social work. (Mr '29)

Walker, S. H. Social work and the training of social workers. (Ap '29)

Social settlements

Barrows, E. G. Neighbors all. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Weinstein, G. Ardent eighties. (Ag '29)

Social surveys

Douglass, H. P. How to study the city church. (Ap '29)

Lynd, R. S. and H. M. Middletown. (Ap '29)

Steiner, J. F: American community in action. (Mr '29)

Social work and the training of social workers. Walker, S. H. (Ap '29)

Social worker in family, medical and psychiatric social work. Odencrantz, L. C. (S '29)

Social world of the ants compared with that of man. Forel, A. (S '29)

Socialism

Chesterton, G. K., and Shaw, G: B. Do we agree? (Ag '29)

Cole, G: D. H. Next ten years in British social and economic policy. (S '29)

Elliott, W: Y. Pragmatic revolt in politics. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Hughan, J. W. What is socialism? (Ag '29)

Humphrey, A. W. Modern case for socialism. (My '29)

Lorwin, L: L. Labor and internationalism. (Ag '29)

Poetry

Marcus, S., comp. and ed. Anthology of revolutionary poetry. (S '29)

Socialism in Belgium

Piérard, L: Belgian problems since the war. (O '29)

Socialism in Great Britain

Benn, E. J: P. Return to laisser faire. (S '29)

Socialist party (United States)

Fine, N. Labor and farmers parties in the United States, 1828-1928. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Society, Primitive

Crawley, A. E. Studies of savages and sex. (N '29)

Firth, R. W: Primitive economics of the New Zealand Maori. (N '29)

Hankins, F. H. Introduction to the study of society. (Ap '29)

Lévy-Bruhl, L. "Soul" of the primitive. (Mr '29)

Malinowski, B. Sexual life of savages in North-Western Melanesia. (S '29)

Miller, N. Child in primitive society. (S '29)

Society and its problems. Dow, G. S: (D '29)

Sociological philosophy of education. Finney, R. L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Sociology

Binder, R. M. Principles of sociology. (Ag '29)

Burgess, E. W., ed. Personality and the social group. (S '29)

Chapin, F. S. Cultural change. (My '29)

Cleveland, F: A., ed. Modern scientific knowledge of nature, man, and society. (O '29)

Dow, G. S: Society and its problems. (D '29)

Ellwood, C: A. Man's social destiny in the light of science. (O '29)

Finney, R. L. Sociological philosophy of education. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Folsom, J. K. Culture and social progress. (Ag '29)

Hankins, F. H. Introduction to the study of society. (Ap '29)

Klapper, P. Contemporary education. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Snedden, D: S: Educational sociology for beginners. (Je '29)

Sorokin, P. A., and Zimmerman, C. C. Principles of rural-urban sociology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

History

Hertzler, J. O. Social progress. (Mr '29)

House, F. N. Range of social theory. (Ag '29)

Methodology

Abel, T. Systematic sociology in Germany. (Ag '29)

Study and teaching

Palmer, V. M. Field studies in sociology. (S '29)

Sociology, Christian

Fiske, C: Confessions of a puzzled parson. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Gore, C: Christ and society. (Mr '29)

Lugan, A. Social principles of the gospel. (My '29)

McCown, C. C. Genesis of the social gospel. (S '29)

Mathews, S. Jesus on social institutions. (Mr '29)

Ward, H. F: Our economic morality. (Je '29)

Sociology, Rural

Sorokin, P. A., and Zimmerman, C. C. Principles of rural-urban sociology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Solar system

Chamberlin, T: C. Two solar families. (O '29)

Soldiers of misfortune. Wren, P. C. (O '29)

Solomon Islands

Knibbs, S. G. C. Savage Solomons as they were and are. (My '29)

Solon & Croesus. Zimmern, A. E. (O '29)

Soluble glass

Vail, J. G. Soluble silicates in industry. (My '29)

Soluble silicates in industry. Vail, J. G. (My '29)

Some famous sailing ships and their builder, Donald McKay, R: C. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Some forerunners of the newspaper in England, 1476-1622. Shaaber, M. A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Some Italian scenes and festivals. Ashby, T: (O '29)

Some men and women. Lowndes, M. A. (Mr '29)

Some modern sculptors. Casson, S. (Je '29)

Some notes on bookbinding. Cockerell, D. (N '29)

Some Spanish-American poets. Blackwell, A. S., comp. and tr. (N '29)

Some tribal origins, laws and customs of the Balkans. Durham, M. E. (O '29)

Son of Apollo. Woodbridge, F: J. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Son of Dr Tradusac. Huntington, E. (Ag '29)

Son of earth. Leonard, W: E. (Mr '29)

Son of perdition. Cozzens, J. G. (O '29)

Son of the gods. Beach, R. E. (Ag '29)

Song and laughter. Guiterman, A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Songs

Macmillan, E., ed. Book of songs. (Ag '29)

Spaeth, S. G. They still sing of love. (N '29)

Songs, English

Dolph, E: A., ed. Sound off! (S '29)

Sonnets, American

Peterson, H., ed. Book of sonnet sequences. (N '29)

Sonnets, English

Peterson, H., ed. Book of sonnet sequences. (N '29)

Sonnets from a lock box. Branch, A. H. (D '29)

Sooner land. Ogden, G: W. (Ap '29)

Sophie. Ségur, S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Soul

Alexander, grand duke of Russia. Religion of love. (O '29)

Coffin, J. H. The soul comes back. (Ag '29)

Müller-Freienfels, R: Mysteries of the soul. (O '29)

The soul comes back. Coffin, J. H. (Ag '29)

Soul of China. Wilhelm, R: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Soul of the Bantu. Willoughby, W: C: (Ap '29)
"Soul" of the primitive. Lévy-Bruhl, L. (Mr '29)
The sound and the fury. Faulkner, W: (N '29)
Sound motion pictures. Franklin, H. B. (O '29)
Sound off! Dolph, E: A., ed. (S '29)
Sounding stones of architecture. Youtz, P. N. (O '29)
Sources of a science of education. Dewey, J: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

South

Biography

Hergesheimer, J. Swords and roses. (My '29)

Economic conditions

MacDonald, L. Southern mill hills. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Phillips, U. B. Life and labor in the old South. (Ag '29)
Vance, R. B. Human factors in cotton culture. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

History

Crane, V. W. Southern frontier, 1670-1732. (N '29)

Industries

Mitchell, B. William Gregg, factory master of the old South. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Social conditions

MacDonald, L. Southern mill hills. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Phillips, U. B. Life and labor in the old South. (Ag '29)
Vance, R. B. Human factors in cotton culture. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

South Africa

Dean, H. Pedro Gorino. (My '29)

Description and travel

Fairbridge, D. Pilgrim's way in South Africa. (S '29)

South America

Gibbons, H. A. New map of South America. (Mr '29)

Description and travel

Anderson, I. W. Circling South America. (Je '29)
Dickey, H. S., and Daniel, H. Misadventures of a tropical medico. (D '29)
Halliburton, R: New worlds to conquer. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

History

Wars of independence, 1806-1830

Hasbrouck, A. Foreign legionaries in the liberation of Spanish South America. (Je '29)

South Carolina

Economic conditions

Van Deusen, J: G: Economic bases of disunion in South Carolina. (Ag '29)

History

Crane, V. W. Southern frontier, 1670-1732. (N '29)

Politics and government

Van Deusen, J: G: Economic bases of disunion in South Carolina. (Ag '29)

South Carolina ballads. Smith, R,. comp. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Southcote, George, pseud. See Aston, G: G.

Southern frontier, 1670-1732. Crane, V. W. (N '29)

Southern mill hills. MacDonald, L. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Southern Pacific railroad

Glasscock, C. B. Bandits and the Southern Pacific. (My '29)

Southwest, New

History

Rister, C. C. Southwestern frontier—1865-1881. (N '29)

Southwestern frontier—1865-1881. Rister, C. C. (N '29)

Souvenir. Dell, F. (Ap '29)

Sovereignty

Emerson, R. State and sovereignty in modern Germany. (Je '29)
Pergler, C: Judicial interpretation of international law in the United States. (S '29)

Soviet

Batsell, W. R. Soviet rule in Russia. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Soviet rule in Russia. Batsell, W. R. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Soviet union. Soviet union information bureau, Washington, D.C. (D '29)
Soviet union looks ahead. Russia (U. S. S. R.). (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Space and time

Eddington, A. S. Nature of the physical world. (Mr '29)
Maeterlinck, M. Life of space. (Ap '29)
Spacious adventures of the man in the street. O'Duffy, E. (Mr '29)

Spain

Cooper, C. S. Understanding Spain. (Ap '29)

Description and travel

Langdon-Davies, J. Dancing Catalans. (S '29)
Riggs, A. S. Spanish pageant. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Stewart, G: C. Spanish summer. (My '29)
Woon, B. D. From Deauville to Monte Carlo. (S '29)

History

Peers, E. A., ed. Spain. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

House of Austria, 1516-1700

Seaver, H: L. Great revolt in Castile. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Social life and customs

Woon, B. D. From Deauville to Monte Carlo. (S '29)

Spanish America

Description and travel

Halliburton, R: New worlds to conquer. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Foreign relations

Great Britain

Rippy, J. F. Rivalry of the United States and Great Britain over Latin America (1808-1830). (S '29)

United States

Hughes, C: E. Our relations to the nations of the western hemisphere. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hughes, C: E. Pan American peace plans. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Rippy, J. F. Rivalry of the United States and Great Britain over Latin America (1808-1830). (S '29)
Stuart, G. H: Latin America and the United States. (Je '29)

History

Verrill, A. H. Great conquerors of South and Central America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Spanish-American poetry

Collections

Blackwell, A. S., comp. and tr. Some Spanish-American poets. (N '29)

Translations into English

Blackwell, A. S., comp. and tr. Some Spanish-American poets. (N '29)

Spanish gardens. Villiers-Stuart, C. M. (O '29)

Spanish literature

Peers, E. A., ed. Spain. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Spanish Main

Rothery, A. E. Central America and the Spanish Main. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Spanish pageant. Riggs, A. S. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Spanish summer. Stewart, G: C. (My '29)
Spectacles of Mr Cagliostro. Keeler, H. S. (My '29)

Speculation
Bond, F: D. Stock movements and speculation. (N '29)
Lawrence, J. S. Wall Street and Washington. (O '29)
Warshow, R. I. Story of Wall Street. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

History
Mottram, R. H. History of financial speculation. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Speech
Lorimer, F. Growth of reason. (D '29)
Speeches and addresses, 1877-1927. Sayaji Rao III, maháráját gaekwár of Baroda. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Speedy death. Mitchell, G. (N '29)
Spider and the fly. Nutt, L. C. (Je '29)

Spiders
Savory, T. H. Biology of spiders. (Mr '29)

Spies
Rowan, R: W. Spy and counter-spy. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Spinner of the years. Bentley, P. E. (My '29)

Spinoza, Benedictus de
McKeon, R: P: Philosophy of Spinoza. (Ap '29)
Roth, L. Spinoza. (My '29)
Spinoza, B. de. Correspondence of Spinoza. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Spirit of Catholicism. Adam, K: (O '29)

Spiritual life
Alexander, grand duke of Russia. Religion of love. (O '29)
Cusanus, N. Vision of God. (Mr '29)
Hügel, F. Letters to a niece. Ap '29)
Jones, R. M. New quest. (Ag '29)
Masson, T: L. Ascensions. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Raven, C: E. Wanderer's way. (Mr '29)
Sundar Singh. With and without Christ. (Ag '29)
Wieman, H: N. Methods of private religious living. (Ag '29)

Spiritualism
Scott, C. A. Is this Wilson? (Ap '29)
Wehner, G: B. A curious life. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Splendid silence. Sullivan, A. (Je '29)
Splendor of God. Morrow, H. (O '29)
Spring. Cleugh, S. (S '29)
Spring flowering bulbs. Thayer, C. L. (My '29)

Spring Rice, Sir Cecil Arthur
Spring Rice, C. Letters and friendships. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Spy and counter-spy. Rowan, R: W. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Square egg. Munro, H. H. (S '29)
Square-rigged. Calvin, J. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Squirrels
Memorial to George. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Stabilization of prices. Lawrence, J. S. (Ag '29)

Staffordshire pottery
Read, H. E: Staffordshire pottery figures. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Staffordshire pottery figures. Read, H. E: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Stage effects. Rose, A. (D '29)
Stage favourites of the eighteenth century. Benjamin, L: S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Stage lighting. Fuchs, T. (Je '29)
Stage lighting. Ridge, C. H. (My '29)
Stamps. Stiles, K. B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Stanley, Lady Augusta Frederica Elizabeth (Bruce)
Stanley, A. F. E. Later letters, 1864-1876. (D '29)
Star turns. Kober, A. H. (N '29)

Stark, Jean pseud. See Nugent, M. M.-M.

Stars
Jeans, J. H. Astronomy and cosmogony. (Ap '29)
Starved fields. Jones, E. I. (N '29)

State, The
Allen, J: W: History of political thought in the sixteenth century. (Mr '29)
Chance, R. J. F. Until philosophers are kings. (Ag '29)
Elliott, W: Y. Pragmatic revolt in politics. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
State and sovereignty in modern Germany. Emerson, R. (Je '29)
State control of industry in Russia during the war. Zagorskii, S. O. (Ag '29)
State government. Bates, F. G., and Field, O. P. (Mr '29)

State governments
Bates, F. G., and Field, O. P. State government. (Mr '29)
State insurance in the United States. McCahan, D: (O '29)
State of the poor. Eden, F: M. (S '29)

Staten Island

Historic houses, etc.
Eberlein, H. D. Manor houses and historic homes of Long Island and Staten Island. (My '29)

Statesmen
Martin, W: Statesmen of the war in retrospect, 1918-1928. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Statesmen, American
Bemis, S: F., ed. American secretaries of state and their diplomacy, v 6-10. (Mr, Je, S '29)
Thompson, C: W. Presidents I've known and two near presidents. (Ap '29)
White, W: A. Masks in a pageant. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Statesmen, British
Hagberg, K. H. Kings, Churchills and statesmen. (Ag '29)
Kircher, R. Englander. (Ag '29)
Taylor, G: R. S. English political portraits of the nineteenth century. (S '29)
Statesmen of the war in retrospect, 1918-1928. Martin, W: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
The station. Byron, R. (My '29)
Stealing through life. Booth, E. (My '29)

Steamboats
Eskew, G. L. Pageant of the packets. (D '29)

Steel, Mrs Flora Annie (Webster)
Steel, F. A. Garden of fidelity. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Steel
Hartley, L. A., ed. Elementary foundry technology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Steel chips. Jones, I. (S '29)
Steel highway. Allen, C. J: (My '29)

Steinmetz, Charles Proteus
Leonard, J. N. Loki. (O '29)
Stendhal, De, pseud. See Beyle, M. H.
Stendhal (Henri Beyle). Hazard, P. (Je '29)
Stephen Hales. Clark-Kennedy. A. E. (N '29)
Steppe & the sown. Peake, H. J: E:, and Fleure, H. J: (My '29)
Steppenwolf. Hesse, H. (O '29)
Stepping high. Markey, G. (Je '29)
Sterilization for human betterment. Gosney, E. S., and Popenoe, P. B. (D '29)

Sterilization of criminals and defectives
Gosney, E. S., and Popenoe, P. B. Sterilization for human betterment. (D '29)

Stern, Mrs Elizabeth Gertrude (Levin) (Leah Morton, pseud.)
Stern, E. G. When love comes to woman. (S '29)

Sterne, Laurence
Curtis, L: P. Politicks of Laurence Sterne. (S '29)
Stillborn. Eichler, L. (Je '29)

Stock and stock-breeding
Osgood, E. S. Day of the cattleman. (O '29)

Stock companies
Sears, J: H. New place of the stockholder. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Stock exchange
Lawrence, J. S. Wall Street and Washington. (O '29)

Stock movements and speculation. Bond, F: D. (N '29)

Stocks
Bond, F: D. Stock movements and speculation. (N '29)
Vance, R. Investment policies that pay. (N '29)
Stolen millionaire. Truss, S. (S '29)
Stone blunts scissors. Fairlie, G. (My '29)
Stone Daugherty. Fort, J: P. (Ag '29)
Stories from the Bible. De La Mare, W. J: (N '29)
Storing up triple reserves. Babson, R. W. (Je '29)
Storm house. Norris, K. (Je '29)
Storm of steel. Jünger, E. (N '29)
Stormy life of Mirabeau. Jouvenel, H: de. (S '29)
Story-lives of master artists. Chandler, A. C. (D '29)
Story of Aladdin and the wonderful lamp. Kettelwell, J: (Ap '29)
Story of engineering in America. Fraser, C. C. (My '29)
Story of Fay house. Baker, C. (S '29)
Story of France from Julius Caesar to Napoleon III. Van Dyke, P. (Mr '29)
Story of government. Petrie, C: A. (O '29)
Story of Greece and Rome. Robertson, J: C: and H. G. (My '29)
Story of money. Angell, N. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Story of Napoleon. Smith, M. S. (Mr '29)
Story of Old Ironsides. Knipe, E. and A. A. (Je '29)
Story of religion. Potter, C: F. (S '29)
Story of religious controversy. McCabe, J. (D '29)
Story of San Michele. Munthe, A. M. F. (O '29)
Story of superstition. Waterman, P. F. (My '29)
Story of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, 1827-1927. Hungerford, E: (Je '29)
Story of the Democratic party. Minor, H: A. (Ap '29)
Story of the gypsies. Bercovici, K. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Story of the moon. Serviss, G. P. (Mr '29)
Story of the red man. Seymour, F. W. (N '29)
Story of the theater. Burleigh, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Story of the weather. Van Cleef, E. (D '29)
Story of trade unionism. Rayner, R. M. (Je '29)
Story of Virginia's first century. Stanard, M. M. P. (Mr '29)
Story of Wall Street. Warshow, R. I. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Story of water supply. Holway, H. (D '29)
Story of Woofin-Poofin. Buller, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Story Peter told. Ball, E. (N '29)
Storybook Europe. Peck, A. M. (S '29)
Strange companions. Nevill, J: C. (Ag '29)
Strange disappearance of Mary Young. Propper, M. M. (Je '29)
Strange moon. Stribling, T: S. (Ag '29)
Strange necessity. West, R. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Strange truth. O'Halloran, E. (Je '29)
Stranger fidelities. Eiker, M. (O '29)
Stranger in paradise. Anker-Larsen, J. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
The strangler. Thynne, M. (N '29)
Stratton-Porter, Jeannette. See Meehan, J.
Stray lamb. Smith, T. (D '29)
Streaked with crimson. Dutton, C: J. (Je '29)
Street of chains. Lauferty, L. (D '29)
Street scene. Rice, E. L. (S '29)

Strength of materials
Draffin, J. O. Strength of materials. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Strength of the hills. Clark, E. H. (Ag '29)

Stresemann, Gustav
Rheinbaben, R. Stresemann, the man and the statesman. (Ag '29)

Stresemann, the man and the statesman. Rheinbaben, R. (Ag '29)

Stretchers. Pottle, F: A. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Strictly personal. Kenly, J. C. (D '29)
Strictly private! Chideckel, M. (Ap '29)
Stride of man. Williamson, T. R. (Mr '29)
The strike. Hiller, E. T. (Ag '29)

Strikes and lockouts
Hiller, E. T. The strike. (Ag '29)
String of pearls. Courths, H. (N '29)
Structure of politics at the accession of George III. Namier, L: B. (Ap '29)
Structure of the novel. Muir, E. (Ap '29)
Struggle. Murphy, C: J. V. (Ap '29)
Struggle for Catholic emancipation (1750-1829). Gwynn, D. R. (Je '29)
Struggle for health. Hoffmann, R: H. (Je '29)
Struggles of male adolescence. Read, C: S. (My '29)

Stuart, House of
Francis, G. R. Scotland's royal line. (Ap '29)
Student personnel work at Northwestern university. Lloyd-Jones, E. (D '29)

Students
Edwards, R: H:, and others. Undergraduates. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hawes, J. A. Twenty years among the twenty year olds. (Ap '29)
Lloyd-Jones, E. Student personnel work at Northwestern university. (D '29)
McConn, C: M. College or kindergarten? (Ap '29)

Studies in international law and relations. Higgins, A. P. (S '29)
Studies of savages and sex. Crawley, A. E. (N '29)
Studio murder mystery. Edington, A. C. and C. B. (S '29)

Study, Method of
Crawford, C. C. Technique of study. (My '29)
Study in public finance. Pigou, A. C. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Study of interior decoration. Jackson, A. F. and B. (Ag '29)
Study of the modern novel. Marble, A. (Ap '29)
Stumbling. Smalley, D. E. (O '29)

Style, Literary
Munson, G. B. Style and form in American prose. (D '29)
Read, H. E: English prose style. (Mr '29)
Style and form in American prose. Munson, G. B. (D '29)

Subconsciousness
Jung, C. G. Two essays on analytical psychology. (Mr '29)
Prince, M. Clinical and experimental studies in personality. (Je '29)
Sadler, W: S: Mind at mischief. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Submarine boats
Ellsberg, E: On the bottom. (Je '29)
Subtle trail. Gollomb, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Success
Babson, R. W. Storing up triple reserves. (Je '29)
Stoddard, T. L. Luck, your silent partner. (D '29)
Trine, R. W. Power that wins. (O '29)

Suffering
Talbot, N. S. Riddle of life. (My '29)

Sugar trade

Cuba
Jenks, L. H. Our Cuban colony. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Suicide battalions. Westover, W. (Je '29)

Sulaimān I, the magnificent, sultan of the Turks
Downey, F. D. Grande Turke; Suleyman the Magnificent. (Ag '29)

Sumatra
Description and travel
Bradley, M. Trailing the tiger. (S '29)

Sumerians
Woolley, C: L. The Sumerians. (Ag '29)
The Sumerians. Woolley, C: L. (Ag '29)
Summer fruit. Mercer, C. W: (Je '29)
Summer holiday or Gibraltar. Eng title of Give me my sin again. Royde-Smith, N. G. (N '29)
Summer lightning. Hummel, G: F: (Je '29)

Sun
Abbot, C: G. The sun. (D '29)
Forbes, G: The earth, the sun, and the moon. (Mr '29)
Sun cure. Noyes, A. (O '29)

Sun, the stars and the universe. Smart, W: M. (Ap '29)
Sun virgin. Dixon, T: (Ag '29)
Sunrays and health. Millar, R., and Free, E: E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sunrise calling. Hunting, G. (My '29)

Sunshine
Millar, R., and Free, E: E. Sunrays and health. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Superintendent Wilson's holiday. Cole, G: D. H. and M. I. (My '29)

Superstition
Beckwith, M. W. Black roadways. (O '29)
Deerforth, D. Knock wood! (Mr '29)
Giddings, F. H: Mighty medicine. (Je '29)
Waterman, P. F. Story of superstition. (My '29)
Supervision of elementary subjects. Burton, W: H:, ed. (D '29)
Supervision of secondary subjects. Uhl, W. L., ed. (N '29)
Supreme court of the United States. Hughes, C: E. (Ag '29)
Survey of English literature, 1730-1780. Elton, O. (Ap '29)
Survey of international affairs, 1926. Toynbee, A. J. (Ag '29)
Survey of modernist poetry. Riding, L., and Graves, R. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Survivals and new arrivals. Belloc, H. (N '29)
Susanna and Tristram. Allee, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Suzy falls off. Barr, C. (N '29)
Sven discovers paradise. Reck-Malleczewen, F. P. (S 29)
Swallowfork bulls. Bower, B. M., pseud. (Ap '29)
Swansea Dan. Mason, A. (S '29)

Swedish poetry

Translations into English

Locock, C: D., tr. Selection from modern Swedish poetry. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Swift, Julian, pseud. See Applin, A.

Swinburne, Algernon Charles
Chew, S: C. Swinburne. (Je '29)
Swindlers & rogues in French drama. Norman, H. L. (N '29)

Swindlers and swindling
Norman, H. L. Swindlers & rogues in French drama. (N '29)

Switzerland

Description and travel

Montaigne, M. E. de. Diary of Montaigne's journey to Italy in 1580 and 1581. (S '29)
Swords and roses. Hergesheimer, J. (My '29)
Symbolic process and its integration in children. Markey, J: F. (O '29)

Symbolism
Goldsmith, E. E. Ancient pagan symbols. (O '29)
Markey, J: F. Symbolic process and its integration in children. (O '29)

Syndicalism
Elliott, W: Y. Pragmatic revolt in politics. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Syria

Description and travel

Hamilton, N. R. Both sides of the Jordan. (Je '29)

History

Usāmah ibn Murshid. Autobiography of Ousâma. (Ag '29)

Politics and government

MacCallum, E. P. Nationalist crusade in Syria. (My '29)

Systematic sociology in Germany. Abel, T. (Ag '29)

Szczepanowicz, Lucia Merecka. See Borski, L. M., tr.

Tagore, Rabindranath (Ravindranatha Thakura)
Tagore, R. Letters to a friend. (S '29)
Taking the name of science in vain. Bridges, H. J. (My '29)

Talbot house, Poperinghe, Belgium
Clayton, P. T: B. Plain tales from Flanders. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Tales, Arabic
Katibah, H. I. Other Arabian nights. (Mr '29)

Tales, Irish
Casserley, A. T. Whins on Knockattan. (Mr '29)

Tales, Polish
Borski, L. M., and Mfiler, K. B., comps. and trs. Jolly tailor. (Mr '29)
Tales from Bernard Shaw. Morris, G. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Tales of the North American Indians. Thompson, E., ed. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual) Tangle-coated horse. Young, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Tap on the shoulder. Dupree, M., pseud. (O '29)
Tapestry room murder. Wells, C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Tariff

United States

Van Deusen, J: G: Economic bases of disunion in South Carolina. (Ag '29)

Taro cult
Williams, F. E. Orokaiva magic. (Mr '29)

Tatars
Sherwood, M., and Mantz, H. E. Road to Cathay. (Mr '29)

Taxation

United States

Leland, S. E. Classified property tax in the United States. (My '29)

Law

Klein, J. J. Federal income taxation. (D '29)

Teachers
Wickham, E. K. Children's behavior and teachers' attitudes. (My '29)

Training

Charters, W. W., and Waples, D. Commonwealth teacher-training study. (Je '29)

Teaching
Ayer, F. C., and Barr, A. S. Organization of supervision. (Mr '29)
Burton, W: H: Nature and direction of learning. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Fontaine, E. C. Ways to better teaching in the secondary school. (Ag '29)
Holley, C: E. Modern principles and the elementary teacher's technique. (Ag '29)
Klapper, P. Contemporary education. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Strebel, R. F:, and Morehart, G. C. Nature and meaning of teaching. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Sturt, M., and Oakden, E. C. Matter and method in education. (O '29)
Uhl, W. L., ed. Supervision of secondary subjects. (N '29)

Teaching, Freedom of
Giddings, F. H: Mighty medicine. (Je '29)
Teaching health in Fargo. Brown, M. A. (N '29)

Technical writing
McDonald, P. B. English and science. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Technique of study. Crawford, C. C. (My '29)
Technique of the love affair. (My '29)
Technique of the novel. Grabo, C. H. (Ag '29)
Technology of low temperature carbonization. Gentry, F. M. (Ap '29)

Teeth
Stoloff, C: I. Your teeth. (My '29)

Teleology
McDougall, W: Modern materialism and emergent evolution. (O '29)

Telephone
Mackenzie, C. D. Alexander Graham Bell. (Mr '29)
Tempestuous Prince: Hermann Pückler-Muskau. Butler, E. M. (Je '29)

Templars
Bercovici, K. Crusades. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Temple tower. McNeile, H. C. (O '29)
Temptations to rightdoing. Cabot, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Ten real murder mysteries. Sutherland, S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Ten years ago. Eng title of Armistice. Mottram, R. H. (Ap '29)
Tennyson, Alfred Tennyson, 1st baron
Atkins, G. G. Reinspecting Victorian religion. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Tercentenary year. Romig, E. F. (D '29)
Teresa, Saint
Chesterton, A. E. St Teresa. (Je '29)
Terrace suicide mystery. Gribble, L. R. (D '29)
Territorial waters
Masterson, W: E: Jurisdiction in marginal seas. (S '29)
Terror-dream. Green, G: H. (O '29)
Testing intelligence and achievement. Levine, A. J., and Marks, L: (Ag '29)
Texan Titan. Oskison, J: M. (Ag '29)
Texas
History
Haley, J. E. XIT ranch of Texas. (N '29)
Rister, C. C. Southwestern frontier—1865-1881. (N '29)
Santa Anna, A. L. de., and others. Mexican side of the Texan revolution. (Ap '29)
Textile design
Atwater, M. M. Shuttle-craft book of American hand-weaving. (Ap '29)
Textile factories
MacDonald, L. Southern mill hills. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Textile industry and fabrics
Atwater, M. M. Shuttle-craft book of American hand-weaving. (Ap '29)
Koechlin, R., and Migeon, G. Oriental art. (Ap '29)
Thalia. Finley, J: H. (O '29)
That Capri air. Cerio, E. (Ag '29)
That devil Wilkes. Postgate, R. W: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Theater
Dolman, J: Art of play production. (Mr '29)
Mitchell, R. Creative theatre. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
History
Burleigh, L. Story of the theater. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Cheney, S. The theatre. (D '29)
Little theater movement
Macgowan, K. Footlights across America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Stratton, C. Theatron. (Je '29)
Moral and religious aspects
Balmforth, R. Problem-play. (S '29)
California
Rourke, C. M. Troupers of the Gold Coast. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
England
Hotson, J: L. Commonwealth and restoration stage. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Motter, T: H. V. School drama in England. (Ag '29)
Europe
Flanagan, H. Shifting scenes of the modern European theatre. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Ireland
Malone, A. E. Irish drama. (N '29)
New York (city)
Leuchs, F: A. H. Early German theatre in New York, 1840-1872. (My '29)
History
Odell, G: C. D. Annals of the New York stage, v 3-4. (Ap '29)
United States
Duffus, R. L. American renaissance. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Macgowan, K. Footlights across America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Theaters
Lighting
Fuchs, T. Stage lighting. (Je '29)
Ridge, C. H. Stage lighting. (My '29)
Stage-setting and scenery
Fuerst, W. R., and Hume, S: J. XXth century stage decoration. (N '29)
Krows, A. E. Equipment for stage production. (Ap '29)
Rose, A. Stage effects. (D '29)
United States
Stratton, C. Theatron. (Je '29)
The theatre. Cheney, S. (D '29)
Theatron. Stratton, C. (Je '29)
Their own desire. Fuller, S., pseud. (S '29)
Then I saw the Congo. Flandrau, G. (O '29)
Theodore Hook and his novels. Brightfield, M. F. (Ap '29)
Theology
Sperry, W. L. Signs of these times. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Warfield, B: B. Biblical doctrines. (N '29)
Theories of Claude Debussy. Vallas, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Theory of morals. Carritt, E. F: (S '29)
Theosophy
Krishnamurti, J. Life in freedom. (My '29)
Theotocopuli, Dominico, called El Greco
Fiction
Hersch, V. Bird of God. (D '29)
There is another heaven. Nathan, R. (N '29)
Thérèse de l'enfant Jesus, Saint
Delarue-Mardrus, L. Sainte Therese of Lisieux. (D '29)
Thermochemistry
Hurd, C: D. Pyrolysis of carbon compounds. (O '29)
These are my jewels. Campbell, L. B. (My '29)
They still fall in love. Williams, J. L. (My '29)
They still sing of love. Spaeth, S. G. (N '29)
They stooped to folly. Glasgow, E. A. G. (S '29)
They were so young. Abdullah, A. (Je '29)
Thieves' nights. Keeler, H. S. (D '29)
Things past. Sermoneta, V. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Things seen in Morocco. Bickerstaffe, L. E. (S '29)
Things seen in Provence. Richardson, L. (My '29)
Things seen in Sicily. Emerson, I. (S '29)
Things seen in the Channel Islands. Holland, C. (S '29)
Things that remain. Grammer, C. E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Things to come. Murry, J: M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Thinking machine. Herrick, C: J. (O '29)
Third republic. Recouly, R. (Mr '29)
Third route. Sassoon, P. (D '29)
Third weaver. Blake, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Thirteen days. Marks, J. A. (Ag '29)
Thirty tales & sketches. Cunninghame Graham, R. B. (N '29)
This blind rose. Wolfe, H. (Mr '29)
This delicate creature. O'Leary, C. (My '29)
This fiction business. Bedford-Jones, H: (N '29)
This happened to me. Ferris, H. J. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
This man Adams. McCoy, S: D. (Mr '29)
This man's army. Wyeth, J: A. B. (Ag '29)
This man's world. Cobb, I. S. (Je '29)
This pact business. Eng title of Heading for war. Edwards, W: H. (Ap '29)
This poor player. Watkins, S. (Je '29)
This side of Jordan. Bradford, R. (Ap '29)
This strange adventure. Rinehart, M. (Je '29)
This, that, and the other thing. Townsend, R. T. (S '29)
This thing called love. Cunningham, L: A. (O '29)
This ugly civilization. Borsodi, R. (D '29)
This unchanging mask. Mason, F. C. (Ag '29)
Thomas Jefferson. Chinard, G. (D '29)
Thomas Lovell Beddoes, eccentric & poet. Snow, R. H. (Mr '29)
Thomas Sergeant Perry. Morse, J: T. (Ag '29)

Thomas Shadwell, his life and comedies. Borgman, A. S. (Je '29)

Thompson, Daniel Pierce
Flitcroft, J: E. Novelist of Vermont [Daniel Pierce Thompson]. (Je '29)

Thompson, William Hale
Counts, G: S. School and society in Chicago. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Those ancient lands. Golding, L: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Those war women. (Je '29)

Thought and thinking
Burtt, E. A. Principles and problems of right thinking. (My '29)
Claremont, C. A. Intelligence and mental growth. (Mr '29)
Clarke, E. L. Art of straight thinking. (N '29)
Dimnet, E. Art of thinking. (Mr '29)
Herrick, C: J. Thinking machine. (O '29)

Three. Frankau, P. (N '29)

Three against the world. Kaye-Smith, S. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Three amateurs. Lewis, M. A. (D '29)

Three and the moon. Dorey, J. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Three couriers. Mackenzie, C. (My '29)

Three daughters. Dashwood, J., pseud. (D '29)

Three essays. Mann, T: (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Three just men. Wallace, E. (Ag '29)

Three loves. Brod, M. (N '29)

Three owls. Moore, A. C. (Ap '29)

Three persons. Macphail, A. (Ag '29)

Three reformers. Maritain, J. (Je '29)

Three white cats of Avignon. Stewart, A. B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Throat
Oakes, L: W., and Merrill, H. G. Your nose, throat and ears. (N '29)

Through English eyes. Spender, J: A. (Mr '29)

Through sea and sky. Chatterton, E: K. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Through the lattice. Close, E. (Je '29)

Thumbcap weir. Gillmor, F. (My '29)

Thurman Lucas. Read, H. E. (Ag '29)

Thy dark freight. Hutchinson, V. (Ap '29)

Thyroid gland
Bram, I. Goiter prevention and thyroid protection. (Ap '29)

Tiberius, emperor of Rome
Baker, G: P. Tiberius Cæsar. (Mr '29)

Tiberius Cæsar. Baker, G: P. (Mr '29)

Tibet

Description and travel
Easton, J: Unfrequented highway. (Mr '29)
MacDonald, D: Land of the lama. (N '29)

Social life and customs
Bell, C: A. People of Tibet. (Je '29)
MacDonald, D: Land of the lama. (N '29)

Tide house. Perry, M. C. (D '29)

Tides. Keyserling, E. H. N. (S '29)

Tidewater Virginia. Wilstach, P. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Tiger of Cloud river. Cullum, R. (Ag '29)

Tigers
Bradley, M. Trailing the tiger. (S '29)

Tiger's mate. Smith, W. (Mr '29)

Tilted moons. Damon, S: F. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Time's profile. Flanner, H. (O '29)

Times square. Woolrich, C. (Ag '29)

Timothy travels. Neumann, D. (Je '29)

Timūr, the Great
Clavijo, R. G. de. Embassy to Tamerlane, 1403-1406. (Je '29)

Tinker and thinker: John Bunyan. Nelson, W: H. (Mr '29)

Tiny seed of love. Salt, S. (Ag '29)

Tisza tales. Schwimmer, R. (Mr '29)

To far western Alaska for big game. Hubback.

To the pure . . . Ernst, M. L., and Seagle, W: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

To the sun. Fisher, A. E: (Ag '29)

Toad of Toad hall. Milne, A. A. (Ag '29)

Tobacco manufacture and trade
Thomas, J. A. Pioneer tobacco merchant in the Orient. (My '29)

Toc H
Clayton, P. T: B. Plain tales from Flanders. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Tolstaĭa, Aleksandra Andreevna, countess
Tolstoi, L. N., and Tolstaĭa, A. A. Letters (1857-1903). (Ag '29)

Tolstaĭa, Sof'ĭa Andreevna (Bers) countess
Tolstaĭa, S. A. Diary of Tolstoy's wife, v 1. (Ap '29)

Tolstoi, Leo Nikolaievich, count
Mann, T: Three essays. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Nazaroff, A. I. Tolstoy, the inconstant genius. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Tolstaĭa, S. A. Diary of Tolstoy's wife, v 1. (Ap '29)
Tolstoi, L. N., and Tolstaĭa, A. A. Letters. (1857-1903). (Ag '29)
Zweig, S. Adepts in self-portraiture. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Tolstoy, the inconstant genius. Nazaroff, A. I. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Tomahawk rights. Evarts, H. G: (N '29)

T. R. (N '29)

Tombstone, Arizona
Breakenridge, W: M. Helldorado. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Tomorrow never comes. Duffus, R. L. (Je '29)

Tomorrow's voyage. Hess, L. (D '29)

Tongue of the hidden. Hafiz. (Ap '29)

Tongues of fire. Turnbull, G. H., comp. (Je '29)

Too many farmers. McMillen, W. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Too much Java. Wiehe, E. M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Tools and toys of stitchery. Whiting, G. (Je '29)

The torch. Phillpotts, E. (S '29)

Torchlight parade. Cook, S. L. (Je '29)

Toscanini, Arturo
Nicotra, T. Arturo Toscanini. (Je '29)

Tower of sand. Steele, W. D. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Towers along the grass. Taylor, E. (Mr '29)

Towns of destiny. Belloc, H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Toys
Showalter, H. F. Box book. (S '29)

Track athletics
Butler, G. M. Modern athletics. (Je '29)

Tracking down the enemies of man. Torrance, A. (S '29)

Tracks & trails. Rossell, L. (Je '29)

Trade and professional associations
Kirsh, B: S. Trade associations. (My '29)

Trade associations. Kirsh, B: S. (My '29)

Trade routes
Hoskins, H. L. British routes to India. (S '29)

Trade unions
Lorwin, L: L. Labor and internationalism. (Ag '29)

Great Britain
Rayner, R. M. Story of trade unionism. (Je '29)
Selekman, B. M. and S. British industry today. (O '29)

United States
Gemmill, P. F. Present-day labor relations. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Haywood, W: D. Bill Haywood's book. (Je '29)
Ware, N. J. Labor movement in the United States, 1860-1895. (Je '29)

Tradition and Hugh Walpole. Dane, C., pseud. (N '29)

Tragedy of Greece. Phocas-Cosmetatos, S. P. (S '29)

Tragedy of John Ruskin. Eng title of Exquisite tragedy. Williams-Ellis, A. (Ap '29)

Tragedy of the Italia. Giudici, D. (Ap '29)

Tragic empress. Paléologue, G. M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Tragic era. Bowers, C. G. (O '29)

Trail Eater. Willoughby, F. (S '29)

Trail of life in college. Jones, R. M. (S '29)

Trailing the tiger. Bradley, M. (S '29)

Trails, rails and war; the life of General G. M. Dodge. Perkins, J. R. (Je '29)

Training children. Pyle, W: H: (Je '29)

Tramps
Witten, G: Outlaw trails. (My '29)

Transit of Egypt. Elgood, P. G: (Je '29)

Transition stories. Transition (periodical). (My '29)
Trans-Jordan
Description and travel
Hamilton, N. R. Both sides of the Jordan. (Je '29)
Transplanted heather. Campbell, J. M. (My '29)
Transport. Glenn, I. (Mr '29)
Transportation
United States
Daggett, S. Principles of inland transportation. (My '29)
Reynolds, G: G. Distribution of power to regulate interstate carriers between the nation and the states. (Mr '29)
Wilson, G: L. Motor traffic management. (Ap '29)
Transportation, Automotive
Wilson, G: L. Motor traffic management. (Ap '29)
Transportation act, 1920
Locklin, D: P. Railroad regulation since 1920. (N '29)
Trapping
Carhart, A. H., and Young, S. P. Last stand of the pack. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Greenbie, S. Frontiers and the fur trade. (My '29)
Traveling shops. Rowe, D. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Travels and settlements of early man. Foster, T. S. (Ag '29)
Travels in the Congo. Gide, A. P. G. (Je '29)
Treadmill. Simpson, L. J. (Ag '29)
Treason of the intellectuals (La trahison des clercs). Benda, J. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Treasure house of Martin Hews. Oppenheim, E: P. (My '29)
Treasure of Carcassonne. Robida, A. (Mr '29)
Treasure of the Château. Lisle, C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Treasury of English aphorisms. Smith, L. P., ed. (My '29)
Treaties
Pergler, C: Judicial interpretation of international law in the United States. (S '29)
Treatise on aviation law. Hotchkiss, H: G. (N '29)
Tree crops. Smith, J. R. (Je '29)
Tree named John. Sale, J: B. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Trees
Bennett, J. M. Roadside development. (D '29)
Smith, J. R. Tree crops. (Je '29)
North America
Gilbert, L. N. Our most popular trees. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
United States
Roberts, E. A., and Rehmann, E. American plants for American gardens. (Ag '29)
Trenck, Friedrich, freiherr von der
Fiction
Frank, B. Trenck. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Trend of the American university. Jordan, D: S. (N '29)
Trial practice
Bush, C. R. Newspaper reporting of public affairs. (S '29)
Trials
Birkenhead, F: E. S. More famous trials. (Ap '29)
Marjoribanks, E: For the defense; the life of Sir Edward Marshall Hall. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Street, C. J: C: Case of Constance Kent. (My '29)
Trials (forgery)
Osborn, A. S. Questioned documents. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Tribes and tribal system
Durham, M. E. Some tribal origins, laws and customs of the Balkans. (O '29)
Triple murder. Wells, C. (D '29)
Tristram Lloyd. Sheehan, P. A. (N '29)
Triumphs of detection. Dilnot, G: (Ag '29)
Trivial breath. Wylie, E. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Tropics
Diseases and hygiene
Torrance, A. Tracking down the enemies of man. (S '29)
Trouble! Jeffries, G. M. (O '29)
Troupers of the Gold Coast. Rourke, C. M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Trousers of taffeta. Wilson, M. (D '29)
Trout fishing
Plumley, L. With the trout fly. (Ag '29)
Taverner, E. Trout fishing from all angles. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Trout fishing from all angles. Taverner, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Trout Inn mystery. Greenleaves, W. (N '29)
True heart. Warner, S. T. (Ap '29)
True story of Mary, wife of Lincoln. Helm, K. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Trumpeter of Krakow. Kelly, E. P. (Mr '29)
Trust Wesley! Jacot de Boinod, B. L: (N '29)
Trusts, Industrial
Javits, B: A., and Wood, C: W. Make everybody rich. (S '29)
Law
National industrial conference board. Mergers and the law. (N '29)
Truth about Geronimo. Davis, B. (D '29)
Truth and the faith. Alexander, H. B. (N '29)
Truth behind the news, 1918-1928. Eng title of You can't print that! Seldes, G. (Ap '29)
Tryphena. Phillpotts, E. (O '29)
Tu Fu
Tu Fu. Tu Fu; autobiography. (D '29)
Tule marsh murder. Mavity, N. (Ap '29)
Tumbling mustard. Loeb, H. A. (Ag '29)
Turkestan
Antiquities
Le Coq, A. von. Buried treasures of Chinese Turkestan. (D '29)
Turkey
History
Patrick, M. M. Under five sultans. (D '29)
Social life and customs
Patrick, M. M. Under five sultans. (D '29)
Turning things over. Lucas, E: V. (N '29)
Tut-ank-Amen, king of Egypt
Tabouis, C. R. Private life of Tutankhamen. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Twelve against the gods. Bolitho, W:, pseud. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Twelve bad men. Dark, S. (My '29)
Twelve days. Sackville-West, V. M. (Mr '29)
Twelve great ladies. Eng title of Twelve royal ladies. (O '29)
Twelve royal ladies. Dark, S. (O '29)
Twentieth century
Barnes, H. E. Living in the twentieth century. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Twentieth century love poems. Hill, C., comp. (D '29)
XXth century stage decoration. Fuerst, W. R., and Hume, S: J. (N '29)
25 kites that fly. Hunt, L. L. (D '29)
Twenty-five years with Earl Haig. Secrett, T. (S '29)
Twenty problems of the fiction wirter. Gallishaw, J: (S '29)
26 adventure stories, old and new. Rhys, E., and Scott, C. A., ed. (S '29)
Twenty years among the twenty year olds. Hawes, J. A. (Ap '29)
Twilight of Christianity. Barnes, H. E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Twister. Wallace, E. (Je '29)
Two brothers and their animal friends. Lenski, L. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Two essays on analytical psychology. Jung, C. G. (Mr '29)
Two gentlemen and a lady. Woollcott, A. (Ap '29)
Two great scouts and their Pawnee battalion. Grinnell, G: B. (S '29)
Two solar families. Chamberlin, T: C. (O '29)

Two thousand years of science. Harvey-Gibson, R. J: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Tyler family
Roosevelt, E. K. and K., comps. American backlogs. (Je '29)

Tyndale, William
Wild, L. H. Romance of the English Bible. (S '29)

Type and type-founding
Meynell, F. Typography of newspaper advertisements. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Modern book production. (Je '29)

Types of literature in the Old Testament. Baldwin, E: C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Types of philosophy. Hocking, W: E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Typewriting

Identification

Osborn, A. S. Questioned documents. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Typography of newspaper advertisements. Meynell, F. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Tyrant. Valle-Inclán, R. del. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Tzŭ-hsi, empress dowager of China
Der Ling, princess. Old Buddha. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Fiction

Pettit, C: Woman who commanded 500,000,000 men. (S '29)

Ueland, Andreas
Ueland, A. Recollections of an immigrant. (My '29)

Ulster Scots and Blandford scouts. Wood, S. G. (My '29)

Ultima Thule. Richardson, H: H., pseud. (O '29)

Ultra-violet rays
Millar, R., and Free, E: E. Sunrays and health. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Umbala. Eng title of Pedro Gorino. Dean, H. (My '29)

Umpires game. Eng title of The Jefferson secret. Blaker, R: (S '29)

Uncertain trumpet. Hutchinson, A. S. M. (O '29)

Unconscious in action; its influence upon education. Eng title of Psycho-analysis and education. Low, B. (My '29)

Under dogs. Azuela, M. (N '29)

Under five sultans. Patrick, M. M. (D '29)

Under Persian skies. Norden, H. (My '29)

Under the admiral's stars. Miller, W. H. (F '30) (1928 Annual)

Under the mosquito curtain. Eng title of Conquering lover. Scott, W. M. (N '29)

Under the skin. Clarke, K. M. (S '29)

Under two eagles. Crew, H. C. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Undergraduates. Edwards, R: H:, and others. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Understanding India. Williams, G. L. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Understanding Spain. Cooper, C. S. (Ap '29)

Understanding women. Wieth-Knudsen, K. A. (Je '29)

Undertones of war. Blunden, E. C: (Ap '29)

Undine. Schreiner, O. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Undiscovered Australia. Wilkins, G: H. (Ap '29)

Undying faces. Benkard, E. (D '29)

Unemployment
Clay, H: Post-war unemployment problem. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
McMurry, D. Le C. Coxey's army. (D '29)

Unemployment or war. Colbourne, M. D. (Ap '29)

Unfrequented highway. Easton, J: (Mr '29)

Unhappy India. Lājpat, R. (Mr '29)

Unholy virgins. Malcoskey, E. W. (Ag '29)

Union of soviet socialist republics
Soviet union information bureau, Washington, D.C. Soviet union. (D '29)

Union Pacific railroad
Perkins, J. R. Trails, rails and war; the life of General G. M. Dodge. (Je '29)

United mine workers of America
Glück, E. John Mitchell, miner. (Je '29)

United States. Army. A. E. F.
Pottle, F: A. Stretchers. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

United States. Army. A.E.F. Air service
Patrick, M. M. United States in the air. (Mr '29)

United States. Coast guard
Crump, I. Boys' book of coast guards. (Ag '29)

United States. Congress

History

Dimock, M. E: Congressional investigating committees. (Ag '29)

Powers and duties

Dimock, M. E: Congressional investigating committees. (Ag '29)
Eberling, E. J. Congressional investigations. (Ag '29)

United States. Constitution
Warren, C: Making of the Constitution. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

United States. Food administration
Surface, F. M. Grain trade during the World war. (My '29)

United States. Marine corps
Wise, F: M. A marine tells it to you. (Ag '29)

United States. Railroad administration
Hines, W. D. War history of American railroads. (Ap '29)

United States. Supreme court
Hughes, C: E. Supreme court of the United States. (Ag '29)

United States. Surgeon-general's office
Ashburn, P. M. History of the Medical department of the United States army. (S '29)

United States

Army

Shannon, F. A. Organization and administration of the Union army, 1861-1865. (Ap '29)

Air Corps

Patrick, M. M. United States in the air. (Mr '29)

Medals, badges, decorations, etc.

Hopper, J. M. Medals of honor. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Medical department

Ashburn, P. M. History of the Medical department of the United States army. (S '29)

Biography

Bradford, G. As God made them. (My '29)
Brown, R. W. Lonely Americans. (Ap '29)
Coleman, M. Pioneers of freedom. (Je '29)
Dictionary of American biography; v 1 and 2, (Ap '29)
French, J. L:, ed. Pioneers all! (Je '29)
Holland, M., and Pringle, H: F. Industrial explorers. (Je '29)
Wright, R. L. Forgotten ladies. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Church history

Moehlman, C. H: Catholic-Protestant mind. (D '29)

Civilization

Adams, J. T. Our business civilization. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Borsodi, R. This ugly civilization. (D '29)
Faÿ, B., and Claflin, A. American experiment. (Ap '29)
Frank, W. D: Re-discovery of America. (My '29)
Hulbert, A. B. Frontiers. (Ag '29)
Keyserling, H. A. America set free. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Kraus, M. Intercolonial aspects of American culture on the eve of the revolution. (Ap '29)
Mims, E. Adventurous America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Nock, A. J. On doing the right thing. (Ap '29)
Page, K., ed. Recent gains in American civilization. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Priestley, H. I. Coming of the white man, 1492-1848. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Romier, L. Who will be master, Europe or America? (Mr '29)
St. Louis post-dispatch. Drift of civilization. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Snedden, D: S: Educational sociology for beginners. (Je '29)

Commerce
Hamilton, A. Industrial and commercial correspondence. (Ap '29)
Klein, J. Frontiers of trade. (S '29)

Constitutional history
Warren, C: Making of the Constitution. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Constitutional law
Mathews, J: M. American foreign relations. (N '29)
Milligan, L. P., defendant. Milligan case. (Ag '29)
Norton, T: J. Losing liberty judicially. (Ag '29)

Defenses
Johnsen, J. E., comp. Selected articles on national defense. (S '29)

Description and travel
Goldring, D. People and places. (Ag '29)
Gordon, J. and C. J. On wandering wheels. (Mr '29)
Spender, J: A. Through English eyes. (Mr '29)

Diplomatic and consular service
Willson, B. America's ambassadors to England (1785-1929). (Ap '29)

Economic conditions
Conference on unemployment, Washington, D.C., 1921. Recent economic changes in the United States. (N '29)
Javits, B: A., and Wood, C: W. Make everybody rich. (S '29)
Jennings, W. W. Introduction to American economic history. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Keezer, D. M., and others. Problem economics. (O '29)
Motherwell, H. Imperial dollar. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Ogburn, W: F., ed. Recent social changes in the United States since the war and particularly in 1927. (Ag '29)
Phelps, G: H. Our biggest customer. (D '29)
Portus, G. V. American background. (O '29)
Soule, G: H: Useful art of economics. (S '29)

Economic policy
Carter, J: F. Conquest. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Williams, B: H. Economic foreign policy of the United States. (Ag '29)

Foreign population
Brunner, E. de S. Immigrant farmers and their children. (S '29)

Foreign relations
Bemis, S: F., ed. American secretaries of state and their diplomacy, v 6-10. (Mr, Je, S '29)
Bullard, A. American diplomacy in the modern world. (Ap '29)
Carter, J: F. Conquest. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hervey, J: G. Legal effects of recognition in international law. (O '29)
Howland, C: P., ed. American foreign relations, 1928. (My '29)
Mathews, J: M. American foreign relations. (N '29)
Motherwell, H. Imperial dollar. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Offutt, M. Protection of citizens abroad by the armed forces of the United States. (N '29)
Shotwell, J. T. War as an instrument of national policy. (Mr '29)
Spender, J: A. Through English eyes. (Mr '29)
Williams, B: H. Economic foreign policy of the United States. (Ag '29)
Zimmern, A. E. America and Europe. (S '29)

Canada
Keenleyside, H. L. Canada and the United States. (O '29)

Cuba
Jenks, L. H. Our Cuban colony. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Great Britain
Rippy, J. F. Rivalry of the United States and Great Britain over Latin America (1808-1830). (S '29)
Willson, B. America's ambassadors to England (1785-1929). (Ap '29)

Mexico
McCullagh, F. Red Mexico. (Mr '29)
Rippy, J. F., and others. Mexico. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Santa Anna, A. L. de., and others. Mexican side of the Texan revolution. (Ap '29)

Nicaragua
Cramer, F. Our neighbor Nicaragua. (S '29)
Denny, H. N. Dollars for bullets. (S '29)

Panama
Miller, H. G. Isthmian highway. (S '29)

Russia
Schuman, F: L: American policy toward Russia since 1917. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Spanish America
Hughes, C: E. Our relations to the nations of the western hemisphere. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Hughes, C: E. Pan American peace plans. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Rippy, J. F. Rivalry of the United States and Great Britain over Latin America (1808-1830). (S '29)
Stuart, G. H: Latin America and the United States. (Je '29)

Historic houses, etc.
Kimball, S. F. American architecture. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

History
Martin, A. E. History of the United States. (N '29)
Morison, S: E. Hour of American history. (S '29)
Priestley, H. I. Coming of the white man, 1492-1848. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
West, W. M. History of the American nation. (N '29)

Humor, caricatures, etc.
Barton, R. God's country. (Ap '29)

Sources
Nevins, A., comp. American press opinion, Washington to Coolidge. (Mr '29)

Sources—Bibliography
Greene, E. B., and Morris, R: B. Guide to the principal sources for early American history (1660-1800) in the city of New York. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Colonial period
Adams, R. G. Pilgrims, Indians and patriots. (Ap '29)
Jernegan, M. W. American colonies. (Ag '29)
Kraus, M. Intercolonial aspects of American culture on the eve of the revolution. (Ap '29)
Priestley, H. I. Coming of the white man, 1492-1848. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

French and Indian war, 1755-1763
Whitton, F: E. Wolfe and North America. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

United States—History—Continued

Revolution

Abbott, W. C. New York in the American revolution. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Adams, R. G. Pilgrims, Indians and patriots. (Ap '29)
Van Tyne, C. H. War of independence. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Revolution—French participation

Penman, J: S. Lafayette and three revolutions. (Ag '29)

Revolution—Sources

Lafayette, M. J., marquis de. Lafayette in Virginia. (Je '29)

1783-1865

Adams, J. Q. Diary, 1794-1845. (Mr '29)

Constitutional period, 1789-1809

Hamilton, A. Industrial and commercial correspondence. (Ap '29)
Minnigerode, M. Jefferson, friend of France, 1793. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

War with Mexico, 1845-1848

Golder, F. A., and others, eds. March of the Mormon battalion. (Mr '29)
Polk, J. K. Polk. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Civil war

Hergesheimer, J. Swords and roses. (My '29)
Lonn, E. Desertion during the Civil war. (Je '29)
Shannon, F. A. Organization and administration of the Union army, 1861-1865. (Ap '29)

Civil war—Campaigns and battles

Fuller, J: F: C: Generalship of Ulysses S. Grant. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Hay, T: R. Hood's Tennessee campaign. (O '29)

Civil war—Causes

Van Deusen, J: G: Economic bases of disunion in South Carolina. (Ag '29)

Civil war—Naval operations

Robinson, W: M. Confederate privateers. (Ap '29)

Civil war—Personal narratives

Andrews, M. M. Scraps of paper. (N '29)

1865-

Bowers, C. G. Tragic era. (O '29)

History, Naval

Frost, H. H. We build a navy. (O '29)
Hull, I: Commodore Hull. (N '29)
Knipe, E. and A. A. Story of Old Ironsides. (Je '29)

Industries

Clark, V: S. History of manufactures in the United States. (N '29)
Javits, B: A., and Wood, C: W. Make everybody rich. (S '29)
Keir, R. M. Manufacturing. (N '29)
Lauck, W: J. New industrial revolution and wages. (Ag '29)
Taylor, H. Making goods and making money. (Ap '29)

Intellectual life

Am I getting an education? (S '29)
Kraus, M. Intercolonial aspects of American culture on the eve of the revolution. (Ap '29)
Mims, E. Adventurous America. (F '30) (1929 Annual)

Manufactures

Clark, V: S. History of manufactures in the United States. (N '29)
Hamilton, A. Industrial and commercial correspondence. (Ap '29)
Keir, R. M. Manufacturing. (N '29)

Navy

Magruder, T: P. United States navy. (Ap '29)
Moore, F: America's naval challange. (S '29)
Rodman, H. Yarns of a Kentucky admiral. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Politics and government

Adams, J. Q. Diary, 1794-1845. (Mr '29)
Beard, C: A. American party battle. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Child, R: W. Writing on the wall. (Je '29)
Cook, S. L. Torchlight parade. (Je '29)
Eldridge, S. New citizenship. (Je '29)
Spender, J: A. Through English eyes. (Mr '29)
Stimson, F: J. Western way. (Ag '29)
Thompson, J: G. Urbanization. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Van Deusen, J: G: Economic bases of disunion in South Carolina. (Ag '29)
White, W: A. Masks in a pageant. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Race question

American academy of political and social science, Philadelphia. American Negro. (My '29)
Lasker, B. Race attitudes in children. (Ag '29)
Moton, R. R. What the Negro thinks. (Je '29)
Nearing, S. Black America. (Je '29)

Relations (general) with Central America

Crowther, S: Romance and rise of the American tropics. (Ag '29)

Religion

Douglass, H. P. Church comity. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Ferguson, C: W. Confusion of tongues. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Fiske, C: Confessions of a puzzled parson. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Social conditions

Adams, J. T. Our business civilization. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Brunner, E. de S. Immigrant farmers and their children. (S '29)
Eldridge, S., and Clark, C. De W. Major problems of democracy. (Je '29)
Keyserling, H. A. America set free. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Lynd, R. S. and H. M. Middletown. (Ap '29)
Ogburn, W: F., ed. Recent social changes in the United States since the war and particularly in 1927. (Ag '29)
Portus, G. V. American background. (O '29)
Rich, M. E., ed. Family life to-day. (Ap '29)
Spender, J: A. Through English eyes. (Mr '29)

Social life and customs

Barbé-Marbois, F. Our revolutionary forefathers. (Ap '29)
Tarkington, B. The world does move. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Colonial period

Kraus, M. Intercolonial aspects of American culture on the eve of the revolution. (Ap '29)

United States grain corporation
Surface, F. M. Grain trade during the World war. (My '29)
United States in the air. Patrick, M. M. (Mr '29)
United States navy. Magruder, T: P. (Ap '29)
Universe around us. Jeans, J. H. (N '29)
University of Chicago chapel. Goodspeed, E. J. (My '29)
Unknown daughter. Benson, T., pseud. (My '29)
Unknown lands. Blasco Ibáñez, V. (My '29)
Unknown soldier. Dawson, C. W: (O '29)
Unknown warrior. Raynal, P. (Ap '29)
Unlit lamp. Hall, R. (O '29)
Unravelling the Book of books. Trattner, E. R. (S '29)
Unsought adventure. Kennedy, H. A. (N '29)
Until philosophers are kings. Chance, R. J. F. (Ag '29)
Untold story; the life of Isadora Duncan. (Ap '29)
Unwilling god. Marks, P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Up at the villa. Scherr, M. (N '29)
Up to now. Smith, A. E. (N '29)

Urban influences on higher education in England and the United States. Kolbe, P. R. (Ag '29)
Urban land economics. Dorau, H. B., and Hinman, A. G. (Mr '29)
Urbanization. Thompson, J: G. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Use of the Old Testament in current curricula. Smith, R. S. (S '29)
Useful art of economics. Soule, G: H: (S '29)
Useful knowledge. Stein, G. (Je '29)
Utilitarianism
Halévy, E. Growth of philosophic radicalism. (My '29)

Vagabonding at fifty. Wilson, H. C., and Mitchell, E. R. (Je '29)
Vagabond's Provence. Peck, A. M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Vale of Aragon. McLaughlin, F. (D '29)
Vallejo Kitty. Knox, A. (N '29)
Valley of Olympus. Cohen, O. R. (My '29)
The vampire. Summers, M. (My '29)
Vampires
Summers, M. The vampire. (My '29)
Van Buren, Martin
Lynch, D. T. Epoch and a man; Martin Van Buren and his times. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Vanzetti, Bartolomeo
Marks, J. A. Thirteen days. (Ag '29)
Sacco, N., and Vanzetti, B. Letters. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Fiction
Sinclair, U. B. Boston. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Variety of people. Marquis, D. (D '29)
Vedanta
Urquhart, W: S. Vedanta and modern thought. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Vedanta and modern thought. Urquhart, W: S. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Veiled door. Giltinan, C. (Ag '29)
Veld verse. Fairbridge, K. O. (Mr '29)
Vengeful gods. Eng title of Jealous gods. Atherton, G. F. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Venus. Vignaud, J. (S '29)
Vermeer, Jan
Lucas, E: V. Vermeer the magical. (O '29)
Vermeer the magical. Lucas, E: V. (O '29)
Versailles, Treaty of, 1919
Nowak, K: F. Versailles. (Ag '29)
Versailles. Nowak, K: F. (Ag '29)
Versailles to Rapallo, 1920-1922. See Diary of an ambassador. D'Abernon, E. V. (My '29)
Very naked people. Londres, A. (D '29)
Victim and victor. Oliver, J: R. (Mr '29)
Victoria Adelaide Mary Louisa, consort of Frederick III, German emperor
Victoria Adelaide Mary Louisa, consort of Frederick III, German emperor. Letters. (Mr '29)
Victorian village. Reese, L. W. (N '29)
Victorian working women. Neff, W. (O '29)
Victory. Huch, R. O. (My '29)
Viennese love [Die freudlose gasse]. Bettauer, H. (N '29)
Village doctor. Kaye-Smith, S. (Ap '29)
Villas of Pliny. Harte, G. B. (Ag '29)
Vincent de Paul, Saint
Lavedan, H. L. E. Heroic life of Saint Vincent de Paul. (N '29)
Violence. Haldeman-Julius, A. M. and E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Violis, Andrée, pseud. See Ardenne de Tizac, A. F. C. d'-.
Virgil (Publius Virgilius Maro)
Conway, R. A. Harvard lectures on the Vergilian age. (Ap '29)
Virginia
Description and travel
Rothery, A. E. New roads in old Virginia. (Je '29)
Wilstach, P. Tidewater Virginia. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Historic houses, etc.
Wilstach, P. Tidewater Virginia. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
History
Rothery, A. E. New roads in old Virginia. (Je '29)
Stanard, M. M. P. Story of Virginia's first century. (Mr '29)
Colonial period
Fletcher, J: G. John Smith—also Pocahontas. (Mr '29)
Virginia's bandit. Singmaster, E. (D '29)
Virtue of this jest. Montgomery, J. S. (N '29)
Virtuous woman. Muir, D. (O '29)
Vision of God. Cusanus, N. (Mr '29)
Visions & chimeras. Frye, P. H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Visitors to Hugo. Rosman, A. G. (S '29)
Visual instruction
Dorris, A. V. Visual instruction in the public schools. (Ag '29)
Visual instruction in the public schools. Dorris, A. V. (Ag '29)
Vital statistics
Kuczynski, R. R. Balance of births and deaths, v 1. (My '29)
Sorokin, P. A., and Zimmerman, C. C. Principles of rural-urban sociology. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Vivandière. Gaye, P. F. (Ag '29)
Vocal music
Colles, H: C. Voice and verse. (S '29)
Vocational civics. Hill, H. C. (Ag '29)
Vocational guidance
Cohen, I. D: Principles and practices of vocational guidance. (Ag '29)
Voice and verse. Colles, H: C. (S '29)
Voice of freedom. Nevinson, H: W., comp. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Voltaire, Francois Marie Arouet de
Thaddeus, V: Voltaire, genius of mockery. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Voltaire, genius of mockery. Thaddeus, V: (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Volumetric analysis
Kolthoff, I. M., and Menzel, H. Volumetric analysis, v 2. (N '29)
Volumetric analysis, v 2. Kolthoff, I. M., and Menzel, H. (N '29)
Voodooism
Seabrook, W: B. Magic island. (Mr '29)
Voyage to the island of the Articoles. Maurois A. (Mr '29)
Voyage to Treasure land. Chandler, A. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Voyages and travels
Benson, S. Worlds within worlds. (Mr '29)
Cameron, J: John Cameron's odyssey. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Clavijo, R. G. de. Embassy to Tamerlane, 1403-1406. (Je '29)
Cust, N. Wanderers. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Davis, R. H. Bob Davis abroad! (N '29)
Dean, H. Pedro Gorino. (My '29)
Ellis, M. H. Express to Hindustan. (N '29)
Harlow, V. ed. Voyages of great pioneers. (Ja '30) 929 Annual)
Sherwood, M., and Mantz, H. E. Road to Cathay. (Mr '29)
Tilton, G: F. Cap'n George Fred himself. (Mr '29)
Villiers, A. J. Falmouth for orders. (Je '29)
Voyages and travels, Juvenile
Huld, P. Boy scout around the world. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Voyages of great pioneers. Harlow, V. T., ed. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

W., E. B. See White, E. B.
Wade, Henry, pseud. See Aubrey-Fletcher, H: L.
Wages
Dobb, M. H. Wages. (N '29)

Wages—Continued

Canada

Bradwin, E. W: Bunkhouse man. (My '29)

United States

Lauck, W: J. New industrial revolution and wages. (Ag '29)

Wagner, Richard
Pourtalès, G. de. Mad king. (My '29)
The wagon and the star. Larrimore, L. (S '29)
Waking bird. Goolden, B. (D '29)

Walalas
Von Hoffman, C. Jungle gods. (Je '29)
Walk, look & listen! Fuller, R. T. (S '29)
Walks and talks about old Philadelphia. Barton, G: (Je '29)
Wall of weeping. Fleg, E. (D '29)

Wall Street
Warshow, R. I. Story of Wall Street. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wall Street and Washington. Lawrence, J. S. (O '29)

Wallace, Edgar
Wallace, E. People. (Je '29)

Walpole, Horace, 4th earl of Orford
De Koven, A. Horace Walpole and Madame du Deffand. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Walpole, Hugh
Dane, C., pseud. Tradition and Hugh Walpole. (N '29)
Walt Whitman's workshop. Whitman, W. (My '29)
Walter De La Mare. Reid, F. (O '29)
The wanderer (Le grand Meaulnes). Fournier, A. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual) Wanderers. Cust, N. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wanderer's way. Raven, C: E. (Mr '29)
Wanderings in medieval London. Pendrill, C: (Ap '29)

War
Allen, W: C. War! (N '29)
Boeckel, F. B. Between war and peace. (Ap '29)
Brewster, H. S. Madness of war. (Ap '29)
Cowan, A. R. War in world-history. (N '29)
Mead, L. T. Law or war. (Ap '29)
Murray, G. Ordeal of this generation. (S '29)
Richards, L. Christian's alternative to war. (N '29)
Shotwell, J. T. War as an instrument of national policy. (Mr '29)

War (international law)
Royse, M. W: Aerial bombardment and the international regulation of warfare. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
War. Renn, L. (S '29)

War and religion
Stratmann, F. Church and war. (N '29)
War as an instrument of national policy. Shotwell, J. T. (Mr '29)
War bugs. MacArthur, C: G. (S '29)

War games
Dowdall, H. G., and Gleason, J. H. Sham-battle. (N '29)
War history of American railroads. Hines, W. D. (Ap '29)
War in world-history. Cowan, A. R. (N '29)
War of independence. Van Tyne, C. H. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
War paint. Coolidge, D. (My '29)

War-songs, American
Dolph, E: A., ed. Sound off! (S '29)
Ward, Arthur Sarsfield. See Rohmer, S., pseud.

Warehouses
Goldstein, B: F. Marketing. (Ap '29)

Warwick, Frances Evelyn (Maynard) Greville, countess of Warwick, F. E. Life's ebb and flow. (N '29)

Washington, George
Kite, E. S., comp. L'Enfant and Washington, 1791-1792. (N '29)
Lindsay, V. Litany of Washington street. (Je '29)
Little, S. George Washington. (N '29)

Washington, D.C. Conference on the limitation of armaments
Ichihashi, Y. Washington conference and after. (My '29)

Washington, D.C.

Description
Moore, C: Washington, past and present. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

History
Kite, E. S., comp. L'Enfant and Washington, 1791-1792. (N '29)
Moore, C: Washington, past and present. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Washington conference and after. Ichihashi, Y. (My '29)
Washington, past and present. Moore, C: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Wasps
Reinhard, E: G. Witchery of wasps. (Je '29)
Wast, Hugo, pseud. See Martínez Zuviría, G. A.

Waste products
Rommel, G: M. Farm products in industry. (Je '29)

Water
Purification
Ellms, J. W. Water purification. (Ap '29)

Water gardens
Sawyer, R. V., and Perkins, E. H. Water gardens and goldfish. (Ap '29)
Water gardens and goldfish. Sawyer, R. V., and Perkins, E. H. (Ap '29)

Water-lilies
Sawyer, R. V., and Perkins, E. H. Water gardens and goldfish. (Ap '29)
Water purification. Ellms, J. W. (Ap '29)

Water supply
Holway, H. Story of water supply. (D '29)
Water weed. Campbell, A. O. (N '29)
Waters of Africa. Horn, A. A., pseud. (S '29)

Waterways
Moulton, H. G., and others. St. Lawrence navigation and power project. (D '29)
The wave. Scott, E., pseud. (S '29)
The way it was with them. O'Donnell, P. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Way of a man with a horse. Brooke, G. F. H. (O '29)
Way of Ecben. Cabell, J. B. (D '29)
Way of order for bituminous coal. Hamilton, W. H., and Wright, H. R. (O '29)
Way of peace. Cecil of Chelwood, E. A. R. G.-C. (Ag '29)
Way of the Greeks. Earp, F. R. (S '29)
A way out. Frost, R. (O '29)
Way the world is going. Wells, H. G: (Mr '29)
Wayfarer in Austria. Gedye, G: E. R. (My '29)
Wayfarer in Morocco. Lowth, A. (Je '29)
Wayfarer in the Pyrenees. Robson, E. I. (Ag '29)

Wayne, Anthony
Boyd, T: A. Mad Anthony Wayne. (D '29)
Ways to better teaching in the secondary school. Fontaine, E. C. (Ag '29)
We are the dead. Reid, A. (S '29)
We believe in immortality. Strong, S. D., ed. (My '29)
We build a navy. Frost, H. H. (O '29)
We that are left. Clarke, I. C. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)

Weather
Free, E: E., and Hoke, T. Weather. (Mr '29)
Van Cleef, E. Story of the weather. (D '29)
Weathergoose—woo! MacKaye, P. (O '29)

Weaving
Atwater, M. M. Shuttle-craft book of American hand-weaving. (Ap '29)
Shook, A. N. Book of weaving. (Mr '29)
Web of murder. Small, A. J. (S '29)

Webster, Daniel
Benson, A. L: Daniel Webster. (D '29)

Wehner, George B.
Wehner, G: B. A curious life. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Weir Mitchell. Burr, A. R. (D '29)
Welcome—stranger. Cook, N. E. (N '29)

Welfare institutions for laborers
Herring, H. L. Welfare work in mill villages. (Je '29)
Welfare work in mill villages. Herring, H. L. (Je '29)

Wellington, Arthur Wellesley, 1st duke of
Brett, O. Wellington. (Mr '29)
Wesley, John
Collier, F. W. John Wesley among the scientists. (My '29)
Lee, U. The Lord's horseman. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Lipsky, A. John Wesley. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Lunn, A. H: M. John Wesley. (Je '29)
West
Biography
Raine, W: M. Famous sheriffs and western outlaws. (Ag '29)
Description and travel
Laut, A. C. Overland trail. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Myall, W: Scenic West. (O '29)
Discovery and exploration
Vandiveer, C. A. Fur-trade and early western exploration. (N '29)
History
Osgood, E. S. Day of the cattleman. (O '29)
West Indies
Commerce
Hamilton, A. Industrial and commercial correspondence. (Ap '29)
Description and travel
Foster, H. La T. Combing the Caribbees. (Je '29)
Social life and customs
Foster, H. La T. Combing the Caribbees. (Je '29)
West Indies, British
Ragatz, L. J. Fall of the planter class in the British Caribbean, 1763-1833. (N '29)
Westermarck, Edvard Alexander
Westermarck, E. A. Memories of my life. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Western way. Stimson, F: J. (Ag '29)
West-running brook. Frost, R. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wet Flanders plain. Williamson, H: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wetcheek, J. L., pseud. See Feuchtwanger, L.
Whaling
Andrews, R. C. Ends of the earth. (D '29)
Hohman, E. P. American whaleman. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Tilton, G: F. Cap'n George Fred himself. (Mr '29)
Wharton, Anthony, pseud. See McAllister, A.
What do we mean by God? Valentine, C. H: (N '29)
What engineers do. Binger, W. D: (Je '29)
What happened in Palestine. Samuel, M. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
What is life? Gaskell, A. (My '29)
What is right with marriage. Binkley, R. C. and F. W. (N '29)
What is socialism? Hughan, J. W. (Ag '29)
What is the mind? Patrick, G: T: W. (Ag '29)
What is wrong with marriage. Hamilton, G. Van T., and MacGowan, K. (Je '29)
What philosophy is. Larrabee, H. A. (Mr '29)
What price paradise? Hillgarth, A. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
What the farmer needs. Lippincott, I: (Ap '29)
What the Negro thinks. Moton, R. R. (Je '29)
What to read. English, T: H., and Pope, W. B. (D '29)
Wheat trade
United States
Surface, F. M. Grain trade during the World war. (My '29)
When Father Christmas was late. Dawson, C. W: (F '30) (1929 Annual)
When fur was king. Moberly, H: J:, and Cameron, W: B. (S '29)
When hell came through. Breck, J: (Ag '29)
When it's cocktail time in Cuba. Woon, B. D. (Ap '29)
When love comes to woman. Stern, E. G. (S '29)
When lovers ruled Russia. Poliakoff, V. (Mr '29)
When the U-boats come to America. Clark, W: B. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Where it all comes true in France. Laughlin, C. E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Where it all comes true in Scandinavia. Laughlin, C. E. (O '29)
Where Paris dines. Street, J. L. (S '29)
Where the East begins. Armstrong, H. F. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Whiffen, Blanche (Galton) (Mrs Thomas Whiffen)
Whiffen, B. Keeping off the shelf. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
While Peter sleeps. Barrett, E: J: B. (Je '29)
While the bridegroom tarried. Bryner, E. (Mr '29)
Whins on Knockattan. Casserley, A. T. (Mr '29)
Whirligig of taste. Kellett, E. E: (My '29)
Whirlwind. Davis, W: S. (D '29)
Whisper of a name (Grand-Louis l'Innocent). Le Franc, M. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
White Africans and black. Singer, C., and Baldridge, C. Le R. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
White betrayal. Unger, H. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
White camellia. Grierson, F. D. (O '29)
White Coat. Krasnov, P. N. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
White eagles. Gielgud, V. H: (N '29)
White girl. Caspary, V. (Ap '29)
White House gang. Looker, E. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
White mouse. Terhune, A. M. (N '29)
White narcissus. Knister, R. (O '29)
White peaks and green. Fuller, E. R. (Ag '29)
White robe. Cabell, J. B. (Mr '29)
Whiteoaks of Jalna. De La Roche, M. (O '29)
Whither mankind. Beard, C: A., ed. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Whitman, Walt
Lindsay, V. Litany of Washington street. (Je '29)
Who is then this man? Marnas, M. (S '29)
Who shall hang? Magill, M. (S '29)
Who will be master, Europe or America? Romier, L. (Mr '29)
Wholesome parenthood. Groves, E. R. and G. (O '29)
Who's who among the microbes. Park, W: H., and Williams, A. W. (Ag '29)
Why am I a Christian? Ingram, A. F. W. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Why be a mud turtle? White, S. E: (Mr '29)
Why do you talk like that? Burton, R: (Je '29)
Why I believe in personal immortality. Lodge, O. J. (Ap '29)
Why is history rewritten? Salmon, L. M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Why Janet should read Shakespere. Hapgood, N. (O '29)
Why we do it. Wolff, E. (Je '29)
Wife to Pilate. Granger, M. (Je '29)
Wild bird. Diver, M. (Ag '29)
Wild garden. Carman, B. (Je '29)
Wild-goose chase. Lea, F. H. (My '29)
Wild Horse Mesa. Grey, Z. (Ap '29)
Wild men of the wild West. Sabin, E. L. (D '29)
Wild morning. Tchernine, O. (O '29)
Wild oat. Fletcher, J. S. (O '29)
Wilkes, John
Postgate, R. W: That devil Wilkes. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Will to be free. Knox, H. V. (N '29)
Willard, Mrs Emma (Hart)
Lutz, A. Emma Willard, daughter of democracy. (Ag '29)
William I, German emperor
Wiegler, P. William the First. (S '29)
William III, king of England
Bowen, M., pseud. William, prince of Orange. (My '29)
William Blake. Soupault, P. (Ag '29)
William Cowper. Fausset, H. l'A. (Mr '29)
William Dampier. Eng title of Dampier, explorer and buccaneer. Wilkinson, C. (D '29)

William Gregg, factory master of the old South. Mitchell, B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
William Harvey. Malloch, A. E: (N '29)
William Heinemann. Whyte, F: (My '29)
William, prince of Orange. Bowen, M., pseud. (My '29)
William Wordsworth. Harper, G: M. (O '29)
Willow and cypress. Verschoyle, C. M. (Ag '29)
Willy, Colette. See Colette, pseud.
Wilson, Mrs Desemea (Newman). See Patrick, D., pseud.
Wilson, Sir Henry Hughes
Macphail, A. Three persons. (Ag '29)
Wilson, Woodrow
House, E: M. Intimate papers of Colonel House. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Scott, C. A. Is this Wilson? (Ap '29)
Windlestraws. Bottome, P. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Wine and wine making
Shand, P. M. Book of other wines than French. (O '29)

France
Street, J. L. Where Paris dines. (S '29)
Winged horse anthology. Auslander, J., and Hill, F. E., comps. (S '29)
Winged sandals. Price, L. (Ap '29)
Wings of destiny. Weston, G: (S '29)
Wings of healing. Martin, H. (Je '29)
Wings of the eagle. Seldes, G. V. (D '29)
Wings of wax. Hoyt, J. (My '29)
Wings on my feet. Odum, H. W. (O '29)
Wings over Europe. Nichols, R. M. B., and Browne, M. (My '29)
Winning the king's cup. Bell, H. G. (My '29)
Winter. Griese, F. (Ag '29)
Winter construction methods. Hill, C: S. (My '29)
Witch. Conkling, G. W. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Witch Perkins. Scott, E., pseud. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Witchcraft
Kenyon, T. Witches still live. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Kittredge, G: L. Witchcraft in old and New England. (Je '29)
Seabrook, W: B. Magic island. (Mr '29)
Von Hoffman, C. Jungle gods. (Je '29)
Witchcraft in old and New England. Kittredge, G: L. (Je '29)
Witchery of wasps. Reinhard, E: G. (Je '29)
Witches still live. Kenyon, T. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
With and without Christ. Sundar Singh. (Ag '29)
With the Eagles. Anderson, P. L. (S '29)
With the trout fly. Plumley, L. (Ag '29)
Within the walls of Nanking. Hobart, A. T. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Witnesses
Eberling, E. J. Congressional investigations. (Ag '29)
Wits' end. Paradise, V. (Mr '29)
Wolf Solent. Powys, J: C. (Ag '29)
Wolfe, James
Waugh, W: T. James Wolfe, man and soldier. (My '29)
Whitton, F: E. Wolfe and North America. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wolfe and North America. Whitton, F: E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wolsey, Thomas
Pollard, A. F: Wolsey. (O '29)
Wolves
Carhart, A. H., and Young, S. P. Last stand of the pack. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Wolves of chaos. MacGrath, H. (Je '29)
Woman
Booth, M. Woman and society. (D '29)

Biography
Dark, S. Twelve royal ladies. (O '29)
Wright, R. L. Forgotten ladies. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)

Employment
Dodge, M. R. Fifty little businesses for women. (Ag '29)
Donovan, F. R. Saleslady. (D '29)
Fleischman, D. E., ed. Outline of careers for women. (My '29)
Lobsenz, J. Older woman in industry. (Je '29)
Neff, W. F. Victorian working women. (O '29)

History and condition of women
Tanner, J., pseud. Intelligent man's guide to marriage and celibacy. (O '29)
Wieth-Knudsen, K. A. Understanding women. (Je '29)

Occupations
Croy, M. B. How women can make money. (N '29)

Social and moral questions
Sanger, M. Motherhood in bondage. (Mr '29)
Woman and society. Booth, M. (D '29
Woman at dusk. Stringer, A. J: A. (Je '29)
Woman hunters. Roche, A. S. (Ag '29)
Woman of it. Davis, C. O. (O '29)
Woman of Naples. Surányi, M. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Woman who commanded 500,000,000 men. Pettit, C: (S '29)
Woman who couldn't die. Stringer, A. J: A. (Ag '29)
Women as authors
Woolf, V. Room of one's own. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Women as purchasers
Frederick, C. Selling Mrs Consumer. (N '29)
Women in England
Neff, W. Victorian working women. (O '29)
Woolf, V. Room of one's own. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Women in India
Field, H. H. After Mother India. (N '29)
Lājpat, R. Unhappy India. (Mr '29)
Mayo, K. Slaves of the gods. (Je '29)
Williams, G. L. Understanding India. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Wilson, M. Trousers of taffeta. (D '29)
Women in literature and art
Neff, W. Victorian working women. (O '29)
Wonder city. Lenski, L. (O '29)
Wonderful voyages of Cap'n Pen. Shumway, H. I. (D '29)
Wood engravings
Ward, L. K. God's man. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wood pulp

Bibliography
West, C. J., comp. Bibliography of pulp and paper making, 1900-1928. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Woods, Robert Archey
Woods, E. H. Robert A. Woods. (Je '29)
Word of God and the word of man. Barth, K: (S '29)
Wordsworth, William
Harper, G: M. William Wordsworth. (O '29)
Work
Jacks, L. P. My neighbor the universe. (O '29)
Man, H. de. Joy in work. (N '29)
Work of the International labor organization. National industrial conference board. (O '29)
Works council. Guillebaud, C. W. (My '29)
The world does move. Tarkington, B. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
World I saw. Monroe, A. S. (Mr '29)
World politics
Bowman, I. New world. (Je '29)
Carter, J: F. Conquest. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Child, R: W. Writing on the wall. (Je '29)
Churchill, W. L. S. The aftermath. (My '29)
Council on foreign relations. Political handbook of the world. (Je '29)
Donaldson, J: L. International economic relations. (Je '29)
Edwards, W: H. Heading for war. (Ap '29)
Martin, C: E. Politics of peace. (S '29)
Seldes, G: You can't print that! (Ap '29)
Toynbee, A. J. Survey of international affairs, 1926. (Ag '29)

World's best short stories of 1929. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
World's delight. Oursler, F. (O '29)
Worlds within worlds. Benson, S. (Mr '29)
Worms, Intestinal and parasitic
Hegner, R. W., and others. Animal parasitology. (S '29)
Wright, Orville
Charnley, M. V. Boy's life of the Wright brothers. (My '29)
Wright, Wilbur
Charnley, M. V. Boy's life of the Wright brothers. (My '29)
Writing
Identification
Carvalho, C., and Sparkes, B. Crime in ink. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Osborn, A. S. Questioned documents. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Writing on the wall. Child, R: W. (Je '29)
Written on water. Miomandre, F. de. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Wycliffe, John
Wild, L. H. Romance of the English Bible. (S '29)
Wycliffe, John, pseud. See Bedford-Jones, H:
Wynne, Anthony, pseud. See Wilson, R. M.
Wynne, Pamela, pseud. See Scott, W. M.

XIT ranch, Texas
Haley, J. E. XIT ranch of Texas. (N '29)

Yacht racing
Bell, H. G. Winning the king's cup. (My '29)
Schoettle, E. J., ed. Sailing craft. (Ap '29)
Yachts and yachting
Schoettle, E. J., ed. Sailing craft. (Ap '29)
Yarns of a Kentucky admiral. Rodman, H. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Yates, Dornford, pseud. See Mercer, C. W:
Years between, v 3-4. Feval, P., and Lassez, M. (Ap '29)
Yellow book. (Je '29)
Yellow Munro. Fairlie, G. (O '29)
Yellow pigeon. Guest, C. (Ag '29)
Yellow primrose. Young, J. F. (Ap '29)
Yes man's land. Witwer, H. C: (Je '29)
Yet do not grieve. O'Riordan, C. O. (Mr '29)
Yolan. Tickell, J. (Ap '29)
Yolan of the plains. Eng title of Yolan. Tickell, J. (Ap '29)
York, England
Politics and government
Curtis, L: P. Politicks of Laurence Sterne. (S '29)
Yorktown
Siege, 1781
Lafayette, M. J., marquis de. Lafayette in Virginia. (Je '29)
You—and the doctor. Hawes, J: B. (Je '29)
You can escape. Smith, E: H: (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
You can't print that! Seldes, G: (Ap '29)
You make your own luck. Singmaster, E. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Young, Arthur
Young, A. On my way. (Ag '29) (1928 Annual)
Young Apollo. Gibbs, A. (D '29)
Young architects. Stanley-Brown, K. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Young blood. Lynde, F. (Ag '29)
Young entry. Farrell, M. J. (My '29)
Young folk's book of polar exploration. Elias, E. L. (S '29)
Young lovers. Bailey, H: C. (Je '29)
Young Luther. Fife, R. H. (My '29)
Young May moon. Ostenso, M. (O '29)
Young Mrs Greeley. Tarkington, B. (Ag '29)
A young people. Kinck, H. E. (S '29)
Young woman in love. Linfield, M. B. (Je '29)
Young women
Johns, J., pseud. Girls men marry. (S '29)
Young Women's Christian associations
Burton, M. E. Mabel Cratty. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Young Woodley. Van Druten, J: (My '29)
Your eyes and their care. Thomson, E. S. (Je '29)
Your house. Palmer, L. (My '29)
Your mind in action. Moss, F. A. (Je '29)
Your nose, throat and ears. Oaks, L: W., and Merrill, H. G. (N '29)
Your teeth. Stoloff, C: I. (My '29)
Youth
Cosgrave, J. Psychology of youth. (Ap '29)
Poling, D. A. Youth and life. (N '29)
Youth and life. Poling, D. A. (N '29)
Youth in a world of men. Johnson, M. L. (O '29)
Youth rides out. Seymour, B. K. (Mr '29)
Youthful old age. Gallichan, W. M. (S '29)
Yucatan
Description and travel
Russell, P. Red tiger. (Je '29)
Yugoslavia
Economic conditions
Pasvolsky, L. Economic nationalism of the Danubian states. (S '29)
Politics and government
Beard, C: A., and Radin, G: Balkan pivot: Yugoslavia. (My '29)

Zaharoff, Sir Basil
Lewinsohn, R: Mystery man of Europe: Sir Basil Zaharoff. (D '29)
The Zeppelins. Lehmann, E. A., and Mingos, H L. (Mr '29)
Zero hour. Grabenhorst, G. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Zionism
De Hass, J. Louis D. Brandeis. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Holmes, J: H. Palestine, to-day and to-morrow. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Zoology
Blair, W: R. In the Zoo. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Juvenile literature
Daglish, E. F. Animals in black and white. v 1-2. (Mr '29)
Africa
Akeley, M. L. Carl Akeley's Africa. (F '30) (1929 Annual)
Kittenberger, K. Big game hunting and collecting in East Africa, 1903-1926. (Ja '30) (1929 Annual)
Australia
Wilkins, G: H. Undiscovered Australia. (Ap '29)
Zoology, Economic
Wardle, R. A. Principles of applied zoology. (N '29)
Zoology, Medical
Wardle, R. A. Principles of applied zoology. (N '29)
Zukor, Adolph
Irwin, W: H: House that shadows built [story of Adolph Zukor]. (Ap '29)

Directory of Publishers

A. L. A. American Library Association, 520 N Michigan Av, Chicago

Abingdon Press, 150 5th Av, N.Y.; 581 Boylston St, Boston; 105 5th Av, Pittsburgh, Pa.; 28 Elizabeth St, E. Detroit, Mich.; 420 Plum St, Cincinnati; 740 Rush St, Chicago; 1121 McGee St, Kansas City, Mo.; 7 City Hall Av, San Francisco; 304-313 Artisans Bldg, Portland, Ore.

Adelphi Co., 160 5th Av, N.Y.
Business handled by Greenberg Oct. 1, 1926-Jan. 1, 1928

Am. Acad. American Academy of Political and Social Science, 3622-24 Locust St, West Philadelphia; English Agent, P. S. King & Son, Ltd., London

Am.-Scandinavian Foundation, 25 W 45th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Scanfoun]

Appleton, D. Appleton & Company, 29-35 W 32d St, N.Y.; 34 Bedford St, London W.C. 2 [Cable Address: Hilandero New York]

Atlantic Monthly Press Publications
Books distributed by Little, Brown & Company

Barnes, A. S. & Co., 67 W 44th St, N.Y.; Pacific Coast Agency, California School Book Depository, 149 New Montgomery St, San Francisco; Canadian Agency, Geo. M. Hendry Co., Ltd., 129 Adelaide St, W, Toronto

Beacon Press. See American Unitarian Association

Bobbs. Bobbs-Merrill Company, 724 N Meridian St, Indianapolis, Ind.; 185 Madison Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Bobbs, Indianapolis]

Boni. Albert & Charles Boni, 66 5th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Bonibooks]
Have acquired the publication of Lieber & Lewis, and Thomas Seltzer, Inc.

Boni & Liveright, 61 W 48th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Liveright]
Incorporated as Horace Liveright, Fall of 1928

Bradley. Milton Bradley Company, 49 Willow St, Springfield, Mass.; 120 Boylston St, Boston; 120 E. 16th St, N.Y.; Front & Brown Sts, Philadelphia; 554 Mission St, San Francisco; 384 Forrest Av, Atlanta, Ga.; Kansas City, Mo. Agent, Hoover Bros., 922 Oak St; Northwestern Agents, Thos. Charles Co., 2249 Calumet Av, Chicago [Cable Address. Miltbradco Springfield]

Brentano's, 5th Av, & 27th St, N.Y.; 63 E Washington St, Chicago; 37 Avenue de l'Opéra, Paris

Brewer. Brewer & Warren, Inc., 6 E. 53d St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Paysoclark]
Formerly Payson & Clarke, Ltd.

Brimmer. B. J. Brimmer Company, 384 Boylston St, Boston (17)
Out of business

Bruce Pub. Bruce Publishing Company, 129 E Michigan St, Milwaukee, Wis.; depositories at 149 New Montgomery St, San Francisco; 707 Sprague Av, Spokane, Wash.; 1307 Pacific Av, Dallas, Tex.; 155 S State St, Salt Lake City, Utah; English Agent, B. T. Batsford, Ltd., London; Am. Agent for B. T. Batsford (Selected School Shop Bks.)

Carrier. Louis Carrier & Co., 3 E 10th St, N.Y.; 1154 Beaver Hall Sq, Montreal, Canada

Central Bk. Co., 93 Nassau St, N.Y.

Century. Century Company, 353 4th Av, N.Y.

Chaucer Head. Chaucer Head, Inc., 32 W 47th St, N.Y.; Am. Agents for the London Firms of Beaumont Press, John Curwen & Sons, Golden Cockerel Press, Haslewood Press, and Nonesuch Press

Chemical Catalog Co. Chemical Catalog Company, Inc., 419 4th Av, N.Y.; English Agency, A. F. Bird, London

Chemical Foundation, Inc., 85 Beaver St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Chemfound]

Clark, A. H. Arthur H. Clark Company, 4027-4035 Prospect Av., Cleveland, O. [Cable Address: Bookmen]

Clode. Edward J. Clode, 156 5th Av, N.Y.

Collins. W. Collins Sons & Co., Ltd., 286 5th Av, N. Y.; Bridewell Pl & New Bridge St, London (Bibles, Classics, Poets Series)

Columbia Univ. Press, Columbia University, N.Y.; English Agents, P. S. King & Son, London, and Oxford Univ. Press, London (except Columbia Univ. Studies)

Commonwealth Fund. Commonwealth Fund, Division of Publications, 578 Madison Av, N.Y.

Cosmopolitan Bk. Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, 572 Madison Av., N.Y.

Covici. Covici, Friede, Inc., 386 4th Av, N.Y.
Formerly Covici, P., of Chicago

Coward-McCann, Inc., 425 Fourth Av, N.Y.

Crowell, T. Y. Crowell Company, 393 4th Av, N.Y.

Davis. F. A. Davis Company, 1914-1916 Cherry St, Philadelphia [Cable Address: Argonaut]

Day. John Day Co., Inc., 386 4th Av, N.Y.

De La Mare. A. T. De La Mare Company, Inc., 448 W 37th St, N.Y.

Dial Press (Lincoln MacVeagh), 152 W 13th St, N.Y.

Dodd. Dodd, Mead & Company, 443 4th Av, N.Y.; 215 Victoria St, Toronto, Canada [Cable Address: Dodd New York]; Am.-English Agents, John Lane (Bodley Head), London

Doran. George H. Doran Company. See Doubleday, Doran

Dorrance. Dorrance & Comapny, Inc., Drexel Bldg, 5th & Chestnut St, Philadelphia; English Agent, Curtis Brown, Ltd., London

Doubleday. Doubleday, Page & Company. See Doubleday, Doran

Doubleday, Doran. Doubleday, Doran & Company, Inc. (Country Life Press), Garden City, N.Y.; [Cable Address: Doubledor New York]; Doubleday, Doran & Gundy, Ltd., 250 Victoria St, Toronto, Canada; William Heinemann, Ltd., 99 Great Russell St, London
A consolidation of Doubleday, Page & Co., George H. Doran Co., Nelson Doubleday, Inc., and Garden City Pub. Co.

Duffield. Duffield & Company, 200 Madison Av, N.Y.; English Agent Curtis Brown, Ltd., London

Duke Univ., Durham, N.C.
Address Duke univ. press

Dutton. E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., 286-302 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Yardfar]; Am.-English Agents for the London firms of J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd., Kegan Paul, Trench, Trubner & Co., Ltd., and George Routledge & Sons, Ltd.

Foreign Policy Assn., Nat. Hdqrs, 18 E 41st St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Lofna]

Four Seas. Four Seas Company, 470 Stuart St, Boston; Canadian Agent, F. D. Goodchild, 266 King St, W, Toronto; English Agent, Stanley Phillips, London

French. Samuel French, Inc., 25 W 45th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Theatrical]; 26 Southampton St, Strand, London, W.C. 2

Funk. Funk & Wagnells Company, 354-360 4th Av, N.Y.; 14 Salisbury Sq, London, E.C. 4; Am. Agent for Cassell & Co., London

Ginn. Ginn & Company, 15 Ashburton Pl, Boston (2); 2301-2311 Prairie Av, Chicago; 70 5th Av, N.Y.; 95 Luckie St, Atlanta, Ga.; 1913 Bryan St, Dallas, Tex.; 199 E Gay St, Columbus, O.; 45 2d St, San Francisco; 7 Queen Sq, Southampton Row, London, W.C. 1

Greenberg, Publisher, Inc., 160 5th Av. N.Y.

Hale. Hale, Cushman & Flint, Inc., 857 Boylston St, Boston; 489 Fifth Av, N.Y.; 5 S Wabash Av, Chicago [Cable Address: Halcuflint Boston]; Am. Agent for Medici Soc., Ltd., London (corr address)

Harcourt. Harcourt, Brace & Company, 383 Madison Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Harbrace New York]; American Agents for some of the publications of G. Bell & Sons, Ltd., London

Harper. Harper & Brothers, 49 E 33d St, N.Y. 35 Great Russell St, London, W.C. 1
Acquired some of the publications of the S.S. Times

Harvard Univ. Press, Randall Hall, Cambridge, Mass.

Heath. D. C. Heath & Company, 50 Beacon St, Boston; 231-245 W 39th St, N.Y.; 1815 Prairie Av, Chicago; 29 N Pryor St, N.E. Atlanta, Ga.; 182 2d St, San Francisco; English Agent, Geo. G. Harrap & Co., London

Henkle. Rae D. Henkle Co., Inc., Bible House, 45 4th Av, N.Y.

Holt. Henry Holt & Co., Inc., 1 Park Av, N.Y.; for educational books only: 2626 Prairie Av, Chicago; 6 Park St, Boston; 149 New Montgomery St, San Francisco [Cable Address: Aylchot New York]

Houghton. Houghton Mifflin Company (Riverside Press, Cambridge), 2 Park St, Boston; 386 4th Av, N.Y.; 2500 Prairie Av, Chicago; 612 Howard St, San Francisco; 1909 Bryan St, Dallas, Tex. [Cable Address: Mulier, Boston]

Ia. State Hist. Soc., Iowa City, Iowa

Int. Press, 106 7th Av, N.Y.

Int. Pub. International Publishers Co., Inc., 381 4th Av., N.Y. [Cable Address: Interbook]

Johns Hopkins. Johns Hopkins Press, Homewood, Baltimore

Jones, Marshall. See Marshall Jones

Judd. Orange Judd Publishing Company, 15 E 26th St, N.Y.

Knopf. Alfred A. Knopf, 730 5th Av, N.Y.; 38 Bedford Pl, London, W.C. 1 [Cable Address: Knopf]

Lippincott. J. B. Lippincott Company, 227-231 E Washington Sq, Philadelphia; 2244 Calumet Av, Chicago; 1030 St Alexander St, Montreal, Canada; 16 John St, Adelphi, London, W.C. 2

Little. Little, Brown & Company, 34 Beacon St, Boston [Cable Address: Brownlit]
Publishers for Atlantic Monthly Press Publications

Liveright. Horace Liveright, Inc., 61 W 48th St, N.Y.; English Agent, Am. Bk. Supply Co., Ltd., London
Formerly Boni & Liveright

Longmans. Longmans, Green & Company, 55 5th Av, Cor. 12th St., N.Y.; Tremont Temple, Boston; 210 Victoria St, Toronto, Canada; 39 Paternoster Row, London, E.C. 4; for school books only: 221 E 20th St, Chicago [Cable Address: Freegrove New York]; American Agents for Edward Arnold, London

Macaulay. Macaulay Company, 257-265 4th Av, N.Y.

McBride. Robert M. McBride & Company, 7 W 16th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Bideco]

McGraw. McGraw-Hill Book Company, Penn Terminal Bldg, 370 7th Av, N.Y.; 6-8 Bouverie St, London, E.C. 4
Acquired the book division of A. W. Shaw Co.

McKee. Walter V. McKee, Inc., (Mazarin Press) 56 W 45th St, N.Y.; Eastern Agent for Triskele Press, Minneapolis, Minn.; Am Agents for the English Firms of Fanfrolic Press, Haymarket Press, Scholartis Press, London; Douglas Cleverdon, Bristol; High House Press, Shaftesbury; Forest Press, Salisbury

Macmillan. The Macmillan Company, 60 5th Av, N.Y.; 2459 Prairie Av, Chicago; Ross & Akard Sts, Dallas, Tex.; 240 Newbury St, Boston; 500 Spring St, Atlanta, Ga.; 350 Mission St, San Francisco; St Martin's House, 70 Bond St, Toronto, Canada; 10 St Martin's St, Leicester Sq, London, W.C. 2 [Cable Address: Packamac New York]; American Agents for Cambridge University Press

Macrae Smith Co., 1712 Ludlow St, Philadelphia [Cable Address: Masco]

Macy-Masius. See Vanguard press

Marshall Jones. Marshall Jones Company, 212 Summer St, Boston

Minton. Minton, Balch & Company, 205 E 42d St, N.Y.

Mitchell. Edwin Valentine Mitchell, 23 Lewis St, Hartford, Conn.

Modern lib. Modern library, Inc., 20 E 57th St, N.Y.

Morehouse. Morehouse Publishing Company, 1801 Fond du Lac Av, Milwaukee, Wis.; American Agents for A. B. Mowbray & Co., London

Morrow. William Morrow & Co., Inc., 386 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Wilmorrow]

N. Y. Univ. Press, E Washington Sq, N.Y.

Neale. Walter Neale, 37 E 28th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Walneale] (corr address)

Nervous & Mental Disease Pub. Nervous & Mental Disease Publishing Company, 3617 10th St, NW, Washington, D.C.

New Republic. New Republic, Inc., 421 W 21st St, N.Y.

Norton. W. W. Norton & Company, Inc., 70 5th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Seagull]
Successors to People's Inst.

Oxford. Oxford University Press (American Branch), 114 5th Av, N.Y.; 27 Richmond St, W, Toronto [Cable Address: Frowde New York]; Am.-English Agents, Oxford Univ. Press, Amen House, Warwick Sq, London E.C. 4 (Imprints of Clarendon Press, and Humphrey Milford)

Payson & Clarke, Ltd. See Brewer

Pilgrim Press (of the Congregational Pub. Soc.), 14 Beacon St, Boston; 418 S Market St, Chicago

Pitman. Sir Isaac Pitman & Sons, 2-6 W 45th St, N.Y.; 70 Bond St, Toronto, Canada; 39-41 Parker St, Kingsway, W.C. 2

Prentice-Hall, Inc., 70 5th Av, N.Y.

Press of the Univ. of Pa., 3438 Walnut St, Philadelphia
Distributor of the Univ. of Pa. Museum publications formerly handled by Appleton

Princeton Univ. Press, Princeton, N.J.

Putnam. G. P. Putnam's Sons. (Knickerbocker Press), Putnam Bldg, 2-6 W 45th St, N.Y.; Pacific Coast depository, Wagner, Harr (General Lit., Educ. and Reference Bks.); 24 Bedford St, Strand, London [Cable Address: Putnam New York]

Reilly, P. The Peter Reilly Company, 133 N 13th St, Philadelphia; English Agent, B. Herder, London (Religious Titles); Am. Agents for Hirschfeld Bros., London (All Educ. Publications), Henry Kimpton, London (Selected Medical Titles), and E. & S. Livingstone, Edinburgh (Selected Titles)
Reilly & Lee. Reilly & Lee Company, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago
Revell. Fleming H. Revell & Company, 158 5th Av, N.Y.; 851 Cass St, Chicago
Ronald. Ronald Press Company, 15 E 26th St, N.Y.
Russell Sage Foundation, 130 E 22d St, N.Y.

Sante Fe N. Mex. Pub. Corp., Sante Fe, N. Mex.
Scribner. Charles Scribner's Sons, 597 5th Av, N.Y.; 320 E 21st St, Chicago; American Agents for the Architectural Publications of B. T. Batsford, Ltd., London
Sears. Sears Publishing Co., Inc., 114 E 32d St, N.Y.
Formerly J. H. Sears & Co.
Shaw, A.W. A. W. Shaw Company. See McGraw
Simon & Schuster. Simon & Schuster, Inc., 37 W 57th St, N.Y.
Southwest Press, 216 N St Paul St, Dallas, Tex.
Stanford Univ. Press, Stanford University, Cal. [Cable Address: Sunipress]
Stokes. Frederick A. Stokes Company, 443-449 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address, Stokesco]
Stratford. Stratford Company, 289 Congress St, Boston (9)

Theatre Arts, Inc., 119 W 57th St, N.Y.
Times-Mirror. Times-Mirror Ptg. & Binding House, 118 S Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Also publish as Times-Mirror Press

Univ. of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Chicago
Univ. of N.C. Press, Chapel Hill, N.C.
Univ. of Pa. Press. See Press of the Univ. of Pa.

Vanguard Press, Inc., 80 5th Av, N.Y.
Macy-Masius merged with this company, June 1928
Van Nostrand. D. Van Nostrand Company, 250 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Bowline]
Viking Press, Inc., 18 E 48th St, N.Y. [Cable address: Vikipress]
Vinal. H. Vinal, c.o. R. G. Badger, 100 Charles St, Boston

Warwick & York. Warwick & York, Inc., 10 E Center St, Baltimore
Washburn. Ives Washburn, Inc., 119 W 57th St, N.Y.
West. West Publishing Company, 52-58 W 3d St, St Paul, Minn.
Westbrook. The Arthur Westbrook Company, Athens & Halstead St, Cleveland, O.
Wiley. John Wiley & Sons, 440 4th Av, N.Y.
Willett. Willett, Clark & Colby, 440 S Dearborn St, Chicago; Eastern Agent, John H. Hopkins & Son, 200 Fifth Av, N.Y.
Williams & Wilkins. Williams & Wilkins Company, Mt Royal & Guilford Avs, Baltimore
Wilson, H.W. H. W. Wilson Company, 950-972 University Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Wilsondex]
World Bk. World Book Company, Park Hill, Yonkers-on-Hudson, N.Y.; 2126 Prairie Av, Chicago; 424 W Peachtree St, Atlanta, Ga.; 14 Beacon St, Boston; 707 Browder St, Dallas, Tex.; 149 New Montgomery St, San Francisco; 100 5th St, Portland, Ore. [Cable Address: Foresta, Yonkers]

Yale Univ. Press, 143 Elm St, New Haven, Conn.; 386 4th Av, N.Y.

Z
1219
C95
1929